NEPHEW TO BRING SUIT

Will Take Steps to Determine His Rights to Eddy Estate.

To Claim Will Is Invalid Under the Laws of Two States.

Concord, N. H., Feb. 8.—Another complication in the contest of the disposal of the $2,000,000 residue of the estate of Mrs. Mary Baker Glover Eddy, founder of the Christian Science church, is threatened. George W. Baker of this city, son of a deceased brother of Mrs. Eddy, has decided to take steps to determine what he considers his rights in the matter.

Mr. Baker's attorneys today notified the Merrimack county superior court that on Feb. 11 they will file a petition asking permission for Mr. Baker to intervene in the suit now pending in that court, brought by George W. Glover of Lead, S. D., Mrs. Eddy's son, and Dr. E. J. Foster Eddy of Waterbury, Vt., against Henry M. Baker, executor of the Eddy estate.

In this suit the claim is set up that the portion of Mrs. Eddy's will leaving the residue of her estate to the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, is invalid because of certain New Hampshire and Massachusetts statutes forbidding the bequest of more than a specified amount to any single church.

Mr. Baker's petition, the attorneys state, will be based on the claim that if the court shall declare this bequest invalid, then George W. Baker will inherit the residuary estate as next of kin. Mr. Baker will maintain, say his lawyers, that George Glover and Dr. Foster Eddy forfeited their rights of inheritance when they signed a contract by which the "next friends" proceeding of 1907 against Mrs. Eddy was settled. Under this contract they received a financial consideration and agreed not to contest Mrs. Eddy's will.

HITS LIFE COMPANIES

Bill to Compel Investments in North Dakota Securities.

State Inspection of Liquors By Pure Food Department.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Consideration of the Trimble bill, under the provisions of which foreign life insurance companies engaged in business in the state would be compelled to invest a certain percentage of the profits accruing out of their business in this state, in North Dakota securities, will be given at a meeting of the senate insurance committee tomorrow. There has been an active lobby in Bismarck opposed to this measure since the introduction of the bill and consequently more than the ordinary amount of interest has been centered about the question.

The Martin bill in the house, under the provisions of which the life insurance companies would be called upon to make a deposit with the state treasurer for a certain amount, has been withdrawn by the author.

MANUSCRIPT WITHDRAWN

Twain's Roast on Roosevelt Is Not Sold at Auction Sale.

New York, Feb. 8.—The sale of many of the manuscripts of the late Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) at a Fifth avenue auction yesterday, did not include, as had been advertised, a short article he had written criticising Theodore Roosevelt.

It had been included by mistake in the list to be sold and was withdrawn at the last moment by request of the estate as was a stricture he had written on congress. It was explained only that the estate desired to retain them.

The 125-page autobiographic manuscript of "A Double-Barreled Detective Story" was sold to a dealer for $790. Twenty-eight pages from "Adam's Diary" went for $180. The total realized was $2,750.

The withdrawn article on Roosevelt refers to him as a "showy chalatan, adored as perhaps no imposter of his creed had been adored since the golden calf."

MISSING IN BERLIN.

Margaret Damm of Omaha, Neb., Disappears in German Capital.

New York, Feb. 8.—Advices received here from Berlin say that Margaret Damm of Omaha, Neb., a young music student, popular in the American colony in Berlin, has been missing from her lodging house since Jan. 24. Details of the case as contained in a special cable dispatch to the Times indicate that it is not in many respects unsimilar to Dorothy Arnold's disappearance. The young woman is 23 years old, tall, good looking and a talented musician. She was last seen by her landlady.

TRAITORS EXECUTED

Six Rebel Generals Taken From Haitien Prison and Shot.

Gen. Millionard, Leader of the Revolt, One of the Victims.

Cape Haitien, Haiti, Feb. 8.—Gen. Millionard, the head of the revolutionary forces, and five other generals were taken from the prison at Trou and shot to death at 11 o'clock last night.

Gen. Millionard is the second prominent army officer executed as a traitor during the present rebellion in Haiti. Cape Haitien dispatches describe him as the leader of the revolt. He was formerly of considerable influence in the Haitien army and probably cooperated with Gen. Montruell Guillaume in the capture of Trou. Guillaume was captured by the government troops as he was advancing to attack Cape Haitien and was summarily shot.

The executions at Trou make it evident that the government has again occupied the town. According to the latest advices Quanaminth was still occupied by the rebels though an attack by President Simon's soldiers was imminent.

Drumhead courtsmartial are common at times of rebellion in Haiti. A notable instance occurred at Port au Prince on Sunday, March 15, 1908, during the revolution that in the following fall overthrew President Nord Alexis.

Ten men suspected of disloyalty were taken from their homes and shot. At that time Gen. Leconte, who has now taken refuge in the German consulate, had just been appointed minister of the interior and he was generally credited with the summary methods adopted to suppress the revolt.

Gen. Firmin, who was recently declared a traitor following the relinquishment of his post as minister to London and who is now in Porto Rico, was also a prominent figure at that time, being allied with the revolutionary element when Alexis fell, Leconte fled the country. It has not developed that he is concerned in the present uprising.

NATIVE UPRISING IS SUPPRESSED

German Warships Put Down a Rebellion in the Caroline Islands.

Victoria, B. C., Feb. 8.—The steamer Zealandia brought reports of the revolution suppressed by German warships on Ponape island in the Carolines. The rising started from the punishment of a native workman. The German overseers took to flight and sheltered in a Catholic mission, which the natives placed under siege. The defenders, nine in number, all Germans, were killed.

Father Gebhard, the missionary, was killed when seeking to leave the mission, and the road superintendents were hacked to pieces after a gallant fight at the beach, where they sought to launch a boat.

Election Contest Over Senate Seat Is Decided Against Stephens.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Though on a motion yesterday afternoon to postpone the special order for a week, the Stephens forces, supplemented by those favoring the seating of Ray G. Farrington in Senator Froshang's place, mustered 28 votes, on the issue between Stephens and Senator Saugstad, the Stephens side could count but 6 votes, with 55 votes against them.

Of course this by no means represents the personal following of A. D. Stephens of Crookston in the senate. Had it been an issue between two men solely, the result would have been much closer, and the outcome might have been different.

However, it was so clear that the Congdon Introduces Bill to Repeal the Anti-Cigarette Law.

Flood of Protests From Range Against County Division Continues.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—By a vote of 53 to 8 the senate this morning adopted Senator Moonan's joint resolution fixing April 1 as the date for final adjournment and March 11 as the last day for introducing bills except at the request of the governor. The resolution originally provided for an adjournment March 15, but Senator Moonan amended it this morning as above. The resolution must pass the gauntlet of the house and if it passes both bodies there is nothing to prevent the legislature, when the date approaches, from rescinding its action and remaining in session for the full constitutional period which will expire April 20.

Senator Moonan, in behalf of his resolution, said that if the legislature would get down to hard work it could do every necessary thing by April 1. Many states limit their sessions to sixty days. Practically all the expected important legislation is now in and being considered in committee or elsewhere.

Senator Wilson said that only about

MAN FALLS INTO SULPHURIC ACID

Standard Oil Company Plant at Point Richmond, Cal., Burns.

Point Richmond, Cal., Feb. 8.—Fire, caused by blazing soot from a chimney falling on the roof of the old sulphuric acid plant of the Standard Oil company, destroyed that plant, a tank containing 500,000 gallons of crude oil, and damaged the $1,000,000 new acid plant last night.

One man, Carl McPherson, a workman, fell into a ditch filled with blazing sulphuric acid, and was terribly burned. Three men were injured. The damage is estimated at $500,000.

The spread of the fire was due to an explosion of gas from one of the tanks. A flood of acid ran down the side of the hill on which the acid works stood and against a large steel reservoir of crude oil. This took fire and burned for two hours. A part of the oil was saved.

MARRIED AGAIN.

Man and Woman Rewed After Being Divorced Thirty-Five Years.

Colorado Springs, Colo., Feb. 8.—Married in 1874, divorced in 1875, each entering the married state again with another and losing their mates by death, Mr. and Mrs. Leander G. Coll, who met here a short time ago, after a separation of thirty-five years, made a unique matrimonial record by being married for the second time yesterday. Coll is 61 and his wife is 55.

ARCHBISHOP BETTER; BISHOP IS WORSE.

Philadelphia, Feb. 8.—While Archbishop Ryan is showing signs of improvement that lead to the belief that he may recover, Bishop Ozi W. Whitaker of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Pennsylvania, is in a weakened condition today and because of his advanced age, the attending physicians say the well known churchman has "only a slight chance of recovery."

Archbishop Ryan ate solids for his breakfast and the attending physicians are much encouraged by his condition.

NOTICE SENT TO CONGRESS

Senators Crane and Carter Convey the President's Message.

Canadian Agreement Must Be Acted on Before Adjournment.

Otherwise Members Will Be Called Back Shortly After March 4.

Washington, Feb. 8.—President Taft served notice on congress today through Senators Crane and Carter, that there must be a vote on the reciprocity agreement with Canada or he would call congress back in extra session almost immediately after March 4.

If administration senators had any doubt about the attitude of President Taft toward the Canadian reciprocity agreement, it was removed when Senators Crane and Carter returned to the capital today from a conference with the president at the White House. The message which these senators brought to their colleagues was that there must be a vote on the agreement at the present session or congress will be called back in extra session almost immediately after adjournment on March 4.

Although Messrs. Crane and Carter declined to discuss their mission to

FIREMEN SAVE IMPERILED MEN

Spectacular Rescue of Clothing Workers Caught By Fire.

New York, Feb. 8.—Firemen achieved spectacular rescues of two imperiled clothing workers from upper stories of a big factory building on Goeock street today while flames were bursting out on all sides of them. The men in danger were in exactly similar positions, one on the fifth and the other on the sixth floor of the burning structure.

Twining their legs about the fire escape railings of the next door building, which ran close to the factory building wall, two firemen reached over and joined hands with workmen as the latter mounted the window ledges and extended themselves to the limit. Both dangled in midair for a moment but were finally safely landed on the fire escapes.

Crowds on the street cheered the rescuers. The fire burned out the three upper floors of the building.

ENCAMPED NEAR CITY

Rebel Forces Are But Four Miles Away From Juarez.

Opposing Forces Engage in a "Near Battle" on Tuesday.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 8.—6. a. m.—Quiet prevails in Ciudad Juarez this morning The federals have the usual number of outposts patrolling the outskirts of the city. Orozco's men are encamped across the river from the El Paso smelter, near the scene of yesterday's encounter, but the only indication of their presence is the occasional signal of a sentry. No news has been received during the night as to the location of Blanco and Alanis with their insurrectos.

"Exhibition" Battle.

The first battle of Juarez between federal troops and insurrectionists was exhibited here yesterday. "Exhibited" is the proper word, for no one was hurt on either side and the "exhibition" was viewed by 1,000 or more El Pasoans who lined the bank of the Rio Grande on the American side about three miles west of here.

The exchange of missiles occupied about fifteen minutes, in which about 200 shots were fired. According to Pasqual Orozco, leader of the insurrectos, his men fired only fifty of

A SUGGESTION

It is never satisfactory to undo the work of others, or to remedy their unfortunate mistakes. Yet this has been and is still our daily duty and privilege. The effect of previous barbarism or ignorance cannot always be effaced, but great good, and sometimes permanent relief and cure can be obtained. It is of vast importance to see us and submit to our modern, painless treatments, before submitting to cutting, infinite suffering and posible recurrence of the malady.

WORLD NOT FOOL PROOF

Danger Lurks Everywhere, But Strong Man Avoids It.

Rev. M. S. Rice Appeals to Audience to Overcome Presumptuous Sin.

Dr. M. S. Rice had another large audience for his noonday sermon at the Lyceum theater today. "Presumptuous Sin," was his subject and he called upon his hearers to avoid the pitfalls of the world, which is not "fool proof," and to overcome their secret sins which will dominate their lives. "Keep back thy servant also from presumptuous sin," Psalms, 19-13, was his text and he said in part:

"Any phase of the complicated subject of sin, is worth the most careful attention of men and women in a world like this, where the working out of the eternal significance of human life is the chief issue. What I propose now to consider about sin is, so far as I know, a matter of new consideration. This very old verse I take for a text is well known to us all, but we carelessly repeat it and the significance of its statement we have passed by. What is presumptuous sin? And what liability does it put on the one who practices it. I have seen a comment on this verse of the presumptuous sinner who presumes on the grace of God in the practice of his sin. But while that is a matter for most vital consideration, and may be the thing meant in this verse, yet I want not to talk of the presumptuous sinner, but of the sin that presumes on its victim. Maybe someone will object to my use thus of this text. If so let the text go, for I am not concerned with a text now so much as with a fact of life.

"Theologians say sin has three classifications. Sins of ignorance, of infirmity and of presumption. They are classified according to the predominance of the motives. If there is more ignorance than willfulness in it, it is a sin of ignorance, and so on a sin of infirmity or presumption. When sin has gotten such a hold on a man's life that it can dictate his course it is then presumptuous of his life anyhow. The soul seems to be much at the mercy of such sin. It is a comparatively easy thing to shake off faults while they are yet occasional. How perfectly all the stages of this fact stand out in the case of a drunken man. One time he was in perfect control. He was at that stage when he only drank a glass now and then. Soon he reached a bolder day when he felt safe to dodge into a saloon on the public street when he saw no one he knew. Then he arrived where he was careless of this and was only startled if in stepping out of the door he met someone he knew well. From there to where the sin of intemperance has him a slave in presumptuous appetite is a short road and a very familiar story. It is the common history of sin.

Should Avoid Danger.

"I wish it were possible for me to sound an alarm before the encroachment of sin in any form that would clearly reveal the fact of its eternal danger. It is man's business to avoid that danger. God couldn't make a danger-proof world and yet grow great men upon it. It is in being able to steer a safe course amid danger that gives human virtue a worth-while flavor. I saw a third-rail electric road. The third rail which carried the power, like a trolley wire, was on the ground, but covered over with a wooden shield which had an open slit underneath for contact. I said to a watchman standing there: 'Can't a man put his hand under there and get killed if he wants to?' And he answered me, 'Oh, yes you can't build things foolproof in this world. That's the philosophy of sin's presence in this world of free will. Men can get killed by it. That's where the virtue is in not being killed by it.

"This leads me to the first observation in being saved from presumptuous sin, the matter of careful inspection as to our secret faults. The psalmist prefaces this verse with that prayer. I don't need to tell you of your secret faults. In fact, what do I know about them? This much I am sure of, those secret sins are controlling your thought and your feeling and creating your line of action and really dictating your outward action. Presumptuous sins are never initiatory sins. They are evolutions. They spring from hidden faults. And the man who permits secret sin to dwell in his life, is nursing the vital seed of a situation of awful harvest. The only wise course for any man who finds himself in thought or conduct or motive, irregular or false, is to promptly see to it that that matter be righted. And yet this is perhaps the most difficult truth to convincingly preach to men. They are not soured at little things, especially at little secret things.

Bad Habits.

"This lets me straight into that interesting vital matter of habit. What is a bad habit more than a sin grown presumptuous? 'Let them not have dominion over me,' continues this old psalmist. Who can lead me to a sadder chapter in the human story than the one which tells of the moral victim absolutely in the grip of some base passion. He is ashamed to look people in the face. Appetite, temper, covetousness, some one of these evils evidences of his slavery sit crushingly on his life. Every good impulse that ever rises within him they throttle. Can you imagine a man to be pitied more than he? I arise here to say as strongly as I can in this simple talk, that wisdom says for us to beware lest any sin get a right of way in life. God save us from the presumptuousness of sin, the ripe fruit of mere carelessness of evil.

"Last winter I addressed you on that startling verse of Scripture, 'Lest in any way I give Satan an advantage over you.' It is indeed a most presumptuous practice for any of us to be offering unnecessary opportunity to sin in our lives. Your fight, sir, is hard enough at best. It is a fool's part to unecessarily increase your liability. I cannot conceive of an excuse for the folly of entertaining evil in any form. It matters not when or how we allow sin to fasten itself upon our life, it's whole tendency is to eat its way, maybe slowly, but fatally to the place where it can master us. It is presumptuous for any man to unnecessarily expose himself to any evil influence, and by the grace of God, I propose not to do so, and in the name of your very highest good, I beseech you to stand guard with all your might and pray with our text, 'O God! Keep back Thy servant from presumptuous sin.'"

RECIPROCITY IS INDORSED

Duluth Real Estate Exchange Favors Proposed Agreement With Canada.

The proposed reciprocity agreement with Canada, now pending before congress, was indorsed by the Duluth Real Estate exchange at its meeting yesterday. The exchange passed a resolution indorsing the agreement and it will be forwarded to Congressman Miller.

Members of the exchange expressed the opinion that the agreement, should it become effective, would be a great thing for the business interests of Duluth and would at the same time be a potent factor in reducing the cost of living all through the country.

The exchange also passed a resolution in favor of the reduction of the mortgage registry tax from 50 cents per $100 to 10 cents per $100. The members were of the opinion that the tax is too great.

NEW CARRIERS ARE LEVIATHANS

20,000---Ton Vessels May Yet Be Seen on Lakes.

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 8.—Vesselmen are divided in their opinion of the feasibility of 617-foot freighters like those ordered by the Shenango Steamship company from the Great Lakes Engineering works. Economy of operation and the immense size are the principal things which the critics believe will stand in the way of their success.

On the other hand more see in these ships the fulfillment of a prophesy made by J. H. Sheadle at the lake carriers' meeting in Detroit six years ago, when he stated that in twenty years vessels 630 feet long carrying 20,000 tons would be seen on the lakes.

In length the new ships will comply with the prediction, while in carrying capacity, 15,000 tons, they will more than warrant the prophesy, as at that time ten years was allowed for an increase of 5,000 tons in the carrying capacity which these boats will have over the 10,000-ton ships of 1905.

During the season averaging twenty trips the big steamers will be able to carry 600,000 tons of ore from Lake Superior to lower lake ports. With no loss of time and the modern facilities for loading and unloading it might be possible for these ships to add 50,000 tons to their credit in a season.

Working all the time during a full season two boats like these would be able to carry as much ore as was shipped by water in 1869. The ore business in the next ten years doubled and a fleet of four boats would be needed. If 1911 season should show as large an increase over 1910 as 1910 did over 1909 a fleet of seventy-five such ships would be able by carrying capacity loads to take care of the entire ore movement.

SCORING IS ABOUT ENDED

Judge at Chicken Show Has Nearly Completed His Work.

Hutchinson Hen Scores 95 1-2 Points—"Big Bill Taft" Present.

Today's headliner for the poultry show is big Bill Taft, not the original, but a rooster of large dimensions and the proud possessor of a large and pointed bill, as the other Bill Taft has been the possessor of many bills, some of them without point.

Bill Taft the second is a Plymouth Rock rooster owned by Theodore Hollister of this city. He has been given first place on the bill for today, and as you enter the poultry show you will find the big bird caged on the left of the entrance.

Another headliner are the "Three Norwegian Hares," making their first appearance in this country. The three hares were imported from Norway and this is positively their first appearance in this country. They have a most original and striking act. They were brought to this country by Hans Johnson of this city. In Norway the hares are eaten and relished, which is more to the point. These caught by Mr. Johnson are particularly fine specimens, as they weigh sixteen pounds apiece and will look pleasant and stand on their hind legs.

Coming next on the poultry program is the highest scoring pullet of the show. You should know, if you are going to attend the poultry show, that the birds are scored on the basis of 100 points. They are marked according to symmetry, color and other details. Every imperfection subtracts a point, perhaps two, or only a fraction of a point from a perfect score. Therefore when any chicken can score 95½ points, that fowl is traveling some along the path that leadeth to perfection.

The Best Chicken.

The best chicken at the show, to date at least, is the one scoring that very remarkable number of points. She is a white Plymouth Rock and is owned by F. Hoodecheck of Hutchinson, Minn. Naturally Mr. Hoodecheck is very proud of his entry, for before Judge Holden scored up the fowl, it was never imagined that so fine a hen existed in these parts.

H. A. Hanson of this city, one of the most enthusiastic chicken raisers in these parts, has a Leghorn pullet that brings honors to this city and runs the Hutchinson hen within half a point of being the proudest pullet occupying one of the classy cages.

Mr. Nelson's hen comes fourth on the all-star bill. She scored 95 points even, which is an exceptional record. Mr. Nelson raised the hen in this city and is justly proud of the fact that he has one of the best chickens ever shown at a Western show.

This morning there was the biggest early crowd of the week. Today looks like one of the best days of the show. The public is becoming interested in the exhibition, which is one of the most complete ever given in this part of the country.

Judge Holden is scoring the Barred Plymouth Rocks, the black and buff Orpingtons and will probably finish up some of the odd classes. The officials of the show expect that the scoring of the classes will be completed this evening, which will mean that all the class judging is finished and tomorrow the sweepstakes will start. The sweepstakes and special prize trophies will hold the most interest for the general public.

Tomorrow the prize ribbons will be hung on the cages. It is said that some of the fowls are looking forward in eager anticipation for the house draping. Some of the less bold naturally dread it, as all cannot be winners, you know.

Following will be found the awards made at the conclusion of the scoring yesterday of the different classes:

Golden Wyandottes: C. E. Peterson, city—First, cock and second, hen.

Several hundred school teachers will meet in Duluth Feb. 1 for the annual meeting of the Northeastern Minnesota Educational association. The convention will be in session three days.

The meetings will be held in the assembly hall of the Central high school. There will be morning, afternoon and evening sessions daily.

Dr. A. E. Winship, an educator of Boston and well known in the educational world, will be here to open the convention. He will speak on "Modern School Problems." Mrs. Frances Squire Potter of Chicago is also on the program for an address to be given at one of the sessions to be held Friday. An exhibit of school work in the several grades will also be held in one of the rooms at the high school throughout the session.

Plans are being made to show the teachers from the range and other towns through the Duluth schools. A trip will also be made to Superior, where the schools and the system of education in that city will be studied.

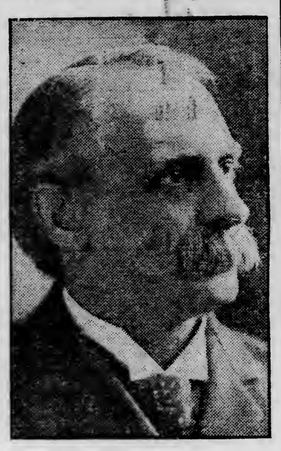

Thursday evening a special function will take place at the high school. The evening has been planned so that the teachers may become better acquainted.

An effort has been made to secure noted speakers on educational subjects and to make the subjects to be discussed as interesting as possible. It is expected that several hundred teachers will avail themselves of the opportunity to get together in the city for discussion and the opportunity to study the school system here.

Among those who will speak at the various meetings to be held are:

Miss Mascord, Hibbing; Miss Martha Wilson, St. Paul; Mrs. Margaret Blair, college of agriculture; Miss Theda Gildemeister, state normal school, Winona, and Miss M. Adelaide Holton, primary supervisor, Minneapolis.

UNDERTAKERS SEE DUMMY CREMATED

State Association Pays Visit to the Lakewood Crematory.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—A throng of undertakers from all parts of the state assembled this morning in the crematory at Lakewood cemetery in Minneapolis and witnessed an illustrated lecture on cremation.

The undertakers, the members of the Minnesota Funeral Directors' association, are in annual convention in Minneapolis. The "body" used for cremation was a dummy but the undertakers say it served the purpose well.

Prior to going to the cemetery the undertakers held a session at the Masonic temple at which reports from delegates to the national convention were heard. Prof. C. E. Johnson of the chair of embalming at the University of Minnesota delivered another lecture in his series this morning. This afternoon more reports were heard and officers elected.

COULD NOT TELL OWN FORTUNE

Seeress Did Not Foretell Arrest When Plain Clothes Man Called.

When Mrs. Vera Ray made her nightly public announcement that she was prepared to give private "readings" of the future at her rooms in the La Salle hotel, she did not know that she was inviting disaster, but she was doing that.

Mrs. Ray has been telling fortunes at the Happy Hour theater and that's where she made the announcement.

This morning Officer Rothie and Mrs. Walsh, the police matron, called at the hotel in response to the invitation. Both the officer and the matron had their fortunes told, but Mrs. Ray didn't get a glimpse at her own future, a part of which came immediately in the form of her arrest.

She had no license to peer beyond the curtain of today.

M. E. ALLIANCE IS REVIVED

Will Work for the Furtherance of City Missions Here.

The Methodist alliance was revived, plans were laid for the development of the churches and missions in different parts of the city, and Bishop McIntyre gave an inspiring address on "City Missions" at a well attended meeting at the First M. E. church last night.

Bishop McIntyre told of the great results that may be obtained through the proper conduct of city missions and the united effort of congregations to further the work. He said the city mission is a necessary work that must be pushed by the members of the church.

Subscriptions were taken for the furthering of the work in Duluth and plans were made in tentative fashion. More definite plans will be laid at the annual meeting of the alliance, which will be held next month.

Woman Past Help

Chandler, Okla.—In a letter from this place, Mrs. Ella Flowers says, "I hardly know how to thank you for the good that Cardui has done me. Before I tried Cardui, I thought I was past help, but after taking it, I was relieved at once, and gained at least 10 pounds. Everybody says I look so much better. I am still improving greatly." Many women are completely worn-out and discouraged, on account of womanly weakness. Are you? Have you not tried Cardui? It only needs a few doses to convince you that Cardui is just what you need. Try it today. It will cure your pains.

MAXWELL WILL LECTURE HERE

Will Speak Under Auspices of Women's Council on Homecroft Movement.

The Women's Council has agreed upon the Endion Methodist church as the place and Thursday, Feb. 23, as the date, for the lecture to be given the council by George H. Maxwell, representing the American Homecroft association, who is to make a series of speeches on the homecroft subject this month.

A. under the auspices of the Commercial club and the Association Institute of the Y. M. C. A., and he will also speak before a number of other gatherings during the three days he will be in Duluth.

INSECT PESTS, HIS THEME

Prof. Washburn Will Tell How to Save Shade Trees.

Last summer Duluth suffered much from insect pests, many shade trees being destroyed or injured by them. Birch trees particularly were easy victims of the pests and many owners of fine birches are in doubt whether their trees will leaf out this spring or not.

In midsummer last year all along the hillsides the birches were stripped of their leaves as the result of the appearance of clouds of moth-like insects, which left a trail of reproductive cells that clung to the birches. These cells now are germinating in the ground about the tree's roots, it is supposed and will blossom forth in the spring to spread more devastation among the birches.

Prof. F. L. Washburn, state entomologist, will be here Friday evening at the Y. M. C. to deliver a lecture on "Insect pests of gardens, lawns and parks and how to destroy them." People owning orchards will readily see the value of the opportunity offered them to hear the expert's advice and perhaps to ask questions about their individual problems. Owners of shade trees, and especially of birches that were blighted last summer, will have the same opportunity. Prof. Washburn's talk will be the third of the series of lectures on agricultural subjects arranged by the Commercial club and the Association Institute.

Attendance at these meetings has increased over that of last year. The second meeting was attended by about twice as many as attended the first one of the series, and it is expected that the ratio of increase will be continued until there will be a demand for the S. R. O. sign.

ANNUAL MEETING OF OPEN MARKET

Representatives From Twenty Farmers' Clubs Will Gather Here.

The annual meeting of the Producers' Co-operative Market association will be held at the Commercial club tomorrow, beginning at 10 a. m. It is expected that there will be present representatives of twenty or more clubs affiliated with the association.

The operations of this organization have greatly increased in magnitude in the past year. Since the last annual meeting a market manager has been engaged and he has succeeded in putting the business of the association on a solid basis, so far as available resources make that possible. A program of expansion for the coming year probably will be discussed at tomorrow's meet, when a number of interesting and important proposals will come up for consideration.

THE USEFUL CATFISH.

Washington Herald: In Portland, Or., the familiar catfish figures as a hardy pioneer and a valued adjuct to the street cleaning department, according to James P. Anderson of Portland.

"This is because the terra cotta sewers and drains, especially those in the lower part of the city, frequently become choked. If the sewer is not broken it can be pulled by passing a rope through it, to be pulled backward and forward until the obstruction is loosened and removed. The street officials have a great deal of such work to attend to, and the worry connected with getting the rope through for a long time had them at their wit's end. At last, however, they discovered a quick, easy and sure method.

"The workman goes to the river, catches a catfish, ties a string to its tail and drops it down a manhole into the sewer. It at once starts for the river and forces its way through any obstruction not as solid as brick, dragging the string after it. Then the workman goes as far down the sewer as he deems necessary and picks up the string, which he uses to draw a wire through the pipes, and with this a rope is pulled through and the sewer is soon cleared."

TAWNEY MAY GO TO CHICAGO FIELD

May Become Connected With Leading Law Firm There.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—A special from Washington to the Record-Herald says:

Representative James A. Tawney of Minnesota, who will retire from congress March 4 with a record of great practical achievement in governmental economy, is thinking of making Chicago his future place of residence. If he does he probably will become connected with one of the well established law firms of that city.

Many of Mr. Tawney's friends have urged him to stay in politics and to make the attempt to return to congress two years hence. The chairman of the appropriation committee, however, is not at present disposed to stick in the fighting political game. He takes the ground that he has given eighteen years of the best years of his life to the service of the public and that it is time for him to do something for himself.

There is a possibility that he may be induced to accept an appointive office. In this connection he has been mentioned for a place in the cabinet, as successor to Secretary to the President Norton, for a position on the bench, and for other important positions. If he decides to retire to private life the chances are that he will engage in the practice of his profession in Chicago.

Denied by Tawney.

Washington, Feb. 8.—"I haven't made any plans to practice law in Chicago or in any other big city," said Representative Tawney yesterday, relative to reports that he had decided to move from Minnesota to Chicago, following his departure from congress. "Neither have I made arrangements to enter any business after my term of service has expired. Suggestions have been made to me that I remove to Chicago or to New York, or one or two other places, but I have not considered any of them.

SAUGSTAD SUSTAINED

people of Polk county voted last November for Senator Saugstad that the committee which investigated the contest and the senate which decided it, had absolutely no alternative but to retain Senator Saugstad in his seat.

The case was a special order in the senate at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and when the senate convened Senator Duxbury moved an adjournment for a week on the ground that W. E. Rowe of Crookston, one of Stephen's attorneys, was unable to be present because of illness in his family.

Chairman Haycraft of the elections committee said that Mr. Rowe had not appeared before the committee, that the other attorneys for both sides were present, and that he could see no reason for delay.

Senator Duxbury's motion was lost, 29 for and 35 against, the vote being as follows:

For delay—Anderson, Carpenter, Collier, C. F. Cook, L. O. Cooke, Denegre, Donaldson, Dunn, Duxbury, Glotzbach, Gunn, Handlan, C. D. Johnson, Johnson, L'Herault, McGrath, Marden, Moonon, Pauly, Poehler, Pugh, Schaller, Stebbins, G. H. Sullivan, J. D. Sullivan, Van Hoven, Weis, Works—28.

Against delay — Ahmann, Bedford, Boyle, Cashman, Cheadle, Clague, Dale, Duea, Dwinnell, Elwell, Fosseen, Frosshaug, Gunderson, Hackney, Hanson, Haycraft, V. L. Johnson, Kline, Lende, Murray, Nelson, Odell, Olson, Peterson, Putnam, Rockne, Rustad, Sageng, Sundberg, Swanson, Thoe, Wallace, Wilson—32.

Senator Benson was absent, and Senator Saugstad did not vote:

Argued By Attorneys.

The attorneys then argued the case, E. P. Sanborn of St. Paul and G. E. A. Finlayson of East Grand Forks appearing for Stephens and ex-Attorney General E. T. Young for Saugstad.

About the only ripple on the placid surface of a dull debate was created when Mr. Finlayson, in arguing the Stephens side of the case, charged that Senator Saugstad had failed to file his expense account as required by law.

This brought Mr. Saugstad to his feet in an indignant denial.

"I had to file my expense account before I could get my certificate of election," he said, "and if the gentlemen will go to Crookston he will find it there."

Mr. Finlayson said that while Mr. Saugstad had filed an expense account for the primary election, but none for the general election. Mr. Saugstad explained that by saying that he did not spend a nickel on the general election contest.

After the attorneys had finished Senator Gunderson summed up the case in behalf of the elections committee, which had made a unanimous report in favor of Senator Saugstad. He said the committee had examined the law and the evidence carefully and at length, working night and day on the case. It could find no justice in the contestant's claim that some of the ballots should not be counted for Saugstad because the stickers were put in the wrong place or Saugstad's name had been spelled wrong by those who wrote it on the ballots. The intent of the voters was clear beyond any possibility of mistake.

As to the claim that Suagstad was ineligible for election because he had been defeated at the primaries, there is no law for such contention. The law prohibits a defeated candidate at the primaries from becoming a candidate at the general election, but it does not and cannot prohibit the people from voting for him if they wish, because it is impossible for the law to limit the wishes of the people in such a manner.

Senator Haycraft, chairman of the elections committee, moved the adoption of the report. Senator G. H. Sullivan moved as a substitute that A. D. Stephens be seated. A roll call on the Sullivan motion showed but six votes for Stephens, and fifty-one against him. The six voting for Stephens were Senators L. O. Cooke, Dunn, Glotzbach, C. D. Johnson, G. H. Sullivan and Works.

The report of the committee was then adopted by a unanimous vote.

The County Option Bill.

Aside from a little uninteresting routine, the entire time of the senate yesterday was taken up with the Stephens-Saugstad contest, and the time of the house was consumed by the county option bill. There were no committee meetings.

The disposal of the county option bill in the house was the first big event of the session. The outcome was a foregone conclusion. It was known that county option would be beaten, and the only surprise was in the fact that the bill got about three votes less than had been expected.

At was a field day for speech making in the house, and in the four hours of debate on the bill fifteen speeches were made, nine for the bill and six against it. Some good speeches were made, too, notably those of J. A. A. Burnquist of St. Paul and D. P. O'Neill of Thief River Falls for the bill, and those of George A. McKenzie of Gaylord and Albert Pfaender of New Ulm against it.

The galleries were jammed with a crowd that appeared to be about equally divided between the two sides to the question, and applause was abundant. There was an attempt at hissing on the part of the friends of the bill during the progress of Mr. McKenzie's speech against it, but it was quickly suppressed by Speaker Dunn's threat that unless order was preserved the galleries would be cleared.

The utmost fairness was shown to and by both sides, and there was no attempt to limit discussion. Though Speaker Dunn voted against the bill, as had been expected, expressions of satisfaction with his fairness in the matter were numerous.

There were cheers and applause from the galleries when the result of the vote—59 for and 69 against—was announced. The only absentee was Representative W. A. Fisher of Minneapolis, who is seriously sick and probably will not attend the sessions again. Representative T. M. Ferguson of Barker was also ill, but word was sent to him when the vote was imminent and he was in his seat to cast his vote for the measure.

The Vote.

Representative Hillman of Two Harbors voted for the bill and the other St. Louis county members voted against it. The vote was as follows:

For—A. V. Anderson, J. J. Anderson, Burnquist, Campbell, Conley, Crane, Davis, R. C. Dunn, Ferguson, Frankson, Harding, Hillman, Holmberg, Holten, C. E. Johnson, J. N. Johnson, J. T. Johnson, Klemer, Kneeland, Knutson, Kunze, I. J. Lee, J. F. Lee, Lindberg, McMartin, Mattison, Morton, A. Nelson, Nolan, O'Neill, Orr, Palmer, A. J. Peterson, J. E. Peterson, Putnam, Rines, Robertson, Rustad, Sampson, Skartum, Spooner, W. T. Stone, Sulerud, Voxland, C. H. Warner, B. Warner, Washburn, Weis, Whiting—50.

Against—Ager, And. Anderson, Boothroyd, Borgen, Bouck, G. W. Brown, L. D. Brown, Christie, Clarke, Congdon, Converse, Denzer, Diessner, Edwards, Farley, Fowler, Fuchs, Greene, Haffften, Hauge, Healy, Henion, Herzberg, Hoffman, Hopkins, Hurley, Jelinek, Just, Keefe, Kelly, Knapp, S. N. Lee, Lennon, Libera, Lundeen, Lydiard, McDonald, McKenzie, McNeil, Mettling, Minette, Moriarity, Nash, H. Nelson, Nye, Nygren, O'Brien, Papke, Perry, Peters, Ole Peterson, Pfaender, Reed, Ribenack, Robinson, Saggau, Schuler, Schwartz, C. E. Stone, Sullivan, Thielen, Untiedt, Utecht, Virtue, Wescott, White, Wisniewski, Speaker Dunn—69.

Absent—Fisher.

Notwithstanding the defeat of the bill in the house, it is stated that it will be pushed to a vote in the senate, the object being to get the senators on record. The senate temperance committee will take up the V. L. Johnson bill immediately and the senate will be called upon to vote on the question within a short time.

After considering Senator Cashman's amendments to his distance tariff bill this afternoon the senate railroad committee will have another public hearing on the measure tonight, which will probably be its last.

St. Louis County Delegation.

The meeting of the St. Louis county delegation scheduled for last evening was postponed till tonight.

The object of the bills introduced yesterday by Senator Wilson of Minneapolis is to clear away all doubt as to the constitutionality of the commission form of government in this state. One amends the Constitution—providing the people approve it after the legislature has passed it—by eliminating the requirement that a city government shall consist of a mayor and council independent of each other. The other bill eliminates the present requirement in the law authorizing commission government that there shall be a mayor and council of independent jurisdiction.

J. N. Johnson's bill, aimed at free lunches in saloons, introduced yesterday would probably also hit cafes with bar attachments. It prohibits food being "served, sold, given away or allowed in any saloon or public drinking place or in any room communicating therewith."

FINAL ADJOURNMENT OF LEGISLATURE ON APRIL 1, SAYS SENATE

a third of the average number of bills is now in, and as bills breed like rabbits, coming constantly from nobody knows where, the full average number may be expected, and even if the house adopts the resolution it will be necessary to revoke it.

It had been suspected that the resolution originated in a spirit of hostility to reapportionment but that did not affect the vote.

Senator Saugstad offered a resolution in the senate providing for a committee of seven to visit the Morris agricultural school Friday and the Crookston school Saturday. Senator Works postponed action by giving notice of debate.

The senate adopted a resolution by Senator Fosseen requiring heads of state institutions to report immediately what new buildings and extensions they need.

Representative C. A. Congdon of Duluth this morning introduced a bill repealing the anti-cigarette law of 1909. The law was passed two years ago, largely as a joke, and it has been a good deal of a joke ever since.

Representative Robinson introduced a bill proposing an amendment to the Constitution providing that residents of the state who are not citizens shall not count in fixing legislative representation.

Representative Congdon is the author of a new house bill providing that sureties on bonds of banks holding state deposits may terminate their liability by giving written notice.

State-wide prohibition is the purpose of a bill offered this morning by Representative A. V. Anderson of Goodhue county, one of the Prohibition members, proposing an amendment to the Constitution prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors within the state.

Representative Robinson called up his resolution providing for a committee to investigate the several campaign committees, as to where they got their money and what they did with it, and moved its adoption. After a brief debate, on motion of Representative Spooner, the resolution was referred to the committee on general legislation, with only a few dissenting votes.

The house passed the senate bill by Senator Dwinnell providing for an investigation of the affairs of the state fair.

Other bills were as follows:

Representative Orr — Authorizing cities over 50,000 to spend not more than $3,000 yearly to take care of scientific and art collections.

Representative Nolan—Providing that anybody who brings about the death of another cannot inherit property from his victim.

Representative Burnquist—Providing for a legislative reference department under a clerk appointed by the lieutenant governor, speaker and state librarian, to serve from Nov. 1 to May 1, at $200 a month.

Representative Conley's motion directing the committee on public accounts and expenditures to investigate the secretary of state's accounts for purchase and distribution of automobile license tags was referred to that committee.

The flood of protests from range communities against the passage of the county division bill at this time still continues and this morning the range delegation received copies of a resolution passed by the Hibbing village council against the bill.

THE POLICY of this house has always been and will continue to be, to handle the best merchadise the market affords, and for that reason we have handled Elyria Lace for the past two years. Our competitors realizing the large amount of this lace sold heretofore by this house, undoubtedly took this means of trying to mislead the buying public by making the statement that this house had only a somewhat limited stock and was unable to secure more. As stated before we have in stock a full line of 1911 patterns and as shown by above telegram we are able to secure any amount desired, so the chagrin must be on the part of our competitor to learn how little the American Lace Manufacturing Company really cares for their contract provided they have one. Having proved the falsity of our competitor's statement we shall drop this matter.

EVELETH LICENSE FEE NOT TOUCHED

Motion to Double Saloon License and Limit Saloons Gets No Second.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The council last evening approved Mayor Saarl's appointments to the library board as follows: A. Saarl, George A. Whitman, Peter Peterson and Dr. C. W. More, three-year term; David A. L. Arin, Burton O. Greening, and J. C. Poole, two-year term; Solomon Sax, Fergus R. Ellsworth, G. R. McCormick, one year.

A motion to amend ordinance 84, raising the saloon license from $500 to $1,000 and restricting the number of saloons one to each 500 residents, offered by Alderman Sutherland, was not seconded. The application of William Archer, referee in bankruptcy to transfer the liquor license of Duncan McDougal, bankrupt, to Reni & Acceferro, was granted. The applications of Louis Acceferro for a renewal of his license, Antonius Stebil for a transfer of license to L. Acceferro, were referred for further consideration.

The board of health was instructed to secure a consulting engineer to investigate the local water works and ascertain what improvements should be made at the plant this year. The city clerk was instructed to advertise for 500 galvanized garbage cans and also for bids for collecting the garbage here from May 1 to Nov. 1 and from Nov. 1 to May 1.

Shy at County Division.

The mayor said that according to Tuesday's Duluth Herald the Hibbing council went on record opposing county division, and he requested the Eveleth aldermen to present their views, but they declined and requested the mayor to go on record in the matter.

The chief of police reported $582.90 in fines for January and thirty-six arrests. The waterworks January report showed collected $2,406 in receipts and $1,545.46 in disbursements. The chief of the fire department reported four calls, $225 damage. In January and recommended that an additional fireman be added and the ten fire boxes recently ordered be installed. The report of the city clerk for January showed $4,856.61 receipts and $5,087.90 in disbursements.

The city clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for city printing, while the ordinance committee and city attorney were instructed to confer on the matter of having the compiled ordinances of the city printed. Ordinances amending many of the old ordinances were given readings.

The appointment of William Vanderboom as electrician to succeed Fred E. Lister, resigned, and the appointment of Miss Maimie Webb to succeed Miss Bertha Dupont, as deputy city clerk, were confirmed.

PLANT PURCHASE LONG DISCUSSED

Virginia Council Finally Refers Matter to Its Finance Committee.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The finance committee of the council had referred to it last night after an extended discussion the question of the city acquiring the water and light plant because, as set forth in a petition signed by 500 people and presented by Judge Montague, it was claimed the present rates are excessive.

In presenting the petition Judge Montague, addressing the council as well as the great throng of people drawn to the meeting in anticipation of something out of the ordinary, claimed the growth of the city was not given proper recognition by the railroads which have not provided respectable depots, the express companies that will not deliver packages excepting on one street, that the telegraphic rates are excessive and local postoffice conditions deplorable.

Kimball Favors Delay.

After Judge Montague had pointed out some things that he considered needed correction, Alderman Kimball said he thought in view of paving and other improvements contemplated the purchase of the water and light plants should be deferred for at least five years in the interest of the taxpayer. Judge Montague denied the acquisition of the plant would place an extra burden on the taxpayers.

F. C. Whiting, R. J. McGhee, ex-Mayor A. N. Thompson and Mayor Andrew Hawkinson favored taking over of the plant by the city. Alderman E. C. A. Johnson said that when all the facts and figures of the estimated cost of the plant were in and that if it could be shown that it would be a benefit to the city to purchase the plant, he would then give an expression of his stand on the matter, but at this time did not care to express himself.

The matter finally was placed in the hands of the finance committee, composed of Aldermen A. C. Osborn, E. C. A. Johnson and A. D. Heritage.

Poirier Denies Charge.

During the discussion City Attorney Poirier was accused of holding up the purchase of the plant when it was brought up last year and was also accused of being attorney for the Virginia Electric Power & Water company as well as city attorney. Mr. Poirier stated his position taken on the matter last year by saying that as the proposition was a very weighty one he held off giving an opinion because he had not thoroughly posted himself upon the law in the matter to give an intelligent opinion, and as to being the attorney for the light and water company, those who made the statement would either have to take it back or prove it. The accusation as to his being attorney for the light and water company was made by Truant Officer William Fitzgerald.

The liquor ordinance received its third and final reading and passed by a unanimous vote of the council. If the ordinance is not vetoed by the mayor it will go into effect Feb. 23. It provides that the liquor license fee will be $1,000, a raise of $500; also that a full view of the bar must be allowed during the closing hours of saloons, these hours being in accordance with the state laws.

A resolution was passed vacating a portion of Cherry street which runs through certain blocks in the South Side addition, which were recently purchased by the park board, and which grounds will be converted into a park the coming summer.

An ordinance was introduced establishing Sewer District No. 3K, which will take in Anderson's three additions to Virginia, and lying in the southern part of the city.

Six additional arc lamps will be placed on the North side, Alderman Kimball reporting favorably upon the request of the citizens of that part of the city for these lights.

Municipal court fines collected for the week ending Feb. 4 amounted to $133.

EVELETH BOASTS OF ABOUT 8,000

Adding Population Recently Annexed Claimed to Give Those Figures.

The township loses 600 as these residents now reside in the Fourth ward, while the Missabe Mountain township loses over 2,500, who reside in the Fifth and Sixth wards. With the 1,141, in the Fayal township which adjoins Eveleth, the city really has over 8,000 people.

HOULIHAN FAILS TO GET DAMAGES

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The jury in the case of George M. Houlihan against Butler Bros., in which the plaintiff brought action to recover $20,000 for injuries alleged to have been received by him while in the employ of the company at a mine near Hibbing, in September, 1909, returned a verdict in favor of the defendant company.

The case went to the jury just before the hour of adjournment last night and the jury remained out all night.

The criminal calendar was taken up this morning and the case put on trial was that of the state against August Korack. Korack was indicted by the late grand jury on three separate counts charging him with having assaulted Louis Erjoie, Louis Sever and Ignatz with a knife, at Gilbert on Dec. 26.

VOTE ON RECIPROCITY OR AN EXTRA SESSION, IS TAFT'S ULTIMATUM

the White House the report soon leaked out that the president was insistent upon a vote. It is said he made plain his belief that the country generally favored the adoption of a reciprocity agreement with Canada; that the McCall bill to put the agreement into force will pass the house with a large majority and that the senate would enact the measure if given an opportunity to vote upon it.

The rules of the senate which permit untrammeled discussion of a measure are the principal barriers to a vote in that body. It is known that Senators Heyburn and Bailey are bitterly opposed to the agreement, and that the opposition extends also to most of the progressive Republicans who represent agricultural states. Some of these senators have hinted that their relations with the White House have not been sufficiently pleasant of late to cause them to exert themselves in support of an administration measure.

Senators Crane and Carter entered at once upon a campaign designed to advance the president's program.

MAYOR RECALLED; NEW ONE ELECTED

Seattle's Executive Removed and George Dilling Chosen as Successor.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 8.—Mayor Hiram C. Gill, who was elected last March by a plurality of 3,500 votes, was recalled yesterday for alleged misconduct in office by a plurality estimated at 4,000. The votes of the women who were recently enfranchised in this state, were largely responsible for this result.

George Dilling was elected over Mayor Gill and will take office to serve out the unexpired part of Gill's term. One hundred precincts out of 153 gave Dilling 19,074 and Gill 17,124. A large proportion of 22,000 women who registered cast their ballots and to them is given all the responsibility or credit for the recall.

It was alleged by the recall leaders that Gill and Chief of Police Wappenstein had farmed out the vice privileges to a candidate and had collected a large percentage of the receipts therefrom. A surprise of the day was the heavy Socialist vote, which probably will reach 5,000.

Trouble Began.

Mayor Gill's troubles began when he appointed Charles Wappenstein as chief of police. Wappenstein had been dismissed from the office of chief of detectives in Cincinnati and later had been dismissed as chief of detectives of Seattle. He had also been involved in the scandal that led to the shooting of Former Chief of Police Meredith in a street duel in this city.

As soon as it was announced last November that the woman suffrage amendment had been adopted, the movement to recall Mayor Gill, took active form and the women entered vigorously into the campaign.

REGULATIONS FOR AVIATORS

Mexicans Want Treaty to Govern the Flights of the Airmen.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Possibly it was with an apprehension of what is just coming to pass on the Texas border that Senor de la Barra, the Mexican ambassador, some time ago proposed to Secretary Knox the negotiation of a treaty to regulate the flight of aeroplanes between the United States and Mexico. Secretary Knox was willing to entertain the proposition and as a result a treaty has been drafted which has received the approval of the Mexican government and is now before the state department for its action.

The ostensible purpose of the Mexican government was to prevent smuggling, which could be carried on in the case of small and exceedingly valuable commodities, such as jewels, laces, opium and the like, almost with impunity and with great profit, by aeroplanes, in the absence of regulations. But another very important use of the aeroplane was evidently in mind, and that was its possible employment by revolutionists in conveying information of the movements of government troops endeavoring to capture rebel forces.

Mexico would not object to the employment of aeroplanes by the United States army, as proposed, but would probably not like the appearance on the border of a number of aeroplanes, such as would be drawn to the proposed exhibition at El Paso, if these machines are to operate over Mexican territory without responsibility to the military authorities. Therefore, it is probable that a protest will be made by the Mexican government against any such unregulated flights.

HACKED BY SNOWPLOW.

Great Northern Employe Is Torn to Pieces in Montana.

Whitefish, Mont., Feb. 8.—Struck by a rotary snowplow, S. W. Wessel, employed by the Great Northern road "bucking" snow near here, two days ago, was torn to pieces, his mutilated remains being found along the right-of-way.

Wessel was employed watching engines at Browning that were tied up there in the storm. When he did not show up for duty it was surmised that some accident had befallen him or that he had lost his way in the storm, and fellow workmen went in search. Only a short distance from his destination the body was found strewn along the track for a hundred feet. It is thought that he was walking on the track, and on account of the storm, did not see a rotary snowplow that was clearing out the track. He was literally hacked to pieces with the revolving knives.

To Keep the Hair Healthy and Growing

(Marion Harlow in Women's Sphere.)

"A perfect and most inexpensive dry shampoo mixture is made simply by mixing a half pound of corn meal with four ounces of amotone. Put in a fruit jar and stir and shake until thoroughly mixed. Sprinkle a tablespoonful of this mixture over the hair, then brush out thoroughly and your scalp will be clean and your hair light and fluffy.

"It takes out every particle of oil, dust and dandruff, brings out the natural color of the hair—and if anything will make hair grow amotone will.

"Too much soap and water cause the hair to become faded, dull and brittle. Dry shampooing makes it long, thick and glossy. Then, too, hours of time are saved and there is no danger of catching cold after a dry shampoo."

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

ADVICE FOR THE FARMER

Tiller of Soil in North Dakota Is Given Some Good Pointers.

Grand Forks Corn and Clover Convention Is Hearing From Experts.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Good farming methods, farm management, crop rotation, the value of education to the farmer and corn raising were the subjects brought before the hundreds of farmers in attendance at today's session of the Red River Valley corn and clover convention, each speaker made emphatic the fact that the convention is in reality a school for the farmer and no time was lost in any deviations from the program.

The most interesting speaker was Prof. P. G. Holden of the Iowa college of agriculture at Ames, who, after presenting facts that proved North Dakota soil as ideal for corn raising as any state in the Union, told the farmers how to grow it and how to handle it from planting to feeding. Prof. Holden's address was convincing and scores of farmers will remember his words when putting in their crop this spring. The other speakers were President F. L. McVey of the University of North Dakota, Prof. J. H. Shepard of the North Dakota agricultural college and Prof. J. D. Bilsborrow of the Crookston school of agriculture. The contention of all was that the farmers of North Dakota, Northern Minnesota and Manitoba would make millions of dollars every year if they employed more scientific methods of soil culture, were more careful in selecting their seed and took especial pains to conserve the moisture of the soil in dry seasons. The trend of the talks was along the line of urging the farmers to go more extensively into diversified farming and by various methods to build up the soil and maintain its fertility. The raising of clover and alfalfa was given some attention in connection with corn production.

This evening the addresses will be on varieties of grain suitable to North Dakota, value of the state fair to the farmer, and poultry, and the speakers will be Prof. W. R. Porter of Fargo, M. C. Bacheller, secretary of the Grand Forks State Fair association, and Prof. C. E. Brown of Crookston.

Third Annual Bench Show.

The third anual bench show conducted under the direction of the Grand Forks Kennel club, opened at noon today and for numbers, variety and quality the display of dogs bids fair to surpass anything ever held in the state. Dog fanciers from Minnesota and Manitoba as well as from most every corner of this state, are in attendance and the officers of the kennel club feel enthusiastic over the splendid success of this feature of the big week. Judgings will begin tomorrow and all the blue ribbons will be awarded by Friday noon.

At the poultry show being held in the heart of the city, 475 birds are on exhibit and fifty-one successful raisers of fowl are anxiously awaiting the results of the judging which began late yesterday afternoon. There are few novelties in the display, but there is a splendid representation of profitable and fancy varieties, including barred and white Plymouth Rocks, light Brahmas, white and silver laced Wyandottes, Rhode Island reds, orphingtons, black Minoreas, brown and buff Leghorns, Hamburgers, Houdans, white Cornish and others, which only the fancier can name and classify. Mrs. F. C. Stilwell of Crookston is the largest exhibitor, having thirty-seven birds and no less than half a dozen varieties.

The mid-winter fair and auto show are the other two big attractions and both are drawing immense crowds. Nothing that enters into the makeup of an automobile show has been forgotten by the Grand Forks Automobile Dealers association and every detail of the big affair is completeness itself. The attendance is more than double that of last year, when the first show was held.

HAS LAUGH ON HUNTERS.

Deerwood Deputy Game Warden Makes Minneapolis Men Settle.

Deerwood, Minn., Feb. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Deputy Game Warden J. P. Sanders feels that he has the laugh on a couple of Minneapolis people who came here last November after deer, but being unable to kill any, bought a couple, took them back to Minneapolis and exulted over their good fortune. Sanders had in the meantime been busy and, tracing the matter to the Mill City, had the pair arrested and brought before Judge Charles Smith of Minneapolis, who fined each man $50 and costs. Mr. Sanders is being praised for the manner in which he traced his men. The campaign he has inaugurated will do much to check the practice of buying game killed out of season by pot hunters who are making a regular practice of this kind of illegal hunting.

It is expected that the cars will run from Ironwood to Bessemer by Aug. 15, and that the company's lighting plant be in operation by July 1. All work on the plant will be rushed from now on.

CLEAR LAKE STORE IS DESTROYED BY FIRE.

St. Cloud, Minn., Feb. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—The general store of Janski Bros. at Clear Lake was completely destroyed by fire of mysterious origin early Sunday morning.

Before the citizens were aroused the fire had gained such headway that the building and contents were totally wiped out.

Janski Bros., who last October came from Rice and purchased the store of Henry Goenner, carried about a $10,000 stock, which was insured for about two-thirds of its value.

The building was owned by Mr. Goenner and it was partially insured. The total loss of store and contents is reported to be $15,000 and the insurance on both is $10,000.

No portion of the stock was saved. The interested parties have not decided whether they will rebuild and continue the business.

ROSEAU FLOATS BONDS.

Minneapolis Concern Takes $11,000 Issue After Some Dickering.

Roseau, Minn., Feb. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Negotiations for the sale of $11,000 bonds of the village has been closed and the bonds will be taken by V. M. Stoddard & Co. of Minneapolis. The original bid had been for a premium of $280, but after the financial statement of the village had been examined the bond company declined to take the bonds at that figure, claiming that the village's debt was in excess of 10 per cent of the assessed valuation, the legal limit. There is a technical excess as there are several thousand dollars of outstanding orders issued for local improvements assessed against abutting property. The company's offer of $80 and accrued interest and the furnishing of the printed bonds was accepted.

A petition is being circulated asking that the license question be submitted at the March election.

S.S.S.

CURES BLOOD POISON

A great many so-called remedies for Contagious Blood Poison are composed almost entirely of strong mineral ingredients. They seem to be compounded with the idea that one poison will counteract another—provided the stomach and delicate portions of the system can withstand the effects of the strong treatment. These concoctions are intended to kill the poison in the system. In this article we want to tell you of S. S. S., a purely vegetable remedy for Contagious Blood Poison, a medicine that not only cures the disease, but one which from the first dose has a fine tonic effect upon the stomach and the entire system. Nor does S. S. S. attempt to kill the germs within the system, but cures by REMOVING them from the blood—which is absolutely the only way to cure the disease.

It does not require any argument to establish the fact that a blood disease can be cured only by a blood purifier; every one will admit the truthfulness of this statement. The question of most importance therefore is, what medicine has proven by actual results its superiority as a blood purifier? We claim this distinction for S. S. S., and offer as proof the fact that for more than forty years it has been sold under this claim and the demand for it has steadily increased, and we have thousands of testimonials from cured patients from all parts of the country.

Contagious Blood Poison, as the name implies, is an infectious blood taint which may be communicated from one person to another. Its virus is of a most insidious nature, multiplying from an insignificant germ in the blood, until it becomes a thorough systemic poison. Its first symptom is usually a tiny sore or pimple, but it rapidly spreads, and in a short while the entire body gives evidence of the poison in the blood. The mouth and throat ulcerate, glands in the groin swell, the hair begins to come out, copper-colored splotches appear on the body, and frequently running sores and ulcers break out on the flesh.

A condition of such serious nature requires proper treatment. Not only must the disease be driven out, but the system which has been weakened by the ravages of the poison, must be built up before health can be restored. S. S. S. CURES CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON BY PURIFYING THE BLOOD. It goes into the circulation and removes the last trace of the infectious virus, acts with fine tonic effect on the stomach, bowels, kidneys and all portions of the system, and thus makes a perfect as well as lasting cure. S. S. S. is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, each of which has a specific action on the system. Not a particle of mineral of any kind enters into the composition of this great medicine. S. S. S. is perfectly safe for any one to take, and instead of upsetting the stomach as mineral medicines do, it tones up this important member and makes digestion easy. Thousands have cured themselves of Contagious Blood Poison by the use of S. S. S., and if you will write and request it we will send you, without charge, a Home Treatment Book, which will give you all necessary information for curing yourself at your own home. We will also give you free any special medical advice you ask for. S. S. S. cures by making pure, healthy blood—Nature's real remedy.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

S. S. S. CURED HIM.

I was afflicted with a terrible blood disease, which was in spots at first, but afterwards spread all over my body. These soon broke out into sores, and it is easy to imagine the suffering I endured. Before I became convinced that the doctors could do me no good I had spent a hundred dollars, which was really thrown away. I then tried various patent medicines, but they did not reach the disease. When I had finished my first bottle of S. S. S. I was greatly improved, and was delighted with the result. The large red splotches on my chest began to grow paler and smaller, and before long disappeared entirely. I regained my lost weight, became stronger and my appetite greatly improved. I was soon entirely well, and my skin as clear as a piece of glass.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FAIR

A soft moon shining from a hazy sky, a new covering of snow on the ground and a bracing temperature form a combination that lovers of outdoor sports cannot resist. The skating rinks and ski hills were crowded last night, while snow shoe parties trampled all over the hill and enjoyed themselves. It was a beautiful winter evening. The sun is shining today and the temperature is just about low enough to be right. Continued fair weather with the temperature about zero is the prediction for tonight.

Beautiful weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 7:24 and will set at 5:21, giving nine hours and fifty-seven minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"During the last twenty-four hours the temperature rose somewhat, and there was also more or less rain or snow throughout Eastern Canada, the Lake region, Ohio valley and lower Mississippi valley in connection with lower barometric pressure over those districts, the centers of the depressions being over Saskatchewan and Eastern Mexico, respectively. Light snow also fell over the Red River Valley of the North. An increase in pressure throughout the West has resulted in colder weather over Manitoba, the Dakotas, Wyoming, Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma and Northeastern Texas. Temperatures are rising again from Montana northward. The outlook favors ideal winter weather conditions at the Head of the Lakes during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m., Thursday:

Upper Michigan—Generally fair tonight and Thursday; slightly colder in north and east tonight.

Minnesota and Wisconsin—Generally fair tonight and Thursday; not much change in temperature.

Iowa—Fair tonight and Thursday; warmer in northeast portion tonight.

North and South Dakota and Montana—Fair tonight and Thursday; not much change in temperature.

Shippers' forecast: Protect thirty-six hour shipments of perishables against temperatures varying from slightly below zero to 10 deg. above in the Eastern Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Michigan Copper country.

WEST END

BURGLARS CAPTURED

Officer Fires Over Heads of Two Fugitives and Stops Them.

Men Are Charged With Entering West End Tailor Shop.

A shot from Officer Fred Mahlan's revolver brought two men, giving their names as Patrick H. Doyle and John M. Appleby, both of Superior, to a halt after a chase through the Northern Pacific railroad yards near Garfield avenue last night shortly after 10 o'clock. Doyle and Appleby, who tamely submitted to capture after the officer brought his gun into play, are accused of having entered Alfred Olson's tailor shop at 1805 West Superior street. Goods valued at $200, taken from the tailor shop, were found on them.

The two men entering the railroad yards headed toward Superior excited the suspicions of the policeman, who called to them to stop. Instead, they took to their heels. He followed, and an exciting chase resulted. When the officer saw that he was losing ground he pulled his revolver and fired over the men's heads. They stopped and were taken to headquarters.

Entrance to the tailor shop was gained through a transom at the rear. The burglars left the place through the front door and immediately started for Superior. When booked at headquarters, Doyle gave his age as 38 and Appleby said he was 22 and a switchman at Superior.

A number of burglaries have occurred in the West end recently, and the arrest last night is the first made by the police in connection with them.

Appleby and Doyle waived examination in police court this morning and were bound over to await the action of the next grand jury. Bail was fixed at $1,500 in each case.

For Chilblains and Frost-Bits

Many persons dread the approach of winter on account of chilblains and frost-bites which cause a soreness and itching at times almost unbearable, frequently bringing on a nervous condition. To those thus afflicted the following treatment will be welcome information as it gives immediate relief and soon cures. "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water (not hot). Soak the feet in this for fifteen minutes. Repeat this for several nights until the trouble disapears."

The action of Calocide compound for all foot ailments is really remarkable. By its use corns and callouses can be peeled right off. Sweaty, smelling feet and tender, aching feet need but a few applications. Buntons get relief instantly. Any druggist has it in stock or will get it from his wholesale house. A twenty-five cent package is usually sufficient to put the worst feet in fine condition.

of liquors. This measure was before the assembly two years ago, being introduced by Mr. Garden, who was then a member of the house, but who now holds the chairmanship of the temperance committee of the senate.

This measure conterplates a very thorough inspection of every consignment of liquor entering the state. It creates the state pure food department as the state's inspecting agent, would enforce the collection of fees for such inspection, and at the same time it is made the duty of the inspecting officials to notify the state's attorney of the county to which liquor is being shipped, the theory being that in that manner the prosecuting officials of the several counties would be placed in a position where they could readily obtain evidence on which to base their search for violators of the prohibition law, as an undue number of shipments of liquor would necessarily give rise to suspicion.

Codifying Probate Laws.

Codification of the probate laws of the state is proposed by Representative Homnes of Divide county in the bill that passed the house yesterday afternoon and which is now before the senate. The codification is in accordance with the wish expressed by the county judges of the state at their recent meeting held in this city. The bill creates a commission charged with the codification of the laws and to report back to the next succeeding assembly, in the form of a bill similar to the report of the school laws compilation commission.

Senator Linde of Mountrail county proposes to enact an unfair discrimination bill that will affect the line lumber companies in much the same manner that an unfair discrimination bill, passed by the house, hits the line elevator companies. He would prohibit the line companies from selling lumber in one town at a lower cost than it sells at the same time in another town, the difference in freight, etc., taken into consideration.

An important clause in the Englund bill relating to the construction of wyes at railroad crossings would compel the companies to carry freight to a town affected by such wyes at the short haul rate. That is, in the event that the railroad companies failed to construct such wyes, they would be prohibited from exacting a greater tariff for hauling freight to such towns than they would be allowed to charge had such wyes been constructed. This clause, it is believed, would enforce compliance with the provisions of the bill much more rapidly than any other feature.

Christmas at Puerto Cortez.

Puerto Cortez, Honduras, Feb. 8.—The revolutionary army under Gen. Lee Christmas formally occupied Puerto Cortez late yesterday. Several hundred revolutionists were landed from schooners, and marched through the streets to the cuartel recently abandoned by the government forces.

This puts into effect the armistice between President Davilla and his revolutionary opponent Bonilla.

The revolutionists scored the first victory in the negotiations inaugurated by the United States to restore peace in Honduras. As a condition to the acceptance of the armistice proposal Gen. Manuel Bonilla demanded that he be permitted to occupy Puerto Cortez, which the government forces evacuated one week ago, which, when it became known, the revolutionists were preparing to attack the port.

After communicating with the state department at Washington, Commander Davis of the cruiser Tacoma notified Gen. Christmas that the international forces would withdraw and deliver to him the control of the port. An hour later the American and British bluejackets were returned to the Tacoma and the Brilliant. The peace negotiations aboard the Tacoma will now be begun in earnest.

these. He declared the federals got away so fast that they were out of range before more could be fired at them.

He said in an interview with the Associated Press correspondent that he firmly intends to attack Jaurez, but that he awaits the arrival of Gen. Blanco with 350 men. He said he looked for the latter at any moment.

Orozco's present force in the vicinity of Jaurez numbers under 600 men—probably 550. Of these, 320 were with him in the skirmish yesterday afternoon. The federal force by actual count numbers 184—100 foot soldiers and 84 mounted infantry. They took with them no artillery and Orozco has none.

Battle At Ojita.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 8.—Mail advices from Parral, Chihuahua, Mex., tell of a fight between federals and insurrectos at Ojita, in that district, and the killing by federals of Pedro T. Gomez, aide to Guillermo Baca, rebel leader of that region. Gomez and Baca were leaders of the band which captured Parral on the opening day of the revolt, last November.

THE CITY ELECTION.

Prominently in the column of results of the election held yesterday in Duluth stands the approval of the bond issue asked by the water and light board. The voters of the city put their O. K. on the board's suggestion by a majority of more than 100. This means that the managers of the city water plant can go ahead with the extensions and improvements which they deem necessary to put the service on a par with the recent growth of the city and to insure against failure of the water supply in case of emergency, such as they called attention to last summer when the unusual drouth made every fire dangerous.

In the elections of aldermen the voters showed the independence that has characterized municipal elections in particular in the last few years. To be sure the result leaves an overwhelming Democratic majority in the board, but the presence of two independents in that body shows the breaking away from the bonds of old line partisanship.

The men elected yesterday will be regarded as representative men. Four of them are new in the city legislative ranks, and one, Otto Krueger, gives New Duluth its first representation in that body. As far as the personalities and abilities of the members of the board are generally known, there seems to be no reason for criticism of the results of the election.

TWO INTERESTING ELECTIONS.

Results of two interesting elections in cities other than Duluth are given elsewhere in The Herald. In one of these elections Appleton, Wis., adopted the commission plan of government; in the other Mayor Hiram C. Gill of Seattle, Wash., was "recalled." Though half a continent separates the two cities involved, there is a sort of connection between the events, since the recall is one of the features of the commission plan of government as it is generally adopted.

That Appleton should be among the first cities of its state to adopt the modern form of city government is not particularly surprising. Although Eau Claire got ahead in this action, Appleton is one of the most enterprising of Wisconsin's municipalities. It got on the map first as a mill town, through the development of the water power of the Fox river. It thrived in part from the excellent farming country of the Fox river valley, and later achieved fame as the first city in the United States to install electric street cars. It is keeping up with the times by the adoption of the commission plan.

In the recall of Mayor Gill, Seattle furnishes the eighth instance of the exercise of that power by an American city. It is interesting to note the strong influence of the women's vote in the result, but the movement for recalling the mayor started before the election at which female suffrage was adopted.

The action in Seattle constitutes an excellent illustration of the exercise of the people's will under such provisions as the initiative, referendum and recall, for it proves absolutely that the people can control the acts of their officials, that with such a power in their hands the public officer who openly defies the will of the voters must give place to one who will do what the people want. The city official is in fact an employe of the people, and the recall simply gives to the people the logical power to dismiss the employe whenever he fails to obey the will of his employer. That it has been exercised so seldom is evidence of its effectiveness in securing satisfactory administration of city affairs, and every instance such as that in Seattle will make it less likely to be called into service elsewhere. City officials can learn from an object lesson as quickly as other men.

THE ISSUE MADE CLEAR.

When the Canadian reciprocity agreement comes up for action in the house at Washington it will be a plain test of the sincerity of the Republicans who have been proclaiming their insurgency. In the caucus Monday night the Democrats took a stand in favor of the agreement. With the Republicans who claim to be insurgents, the Democrats can furnish a united vote that will overcome any opposition the "regular" Republicans can muster, and can pass the measure, and thereby win the approval of the nation at large.

For the Republicans, the action of the Democratic caucus made the issue clear—are the Republicans in earnest about trying to obey the will of the people, or are they clinging to the skirts of special privilege as hard as ever? The vote on the Canadian agreement will determine the question more clearly than it ever has been determined before; more clearly than any action on the power of the speaker or the construction of the house rules could have shown it. The interests are giving the reciprocity agreement a half-hearted support. Why? Because they see in it an entering wedge in the whole vicious structure of ultra-protection, a beginning of real piecemeal revision. That is why they are afraid of it. But after having approved piecemeal revision as a principle they dare not openly denounce it in practice. Therefore they are trying to stir up fear in the agricultural districts in the hope that the farmer will be so short-sighted as to start a rumpus that will knock out the whole proceeding.

There is nothing to be worried about in the proposal to eliminate the provision for the free entry of wood pulp and print paper. Under the terms of the agreement those articles would not be affected anyway until action had been taken by the separate provinces in Canada relative to the exportation of cuttings from crown lands, and that action is by no means assured. To be sure the free entry of those articles would relieve the American newspapers of an unjust burden, and would be welcome to the newspapers for that reason. But the newspapers are not going to oppose the agreement, neither are they going to become less warm in their support of it, because of the proposed elimination of that clause. Perhaps its elimination is being sought in the hope that some such result would develop. It is a favorite trick to try to discredit the press in some such way.

For more than a week The Herald has been publishing on this page excerpts from editorials in other papers, treating of the reciprocity plan. The press of this country is almost unanimous in favor of reciprocity. And the press is only voicing the opinions of the bulk of the people. It would be well to write to your congressman and to the senators from your state, telling them how you stand on this question. It would show these men that the people mean business, and it would go far to overcome the opposition to the agreement that is being raised by the men who are afraid of this beginning at the tearing down of the high tariff wall.

A PERTINENT QUESTION.

With the Gallinger ship subsidy bill already through the senate and soon to be taken up in the house, the country's interest in the question naturally is more aroused than it has been in some time. The Omaha World-Herald comes forth with a pertinent question and asks "Who gets the money?" This is the way the World-Herald puts it:

> Any man of common sense must know, if he stops for a moment to think, that there is "money in it" for somebody or there would not be so much money spent and so much printing done to push the ship subsidy proposition. Who will get the millions that congress is asked to appropriate? Will any of it find lodging in the pockets of the wage worker, the farmer or the ordinary business man? On the other hand is it not true that if congress appropriates it, it will have to come out of their pockets?

It is a matter of public knowledge that for years the ship subsidy boosters have maintained an expensive lobby in Washington, and have had papers published for the single purpose of agitating in favor of the principle. This being the case, there must have been somebody back of it who expected to make something pretty good out of ship subsidy, for men do not spend money so freely unless they regard the expenditure as an investment, or at any rate as a speculation, on which they expect big returns. If these men were so anxious to have the American flag fly over vessels in international trade, why did they not put all these funds into the building and operation of ships instead of into a fight for ship subsidy?

The same paper continues, in reply to the pleas made in favor of the subsidy plan:

> The expunging from our marine laws of just one line would remedy all the evils complained of. Why not expunge that line? It was copied from a similar statute of Charles II, instigated by the court favorite, Sir Josiah Child, and carried to the king by Barbara Villiers, the king's mistress. That line forbids American register to foreign built ships. With that line eliminated, the American flag, American ships with American crews, would be seen in all the ports of the world. No ship subsidy that could be taxed out of the American people would ever do that.

When the bill gets to the house the members of that body should consider these things, and not only put an end to the Gallinger bill but start the repeal of the law whose operation has given color to all the specious pleas for ship subsidy that have been advanced in the last two decades.

HOW ARE THE POSTAL BANKS?

While the country is keeping close watch of the work of congress on the big bills before it, the postal savings banks that are being tried out in different parts of the country are working out their salvation in silence. No information is given out by the government officials, and none is permitted to be given out by postmasters as to the amounts deposited in their offices, but once in awhile some statements of intense interest are made in cities where the "experiment" is being tried.

Last week The Herald printed a dispatch from Wahpeton, N. D., telling something of the way the plan is being received and taken advantage of there. Several persons in that city, it appears, have said that they made deposits of $50 at different times; a majority of the accounts are of from $5 to $30; one woman who has been in the habit of buying money orders payable to herself has adopted the savings deposit plan; and most interesting of all, foreigners who have made a practice of buying money orders and mailing them to Europe are making use of the savings bank feature of the postoffice service.

All this is in accord with the contentions of the advocates of the plan. Where these banks are established they are bringing out money that was not deposited before, small amounts that the owners could so ill afford to lose that they are unwilling to trust them where they have not the strictest confidence in the management. American money is being kept in this country instead of being sent abroad.

In this connection there is significance in the statements of a circular sent out by the National City Bank of New York. It says:

> What effect, if any, the opening of the postal savings offices has had upon individual deposits in banks in towns where the system has been established is not known to the officials, as no information bearing upon this particular question has been asked for or received by them. The consensus of opinion, however, among those who have given the matter closest attention, is that local banks will not be affected materially one way or another by reason of the establishment of the new system.

Comenting on this statement, the Toledo Blade well says:

> It may be taken for granted that the National City bank knows exactly what effect the postal bank has had on private institutions, whether government officials know or care anything at all about the matter. If the largest banking house in America speaks even thus guardedly in approval of the postal bank, it must be that this new government enterprise is doing that which was most hoped for it—bringing out the hoards of teacups, coat-linings and cellar caches.

There never has been any reason to doubt that the postal savings bank would do these things. In spite of the fact that the American government has seen fit to treat the enterprise as an experiment, it really passed that stage long ago, and the work of the postal savings banks in other countries proves such to be the case. They are a good thing. Give us more of them, and do it quickly.

And what shall it profit a man if he buy a whole legislature—and then get found out?

"There is no trust in whitewash," says the Brooklyn Eagle. No, but the present government at Washington has almost a monopoly in its use.

Senator Lorimer is reported to have an abscess in his ear. It would be more gratifying to the country if he would manage to have an absence in his toga.

TALKS WITH THE STATE PRESS

On Coming Back.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: The president has shown the Republican senators and congressmen a way to come back into popular favor—but at the present time it does not look as though they had sense enough to see it. More light!

If Taft were only sure reciprocity would make it possible for him to come back he would be a lot happier than he really has cause to be.

Clark and Bryan.

Little Falls Transcript: A newspaper report says that Champ Clark is Bryan's man to lead the Democratic party in 1912 and that Bryan will back him for the presidency at that time. If that is so, then good bye, Champ, ole boy. Sorry to lose you, but you'll have to go.

Probably it would be difficult to persuade Clark to take this point of view.

Peril to the Nation.

Bagley Herald: Since the saloons are again starting up in this part of the state the crowd at the grocery stores have been greatly reduced.

And the affairs of the nation are being correspondingly neglected.

Press of the Northland.

Detroit Record: The Wadena Pioneer Journal is just now setting a pretty hot pace for other Northern Minnesota newspaper men to follow. The "P-J" represents a standard that many strive for but few ever reach.

Northern Minnesota's country newspapers average pretty high.

Boosting the Home Town.

Two Harbors Journal-News: Local pride ought to impel every citizen to promote the prosperity of his home town. He should speak well of it, work for its advancement and ever consider himself a committee of one to aid it in every way. More can be done by individual effort than most people suppose.

Good medicine, that, for every town in the land.

On Being a Statesman.

Albert Lea Standard: The idea of the ambitious rural legislator is that the more bills he introduces the bigger statesman he becomes in the eyes of an innocent and wondering constituency.

A mistaken idea that is not held exclusively by ruralites.

Governor and the Bowlers.

Princeton Union: Governor Eberhart will open the international bowling tournament in St. Paul on Feb. 11. Here's hoping that he will not make less points than he did in deportment.

And that success on the alleys will not tend to injure his record for deportment.

Cigarettes and the Solons.

Walker Pilot: That anti-cigarette law appears to make the legislature the butt of some sarcastic remarks by the country press.

To attempt to repeal it would result in demonstrating that it possesses "the makin's" of a good fight.

Opinions and Results.

Pine River Blaze: There were fifty-three air men killed during the year of 1910. People probably never thought that the inventors airing their opinions would cost so many lives and all in one year.

Just another reminder that no man is infallible.

Haven for Progressives.

Fairmont Sentinel: The Progressive Republicans will never have a chance to become chesty over the progress of their progressiveness until their progressiveness progresses into the ranks of progressive Democracy. "Come ye sinners, poor and needy."

La Follette for vice president with Champ Clark at the head of the ticket?

AN AEROPLANE RIDE.

There are plenty of reporters at the aviation meets, but as their observations are usually made from terra firma, we have so far had very few accounts of how it really feels to fly. The man who runs the machine has other things to think about, and is not usually a graphic writer. A correspondent of the London Times, however, recently took an air trip, being invited to go because he weighed 196 pounds. The aviators were having a weight-carrying contest. The wind was blowing about twenty miles an hour, and the rest of the competitors declined to take the risk, so the aviator and the reporter had a "walk-over," but not as tame as most victories of that kind. We read:

"The worst part of such a journey for the novice is the waiting until everything is ready for the start. The sensation of anticipation is not unlike the feeling that one has when one is waiting for a wounded boar to break cover from the corner into which he is driven. But once the propeller starts to whirl behind you all other thoughts beyond exhilaration of rapid motion vanish. You have gripped the struts thinking that you will have to hold on like grim death, but you immediately find that this is not necessary. The machine moves along the ground at an extraordinary pace, and I only knew that it was actually flying when I saw the elevating plane change from the horizontal. Of the motion of flight it is difficult to speak clearly. Even in the high wind that Mr. Grace was now climbing, it was not more than the sensation of a beautifully balanced motor car. The earth—in this case the sward of the Lanark race course—seemed to be racing away from under us, and in a flash we were level with the first pylon and the judges' box.

"The machine was now up to 150 feet, and I became engrossed in Mr. Grace's method of flying. It seemed to me that his attention was glued to his elevating plane, with just momentary glances out of his eye to judge the distance by which he had to shun each pylon in its turn. We were now crossing fields and water. I could observe the gates, the wire fences, and a man bathing in the water. Then we were round into the wind. Our pace immediately slackened, and Mr. Grace was working to keep his machine in the air. As we crossed a road we were going so slowly that I could observe the direction of the hoof marks of a horse that had recently passed. Here all observation ceased, as Mr. Grace was now battling with the wind. We had only 500 yards to traverse to cross the winning line, but the dead weight against the wind was bringing the machine down. Then there came a gust heavier than them all. It took the machine just up the requisite amount to cross the line, and we came gently to earth. It had only been a four-minutes' ride, but it was certainly the most delightful ride that I had ever experienced. The only recollection that I have that will describe the general sensation is that of exquisite motion."

Malayan Tree Dwellers.

Pall Mall Gazette: Human tree dwellers are not yet extinct. A Malayan newspaper describes an interesting discovery made in South Canara. The Kudiyas, living near Mangalore, include, it appears, a clan who have become tree dwellers by necessity. They live in huts built amid palm and other tall trees in order to protect themselves against attacks of elephants and other wild beasts of the jungle. Their clothing consists of the bark of certain kinds of jungle trees, and they subsist on yams and meat. They are dark skinned and noted for their fine physique, the women being even more muscular than the men, and one of their chief occupations is honey gathering, a very dangerous employment, since the bees of Canara build their honeycombs on the tree tops, often as much as 120 feet high.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

REGULATE THE MAN AND NOT THE GUN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Being a resident of Duluth and a reader of your valuable paper for the past six years, I am always interested in the editorials of your columns. An article headed "The Game Hog" attracted my attention, as it regards legislation against the automatic or auto-loading rifles and shot guns, and I really want to cuss some men for the density of their brains. It really does not matter what kind of a gun a man owns, from a single barrel, single shot, double barrel, pump gun or auto-loading, for if he is a game hog he will get game and if he does not want to see game spoil he will only come in with what he can use. I use a double barrelled gun for what little game there is to be found in this vicinity, but intend to get a pump gun as it is more convenient to carry around in the woods. No man will get more game with one gun than another, if he is a conscientious sportsman and law abiding. The greatest foes of wild game in this country are the rich men's hunting clubs on our great natural waterways. These hunters hire guides to paddle their boats around through the marshes. The guides must bring guns with them, but they are not allowed to shoot. The reason for the above is that Mr. Richman can shoot his limit of ducks or game, then go ahead and shoot his guide's limit also, making say fifty ducks for one man in one day. The game wardens cannot reach this class of game hogs, the guides earn from $2 to $3 per day and will swear like trust magnates that they shot half of the game.

But Mr. Poorman can't go out, kill twenty-five ducks or partridges, come home and sell ten of them, to make up for the money spent and the time lost while on that hunt. Many people never taste wild game because it cannot be bought and must be content with looking at pictures of it. There is no use kicking about the gun a man uses. Kick the man, not the gun, and you will hit the right spot and save a whole lot of game. Put the limit down, put the penalty up, but let them sell part of what they get, cafes and hotels not included.

Written game laws as well as the unwritten ethics of sane sportsmanship, may alike be violated with a single barrel shot gun, as with a pump gun or latest type of automatic self loader, but it would be strange logic that would indict the innocent, inanimate appliance used in breaking the law and permit the real criminal, the man behind the gun, endowed with the power of reasoning, to go free.

The responsibility for violation of game laws should not be chargeable to the type or gauge of gun used, but to the type and gauge of the man using them.

In this state as well as others deplorable conditions of game law evasion and violation exist and if we would save the pitiful remnant of our wild fowl and four-footed game from extermination we must strengthen our game laws where they are weak and provide a penalty to fit the crime in every case of violation. I believe that all law should be based on the principle of the greatest good to the greatest number. For this reason, and for the reason that state laws have proved ineffective, it would be better that all laws in any way affecting game protection should be national instead of state. Wild game "is the property of all the people all the time," and no class of men have an exclusive right to dictate what kind of caliber of gun should be used. A nominal fine is not sufficient to deter the wealthy club man from doubling the legal limit of his bag. No individual will logically approve of any hunting club or organization that will monopolize the natural haunts of wild fowl, protecting it only until such times as the members have leisure to vie with each other in their efforts for a record bag. All game preserves should be under immediate federal supervision, with an open season whose length would be determined by the annual report of a national game commission. Sportsmen as a rule are, or in the nature of things ought to be, men of generous impulses and should share the contents of their game sacks with deserving friends who from causes beyond their control are barred from the pleasure of the hunt. Them's my sentiments. Yours truly,

Duluth, Feb. 6. L. H. B.

AN EXPLANATION THAT DOES NOT EXPLAIN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

After reading O. D. Kinney's statement that Senator Clapp did not duck the vote on the ship subsidy bill as he was carrying out a program of speeches that he had arranged some time before, I rise to ask whether the people of these United States are paying the junior senator of Minnesota to go on a speech-making tour when the interests of the people are in jeopardy.

I would like to ask if Senator Clapp could and would have known that the ship subsidy bill was on the senate calendar. I would like somebody to tell me which is the more important—the legislation affecting vitally the interests of 100,000,000 people or the speech-making tour of one United States senator. Mr. Kinney says that it is "unfair" to say that the senator dodged the vote on the ship subsidy bill as he was "advertised to speak in Boston and elsewhere weeks in advance of his trip." Mr. Kinney thinks this is "proof that the senator did not dodge."

Mr. Kinney ought to know that his distinguished friend, the junior senator from Minnesota, could have paired himself with a senator in favor of the ship subsidy bill, thus defeating the measure. If Senator Clapp had observed this common procedure he would not now be subjected to the sharp criticism which is directed at him. He could have thundered all over the Boston common if he had been paired and his constituents would have read about the show in the "Transcript."

Mr. Kinney's logic is not good and it does not confuse any one.

A PLAIN CITIZEN.

Duluth, Feb. 7.

Canada's Other Duke.

Boston Transcript: The Duke of Connaught, who goes to Canada as governor general, is the second duke to represent Great Britain in Canada since the conquest in 1759. The previous duke was the Duke of Richmond, one of the most famous of all the dukes of his time. It was he that gave the ball at Brussells the night before the battle of Waterloo, of which Byron sings in his famous poem. While a colonel he had the audacity to fight a duel with the Duke of York, a son of the king, an unheard-of thing. He came to Canada in 1819 and was at first very popular, but soon lost his hold by reason of his adherence to the aristocratic and Tory party. He was very agreeable socially and a patron of the fine arts, being a good musician, lover of the drama, a fine tennis player and an excellent horseman. His death was most tragic, for while on a trip of exploration up the Ottawa he was seized by hydrophobia from the bite of a tame fox and died in a wretched hut near where the city of Ottawa, the capital of the dominion, stands. His body is buried in the English cathedral at Quebec. No royal envoy with so high a rank as duke has since come to Canada, although there have been earls in abundance.

A Pythian Treat.

Kansas City Star: The Independence lodge of the Knights of Pythias will have a rabbit dinner tonight. The rabbits were furnished by several members of the lodge who spent Wednesday hunting on the farm of E. L. Brown, near Lone Jack. They killed 178 rabbits.

"Life's a Funny Proposition."

I.

Did you ever sit and ponder—sit and wonder—sit and think
Why we're here, and what this life is all about?
It's a problem that has driven many brainy men to drink;
It's the weirdest thing they've tried to figure out,
About a thousand different theories the scientists all know,
But never yet have proved a reason why;
With all our thought, and all we're taught, all we seem to know—
We're born and live a while—and then we die.

REFRAIN.

Life's a very funny proposition, after all;
Imagination, jealousy, hypocrisy and gall,
Three meals a day,
A whole lot to say;
When you haven't got the coin you are always in the way.
Ev'ry day we're fighting as we wend our way along,
And ev'ry fellow claims the other's in the wrong.
Hurried and worried
Until we're buried
And there's no curtain call.
Life's a very funny proposition, after all.

II.

When all things are coming easy and when luck is with a man,
Then life to him is sunshine ev'rywhere;
When the Fates blow rather breezy and they quite upset a plan,
Then he'll cry Life's a burden, hard to bear.
Though today may be a day of smiles, tomorrow's still in doubt.
What brings me joy may bring you care and woe.
We're born to die, but don't know why, nor what it's all about;
The more we try to learn the less we know.

REFRAIN.

Life's a very funny proposition, you can bet;
And no one's ever solved the problem properly as yet.
Young for a day,
Then old and gray,
Like the rose that buds and blooms and fades and falls away.
Losing health to gain our wealth as through this dream to tour;
Ev'rything's a guess—there's nothing absolutely sure.
Battles exciting,
And Fates we're fighting,
Until the curtain's fall.
Life's a very funny proposition, after all.

Commission Plan at Home.

Rockford, Ill., Star: Here is an explanation of the famous initiative, referendum, and recall about which we are hearing so much these days. Mr. Man goes home and announces that he is going down town after supper to meet a man. That's the initiative. The lady of the house says: "Are you?" In that ascending voice, which seems to walk over the tops of his nerves. That's the referendum. Then Mr. Man sits down and reads his paper. That's the recall.

A Successful Dad.

Others may laugh at my feeble endeavor
To capture life's prizes and others may sneer
The whole world may loudly declare I shall never
Be worth the gunpowder to blow me from here.

It may be I'm punk as a parlor reciter
And when I begin grown ups take to the woods;
But that baby of mine! I can always delight her,
She vows I'm a wonder, she swears I'm the goods.

It may be I can't keep a tune for a minute,
It may be my voice wanders from the key;
It may be the nightingale, lark and the linnet
As songsters have quite a wide margin on me.

Caruso and others may take down the money
For singing their ditties to highbrows, but I
Have one little audience, cheerful and sunny,
Who'd rather hear me than the music you buy.

She thinks I'm a corker, a lalapaloosa,
She nightly applauds every stunt that I do;
She'd rather hear me than your John Philip Sousa,
To her the old nonsense forever is new.

That baby of mine thinks I'm great in whatever
I tackle, the moment we've finished our tea,
And though others may laugh at my feeble endeavor,
The praise of my little one satisfies me.

And so though the big world goes by me unheeding,
And never a grown-up takes notice of me;
Though into my work failure others are reading,
I'm still a success to the babe on my knee.

When worn out and weary, my long day is ended,
And homeward I turn, I forget my distress;
For I know that my baby still thinks I am splendid,
To her, anyhow, I'm a corking success!

Do You Enjoy Your Meals?

One of the Most Important Questions to Consider in the Search for Happiness and Health.

The burning question to you is, "Are you getting out of life all the pleasure and the health you are entitled to?" If not, why not?

No matter whether every organ and member of your body is in a sound state of health and strength, if your stomach is in any way disordered, you are not going to be "yourself." You are going to be a worried, out-of-sorts, nervous or sullen individual, whose actions will reflect your condition inside, and people will naturally avoid you.

The world wants to smile and be cheerful, and unless you are cheerful and smile, at least, occasionally, you will have few friends, fewer opportunities, no success, and you will go down in defeat—defeated by dyspepsia and a bad stomach.

A good and thorough digestion has a quick, wonderful reaction upon the brain. You must have noticed it many times, for the brain and stomach are as intimately connected as a needle and its thread, one can hardly be used to advantage without the other. If your stomach is slow and lazy in digesting your food, it will produce at once a slow, lazy and cloudy influence upon your brain. Mark it! If your stomach has absolutely quit work, and fermentation is poisoning your vitals as a result, surely your brain is going to be sluggish and correspondingly depressed. No one need tell you that.

But why continue to suffer all the miseries and torments that a disordered stomach brings you?

If your stomach cannot digest your food, what will? Where's the relief? Where's the cure?

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the relief and the cure. Why? Because, as all stomach troubles arise from indigestion and because one ingredient of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is able to thoroughly and completely digest 3,000 grains of any kind of food, doesn't it stand to reason that these little Dyspepsia Tablets are going to digest all the food and whatever food you put into your stomach? Science nowadays can digest food without having to use the stomach for it. And Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the result of this scientific discovery. They digest and digest thoroughly and well, anything and everything you eat.

So, if your stomach refuses to work or can't work, and you suffer from eructations, bloat, brash, fermentation, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn, irritation, indigestion, or dyspepsia of whatever form, just take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and see the difference. It doesn't cost you much to prove it. Then you can eat all you want, what you want, whenever you want, if you use these tablets, and you can look the whole world in the face with a beaming eye and you will have a cheerful spirit, a pleasant face, a vigorous body and a clear mind and memory and everything will look and taste delicious to you. That's life.

Get a package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store on earth for 50c a package.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

WATER BOND ISSUE CARRIED BY MARGIN OF ONLY 107 VOTES

exceptionally important one. The vote indicates that the public generally took a great deal of interest in the proposal.

The re-election of the comptroller, treasurer and municipal judge was a foregone conclusion, and the results in the aldermanic contests are of chief interest. It is interesting to note, however, that the Public Ownership candidates made very creditable runs where voted upon by the city at large. Johnson for comptroller received 1,607 votes as compared with 3,165 for McCormick. Keyes for municipal judge received 1,777 to 3,057 for Cutting. Mr. Voss, who was unopposed, was given the very complimentary vote of 3,923 votes.

In the First ward the aldermanic contest was three-cornered, and a careful canvass was made of the division by each of the candidates. Mr. Scott, who is president of the Scott-Graff Lumber company, and was the successful candidate, will succeed Watson S. Moore, and is expected to be just as valuable a public servant as was Mr. Moore in his several terms.

An interesting contest was fought in the Second, with three candidates in the field, the Republican and Democratic parties being represented, with the third candidate an independent. In the Third ward Alderman Hector had a walk-away, as did Joseph Shartel in the Fourth.

Probably the most spirited contest was that in the Fifth, where Alderman MacDonell's candidacy for re-election was opposed by Republican and Public Ownership aspirants. Mr. Wing, the Republican, was picked by many to win, but the incumbent landed safely with a comfortable margin. In the Sixth Alderman Hoar disposed of his two opponents without much difficulty and in the Seventh Mr. Gibson had no great difficulty in landing the seat vacated by Alderman Lucien Merritt.

There were four candidates in the Eighth and the vote was pretty thoroughly split up, with the result that Former Alderman Sang went down to defeat at the hands of Otto Krueger, the Republican candidate, who will succeed Alderman Getchell.

J. B. Flack encountered little opposition for re-election as justice of the peace for West Duluth.

large audience clamored for more.

The feats of strength by Charles Harold were truly wonderful. He juggled heavy weights around as easily, seemingly, as though they were mere playthings. Lying on his back he sustained a 180-pound weight on each foot and at the same time raised a dumb bell weighing 140 pounds with a man of ordinary size on each end.

The most exciting feature of the evening's entertainment was the volley ball game between the noon and the 4:30 classes. The noon class finally won out by winning two out of the three games played. Julius Barnes and M. F. Jamar, Jr., were the stars.

The next "pop" will be given on St. Valentine's evening.

BIG CROWD AT TUESDAY "POP"

Y. M. C. A. Athletes Entertain With Program of Unusual Merit.

The Y. M. C. A. entertained a large crowd last night when the first Tuesday evening "pop" was given. These "pops" or entertainment nights have been changed from Saturday to Tuesday nights and the crowd was even larger than some that have gathered on the last day of the week.

The program was an excellent one. It included music by a large orchestra from the Flaaten Conservatory of Music under the direction of Gustave Flaaten, feats of strength by trained athletes, gymnasium games, vocal selections and readings.

Between six and seven hundred people thoroughly enjoyed the program from the opening selection by the orchestra until the last stunt was over.

Miss Gladys Reynolds sang in place of George Suffel, who was ill and unable to be present. Miss Reynolds was in excellent voice and was forced to respond to several encores. Miss Elizabeth Donovan read the "Soul of the Violin" and did it so well that the WOMAN'S REALM.

A number of measures of importance to the laboring people and especially women will come up at a meeting of the Minnesota branch of the American Association of Labor Legislation, which will be held tomorrow at St. Paul. A bill to establish industrial boards for the protection of wage earning women and minors will be discussed as will the subject of enactment of laws limiting women's working hours and another bill to be submitted to the legislature, requiring medical practitioners to report to the commissioner of labor all cases of poisoning from lead, phosphorous, arsenic or mercury or their compounds, or other "occupational diseases."

The first bill mentioned, that of establishing industrial boards takes up the matter of establishing one or more industrial boards for any trade, or branch of work in a trade, employing women or minors. These boards would be made up of representatives of the employers, an equal number of workers with at least 25 per cent of the total membership women, and a certain percentage of members at large. The duties of such a board will be the fixing of minimum wages for time work or piece work of women or minors and "shall not fix rates of wages arbitrarily, but shall always fix them at such a level as will safeguard, to a reasonable degree, the health, morals and general welfare of the workers affected, and, therefore, the health, morals, and welfare of the public. Specifically, such rates of wages shall, so far as practicable, be fixed at a level which will enable the workers affected to procure a reasonable minimum of food, clothing, and shelter, to maintain themselves in normal health and working efficiency, and to obtain those general conditions of living which are practically necessary for right moral life."

The bill also includes a provision that the industrial boards may establish district industrial committees of which at least one member of the board must be a member, to work in their respective districts.

The passage of this bill, it is believed, would be a great help to the women and children workers, and Duluth women are much interested in it.

The other act, which would require medical practitioners to report cases of "industrial poisoning" to the commissioner of labor if those cases were contracted as a result of the nature of the patient's employment, and providing a penalty for the failure to so report, is one which is intended to bring about improved conditions for the working people.

The American Association of Labor Legislation has branch associations in every state in the Union and the object is to get uniform legislation.

In the work on the shorter hours' problem for women the bills have not been drawn up for presentation to the legislature but the immediate goal of the association contains the following clauses:

"A working week of six days; not more than sixty hours, preferably forty-six, forty-four or forty-eight.

"Abolition of night work.

"A closing hour set at 6 p. m. in the textile industries and not later than 10 p. m. in others, following the precedent of Massachusetts.

"A working day of ten hours, preferably not more than nine or eight.

"A short working day on Saturday, if provided, should not depend upon longer hours on other working days.

"Working hours to be posted where the persons named in the notice actually do work, not in remote corners; posted notice to show hours of begining and end hours for stopping in the afternoon; presence on premises to constitute prima facie evidence of employment.

"The words 'permitted or suffered to work' are indispensible in addition to 'required' in the prohibiting sections.

"No industries should be exempted in the text of the bill.

"The title should state that the measure is to promote the public health (or the health of the employes designated) and must contain every subject mentioned in the act. (The statute of Nebraska is attacked because its title is defective.)"

Mrs. Glyn Will Set the World Right In New Book

Mrs. Elinor Glyn has recently returned to New York from Europe and the following is an extract from an interview given in the New York Sun of recent issue:

"We have with us again, as the toastmasters say, Mrs. Elinor Glyn, author of 'Three ——,' but what's the use of digging that up? Mrs. Glyn herself doesn't care to talk about the book except to the select few that really understand her soul vibrations. The world misunderstood her, Mrs. Glyn says, because the world, or a good part of it, is so self-conscious that it is hypocritical.

"She is tired of being misunderstood, and she is going to tell the world in a series of essays what she thinks of it. That is her purpose in making her present visit to New York. Mrs. Glyn will arrange with her publishers for a new book to be called 'Seeing the Truth.' It hasn't been written yet, because she hasn't entirely gone over the field of things that need to be set straight. There are a lot of them—religion, literary criticism, social intercourse and frankness between men and women. And the keynote of the whole series of essays will be an arraignment of hypocrisy.

"'One can see, Mrs. Glyn, that you are easily affected by discordant objects,' the reporter interrupted.

"'Dreadfully so,' continued Mrs. Glyn, 'and especially by discordant human beings. They jar me. They consist of so many false ideas. They have such wrong notions of things. They are pitifully self-conscious, which makes them hypocrites. The criticism of the book which gained me some measure of fame was based on hypocrisy. I never imagined that anyone would think I had written it for the sake of sensationalism. To me the story of the queen and her young lover was a tragedy, a terrible one. My soul thrilled with it and I tried, feebly enough, to put down on paper the tremendous feeling of it.

"'When I learned that people are afraid to look at naked human emotions and attempt to hide behind a stiff self-consciousness it set me thinking. The result of my thoughts will be a new book, not fiction this time, but a series of philosophical essays. I am going to set things straight if I can. I am in New York to arrange for the publication of the book. I don't even know who will publish it.'"

Too Late

By VIRGINIA HARLAN.

Those two words stand for more pain, regret and sorrow in life than any others. Every one, at some time or other, has had good and regretable cause for uttering them. We have all said them, and sometimes with the dull, helpless despair that comes with a knowledge of a lack of power to change what might have been.

Perhaps a friend whom we might have helped has passed away. But it is too late now she is beyond human aid. The intention was there to help her, but the matter was allowed to drift. If we had only known what was going to happen, all would have been different, and those helpless, fatal words, "too late," would in that case never have been uttered.

It is the inability to do things at once, while the idea is "red hot," that brings the regretted words of "too late" to the lips. Putting off a good intention that will benefit a friend, deferring the execution of a favor, in short, putting off till tomorrow what can be done today, are some of the things that will bring home to one the true tragedy of Being Too Late.

Is it worth while to break the chains of a great love, or a dear friendship, just for the sake of postponing the help promised or to defer the making up of a quarrel, just because we allow the matter to drift, because we have neither the courage nor inclination to act at once? Often enough we allow the matter to slide, and, in the end, when, with a desperate effort, we wish to make amends, we frequently discover that it is too late; the opportunity for helping or doing a good turn has gone. The girl who wishes to be really unselfish and of use to those who seek her help will make a point of being prompt in all her undertakings, not only for her friends, but for those

Who Are Near and Very Dear to Her

There are the endless little things that might be done for the dear ones at home, but, for some inexplicable reason, you allow to be forgotten. The relief for the tired parents, the sympathy for the children, and the loving kindness that you feel but have not the time to show—do not forget them. It may be too late!

Let every girl soften her words, hasty words, by a sincere apology. Let her meet half way the one who is waiting to come back to her, and let her try to live as if today were her last day.

Hints for the Boudoir

By MILDRED WYCKOFF.

Homemade Cold Cream.

To make sure of getting a cold cream in which there are no animal oils many women like to prepare it themselves.

They often fail to get results from a good recipe by not understanding the art of compounding. All cold creams are made in the same way. The fatty substances are put in a saucepan and melted, stirring constantly. When all are melted turn out in a bowl and again stir.

The chief trouble is when adding the extracts and astringents, which must be added gradually when the fatty base is partially cold. Add first any perfumed waters, drop by drop, beating constantly with a silver fork; then all tinctures or extracts last of all. They go in drop by drop also.

A flat wire egg beater can be used successfully when a large amount of the mixture is being made up.

Here is a recipe that can always be used. Eight tablespoonfuls each of almond oil and rose water, two tablespoonfuls each of white wax and spermacetti, a teaspoonful of tincture of benzoin.

Melt the oil, then add the wax and spermaceti; when nearly cold from beating, add the rose water, drop by drop, and then the benzoin.

The Skin in Cold Weather.

Rough winds are bound to affect even the most enduring of skins, and if the complexion is allowed to get red and coarse at this time of year, winter is pretty sure to make it worse. Now is the time to use a good cream and do away with soap, putting a little fine oatmeal into the water to take its place. A simple toilet cream may be made as follows: Put two ounces best white wax and one-quarter ounce of spermaceti into a jam jar. Place this in a saucepan of water over a slow fire and stir until all the wax has melted down. Then add in small quantities, stirring all the time, two ounces of rose water. When cold put into a jar and cover securely. A little of this rubbed into the skin at night after the face has been bathed in hot water will effectually cure or prevent any redness or roughness due to the weather.

Wavy Hair.

"Will you please tell me of something to make my hair wave? I do not care to use curling pins," says A. R.

It is impossible to give the hair a natural wave, but if you moisten your hair with water in which a little powdered borax has been dissolved, and then put it in kid wavers, you will find that it will retain the wave for some days.

There was another divorce and since that time Mrs. Hill has divided her time between New York and Europe.

THE EVENING STORY

NO OTHER WAY

By Jay Stamford.

One of the chance meetings that came so often—oftener than ever lately—and which neither of them cared to explain—had come that afternoon. They had met at a fashionable crush at a friend's house, where she had gone in the secret hope of seeing him, and he had put aside more than one piece of important business for the same reason. The distance to her own house was short, and he had offered to accompany her, and she had accepted gladly. He was her friend, the only one in the world that she called by that name openly—in her heart he had come to bear another.

She was conscious that his gaze seldom left her face as he walked beside her, and though she seldom met his eyes, she felt the passion in them that stirred her nature to its depths. But when he asked quietly if he might go with her for a few minutes, as he had something to say to her, she looked up at him and knew what was coming.

She led the way up silently to the little drawing-room that he had so seldom entered, and which, with its dainty neatness and abundance of flowers, seemed a fitting background for the graceful, auburn-haired woman. The elderly cousin who lived with her was absent. There was no putting off of the inevitable.

"We will have some tea. Martha, bring it in immediately! You will have a cup?" turning to Romilly.

When the tea came she poured it, still talking lightly for the man had become silent now. Her heart was hammering in her bosom, and, when the door had closed on the maid, her tongue failed her and she grew dumb.

Romilly came and sat down on the sofa beside her.

"Cicely, how long are we to go on like this?"

"Like this?"

"You know that I love you, dear; it does not need words to tell you that, though I would have told you months ago if your eyes had not forbade me. But those eyes, though they have held me back, have told me that you love me Cicely!"

"You must not—oh, surely you know that you must not say this to me? You forget my position! It is not honorable!"

"Honorable, Cicely?"

"I am not free to listen to you! she said, agitatedly.

"But free enough to let me love you!" he said. And she shrank beneath the reproach in his voice, and paled to the lips. It was so true.

"I was so lonely," she faltered. "Your friendship has been the bright spot of my life."

"Don't quibble—for God's sake, don't quibble, Cicely!" he said, almost roughly. He took her slender wrists in his strong grasp and looked into her eyes. "Call it by its rightful name—love. It has been love from the first day, and you know it."

"Yes, I know it," she answered quietly.

"And what are you going to do, dear?"

"What can I do," she said, in a low, intense voice, "but let you go."

"Cicely, do you mean this? You are no school girl. You are a woman with a woman's thoughts and experience. Do you think that our love could drift on indefinitely under the name of friendship? I am a human being, Cicely. I am a man and want a man's rights. I want my wife—I want my home with the woman I love to make it home. Are you going to keep me out of this forever?"

"What can I do? I am Richard's wife still. While he lives I am bound to him."

"His wife? Cicely! Can you still give yourself that name? Separated from him for five years, caring nothing for him, and he nothing for you, and you think of his honor!"

"I'm thinking of my own. I'm tied to him, Dane. I can't get free—I can't get free."

"And you are resigned to this? I have skirted the outside of your life but never entered into its heart. You submit yourself meekly to that infamous law that links you to a man as a boy ties a string to the leg of a bird. You will never come together again—you never wish to see each other. And yet you are to live on, tied to a man who is practically dead to you! It is monstrous!"

"It is the law of the land."

"Break it, Cicely."

"Only death or dishonor can do that," she said, sadly, "and death before dishonor. Dear, don't make it harder for me. I know how deep has been my sin now in letting you care for me. I have acted wickedly?"

"Cicely, I want you—my whole being is crying out for you. Am I to go on living my empty life alone while you live consecrated to a union that is a desecration of the word marriage?"

"There is no other way."

He felt her hands quivering in his—her tortured eyes were lifted to his with a strange light in them—as might Joan of Arc have looked as they bound her slight body to the stake.

"Yes, there is, dear! If your marriage was annulled you could be my wife?"

"Yes! But our marriage can never be annulled. However, unhappy our life was together, unfaithfulness on either side played no part, therefore, the law could not help us. A man may kill a woman's heart and make her life a hell; but that cannot free her. Some day this wrong may be righted."

"Take it into your own hands, Cicely. Compel Vamsittart to give you your freedom. Give yourself to me—be my honored, cherished wife until the law gives you to me in reality."

She pulled away from him with a low cry of horror.

"You say this? My God! Is this what you think of me?"

"I think of you, Cicely, as the best and purest woman that ever walked this earth. I have loved you—worshipped you for two years, and I have schooled myself to keep silent till now. I am holding your dear hands in mine, and your lips are tempting me, but I won't touch them—I will take nothing that you will not give me—freely. Come to me, Cicely! You are my mate, my life is empty and lonely without you, and yours is incomplete without mine. Come to me, dear?"

His voice thrilled her, but she held away from him still. Her eyes, blue as the violets on her breast, filled with tears, which slowly rolled down her pale cheeks. The sight tortured him.

"Dear," he said, pityingly.

"I can't, Dane; I can't."

"Is the sacrifice too great? Is it too high a price to pay, love? Cicely, morally you are my wife. If you were living with Vanstittart, or there would be any chance of your coming together again, it would be a different matter. Are you going to condemn yourself and me to utter loneliness, or are we to live our free full lives together?"

She sat dumb looking into his face. There was resolution in the compression of his handsome mouth, but in his dark eyes was an infinite gentleness and pleading.

"I'm going to Dresden on Saturday, Cicely. I shall be away for two months. Must I go alone, or will you brave the world and take the first step for freedom?"

"I—cannot!"

He stooped down and kissed her cold hands twice. Then he looked long into her eyes.

"Love, if you change your mind, write to me. If I must never see you again you will always be to me the one woman in the world."

She hardly realized that he had really left her until she heard the closing of the outer door. The door had closed also on the happiness he had brought into her lonely and sunless life.

She had married before she was 20. It had been a marriage of convenience arranged by her guardian, and it had proved to be one of those alliances that bring misery and opprobrium upon the tie between men and women. The husband a man of literary distinction, and of a cold, selfish, and cruel nature—made no secret of the fact that he considered his marriage a mistake. The girl-wife had also arrived at the same conclusion; but there was no getting free—they were bound to make the best of it. Then followed six years of misery and unhappiness. Until at last the woman, stung into open revolt, and in defiance of her friends, sought a separation.

She rose to her feet and paced the room.

All the woman in her was clamoring for the natural rights of womanhood for love — love of husband and children and home. All these had been denied her hitherto. She had been condemned to the life of a prisoner fettered to a stone. Unless—unless—she clenched her hands. Unless she swept aside the barrier by her own act, and claimed her freedom! Dare she? Dare she?

She leaned her hot brow against the cold glass of the window.

It had commenced to rain. The quiet street was dark and desolate. But on the other side a larger window sent its warm, uncurtained light outward. To the lonely woman standing there that rosy inviting light seemed symbolic. Across the dark abiss of the world's censur love, happiness and freedom stand with outstretched arms.

Late that night her note was brought to Dane Romilly.

"I will go with you Saturday. My life, my love, and my honor are in your hands."

And where she had signed her name he saw the sign of a tear.

And all reverently he put his lips to this evidence of a woman's struggle.

It was the only way—right or wrong—it was the only way.

Fads of Fashions

If you have narrow bands of fur, why not edge the lace bow for your evening hat?

Blue is tremendously popular in all its shades, but the smartest is the vivid canary blue.

A butterfly form of satin or velvet, or of both, is placed on many velvet turbans.

For a white gown comes the cerise satin girdle, with its cut and shaped flowered rosette.

Beads, especially the small porcelain beads, are used on everything from cotton crepe blouses to satin evening dresses.

The very intense blues, greens and purples have a tendency to deaden a white skin so that its pallor becomes almost ghastly.

Afternoon gowns are neither long nor short and they are an even length all the way around.

Persian effects have made their appearance in the form of colored chenille dots in black veilings.

In evening gowns the sleeves are very short, indeed, and some dresses are practically sleeveless.

A new note in trimming, which is exceedingly simple and yet giving an oriental tone of color to the clothes, is the use of curious old disks and old gold and silver ornaments.

TRY THIS FOR KIDNEYS

The following simple prescription for weak or deranged kidneys or bladder has been published in this paper before and hundreds have been benefited. Half ounce murax compound, half ounce fluid extract buchu, six ounces good pure gin. Take one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bedtime. Any good druggist can fill this prescription or furnish the ingredients. It is easily mixed. This should be taken at first sign of trouble to avoid serious kidney or bladder disease.

IT'S YOUR NERVES!

That cause your sickness. There is a pressure on one or more of them that gives you pain in the kidneys, the liver, the stomach, etc. Remove the pressure on the nerves leading to these organs and you will get well without the use of drugs or operations. NINETEETH VOTE WITHOUT RESULTS

Caucus of New York Democrats Fails to Accomplish Anything.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 8.—Another fruitless ballot for United States senator was taken by the legislature today, after the Democratic members, regulars and insurgents, had spent over two hours in a conference called in the hope of finding some means of breaking the deadlock.

There was talk prior to the conference of concessions from each side, but the insurgents, rank and file, did not hesitate to say that no relief was in sight so long as William F. Sheehan remained a candidate. "If," they say, "Mr. Sheehan would agree to withdraw, the chances are we could all get together on some man acceptable to the entire party membership, both in the legislature and in the state at large. Such an agreement probably could be reached today—certainly by tomorrow.

"Mr. Murphy and Mr. Sheehan hold the key to the situation. Obviously they, although controlling the majority, cannot elect a senator without our aid; and it is just as true that we will not help to elect Mr. Sheehan."

The conference failed to change a single vote, the nineteenth joint ballot resulting as follows:

Democrats—Sheehan, 86; Shepard, 10; Kernan, 9; Glynn, 3; Littleton, 3; O'Brien, 2; Parker, 1; Sulzer, 1; Taylor, 1.

Republicans—Depew, 80.

Total vote cast, 196; necessary for choice, 99.

The situation apparently has not changed an iota since yesterday.

The conference adjourned shortly after noon, subject to the call of the chair.

ST. CHAD'S WELL REDISCOVERED.

London Daily News: Another interesting link with the past is brought to light by the recent discovery of the exact spot where lies St. Chad's Well, once a famous chalybeate spring in King's Cross. In the eighteenth century people came here to drink the waters, which were supposed to be especially useful in cases of dropsy, scrofula and liver complaints. Gradually like all such fashionable spas, St. Chad's was deserted, and residential houses, then warehouses, were erected on the site of the well.

A few days ago the builders in laying the foundations for a new structure in Gray's Inn road discovered an arch twenty feet underground, and this has been identified as forming part of the old well. From the arch to a spot thirty yards away stretched the waters once famous for their medicinal properties. It has been ascertained that the spring still exists, and it would be decidedly worth while to have the water analyzed and find whether it still retains its pristine virtues.

I Give Men This Vitality of Youth

Vitality is the thing which makes success, it gives men that compelling power which sends them forth eager and equipped to meet and overcome all obstacles; it is the thing which gives the young soldier courage to face death; it is the thing which inspires and holds his sweetheart's love and faith. No matter what your age, I can give you this same vital power, I can restore the vigor you lost, no matter what early or later indiscretion may have sapped your strength; I can make you "young" and keep you "young." From an intimate and studious observation of possibly 100,000 weakened men, I say to you that VITALITY or the lack of it means all the difference between a manly man and a half man. The man who bubbles with vital power will exert a pleasing influence upon all with whom he comes in contact; women are naturally attracted to him, as are men. Lack of vitality is a negative condition, and it even repels. You wear my HEALTH BELT all night; it sends a great glowing, health-giving curent of electro-vitality into your nerves, blood and organs; it takes all the "kink" out of your back and all the coward out of your make-up; it puts you right up in the "feeling fine" class, and keeps you there. No stimulation, no false results; just a sure return to manhood and courage. The special electro-vital suspensory, free with each Belt, carries the current to the parts needing it. Recommended also for rheumatism, pain in the back, kidney, liver, stomach and bladder disorders, it makes you feel young and keeps you feeling young forever.

Let Me Send You This Book FREE.

It fully describes my Health Belt, and contains much valuable information. One part deals with various ailments common to both men and women, such as rheumatism, kidney, liver, stomach, bladder disorders, etc. The other part is a private treatise for men only. Both sent upon application, free, sealed by mail.

If in or near this city, take the time to drop in at my office, that you may see, examine and try the Belt. No charge for professional advice, either at my office or by mail. If you cannot call, fill in the coupon and get the free book by return mail. It is better than a fortune for any one needing new vigor. Hours 9 to 6; Sundays, 10 to 1.

SLOGANS IN BIG BUNCHES

Some Contestants Stretch 'Em Altogether Too Enthusiastically.

Wide Range of Suggestions Coming From an Extended Territory.

Slogans, slogans, slogans.

All manner and kind of slogans, from many different places, are coming in to the slogan editor.

It happens, however, that many of those who suggest slogans have failed to acquaint themselves with the conditions, which are simple.

To make it all clear, let's restate the object of this slogan contest:

The publicity committee of the Duluth Commercial club has made a tentative suggestion that a great electric sign be built on the hillside or hilltop. Spelled out in electric lights, it is proposed to have a word or a phrase that will serve as a message and a greeting to visitors to Duluth, who come by train and by boat. Because of the great number of lights which will be needed to construct such a sign it is necessary to restrict the length of the slogan. The limit has been placed at fifteen letters. The Herald offers a prize of $10 to the person whose suggestion of a slogan is accepted.

Several of those who have submitted slogan suggestions have written sentences containing as many as fifteen words. Obviously it will be impossible to construct a monster electric sign such as is contemplated and use all those letters. Another correspondent sends a poem to be set in electric lights.

It is advisable for readers of The Herald who desire to enter the contest to look over the list of suggestions already published.

WEDDED AS PER ARRANGEMENTS

Decies-Gould Affair Proved Successful in Every Way.

New York, Feb. 8.—Helen Vivien, second daughter of George J. Gould, head of one of the wealthiest and most prominent families in America, was married at St. Bartholomew's Episcopal church in Madison avenue shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon to Lord Decies, an English army officer. She is 18 years old, he is 44.

The church was packed with a brilliant assemblage representing New York's social and professional life together with a sprinkling of foreign nobility, relatives of the bridegroom.

The ceremony was performed by Bishop David H. Greer of the Episcopal diocese of New York and the Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks, rector of St. Bartholomew's. George Gould gave his daughter away and Miss Edith Gould, the bride's next oldest sister, was maid of honor. Lord Alastair Graham, R. N., a son of the duke of Montrose, was best man.

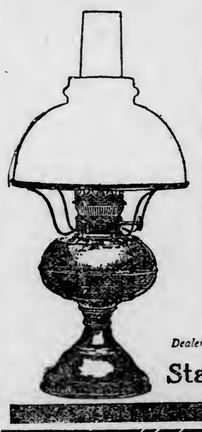

The guests began to assemble more than an hour before the wedding. A few were admitted, but through a hitch in the arrangements, more than 100 shivered outside the church doors on the sidewalk for a quarter of an hour. At 3:12 Lord Decies arrived, nearly an hour before his bride's car stopped at the curb.

He was resplendent in his uniform of the Seventh Hussars, aglitter with service medals and blue and gold braid. Patent leather boots glistened on his feet, he carried a plumed helmet in the crook of his arm, and wore a sabre.

A cheer went up as George Gould and his daughter stepped from a big limousine and entered the church, and as they did so, the first sunshine of the day peered forth. A moment later the notes of the wedding march sounded. This was at 4:13 o'clock and Lord Decies and his best man appeared at the chancel. The six bridesmaids, carrying lilies of the valley, led the bridal party. They were followed by the little attendants, Baby Gloria Gould with Master William Beresford, and Diana Dalzell with Master Marcus Beresford. Miss Edith Gould, as maid of honor, came next, immediately preceding the bride and her father. The ceremony was over in twenty-three minutes, and Lord and Lady Decies posed for a moment for a battery of cameras before their car whisked them away to the reception at the Gould mansion on Fifth avenue.

The Famous Rayo
Gives the Best Light at Any Price

When you pay more than the Rayo price for a lamp, you are paying for extra decorations that cannot add to the quality of the light. You can't pay for a better light, because there is none. An oil light has the least effect on the human eye, and the Rayo Lamp is the best oil lamp made, though low in price. You can pay $5, $10, or $20 for some other lamp, and although you get a more costly lamp, you can't get a better light than the white, mellow, diffused, unflickering light of the low-priced Rayo.

TIMOTHY HAY SUPPLIES LOW

Duluth Shippers Sending Upland Hay to Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Duluth hay shippers are sending upland hay to consumers in Wisconsin and Minnesota, seventy-five to 125 miles from here, in a region that usually is one of the biggest timothy producers in the Northwest and which ships many tons of that commodity to the Head of the Lakes in a normal year.

The supply of timothy hay has been almost depleted. The crop was under normal on account of the drouth last summer. The wild hay crop of the northern part of the state was large after the fall rains, although the spring crop was not up to expectations. This wild or upland hay is being sent to the Duluth hay market more freely than ever before.

Receipts of hay were small for two or three weeks until recently, when supplies have been coming in more plentifully. The market has been remarkably steady, values showing little change as the season advances.

SENATOR CLAPP PAIRED.

Explains He Was Opposed to Ship Subsidy Bill.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Senator Moses E. Clapp has returned from Columbus, Ohio, where he delivered an address before the Corn Producers' association. On having his attention called to newspaper reports that he was absent and unpaired when the ship subsidy bill was passed by the senate by the deciding vote of Vice President Sherman, Senator Clapp said:

"No such statement is true and there is no semblance of truth in it. The fact is that I was paired with Senator Sutherland of Utah, and announcement to that effect was made on the floor by Senator Smoot, colleague of Mr. Sutherland. If I had been present I would have voted against the bill. Sutherland would have voted for it."

MAN WHO ROBBED RECTOR'S ARRESTED.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—Charles Willard, 50 years old, was arrested late yesterday by police after he had been traced to a South side hotel by a detective, and had been identified, according to the police, as the robber who held up Rector's restaurant last Sunday and escaped with $3,494. The identification is said to have been made by Cashier Adams, who was forced by the thief to stand by and watch the robber loot the safe.

CRANK OFFERS BARON "THE ELIXIR OF LIFE."

Paris, Feb. 7.—Instead of the usual death threat Baron de Rothschild on Monday received a letter from a crank wishing to sell him "the elixir of life," by which he might live as long as he wished.

Rothschild, called "the Rockefeller of Europe," replied as follows:

"Dear Sir: To date I have had only threats against my life; you are the first to offer me life everlasting. Between those who wish to cut my days short and those who wish to prolong them, I have no preference. The one eventually is as bad as the other."

I am scarcely ever without it in the house.

No Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn or Headache Five Minutes Later.
The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia or out-of-order Stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking some Diapepsin.
If your Stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work, not with drastic drugs, but a re-enforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach.
People with weak Stomachs should take a little Diapepsin occasionally, and there will be no more Indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, Sour risings, Gas on Stomach or Belching of undigested food, Headaches, Dizziness or Sick Stomach, and, besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour, out-of-order stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved in five minutes after taking a little Diapepsin.
Go to your druggist and get a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin now, and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. They freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.

NEW LEAGUE IS PLANNED

Semi-Professional Organization May Invade American Association Territory.

Teams for Duluth, Superior, Twin Cities and Range Towns.

Plans are under way for the organization of a six or eight-team semi-professional baseball league that will include Duluth, Superior, St. Paul and Minneapolis, and two of the range towns. A prominent baseball man here is negotiating with Walter Wilmot in Minneapolis, who may take charge of the team in that city, while Charles Griffin is the man who will probably have charge of the St. Paul team.

If the league goes through it is planned to apply for protection under the semi-professional standing, as the Chicago semi-professional league plays in Chicago and the Lake Shore league plays in Milwaukee, and under these regulations the professional teams will be obliged to leave the players of the semi-professional teams alone.

Detailed plans for the organization of the league have not been completed as yet, but have gone far enough to cause the men behind the scheme to believe that they will materialize. Down in St. Paul and Minneapolis negotiations are being carried on for playing grounds, and if these negotiations are successful further steps in the organization of the league will be taken.

The fastest semi-professional players of this city and of the range towns will be signed. Negotiations will be entered into with Virginia and Hibbing, as semi-professional ball has always been well patronized in the two range towns and it is believed that if Virginia and Hibbing were in a league with the two cities at the Head of the Lakes and St. Paul and Minneapolis, baseball would be placed on a very profitable basis.

While, according to local announcement yesterday, there was still some chance for the present franchise holders of the Duluth and Superior teams to break into St. Paul and Minneapolis, as one of the American association cities had come over favorable to the idea of letting the minors into the A. A. territory, little stock is taken in the report among the close followers of the politics in the American association.

However, it is believed that there is nothing to keep the semi-professional league but of the twin cities, and if plans progress in the future as they have in the past, the scheme may become a reality.

"BROOKLYN TERROR" IS FIGHTING LAST BATTLE

TERRY McGOVERN

Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 8.—Terry McGovern, once king of the featherweights, is fighting what may be his last great battle. The "Brooklyn Terror" is confined to his room in a local hotel and although John Cullen, who brought him here, refuses to say what the nature of his ailment is, he admits the fighter to be in a critical condition.

No one is permitted to see the sick fighter. He was brought here last Friday by Cullen.

FIELD MEETS TO BE HELD IN MAY

North Dakota High School Athletes to Compete at Grand Forks.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—May 19 and 20 are the dates for the ninth annual field meet for the students of the high schools of North Dakota and the big event will be held as usual on University field in this city under the control of the University Athletic association. The preliminaries will be held on Friday and the finals on Saturday and in a few days entry blanks and conditions will be sent to all eligible high schools in the state.

The interest and enthusiasm in the interscholastic championships have steadily increased and, with the assistance and co-operation that is already promised from schools that have never before entered teams, the meet this year will surpass all previous contests. To add to the interest of the meet it has been decided to have a half-mile race and to permit schools to send seven contestants exclusive of the relay team. It is also hoped that the meet will be the opening of the new university athletic field on which work will be begun as soon as the weather permits.

The university furnishes board and lodging from Thursday supper to Sunday breakfast inclusive for all teams and their coach. Gold, silver and bronze medals and ribbon badges will be given to the winners of first, second, third and fourth places, respectively and a banner will be given to the school winning the greatest number of points based upon the number of male students enrolled in the high school during the year.

WILLIE LEWIS IS KNOCKED OUT

Frank Klaus Puts Away His Lighter Opponent in Sixth Round.

New York, Feb. 8.—Frank Klaus of Pittsburg knocked out Willie Lewis of New York in the sixth round of what was scheduled to be a 10-round bout at the Fairmont Athletic club last night.

In the first round the Pittsburger sent Lewis to the mat for the count of nine. Only the bell saved Lewis in the fifth, and in the sixth he went down twice hard from swings to the jaw. After rising the second time, he dropped to the floor without being struck and was unable to rise.

Klaus was the heavier of the two middleweights.

CRACK TEAMS WILL PLAY FOR CHAMPIONSHIP.

Next Tuesday evening the Adams and Company A team will fight out the indoor baseball championship. Two games have been played between these two teams, the militia boys winning the first contest and the boys of the West end club capturing the second contest. Interest in the question of supremacy is at fever heat and the coming contest should excite a great deal of enthusiasm.

Company A has secured games with Ashland and Chisholm. These contests will be played here and later in the season the militia boys will play return games with the two teams. In the event of the militia players winning the third game next Tuesday evening, they will go out after the Northwestern indoor baseball championship.

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

Tom Butler Read His Own Obituary — Westergaard and the Typewriter — Young Miller's Match With Jap — Hockey as Played in City League.

(BY BRUCE.)

Mark Twain once made the sides of the country heave humorously with the remark that the reports of his death were greatly exaggerated. One of the greatest athletes in the world, Tom Butler, cheery Thomas, who was with us for a few days last week, read the glaring account of his own death a few years back, and had the pleasure of making the press association deny the report, after he had wired his mother that he was able to be around.

Thomas is one of the nerviest men who ever threw his leg over a wheel. Down in the Southland he was doing one of these leap the gap stunts, where a man is killed every so often. When you go down one of these loop the loop with death machines, you might as well shut you eyes and pray that you will land at the bottom of the pullup on the right side of your wheel.

This night the wind was blowing a holy streak and little Tom, who is not very much bigger than a large sized doll, was blown off the runway and hit on his head on some lumber. He hit with so much momentum that he broke a two-by-four with his Boston bean, which means head, and you know Tom is from Boston.

Mrs. Butler was told that Tom was dying. She was also told to go on and perform her act to quiet the crowd. A newspaper man was on hand and asked how Butler was. One of the attending doctors stated that he hadn't a chance to live, as he was bleeding internally. The reporter flashed the information and the result was the story of Tom Butler's sensational death in every paper in the country carrying a news service wire.

In a week the Butler boy was out. He was terribly injured and only the fact that he possessed the wonderful vitality that makes champions saved him from death. He called on the reporter who gave forth the news of the death of the bicycle rider and mildly cautioned that young man not to be so impulsive in the future.

What's more, some one asked Tom if he would ever try to loop the gap again, and he replied that he would be ready to do the old stunt in about a week.

He Hit Too Many Keys, Did Jess.

Not so very long ago Chris Person of this city received a type written letter from Jess Westergaard, the big Iowa Swede, and one of the greatest wrestlers in the world at the present time. In the epistle big Jess stated that he had learned to write on the typewriter, and that he was progressing very nicely, but for one impediment that held a horny hand against the goal of rapid writing.

"My fingers are so big," wrote Jess, "that when I mean to hit one key I hit two instead."

Aside from that little objection Chris states that Jess has hopes that when the time endeth his wrestling days he can land a job in some foundary or something of the sort, where the noise would be too hard on the delicate nerves of some sweet young thing, writing out orders on some specially oonstructed machine.

Where the Bite Stingeth.

They are beginning to realize in the Saintly city of St. Paul that they have made a mistake in matching Miller with the Jap who was beaten in two straight falls by the little star of this city, husky Sailor Jack, who has courage to recommend him, if not a high class title.

There are a lot of people who really and honestly believe that the Sailor will beat the St. Paul man. Jack is stronger than Miller ever thought of being and he has more grit and endurance. The man never walked that scared the sailor in the least, and that same statement can not be made in favor of the man from St. Paul.

Miller is a great little wrestler, but there are a lot of people who have the past year, especially since the quick defeat of the Jap, switched their opinion to the Duluth strong boy. He may not possess the science of Miller, but those who watched Miller try to beat Sutter in this city and also observed that Sutter carried all the fight to the man who was at that time calling h'mself the champion of the world, figure that the local boy has the best chance to beat Miller—if they ever wrestle. Miller's chances are very good to retain his crown, light as it is, for he isn't looking for hard matches.

Observations on City League Hockey.

The Duluth City Hockey league is doing a great work for hockey in this city. It is creating an interest in the game among spectators and prospective players. It is developing some great players for the team that is representing Duluth in outside competition now and teams that will represent this city in the future. It is bringing a sport that should stand pre-eminent among winter sports in this city closer to that position every year and is deserving of the patronage of the public. Handicapped as they are by the lack of an enclosed rink with its many advantages for players and spectators, the boys are sticking gamely to the sport and when a large enclosed rink is erected, they will be ready to come into their own.

The brand of hockey played by the Duluth boys is good and compares favorably with the sport as played by amateur organizations of the kind in other winter sport centers. Duluth has never been the hockey center it should have been. It has never seen the great stars of the game. It never had imported stars playing the game here. All of the boys are home products, who have picked up the game as best they could without the benefit of expert instruction and the wonder is that they have learned the game as well as they have and are able to compete with teams made up of men who are either experts themselves or have had the benefit of expert instruction. They are holding up their end well in the hockey world and when Duluth is called upon to put a team in a national or international league, the team will be a real Duluth team, made up of Duluth boys, developed as hockey players in the open air rinks of the city.

There are two points on which the captains of the city league teams should instruct their players. One is the futility of "loafing;" the other is the awkward appearance and the danger existing in swinging the stick above the head.

Team play is the great thing in hockey. The game can be exciting enough without team play, individual dashes are always exciting, but the pretty play is the team play, with every man on his own side of the puck ready to receive a pass from his teammates or to intercept passes between the players of the other side.

The "loafer" may think he can accomplish something for his team by keeping offside and taking a chance on getting the puck on a rebound from one of his opponents, but he doesn't accomplish anything except break up his own team's formation. The opponent he is supposed to check is unchecked; a pass from one of his teammates may go to his opponent. His place is on his own side of the puck and there he can do the most good for his team. If players would stop to consider that fact, if they would stop to consider that team play and not individual effort wins hockey games, there would be less loafing.

Some players forget the rule that they shall keep their sticks below the knees. In turning, they swing their sticks around their heads, or in carrying their sticks they carry them waist high. The stick is not ready for instant use as it should be. Both practices are awkward in appearance and mark the amateur to the knowing spectator. The good hockey player has his stick at all times where it will do the most good—at or near the ice.

Those rough spots will wear off, but the captains should see that they are worn off as soon as possible. Team play is the thing and the captains and coaches should work for team play in every practice and in every game. Keep every man in his position where he can check his opponent. Keep every man on his own side of the puck, where he will be ready to receive and intercept passes. Let the team glory and not the individual glory be the goal of every player and the city league teams will be a credit to themselves and will play hockey that will be a delight to the spectators.

Rough work isn't necessary to hockey. In the heat of the battle sometimes, men nurse personal grievances, play the man instead of the puck and injure the chances of their own team. Knocks and bruises are inevitable in any game of hockey. The man who can disregard them, keep his eye on the puck, reach for the puck when he reaches, take the puck away instead of stopping the man, is playing the kind of hockey that wins games.

DARBY SIGNS NEW PLAYERS

White Sox Leader Has Likely Looking Squad of Candidates.

Darby O'Brien, orator-elect of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league, has sent to Jawn Desmond a list of players as long as a man's arm. Many of the last year players are in the big squad signed by the Industrious Darby and from the material at hand, judging from the glowing recommendations of the Irish Orator, Duluth will be represented by a team somewhat stronger than the aggregation that represented the city last season.

Plans for the training trip have been completed and include games at Marion, Ohio; Sandusky, Ohio; possibly Fort Wayne, Ind.; Wadison, Wis., and a spring series with the Superior club before the opening of the regular season.

Of the old men, Blanche, Holstrom, Hughes, Altermott, Kramer and Cummings will probably be back, though it is very doubtful if Cummings will be seen on the diamond another season. Those in addition to Miller, Downing, Just, Dewell, Isler, Hamm, Smith, Woodburn, Mead, Allen, Selig, Lord, Fisher, Wing, Doar, Chase and Schedren will make up the team candidates.

The men will report at Cleveland as in former seasons, and will go from there to the various cities where the games on the spring training trip will be played.

WILL ENTER PEORIA MEET

"Dick" Schell Will Send D'Autremont, Jr., to Motor Boat Races.

Duluth will probably be represented the coming season at one and perhaps two of the big Western motor boat meets held under the rules and regulations of the Western Power Boat association. Richard Schell has signified his intention of entering the crack d'Autremont, Jr., in at least one of the meets, probably the one at Peoria.

The wonderful Duluth flier has never been tested. It has run away from all the boats in this part of the country with ridiculous ease. At White Bear and Minnetonka the Duluth boat made the crack speeders of those lakes look as if they were dragging heavy anchors along the bottom of the lake.

It was the intention of Mr. Schell to enter his boat in the Peoria meet last year. However, the boat was not trimmed up in time to permit of the shipping. This season there will be ample time to put the speedy craft in the best of condition and have it down at Peoria in plenty of time to learn the course.

There will be three big meets the present season. The first motor boat races will be held at Dubuque and meets at Peoria and Detroit will follow. Mr. Schell may also take in the Detroit meeting, which will be held under the rules of the Great Lakes Power Boat association.

Like many other Duluthians, Mr. Schell is anxious to test the speed of his own boat. There are no boats in the immediate vicinity of Duluth that can make the driver of the d'Autremont open the throttle wide and hence the going abroad to seek new worlds to conquer.

Duluth is naturally immensely proud of the reputation made by the crack Schell flyer and a great deal of interest will be taken not only at the Duluth Boat club, but also among the various friends of the owner of the boat, for in all its victories away from Duluth the colors of the Duluth Boat club have flown at the bow of the d'Autremont, Jr.

RAPID RISE OF AD WOLGAST

Little Champion Has Won Fame and Fortune in Five Years.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—Ad Wolgast, lightweight champion of the world, is probably the most remarkable as well as the most picturesque figure in the boxing game today. Five years ago he was a nonentity in a little Michigan village, struggling along on an apprentice's wages, his family in want. He threw up his job and entered the ring. This is what he has done:

Won the lightweight championship of the world.

Built a home for his mother, father and nine brothers and sisters.

Put $45,000 in the bank.

Bought a 320-acre farm and stocked it.

Built three houses in his native city.

Bought a $5,500 automobile.

Up to five years ago Wolgast had tackled every job on the calendar with little success. He had been a bootblack, a farmer, a baker, a blacksmith, a teamster, a cigar maker and even a head cook in a lumber camp. He was almost a full-fledged cigar-maker, having but three months more of apprenticeship to serve when he threw up his job and took to the boxing game. All this time Wolgast, as he says himself, had been "a crazy bug, just wandering around."

Today Wolgast, only 22, is well off, a prosperous farmer, owner of rich producing land which he personally manages and tills. He raises corn, potatoes and wheat for the market and talks crops as glibly and intelligently as he talks fight. In addition to the products of the ground, he buys and sells livestock and conducts a money-making horse-trading business.

NON-RESERVE CLAUSE IS BAR

National Commission Will Not Deal With Players Having Limited Contracts.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 8.—Baseball players who sign contracts containing a non-reserve clause which is not authorized, can look for no redress from the National baseball commission of any grievance that they may have. Such was the substance of a decision handed down yesterday when the commission refused to consider a claim of Ambrose Puttmann for back salary alleged to be due him from the Peterburg, Va., club.

The commission announced that it would consider no claims for players who have contracts containing non-reserve clauses which have not the approval of the national board of the National Association of Minor Leagues.

'SPIEL STARTS TODAY.

Curlers Start Play in Manitoba Curling Association Events.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 8—The twenty-third annual bonspiel of the Manitoba Curling association starts here today. Curlers are beginning to flock into the city from all directions. At present it looks as though but four American rinks will be in attendance, Sam Hastings and George Orde of Minneapolis, and Bob Dunbar and Lem Deftel from St. Paul being the quartet.

Blizzards have delayed the receipt of entries which closed Saturday night, but on this account any entries received are being accepted. So far nothing has been heard from Duluth, and it is hardly likely a rink will come from the Zenith City. It is said a rink of Dawson City curlers are on the way, but nothing definite in this regard is known. There are several Eastern Ontario rinks entered as well as rinks from Port William, Port Arthur, Kenora and other Western Ontario cities.

SUMMIT HOCKEY TEAM AFTER STRONG EMERSONS.

The Emerson Athletic association hockey team has been organized and will go after all of the hockey teams outside of the city league. The Emersons have already played two games, both resulting in a tie, though the members of the Emerson seven claim they locked practice. The boys believe they have one of the strongest sevens in the city, outside of the regular league, and are open for games with any team.

The Summits, a new team composed of some of the best players in the West end have recently organized and are on the trail of the Emersons. They are especially anxious to meet the other West end aggregation and have placed a challenge to that effect.

The Emersons can get a game at any time by writing to the sporting department of The Herald. The Summits are especially anxious for a game for next Sunday afternoon, and the Emersons can have this date by communicating with the manager of the Summits.

WORLD'S RECORD FOR "DIPS" IS BROKEN.

Brockton, Mass., Feb. 8.—The world's record for "dips" has been broken at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium by Antone Lewis, who lifted himself sixty-seven times, beating the previous record of fifty-eight made by Foster of Cambridge in 1884. Lewis weighs 155 pounds.

PENNSYLVANIA RESTRICTS COLLEGE ATHLETICS.

Philadelphia, Feb. 8.—Graduates of other colleges whether or not they ever participated in college athletics, will not be permitted to represent the University of Pennsylvania in football, baseball, rowing or track athletics, if a recommendation endorsed by the board of directors of the athletic association at a meeting held yesterday is enforced. This is regarded by students at the university as a preliminary step toward limiting the membership on university teams to undergraduates in the college department.

Field Coach Andrew Smith was elected coach of the football team.

CATHOLIC CLUB HOUSE WARMING

New Gymnasium Will Be Opened for Inspection of Public.

The new gymnasium of the Catholic Athletic club will be thrown open to the public this evening. The gym has been completed and all the apparatus installed. Today it presents the finest appearance of any club gymnasium in the Northwest. It is complete in every detail and will provide the members of the club with every facility for the proper development of the body and therefore the mind.

Strong basket ball and indoor baseball teams will be placed in the field in the near future. The indoor baseball team of the Catholic club will meet the team of the Cathedral high school in the near future.

With the coming of summer it is the intention of the club to place a strong baseball team in the running. With a membership of over 200 it is believed that the club will cut a wide swath in the city athletic field.

There will be music and other entertainment this evening. The opening will be in the nature of an introduction to the public and the friends of the club are cordially invited to attend.

CENTRALS LOSE TO SUPERIOR NORMAL

Duluth Boys Outclassed and Get Small End of 34 to 9 Score.

The Superior Normal basket ball team swamped the Duluth Central high school five in the Normal gymnasium last evening, winning by a score of 34 to 9. The Duluth boys never had a chance against the Normal students, throwing but two field baskets. Solheim threw both baskets from the field, while Harris scored the five additional points on fouls.

The Normal five played a brilliant game, the guarding being exceptionally good. Harris, who threw five field goals in the game with the Normal team in Duluth, was unable to register a point from the field last night. The score at the end of the first half was 17 to 3.

The Normal second team won from the Duluth Central second team by a score of 11 to 4.

The lineup of the first teams was:

McLEAN AGAIN SHOWS SKATERS THE WAY.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—Robert McLean again led in the skating races for the Western Indoor championships here last night, winning the half and two-mile titles. In the amateur competition, Herman Leweck in the backward high jump event, made a leap of 3 feet 5¼ inches, 1½ inches better than the previous mark.

BRYANT DEFEATS SCHULTZ AT GRAND RAPIDS.

At Grand Rapids last evening Frank Bryant, champion roller skater of the Head of the Lakes, defeated Frank Schultz of Hibbing, claimant of the championship of the range. According to the dispatch to The Herald, the Duluth boy had little difficulty in winning the race, leading Schultz home by half a lap.

Schultz has asked for a return match and will probably be matched to meet Bryant in this city at a near date.

BOXER IS SERIOUSLY INJURED BY KNOCKOUT.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Feb. 8.—George Denlea of Pittsburg, a lightweight boxer, is in a critical condition at a hospital here as the result of injuries received in a fight with Jake Abel of this city. Denlea crawled from the ring after being knocked out in the fourth round, but collapsed soon afterward and has not regained consciousness.

FRANK GOTCH WINS FROM FRED BEELL.

Des Moines, Iowa, Feb. 8.—Frank Gotch of Humboldt, Iowa, world's champion wrestler, last night defeated Fred Beel of Wisconsin in two straight falls. Both falls were won on a crotch hold and head lock in twenty-six and nine minutes respectively.

GOTCH TELLS HACK AND ZBYSZKO TO WRESTLE.

Sioux City, Iowa, Feb. 8.—Frank Gotch, in an interview yesterday, declared his willingness to wrestle George Hackenschmidt for a purse of $30,000 a side.

"Hackenschmidt never wrestled a good man," said Gotch. "He is not entitled to a match with me. If Hackenschmidt and Zbyszko will get together, I will tackle the winner for the world's championship, winner to take all gate receipts. I will wrestle for any amount of money, or I will wrestle for nothing."

HACK TAKES TWO FALLS FROM ROLLER.

Toronto, Ont., Feb. 8. — George Hackenschmidt, the Russion Lion, defeated Dr. Roller of Seattle in two straight falls here last night. The first fall was secured in one hour and sixteen minutes and the second in thirteen minutes, five seconds.

Hackenschmidt was the aggressor throughout. Dr. Roller had a cold, which interferred with his breathing. He wrestled gamely, evading many difficult holds, but the Russian wore him down.

INTERNATIONAL BALLOON RACE IN OCTOBER.

New York, Feb. 8.—Oct. 9 next was selected by the Aero Club of America yesterday as the date for the next international balloon race to be held in this country as a result of the victory of Messrs. Hawley and Post last year. No action was taken on selecting the point of start. Clubs desiring to enter, must send their challenges on or before March 1, and name their representatives on or before Aug. 9.

Harry Davis Signs.

Philadelphia, Feb. 8.—Harry Davis, who captained and played first base on the world's champion team of the Philadelphia American league club, yesterday signed a contract to play with the same club for the coming season. St. Louis, Cleveland and two other American league teams were endeavoring to secure Captain Davis.

Seattle Man Tells Why the Recall Was Used to Get Rid of Mayor Gill of That City—"Prom. Cit." Fails to Get an Eye-Opener—Texan Talks About Leader of Mexican Rebels—Counting the Strokes While Being Shaved.

man at the Lenox today, discussing the recall of Mayor Hiram C. Gill of the Washington city. "Undoubtedly it is true that the women did it. We have women's suffrage in Washington now, you know, and the women couldn't stand for Gill's game.

"Gill's a good fellow, all right, but he's sure in bad. He has been popular for years among the live-ones who don't fall for the uplift notions, and it has been a common thing to see a midnight cafe crowd jump up and 'holler for Gill when he showed up.

"I believe this action of the people out home will do much to popularize the recall all over the country. Conditions were fierce in Seattle under the Gill regime, gambling houses running openly and in the most flagrant defiance of public sentiment, while dance halls of the worst kind were operated without the slightest attempt to mask their nature. That's what started the recall business—that and the boldness of Gill's friends in whacking up the swag.

"Before he was elected mayor last March, Gill was president of the council. During the recall campaign it was freely charged that he often left the council chamber during a session to get his friends out of jail when they fell into the hands of the police. He's a lawyer. He built up his popularity doing that sort of thing. 'Hi' was liked personally by everybody, even those who can't stand for his clientele and practices.

"He is an exceptionally good campaigner and knows now to fit his promises to the crowd. That's how he was elected. But when he got into office the promises that he stuck to were those he had made to the bunch that is popularly described as being of the underworld. Then the fun began—fun for the bunch, and money in slathers. Graft, hold-ups and vice divvies were the common thing.

"Handbooks flourished, gambling 'clubs' did a big and lucrative business—lucrative for the gang, at least—and the police didn't make one serious move to improve conditions. Those members of the police force who attempted to right the prevailing evils met with opposition which they could not overcome, and resort to the recall was the only course left for the people.

"Gill blamed the newspapers for the fight made on him, but then, they all do that."

There was an election in Duluth yesterday, but not many people would have noticed the fact but for the insistent activities of the candidates and their determination to get their friends to the polls.

A prominent member of an official body would naturally be expected to have knowledge of the holding of an election, but he didn't. When he came down to the lobby from his room at the St. Louis hotel he felt a desire to begin the day pleasantly with an eye-opener. It was about 7 o'clock when he reached the buffet door, which, naturally—it being election day—he found locked.

The seeker after an eye-opener rapped impatiently.

"Wonder what is the matter with these people around here," he grumbled. "It's time they had opened for business now."

"Election day, Colonel," called a friend, and the impatient one regained his equanimity immediately.

Jose Rial, whose home is at Houston, and who was here on a business trip to Winnipeg, talked interestingly last evening at the Spalding about conditions in Mexico. Mr. Rial said he is a native of Texas, and has frequently made business trips in the land of Diaz. He is famaliar with the people of that republic and with their limitations as citizens.

"It does not seem in the slightest degree probable that the revolutionists will be successful in their insurrection," said Mr. Rial. "The government is too strong to be overthrown, unless there is a sudden and very considerable defection of its military strength. That is not likely to come, for the Mexican soldiers have been so long under the stern control of the lieutenants of Diaz that they have lost whatever spirit of initiative they might have possessed.

"The leader of the insurgents is a man of exceptional qualities, however. Francisco I. Madero, self-styled provisional president of the republic of Mexico, is a dreamer and an idealist. A member of a family that has been distinguished in business for generations, he is more a student than a man of practical affairs. Among his hobbies is vegetarianism. I have seen it said in our newspapers that a vegetarian cannot be a formidable military leader, but Madero has succeeded in firing the imaginations of his followers. If he can continue to gain new adherents, and if the republic loses Diaz, who is now a very old man, it may be that the revolution eventually will succeed. But I doubt it.

"Madero is the man who ran against Diaz for the presidency at the last election and was thrown into prison a few days before the balloting. He had publicly declared he was unable to get justice in the Mexican courts and was incarcerated for 'insulting the government.'

"After the election he was released under bonds and went immediately to American soil, where he planned the uprising. Then he went to one of his plantations and mobolized an army of about 600 followers. Since then the military forces of the government have been kept busy."

The customer started suddenly and the razor dug into his skin, so that the blood flowed freely and the barber looked anxious.

"My fault," volunteered the customer.

The shaving continued, and the customer asked if such accidents didn't tend to make the razor expert nervous.

"No, not me," said the tonsorialist. "Barber shop patrons do exhibit eccentricities at times, though, that are likely to make a barber nervous. One of my customers has the odd habit of counting the strokes. He has a sly way of trying it without our knowledge, but that gleam in his eye usually puts us wise to his game. When I know he is counting, I get just a bit rattled at times, I guess, but he seems to enjoy the game immensely and I don't care enough about it to object. When he's been shaved, he announces the number of strokes and is happy."

"I seer told me that I will be bald within a few years, so I want to wear my hair as long as I can," said a patron just settling himself comfortably in another chair. "Just give me a shave."

That suggested a query as to whether the barber's business was of greater volume in summer than in winter.

"Yes, it is," said the boss of the shop. "In very cold weather the average patron of a shop doesn't like to be shampooed or massaged and he is not anxious to wear his hair very short, so that haircuts are fewer and further apart. On mild days all the chairs in the shop are likely to be filled, with other customers waiting their turns, but on days when we are enjoying real cold weather there's no particular rush to the barber shops.

"Safety razors? Oh, let's talk about something pleasant."

UNITED STATES TO OWN EMBASSIES

House Passes Measure After a Struggle Lasting for Ten Years.

Washington, Feb. 8.—After a ten years' struggle, the house yesterday passed a bill providing for the purchase and construction of American embassies, legations and consular buildings abroad. The measure was put through under a suspension of the rules by a standing vote of 141 to 39, the announcement of the result by the speaker being greeted by applause.

The senate, which on several occasions in the past, has adopted similar bills, is expected to ratify the action of the house.

Representative Lowden of Illinois, author of the bill, led the fight for it, seconded by Representative Longworth of Ohio. The opposition to the measure came from the Democratic side, Representatives Cullop of Indiana and Underwood of Alabama making the principal speeches. Mr. Lowden declared that every secretary of state from Olney down had urged the adoption of such legislation.

MINNESOTA BILLS ARE PASSED BY THE HOUSE.

Washington, Feb. 8.—The house has passed Senator Nelson's bill authorizing the cutting of burned timber in Minnesota and other states, also Representative Steenerson's bill providing for homestead entries of undisposed land in the eleven ceded townships in the Red Lake reservation.

There is an act on the Orpheum bill this week which probably holds the record for the length of time it has been presented. For sixteen years without a break, Binns, Binns and Binns have been appearing in a musical act in the various vaudeville theaters in almost every civilized country in the world. During that time they have missed but a very few weeks, when they took short vacations, and they are booked for nearly a year ahead.

For many years there were but two people in the act, the father and son. The third member, a nephew of the elder Binns, was added to the company a few years ago. He plays the part of the footman.

Another peculiar feature in connection with this act is the fact that it always travels with "Mlle. Alfide Capitaine," who is also on this week's bill. The reason is simple. "Mlle. Capitaine" is in private life Mrs. Binns, the wife of the son in the Binns trio. They insist on being booked in the same theaters, and as both acts are popular and in demand, the performers have so far been successful in compelling vaudeville managers to book them over the same routes, although this is rarely done. For twelve years they have played the same theaters, with the exception of but three weeks, during which time the musical act played a short engagement in which "Mlle. Capitaine" was not included.

The nephew assists the gymnast in her work, but few people in the audience know that he is the same man who appears as an English footman in the other act. Her husband is the mad musician of the Binns trio.

The bill of vaudeville being presented at the Empress this week is one of the best yet shown at that theater. Although comedy predominates, there is great variety of it and there is plenty of novelty besides. Gardiner and Vincent are presenting a comedy sketch entitled "Winning A Queen." This sketch is full of humor and has a very novel and exciting finish. H. T. MacConnell presents another brand of humor and when the man from the audience joins him upon the stage, the people in the audience have to confess that they have been sold. Many gymnasts and equilibrists have been seen in this city, but the Three Leightons inject novelty into their act and perform feats that are out of the ordinary while standing upon large rolling globes. This act was one of the big features in the London hippodrome and was secured at great expense. The Irish have long been noted for their wit and Harry Booker has a whole lot of this humor canned up into a skit which is called "The Walking Delegate." The dialogue between the delegate and the hodcarrier is of the whirlwind order and just seems to tickle the audience into good nature. Walton and Vivian present a cyclonic laughing act, the feature of which is Mr. Walton's laughing song. To say the least, Mr. Walton's laugh is very infectious and the audience is forced to join him. Taken as a whole the show is one of the best ever presented in this city and reflects credit on the booking agents of the Sullivan & Considine circuit.

There is a novel film at the Lyric theater this week, which is attracting no little attention among Duluth musicians.

The film tells the story of the opera, "Il Trovatore." Duluth has few chances to hear grand opera, and the stories of even the more popular operas are almost unknown to the majority of Duluth citizens, although they may have heard many selections from the opera. The story of "Il Trovatore" not only makes a very interesting film, but it also enables those who see it to better appreciate the music of the opera when they hear it played. It has proved a popular innovation with patrons of the Lyric theater this week.

NEW RECEIVER OR FORECLOSURE

Unless Chicago and Milwaukee Electric Company Gets Busy at Once.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—Announcement by Judge Peter S. Grosscup in the United States circuit court that unless the affairs of the Chicago & Milwaukee electric railroad were reorganized and readjusted by March 15, he would either appoint a new receiver or refuse to delay further foreclosure proceedings against the corporation, is expected to force to a head the mooted plan of running the interurbans around the elevated loop structure of Chicago.

The case has been in the courts for three years and Juudge Grosscup today announced he was not satisfied with the way the affairs had been handled. He urged improvement of the road and the speedy arrangement with either the Northwestern Elevated Railroad company or the Metropolitan Elevated Railroad company, whereby the cars from Milwaukee could use the loop. In this connection the court said he favored entrance by way of the Metropolitan on the West side, as making a more direct line and more valuable district as regards fares. The new financing of the road, according to the court's statement, would require about $1,080,000, with $1,250,000 to take up receivers' certificates and about $1,750,000 to build bridges and rehabilitate the lines. The chief problem, he said, is to raise about $4,000,000 on a first mortgage of the road from Evanston to Milwaukee.

HAD HOPES OF SUDDEN WEALTH

Dr. Pantchenko Said He Expected to Receive $5,000.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 8.—Three witnesses testified today that Dr. Pantchenko, accused of poisoning Count Vassili Bouturlin, had told them of his hopes of sudden wealth. A fellow passenger with the doctor on the trip to Vilna swore that he heard a conversation in French between Pantchenko and Count Patrick Obrien de Lassy, at a hotel in Vilna and saw money pass between them. The former told the witness that he was soon to receive $5,000.

Another man who had gone security for some of the defendant's bills said that Pantchenko told him that he was soon to be rich and only needed to "expedite" a certain patient.

A woman witness testified that Pantchenko told her of the proposed elimination of one or two heirs of a certain millionaire, adding that the affair would bring him several hundred thousand roubles. De Lassy is charged with employing Pantchenko to murder Bouturlin.

NORTHWESTERN SETTLES THREE DAMAGE SUITS.

Menominee, Mich., Feb. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Circuit court is in session here, Judge Richard C. Flannigan presiding. Three important damage suits against the Northwestern railroad have been settled out of court, those of Mrs. Theresa Hornick, whose husband was killed when riding on a handcar in the service of the company; Peter J. Arenson, administrator for the estate of Emil Helstrum, killed on the railroad, and Jerry Madigen, the prominent Menominee lumberman for injuries sustained in the wreck at Little Suamico.

MARQUETTE'S MAYOR IS TURNED DOWN BY COUNCIL.

Marquette, Mich., Feb. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—By a vote of 6 to 3, Mayor Vaughan's appointments of John B. Neault, for membership on the police commission to succeed George Freeman; of John E. Hedges to fill out the unexpired trm of H. H. Williams on the water board, and of A. T. Roberts to succeed H. W. Nebel on the water board, were tabled by the council Monday evening.

The second mild sensation sprung was the report of the special committee appointed some time ago to look into the contract for painting the city lockup in the basement of the city hall. This committee was appointed as the result of a communication presented to the council two months ago by Charles Geill and J. R. Trethewey, who alleged that the price paid for the work, $155, was exhorbitant.

HARDWARE MEN MEET.

North Dakota Organization Is in Session at Devils Lake.

Devils Lake, N. D., Feb. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—There are nearly 300 people attending the state hardware men's convention here. President H. A. Moe of Churches Ferry, Secretary C. N. Barnes of Grand Forks and Vice President J. A. White are here. The entertainment committee will entertain the visitors at the opera house this evening and later at an especially prepared banquet in the opera house hall. Speakers have been engaged for this occasion and a musical program arranged. This will include a quartet from this city, the Norden chorus and solos by Prof. O. Holm.

The afternoon session yesterday was called to order by the president. The invocation was by Rev. A. E. Clattonberg; address of welcome, Mayor P. J. McClory; response for the association, H. A. A proposition to build a new middle bridge will be submitted to the electors of both cities at the spring election. It was also suggested to have the draw on the lower bridge operated by electricity, and steps will probably be taken to this end.

HUMAN BEINGS BAKED IN OVEN

H. E. Hubbard Says the Bake Oven Is a Wonder at Curing Disease.

H. E. HUBBARD.

Drs. Loughney & Loughney baked me at 500 degs. Fahrenheit, and, as a consequence, my Rheumatic aches and pains are gone. This baking a person in an oven that they can—as they have demonstrated to me—bake potatoes or apples through—during the time a patient is being baked sounds terrible; and it is certainly an odd treatment, when one stops to realize that 212 degrees Fahrenheit will boil water and 300 degs. Fahrenheit will melt lead. People won't believe it when they are told; they think it impossible, but there are a great many sufferers in Duluth and vicinity who have had these apples and potatoes baked in the oven with them; and they are all pleased and surprised at the quick relief they obtained. In my own case, I was crippled so bad and suffered so much pain that I would not sleep for weeks. At times I could not step on my feet; my legs were numb and cold all the time. I had tried all manner of treatments and medicine, without relief. I heard of the Bake Ovens and I knew heat was good. It was all I could do to get there, I was so bad; and now, after a few treatments, I sleep well, and I do not suffer at all from pain; and when I walk I don't look as if I had made a century run; and I have every confidence that in a short time all the uric acid will be dissolved out of my system, and my Rheumatism permanently cured. Go there if you have any aches or pains. They will quickly relieve you; and you will find the treatment a very pleasant one. I got instant relief. I slept eight hours the first night and my appetite came back to me. In consultation you do not have to tell them your ailments; they will tell you. They have graduate lady nurses to care for lady patients. They give consultation free. They occupy all of the offices on the third floor of the Christie building, which is located on Fourth avenue west, between First and Second streets. Their hours are 8 a. m. to 7 p. m.; Sundays, 9 to 12 only. I live at 1108 East Fifth street; and I will gladly substantiate the above.

BOUNDARY IS CHANGED

Judge Morris Hands Down Important Decision Setting Riparian Rights.

Minnesota Territory Ends at Center of the New Channel.

When the government in the exercise of its paramount right to alter the channel of a river in the interests of navigation did alter the channel of St. Louis river in 1899, the border between the states of Minnesota and Wisconsin was accordingly changed from the center of the old channel to the center of the new channel, is the substance of a decision by Judge Page Morris in United States court last evening.

The decision was rendered in an action brought by George W. Norton, executor of the estate of George W. Norton, against Robert B. Whitesides, E. P. Alexander and Andrew J. Tallas to obtain a definition of the riparian rights attaching to land owned by the estate on the Minnesota side of the river between West Duluth and Ironton.

The decision, should it go to final jusgiment, will make radical changes in the boundary line as it was established when the territory of Wisconsin was organized. At the point where the lands involved in the action decided are located the boundary is moved 600 to 700 feet nearer the Wisconsin shore, while at other points, the boundary is moved toward the Minnesota shore. At certain points, the change is slight, but at others it amounts to from 1,000 to 2,000 feet.

The Norton estate owns land on the Minnesota side, while Mr. Whitesides is the owner of Big Island, which is on the Wisconsin side of the river. Mr. Alexander also has an interest in Big Island, while Mr. Tallas is a squatter on a small island in the river between the lands of the other parties. Both parties claimed that Mr. Tallas has no interest of any kind, the island on which he lives being a part of the riparian rights of the land on the main shore. Mr. Tallas claims that the island is a separate piece of land, on which another man, who sold to him about twenty years ago, established rights by location in 1857. The action, as far as Tallas is concerned, was not decided, Judge Morris holding that it was a matter for an action at law and not in equity.

The Norton estate claimed that when the channel was changed in 1899, the boundary line between the sixties changed also and the riparian rights attaching to its lands now extend to the new chanel. It was alleged that in the improvement of the new channel sand was dredged out and so disposed of that the old channel was filled up and rendered unnavigable and, in equity, the owners of the land on the Minnesota side should have a right to reach the new channel for purposes of navigation.

The defendants claimed that the old channel is filled only with loose sand, which could be easily dredged out so that an navigable channel, connecting at some other point with the main channel, could be provided for purposes of navigation. They claimed that the moving of the channel by the government did not alter the boundary line between the states and the riparian rights to the old channel, which attached to Big island before the change was made, still attach to that piece of land and extend to the southern boundary of the old channel.

Judge Morris' decision is in effect that the riparian rights of the land on the Minnesota side extend to the northern boundary of the new channel and the riparian rights of the land on the Wisconsin side extend to the southern boundary of the new chanel, the boudary line between the states being the center of the new channel.

Judge Morris vetured no opinion as to Tallas' rights, contenting himself with the statement that it was not a matter for a decision in equity, ejectment proceedings at law being the proper course for the party seeking to oust him from possession of the island.

Judge Morris also declined to pass on the question as to whether the body of water near the land in question is an arm of Lake Superior or St. Louis river. He held that it was not a material point and did not call for an opinion in the action.

CANADA WANTS NO INTERFERENCE

Colonial Secretary Believes She Can Run Her Own Affairs.

London, Feb. 8.—Lewis Harcourt, secretary of state for the colonies said in the house of commons today that there was no reason to believe that Canada was desirous of submitting a question concerning her internal affairs to the judgment of other dominions. He understood, however, the impossibility of the immediate completion of the legislation necessary to make effective the reciprocity agreement between the United States and Canada, and accordingly there would be ample time for consideration.

The secretary's expression was in reply to a request that the colonial officer should suggest that the Canadian government postpone a ratification of the agreement until the imperial conference had been held.

The official opposition's amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne, urging fiscal reform with special reference to the proposed American-Canadian tariff agreement was moved by J. Austen Chamberlain before a crowded house today.

The message from W. S. Fielding, the Canadian finance minister, defending the reciprocity arrangement, was published this afternoon and took some wind out of the sails of the Unionists cruft. However, should the Nationalists abstain from voting, as is possible the government's margin of victory probably would be small. The debate is likely to occupy two full days.

New York High School Girls Make Their Graduation Dresses

MAKING DOLLAR DRESSES AT THE WASHINGTON IRVING HIGH SCHOOL.

Parents ought to welcome with joy the advent of the dollar graduation dress. Many a fond father has impoverished himself paying for a French gown for his daughter's graduation. The girls of the Washington Irving high school decided to place themselves on one level and to have all their graduation dresses made by the dressmaking class in school. These are some of the results. The girls of the class which graduates from this work will have just as pretty dresses as any sweet girl graduate in the country and they will have the satisfaction of knowing that they have not beggared their parents in getting them.

SOME "WAR TIME" PRICES.

New York Sun: This is the day on which we are going to begin to save money, though the young and frivolous may be drafting resolutions to be presented on Jan. 1, 1911. One of the older Manhattanese has shown the way, the only way, to cheapen living. We are going to take him to lunch in 1863, since he has sent us a yellow—no offence—old newspaper which stimulates the long hopeless effort toward economy. Uptown today, much as we might like what Thomas Clarke (successor to Benjamin and Fuller) might set before us at his "old established and well known hotel," 94 Chatham street, Brother Leggett also tempts us with "the choicest viands and delicacies of the season, served up in the best style, at the most moderate prices," 42 and 44 Chatham street—Brother Leggett tempts us to his "Saloon" and "Convenient Lodgings," whither he has just removed after thirty years at his older stand, but he can wait. We can go to his place in 1910. And we can go no more to the Putman house on Fourth avenue, that Putman house which closed its homely, comfortable doors only the other day. On this day in 1863 you may read the bill of fare as you go up in a Broadway stage, the only method of locomotion approved by old New Yorkers. Notice the happy glow on the driver's face. At Christmas time of all days of the year the mellow flame of philosophy and hot rum flashes therefrom:

DEER HEAD OF FIFTY POINTS.

Kennebec Journal: What is said to be the largest head ever found on a red or cotton tail deer in this country has lately been received in Bangor from Hill Gould of Grand Lake Stream. The head has fifty points or prongs on the antlers.

The head is very even, having twenty-six points on one side and twenty-four on the other and is a beauty in every way. It spreads twenty-eight inches in the widest place and has broad webs on each antler, which spread seven inches. The fifty points are all well defined prongs.

IMPEACHMENT RESOLUTIONS

Against Judge John F. Cowan of North Dakota Introduced.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Resolutions calling for the impeachment of Judge John F. Cowan of the district court of the Second Judicial district were introduced in the house this afternoon by Representative A. A. Davis of Grand Forks county. In the resolutions habitual drunkenness, corrupt conduct and malfeasance and misdemeanor in office are set forth. The impeachment resolutions follow the action taken recently by a number of Devils Lake residents and citizens of the Second district at which the judge was asked to resign, with the alternative of impeachment proceedings in the event that his resignation was not forthcoming.

POSTAL GUIDE IS A HALL OF FAME.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: In every one of the 180,000 postoffices in the land can be seen a paper-bound book, dingy blue in color and about the size of the Fifth Reader of our youthful school days. Its "dog's-eared" condition is but an evidence of faithful unpretentious service to the great American public with whom familiarity has never bred contempt.

It serves impartially the all-powerful captain of industry, the eager-eyed woman who wishes her missive to reach the absent loved one and the errant bobo, who, tired of "husks," at last writes home.

Those who use it often call brusquely for the "blue book;" others not so familiar timidly ask permission to look at the postal guide.

Yet this modest little book answers with finality the question on every side, which volumes have been written and which rises again and again: Who are the greatest Americans?

The little book is modestly truthful, and added to sincerity has the quality which the Deity is supposed to monopolize of "being no respecter of persons." It is the Burke's Peerage of fame in the minds and love in the hearts of the American people. If your name is not found therein you may be good, but in the minds of your countrymen you are neither great nor famous. With the human instinct to perpetuate the names of the famous and venerated or the loved, the repeated application of a name to geographical points is a sure criterion of fame, the naming of a postoffice or a county is a spontaneous expression of regard for the person whose name it bears.

The many "Grants" in the Southern states are but an answering echo to "Let us have peace."

Considering that Washington was Quincy Adams president till March 4, 1829.

In spite of "agreements in caucus" four of Crawford's adherents went down with flying colors and voted for him till the last.

If his admirers could not make him president they could at least perpetuate his name, and twenty counties were named for him, while the cry of "bargain and intrigue" kept Clay out of the presidential chair and its echo hovered over his death bed.

HEAD OF CHINESE MEDICAL MOVEMENT

—Copyrighted by George Grantham Bain.

DR. YAMLI KIN.

Dr. Kin is the head of the modern medical movement in China She graduated in 1885 from the Women's Medical infirmary, which is now a part of Cornell university. She returned to China and for twenty-one years has been engaged in reorganizing the hospital system and training women nurses. She is in America to deliver some lectures and to provide for the education of Miss Haul Lan Pai, who accompanied her. She hopes to take back with her new ideas on the subject of building, heating and sanitation.

HE'S THE BOSS.

Chicago News: "Half the domestic trouble in this country," said the small man who had held the floor in the corner grocery for an hour, "is due to the fact that the average husband is not master of his own household. A man who permits himself to be bossed around by his wife or his own children is a pitiful creature. My home, I may modestly say, is a model, so far as harmony is concerned. Peace spreads her white pinions there all the year round, with matinees twice a week.

"When I was first married I took the wrong course. My wife is a large and stately woman, of majestic manners and great muscular development. In her own home, before I led her to the altar, she was monarch of all she surveyed, so to speak. Even her father and mother trembled before her wrath. She had formed the habit of command and expected instant obedience from everybody. There was something awe-inspiring about her, especially when she mixed war medicine, and at first my admiration for her was so great that I just let things drift, as it were, and obeyed her as her own relatives had done. I was like an Alpine traveler, if I may be permitted the expression, who stands upon the slope of a mountain and sees a large avalanche coming toward him. The grandeur of the spectacle holds him entranced for a time, as you might say, but he eventually realizes that unless he humps himself he will be destroyed.

"So, when I realized that I was inviting my own destruction by obeying my wife after the manner of a Greek slave I decided to take a bold stand. I made up my mind to set my foot down and rule in my own domain. It was while I was eating supper that I formed this determination. Immediately after that frugal repast my wife told me to go and wash the dishes, much as the duke of Wellington might have told a butler to go and hang himself.

"I looked my wife steadfastly in the eye and told her that when she saw me washing the dishes again she would know that pigs were flying and ladies climbing trees. I tell you, gentlemen, it was a dramatic moment. She looked at me in astonishment and anger, one hand reaching for the potato masher, which was the closest thing to her. If she ever dotted me one with that masher she would always be supreme in our household. It was the crucial, vital moment. The family destinies hung upon it, so as speak. If she socked me with the potato masher and put me down for the count, I could never regain sufficient dignity to assert myself. I say it, without fear of contradiction, that a wife can't chuck a husband under the table and sees him climbing to his feet with a black eye she loses all respect for him and will laugh his commands to scorn.

"We both knew that the moment was fraught with polgnant significance. My wife tried to grasp that potato masher, but I held her with my eyes. Had my glance faltered for a moment, had I shown the least sign of weakness, of yielding, all would have been lost. But I wore the front of Mars, so to speak, and my eye was as stern as the eye of Jove.

"It seemed as though we held this attitude for a year and I was beginning to fear that I must succumb to the dominating force of that wonderful woman, when she heaved a deep sigh and buried her head in her apron and wept as though her heart would break. The victory was won! From that moment to this, she has been as docile as a well-trained child. She weeps with delight when I give her a smile and trembles with fear at my frown."

"I do, hey?" cried a large, robust woman who had entered the grocery unobserved by the small man. She seized him by the collar and shook him gently so that his false teet fell out.

"I tremble with fear at your frown, do, I you little whiffet. Now you trot along hom and never let me see you hoodled so you sure again."

THE WONDERS OF BIRD FLIGHT.

Hatchet-Souplet in the Strand: "On the horizon," says Prof. Drzewiecki, "in tropical countries there often appears a small black point visible only to the practiced eye. The point increases in size as it approaches. It is the sailing bird par excellence, the vulture, returning to its hollow in the rock a dozen miles away. A glider, who sails magnificently upon its outstretched wings, without a beat, without the slightest deviation from its perfectly straight track, it thus traverses the space from one horizon to the other, again becomes an imperceptible point, and disappears, leaving the spectator marvelling at the simplicity with which Nature solves a problem of mechanics which appeared impossible to man."

When one observes a sea-eagle perched upon a lofty cliff, it may be remarked that in order to quit its eyrie it waits until a gust of wind arises, then it lets itself fall forward with extended wings, gives a beat or two as it turns, brings itself to face the wind, and thus mounts without a wing-beat hundreds of yards high. What is the secret of this feat?

Leonardo da Vinci had penetrated the mystery even in the fifteenth century. "Birds of passage," he wrote, "rise against the wind, which thus supports them." In fact, a gliding bird so sets its wings that the air-currents make an angle with their plane. The wind thus sustains its weight and movement. If its force is stronger than is necessary to obtain these two effects, it produces a third effect—the bird mounts into space without a wing-beat. If the air suddenly became calm the bird would fall, but the fall would be astonishingly slow. Prof. Drzewiecki has calculated that a gliding bird, at a height of 1,200 yards, at the moment when it commences to descend with motionless wings, can, by setting them at the most favorable angle, touch the ground at a horizontal distance of about 1,500 miles! If the wind falls, large birds can always, with a few wing-beats, attain an altitude where they will find a wind which will permit them to continue their journey "on the glide."

The gusts and eddies of the wind are, of course, great disturbers of flight, and few birds attempt to struggle with a tempest. Even the strongest flyers have not, from this point of view, so much boldness as they generally get credit for. Thus, the Stormy Petrel is so named, not because it braves the storm, but because, as soon as a storm threatens, it will often seek for refuge on a ship's rigging, and thus foretell the tempest. And if the albatross loves the stormy waves it is only because it frequently alights upon the water, where it often sleeps securely to the rocking of the billows.

ARTIFICIAL NESTS FOR BASS.

Youth's Companion: The government fisheries bureau has discovered that black bass culture is greatly aided by artificial construction of nests.

The male small mouthed bass builds his nest by sweeping the stones of a lake bottom bare of sand in a three-foot circle. Using his nose and tail alternately, he makes a saucer shaped nest ready for the eggs of his mate. But he will readily use a nest that is prepared for him, and so the men of the fisheries are expediting his home building.

For the large mouthed bass, nests are made of moss embedded in concrete, as this species prefers a fibrous bed for its eggs. Ponds with basins six feet deep in the center and with shallower water elsewhere are so prepared. Wild fish caught by hook are put in to mate here, to the great increase of reproduction. Proper assortment of the fish and the prevention of crowding accomplish excellent results.

LOW PRICES FOR WHEAT

Market Hits New Bottom Level on the Crop, Then Closes Unchanged.

Shorts Cover and Cause Rally —Moisture Falls in Western Texas.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 8.—Wheat closed unchanged today after having rallied from a decline, which sent values to new low levels for the crop. Shorts covered toward the close and offerings fell off, causing the recovery. May wheat and July wheat closed without change. Oats lost ¼c, cash wheat was 1c under May. Rye and barley were unchanged. Durum wheat was unchanged.

Flaxseed was slightly stronger. There were a few purchases of seed against small hand-to-mouth sales of oil for delivery in the near future. The oil trade is small as buyers are taking hold sparingly. The foreign markets reflect the shortage in the Argentine crop. Antwerp hit a new high level today when La Plata seed touched $2.387 a bushel. Winnipeg May closed $2.52. Minneapolis cash closed $2.65½, a parity with May.

At the opening wheat acted well but went off on disappointing cables. Offers from the Argentine were easier and the Buenos Ayres market closed lower. Russian shipments are lighter than expected. Shorts covered, but at the close of the Liverpool market there was free selling and values closed lower. On account of the cold weather and ice Russian and Danubian shipments are not as large as had been predicted. This condition, however, appears to be only temporary.

The action of today's market was peculiar. Although there was very little straight buying power in the market the volume of covering by weak-kneed shorts was strength to the May option, which caused it to rally repeatedly only to be knocked down again or dragged lower by the weakness in the July delivery. There was some liquidation and shortly after the opening the market uncovered a bunch of stop-loss orders.

It was reported that 450,000 bbl of flour had been found in New York city which had not been reported in flour stocks of the country. James A. Patten was quoted to the effect that wheat is due for a drop of 10 cents a bushel and possibly 20 cents if any rains occur in the Southwest in the next six weeks.

A leading factor in the decline was the report of liberal precipitation in Western Texas and a small part of Oklahoma. Private messages said the moisture in Texas was more widespread than first reported. Kansas and Nebraska were dry, according to the weather map. Reports from Kansas, however, were favorable. A Kansas City man wired that he has noted fields carefully from Kansas City to Abilene. To Junction City the stand is even but the top growth is small. The plant is greening and is healthy. From Junction City to Abilene the plant is not so green nor so far advanced owing to a lack of moisture. The uneven spots are not damaged, however. The plant is small, but is in a position to rally rapidly on the receipt of moisture.

A straw in the wind came from Toledo, where a New York clique of 435 correspondents said that no damage to the growing plant was recorded in Michigan in January. A few correspondents told of damages, but they were in the minority.

Farmers' deliveries in the Northwest were reported to be increasing and stocks continue to pile up in excessive volumes in Minneapolis and Duluth. These two markets for many weeks were the highest in the country. Prices were artificially sustained until the primary markets nearest to the area of the greatest crop damage in the United States now have about four times as much wheat in store as last year. The lack of an export business by way of the Gulf and a slow interior demand for Southwestern hard wheat has enabled Eastern millers to buy this wheat in place of Northwestern spring wheat. With an over-supply of wheat in this country there is no hope of relief from export business.

Cash Situation Weak.

The cash situation is not displaying the strength in the Northwest that the bulls had expected despite the small receipts. The bulls had hoped that cash and the leading option would get together, but they did not expect this realization to be brought about by the decline of the option. They believed that the cash article and the leading delivery would get on an equal basis as the result of an advance in the price of cash wheat. In the Southwest the cash position is dead and weak and that section of the country is not a believer in higher prices so long as its stocks continue to pile up with no outlet except driblets which find their way to the East and to interior mills. A lively export business will be needed to reduce Southwestern stocks to a point where the element of doubt as to the future course of the Southwestern cash position will be injected into the situation.

While the general sentiment is bearish and while it is just as popular to sell wheat as a few weeks ago it was popular to buy it, the season is approaching when traders are inclined to be cautious on account of the crop scares which usually are produced in large broods and which tend to make traders uncertain and give the market a nervous undertone. So long as moisture continues to fall intermittently in the Southwest the danger of a crop scare becomes less serious, but with the descent of values there comes continued short covering and there is always the liability of the market becoming quickly congested and over-sold.

Cautious traders not only are bearing these facts in mind, but their uncertainty is increased by their doubt as to the volume of the long wheat which is still held in strong hands. The big speculators are carrying an enormous load in the shape of cash wheat that has been hedged but they have been able to shove a part of this load onto the little longs and the flaxen haired shorts who have run to cover at every favorable opportunity. In the last three days there has been considerable liquidation in wheat, out whether much of this cast-off stuff came from the leading longs is uncertain.

The United Kingdom today was a liberal buyer of Manitoba wheat. Foreign conditions, however, are bearish as stocks are liberal. Consumption is heavy, but there appears to be no dearth of wheat in any direction that the foreign buyer may turn. The outlook is for a heavy outgo of wheat in the next few weeks from every exporting country which can get its wheat down to a basis that meets the foreigner's idea of what his wheat ought to cost him. Winter wheat in all countries seems to be coming along satisfactorily. The acreage is large in all countries and prospects for a record winter wheat crop here and abroad are brighter than usual.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: Wheat market at the opening was easy with values ¼d to ¾d lower, being affected by the weakness in American markets yesterday. Following the opening there was further pressure and values lost an addition ½d with easier Plate offers and lower Buenos Ayres market at the close. Following the opening shorts covered and part of the decline was recovered on buying prompted mainly for spot, disappointing Argentine shipments for the season, lighter Russian shipments during the past few weeks and apprehension of shortage of contract here from mild-day. The market was steadier and ½d to ¼d lower than yesterday with March shorts nervous. The corn market opened ⅛d lower on the weakness in American but later the Argentine stance advanced with a better spot demand and fewer American offers. Plate grade was unquoted here. Our Argentine cables direct that the recent rain was beneficial for late corn and the weather is now cloudy.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Selling Out of Wheat Through Commission Men Sends Prices Down.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—Selling out of wheat through commission houses gave prices a quick tumble today. Comparative strength at Liverpool led to initial firmness here, but support was poor, and the pressure of liquidation set in so powerfully that the market slumped in short order. News of favorable weather throughout Europe contributed to the weakness here. So did absence of cash demand. Another bearish factor was the continued bringing of Kansas City wheat to this market. Opening prices were a shade lower to ¼@⅜c up. May started at 94¼@94⅝c, with the same change from last night as the option list taken altogether, and then declined to 93¾c.

Stop loss selling sent the market to the lowest point since November. There were reports of rain in Texas, but short covering led to a rally. The close was steady with May at 94⅝c, a net gain of a shade.

With local shorts the only buyers in sight, corn dragged and offerings increased. May opened unchanged to ¼c down at 49¼@49⅜c, and fell to 49¼c.

Short selling was a noticeable feature and caused a decided decline. The close, however, was steady with May at 49⅛@49¼c, a net loss of ¼@⅜c.

Numerous small lots of oats were closed out and gave the market a tone of depression. May started 1-16c to ⅛@⅜c off at 32@32¼c and declined to 31⅞@32c.

Poor shipments of lard and meats combined with a larger hog run west made provisions turn downward. First sales were 2½c to 12½c below last night, May options going at $17.92½@18.00 for pork, $9.00@9.02½ for lard and $9.00@9.02½ also for ribs.

LOSSES ARE BUT SLIGHT

Stocks Open With Gains, But Bear Pressure Causes Weakness.

List Hardens Gradually and D ay's Declines Are Relatively Nominal.

New York, Feb. 8.—Some good gains were shown at the opening of the stock market today, but as a rule the tone was firmer. Canadian Pacific advanced 1½, American Hide & Leather preferred 1, and American Car, Northern Pacific, American Agricultural, Chemical and Erie second preferred ½. The copper shares were heavy and Union Pacific, Reading and United States Steel sold fractionally below last night's closing prices.

Professional traders were inclined to take profits on the sharp rally in the late session yesterday and the market weakened with an increase of bear pressure. Reading and American Beet Sugar declined 1¼ and Great Northern preferred, Missouri Pacific, New York Central and Union Pacific 1.

The bulk of trading during the morning session was on the short side of the market and pressure was everted almost continuously on the leaders. Sentiment was decidedly bearish and the list showed corresponding heaviness. There was little in the second hour the market made a futile attempt at a rally, but large offerings of Reading, which broke to 159¾ sent the list to the low level again. Crex Carpet improved 8 points. Bonds were steady.

The market closed irregular. The sale of a large block of Atchison convertible 4ours is important banking interests explained the heavy buying of the stock, which went to 108. The list otherwise moved narrowly, but hardened gradually, so that the day's losses were relatively nominal.

New York stock quotations furnished The Herald by Piper, Johnson & Case.

ENTERS PLEA OF GUILTY

T. R. Hancock of Proctor Admits Keeping Saloon Open on Sunday.

Evidence in Three Cases Furnished By 11-Year-Old Boy.

T. R. Hancock, a saloon keeper of Proctor, pleaded guilty before Judge Cant of the district court this morning to keeping his saloon open on Sunday.

Sentence was not pronounced as the court decided to settle the case with the others from Proctor at some future time. The jury in the case of M. F. Sweeney, held on a similar charge, retired at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and at noon today had not agreed.

Hancock first pleaded not guilty to the indictments which charged him with both keeping open on Sunday and selling liquor to a minor. He changed his plea when arraigned before Judge Cant this morning.

Hancock is the third man from Proctor against whom indictments were returned by the January grand jury. The other men pleaded not guilty and stood trial. One of them was convicted and fined.

The evidence in each case was supplied by Mrs. John Pachem of Proctor. She sent her 11-year-old boy to each of the three saloons and she claims that in every instance he was given liquor.

One indictment against Hancock was dismissed on motion of the county attorney, after he had pleaded guilty to the other.

FOR SELLING FIREARMS

Pawnbroker Claimed to Have Sold Revolver to Boy Bandits.

Sam Mascovitch, a pawnbroker on the Bowery, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of selling firearms to minors.

It is claimed that he was one of the men who supplied the revolvers to Algot Johnson and Charles Melodrowski, the boy bandits who murdered Patrolman Harry Chesmore the morning of Friday, Jan. 6. He asked for a preliminary examination, which was set for tomorrow afternoon. He was released on $150 bail.

ASKS DAMAGES FROM COMPANY

Albena Trenholm Wants $27,000 From Duluth, Missabe & Northern.

Before Judge J. D. Ensign and a jury in district court, Albina Trenholm is trying to recover $27,000 from the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railway company for injuries alleged to have been sustained while riding on one of the trains operated by the company.

The plaintiff claims that while riding on the train between Hibbing and Sparta, the car was derailed. Negligence on the part of the company is charged. It is claimed that the train was run in a careless manner.

The car in which the plaintiff was riding was thrown off the track, and the claim is made that injuries to the head, back, spine, sides, breast and legs were sustained. The hearing was destroyed and one side completely paralyzed, it is claimed.

TONNAGE TAX BILL IN THE LEGISLATURE

Introduced With the Idea of Defeating Reapportionment Bill.

House Goes on Record in Favor of Canadian Reciprocity.

Bill Providing for Branch School of Agriculture at Duluth.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The tonnage tax bill appeared in the house this morning with Thomas Frankson of Spring Valley, J. N. Johnson of Canby and J. J. Moriarity of Belle Plaine as its authors. The bill is substantially as described elsewhere in The Herald tonight, and it is practically the same bill which was introduced two years ago by Representative Bjorge of Lake Park, which was passed by the legislature and vetoed by Governor Johnson. Its appearance at this time is looked upon as having a bearing on the fight against reapportionment, and it is said that it will be used to defeat the reapportionment bill, if possible.

The bill classifies iron mines so that the tonnage tax shall apply to mines producing more than 20,000 tons a year, while non-producing mines shall be taxed as at present, on the ad valorem basis. Practically the only change from two years ago is that the revenues, instead of all going into the general revenue fund, are to be shared with the school and university fund. The bill was referred to the committee on taxes and tax laws.

AN EMBEZZLER BREAKS JAIL

Former Auditor of Ohio Railroad Makes His Escape With Companion.

Marietta, Ohio, Feb. 9.—Edward A. Epler, former auditor of the Marietta, Columbus & Cleveland railroad, who is charged with embezzling $5,000 of the funds of the railroad, escaped from the county jail early today. George Bayless, arrested on a charge of burglary, escaped with Epler.

The jail is on the fourth floor of the court house and this was the first escape ever made from it.

Epler and Bayless are believed to have been assisted by persons from the outside. Doors were unlocked with a duplicate key. The two dropped two stories through an air shaft and then walked out through the court house.

MISS DAMM SAFE.

American Girl Simply Forgot to Say Goodbye to Landlady.

New York, Feb. 9.—Special dispatches from Berlin clear up the supposed disappearance at the German capital of Miss Margaret Damm of Omaha and show that the young woman had departed for a visit to relatives. The stories of her disappearance arose from the fact that she failed to bid her landlady goodbye.

CHARMSTONE WORKED NOT

Woman Who Gave $2,800 for Its Use Wants Money Back.

Court Issues a Warrant for Arrest of Chicago Psychist.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—The psychic influence of a "mystic charmstone" over the fates which allot to human beings their share of health, wealth and happiness, will be disclosed in the courts here following the issuance of a warrant today for Margaret Graham on complaint of a seeker for the three blessings, Mrs. Lina Senders.

Mrs. Senders, in her complaint avers she paid $2,800 for the use of a wonderful talisman loaned her by Miss Graham. The stone was to change color just previous to the advant of good health, assume a new hue at the approach of wealth and take on a glittering iridescence when happiness was to come to the wearer, whereupon she was to return the magic stone to the psychist. The stone was obtained April 1, 1910.

"It's been nearly a year now," the disappointed woman told the magistrate who issued the warrant, "and it has not changed color a bit. She can have her ring back. I want my wealth back and then I can buy health and that will give me all the happiness I need." The court issued a warrant.

Public Hearing on County Division Bill Fixed for Feb. 23.

Duluth Builders' Exchange Opposes Borgen's Building Lien Bill.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The outlook for a state building at Hibbing, to house the mine inspection forces of the state, is good. The house committee on mines and minerals, of which Representative Cleon T. Knapp of Chisholm is chairman, yesterday afternoon recommended for passage without a dissenting vote the bill by Representatives Knapp and Healy appropriating $35,000 for such a building. Senator James P. Boyle of Eveleth is pushing a similar bill in the senate.

State Auditor Iverson appeared before the committee yesterday afternoon in support of the bill. He said that such a building is needed, and that in constructing it the future needs of the state as one of the largest mine-owners should be taken into consideration.

The bill was amended so as to pro-

FARMER APPEARS IN NICK OF TIME

Suit Filed as He Enters Court After Two Years' Absence.

Sedalia, Mo., Feb. 9.—Just as a suit to partition the estate of Thomas L. Primm, a farmer who disappeared from near here two years ago, was called in the circuit court here yesterday, Primm entered the room, disclosed his identity and asked permission to speak.

Primm's reappearance caused a sensation and for several minutes court proceedings were at a standstill.

Primm said that he had been living at Plummerville, Ark., since he left home. He told about his life since he left his family; but why he left, he would not say.

Attorneys on both sides moved that the case be dismissed. The court took the motion under consideration.

ALIMONY $100 PER MONTH.

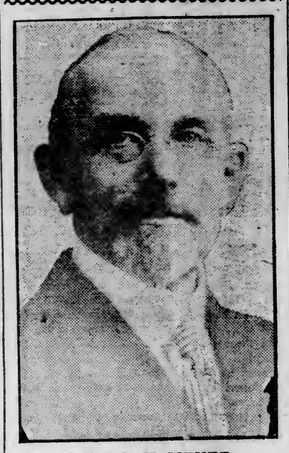

Attorneys for Mrs. Schenk Agree Upon That Amount for Client.

Wheeling, W. Va., Feb. 9.—According to Attorney Frank O'Brien, representing Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk, counsel have agreed on alimony of $100 a month for Mrs. Schenk.

John C. Schenk, millionaire packer, yesterday filed the petition in his suit for divorce against Mrs. Laura Farnsworth Schenk, recent defendant in the famous poisoning trial.

The cause he names is infidelity. He accuses Daniel Z. Phillips, a young Wheeling piano salesman, as co-respondent.

RECIPROCITY BATTLE IS ON

Senator Beveridge Fires the First Gun in the Senate.

Gives Many Reasons Why the Agreement Should Be Adopted.

Washington, Feb. 9.—The first gun in the congressional battle over Canadian reciprocity was fired in the senate today. Senator Beveridge of Indiana, an insurgent, was the marksman, and he lined up on the side of the administration. He did not make pretense of representing others of the progressive Republican camp.

Plunging immediately into the heart of his subject, Mr. Beveridge welcomed the compact as the first concrete evidence of the establishment of such relations with Canada as he thought the United States should maintain with a country so closely adjoined physically and with a people so intimately allied with Americans in kinship and interest. Contending for the importance of the principle involved, he urged the necessity for prompt and decided action. The details, he said, were of comparatively little significance and might well be left to future adjustment.

"Shall the United States and Canada begin the policy of mutual trade concessions and commercial friendship or shall we make permanent the policy of trade obstruction and commercial hostility between the countries?"

Thus asking, Mr. Beveridge said

MAN KILLED BY BODY OF ANOTHER

Workman Struck By Train and Thrown Against His Companion.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—A man's body hurled through the air, when struck by the Overland limited train, killed another man last night and seriously injured a third.

The man struck was Edward Donahue, foreman of a gang of laborers. He survived the effects until today. The train, on its way to the Pacific coast, had not yet cleared the Chicago & Northwestern railroad yards here when the accident occurred, Donahue, with fifty of his men, were at work cleaning snow from the tracks. The foreman apparently saw the locomotive approaching but before he could escape he was struck and his body shot through the air keeling over in an instant the other two workmen who were fifteen feet distant. The limited was going forty miles an hour.

Vault of Late Congressman Scott of Erie, Pa., Visited By Vandals.

Casket Containing Body of Friend of the Family Taken Away.

Practically Every Coffin in the Vault Is Tampered With.

Erie, Pa., Feb. 9.—A body has been stolen from the vault here of the family of the late Congressman William L. Scott. The police of communities within 400 miles have been notified of the crime.

The discovery was made by two women walking through the Erie cemetery. The family was immediately notified and a watch was placed in the cemetery at midnight last night after all assurances were made that the missing body was not in the vault.

Newspaper men early this morning were ordered from the cemetery at the point of revolvers. The identity of the stolen body is held secret by the police and members of the family. The body taker is said to be that of Mrs. McCollum, a sister-in-law of the late Mr. Scott. The police believe the vandals also intended to carry away the body of Scott, who was a millionaire, and also that of Mrs. Scott.

Broken chains and open doors were found in the tomb. Mrs. Charles H. Strong, who is a daughter of Mr. Scott and the wife of Charles H. Strong, president of the Erie & Pittsburg railroad, the Erie County Electric Light company and the owner of the Erie Dispatch, was notified. Mrs. Strong in

DRIVERS STRIKE IN NEW JERSEY

Three-Hundred Wells Fargo Expressmen Express Disaffection.

New York, Feb. 9.—Jersey City is today in the throes of another express drivers' strike. This time, however, the disaffection is confined to 300 employes of the Wells-Fargo Express company, and there is little indication that it will spread.

The strikers charge that men recently suspended during the annual layoff of employes for the dull season were, in every instance, the ringleaders in the trouble last fall. The company denies the alleged discrimination.

RICHARD L. ASHURST,

$300,000 FOR PAVEMENTS

City Will Spend Big Sums This Year for Improvements.

Many Large Jobs Already Ordered and Others in Prospect.

Improvement work in Duluth the coming season will be on the boom from early until late, from present indications. If all prospects are fulfilled it will be by far the largest year in the history of the city.

In pavements alone there is in sight work estimated to cost close to $300,000. The jobs are located in all parts of the city, east and west, and there is but little doubt but that they will be completed before the snow flies next fall.

Scores of petitions for sewers in every ward have been received at the office of the board of public works. Some of them were left over from last year; in some instances the advance assessments have been levied, and others are still coming in for action. At this time it is impossible to secure any accurate estimate of what they will amount to in dollars and cents.

Should the Woodland sewer be built, it will likely be the biggest piece of work done this year. It will be the

THINK SHEEHAN MUST DROP OUT

Believed to Be Only Way of Breaking Deadlock at Albany.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 9.—Will William F. Sheehan withdraw as a candidate for United States senator?

That is the question uppermost in the minds of legislators, weary and impatient over the failure to break the deadlock which has existed since Jan. 17. Yesterday's conference failed to shake a single vote and many legislators have expressed the opinion that nothing short of Mr. Sheehan's withdrawal and the selection of a compromise candidate will end the struggle.

Mr. Sheehan himself says he is still confident of election and Charles F. Murphy has indicated that he intends to continue the fight for the caucus candidate.

There was much speculation today among the members as to what took place at the conference last night between Governor Dix and Mayor Gaynor in New York, and whether it would have a bearing upon the senatorial situation.

A delegation of locomotive engineers called at the executive chamber today to present to Governor Dix resolutions adopted at the annual meeting of the state legislative board of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, favoring Mr. Sheehan's candidacy as a friend of organized labor.

The twentieth ballot today resulted as follows:

Democrats—Sheehan, 75; Shepard, 10; Kernan, 8; Glynn, 3; Littleton, 3; O'Brien, 2; Sulzer, 2; Parker, 1; Taylor, 1.

Republicans—Depew, 72. Total vote cast, 177. Necessary for choice, 89.

SON FINDS FATHER AND MOTHER DEAD.

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 9.—Jabez Townsend and his wife were found dead with bullet wounds in their heads last night by their son, Linn Townsend, upon his return from his studies at Cornell. Townsend conducted a dairy farm. It is believed by members of the family that the couple committed suicide.

CAR FALLS THROUGH AN OPEN DRAW

Three Women Lose Their Lives in the Sheboygan River.

Trapped in Street Car and Drowned Like Rats.

Motorman, Conductor and Outside Passenger Jump to Safety.

Sheboygan, Wis., Feb. 9.—Three persons were drowned this forenoon when a local street car went through an open draw into the Sheboygan river and became submerged. The drowned:

ANNA MATHER, aged 30, music teacher of Sheboygan Falls.

MISS OLGA WILLOMIGHT, aged 18, hotel waitress.

MISS VAN OWERKERK, Sheboygan Falls.

These were the only passengers inside the car when it toppled into the river.

Paul W Etzold, a Milwaukee traveling man who was standing on the rear platform, escaped by jumping before the car went down.

Motorman George Thiene and Conductor Frank Weber jumped from the car during its descent and clung to cakes of ice, until rescued. The cause of the accident is believed by the motorman to be due to defective working of the brakes.

There is a steep incline near the bridge approach and the cars usually take on a high rate of speed. The brakes today refused to respond to the efforts of the motorman according to his story.

The bodies of the three women trapped in the car were recovered by chopping a hole in the top of the coach and with the aid of a pulley hoisted to the surface.

MAY INVESTIGATE JUDGE KIMBROUGH

Looks as Though Grand Jury Would Disregard Limitation Ruling.

Danville, Ill., Feb. 9.—It appeared today as if the grand jury intended to disregard the instructions of Judge Kimbrough regarding the eighteen months' limitation, and make an investigation of the election at which Kimbrough was elected.

Charles Neece, an election judge, was called before the jury and questioned. In the anteroom it was said that Neece had made the statement that he had been given $100, by Judge Kimbrough on election day, and that he would testify to this fact if asked. Frank P. Unger, former town clerk, who was expected to testify today, it is said, has repeatedly made the statement that it cost him $690 to get an office which only paid him $700. There have been hints for several days that Kimbrough's instructions would be disregarded.

TO RELIEF OF JUAREZ

Gen. Nevarro Said to Be Within Ten Miles of the City.

Said to Be at the Head of About 1,000 Troops.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 9.—Unconfirmed reports that Gen. Navarro, who is on his way from Chihuahua at the head of about 1,000 federal troops to relieve Ciudad Juarez, had encamped at a point about 10 miles south of that city, were the only developments in the "war" situation across the border last night.

These reports were brought by a brakeman of the Mexican Central railroad, who declared that he had just returned from the south, where the railroad had been repaired sufficiently to permit two troop trains carrying Navarro's forces to reach a point ten miles below Juarez. No official confirmation could be obtained.

As far as known, the insurrecto forces under Orozco and Alanis have made no change in their positions, Alanis was reported twelve miles east of Juarez yesterday. Orozco's forces are entrenched about three miles west of Juarez.

Judge Flack Claims Legal Right to Employment Bureau.

Brings Mandamus Proceedings Basing Claim on Civil War Record.

Mandamus proceedings have been begun in district court by Judge James B. Flack of West Duluth against W. F. Houk, state labor inspector, for the removal of Martin Cole, recently appointed superintendent of the free employment bureau in this city.

Judge Flack is an old soldier with an honorable discharge, claims that he has shown his qualifications, proven himself competent and that for these reasons and under the general laws of the state of Minnesota, he is entitled to the place, having made application for it.

On the strength of these assertions he asks that Martin Cole be removed and that he be given the place.

Attorney S. F. White, who represents Judge Flack, filed the papers in the action late yesterday afternoon with the clerk of the district court.

In explaining the matter Judge White referred to the general laws of the state of Minnesota, chapter 263, house file No. 934.

The title of the law reads: "An act regulating appointments, employments and removals in public departments and upon public works in the state of Minnesota, and the counties, cities and towns thereof, relating to state, judicial, county, townships, city and town officers."

Section No. 1 is headed: "Preference in appointments and promotion." It reads as follows:

"That in every public department and upon all public works in the state of Minnesota, and the counties, cities and towns thereof, honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines from the army and navy of the United States in the late Civil war, who are citizens and residents of this state, shall be entitled to preference in appointments, employment and promotion over the persons of equal qualifications, and the persons thus preferred shall not be disqualified from holding any position hereinafter mentioned on account of his age or by reason of any physical disability, provided such age or disability does not render him incompetent to perform properly the duties of the position applied for, and when such soldier, sailor or marine shall apply for appointment under this act the officer, board of person whose duty it is to appoint or employ such person to fill such position or place, shall, before appointing anyone to fill such position, make an investigation as to qualifications of said soldier, sailor or marine for such place or position, and if he is a man of good moral character and can perform duties of said position applied for by him, as herein provided, said officer, board or person shall appoint said sailor, marine or soldier to such position, place or employment. A refusal to allow preference to any honorably discharged soldier, sailor or marine entitles such soldier, sailor or marine to a right of action in any court of competent jurisdiction for damages and also remedy for mandamus for righting the wrong."

DEPARTMENT OF BANKING

McDowell Bill Favored By North Dakota Senate Committee.

Fight Over Medical Board of Control Bill Not Ended.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Unanimous report from the senate committee on banking will be made on the McDowell bill, under the provisions of which a state banking department is created and the office of commissioner of banks created.

Indications that the physicians will have a fight on their hands in passing their medical board of control bill through the senate are evident. Although it was announced some time ago that an agreement had been reached over certain features of the bill, and that the representatives of several schools of practice would withdraw their opposition, it appears that there still remains some points over which a complete understanding has not been attained.

Today the joint committee of the assembly charged with the making of an investigation into the affairs of the board of game and fish control held a meeting, several members of the board and wardens of the state being examined with particular reference to the expenditures of the special deputy game wardens.

For the creation of a department at the state agricultural college in which carpentry and similar trades will be given attention, Representative Price of Cass county has introduced a bill making an annual appropriation of $5,000. For the first year, it will be used in the construction of a power house, and thereafter for the maintenance of the department.

Under provisions of a bill introduced in the senate yesterday afternoon by Mr. Duncan of Benson county, the office of state dairy commissioner is created. It also provides for the appointment of assistant dairy commissioners, with an annual salary of $1,500 each. The total appropriation for the dairy work in the state is increased $5,000 a year.

Opposed by Hardware Men.

Hardware men of the state are opposed to the proposed amendment to the mechanics' lien law by which materials and lumber would be taken from the provisions of the law as it now stands. A delegation representing the State Hardware Men's association, in session at Devils Lake this week, arrived in Bismarck yesterday afternoon and appeared before the senate judiciary committee this morning voicing the opposition of the association to the change. Lumbermen of the state are also strongly opposed to the bill.

Representative Tollefson of Stark county proposes to safeguard the lives of passengers to the extent of making unlawful the promotion of locomotive firemen to the position of locomotive engineer unless they have three years' previous experience. The bill was introduced in the house yesterday afternoon.

Somewhat of a fight has been stirred up in the senate over House Bill No. 76, introduced by Mr. Price, under the provisions of which a uniform price for public printing in the state is created.

There is now a serious question whether the Oregon primary election will receive indorsement. The probability is that the present primary will be retained with a few amendments.

Unfavorably Reported.

Dean's unfair discrimination bill, directed particularly at line elevator companies and against which those companies have made strenuous protest during the last few days, will be reported by the state affairs committee unfavorably either today or tomorrow. It has already passed the house, but the committee action in the senate will very likely mean death for it. Prior to convening of the afternoon session today, it appeared quite certain that an effort would be made to secure reconsideration of the action taken yesterday in referring the Cowan impeachment resolutions to a committee. Their consideration is to be moved for the purpose of killing them, if possible.

The funeral will take place at 4 o'clock this afternoon from the residence, Rev. A. W. Ryan, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church, officiating. BOY BANDIT IS A WITNESS

Charles Melodrowski, the boy bandit, convicted of murder in the second degree for the murder of Patrolman Harry Chesmore, was brought to police court this morning to testify against Sam Moscovitch, 524 West Superior street, who is under arrest on a charge of selling firearms to minors.

It is claimed that he sold Melodrowski the gun which he used at the time of the shooting and the McKay hotel hold-up. The boy did not go on the stand, however, as Moscovitch waived examination and was bound over to the next grand jury.

A VALUABLE SUGGESTION.

Information of Importance to Everyone.

A great deal of pain and suffering might be avoided if we had some knowledge of physiology and the care of the body, particularly those parts that do the most work and should always be kept strong and healthy.

In an interview with a prominent physician he states that people should pay more attention to their kidneys as they control the other organs to a remarkable degree and do a tremendous amount of work in removing the poisons and waste matter from the system by filtering the blood.

During the winter months especially, when we live an indoor life, the kidneys should receive some assistance when needed, as we take less exercise, drink less water and often eat more rich heavy food, thereby forcing the kidneys to do more work than Nature intended. Evidence of kidney trouble, such as lame back, inability to hold urine, smarting or burning, brick-dust or sediment, sallow complexion, rheumatism, may be weak or irregular heart action, warns you that your kidneys require help immediately to avoid more serious trouble.

An herbal medicine, containing no minerals or opiates has the most healing influence. An ideal herbal compound that has had remarkable success as a kidney remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by mail, absolutely free. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and mention The Duluth Daily Herald.

Home of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

The accompanying illustration shows the plant of The Duffy Malt Whiskey Company at Waterloo, N. Y., and the executive offices in Rochester, N. Y. This plant is the largest and most complete of its kind in the world, occupying fifteen acres of land. It is fully equipped with every up-to-date, sanitary device, thus guarding against any impurities or contamination.

There are duplicate warehouses a great distance apart filled with Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, which is laid away in the wood to soften it and make it more palatable, so in case of fire in one warehouse the trade can be supplied and the high quality and excellence maintained. This farsighted business policy and the desire to give to humanity the best product of its kind are what have made Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey the most celebrated curative agent in the world.

HOW IT IS MADE—WHAT IT DOES

It is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain, great care being used to have every kernel thoroughly malted, producing a liquid food, tonic and stimulant, requiring no digestion, in the form of a medicinal whiskey. It stimulates the mucous surfaces and little glands of the stomach to a healthy action, thereby improving the digestion and assimilation of the food and giving to the system its full proportion of nourishment. Its gentle and invigorating properties influence for good every important organ in the body.

OLD AGE IS A DISEASE THAT MAY BE OVERCOME

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, the great renewer of youth, makes the old feel young enough to run the race of life beyond the century mark and keeps the young strong and vigorous. It has carried the blessings of health to hundreds of thousands of homes during the past fifty years, and it stands today without a rival as the greatest body builder known to science.

1860—50 YEARS' SUCCESSFUL PROGRESS—1910

1860—just half a century ago—the formula of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey was discovered. It was also discovered that it was a great curative agent in the treatment of tuberculosis, pneumonia, grip, coughs, colds, other throat and lung troubles and in all stomach troubles.

The merit and honesty of an article that has been before the public for such a length of time cannot be questioned. Scientists have tested it, chemists have analyzed it and always found it pure and full of medicinal virtue; doctors have prescribed it, ministers of the Gospel, temperance advocates and men and women in all walks of life have used it, and all indorse it as the most effective tonic stimulant that nourishes the body, stimulates the circulation of the blood and acts as an aid to digestion, thus keeping the entire system in a normal, healthy condition and stopping the inroads of disease and old age. The fame of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has spread the world over, and it stands today the most celebrated and most successful medicine known.

While Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is made by the most expensive process in order to insure its uniform high quality, yet it is sold for $1.00 a large bottle by all druggists, grocers and dealers who sell wines and liquors or, if they can't supply you, write The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y., giving the name and address of your dealer and it will be sent prepaid on receipt of price.

Emblem of Purity and Excellence.

WEST END

WATER MAINS ARE WANTED

Hillside Club Wants City System Extended Without Heavy Guarantee.

Sources of Supply in Vicinity of Ensign School Are Insanitary.

With the passage of the $300,000 water bond issue members of the West End Hillside club will renew the agitation for an extension of the water mains to the Ensign school district. At a meeting of the club to be held tomorrow evening the principal subject for consideration will be the appointment of a committee to interview the water board and ascertain, as nearly as possible, what steps will be taken to bring the water mains to the hillside district.

Former Alderman Peter Olson, who is president of the club, stated yesterday that the club had "a sort of a vague promise" from the water board that $25,000 of the bond issue would be spent in that locality. The next move of the hillsiders, he states, is to find out how much guarantee will the water board require of the hillsiders.

West end residents, who at the present time have to depend on wells for their supply, will object to furnishing guarantees for a big share of the work, as the proposed extension will be carried back of the hills for a considerable distance. According to Mr. Olson, the sentiment of the club members favors a proposition by which the property owners from Twentieth avenue west and Seventh street on to Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street and surrounding neighborhood should be expected to furnish a guarantee.

"Booster" May Be Needed.

The present terminal of the water mains on the hillside is at Fourteenth avenue west and Fifth street. It is proposed to extend the mains from this point straight north for a short distance and then to run the mains along the north side of the hill until it strikes Seventh street at Eighteenth avenue west. Here it is suggested to have the extension carried along seventh street to Piedmont avenue and up Piedmont to the Ensign school, Twenty-third avenue west and Tenth street.

Whether a "booster" pumping station will be needed for the improvement is not known and if the engineers find it necessary in order to get water up to Tenth street, it will mean an additional expense, which has not been figured in. Between Fourteenth avenue and Fifth street, where the extension will start and Twentieth avenue and Seventh street, there is a long stretch of vacant property, most of which is city park property.

Above Seventh street the hillside is being built up fast and houses are springing up as far up as Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets. Unless wells are dug the property owners have no water supply except that taken from Miller's creek, which, at its best, is an unreliable, insanitary and dangerous source. During the drouth last summer a few wells went dry and there was a fine scare in the neighborhood as everything was as dry as tinder. The building of the Piedmont avenue car line has done much to build up the hillside and the need of better water facilities, say the club members, is becoming imperative.

Election of Officers.

In connection with the meeting tomorrow evening there will be an election of officers for the coming year held. Reports of the coming year's work will be read and plans for the summer made. The club has many things to its credit that have been accomplished recently in the hillside district.

The grading of Piedmont avenue from Third to Tenth streets and the extension of the street car lines to the Ensign school followed a long agitation started by the club. According to Mr. Olson the school itself was built only after persistent efforts on the part of the members of the club. The school board had practically decided to patch up the old wooden building when a storm of protest was brought forth from the hillside organization.

An ordinance providing for the establishment of building lines on Tenth and Eleventh streets, had its origin in the hillside organization and the club has always taken an active hand in local affairs for many years.

A matter which may be brought up at the meeting Friday is that of petitioning the park board to replace the Twin Lakes on the boulevard at Thirteenth avenue west. The retaining wall of the artificial ponds were washed away nearly two years ago in a cloudburst.

COUNTY CONVENTION OF BENEFIT ASSOCIATION.

The fourteenth annual county convention of the North Star Benefit association took place last evening at Bethany Swedish Lutheran church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street.

A large number of delegates were present from the three observatories in Duluth and from the range towns. The principal business to come before the meeting was the permanent organization of a county observatory.

Dr. O. A. Oredson of the West end was elected county astronomer; Rev. J. B. Idstrom of Hibbing, assistant county astronomer; Alfred Thoren, county recorder, and H. T. Lofgren county treasurer.

Delegates to the grand observatory meeting in August at Dekalb, Ill., were chosen to represent the county as follows: H. T. Lofgren and Rev. J. B. Idstrom with Axel Peterson of Duluth and Carl R. Johnson of Virginia as alternatives.

Duluth observatory, No. 39, the West end branch of the order, had the following delegates in attendance at the meeting last evening: H. T. Lofgren, Dr. O. A. Oredson, L. E. Melander, Alfred Thoren, John A. Johnson, Arthur Crawford, A. F. Lundholm, Mrs. A. Thoren and Mrs. L. E. Melander.

Meeting Postponed.

The Adams Alumni association did not hold its annual election of officers last evening as was expected on account of there being no quorum at the meeting. Only a few turned out and the meeting was postponed indefinitely.

Church Concert.

West end music lovers are much interested in the appearance here of Prof. Theodore S. Reimstad, who has earned the reputation of being the most noted Scandinavian tenor soloist in America, and Kenneth Cranston of this city, who has already won much recognition for himself as a young and talented lyric tenor.

Prof. Reimstad and Mr. Cranston will be heard tomorrow evening at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street. The concert will be given under the auspices of the Young People's society.

West End Briefs.

The men of Grace M. E. church will serve an oyster supper at the church parlors, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street tomorrow evening. An effort will be made to organize a mens' club at this time.

The English guild of St. Peter's Episcopal church will entertain at a social this evening at the new guild room in the church, Twenty-eight avenue west and First street. A musical and literary program has been provided.

Mrs. James Maghan, who has been ill at her home, 2628 West Third street, is convalescent.

Mrs. A. C. Farrer of 318 North Nineteenth avenue west, who has been spending the winter in the Twin Cities, is visiting for a few days with West end friends.

Mrs. A. Lofgren of 2305 West Second street will entertain at a valentine party tomorrow afternoon at her home.

Mrs. A. M. Worthington of 2720 West Third street has as her guest, Miss Ruley of St. Paul.

Mrs. O. F. Wennerlund of 2321 West Second street is in Illinois on a month's visit with friends and relatives.

The drama "Cornelia," presented last evening by the Holy Angels' Sodality of St. Clement's Catholic church at St. Jean Baptiste hall, Twenty-fifth avenue west and Third street, met with the approval of a large audience. All who took part made a creditable showing. Those in the cast were: Mildred Campbell, Evelyn Doocey, Agnes Cruikshank, Irene Gratto, Florence Ryan, Alice Lamb, Margaret Daly, Lillian Tshirgi, Margaret Anglins, Elizabeth McNichols, Geraldine Anglin and Veronica McNarney.

ASK HEAVY DAMAGES

Plaintiffs in Three Personal Injury Actions Want $65,000.

Cloquet Man Sues Duluth Automobile Owners for $20,000.

Three personal injury actions which in all amount to $65,000 were filed in district court yesterday. They will be placed on the March calendar and will be on trial at the next term of court.

The largest action is that of Charles Maki, who wants $25,000 from the Republic Iron & Steel company for injuries alleged to have been received while working at the Monica mine near Biwabik.

He charges negligence and carelessness on the part of his employers. He claims to have been caught in a cave-in while working in the shaft of the mine.

Another suit of importance in point of the amount of money involved is brought by John Oman of Cloquet against three Duluth automobile owners, Otto Johnson, Daniel Wallinder and Frank G. Carlson.

Oman claims that while driving with a horse and buggy on the Cloquet road, the three Duluthians mentioned came along in the cars. He claims that they were driving at a dangerous rate of speed and that they did not stop when his horse became frightened. He says that in trying to manage the animal, he was thrown to the ground and trampled upon. For alleged negligence on the part of the defendants, Oman asks $20,000.

Kalle Salo, a minor, through his guardian, Jacob Forsman, sues the Duluth & Northern Minnesota Railway company for $20,000. He claims to have been injured when a cable slipped from its guide wheels and struck him in the face. He was helping to unload a car of gravel at the time of the accident.

SOME GOOD JOBS ARE HANDED OUT

Officers of the New Court of Commerce Get Good Salaries.

Washington, Feb. 9.—Formal organization of the recently created commerce court was effected yesterday in the conference room of the court of customs appeals, Martin A. Knapp, presiding judge of the court, acting as chairman.

In addition to Judge Knapp, the other members of the court, Judges John F. Carland, Robert W. Archbald, William H. Hunt and Julian W. Mack, were in attendance.

An order was entered that the court would open for business at noon Wednesday, Feb. 15, at which time, cases now pending in other courts that properly are to be adjudicated by the new court, will be automatically transferred. Announcement was made of the selection of the following officers of the new court:

Clerk, George Fletcher Snyder of Elkins, W. Va., salary $4,000; deputy clerk, Wilbur S. Hinman, Cleveland, Ohio, salary $2,500; Marshal, Frank Jerome Stark, Cleveland, Ohio, salary $3,000; deputy marshal, James L. Murphy, District of Columbia, salary $2,500.

Mr. Snyder was secretary to the late Senator Elkins and is a clerk of the senate committee on interstate commerce. He is a lawyer and is known among railroad officials and shippers. Mr. Hinman has been attached to the confidential clerical staff of the White House for many years. Mr. Stark is connected with the international revenue bureau of the treasury department, having for a long time served as chief clerk.

Mr. Murphy is chief of a division of the Interstate commerce commission.

USING RECTIGRAPH.

New Contrivance Employed Transcribing Red Lake County Records.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Feb. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The "rectigraph" is the latest addition to the county of Pennington. This is the name of a new fangled process or machine whereby public records, deeds, mortgages, and, in fact, all manner of instruments are duplicated and new records established.

Register of Deeds Ernest Quist visited Madison, Wis., in January and viewed the rectigraph at work in the state capitol. It was so satisfactory that he immediately rented the machine and is now using it in Red Lake Falls, the county seat of Red Lake county, to transcribe those records which pertain to Pennington county. The pages of the large county record books are photographed on loose leaves and these are bound in book form. The background of the copy is almost black, while the printed or written letters are white and most remarkably clear cut and distinct. Chemists claim that they will become more so with age and that the record will excel the ink used in either writing or printing for permanency. The work of transcribing these records under this method will not take over four months, while by the old system it would have taken at least twice the time to complete the work. This county will probably have the finest and clearest set of official records in the state when all is compiled.

KITTSON COUNTY HAS VERY WELCOME SNOWFALL.

Hallock, Minn., Feb. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The snowfall in Kittson county is probably the heaviest for five years. Since Feb. 1 about eighteen inches of snow on the level has fallen and it has been a difficult job to keep roads open at all. The farmers say that this heavy snowfall now speaks well for a good summer and a bumper crop in the fall, as a lot of snow is just what the ground needs more than anything else.

Parents of Dead Baby Gone.

Green Bay, Wis., Feb. 9.—Search is being made for Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Cline, who lived in this city a short time ago and who left twin babies, five weeks old, in the care of a neighbor woman. Yesterday one of the babies died and all efforts to locate the parents proved futile. A letter was received last week from Mr. Cline and was mailed at Crystal Falls, Mich.

EASTER LATE THIS YEAR

Lent Will Not Begin Until March 1---Easter April 16.

Rules Laid Down for Observance in Catholic and Episcopal Churches.

Lent will begin this year on March 1.

"How Ash Wednesday and the Lent season are reckoned seems to be a mystery to many people," said a Roman Catholic clergyman today. "Lent is always reckoned from Easter Sunday, but to many people this is equally mysterious.

"Easter Sunday always is the first Sunday after the first full moon after the spring equinox, March 21. If the full moon is on Sunday, Easter is the Sunday following, Easter comes April 16 this year.

"Lent is generally forty days before Easter. There are usually six Sundays intervening but they are not counted in the forty days. This makes Lent always begin on Ash Wednesday. It is always preceded by Shrove Tuesday which is the last day before Lent."

Another clergyman discussed the observance of Lent as follows: "Lent is the Christian season of observing the forty days' fast of our Savior in the desert and consequently the church expects its members to follow the example of Christ, in a small way at least. All dances and other forms of amusement are foreswork. On Wednesdays and Fridays the members of the church eat no flesh of animals and on all other days in Lent flesh is eaten only once a day. Eggs and fish can be used at any time and to any extent except that fish cannot be used at the same meal as meat. From these observations of Lent some aged or infirm persons are exempt."

The Episcopal church observes Lent, also, but it does not dictate any method of observance other than various religious services which are held at intervals in the forty days of Lent. The observance of Lent is left by the church to the mood and temperment of the communicant. The rules say: "The church orders sun a measure of abstinence as is more especially adapted to extraordinary acts and exercises of devotion." This means that there should be no formal parties or social functions but that the church does not place a ban on the so-called innocent amusements. The observance of Lent is left to the dictates of the communicant's conscience.

IS A LIFE OF ADVENTURE

Moving Picture Camera Man Has Many Thrilling Experiences.

H. A. Crowhurst Tells of Some Narrow Escapes From Death.

Penetrating into perilous places, making thrilling rides on scenic railways in mountainous countries at special daring speed, carrying a heavy camera in mountain climbing, clashing with officious authorities and running risk of arrest and imprisonment in taking prohibited views, the life of the moving picture camera man is not all sunshine and roses.

H. A. Crowhurst, Lyman H. Howe's star moving picture camera man, arrived in Duluth today to take views of Duluth street scenes, ice boating and the big ski tournament at Chester hill Sunday for a series of American views, which Mr. Howe will exhibit all over the country. Mr. Crowhurst has been in the business since the cinematograph was invented. He has taken views all over Europe, has seen the great development in the moving picture business that has taken place in the last ten years and has now come to America to use his art in recording scenes in this country.

Mr. Crowhurst has had a varied experience and he has stories without number of thrilling adventures, interesting scenes and ludicrous experiences with which he has met in practicing his profession.

Mr. Crowhurst has taken pictures all through the United Kingdom and in every country in Europe. He has recorded the life of the Parisians, the military maneuvers of the Italian cavalry, the gymnastic exhibitions in Belgrade, the capital of Servia, the life of Russians in St. Petersburg and Moscow, the picturesque beauty of the falls of the Gottenberg canal. He has recorded the movements of monarchs and crown princes and has defied authority in obtaining the photographs which afterwards delighted thousands of people.

In the Midst of Danger.

Mr. Crowhurst nearly met death several times. Once, when he was taking views of the giant ship Olympic while it was being constructed in the Belfast shipyards, he was hoisted far up in the structure in a bucket. With a man who was assisting him, he started to walk around and, being absorbed in his work, he did not notice just where he was going. Looking down, he suddenly saw that he was on a beam about eighteen inches wide. In one hand he had his camera, weighing nearly 100 pounds. There was no guard rail of any kind and he could only grip his nerve and keep on. Something brushed his shoulder and, glancing down, he saw that a workman above had dropped a heavy bolt. Had there been two inches difference in the path of the falling bolt, Mr. Crowhurst must have been knocked from the beam and to instant death.

In talking of the officiousness of European authorities, Mr. Crowhurst told of an experience he had in Belgrade. He had authority from the military commander to take pictures of the gymnastic maneuvers. King Peter and the crown prince and princess were expected to attend and Mr. Crowhurst was anxious to get pictures of them. When he had posted his camera, Mr. Crowhurst was approached by a little man in citizens' clothes, who peremptorily ordered him off.

"Everybody who amounts to anything in the European capitals is in uniform and when the little fellow didn't have a uniform, I didn't pay much attention to him," said Mr. Crowhurst. "He blustered around for a while and then called three or four big policemen, who started to hustle me off without waiting for explanations. I remonstrated so strenuously that I finally was given a chance to explain. It seems that when royalty attends functions there, the military authorities are subordinate to the police and the little fellow was a commissioner of police. I pacified him and was allowed to keep my place."

Some Views Prohibited.

At one time the military authorities of the different European countries had no objection to moving pictures of military maneuvers being taken, but most countries, except Europe and Denmark, have shut down now and no more military pictures may be taken. The Russians are especially strict and newspaper cameras and moving picture outfits are seized if they are found in operation.

A few preliminary pictures have been taken in Washington, but Duluth is favored as being the first city in which regular scenes will be taken for the American series. Mr. Howe has never shown American pictures, but he now believes that Americans will be entertained by views of their own country and he will take some pictures and show them as an experiment. Mr. Crowhurst believes that the ski tournament wil lmake an excellent film and if conditions are right the great winter sport as it is seen in Duluth will be shown all over the country.

"GREETERS" WILL DINE

Duluth Hotel Clerks Will Be Guests of the Spalding.

Luncheon at the St. Louis Is Prelude to Business Meeting.

Duluth hotel clerks have responded readily to the suggestion that they organize a local association and at a meeting held at the Spalding this afternoon they are preparing to launch such an organization, which will be affiliated with the "Greeters of America," represented here today by the national secretary, Roland H. Hawkes of Springfield, Ill.

Mr. Hawkes, accompanied by Earl Byers of the Ryan hotel, St. Paul, president of the Twin City branch of the National Greeters, came to the city last night on the belated Twilight limited and went to the Spalding, where Manager Edwin H. Lee entertained them as his guests at a supper.

This morning was spent by the visitors in fraternizing with the clerks of the Duluth hotels, and at noon they were the guests of the St. Louis management at luncheon, many of the local Greeters being guests with them.

The afternoon was devoted to a business meeting at the St. Louis, at which it is probable the local branch of the Greeters will be organized, after which the Spalding management will be host to the visitors and local clerks.

Mr. Hawkes, besides being national secretary of the association, is publisher of The Hummer, a journal devoted to the interest of the Greeters and the official organ of their association.

The Greeters of America as an organization is only about a year old, but it is a lusty infant and growing at an astonishing rate. State organizations of hotel clerks have been formed and have been in existence for years in several cities, but never has a national organization of the kind been brought to the high state of development that has already been attained by the Greeters.

It is planned to organize a tri-state alliance, including the hotel clerks of Minnesota, North and South Dakota. Secretary Hawkes is devoting his attention to this project.

Realizing that it will result in the better protection of their own interests, hotel managers in all parts of the country are encouraging the growth of the national body. Later the Greeters of America may expand its objects and atms to the extent that an insurance feature may be included in its scope, but at first it is to be only a fraternal organization.

Messrs. Hawkes and Ryers will leave for the Twin Cities this evening.

PAVILION IS ASSURED

Sanitarium for Children Will Be Erected This Coming Spring.

Lodges and Societies Will Be Asked to Furnish Rooms.

A meeting of the St. Louis county sanitarium commission will be held tomorrow at Dr. Hart's office, 211, the courthouse.

This is the regular monthly meeting of the board and only routine business matters will be transacted so far as is known at the present time.

Dr. Hart will have a meeting tomorrow with the committee of ten women who are raising the money with which to erect the children's pavilion on the sanitarium site.

The funds for the pavilion are at the present time practically assured and the work on the building may begin with the other operations early in the spring.

Several people have notified Dr. Hart that they desire to furnish rooms or departments at the sanitarium. People are not only invited but urged to do this. No one will be asked to keep up the room or department, the equipment being all that is asked. This leaves so much more money for the commission to work out its plans.

Soon representatives of the commission will appear before the several lodges and societies, show them the plans for the sanitarium and ask their financial help in furnishing the buildings.

It is expected that there will be a ready response to this request as the work to be done is most important and it is a work in which every one is at the present time interested.

PRIZE PENS DETERMINED

Nearly All Awards Are Made at Duluth Poultry Show.

Competition for Special Prizes Friday—Attendance Records Broken.

It is possible that the judging of the pen classes and some of the sweepstakes may be completed today at the Duluth Poultry show. The awarding of the prizes in the different classes ranging down to the pen and sweepstakes awards, has been about finished and the officials are now at work on the finals. Tomorrow will see the awards all made.

The prize-winning cages are decked with ribbons today, adding to the general air of importance of some of the more pompous birds. Yesterday marked the high attendance record of the show, many visitors from the country near Duluth being present. Interest in the exhibition is growing, for this is by all odds the best show ever given by the association, and today and Friday promise to be the most interesting days of the week.

Bert Williams has some fine pen exhibits, which will compete for prizes, and Theodore Hollister of Lakeside has also some fine groups that should carry away some of the prizes.

Competition for some of the special prizes may be started late today, though it is very doubtful if showing for the special events will be called before Friday.

Superior fanciers have shown a very great interest in the show because of the fact that an exhibition will oe held in that city next week. Laxative Cough Syrup Cures When All Fail

Make It At Home.

This fine recipe, when prepared at home, is said to make the surest acting cough cure ever heard of. It has cured many in 5 hours by the clock. Fine for la grippe, colds, sore throat, and chronic bronchitis of old people, too. Any one can easily make it at home—a full pint costing less than 80 cents. Obtain a 2½ ounce package of essence mentho-laxene and make it into a pint of syrup by following simple directions contained in package. You make the syrup of granulated sugar and mix. Eight to ten dozes daily create a laxative action of the bowels and the cough and cold are soon cured as the poisons are carried out of the system. It relieves the tighest cough in one hour and cures the chronic cough of old people quicker and surer than anything ever heard of, while it is just fine for children's coughs, as they like it, and by its laxative tonic effect it prevents pneumonia, fever and other complications of colds.

Those in this city who have tried it, think it is the best thing ever discovered to relieve and cure throat and lung trouble.

Here is the formula:

Essence mentho-laxene..2½ Ozs.
Granulated sugar syrup.13½ Ozs.

Compared with labeled syrups, you save $3 or $4 by making at home.

GAME FIGHT BY WOMAN

Why Mrs. John Parcham of Proctor Prosecuted Saloon Keepers.

Her Story Arouses Admiration and Sympathy of Court Attaches.

Mrs. John Parcham of Proctor, the complaining witness in all the cases that have been tried thus far against saloon keepers of that place on charges of selling liquor to children and keeping their places of business open on Sunday, has made a fight against great odds, and it looks at the present time as though she has won.

For years Mrs. Parcham, who is the mother of seven children, one of whom is at the present time dying at the family home of lung trouble, has done her own work, cared for her children and kept boarders, while her husband spent the greater part of his earnings for liquor, it is claimed.

She did all this that the family might be supported, for she knew that if she did not do it, the family would undoubtedly be broken up.

Many times the husband's money would be garnisheed at the end of the month by some saloon keeper. Try as she might it was the same story month after month.

She literally went down on her knees, according to her story, and asked them to sell her husband no more whisky, as it was breaking up their home.

She finally determined to take desperate steps, as she could plainly see the end. One Sunday morning she sent her young son, who is 11 years of age, to nearly every saloon in town. As he came home with the liquor from each place she labelled it, stating the date of the sale to the boy and the saloon from which it came. In each instance he had obtained the liquor, it is said.

In all, nine saloons were visited and there were nine actions in district court. As soon as she had collected the evidence she turned the facts, together with the exhibits, over to County Attorney John H. Norton. He presented the cases to the grand jury and the men were indicted, some of them on two counts. One of them has already been proven guilty, another has pleaded guilty and it is probable that more of them will take this action to lessen their punishment and end the matter.

Mrs. Parcham says this was her only chance. She said that if it had been allowed to go on much longer, their home would have been broken up.

A great deal of sympathy is being shown for Mrs. Parcham at the courthouse and in court where her story has been told many times on the witness stand.

The father has a good postion at the car shops at Proctor and Mrs. Parcham thinks that they will be happy from this time on.

MANY DEATHS IN JANUARY

Vital Statistics Show Unusual Number for One Month.

Vital statistics at the office of the health department show that January had an unusual number of deaths, as compared with the same month of previous years.

The records show that Duluth had 96 resident and 22 non-resident deaths. Of the former, 36 were due to general diseases, including 13 from tuberculosis; 9 were due to diseases of the nervous system, 15 to diseases of the respiratory system, being pneumonia of different classifications, and 4 were due to external causes, including one murder, that of Patrolman Chesmore.

Of the non-resident deaths, 5 were due to accidental causes. Last year there were 36 resident and 9 non-resident deaths, which is considered about the average for January.

SUPERIOR

CORONER SCOUTS SUICIDE THEORY

Harry Robinson, Former Professional Hypnotist, Found Dead in Room.

An investigation by Coroner Geisen into the circumstances surrounding the death of Harry Robinson, aged 30, a well known character in the lower end of the city, whose dead body was found late yesterday afternoon in bed at the home of Henry West, 1412 North Fourth street, failed to reveal any suspicious indications.

The mouth of the dead man was found to be badly discolored and this gave rise to the theory that he might have poisoned himself. A post mortem examination showed this not to be the case.

Robinson was a musician and at one time worked on the stage as a professional hypnotist under the management of H. North of Chicago. When so engaged he used the name of Anderson. No relatives have been located and the body is held at the Le Sage undertaking rooms.

It is expected that about 500 will be seated at the banquet.

MISUNDERSTANDING OVER SALE CAUSE OF ARREST.

Charles Franker, a whisky salesman, was arrested yesterday at the instigation of J. C. Bell, a saloonkeeper at 1220 Third street, who alleges that Franker had secured $35 in cash and $160 in notes under false pretenses.

Bell purchased from Franker 242 gallons of bonded whisky for $195 and claims that Franker represented to him that there was no additional tax to pay to secure the whisky. After the sale had been negotiated, he learned that on each gallon he must pay $1.10 internal revenue tax. Franker was arrested in Duluth but returned to Superior.

CHILDREN'S HOME ANNEX HAS FORMAL OPENING.

Henry Ward Dies.

Henry Ward, aged 83, died yesterday afternoon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ira Wiley, 1306 Tower avenue, with whom he had lived for the past fourteen years. Heart trouble was the cause of death. He is survived by two other daughters, Mrs. Thomas Bryce and Mrs. Harry Bray of Alexandria, La., and one son, Oscar Ward of Inkster, N. D. The body will be sent to Augusta, Wis., for burial.

Indoor Rifle Match.

An indoor rifle match will be put on at Maryland hall Tuesday evening by Company I. The contestants will be teams selected by the first and second lieutenants of the company, and following the shoot, a supper will be served. Several Duluth guardsmen have been invited to attend.

After St. Paul's Scalp.

Manager Tony Lavelle of the Blaine Alumni basket ball squad is trying to arrange a return game with the St. Paul Y. M. C. A. five to be played in Superior. A meeting will be held Saturday evening, at St. Paul, to decide as to whether the challenge of the locals will be accepted or not.

Workman Injured.

Caught between two steel girders, each weighing six tons, John Wood, aged 28, employed by the Pittsburg Construction company, at the new Great Northern steel dock at Allouez, had his leg so badly crushed yesterday afternoon, that it is probable that it will have to be amputated. He was taken to St. Mary's hospital.

DECREASE IN TRAFFIC

Tonnage of Portage Lake Canals Shows a Falling Off.

Total Freight Handled Through Canals Is Valued at $77,262,115.

The total freight passing up and down through the Portage Lake ship canals in Michigan during the last navigation season was 2,384,676 tons, valued at $77,262,115, a decrease of 6.7 per cent from the previous year and an increase of 27.6 per cent over the tonnage for the year 1900.

Of the freight passing through the canals, 48.4 per cent, or 1,153,627 tons valued at $26,296,816 was freight carried by vessels which entered from either direction and was received and shipped at the ports within the waterway.

In some commodities there is shown an increase of freight carried over last year, amounting to 159,491 short tons, the principal commodities showing this increase being refined copper, cement, flour, lath, lumber, oils and sand. A decrease of 318,891 short tons is shown in other commodities, the principal ones being hard coal, soft coal, mineral copper, flaxseed, grains, manufactured iron, iron ore, limestone, miscellaneous merchandise, pig iron, pulpwood, building stone and wheat.

The navigation season covered a period of 247 days, extending from the opening on April 5 to the closing on Dec. 7. However, the channel from Houghton to the upper entrance of the waterway was kept open after Dec. 7 by the Reid Wrecking company's tugs, Sarnia City and Manistique, which were running at the close of the calendar year.

The statistics have been compiled in the local office at Houghton, Mich., by George H. Banks, junior engineer, overseer, and were received today by Lieut.-Col. Graham D. Fitch, chief of the corps of engineers in charge of harbor improvements in Lake Superior.

KEYS TO CITY JAIL WERE LOST

Police Unable to Get Into Lockup for Two Hours.

The city lockup was out of commission for two hours this morning. Prisoners behind the heavy iron doors could not be taken out and prisoners on the outside could not be placed in the lockup. The doors were locked, the keys were lost and and the jailer and other officers were in despair.

After a long search the keys had not been revealed. The disappearance of the keys was noted at 8 o'clock and at 10 o'clock, all other resources having been exhausted, a message was sent to a locksmith to visit the jail and get busy at his trade. Somebody happened to remember that Patrolman Youngberg had used the keys shortly before 8 o'clock. As a last resort, a messenger was sent to his home and the officer was awakened. The keys were found in his pocket. Youngberg had absent-mindedly put the keys in his pocket after using them and had gone home and to bed.

NEW FEATURES IN ELKS' BIG MINSTREL AND VAUDEVILLE SHOW

Features and innovations never seen before in Duluth will characterize the minstrel and vaudeville show which will be given by the Elks at the Lyceum theater Feb. 20 and 21. "A laugh a minute" is the keynote. There'll be "something doing" from the first rise of the curtain until the last song has been sung and the last word tossed over the footlights.

To sustain their reputation, the Elks are sparing no trouble or expense to make the coming entertainment the best that can be produced. The highest class talent in the city has been secured and the costumes and scenery will be second to none. To get new and unique ideas a specially appointed committee has been traveling in the East, and they have brought back a long list at considerable cost, which will be seen in this city for the first time.

The musical end of the program is under the direction of Prof. A. F. M. Custance. Mr. Custance is so well known to Duluthians that the mere mention of his name is sufficient guarantee of that part of the evening's entertainment. He is exerting himself to produce new, original and comic song hits. Prof. Custance could put on a roaring bunch of songs without other aid than his own ability, but in order to overlook no opportunity, he has been in communication with the largest publishing houses in the country the last two months.

John A. Doran has assumed the role of manager. His experience in the minstrel business, extending over a period of fifteen years, together with other lines of the theatrical business, leaves no doubt but that this part of the show will be equal to the rest of the program. Mr. Doran has been devoting his energies to the production of the different features of the program for weeks past. Rehearsals have been held regularly. Those who have been privileged to see them declare with unbounded enthusiasm that the Duluth public has a treat in store for it.

A. F. M. CUSTANCE.

DULUTH MAN WILL GIVE TOAST TO LINCOLN AT MINNEAPOLIS BANQUET

E. L. Millar has accepted an invitation to respond to the toast, "Abraham Lincoln," at the banquet of the Young Men's Republican club of Minneapolis at the Radisson hotel next Monday evening. Governor Eberhart and W. H. Eustis are on the program and the banquet will be one of the big affairs of the year in Minneapolis.

Mr. Millar's fame as an after-dinner speaker has apparently spread to the Twin Cities.

No banquet given in Duluth is complete without Mr. Millar's presence and usually he appears in the role of toastmaster and fills it with wit and distinction. Mr. Millar's fund of stories is seemingly inexhaustible and he has a faculty of turning them to advantage in illustrating his points and sometimes to the discomfiture of other speakers. His utterances bubble over with original wit that can get a laugh from any after-dinner audience. His address on Lincoln will necessarily be in a serious vein.

GOOD PROSPECT FOR PASSAGE OF STATE MINE BUILDING BILL

vide that the building should be located on state lands in or near Hibbing, and with this amendment it was voted unanimously by the committee that the bill should be recommended to pass. It will have to go before the house committee on appropriations before it is acted upon by the house, but the range representatives are working hard for the measure, and there is every prospect that it will pass.

Feb. 23 is the ominously significant date fixed by the house committee on towns and counties for a public hearing on the Austin-Arnold bill to make the division of St. Louis county easy.

Representative C. T. Knapp appeared before the committee to ask that the hearing be granted, as requested by those who are pushing the bill. He asked for a date as early as possible, but after scanning the calendar the committee was unable to find a day earlier than Thursday, Feb. 23, so the hearing will be held then.

All three of the range representatives are receiving voluminous mails these days, and practically all of the letters that are coming with reference to county division are from Mesaba range communities, and are protests against the passage of the bill at this time.

Tonnage Tax Bill Coming.

The tonnage tax bill is likely to be introduced any day. Thomas Frankson of Spring Valley, who is now reported to be the prospective father of the bill, stated yesterday afternoon to The Herald that the bill would be introduced within a very few days. He declined to state whether, as reported, he would introduce it, but he did not deny it. He said that the proposed bill is practically the same as the famous Bjorge bill of two years ago. Some changes have been made in it, he said, but none of particular importance.

It will provide for a tax on the output of iron mines running from 2 cents to 5 cents per ton, according to grade; such tax to be for state purposes and to go into the general revenue fund, and to be in lieu of all other state taxes for whatever purpose. As in the bill of 1909, an attempt will be made to have different methods of taxation for state and local purposes by leaving the mines subject to taxation for local purposes as at present.

According to Mr. Frankson, the tax is to be 2 cents per ton on ores containing less than 49 per cent of iron without reference to other contents determining the value of the ore, such as phosphorus—and 2 cents on ore containing from 49 to 54 per cent of iron, 4 cents on ore containing from 54 to 59 per cent of iron, and 5 cents on all ore containing more than 59 per cent of iron.

If the tonnage tax bill should become law—which is extremely unlikely in view of the fact that it has not been an issue since two years ago, that only three or four members of the house are pledged to it where thirty or more were pledged to it in 1909, and that the working of the state tax commission has resulted in placing on the iron mines an assessed valuation that is yielding large revenues to the state—the iron mines would be exempt from taxation for the state university, for the soldiers' home and for state road work. The revenues derived from such a tax would go into the general revenue fund, which is spent only in administrative work and such purposes as special appropriations for the state university, the state capitol, etc., and if teh 1-mill tax for good roads which is certain to go through the legislature is approved by the people, property assessed at about a quarter of a billion dollars, and yielding under such a tax about a quarter of a million dollars annually for good roads, would be exempted from that tax.

Borgen's Building Lien Bill.

The house judiciary committee will have a public hearing next Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock on the bill by Representative Anton Borgen of Duluth amending the building lien law in the interest of the man who is building a home. The bill provides that the owner can hold back the amount of the contract for a specified period, that the contractor must report to the owner the names of all those likely to become lien claimants, that the contractor shall be punished for making false reports, and that all possible lien claimants must be cared for by the contractor before the contract is closed. Representative Borgen has received a protest from the Duluth Builders' exchange against the bill, but he has the support of the Minneapolis Builders' exchange.

Wednesday morning at the same time the judiciary committee of the house will have a public hearing on the Fisher bill regulating hotels to provide for the safety of their guests.

If the action of the senate committee on taxes and tax laws prevails, no change will be made at this session in the mortgage registry tax law, which imposes a tax of 50 cents per $100 on mortgages.

The sub-committee to which the several bills bearing on this matter had been referred reported to the committee yesterday afternoon in favor of indefinitely postponing all of them and leaving the law as it now stands, and the committee, by a unanimous vote, indorsed the sub-committee's action.

Bills were pending to repeal the mortgage registry tax law altogether, and to reduce it to 25 cents and to 10 cents per $100.

The chief argument against the present law are that the tax which was intended to rest on the lender of money, is inevitably shouldered off upon the borrower.

The senate temperance committee will meet this afternoon, and it will, in all probability, take up the county option bill introduced by Senator Victor L. Johnson, chairman of the committee. The committee is favorable to the bill and will recommend it to pass. When the report is received the friends of the measure will move to make it a special order for an early date, when it will be voted down as it was in the house Tuesday. It takes thirty-two votes to pass a bill in the senate, and it is predicted that the county option bill will have somewhere around twenty-five votes in its favor.

Railroads Oppose Increase.

The house committee on taxes and tax laws yesterday afternoon held its first public hearing, and took up the two pending bills increasing the gross earnings tax on railroads from 4 per cent to 5 per cent. One bill simply increases the tax, letting the proceeds go as at present into the general revenue fund. The other, by Representative C. H. Warner of Aitkin, provides that the additional revenue shall go into the road and bridge fund.

Representatives of several of the railroads were present to argue against the bill. They asserted that the railroads are taxed now on about the same basis as other property, and that the increase would be unjust. One of the railroad advocates said that where farm property along his line is now taxed at $5.66 per $1,000 of actual value, railroad property is taxed at more than $8, and the proposed increase would make the railroad tax amount to more than $10 per $1,000. No action was taken by the committee.

The senate elections committee is trying to arrange to report on the Farrington-Froshaug case, the last of the three contests, by Friday, though it is more likely to report next week. The impression is growing that the outcome of the three contests will be that the contestants all will lose.

Senators Ahmann and Saugstad, whose seats were contested, are already secure in their places; and unless the senate elections committee finds that there was no tampering with the ballots Senator Froshaug is also likely to keep his seat.

The committee heard some more testimony yesterday afternoon, and then went into executive session to examine the contents of the ballot boxes in four of the five disputed precincts.

The house committee on education yesterday afternoon recommended for passage Representative Kunze's bill providing for a "Minnesota Day" in the public schools. The day is to be fixed during the school year by the state superintendent of public instruction, and on that day the schools must hold exercises in which the pupils will be told something of the history and resources of the state. The object, of course, is to inspire state pride among those who are presently to be in charge of the state's affairs.

The committee voted to recommend for indefinite postponement the bill providing for a county board of education to select county superintendents of schools, the object of the bill being to provide for county superintendents with educational qualifications. Those who favor having county superintendents required by law to know something about education will now push the bill proposing a constitutional amendment imposing an educational qualification on candidates for county superintendent.

The bill of Representatives Mattson and H. Nelson, redrafting the compulsory education law and permitting farm children to stay out of school during the late spring and early fall to work on the farm, was recommended for passage by the committee.

Against Reciprocity.

The house committee on agriculture yesterday afternoon voted to recommend for passage the joint resolution by Representative S. N. Lee of Clay county urging the Minnesota delegation in congress to defeat the proposed reciprocity agreement with Canada. The vote was nine in favor and two against, but there will be no minority report and the bill will go on general orders to be fought out in the usual way.

The house drainage committee yesterday afternoon approved the resolution by Representative Holten providing for an investigation of state drainage work. A similar resolution was approved by the committee some time ago and adopted by the house, but this resolution changes the older one so as to provide that instead of the committee's reporting on the situation after getting the evidence, the committee shall report the evidence to the house and let that body draw its own deductions.

The resolution provides for a committee of five, which Speaker Dunn has not yet appointed.

Senator T. M. Pugh of Duluth, known as the father of the naval militia because he was the author of the law which created that branch of the state's defenses, today introduced in the senate a bill appropriating $5,000 annually for the naval militia in addition to the appropriations already provided for.

The house temperance committee yesterday afternoon approved the bill by P. S. Converse of Detroit, aimed at the nuisance of drunkenness on trains. It prohibits drunken men from boarding trains and gives the conductors police power over such matters. A similar bill having passed the senate, the senate bill was substituted for the Converse bill.

The senate railroad committee held what was intended to be the final hearing on the Cashman distance tariff bill last evening.

Senator Saugstad yesterday afternoon introduced in the senate a bill extending the primary election system to state officers and providing that the primaries shall be held in June instead of in November. Conventions would be done away with altogether, and provision is made that party platforms shall be made up by the candidates who win at the primaries.

Senator Saugstad also offered a bill providing for wide distribution of the journals of the senate and house. Under its provisions copies are to go to each county auditor, to each township, city and village and to each public library.

Senator Schaller is the author of a new bill proposing an amendment to the Constitution making legal voters instead of population the basis of legislative representation, and providing that in making senatorial or representative districts the legislature cannot attach part of one county to part of another county.

Senator Stebbins proposes district regulation of transient merchants in a bill offered in the senate yesterday. They must pay a license fee of $150, and they can't advertise unless they file with the county auditor affidavits setting forth the true facts regarding the goods they offer for sale. Their advertisements must square with the affidavits, or they are punished.

The senate committee on banks and banking yesterday introduced two bills for the protection of banks. One makes it a gross misdemeanor, punishable by $1,000 fine or a year's imprisonment or both, to issue checks without a deposit to back them up, when it is done with intent to defraud. The other provides a similar penalty for circulating reports likely to hurt a bank's credit.

Senator L'Herault of Minneapolis proposes that real estate dealers shall take out licenses and file bonds in a bill introduced yesterday. Bonds of $2,000 must be filed with the county auditor, and clients injured by them may sue on these bonds.

Senator Sundberg would give farm laborers a lien on crops for their wages and yesterday afternoon he introduced in the senate a bill providing for such a lien law.

county treasurer from $3,500 and $3,000 respectively to $4,500 each. The delegation thought that about right for the auditor, but did not think the treasurer's work warranted so large a salary. The new figure raises that office $600 a year over what it used to be.

The bill authorizing Duluth to issue $700,000 in bonds to build an electric light plant was approved in the form in which it had been redrafted by City Attorney Fesler, except that the delegation cut out the provision that the bonds might be voted on at a special election held at the same timo as a general election.

The advocates of the measure wanted the bill framed, in the first place, so that the bonds would carry by a mere majority of those voting on the proposition. This the delegation would not entertain, insisting that a majority of those voting at the election be required. The effect of Mr. Fesler's change would have been to allow the adoption of the bonds at a general election by a majority of those voting on the proposition, not by a majority of those voting at the election. The bill will be introduced in a day or two by Representative E. R. Ribenack.

The delegation decided not to introduce the bill proposed by the Duluth Bar association, raising the salaries of the judges of the municipal court from $3,000 to $4,000, and making their terms of office four years. The members felt that the increase is not justified at this time.

LYCEUM—William H. Turner in "Father and the Boys."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
ODEUM and LYRIC—Photoplay.

Green Room Gossip.

William H. Turner will open an engagement of three nights and a matinee at the Lyceum tonight in "Father and the Boys." This was the clever Ade comedy presented here last year by William H. Crane. Mr. Turner followed Mr. Crane in the role of "David Harum" and has also followed him in the Ade comedy. His work in both of these comedies is said to have compared very favorably with that of Mr. Crane and those who saw "Father and the Boys" last year will have very pleasant recollections of it.

Sam Chip and Mary Marble, who are appearing at the Orpheum this week in their comedy sketch, "In Old Edam," have been seen in Duluth on several former occasions. They were last here as the babes in "Babes in Toyland," the musical comedy that was so popular a few years ago. They have always been in demand by musical comedy producers for any children's roles. Their present comedy sketch is the work of Mrs. Channing Pollock, the wife of the New York dramatic writer.

Many theater-goers of this city are unacquainted with the fact that Willard Mack was a very well-known athlete in his college days. He played football, baseball and was also one of the best boxers in college. Many times this training has assisted Mr. Mack in some detail of his profession, and when one witnesses the spectacular stage fight that comes in a startling climax at the end of the third act of "God's Country" it is easy to understand where athletic training helps in stage work.

It is said that the role of Bill Ruggles is one that affords Mr. Mack opportunity for some of the best character work he has done for some years. Mr. Mack knows Montana and this knowledge and his enthusiasm for his subject have resulted, it is claimed, in an intensely interesting play.

Next week promises to be a notable one at the Duluth Orpheum as it marks the engagement of the Imperial Russian Dancers, who are said to be the biggest feature act on the circuit.

The dancers, Lydia Lapokawa, Alexander Volinine and Theodor Lapokawa, are from the Imperial Russian ballet of St. Petersburg, the same organization that sent Mordkin and Pavlowa to America. The three dancers have been in America but a few months and will return to Europe at the conclusion of their Orpheum tour, as they are booked to appear at the exhibition in Rome in July.

They will present Russian dances only, the men featuring the Russian peasant dances, with their strenuous jumping and acrobatic whirling.

"King of the Cannibal Island," a comedy film, is the feature of the bill at the Lyric photoplay house for the latter part of the week. The adventures of a sea wanderer who is cast up on an island in the South seas are drawing laughs from every audience. The other films on the bill are also good examples of the photoplay constructor's art. I. S. Mistachkin is singing "Ma Mandy Lou."

At the Odeum photoplay house "The Three Sisters," a dramatic film telling the romance of a shop girl, is the feature. It is a vigorous exposition of the evils of public dances and is causing a great deal of comment and commendation. Other strong dramas and good comedy films complete the bill. Miss Maddox is singing "Some of These Days."

WOMAN'S REALM.

"I was terribly frightened and I didn't know what to do, but I knew about the Young Women's Christian association because they had one at home at Detroit, Mich., and I learned that they had one in Duluth, so I came down here."

Alma Cecil, a stranded chorus girl, who lies penniless slowly recovering from a most severe attack of appendicitis in the beautiful emergency room of the Y. W. C. A. here, told of her experience of being "stranded" at a little range town two weeks ago when the manager of "The Candy Girl," in which musical comedy she was playing, left owing the members of his troup salary for several weeks.

"I had just money enough to get down here and they took me in and were so kind to me. I wrote home for money, but my father is sick and I have no mother so they couldn't send me any, and then I was taken sick. I was sick for about two weeks before I was left without work and every day after our performance I would lie down on the trunks on the back of the stage, but I thought it was only a cold and then when I came down here and I got worse and the pain in my side was so bad, I wouldn't tell Miss Campbell because they had been so good to me and done so much for me already I didn't want to make them any more trouble, but last Monday I couldn't stand it any longer and I told them and they put me in here and gave me the best doctor and best nurse in the United States and I am feeling much better today.

"They have gotten me work to do and I was to have gone to work on Wednesday, but I hope it won't be long before I can go to work now."

Miss Cecil is a young girl about 19, pretty and is as cheerful as she can be.

"I was on the stage just six months but that is enough and I will not go back. I will be very glad if you will write my story and let people know how good they have been to me here."

This is only one instance of the work of this kind which is being done there by the secretaries. This young girl came there without a cent of money and has been there for over two weeks, and besides her board there will be the nurse's and doctor's bills and it may be that an operation will be necessary before she can do anything. If no help is given the Y. W. C. A. will have to stand the expense. What the association needs is an emergency fund to be used in cases of this kind.

Only last Sunday a young girl of 16 went to the building at 10:45 p. m. asking to be cared for during the night. She said she came to Duluth looking for work and had stayed at a hotel where they charged her 50 cents a night until she had only 40 cents left, so she asked a policeman where she could stay for 25 cents, and he took her to the Y. W. C. A. This girl was cared for and helped to find work.

These are only two of hundreds of cases and an emergency fund for the institution is a thing to be worked for.

The girls made plans last night for a Valentine party, which they will give next Wednesday evening.

At this meeting eight different industrial centers were represented.

"LIFE'S DISCIPLINE."

Second Lecture in the Series on Browning.

"Browning was not only a prophet of God, but also a prophet of the Soul," said Rev. John Walker Powell last evening in his second Browning lecture at the Endion Methodist church, when his subject was "The Discipline of Life."

"Browning was interested in the development of the soul of man and on this thought hangs the basis of much of his writing.

"Man is here as in a training school, to be fitted for the life of the soul. God puts us here and sets us at tasks not that He wants work done which He is unable to do Himself, but that we may have the training and experience by doing the work. God is not interested in the fact that we solve a problem but that we are trying to solve it. Man is here to be made, fashioned and wrought after a divine plan. 'Progress is man's distinctive mark alone, not God's, not Beasts.' 'God is, they are, man partly is and wholly hopes to be.'

"Life is a probation and man is here to find both evil and good and learn to distinguish between the two. His great lesson is to choose and to learn to choose right and stick to that choice. It matters not in the end whether we have chosen rightly or wrong, we gain in the end the same knowledge and strength and experience. Man never quite has the truth, he must go on from seeming truth to finally reach the truth itself."

These things he said and many others in his talk which was received with absorbing interest by his large audience.

The next lecture of the course will be given next Monday evening, when the subject will be "The Art of Optimism."

How to Manage a Husband

By POLLY PAGET.

When you marry, love him,
After you marry him, study him.
If he is honest, trust him.
If he is generous, appreciate him.
When he is sad, cheer him.
When he is cross, amuse him.
When he is talkative, listen to him.
When he is quarrelsome, ignore him.
If he is despairing, spur him on.
If he is good and thoughtful, praise him.

Hints for the Boudoir

By MILDRED WYCKOFF.

Your Gloves.

The knowledge of how to put on a pair of gloves is common to most women, but for those who do not know the proper way the following hints should be useful.

The best manner of putting on gloves is to open and turn back the gloves to the thumb and powder lightly.

Put the fingers in their places, not the thumb, and carefully work them on with the first finger and thumb of the other hand, until they are quite down; never press between the fingers.

Pass the thumb into its place with care, and work on with the fingers; turn back the glove and slide it over the hand and wrist, never pinching the kid, and work the glove into proper place by means of the lightest pressure, always allowing the kid to slide between the fingers. In finishing, care should be taken in fastening the first button.

Thick Eyebrows.

"My eyebrows are too thick, and nearly meet. What can I do to stop them growing over my nose. I should also like a tonic to make the hair grow," says "Rene."

It is impossible to stop the growth of the eyebrows, but you can avoid applying any grease to them, as this will surely increase their growth. A good hair tonic is composed of toilet paraffin. This can be purchased at any high class chemist's and should be applied to the roots of the hair three nights a week.

Short Hair.

"Could you please advise me about my hair. It is very thick, but short and I do so want it to grow longer," says Dennis N.

The simple method of clipping the ends of your hair once a month will encourage its growth, as also will a thorough brushing night and morning. Try this treatment and let me know the result.

THE EVENING STORY

A SURPRISE PACKET

By George Randall.

Relations between George Crainger and Henry Burlow had not been cordial; for the past few weeks, indeed, they had rarely spoken to each other.

"Here! What d'you mean by knockin' my coat down?" Burlow scrowled.

Crainger was one of Peterson's clerks and Burlow the foreman in the timber yard. Burlow had started as an ordinary "hand." Big and brawny himself, he despised the staff of indoor workers. Crainger and he, too, were rivals.

"I haven't touched it!" replied Crainger.

The foreman flushed, stepping nearer, with doubled fists.

"Easy, easy! What's the trouble here?"

Both turned towards the new-comer, an elderly man, who waved them apart. They glared at one another from either side of him.

"I'm surprised," he said.

There was a twinkle in his eye as he put the question, for Joe Tarrant knew very well the mischief his daughter had caused.

"Now, then, Henry Burlow, haven't you anything to do? Crainger, you're wanted inside."

They withdrew slowly; but Burlow waited till Joe Tarrant was out of hearing, then spoke curtly, over his shoulder.

"I shall see you at the side gate at 6 o'clock."

There was a threat in his voice. George Crainger stared after him uncomfortably. He was no coward, and decided that to avoid the meeting was out of the question. Yet what chance had he, if Burlow resorted to physical violence.

As it was the dinner hour, Joe Tarrant, who lived close by, walked on home. His daughter was waiting, and the meal ready. He sat down thoughtfully.

"I caught Burlow and young George Crainger having a few words just as I came away."

"Why, what was the matter, father?"

"Oh, I don't know! Any excuse would do. I expect you know the real reason."

"If you mean—" began Nellie Tarrant, indignantly, and stopped.

"Settle it," her father suggested. "Take the one with the most money."

The girl regarded him scornfully.

"If that's your idea, it isn't mine! Because Mr. Burlow happens to get a little more a week—"

"Half as much again."

During the afternoon Crainger and Burlow did not meet. The former looked forward to 6 o'clock with some uneasiness. The side gate, little used, was behind the large store, and led to a quiet lane. Crainger reflected that occasionally Nellie Tarrant waited there to meet her father after working hours.

The time came. He put away his books, and, with a hasty good-night to Mr. Tarrant, walked through the timber yard. Burlow swung round.

"Ho! So you've come, have you?"

"I choose to leave this way, that's all."

"One minute! First, let's finish our little argument! You 'aven't apologised yet for—"

"I didn't touch your coat, and I've said so already!"

"There's a lot of ways you've been annoying me lately!' persisted the foreman.

"Indeed!"

"Yes, indeed!" He caught Crainger's collar. "And I've a jolly good mind—"

Crainger shook himself free.

"Just because you work at a desk with a pen behind your ear and wear a pair o' cuffs, you make yourself out to be better than other people! You'd find out your mistake if you was man enough to stand up to me for five minutes!"

George Crainger faced the humiliating truth. He was neither tall nor athletic.

"Ah, I expected as much!" declared the foreman, derisively. "And, another thing, don't you go danglin' round Nellie Tarrant — hear what I say?"

Crainger could only mutter a weak defense.

"Go on, now."

He set his teeth in impotent self-contempt; then turned slowly. The girl just outside the side gate met him with a cold stare.

"I—I—You've been here long?"

"Long enough to overhear. So you take your orders from Mr. Burlow?"

Grainger winced at her tone, and began to speak; but she passed him scornfully.

The foreman advanced, smiling confidently. To his dismay, she turned upon him icily.

"I don't wish to speak to you. Has my father gone?"

"He'll be out in a minute. I say, Miss Tarrant."

"You needn't wait!" added the girl, haughtily. Henry Burlow, discomfited, departed reluctantly.

Meanwhile, George Grainger, fifty yards away, had halted, breathing fast.

Suddenly he began to retrace his steps.

"A bit of news today," announced Mr. Tarrant, carelessly. "Young Grainger's to leave. You haven't seen him this morning, I suppose?"

"What's he been doing,"

"Fighting," her father informed her, "with Henry Burlow. Of course, young Grainger was as good as beaten before they began."

Nell Tarrant nodded, with her chin held high.

"You take the one with the most money as I told you before," added her father wisely. "Burlow's the best man, if he is a bit rough."

There was a good deal of sniggering at Peterson's timber yard, some three months later, when it became known that George Grainger was returning. Some advised Henry Burlow to prepare himself.

Miss Tarrant heard of Mr. Grainger's impending arrival from her father with cool unconcern.

"Looks very well, young Grainger," volunteered her father. "Hasn't done any work as yet. Most of the time, he's been in Mr. Peterson's room."

George Grainger was still occupied with the senior partner during the afternoon. It was just after 5 when he came out at last.

He had not yet encountered the foreman, and he glanced about him as he went along. But his mind was really occupied in wondering whether Nellie Tarrant still came to meet her father at the side gate.

"I'll wait, on chance," he decided, and took a seat on a low wall.

Burlow put out his head to see if by any chance Miss Tarrant was in sight. Instead, he saw Grainger, who eyed him deliberately from head to foot.

"Why, if it isn't little George! I've been expectin' to see you all day.

Burlow grew crimson, and advanced, breathing hard. At the same moment Miss Tarrant appeared in the distance.

"I didn't mean that!" protested Grainger hastily.

Along the lane Miss Tarrant had started to run.

"Stop!" she cried.

But neither of the men heard. In fact, Henry Burlow had stumbled and fallen. George Grainger was fleeing.

The foreman, rising furiously, set off in pursuit. Soon they were lost to view.

"Hello, Nell! What's wrong?"

She turned to her father and explained indignantly.

"You seem excited."

His daughter had started toward the slowly returning combattant. As she drew near, he hurriedly wiped the signs of combat from his face.

"Oh, George," she cried, clutching at his arm, "did you—did you get away from him?"

"Were you worried about me, then?"

Nellie Tarrant answered incoherently.

"I never hoped for this," affirmed Mr. Grainger happily. And, slipping an arm round her waist, he kissed her suddenly.

"Has he hurt you?"

"What do you think I've been doing while I was at Parkside? Taking lessons in boxing. What do you think I ran for? To get him out of breath, and in a quiet place."

Miss Tarrant broke away from him wonderingly.

"Oh, George!" was all she could murmur.

Her father, moving toward them, had now reached her side. He shook hands solemnly with Grainger.

"Bravo! Burlow wanted taking down a peg." But you're a surprise packet, you are! Do you know what he's been doing at Parkside, Nell? Why, testing a patent of his own. The firm's going to take it up."

"That's right," agreed Grainger. And I ought to make a good bit out of it, so Mr. Peterson says."

"Take the one with the most money, Nell," ventured her father. "That's what I've always said, haven't I?"

"I should have taken him, anyway!"

"Well, bring him home, then."

ALONE AND FRIENDLESS, AGED MAN FACES JURY

Bradford Voshall Being Tried for Assault With Intent to Kill.

Is Deserted By His Children and Broken Down Physically.

Bradford Voshall 62 years old, and accused of assault in the first degree with intent to kill James Sheeran on board the steamer J. H. Bartow, Nov. 3 last, presented a pathetic figure when brought before Judge Cant this morning to stand trial.

The old man is thin and weak. He has a discouraged look and he seemed hardly able to walk into the courtroom alone. He was frightened too, and his manner was most humble.

Dressed in the same old clothes that he wore while working on the Bartow last fall and looking neither to the right or left, his head hanging low and twitching his cap nervously in one hand, he staggered into the courtroom, despair shown both on his face and in every movement of his body.

Almost at the end of his allotted three score and ten years, he finds himself, friendless, penniless, and accused of a terrible crime of which he claims to be innocent. He is broken in health and he seems to have lost all hope. He gives one the impression that he would as soon be in jail as anywhere else. He says himself that there is but little left for him to live for.

Children Disown Him.

He is the father of seven children, all of whom have disowned him. To none of the letters written to them has he so much as received an answer. Some of them live in Chicago and others in California, it is said. Some of them are said to be in good condition financially, but none of them apparently are willing to help their father in his hour of need.

Once things were far different with Voshall. With his family he had a pleasant home in New York state, and was prosperous and happy.

One by one the children grew up and left home. Reverses came and the home was lost. Voshall became separated from his wife and he took up his old work of driving a team on the Erie canal. In all he has put in thirty years on this canal. He knows every tree and in every town and village along the route he is said to have friends.

There came other quicker means of transportation and there was not so much use for the old Erie. The company had too many men and he was allowed to seek employment in other places.

He took to the lakes and had been working between Duluth and Buffalo some months before the trouble occurred.

He shot James Sheeran after a quarrel. His plea will be self-defense. There will probably be no attempt to deny the shooting on the part of his attorney, W. A. Gurnee.

Two Versions of Crime.

When the Bartow reached Duluth in the early part of November, some of the men went ashore. The trouble happened on the boat after the return. There are two versions as far as can be learned.

One story is that Sheeran and Voshall had some talk about how long a leave of absence to visit the city, meant. One word followed another until the men were to the point of fighting. It is claimed by one side that Sheeran ran at Voshall armed with an ax. Voshall shot him and it was only after fifty days in the hospital, hovering between life and death and one of the most difficult surgical operations ever performed at a local hospital, that Sheeran pulled through. His recovery was a surprise to every one. The shot entered his stomach and plowed its way through the body.

Another story is that Sheeran made a slanderous remark and referred to Voshall's wife. Voshall, it is said, took the remark as an insult and the shooting followed.

Sheeran, it is thought, will deny ever having an ax in his hand.

The drawing of a jury began this morning before Judge Cant. As the case is an old one, it is thought that there will be but little trouble in getting a jury.

Assistant County Attorney Warren E. Greene appears for the state.

MARINE DIES FROM A FRACTURED SKULL.

New York, Feb. 9.—Private John R. Hardry of the United States marines died in the marine hospital in the Brooklyn navy yard from a fractured skull received after he had quarreled early today with a man in a cafe in Navy street.

He started for the barracks in the navy yard shortly after the quarrel and was struck down from behind. Comrades found him unconscious an hour later and carried him to the hospital, where he died without regaining consciousness.

The police have been unable to find his assailant.

GOD SHOULD COME FIRST

Rev. M. S. Rice Scores Those Who Put Religion Last in Life.

Those Who Wait for Declining Years Are Insulting God.

"God should have more than the fag ends of the life of man or woman," said Rev. M. S. Rice in his noonday sermon at the Lyceum today. Mr. Rice called upon his hearers to give attention to religion in their youth and prime, to give God the priority. He should have and not wait until the grave dawns before turning to thoughts of the future life.

"Fag-End Religion," was his subject and he spoke from the text, "And with the residue thereof he maketh a god," Isa. xl, 17. He said in part:

"This is a clause out of a most caustic arraignment of the folly of worshipping idols. Perhaps nothing any keener has ever been said by the men who have battled with false religionists than this passage from Isaiah. He points to them as cutting down a tree and using part of it for a fire to cook food, and part to warm themselves before, and then picking up what was left to make a god out of. A god out of the chips. The care of the call of religion out of what was left after other things had been cared for first. I don't care now anything about the idol maker. I had just as leave bow to worship an idol made of a few chips as out of the whole pole as the totems of Alaska are made. Idolatry we all despise. But what I want now is that the genius of this remark of Isaiah pierces the folly of many a man today, who is endeavoring to take care of the call of religion with whatever he may have left, if anything, after he has cared for things which today are granted priority over religion.

"'With the residue he made him a god.' It is the terrible and condemning fact which rises out of our life abundantly today and doubtless strikes condemnation at merest mention into many hearts listening now to me, that for the religious part of their activity they have gracously consigned the residue. I believe I am striking squarely into a tremendous fault of our day, when I accuse men and women many of being utterly careless of the priority of God. They act as though they disbelieved it. Anything is good enough for religion. They go on merrily using up the fast disappearing tree of life seeking to find pleasure, comfort, ease, and whatever there may seem to be of a remnant they have no objections to letting it be used for the call of religion, but they even lack on enthusiasm with the remnant. I call this fag-end religion, and I lay it as a severe charge against many men and women today. Religion always faces the crisis of this alternative, it must be granted priority. It cannot be cared for on a diminishing basis.

Not Doing the Fair Thing.

"I speak kindly even if I do seem to speak vigorously, for my heart burns for the cause of God, which in some little way, at least, has been entrusted into my hands here. I know that the fair thing has not been done, and is not being done now by many who are before me. The problems of church life today grow out of the fact that we have only a small fragment of people's lives to use there. There are always some who put in commendable time and effort, and upon these and around their contribution clings the church activity. But it is a heart-sickening roll to call, the long list of people who are trying to meet the demands of God's kingdom on fag-ends. I say if the power of the Christian element of our city would be devoted fully to God's cause we should sweep away every hindrance with ease. I say it carefully, but boldly, because I long for the triumph of the church, we cannot ever save the world on fag-end devotion. Shame on every one of us who has not given or is not now giving God the very best of life. He has freely given us the best, and asks no less from us.

"Then here's the man who is not attentive to the call of religion till the sands of life are almost run. The common answer of young men and women to the appeal of religion is 'Now now, wait till I am older, and the things I am enamored of seem to have lost their sweetness. Religion is all right for an old man or woman whose bodies are even now on the grave's edge. Don't expect me now to take on the restraint of religion.' There are literally thousands of people daring thus to insult God. They seem to think He will just stand in line and take His turn like any others at the claim window, and in the line His place is away yonder after pleasure, comfort, riches. I wish I might thus roughly drag any one thus guilty out into the shame which such facts should cause.

Insults to God.

"No severer condemnation can be brought against our age when the fact that it is so busy warming itself and cooking up its feasts that it is consigning its religion to the fag-ends. By and by, they say to me, when we have gained our object we will become Christians. Don't mind insulting the claims of God all our lives. We expect to come hobbling up at the last day, worn-out, withered-up, and offer Him the worthless fagged-out remnant of a wasted existence. The fire is all burned to ashes, and now we will gather up the few little chips not worth throwing on the fire and offer them to God.

"Listen to me man, woman. I am glad we have such a merciful God as we have, but even if He does accept of such mean, unfair treatment at your hand you will be ashamed of yourself that you refused Him your life when He might have made of you a useful man or woman among men.

"I shall make bold to tell you the story of a man I buried not very long ago. He told me I could tell it, and left earth hoping that maybe his testimony might do some good after he had gone on. I found him on a bed of awful suffering. When I came into the room the first time he knew me though I had never met him. He broke right down with the declaration 'Mr. Rice, I have waited so long now, and the strength of life has been let slip so far, it is no use.' My! My! how the fag-end of life does look, when once we really find ourselves handing it up to God. How pitiful an offering. This man was simply awaiting the last hour, when a greedy cancer growing at his throat would sever the then well-gnawed thread of his life. He calmed himself and accepted the conscious pardon of God as beautifully as any soul I have ever witnessed, and I have not seen a more calm, confident close of life than that he accomplished about a month later, and as he swept through the gates the last words he whispered, and he would have shouted them had he had the strength, were, 'Everlasting life.'

"While all that was beautiful and came as priceless comfort to his friends who, unwilling, saw him go away, he nevertheless said to me again and again and to his faithful loved ones who watched with him days and weeks, 'Oh what a Saviour to accept me now. Mr. Rice, I have never done a thing for Him. See what He has done for me. Oh if I could but live to put some life into His service.' And the sense of the residue seemed utterly unfair. I am glad to preach a Christ who can even out of such a fag-end of life as that, weld hope to the residue of men everywhere. But I ask you now to do the fair and honest thing with a God like that and give Him your life to use."

How to Use Corn Meal For Dry Shampooing

(Mrs. Rohrer in Style and Fashion.)

"Nearly every woman knows that there is nothing better for cleaning furs than corn meal. Simply sprinkle it over the garment you wish to clean, brush it out thoroughly and the task is accomplished. Every tiny particle of dirt and dust adheres to the corn meal and comes away with it, leaving the furs rich and glossy.

"On the same principle corn meal cleans the scalp and hair. Put a half pound of corn meal in a fruit jar and mix with it four ounces of amotone. This will give you a shampoo powder that not only removes dirt, oil and dandruff from the head, but the amotone also refreshes the scalp and hair roots for it is an excellent hair grower.

"This mixture has a delicate perfume and leaves the hair beautifully soft and fluffy. Of course, the corn meal and amotone should be thoroughly mixed."

IN HONOR OF LINCOLN DAY

Sunday "Pop" Concert Program of National and Patriotic Airs.

The program for the Masonic free concert at the auditorium of the Masonic temple, Sunday, Feb. 12, at 3:30 p. m., will be a Lincoln memorial program. It follows :

Organ: March—"Stars and Stripes"..... Sousa
Fantasie—"American Airs"—Bendise
Vocal: Song—"Battle Hymn of the Republic".....Julia Ward Howe
Charles O. Applehagen.
The audience is requested to join in singing the chorus.
Organ: Overture—"1812" Op. 29..... Tschaikowsky
Concert variation—"Star Spangled Banner".....Dudley Buck
Vocal: Song—"The Land That We Love," adaptation from "Bohemian Girl" ..... Balfe
A. R. Bjorkquist.
Organ: "Melodies of the Sixtys"..... Ascher-Mahl
"International Fantasie," national airs of many countries.....Sousa

The free concert at the Masonic temple on Sunday, Feb. 12, though its program will commemorate the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, who in this day and with this generation stands for what is noble, generous and patriotic in the hearts of all true Americans. Therefore the selections are all of the homely, simple and patriotic style, and with one exception, purely American and having some reference to the stirring times of the Sixties.

The vocalists have selected the most characteristic and beautiful songs. Mr. Applehagen singing Julia Ward Howe's celebrated "Battle Hymn of the Republic," some verses of which will be printed on the back of the program and the audience is requested to help sing the choruses. Mr. Bjorkquist's selection is an adaptation of Balfe's song in the "Bohemian Girl," called "Fair Land of Poland."

Organ numbers need little explanation, all being well known and liked, except the overture "1812," which may bear a little explanation. It is Tschaikowsky's tribute to Russian patriotism, musically illustrating Napoleon's retreat from Moscow in 1812. It commences with a solemn hymn for success, merging into a call to arms, with the agitation and seeming confusion of such an episode; following the preparations for the battle comes the Russian war march in true military swing and the music brings the armies together in the first clash, the movements quicken and the volume of sound is fuller and fuller and with close attention some of the strains of the French "Marseillaise" may be heard. A breathing spell is now taken and the music changes to an expression of hope merging into a somewhat livelier strain which dies down to silence, but only momentarily. The French seem to have rallied and the battle begins afresh, growing more and more dramatic in its intensity, the fighting waxes hotter but gradually giving way and the hearer feels that the battle has been won. Fainter grows the occasional strain of the "Marseillaise"; the French are in retreat; the music gradually resolves itself into the theme of hope, then comes the rejoicing, the hymn heard at the commencement is heard after a fine crescendo, followed by the war march, the whole ending with the Russian national hymn in the bass and a full organ wind-up. This is an effective piece of "program music" which is made more interesting and pleasureable by a knowledge of what the composer had in mind.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflammed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

THE WHITE HOUSE HEARD FROM.

There has been a material strengthening of the Taft backbone since the passage, signing and laudation of the Payne tariff bill. The president has sent word to congress that unless there is a vote on the Canadian reciprocity agreement at this session he will call on the Sixty-second congress to act on it before its regularly appointed time for meeting. "Vote on reciprocity or there will be an extra session," is the form of the presidential ultimatum.

Good for Taft!

When he was elected nearly everybody in the country believed he had force of character and decision of mind. In the first half of his administration nearly everybody began to doubt that judgment. The president got into the hands of a coterie of servants of special privilege and he certainly seemed plastic in their grip.

But today the president is showing a different front. He has picked up the big stick and swung it, and it is to be hoped that he will find that it feels good in his hands. Certainly Taft issuing such an ultimatum as this is vastly more pleasing to the country than Taft coaxing the people to believe that a deliberate betrayal of the people's confidence is a high form of public service. And there is just that difference between the ultimatum on reciprocity and the Winona speech.

Meanwhile the action of the president adds materially to the popular interest in the present session of congress. That the senate would stall along on other matters until it was too late to take up the reciprocity agreement, nobody has doubted. That the house would ratify the work has been fairly well assured, and has been almost certain since the Democratic caucus decided in favor of ratification. It has been the senate that has been in doubt. What will that body do now? Will it dare to disregard the mandate of the president and leave to the Democrats the honor and prestige of passing a measure that is demanded by virtually all the people of the country? On the other hand, will it dare to refuse ratification, knowing that such action will be a defiance not alone of the president, but of the people?

It is easy to foresee what some members will do. They will begin to "holler" at once. They will tell the senate that its dignity has been insulted; that it ought to refuse ratification now if only to teach the president that it will not brook interference on his part. But if the senate is so petty, so inexpressibly weak, so contemptibly sensitive and so outrageously deaf to the demands of the people as to heed such advice, it ought to suffer the fate that is threatened to the house of lords in England, and be wiped out of existence altogether.

There never was a time like the present for the people to write or telegraph to their representatives and senators, telling their views on a matter before congress for action. This is not an intricate tariff measure which even an experienced congressman can unblushingly admit he does not understand. This is a move for fair play, for the accomplishment of a small part of the justice that has been denied the people for years. It is a plain proposition, and every member of congress, in both houses, should get some straight information from his constituents that will convince him of his duty, if he has been too blind to see it already.

The farmers must not let themselves be misled by the distortions set forth by the minions of tariff robbery. They should not be misled by the action of the committee of the National Grange that has denounced the reciprocity agreement. As an exchange mildly puts it, "We fear the National Grange has fallen into the hands of its enemies." And here is what the Springfield Republican thinks of the action of that committee:

> This committee of the grange claims to represent 1,000,000 farmers. We very much doubt if this is true on the pending question. By as much as Canadian apples invade the United States, by so much will they cease to glut the English market, where go large quantities of our apples. If Aroostook county potato farmers suffer, which we question, early vegetable and fruit growers of the more southerly sections of the United States will gain by a larger northern market or free entrance into Canada. And so it will be found to go all along the line of affected industries; and when the 1,000,000 farmers come to consider these sides of the situation not all of them by far will find their interests represented by this legislative committee of theirs.

This reciprocity agreemnt is not a blow at the farmer. It is a blow at the interests that have combined to dictate to the farmer the minimum that he shall pay for the articles he has to buy and the maximum that he shall get for what he has to sell. The farmers should join with the rest of the nation in a mandate to the members of congress that they ratify this agreement. It is worth five minutes and a 2-cent stamp to any man to "swat" the interests, and here is a chance.

BUSINESS IS BETTER.

Improvement is noted in the wholesale trade and in business sentiment throughout the Northwest, according to reports of local jobbers and business men. The same report comes from the East, and from the Southwest and South. There has been an awakening in many lines following the announcement of one of the Pacific railroads that it intends to spend $75,000,000 in the next five years in double-tracking its line westward from the Missouri river. The announcement was made in spite of the fact that several big cases that are admitted to have an influence on business generally still are pending before the United States supreme court, and in spite of what other men have declared is a condition in railroad regulation legislation that has robbed the railroads of confidence.

Back of these improvements in the face of conditions that have long been decried by men interested in great enterprises, there lies the fact that ours is a big country, and that its people are not the kind to lie idly back and wait for something to turn up. They may not be suited with present conditions, but they do not intend to lose any business on that account. They cannot afford to. If one man or one set of men remains idle, another will supplant his interests and business. It is the spirit of the nation, the get-ahead way of the American people. Business is to be done, and somebody will do it.

It is only three years since we passed through a financial flurry. The lessons learned then are not yet forgotten, and though there is more caution regarding inflation of credits, and expansions that may not be fully warranted by fact and outlook, these things mean only that the situation that now is being built up will be on a more substantial basis than that of the boom times.

There is more than simple ground for gratification in the better business outlook. There is ground for real satisfaction, for it is the sure sign that points to growth and development that will eclipse anything the country has yet known, not only in far-reaching qualities but in stability.

"CHANGING THE FUNDAMENTALS."

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge—the newly converted progressive—speaking in the senate the other day made a strenuous attack on the proposition to elect United States senators by popular vote. He maintained that the idea itself was not right, and that even if it were, the way they propose to do it is wrong. Senator Lodge's opposition to the plan itself seems to be founded on the charge that "it strikes at the very foundations of our national government."

Evidently this self-styled progressive does not think that the present system of electing Lorimers to the senate is any infringement on the foundations of our national government. One would think that this veteran of the national congress knew nothing about the way legislative elections are held. The Constitution provides that every member of the legislature shall have a vote on the senator. This has been circumvented by party machinations so that every member does not have a vote. Instead of this the members elected by the respective parties meet in caucus, and the candidate who can swing a majority of one caucus gets the votes of all the members of that party.

Suppose, for example, there were thirty Republicans and twenty-six Democrats in a legislature, and caucuses were held to nominate senatorial candidates. The Democrats, we will say, have no particular choice, and knowing that they could not elect their man, give somebody an "honorary" vote. In the Republican caucus some machine politician gets control of sixteen votes, and so is nominated. When the legislature meets in joint session the caucus nominees are proposed, and the Republican is elected, because he belongs to the party that is in control, though he was not an acceptable candidate to within two of a majority of his own party, or to the Democrats. That means that sixteen men pick the senator, although there were forty in the legislature who were opposed to him.

If Senator Lodge is looking for something that "strikes at the very foundations of our national government," he can find it there. The men who framed the provisions by which United States senators should be elected never foresaw any such party domination as exists today, and did not conceive of the possibility of sixteen men determining the action of fifty-six. They were working for a government of the people by the people and for the people, and they intended that it should remain such. But clever and scheming politicians have manipulated our affairs until, at least in the election of our members of the United States senate, it has become a government of the people, by the political bosses, for the benefits of special privilege.

That is the condition against which the advocates of direct election of United States senators are working, and they should receive the support of every member of congress.

THE MADNESS OF MILLIONS.

Once again the American public has had held up before it the spectacle of a young American girl selling herself to a titled man from across the sea. It is worse than that. She did not sell herself, but paid him to take her. It is the same kind of match that has been wont to stir up indignation on this side of the water, but in other cases the possibility of there being a natural character to the union was at least sufficiently strong to give a basis for defense. In this Gould-Decies affair there is not even a possibility of such a claim. A normal girl does not pick as her mate a man more than twice her own age.

It would seem that the only possible explanation of such marriages as this lies in the theory of compensation in natural law, in a sort of madness that accompanies millions. Being possessed of so much of this world's goods the woman craves yet more of them, and buys herself a title. She cares nothing for the fact that by her act she makes herself a part of the price of purchase. And the man's position is similar to a great degree—he wants the money to go with his inherited title, and sells the blood of his family to get that money, though by so doing he barters with a nation which his ancestors fought.

It is the same story on both sides—the madness of possession. There is less indignation expressed in these days over such affairs than there used to be. Perhaps this is due to some extent to the fact that we are becoming accustomed to that kind of barter and sale. Unquestionably it is due in part to the knowledge, born of observation, that the parties to such a contract are practically certain to "get what is coming to them" in one way or another. Anyway, getting mad about it does no good, for the knowledge of popular indignation has proved no deterrent when more such matches were proposed. So in all such cases the public notes the event with more or less interest, lays its bets on the length of time before the eruption will begin, and then forgets all about it until the first papers are served.

The old idea that "T———R" stood for "thunderer" no longer is applicable.

In the Dialogue of the State Legislatures: "Good morning. Is my deadlock on straight?"

Here is a thought for the farmers: Remember that the men who are opposing reciprocity with Canada "for your sake" are the same ones who want to spend $4,000,000 of your money to help bring grain and cattle and fruits from other countries, through a ship subsidy, to compete with your products. Do you think they give a continental about YOU?

TALKS WITH THE STATE PRESS

Trouserettes and Votes.

Sandstone Courier: Ole Sageng, of Otter Tail county, who keeps the banner of old time Populism flaunting in the state senate, has introduced a bill providing for woman suffrage. Out in Idaho they find the women make a mighty good class of voters but that is well known history. It must be the new trouserette gown that has stirred Ole's emotions. Hang onto yourself, Ole.

'Spose the senator's trying to hurry the coming of the trouserette, or to head it off?

Plenty of Reason.

Park Rapids Clipper: Just one more: Why is a state oil inspector?

Because there are campaigns.

Some New Senators.

Little Falls Herald: Several of the new United States senators have names like sleeping cars, but they are wide awake men.

Let it be hoped that they will not emulate sleeping cars to the extent of being unable to move without railroad motive power.

Express Rates and Parcels Post.

Red Lake Falls Gazette: Agitation for a parcels post has served one very good purpose. It is reported that representatives of the large express companies met in New York and decided to make a general and decided reduction in express rates. Whether or not the parcels post would be a good thing, its agitation is a mighty good club and the public is now in a position to brandish the big stick at any time.

That's certainly a confession on the part of the express companies that their charges are excessive, but the public didn't need a confession to be convinced of that.

Company for Uncle Joe.

International Falls Press: Speaker Cannon is looking for a few congenial companions with whom to take a trip to Europe to celebrate his birthday which was set 75 years ago on May 7.

Would suggest Murdock of Kansas, McKinley of Nebraska, and Nelson of Wisconsin.

Couldn't Stand Brother-in-law.

Barnesville Record-Review: A man in North Dakota shot himself this week because his sister was wedded. This is a case of brotherly love.

And that's something of a slam at those who marry men's sisters.

Cutting Out Salaries.

Warroad Plaindealer: If we have free trade with Canada, we can just see the finish of the trusts, and what's more, for that matter, and what a relief it would be to the consumer. Besides there are a lot of other little items that Uncle Sam would profit financially. It would cut off pay on some and do away with a lot of big salaried men, holding federal jobs who land in by partizan zeal and 'wire-pulling.'

That is a trifle more optimistic than the facts seem to warrant.

Taft and La Follette.

Cannon Falls Beacon: The insincerity of the president's recent conversion to the progressive cause is shown in his refusal to appoint the man recommended by Senator La Follette for district attorney in Wisconsin. Not that the Beacon has any sympathy with this patronage business, but since it is the custom to accept the recommendation of the senator for such appointments, the president only shows his narrowness and insincerity in discriminating against Senator La Follette.

The Taft people probably believe it would be suicidal to make any move that could possibly benefit La Follette by strengthening his political fences.

Boyle as the Orator.

Virginia Enterprise: Senator James P. Boyle has been chosen to deliver the Lincoln day address at St. Paul on Feb. 12. And it is a safe prediction that "Jimmy" will not disappoint his hearers if they look for an outflow of eloquence.

The Eveleth senator is reflecting much credit on St. Louis county and the range at St. Paul. Nobody's surprised.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: Expert advice is safer to sell than to buy.

Jealousy grows best in any kind of weather.

A heap of trouble wouldn't be if we didn't put so much imagination into it.

You can be mighty sorry for poverty without wanting to give it any of your money.

The reason a woman can love a man is if he weren't the one it would be somebody else.

Income is pennies; outgo is dollars. Liars and flatterers make a big army but a small firing line.

A man with a sore finger can't help thinking he deserves public honors for it.

A girl likes to have her lips spoken of as ripe cherries, specially if they are like slits in white plaster.

After all, what's the difference between a woman putting false hair on her head and ribbons, spangles and jewels?

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: A man isn't necessarily headstrong because he butts in.

Experience begotten of matrimony is a strenuous teacher.

Sometimes a "good fellow" also makes a good husband.

Necessity knows no law, but it knows a multitude of lawyers.

There are too many gang planks in the average political platform.

A farmer may think he is buying a gold brick, but he never does.

No man is so dull that he can't invent an excuse for being conceited.

The thorn of the rose doesn't trouble the chap who knows how to pluck it.

Experts on the witness stand have contributed much to the gayety of nations.

It's all well enough to criticise those who are bad, but are you good enough to do it?

The average man doesn't think he is better than other men; he merely thinks they are worse than he is.

Probably more men would strive to reach heaven if the preachers could convince them that all the popular songs were in the other place.

Test of Insurgency.

Boston Commercial: If the Republicans fail to take action at this session, as seems probable now, the Democrats will not be slow to seize the advantage which such failure to act will give them and they can go before the people in 1912 and point to an actual effort to keep campaign promises of 1910, which will give them an overwhelming advantage over their opponents. The president sees this and if the Republican leaders in congress do not, 1912 will be more fateful for them than 1910.

President Taft has stood a great deal of abuse from the insurgent leaders but he has quietly measured the caliber of the men. Now he throws down the challenge direct to them. Are they "friends of the people" in fact or only in pretense? Are their demands for a lower tariff than the Payne-Aldrich law sincere or only for campaign purposes?

The president has challenged them openly before the people of the country. If they support him, what becomes of their criticism? If they oppose him, what becomes of their presidential boomlets? Watch La Follette, Cummins, Clapp, Bourne, Bristow and their insurging associates of the National Progressive Republican league when it comes to a vote on the Canadian reciprocity agreement.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

TO FORCE PROHIBITION.

To the Editor of The Herald:

It will be remembered that at the last session of congress an act was passed authorizing an election in Hawaii to determine whether the territory favored the abolition of the liquor traffic. This election, held in August, resulted in the defeat of prohibition by a heavy majority.

It is now stated that John G. Woolley, representative of the Anti-Saloon league in Hawaii, is to attempt forcing prohibition in the islands by a straight prohibition act to apply to that territory. This indicates the inconsistency of anti-saloon leaders. They prate much about "popular rights" and "government by the majority," but when it comes to the test and they are defeated, they forget all their theories and proceed by any other method to enforce their notions.

We do not believe that Mr. Woolley can secure from congress the law contemplated, but this does not in any sense detract from the manifest inconsistency. E. R. ROTHE.

MORE ABOUT LAWS TO CURB THE GAME HOG.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Your editorial in Tuesday's issue entitled "The Game Hog," is timely and to the point and will meet the hearty approval of every true sportsman. You say, "He is a hard creature to get at, and there is ground for reasonable doubt of the efficacy of even so stringent a law as is proposed in greatly reducing his species." Such legislation will never eradicate the game hog. He will thrive on a muzzle loader and fatten on a double gun. Our law now restricts the kill to a certain number of birds per day, and prescribes severe penalties for exceeding the limit. What is the difference whether the limit is taken with an automatic, pump or double gun? The use of the automatic or pump gun does not increase the incentive of any true sportsman to kill beyond the limit. On the contrary their use is humanitarian, often enabling the hunter to bring crippled birds to bag which otherwise would be allowed to suffer a lingering death, or become the prey of water rodents. These guns are comparatively cheap and afford a reliable weapon for the sportsman of moderate means. Legislation of the kind has been agitated for several years, and at the bottom of it you will find the manufacturers of high priced double guns. Respectfully,

P. J. RUSSELL.

PARK CREEK IS AN OPEN SEWER.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Far back among the Duluth hills a small spring gives birth to a brook. The brook grows in size as it trickles down the gentle slopes and winds its way among the green forests, until, at last it flows in foamy splendor through a rocky canyon to the lake.

The valley through which it flows is one of the greatest beauty, and, because of its natural charm, Tischer's creek has become one of the most popular streams in the city—so popular, indeed, that some broad-minded citizens have, with the co-operation of the park board, made over a half mile of its course a public playground. Here, in Congdon park, surrounded by the beauties of nature, families picnic in the summer, and anglers ply their rods with great success. How long would this continue, we would ask, if these people realized that, only a few yards above this very spot, the unpurified sewage of half a thousand homes was emptied? How many parents would allow their children to wade in the stream if they were aware of the fact that the bubbling current was alive with the numberless germs of a dozen dread diseases? And how many fishermen and laborers would lie down and drink from the water, as I have often seen them do, if they knew that typhoid lurked in the cool depths?

Here, indeed, is a matter of vital interest to the citizens of Glen Avon and its adjoining suburbs. This sewer has emptied into the stream for over five years, and no truly active attempt has been made to remove it. One would think that the mere thought of so great a menace would spur each man on to greater and more strenuous efforts; but I have noticed no real enthusiasm among the many voters of the community, and one would also think that the park and health boards would see to it that the stream was no longer contaminated; but they have not, and furthermore, ignorance of conditions cannot be given as an excuse.

In a large sense this matter concerns the whole city. Every person with influence should work for the eradication of such evils as this. The people are expending large sums for the proper housing of the victims of disease. Why should they not devote a little time, at least, to removing one of the sources of illness? The citizens of the Woodland suburbs, especially, should leave no stone unturned in striving to free Tischer's creek and Congdon park from this great taint. Yours for a clean city. THE SPECTATOR.

Duluth, Feb. 8.

"Ning-a-Ning."

There's a little elfland tune
That my baby loves to sing,
Morning, evening, afternoon—
"Ning-a-ning-a-ning-a-ning!"
Little lips of dewy rose
Singing words that no ones knows.

Of the secret they may hold
Nothing do the bars betray;
Simply for their rippling gold
Let us bear these notes away,
And their happy laughter keep
In our dull hearts hidden deep.

"Ning-a-ning-a-ning-a-ning!"
Baby words, but deftly wed
To the melodies that ring
In that little golden head,
Bubbling up like the song of bird,
Careless whether they be heard.

When she lies in slumber light,
With a tiny dimpled arm
Held between her and the night
As between her heart and harm,
Does the moon above her lean,
Telling what those witch-words mean?

On the lawn she loves so well,
When the windy larches swing,
Do the elfland fairies tell
Secrets hid in "Ning-a-ning?"
Do the drooping beech-leaves know
Why this tune delights her so?

All the organs of the world
May have pealed their power in vain,
All the thunder from them hurled
May be but a lost refrain,
But my heart must always ring
To this baby "Ning-a-ning!"
—Will H. Ogilvie in Westminster Gazette.

A Dangerous and Deadly Chicago Weapon.

Chicago Inter Ocean: Against Frank Smith, cook at the La Salle street railroad station, his assistant, Anna Hygsick, makes the following complaint:

"Frank Smith, late of the city of Chicago, did on Jan. 24, 1911, at the city of Chicago, county of Cook, state of Illinois, aforesaid, then and there being, did then and there with a certain instrument commonly called hot baked potato, said hot potato being a dangerous and deadly weapon, without any considerable provocation whatever and under circumstances showing an abandoned and malignant heart, did assault said Anna Hygsick with intent to do great bodily injury."

A Cracker Dainty.

Macon Telegraph: A friend in the Walton News tells of a visit to Wilkes county, where he was treated to a new dish, "rabbit sausage," which he declared was "simply fine."

Buffalo Express: "Why did you let that thief get away with the automobile right under your eyes?" demanded the chief.

"He acted as if he were the owner," explained the patrolman. "He took it unconcernedly and had as pleasant a face as if there was no doubt of his ownership."

"A pleasant face!" roared the chief. "Don't you know yet what a worried look the automobile owner wears?"

Cleveland Press: He was under the influence when he wandered into a downtown barber shop, and after being shaved sat down in the bootblack's chair.

"How do you get paid? Wages?" he asked.

"No, suh," answered the bootblack. "I work on a puhcentage—sixty puhcent's mine."

"Shicksty p'cent yours," asked he, deliberately. "Schicksty p'cent."

"Yes, suh."

"'F you make a hundred dollars you keep shicksty?"

"Yes, suh."

"'F you take in a thousan,' you keep shicks hundred?"

"Yes, suh."

"An' hundred thousan,' you keep shicksty thonsan'?"

"Yes suh."

"My, my," said he in a puzzled manner, "what're you goin' t' do with so much money?"

Checago Record-Herald: "I rather like the motif of that picture," said Mrs. Oldcastle, after she had carefully inspected the new work of art.

"Yes, so do I," replied her hostess, as they were passing from the gallery, "only both me and Josiah thought the artist meant it for a cow."

Houston Post: "So you broke your engagement with Miss Spensive?"

"No, I didn't break it."

"Oh, she broke it?"

"No, she didn't break it."

"But it is broken?"

"Yes, she told me what her clothing cost and I told her what my income was, then our engagement sagged in the middle and gently dissolved."

The Supreme Test.

Turn, now, from troublous questions for awhile—
The trend of politics; the ways of grafters vile,
And look into the coal bin carefully—
Can you do that, and come up with a smile?
—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Turn, now from tariff arguments awhile—
Revisionists' hot air; the sleek standpatter's guile,
And lamp those skin-tight pants and corset coats—
Can't wear such things, and come up with a smile?
—Springfield (Mass.) Union.

Turn now from all such matters for awhile
And see the "comic" valentines, the vile
Things that some people think are humorous—
Can you behold them and still gladly smile?
—Chicago Record-Herald.

Turn, then, from all the ways of grafters vile,
From valentines and other things that rile;
See Bill Taft swing the colonel's monstrous stick
Doesn't it make the poor consumer smile?

THE SHIP SUBSIDY.

Omaha World-Herald: The passage of the odious ship subsidy bill through the senate is about as strong a testimonial as could be given the good sense and patriotism of the people in voting, last fall, to turn the Republican party out of power.

Every vote that was cast in favor of that brazen graft was cast by a Republican senator, including the discredited Lorimer. Even his vote was not enough, and it was necessary to bring forward the vice president, James S. Sherman, to break the tie and vote millions of dollars of the people's money out of the people's pockets and into the pockets of the ship owners. Every Democratic senator present voted against the bill, as ator present voted against the bill, as did thirteen Republicans, while thirty-nine Republicans voted to pass it—forty, including Sherman.

The senate has had no time to act on the popular election of senators and it feels quite sure that it will not have time to act on the Canadian agreement, unless forced by the threat of a special session. It has had no time to act upon any measure that is in the interest of the common people. But it did have time to take up and act upon the most unpopular and in some respects the most infamous measure of all the measures that were before it—a measure to make a few men rich by levying a tax on millions of men. And it did this in the face of the late election, which was at once a referendum vote against the policies which the ship subsidy typifies, and a recall of about as many of the senators who stand for those policies as the people could get at. It was desperate and impudent embezzlement of power, committed by senators whom the people have repudiated, and committed because those senators knew that the people would have enough friends in the next congress to make the passage of a subsidy bill impossible.

The World-Herald unhesitatingly asserts that, once the common people fully understand the enormity involved in this bill it will contribute quite as much to the final destruction of the Republican party as will the Payne-Aldrich tariff. Both are a betrayal of trust, a flaunting of the wishes of the people, a pandering to "the interests."

First the Republican party levies a tariff on steel, lumber and the other raw materials of the ship building so high that it is impossible to build ships in this country and compete with ships built abroad.

Then it provides that no ship built abroad can be sailed under the American flag, even though it is owned by Americans, manned by Americans, and serves Americans.

Having made it impossible for Americans profitably to build ships, and impossible to acquire them and sail them as American vessels, the Republican party then comes to the front and blandly proposes that all the people be taxed, millions of dollars annually, to raise a pot to pay over to the shipbuilders in order to make profitable a business which Republican policies has made unprofitable!

And it uses a Sherman, a discredited Lorimer, a discarded Depew, Kean, Dick, Burkett, to fasten this measure of robbery and oppression upon the American people!

We wonder if there are still any Republicans who cannot understand why the Republican party is growing unpopular.

NO MISTAKES THIS TIME

Property Owners on Grand Avenue Will Form Organization.

Are Going to Insist on Paving Being Done Right.

In order that the mistakes of the Central avenue paving job may not be duplicated in the work of paving Grand avenue next spring, there is a movement of the property owners on Grand avenue and the West Duluth business men to form a temporary organization for the purpose of keeping track of the work.

Property owners will insist that the city, preparatory to the paving, have its water, gas and sewer mains laid; the telephone companies, their underground cables, and the street car company, its underground conduits.

The rock and mud paving of Central avenue is regretted by some of the business men and they propose to see a complete job on Grand avenue, when a new pavement is laid between Fifty-fourth and Fifty-ninth avenues. The cost of the job will be about $45,000.

Assessments of $180 per 25-foot lot or about 80 per cent of the total cost will have to be met by the property owners by April 1 according to notices just sent out. The proposal to organize the property owners will probably be taken up at the West Duluth Commercial club meeting tomorrow evening.

WANT PARK IN ONEOTA

100 Citizens Ask Board to Appropriate $8,000 for Purpose.

Claim That End of the City Is Being Rapidly Settled.

A petition, signed by 100 Oneota people has been sent to the park board, urgently requesting that the board purchase for park purposes a block of land between Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth avenues and Magellan and Halifax streets.

The petition recites that the property is vacant, except for ono house, and states that it is an ideal place for a park. It is covered with a growth of trees and up to four or five years ago was one of the most popular places for picnics with Oneota people.

It is also claimed by Oneota citizens that although that section of the city is older than any other portion of Duluth west of the Point of Rocks, it has no parks. They believe that in this matter they have been neglected.

Oneota, they point out, is being thickly populated and during the past year has grown faster than any other part of the city, and yet it has been neglected in the way of public improvements. There is a strong movement on foot to organize an improvement club to bring about a number of desired improvements.

The cost of the proposed park would be close to $8,000, according to one Oneota citizen, who stated this morning that when once bought, it could be converted into one of the most beautiful squares in the city at little expense. He stated that now was the time for the park board to act, as the prices were advancing and that the section was building up rapidly.

Among some of the other things that Oneotans have been asking for, are a sewer system, culverts built under the bridges at Fortieth and Forty-third avenues on Oneota street, better lighting and more patrolmen.

NEW BRIDGE ON WASECA STREET

Commissioner Joseph Becks Completes Work at Sixty-Third Avenue Slip.

Work was completed today on the rebuilding of the old Waseca street bridge, which crosses a slip of the river front between Sixty-first avenue and Sixty-third avenues west.

A new foot bridge replaces the dilapidated structure, which was one of the oldest bridges in West Duluth, having been built at a time when Waseca street was used more extensively for team traffic than it is now.

The new foot bridge, according to Street Commissioner Joseph Becks, is about 600 feet long. The old structure, which had been closed to traffic for a number of years on account of being unsafe, was torn down and the piling cut down from twelve to about three feet above the ice.

In building the bridge, it was necessary for several of the boathouse owners to move their sheds from under the old bridge to another location. Of late years, there has been a tendency among the boathouse owners to place their boathouses near the mouth of the slip as the water recedes more and more each year in the slip.

Miss Alice Wennberg Gives Sleighride and Party for Young People.

Mr. and Mrs. Axel Wick chaperoned a party of West Duluth young people Tuesday evening on a sleighride trip about the city. After the ride, the party was entertained at the home of Miss Alice Wennberg of Sixty-first avenue west. Games and music were the order of the evening.

Among those present were: The Misses Maude Larson, Annie Peterson, Hulda Johnson, Annie Larson, Selma Wilson, Ethel Johnson, Amelia Mattson, Signa Olin, Helma Larson, Cecelia Peterson, Ellen Johnson, Dora Swenson, Emma Anderson, Hulda Larson, Anna Swenson, Signa Wennberg, Mabel Ellstrom, Anna Magnuson, Victoria Swenson and Alice Wennberg. Messrs. Frank Anderson, Emery Nelson, Fred Becks, Arthur Nelson, Alfred Anderson, Arne Frank, Oscar Magnuson, Glen Mortenson, Clayton Miller and Hans Olson.

Elmquist Will Speak.

Elmquist of Minneapolis, a former pastor of the Elim Swedish Lutheran church, Fifty-sixth avenue west and Elinor street, arrived in West Duluth this afternoon, and this evening will be the principal speaker at the festival to be held at Elim church. The affair will be under the auspices of the Men's society.

Four games are down for this evening in the same event: Macauley vs. Buckley, Scott vs. Method, Keyes vs. Ittis and Wade vs. Olson.

COPPERS RALLY AT THE CLOSE

The copper market declined from the opening today but when the market became oversold and support appeared in Amalgamated the leaders climbed back and closed slightly higher than yesterday.

There was no news over night. Traders were rather bearishly inclined, said a New York message, and did not follow the advance. The affair seems to be simply a trading market.

There will be no grain or stock markets in this country Monday, which is a legal holiday, commemorative of the birth of Abraham Lincoln.

Amalgamated sold at $65.25, $64.75, $65.12½, Butte-Ballaklava at $5.37½ to $5.12½, Butte-Coalition at $19, Calumet & Arizona at $55 to $55.75, Ojibway at $7.12½ to $7, Superior & Pittsburg at $15 to $14.75 to $15.12½, North Butte at $29.50 to $29.75 to $29.50, Shattuck at $21.

The local market was dull. The chief trading was in Keating which sold at $2. Offerings were well absorbed. The part paid Scott sold at $3.31¼, an advance from yesterday. Denn sold at $5.25, Calumet & Sonora at $6.25 to $6.12½, Cliff at $1.25, Summit at 6c to 65c.

John W. Gates says: "The year 1911 will be bull period.

"By that I mean a bull period, not only in financial districts, but in all commercial lines.

"Pay no attention to bearish stock exchange gossip on steel trade. I know our company, the Republic Steel & Iron, is operating to 88 per cent of its capacity, and I can assure you that the United States Steel for three weeks past, worked to 60 per cent of its capacity or better, and steel and iron trade is typical of other industries.

"Other business is good, it will soon be excellent. By the end of the year, I should not be surprised to see a boom. Securities have been advanced for the simple reason that they have been ridiculously low. They should continue to advance, because they are worth the money."

The Chicago Post says: Now that the copper report is out, interest naturally turns again to the tonnage figures of the Steel corporation, which will be made public Friday.

"This should show an increase in unfilled tonnage for January of 150,000 tons. If the unfilled business on hand increased 150,000 tons at the close of last month, the total unfilled tonnage on hand will be close to 2,325,000 tons. This will be the first increase revealed since Dec. 31, 1909.

"If new business continues throughout the month of February as it has been coming in so far, the unfilled tonnage at the close of this month will show a further increase. Manufacturers do not expect any great upward movement in buying for the next few months, but believe that new business will gradually increase until conditions have again reached a normal state."

Medicine Hat, Alta., Feb. 9.—Constable Smith of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, returned today from a long patrol and brought word of the death of three homesteaders during the recent storm.

MARKET IS THEIR TOPIC

Representatives of Farmers' Clubs Confer on Aims and Needs.

Annual Meeting of Producers' Co-Operative Association Is Held.

Subjects of the highest importance to the agricultural and business interests of Northeastern Minnesota were discussed at the annual meeting of the Producers' Co-operative Market association held in the assembly room of the Commercial club this morning and afternoon.

At the morning session the reports of the president, manager and treasurer were heard. President C. C. Bigbee of Wrenshall, in the course of his remarks told the farmers present that it would be an easy thing to increase the business of the market here to a yearly total of $120,000, and then, he added, "almost any man can be $1,000 in pocket."

The score and more participants in the meeting had luncheon in the club dining room, where they were briefly addressed by Chairman W. A. McGonagle of the public affairs committee. Mr. McGonagle said in effect that Duluth looks upon this co-operative market movement as being of the very highest importance. Its influence on the development of the agricultural resources of this part of the state, its potential power to reduce the cost of living make it so, he said.

"And if there is anything that you need, that you want, ask us for it," he told them.

The reports of the officers showed that the organization's market did a business in the past year of $30,000, and it was readily understood from the tone of the reports and the comments of the members that the business next season will be largely increased.

For the purpose of stimulating the enterprise instead of crippling it by unnecessary restrictions, it is proposed to so amend the by-laws that members of the association need not pay to the market a lieu commission in the event of their selling produce to commission men instead of to the association, which requirement is now in force.

Also it is probable that the by-laws will be amended to permit farmers' clubs with a minimum membership of five to enter the association. The minimum now is ten, but it has been found that clubs of five would be just as useful and desirable as those of ten members, or more. Groups of five can supply enough produce to make shipments worth while.

These subjects were under discussion at the afternoon meeting.

The Commercial club committee which had the subject in hand reported that the deficit confronting the association will be paid, which will place the organization solidly on its feet with an even break for business success in the coming season.

Talks made by those attending the meeting were full of optimistic sentiments this year as compared with that of last season.

MAY KEEP OPEN.

Coffee Exchange to Reconsider Decision to Close Next Saturday.

New York, Feb. 9.—The coffee exchange, it seems likely, will reconsider its decisions reached a few days ago to close the exchange on Saturday of this week, preceding the Lincoln birthday holiday. Because of the activity of business, the excited state into which the market has worked since the decision to close on Saturday and the fact that the European markets will be open on that day, it has been decided to bring the closing resolution up for reconsideration at a meeting of the exchange members to be held tomorrow. This action is said to be without precedent.

PLANS MAY BE ANNOUNCED

Canadian Northern Officials Holding Conference on Terminals.

Traffic Arrangement With the Northern Pacific Is Possibility.

It is expected that M. H. McLeod, general manager of the Canadian Northern; Vice President Hanna, Chief Engineer H. T. Hazen of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific and Judge F. H. Phippen, who is conducting the legal negotiations in connection with the terminal rights of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific in this city, will return to the Head of the Lakes tomorrow, when some important announcement may be made concerning the Duluth terminals of the road.

It is stated that the officials are at the present time holding a conference with the Northern Pacific officials in St. Paul, with a view to making a traffic arrangement with that road at the Head of the Lakes.

There was a rumor that the Canadian Northern, or the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific, would use the Omaha depot here, as the two roads have at the present time a traffic agreement. However, nothing very definite has been given out to date and until some official announcement comes from the Canadian Northern officials, nothing can be told of the plans for Duluth.

The plans of the officials, according to the statement received at the local office of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific, are to take the night train from the Twin Cities. It is stated that there will be a conference in this city tomorrow with the local attorneys, Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell, who have handled some of the business of the Canadian Northern in the negotiations leading up to the securing of the local franchise for street rights.

MANY CITIES WANT METHODIST MEET

Advantages of Each Are Placed Before the Committee.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—One less contestant appeared today before the book committee of the Methodist Episcopal general conference in the race for next year's meeting. Chicago withdrew on the ground that it perhaps was asking for the meeting too often, having had it in 1900.

Former Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks opened the verbal race today in presenting the offers of Indianapolis. Other cities seeking the conference and offering bonuses beyond the $50,000 required by the conference are Des Moines, Iowa; Columbus, Ohio; Minneapolis, Minn.; Atlantic City, N. J., and Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

The award may not be made today, as had been expected, because of the time taken by the delegates in extolling the virtue of their respective cities.

Trial Package to Prove It Sent Free.

Any man or woman gets awfully tired going around with a pimply face day after day. And other people get awfuly tired, too, seeing them go around with faces full of disgusting pimples.

If you are one of the unfortunates who can't get away from your pimples, and you have tried almost everything under heaven to get rid of them, take a few of Stuart's Calcium Wafers every day. Do that steadily for a few days, and in less than a week look at yourself in the mirror.

You will then say that Stuart's Calcium Wafers are a wonder in getting rid of the eruptions.

These wonderful little workers contain the most effective blood purifier ever discovered, calcium sulphide.

No matter what your trouble is, whether pimples, blotches, blackheads, rash, tetter, eczema or scabby crusts, you can solemnly depend upon Stuart's Calcium Wafers as never-failing.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers have cured boils in three days and the worst cases of skin diseases in a week. Every particle of impurity is driven out of your system completely, never to return, and it is done without deranging your system in the slightest.

Most treatments for the blood and for skin eruptions are miserably slow in their results, and besides, many of them are poisonous. Stuart's Calcium Wafers contain no poison or drug of any kind; they are absolutely harmless, and yet do work which which cannot fail to surprise you.

Don't go around with a humiliating, disgusting mass of pimples and blackheads on your face. A face covered over with these disgusting things makes people turn away from you, and breeds failure in your life work. Stop it. Read what an Iowa man said when he woke up one morning and found he had a new face:

"By George, I never saw anything like it. There I've been for three years trying to get rid of pimples and blackheads, and guess I used everything under the sun. I used your Calcium Wafers for just seven days. This morning every blessed pimple is gone and I can't find a blackhead. I could write you a volume of thanks. I am so grateful to you."

Just send us your name and address in full today, and we will send you a trial package of Stuart's Calcium Wafers, free, to test. After you have tried the sample and been convinced that all we say is true, you will go to your nearest druggist and get a 50c box and be cured of your facial trouble. Backache Means Dying Kidneys

A Remarkable Treatment That Saves the Kidneys—How You May Cure Yourself Quickly and Thoroughly.

With the progress of science comes one remarkable treatment for kidney diseases. It has been so thoroughly tasted and its results have proven so revolutionary that a well-known firm in Michigan has undertaken its distribution into every part of the country.

Those who suffer from kidney trouble and the diseases resulting from it will be pleased to know that every package of this treatment is thoroughly guaranteed. This should assure at last a positive cure to every sufferer.

Every man and woman should know that backache is usually a well-defined symptom of advancing kidney disease which may end fatally unless treated in time; that rehumatism and bladder trouble are caused from nothing more nor less than Kidneys that do not filter the poison from the blood; that dropsy, Bright's disease, diabetes and bladder stones are caused by bad kidneys.

Once they are made to work properly, these diseases should quickly disappear.

This is done by the new treatment, Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills.

We urge every one who has pain in the small of the back, profuse or scanty urination, pains in the bladder, cloudy or foul urine, not to fail to get a package today of Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills, and drop all other kidney treatments. Senator Stevenson of Washington, writes from Olympia: "There is no question about the efficacy of Dr. Derby's Pure Kidney Pills in curing kidney and bladder trouble. I know whereof I speak."

Dr. Derby's Kidney Pills are now sold at all drug stores—60 pills—10 days' treatment—25 cents, or direct from Derby Medicine Co., Eaton Rapids, Mich. If you would like to try them first, ask your druggist for a free sample package. Then buy a package; you will not regret it.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

GRAND FORKS MEET ENDING

Thursday Final Day for Successful Corn and Clover Convention.

Speakers Demonstrate That Corn Can Be Raised in the Dakotas.

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The second annual meeting of the Red River Valley corn and clover convention came to a successful conclusion this afternoon. The last sessions proved as interesting as those of the first day. Important points in farming, practical experiments in corn growing in North Dakota, groves and fruit trees and alfalfa were some of the subjects taken up by the speakers. Each address held the large audiences to the last minute, not a half dozen visitors leaving the convention hall before the entire program had been completed.

Prof. A. B. Hess of Larimore, who has given considerable attention to corn growing, had the proofs to show that the grain is a success in North Dakota, and his work is being spread broadcast over the state. Prof. L. R. Waldron of the experimental station at Dickinson discussed alfalfa; E. C. Hilborn of Valley City the advocate of grove and fruit tree growing, and Prof. M. A. Brannon of the university solved some of the difficult problems of North Dakota farming. Prof. H. R. Danielson of Crookston was also an interesting speaker, his subject being "Cement and Farm Plans."

Auto Show Another Day.

The auto show will continue for another day and the automobile dealers wish it were for the rest of the week, as they have closed more deals for cars during the past few days than in several days previous. The show is receiving unusual social recognition also, large parties of society folk being out each night to hear the orchestra program and the musical and vaudeville numbers which continue until 10 o'clock.

The judging in the mid-winter fair exhibits and the poultry show were completed yesterday and the blue ribbons were carried away today in almost every direction. The dog show continues over Friday and will come to a close with the auto show.

JUDGE FLANNIGAN HAS CLEAR FIELD

No Opposition Expected to Twenty-Fifth Michigan District Judge.

Marquette, Mich., Feb. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Two elections are to be be held throughout the state of Michigan this spring, the first a general primary election of all parties to nominate candidates for the office of circuit judge, which will be held March 1, and the second a general spring election on Monday, April 3.

In this judicial circuit, the primary election March 1 is likely to be a tame affair, as there is no opposition whatever to the nomination of Judge Flannigan and he is expected to receive the indorsement of both the Republican and Decocratic parties. Judge Flannigan was appointed less than a year ago to fill out the unexpired term of Judge Stone, and this will be his first opportunity to receive the indorsement of the voters of his circuit at the polls.

JUDGE R. C. FLANNIGAN.

At the spring election on April 3 the following state officers are to be voted for: Two justices of the supreme court, two regents of the University of Michigan, superintendent of public instruction, member of the state board of education, two members of the state board of agriculture, and one circuit judge of the Twenty-fifth judicial circuit, who will be chosen under the primary law, Republican candidates for these offices will be nominated at a state convention to be held in Saginaw early in March.

A mayor and five aldermen of the city of Marquette will also be elected on April 3 and from present indications local interest will be almost entirely centered on the municipal officers.

HAPPY RESULTS

Have Made Many Duluth Residents Enthusiastic.

No wonder scores of Duluth citizens grow enthusiastic. It is enough to make any one happy to find relief after years of suffering. Public statements like the following are but truthful representations of the daily work done in Duluth by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. W. F. Humerichous, 120 Eighteenth avenue west, Duluth, Minn., says: "I am glad to confirm all I said about Doan's Kidney Pills in November 1908. I publicly recommended them at that time. For several years my kidneys were disordered. Spells of backache often distressed me and I felt tired and dizzy after stooping. I took a great deal of medicine, but I did not see any improvement until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. The contents of one box brought relief and by the time I had used three boxes, I felt as free from the trouble as possible. My cure has been permanent."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

AD WOLGAST AND BROWN FIGHT SIX ROUNDS TO DRAW

New York Boy Forces Lightweight Champion to Extend Himself.

Brown Has Better of Boxing But His Blows Lack Steam.

Philadelphia, Feb. 9.—Ad Wolgast, lightweight champion of the world, and Knockout Brown of New York fought a hard six-round draw before the American Athletic club in this city last night.

Although the New Yorker had a slight advantage in a majority of the rounds, his blows lacked steam, compared with those of the champion. Wolgast seemed unable to fathom the peculiar style of Brown, and the latter many times landed on Wolgast's head and body without a return. Wolgast tried all the tricks of the trade to reach his opponent, rushing and roughing to such an extent that he was warned by the referee on two occasions.

Brown never fought a better battle, while the showing of the champion, especially in the early rounds, was a disappointment. However, as Wolgast became more accustomed to Brown's style, he fought in better form.

outpointed Young O'Leary of New York in the preliminaries.

When Wolgast and Brown entered the ring, the American Athletic club was little more than half filled. Each apepared to be in fine condition, especially the champion. Little time was wasted in adjusting the gloves. It was announced that both men were well under the stipulated weight of 133 pounds.

In Wolgast's corner were Tom Jones, his manager, Herbert Wilcox, Herman Hutt and Joe Kline. Brown's seconds were Adam Bowen, John Smollek, and Dan Morgan, his manager.

First Round Brown's.

Round 1—Brown was the first to lead sending two light lefts to the champion's head. Wolgast put a light right on the wind and then swung a hard right to the neck and left to the body. Brown put two lefts to the head and jabbed his right to the nose. Wolgast sent two hard lefts to the body and then put right and left on the head. Brown swung his left to the head and then put it on to the body. Wolgast missed a hard right for the jaw and Brown sent his right to the wind. Brown had a shade the better of the round.

Round 2—Brown reached the face and body with a left and right and Wolgast drove both hands to the stomach. Brown swung a hard right on the champion's ear and then hooked his left to the jaw. Wolgast sent his left twice to the wind and then drove a hard right to the same place. Wolgast sent another left to the wind and as he stepped back, drove a hard right to the chin. Wolgast sent left and right to the head at the bell. Wolgast's round.

Brown Reaches Champion.

Round 3—They rushed to a clinch and wrestled across the ring. Wolgast sent a hard right to the ribs and put both hands to the body. Brown landed three lefts on the champion's face without a return. Brown jabbed three rights to the mouth and sent a left to the wind. They exchanged rights and lefts to the body. Wolgast sent a left to the neck and then placed both hands to the wind. Brown's round.

Round 4—They exchanged light lefts and rights to the body. Brown swung a left to the head and uppercut with right to the chin. Wolgast drove a hard right to the body and left to the face and they rushed to a clinch. Brown jabbed two rights to the face and then sent a right to the wind. Wolgast drove a hard left into the wind at the bell. Brown's round.

Round 5—Brown put a hard left on Wolgast's ear and the latter sent three short rights to Brown's body. Brown swung left and right to the head and Wolgast put a right to the wind. Wolgast was warned by the referee to stop wrestling. Wolgast drove a left to the body and then sent both hands to the head. Brown jabbed a right to the face and Wolgast sent a left to the nose. Brown's round.

Last Round Wolgast's.

Round 6—Brown drove both hands to the head and Wolgast slipped right and left to the body. In a fierce mixup in the center of the ring, Wolgast had a slight advantage. The referee was forced to separate the fighters. Wolgast sent two hard lefts to the body and both swung lefts to the face. Wolgast sent a hard left and right to the head, and shook Brown up with a right to the chin. Brown swung left to the mouth and Wolgast drove both hands to the body. Wolgast's round.

GOTCH WINS EASILY FROM GUS SCHOENLIN.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 9.—Frank Gotch, world's champion wrestler last night won from Gus Schoenlein in straight falls. The first fall came after 42 minutes, 22 seconds, with a half-nelson and crotch hold and the second in 20 minutes, 22 seconds with a toe-hold.

While Gotch displayed much of his championship form, his work was inclined to be rough.

At the beginning of the second half of the contest, Americus took the offensive and in a few minutes threw Gotch to the mat with one shoulder on the floor. The champion appeared infuriated over his opponent's temporary advantage and, wriggling out of the hold, rushed wildly at him.

The men were on an elevated platform and when the wrestlers met, both fell to the floor, three feet below. Neither was injured.

ROBERT MARS.

At a meeting of the Athletic association at Central high school the new officers for the second semester were elected.

Robert Mars was re-elected president; Jud Boden, secretary, and Henry Nolte, treasurer.

John Wagner, who played quarter for Central in the Superior game, was recommended to receive a "D" and the decision was left in the hands of the board of control. Everyone seems to favor the movement and Wagner will, without doubt, receive his letter.

BOY WONDER WILL APPEAR

Mel Hendrickson, World's Greatest Ski Rider, Booked for Duluth.

France Kempe, National Champion, Also Coming—Improving Big Slide.

Busy scenes are being enacted at the grounds of the Duluth Ski club. The big slide, the best in this country, is being put in condition for the breaking, if possible, of the world's record of 163 feet, made in Norway only recently. It might be of interest to state that there will be over 1,452 cubic feet of snow, equal to about forty wagon loads, on the big ski hill by the time the workmen are through putting the slide in perfect shape for the events of Sunday.

After the snow has been hauled to the top of the slide by a large cable and is distributed the length of the long grade, it must be packed and made as smooth as the surface of a billiard table. To break records it is absolutely necessary to have perfect conditions and the officials of the local club have determined that the hill shall be in the best shape it has ever been in for a tournament.

One of the features of the meet will be the presence in Duluth of France Kempe, the Red Wing German, who won the national championship, and also Melvin Hendrickson, the 14-year-old boy of Eau Claire, who is perhaps the most phenomenal jumper in the world today, considering his age and weight.

This boy weighs but eighty pounds and at the National meet at Chippewa Falls was the sensation of the meet. He established a record of 125 feet, surpassing the efforts of all of the amateurs, including the jumps of Barney Riley and also beating the marks of many of the veteran professionals. The boy is nothing less than a wonder and the officials of the local club are congratulating themselves that he will appear at the big tournament of Sunday.

ATTEMPTS TO TIE UP LEAGUE

Attorney for Waterloo Club Would Prevent Drafting of Three I Schedule.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—The relations of the Waterloo, Iowa, baseball club to the Three-I league will be put up to the courts for adjustment when Judge Gribley of the superior court will hear arguments on a supplemental bill filed yesterday by Attorney Quin O'Brien of the Waterloo club. In the bill, O'Brien charges that the Waterloo club was illegally ousted and asks for an injunction restraining officers of the league from preparing a schedule for 1911 in which Waterloo is not included.

Attorney Edward L. Litzinger, for President Al Tearney of the league, filed a demurrer to the amended bill, but was over-ruled.

If the injunction should be granted, it is claimed by Attorney O'Brien, it will tie up the league unless Waterloo is ousted again by a vote of five clubs, or unless it is allowed to retain its place in the league.

President Tearney said last night he would take no steps to have dissolved an injunction secured by the Dubuque, Iowa, club.

MANY VISITORS INSPECT NEW CATHOLIC CLUB.

The opening to the pubilc of the Catholic club gymnasium last evening brought to the inspection of the new quarters about 1,000 visitors.

The gymnasium is one of the most complete in the Northwest. An orchestra played during the evening and every visitor was shown through every part of the club. Every detail is ready for the organization of some of the best athletic teams in the northern part of Minnesota.

GOES DOWN EIGHT TIMES FOR COUNT OF NINE.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 9.—Bob Moha of Milwaukee easily out-pointed Guy Buckles of Omaha in a 10-round no-decision bout last night, which went the limit. The men fought at catch-weights.

Every round was Moha's. He knocked the Omaha boy down eight times, the Westerner taking nine of the count on each occasion.

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

Barney Oldfield and His Spectacular Fight—Ordemann's Hard Luck—The American Champ—Morris and His Oklahoma Admirers—Chance Is Optimistic—Oddities of Training.

(BY BRUCE.)

Barney Oldfield is one of the most picturesque figures in the glare of the sporting light. He is daring, defying and devilish, if we can believe some of the things the regulars say against the insurgent Barney. He is to the automobile game what Robert La Follette is to the fat and one time comfortable standpatters of the United States senate.

Some of the admirers of this bold and skillful driver felt exceedingly sorry for him when the announcement was blazoned across the country in big type letters, telling of the suspension of Barney from the ranks of the A. A. A. The sorry feeling has turned to one of admiration for the bold rebel.

He is not seeking peace with the American Automobile association. On the other hand he is uttering words of defiance. He is on his way to Mexico, where he has some profitable dates, and after that, according to the press dispatches from California, he will fill his time in racing on some of the California tracks that have opened their arms to the A. A. A. outcast.

Here, indeed, is a peculiar situation. Like Ajax defying the lightning, this man is matching his nerve and skill against so powerful an association as the organization of American automobile clubs. Will he win? That question is one filled with interest, spectacular interest.

There is no doubt but that the American people want to see this driver. As long as he can continue to break world's records with consistent regularity, he will continue to be an attraction. The other question is whether there will be tracks whose owners will dare to permit Oldfield to drive on them. The A. A. A. is at the present time attempting to close tracks against him, and if these efforts are successful the livelihood of the Oldfield man will be cut off.

Barney is full of fight, has clever press agents, Bill Pickens and J. Alex Sloane, known to many people here and in the Twin Cities, is the greatest automobile card in the world and he is receiving valuable advertising from the very impetuosity of the fight the automobile associations is waging against him.

Reports from merry Minneapolis, where the sporting teapot is invariably simmering and boiling, say that the nervous breakdown of big Ordemann following the three terrific matches he wrestled with Hackenschmidt, Zbyszko and Kid Cutler, has cost the big Norsk something in the neighborhood of $6,000. Henry had matches in the making for Kansas City, Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo and New York. Ordemann was just about the biggest card in the country outside of Gotch the great, the king of them all. Hackenschmidt, Zbyszko and Roller. The defeat at the husky Norske hands of Kid Cutler, the Bimidji lad, and the breakdown that secured a hammerlock on the big boy made the fulfilling of these matches impossible, and hence the passing of the coin in a funeral parade by the domicile of Heinery.

Worse Than Doctor's Bills

Ordemann's defeat by Cutler probably means a meeting between Westergaard and the former champion. There is considerable speculation at the present time as to the American champion. There is really no champion outside of Gotch, when you come down to the curb and cut out all the flowery persiflage.

Who Will Be American Champ.

Like other things, croquet, euchre and other harmless pastimes, the wrestlers like to have degree championships, if you will. They will have the American champion, a grade below the world's champion, and we have the championship of Europe, the Finnish champion, the Swedish, the Polish, the Bohemian, the Polyglot and the Zxyptngt championships.

At one time Chris Person claimed the Northwestern championship. He won it from Emil Peterson and that gent found it up around Buhl and eagerly appropriated it.

But in figuring championships Westergaard has shown that he is about as good as any wrestler in this country, barring Gotch and the three foreign gentlemen from the conversation.

From the wiper's weary work to the governor's chair.

Down Oklahoma Way.

Our pride and hope, whitest of the white hopes, Carl Morris. The hero of the round house—we greet thee, Carl.

These might be extracts from the minutes of the Oklahoma Hero Worship society.

Since the days when Crazy Horse shot the topknot off Running Water and the society for the prevention of hostilities promptly hanged Crazy Horse and all the other Indians in the reaching, the ways of the West have been considered impulsive by cold-minded students of psychology. A dimming trace of this impulsiveness is found in the case of massive Morris.

They have bought him a mansion, Oklahoma cut, have subscribed $50,000 to prepare him for world's championship model, and will make him governor of the state if he whips Johnsing.

Caution has no place in the makeup of some of these Oklahoma cits; yet a word to the well diggers might help some. Some one should advise tying a restraining rope to the mansion and the $50,000 bank roll, for some measly fighter in hard need of a meal is liable to stroll in and puncture with resounding noise the Morris memorial fund plans. They should at least wait until Carl whips Michael Angelo Schreck.

Frank Leroy Chance, the Peerless Leader, grew optimistic out Los Angeles way the other day. There is something in the blitheness of California that makes a man feel chesty. That is one reason why they have so many prizefighters in the Golden West—and perhaps it is another reason why so many of them get licked when they fight in the foggy East.

Frank Chance May Not Quit

But turning to Chance; he has made the statement that first base will be his stamping ground next summer, and that he will be the regular guardian of the sack, unless a better man comes forth, or first, rather. Then, too, Frank has hopes of Overall and Brown, and they looked pretty bad last season.

California confidence is very good and the dope that Chance has is about the nearest the P. L. has come to claiming the pennant the past few months.

One time a well-known trainer declared that juicy meat for one man might prove in the nature of polson for his brother athlete. Since that time even less astute observers have learned the truth of this sage observation. No two men train alike, and, therefore, the secret of training a body of men is a very complicated one; one for which some few men in this country are paid more munificent salaries than are received by our senators and congressmen.

How Some Athletes Train

Charles Herald, the strong man who is stopping here for the time being, believes in eating just exactly what he wants, for he contends that a healthy body craves only what is good for it. He has no regular training rules, but has come to his training through moderation and keeping in touch with the natural wants of his system.

Arthur Saxon is recognized as the world' strongest man. Miss Butler, who skated here the present week, knows this wonder of muscular development and his two brothers. She told the writer that the three brothers drank a keg of beer every evening. This sounds like a human interest story written in Milwaukee, but the lady stated that it was not exaggerated in the least. The Saxons are as German as the original weinerwurst. Maybe the brothers three thrive on the beer beverage, but, Hans, ach Louie, so much of it.

It simply goes to show, George, that no two men can train the same, though three can occasionally, as witness the Saxons.

JESS WESTERGAARD.

Last evening the Big Duluths defeated the Fairmont Hockey team by the score of 7 to 2 on the rink at Twenty-fifth avenue west and Second street.

The team work of the Big Duluths was superior to that of their rivals and they also showed better at shooting combination play, and their defense proved stronger. On the showing made last night the wise dopers of the league are picking the Big Duluths as the rag winners.

Several of the players of the Fairmonts were unable to be present and this undoubtedly weakened their chances of victory. However, the winners showed superiority at about every stage of the game. Ostergren and Brown did good work for the winning team.

There are eight remaining games in the schedule and the winner at the conclusion of the schedule will receive the pennant, as there are no after season championship games the present season. The Adams and Big Duluth teams will probably meet Feb. 22 or 27.

WORKING FOR BALL PARK

Plot Back of F. A. Patrick's Building Desired By Club Officials.

Petition Used to Secure Moral Support of Leading Business Men.

Men behind the Duluth Baseball association are at the present time making an organized effort to secure the piece of ground immediately adjoining the wholesale house of the F. A. Patrick company, owned by the Northern Pacific Railroad company, and if the efforts are successful, Duluth will have a modern baseball park right in the very heart of the business district.

Announcement was made some months ago in The Herald that negotiations were being carried on for the securing of a piece of property that was within two minutes' walk of the very center of the city. At this time the property location can be made public. If the property is secured, and Duluth plays in the Minnesota-Wisconsin league the present season, business men can leave their offices five minutes before time for calling the game and get to the park in plenty of time.

Some time ago negotiations were entered into with the head officials of the company at St. Paul. After mature deliberation these officials decided against leasing the ground for the reason that no definite lease could be entered into, as the officials of the company cannot foretell at the present time when the railroad company will desire the use of the ground for railroad purposes.

Negotiations for the lease of the property were dropped when the Northern Pacific general officials decided against the leasing of the ground. Now, however, for some reason, hope, that eternal comforter of man, has again actuated the men behind the ball team and a petition is being circulated at the present time for the purpose of securing the indorsement of the business men of this city, and to bring moral suasion to bear on the heads of the Northern Pacific system.

There is, as far as can be learned in this city, only one objection against the lease on the part of the railroad officials. That is the very indefinite nature that any lease would necessarily have to be. The officials of the company pointed out the fact that should a lease for the grounds be permitted, the grounds graded and stands and bleachers built at a very heavy expense, and then the railroad company suddenly be called upon to take the grounds for railroad purposes at a few days' notice, there would naturally be a very hard feeling among the men who has spent good money in securing the grounds.

Those behind the scheme to provide Duluth with a modern down town park and general athletic field, where the high school football games as well as skating races and hockey games could be pulled off, say that the park can be completed by late spring if the consent to the lease can be secured. Just what encouragement in their efforts the men interested in the project will receive from the business men of the city is a question that is exciting much interest among those behind the plan.

CENTRALS TO PLAY ST. PAUL

High School Basket Ball Team Will Play Two Games on Trip.

The Central high school basket ball team will leave Duluth Friday morning for Little Falls, where they will play the high school team at that place.

On Saturday morning the team will go to St. Paul and play the Central high school on Saturday afternoon.

On Saturday evening the members of the team are planning to witness the hockey game between the Curling club of Duluth and the Phoenix team of the Twin Cities.

The Central team is not feeling very badly over its defeat by the Superior Normal Tuesday. It was next to impossible for strangers to play on the normal floor while it was in the condition it was last Tuesday. The floor was so slippery that the Duluth players had to watch their steps for fear of falling, while the Superior players were used to the conditions and had a great advantage.

Those who will make the trip are: Capt. Harris, Johnson, Osman, Solheim, Jeronimus, Waldron and Coach Schilling.

EMERSONS ACCEPT DEFI OF SUMMIT STARS.

In answer to the challenge of the Summit Hockey team, which appeared in this paper yesterday, A. Y. Bawden, manager of the Emerson Hockey aggregation, one of the fastest teams in the city, outside of the City league, accepts the challenge. He states further that his team has an open date next Sunday and that there is no objection to playing the game at the rink at Tenth avenue west and Third street. The length of the halves is set at 15 minutes and the manager of the Emersons suggests that the game start at 2 o'clock sharp.

This Home-Made Cough Syrup Will Surprise You

Stops Even Whooping Cough Quickly. A Family Supply at Small Cost.

Here is a home-made remedy that takes hold of a cough instantly and will usually cure the most stubborn case in 24 hours. This recipe makes a pint—enough for a whole family. You couldn't buy as much or as good ready made cough syrup for $2.50.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and add the Sugar Syrup. This keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste—children like it. Braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

You probably know the medical value of pine in treating asthma, bronchitis and other throat troubles, sore lungs, etc. There is nothing better. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guiaicol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this inexpensive remedy have made friends for it in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

This Week's Sunday School Lesson

WRITTEN FOR THE HERALD BY REV. J. S. KIRTLEY, D. D.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON: FEB. 12. I Kings, xviii, 17-40: Elijah's Victory Over Baal.

THE CONNECTION.

The drouth was terrible and grew worse for three years. No crops were raised. Those who had money could import food, but when water was all gone, they were at the end of their resources. Then King Ahab and hi servants went out hunting for water. He also had made a very thorough search for Elijah, to put him to death. But now he was beginning to see some significance in the scourge. It was while they were seeking water for their cattle that Obadiah, the king's chamberlain, a worshipper of Jehovah, met Elijah and through him made an appointment to meet Ahab. After a complaint from Ahab and a rejoinder from Elijah, the latter proposed a test by which they could prove that Jehovah and not Baal was God, the test of fire. Ahab accepted the challenge and the people met in great crowds on Mount Carmel to see it.

THE LESSON.

I.

The Failure of Baal. 25-29.

"And Elijah said unto the prophets of Baal, Choose you one bullock for yourselves, and dress it first; for ye are many; and call on the name of your god, but put no fire under. And they took the bullock which was given them, and they dressed it, and called on the name of Baal from morning even until noon, saying, O Baal, hear us. But there was no voice, nor any that answered. And they leaped about the altar which was made. And it came to pass at noon, that Elijah mocked them, and said, Cry aloud; for he is a god; either he is musing, or he is gone aside, or he is on a journey, or peradventure he sleepeth and must be awakened. And they cried aloud, and cut themselves after their manner with knives and lances, till the blood gushed out upon them. And it was so, when midday was past, that they prophesied until the time of the offering of the evening oblation; but there was neither voice, nor any to answer, nor any that regarded."

1. FAIR PLAY.—Elijah gave them every chance. They prepared their bullock, the altar, themselves. All they had to do was to call on Baal to consume the sacrifice without fire and, of course, if he really was a god, he would show what he could do and not allow himself to be discredited. But he showed no signs of existence whatever.

2. DESPERATION.—The poor priests did all they could. They used up all their resources—repetition, for they prayed all day; self torture, which they thought would evoke both pity and aid. Another thing that added to their desperation was the cool and confident sarcasm of Elijah. It was bright and grim humor, when he called out, "Louder, he can't hear you. He may be asleep or away from home or absorbed in some personal matter."

II.

The Appeal to God. 30-37.

"And Elijah said unto all the people, Come near unto me; and all the people came near unto him. And he repaired the altar of Jehovah that was thrown down. And Elijah took twelve stones, according to the number of the tribes of the sons of Jacob, unto whom the word of Jehovah came, saying, Israel shall be thy name. And with the stones he built an altar in the name of Jehovah; and he made a trench about the altar, as great as would contain two measures of seed. And he put the wood in order, and cut the bullock in pieces, and laid it on the wood. And he said, Fill four jars with water, and pour it on the burnt-offering, and on the wood. And he said, Do it the second time. And he said, Do it the second time; and they did it the second time. And the water ran round about the altar; and he filled the trench also with water. And it came to pass at the time of the offering of the evening oblation, that Elijah the prophet came near, and said, O Jehovah, the God of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Israel, let it be known this day that Thou art God in Israel, and that I am Thy servant, and that I have done all these things at Thy word. Hear me, O Jehovah, hear me, that this people may know that Thou, Jehovah, are God, and that Thou hast turned their heart back again."

1. PREPARATION.—His preparation was both ordinary and extraordinary. Of the former were getting the attention of the people, who had been halting between two opinions, but were now in a receptive mood, repairing the altar and putting twelve symbolic stones under it, the cutting the sacrifice in twelve pieces and laying it on the altar. All of this he did himself as the people looked on and what he did and the way he did it gave them something to think about.

The extraordinary preparations must have made them all wonder, as he had the trench digged about the altar and twelve barrels of water, from a well that had not gone dry, poured over the sacrifice and till it filled the trench. His confidence was impressive, for now everything was against him. Baal was a god of fire. His priests had taken the whole day. God was a reality to Elijah and he was calm.

But everything was propitious. It was the hour of the evening offering; all was ready.

2. PRAYER.—He knew God was going to do it, but he prayed. The prayer put him more in touch with God, showed the people where his strength came from, it was so unselfish and tender and sympathetic towards them, they could not fail to see the difference between him and the prophets of Baal, who now stood around, exhausted and frightened, completely whipped. It was an electric moment.

III.

God's Answer. 38, 39.

"Then the fire of Jehovah fell, and consumed the burnt-offering, and the wood, and the stones, and the dust, and licked up the water that was in the trench. And when all the people saw it, they fell on their faces; and they said, Jehovah, he is God; Jehovah, he is God."

We knew what the answer would be—the complete incineration of sacrifice, altar and stones and the evaporation of the water.

1. PENITENCE.—The object of the test was to win back the people to the God whom they had abandoned. They were incontrolably penitent and were ready to help Elijah kill the prophets of Baal, but we must not count too much on them. Even Ahab seemed ready to drop Baal, but he had not yet heard from his wife.

2. PUNISHMENT.—The slaughter of those priests seemed harsh, yet it was not only deserved but was necessary in curing the dread disease of idolatry. The law required the punishment and that kind of surgery was necessary.

3. RAIN.—Now they were ready for rain. The purpose of the drouth has been accomplished. Elijah prays for rain and announces it. The people believe him and run for shelter.

The effect of this victory on Elijah is a distinct softening of the man. He urges Ahab to seek shelter and runs ahead of him as a body guard. He discreetly goes on past Jezreel, so as to avoid any encounter with Jezebel. But a great reaction is coming to him, after the strain of these three years and its strenuous climax.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

Elijah was a disturber in Ahab's estimation. He flamed before the guilty king like an avenging angel, and was regarded by him as the author of all the miseries under which the land was mourning. In point of fact it was the course of God that had brought the blight of drouth and famine. Elijah had only announced the curse, but it was the sin of Ahab that caused it to come. Yet God's servants, like Elijah, have ever been regarded as disturbers of the peace. They have been counted as enemies because they dared to tell unwelcome truth.—Henson.

The deed (slaying the priests) was a solemn and terrible execution, not a fanatical massacre. Idolatry was no more religious error; it was treason, direct and defiant, against Israel's supreme king.—Green.

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.

1.—Why does the sense of doing God's will give one calm and courage?

2.—Why does prayer require one to keep his expectations and plans and activities moving in the direction of his prayer?

3.—What are the practical advantages of giving the credit of all our good deeds to God?

4.—What effect must the work of God, through Elijah, have on our faith?

5.—What forms of idolatry do we find among us?

6.—Can one lead a straight outright life without disturbing people?

7.—What are some of the perils that come from marked success?

LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY

Business Will Be Only Partly Suspended in Duluth Monday.

Memorial Service for Martyred President By Culver Post G. A. R.

On account of Feb. 12, Lincoln's birthday, falling on Sunday this year, next Monday, Feb. 13, will be observed as a public holiday in Duluth. The observance will take the form of a suspension of certain lines of business and it will not be general in its scope.

The banks, board of trade, stock exchange, brokers' offices and public offices of all kinds will be closed for the day. There will be but one carrier delivery of mail from the postoffice and it will cover business and residence districts. The stamp and general delivery windows will be open from 9:30 to 10:30 in the morning.

On account of the large number of holidays in the year and the fact that Washington's birthday, which is more widely observed, will come in the following week, most business houses will not close Monday. Wholesale and retail houses will conduct their business as usual.

Supt. Denfeld of the public schools said today that unless plans are altered before tomorrow, the schools will be in session as usual Monday. In the different rooms note will be taken of the occasion in talks on Lincoln by the teachers, but Mr. Denfeld does not think the occasion calls for the closing of the schools.

Culver post of the G. A. R. and the branch of the Women's Relief Corps connected with that post will hold a memorial service in commemoration of the martyred president at Memorial hall in the courthouse Saturday evening. The program has not been completed, but some good speakers will make patriotic addresses and there will be a program of musical numbers.

Many of the pastors of the city will make reference to Lincoln in their sermons Sunday. The life of Lincoln, his rise from birth in a log cabin and a boyhood of hardship to the highest position in the nation, the fortitude with which he bore reverses and his triumph over the fierce opposition which he was subjected in carrying out his plans will furnish the material for some of the sermons that will be delivered in tribute to the memory of the war president.

Sunday will be the 102nd anniversary of the birth of Lincoln.

Holdup Result of Conspiracy.

Chicago, Feb. 9. — Harry Anderson, implicated in the robbery of Rector's restaurant Sunday morning, by the confession to the police last night, admitting that the holdup was a result of a conspiracy. Charles Willard, whom both say held up the safe, still asserts his innocence.

PLAN COUNTY WORKHOUSE

That Will Probably Be the Solution of the Jail Problem.

Prisoners at Jail Thinned Out and Building Is Cleaned.

It is probable that a committee will be appointed at the council meeting next Monday evening which will meet with the committee appointed at the last meeting of the county board to consider the matter of a joint county and city workhouse for short term prisoners.

The plans are for a house where men sent up for a few days may be kept. Work will be given them and in this way the jail will be thinned out to such an extent that it will save the expense of building a new one for some years to come.

It has been suggested that the flats owned by the county on West First street be turned into quarters for the men and that in the daytime they be employed on the point of rocks. It is argued that men would be more careful about getting into jail if they knew they would be made to break rocks and also that the point of rocks would in a few years disappear. The rock could be sold back to the city for grading purposes.

It has also been suggested that as the flats are bringing the county considerable money in rent that the city and county get together and either build or rent a place in the West end for sleeping quarters.

There are those who are against both propositions and also the work on the point of rocks. They say that the sight of these men on the streets is not elevating to school children and that they should be taken out into the country and work found for them there.

Favors Rock Work.

Commissioner Joseph Cumming, chairman of the committee from the county board, is very much in favor of the work on the point of rocks. He thinks that in this way the city will save a great amount of money, for, he says that something must be done soon at that place.

He thinks that a joint workhouse could be built by the city and county at a very small expense. His object is to thin out the prisoners, clean up the jail and keep it just for county prisoners. This would save the building of a new jail until such time as the county could afford it. It is said that a jail could not be built for less than $250,000.

Another scheme is to get a piece of land near the city. There the men would be set to work erecting the buildings and roads and when that work is completed they could be set to truck farming.

This is said to pay well in and about Duluth and it is argued that the city and county could more than break even on the expense if garden stuff were raised and marketed in the city.

There are many schemes, but these are the ones that seem to be the most favored. It is not yet known what the city wants to do on the proposition. A meeting will probably be held Tuesday of next week as the council meeting at which time a committee will be appointed takes places on Monday evening.

Fewer Prisoners.

The city is not sending nearly so many men to the county jail as it was a few weeks ago. Instead of about 180 there are now only about seventy-five at the institution. This makes it a losing proposition for the sheriff because with such a small number he is unable to make the meals pay. At the present time the jail is in the best shape it has been for a long time. There are fewer prisoners and this gives some chance to clean it up.

What will be done is not at the present time known, but something must be done and soon, for the jail inspector has threatened to close up the county institution unless the conditions are made more sanitary. When he visited the jail the conditions were much worse than they are at present, however.

WITHDRAW OPPOSITION.

British Columbia Lumbermen No Longer Opposed to Reciprocity.

Vancouver, B. C., Feb. 9.—British Columbia lumbermen will withdraw their opposition to the reciprocity agreement with the United States, according to a statement made by John Hendrick, president of the Canadian Lumbermen's association and of the Canadian Forestry association.

Mr. Hendrick said that although the British Columbia lumbermen believe the United States should admit Canadian shingles free, they consider the reduction from 50 cents to 30 cents per 1,000 a distinct gain.

Mrs. Martin Taken to Prison.

Newark, N. J., Feb. 9.—Mrs. Caroline B. Martin was taken yesterday from the county prison here to begin serving in Trenton penitentiary, the term of seven years, to which she was recently sentenced for complicity in the death of her daughter, Ocey W. M. Snead, the East Orange bath tub victim.

J. A. McGuire Tells of Expansion of Poultry and Dairy Departments of State Farm at Grand Rapids—French Chef Tells Us to Eat Flowers and Acorns to Beat Cost of Living—Swain Forgets Address, Then Forgets Name of Girl.

"WE ARE extending the poultry department at the state experiment farm" said J. A. McGuire of Grand Rapids, superintendent of the farm there, at the McKay this morning. "This department has been run as an ordinary farm poultry yard, but the increasing interest in poultry that is being shown in this part of the state has induced us to establish a large plant. We have employed a man from the southern part of the state to run it. He is L. P. Olson, a successful poultry man, who has made a specialty of breeding and exhibiting. We have bought his flock of Leghorns. The department will make a specialty for the first few years of white Leghorns and barred Plymouth Rocks.

"In the dairy department we have developed our herd from a few cows to seventy-five head. We are asking legislature to appropriate money for increased barn capacity, so that we can double the herd and maintain a 100-cow dairy. The animals we now have are mostly common cows and grades, which average $100 gross sales a year each.

"The object of increasing the herd is to provide work for students. Instruction in dairying is the most important part of the education of the young farmers of Northern Minnesota. We expect to start the school in a small way and to enable the students to work their own way through. The school can be financed from the proceeds of the dairy herd without much aid from the state.

"The Grand Rapids farm of 450 acres is now quite well cleared and is returning a revenue that permits of extensive improvements."

Prof McGuire is in the city to attend the annual meeting of the Producers' Co-operative Market association.

CHRYSANTHEMUM petals, rose leaves, snowdrop roots, nasturtiums, acorns, orange blossoms and jasmine should be on the family bill-of-fare if the American seriously desires to cut down the high cost of living, according to Emile Brasauri, an Eastern chef, who inspected the kitchens and serving rooms at the Spalding yesterday, and talked interestingly of differences between the kitchens and tables of the French people and the American.

"You Americans are so extravagant," he exclaimed. "Frog's legs and snails, they are good to eat, and in France people eat them, but the American will scarcely touch them. They might, however, try nasturtium flowers in their salads. These are very wholesome and they taste good and look very nice, too.

"Then there are snowdrop roots, which are said to be highly nutritious and to make a better 'salep' than orchid root. A 'salep,' you know, is a sort of salad made from this root. In Turkey the women eat rose leaves made into a confection with sugar, and very good it is. Rose jam is also good. You can, I believe, get it in some parts of America, but not easily.

"Then why not try the petals of chrysanthemums? They make most excellent salad and can be made into a very attractive dish, for they are of all colors. How many American people have heard of the acorns which grow on the small oak of Southern Europe and Asia? These acorns are good to eat if boiled or roasted, and a delicious 'coffee' can be produced from them. You have acorns in America, too. Try them, then.

"For the poor people there is a very large round gourd much used in France. It is called 'potiron,' and it makes a pie with rice. It is cheap and very nourishing. Dandelion leaves either green or blanched, are excellent in salads. I am very fond of them myself. And boiled chickory, too, is a nice vegetable.

"Some other things much worth eating are rose leaf jam, orange blossom jam and jasmine jam. Ah, there are many things to eat."

Mr. Brazanti, who is chef of a large New York hotel, was much interested in Duluth, and he spoke in terms of praise about the Spalding's new equipment. He said he had lived in this country only a few years. From Duluth he goes to Chicago, and from there will return to Gotham.

"A FRIEND of mine came to Duluth the other day and at the first opportunity he called up a young lady who lives out east somewhere and asked her to go to the show with him in the evening," said Andy Lehman, who represents Tibbs, Hutchins & Co. of Minneapolis, talking to a couple of friends in the St. Louis lobby. "As girls will, she accepted the invitation and after dinner my friend starts for her home.

"He boarded an eastbound car and got about as far as Twelfth avenue east, and then he remembered he had forgotten just where she lived. It seems he had never gone to her home before, but had become smitten with her charms when both were guests of mutual friends. He thought he knew on what avenue she lived, but couldn't quite decide whether it was Fourteenth or Twenty-fourth. He hadn't any doubt about the number, however.

"Well, he had to get off the car, wait in the wind for one going west, and then he rushed into the hotel here and grabbed the city directory without as much as nodding to his friends. He was a good deal flustered, and kept glancing up from the directory to the clock now and then. All of a sudden he exclaimed:

"'Now, darn it, I've gone and forgotten the name!'

"I asked him what was the matter and he told me, and asked me if he had told me where he was going. It happened that I remembered the name, but I joshed him a bit before telling what it was. Then he turned feverishly to the directory again, found that name, jotted down the address, and made a quick get-away. That was at 8:35. I don't know whether he managed to square himself with the girl or not."

FIRE CAUSES $15,000 LOSS

Expensive Blaze in Store Building on East Superior Street.

Origin of Flames Unknown---Two Firemen Are Overcome.

Fire of unknown origin caused a loss of about $15,000 to the building and contents at 17 and 19 East Superior street about 6:30 o'clock last evening. Two stores were occupied by the Golden Rule Clothing company and the Delicatessen restaurant, while the third was vacant.

Shortly after the blaze broke out the front of the vacant store was blown out by a heavy explosion. Several pedestrians narrowly escaped injury from the flying glass. The fire is supposed to have started in the basement of the Golden Rule store, but in what manner it has been impossible to determine.

The stock of the clothing store was valued at about $10,000, about half covered by insurance. The loss to the building, owned by J. Abrams of Milwaukee, is estimated at $4,000. The losses of the other tenants, in the upper floor of the place, is figured at about $1,000, partly insured. The rooming house is managed by B. J. Shaner. Mrs. Vogt's hairdressing parlors and Prof. Girard's clairvoyant parlors were also located on the second story. The loss to the Delicatessen restaurant was largely due to smoke and water and is fully covered by insurance.

With the exception of Albert Cort, none of the roomers were present, and he escaped unharmed. Two firemen, Hans Erickson and Robert Cribbins, were overcome by smoke and had to be carried to a nearby store. Cribbins was removed to his home, 321 Eighth avenue east, out Erickson was able to return to his work in about an hour. The restaurant was crowded with patrons when the smoke began to pour into the place, but they reached the street without any injury.

Street car traffic on Superior street was delayed about an hour and a half, during which time the flames burned fiercely. The police maintained fire lines, but at times it was difficult to keep back the large crowds attracted to the scene of the fire.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 9.—Stanley W. Fitch, chief examiner of the department of justice, who has been in Texas ten days inquiring as to neutrality matters along the border, spent yesterday in San Antonio in conference with army, insular and customs officers. He left last night for Washington.

Signal Corps to the Border.

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 9.—Company A, signal corps, from Fort Leavenworth, Kan., under the command of Capt. William M. Cruikshank, and an army pack train from West Point, in charge of Pack Master J. W. Hollingsworth, passed through San Antonio last night en route to the border. The signal corps will establish wireless telegraph stations between Eagle Pass and Minerva, Tex. The pack train is conveying sixty-four mules and equipment to the troops centering at Del Rio.

No Fight Occurred.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 9.—There was no fight between Navarro and Blanco as rumored yesterday, according to officials of the provisional government. The latter claim to know the exact whereabouts of Gen. Blanco but declined to make their knowledge public.

Orozco and Rabago, the latter commanding the forces of federals at Juarez, were busy today strengthening their positions.

N. Lee joint resolution protesting against the Canadian reciprocity agreement. The committee on agriculture made its report in favor of the bill but Representatives Keefe, Just and Parley, who thought yesterday that they would not present a minority report, changed their minds and presented one which the house adopted after a long debate on the tariff question.

The range members still continue to receive many protests against the county division bill. This morning copies of resolutions against the bill adopted by the Mountain Iron village council and the school board of District No. 21 were received.

The senate adopted a resolution asking Dr. C. R. Vincent, the new president of the state university, to address a joint session next Tuesday morning, and the house will probably take similar action.

Senator Anderson this morning offered a bill prohibiting the marriage of first cousins.

Confiscation of automobiles which injure pedestrians is provided for in a bill by Senator Nelson, which provides that when persons are injured by automobiles the sheriff shall seize the guilty machines and sell them at public auction, putting the proceeds into the county revenue fund.

Senator Van Hoven also offered a bill intended to protect the public from automobile perils. It requires all operators of motor vehicles to take out state licenses, prohibits the issuance of licenses to persons under 18 years and provides that those who violate speed laws shall lose their licenses for a year. The bill is to be effective July 1.

The house overturned a report of the temperance committee indefinitely postponing the C. E. Johnson bill requiring folks in dry towns to take out license at 25 cents apiece before they can get liquor shipped in from outside, requiring them to state to the clerk as a matter of public record what they are buying and how much, and prohibiting railroads or express companies from delivering wet goods to those unequipped with licenses. The committee recommended the bill for indefinite postponement, but the house adopted J. O. Peterson's substitute motion that the bill be printed and placed on general orders.

Representative C. A. Congdon this morning introduced in the house a bill providing for a branch school of agriculture at Duluth.

Representative Herzberg introduced a bill providing for a school at Mapleton.

Representative Robinson introduced a drastic white slave bill providing heavy penalties and offering a reward of $400 for conviction of dealers in women.

Other bills were as follows:

House committee on taxes—Providing that the $100 personal property tax exemptions shall apply only to heads of families.

Representative Diessner—Requiring peddlers of drugs and nostrums to get licenses from the state board of pharmacy, which is to issue such licenses only after it is satisfied that the drugs to be sold are harmless.

Representative Ribenack—Appropriating $5,000 additional annually for the naval militia.

Representative Nygren — Requiring that rubber tires must be stamped with the names of the manufacturers and the date of manufacture.

Representative Hauge—Regulating the sale of seeds to prevent adulteration.

Representative Hauge—Providing a reward of $50 for chicken thieves.

Representative Minette — Allowing town boards to issue liquor licenses.

Representative Rustad — Providing for service of jury summons by mail.

Senator Sageng—Creating a state commission of education, consisting of one farmer, one representing industrial pursuits and one representing educational vocations, to report an educational system bill to the next legislature.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

APPEARS IN OWN DEFENSE

Count de Lassy Denies Many of the Stories of Dr. Pantchenko.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 9.—Count Patrick Obrien de Lassy, who is accused of having hired Dr. Pantchenko to poison Count Vassili Bouturlin, was further examined by the prosecution today. In his original confession, since repudiated, Pantchenko said that he was under the hypnotic influence of De Lassy when he killed the latter's brother-in-law.

In his own defense De Lassy has declared that he was in no way concerned in Bouturlin's death. He admits the engaged Pantchenko to commit an act of malpractice and says that the correspondence on the subject was subsequently used by the doctor to blackmail him.

De Lassy said today that he was not present when the injections were given Bouturlin by Pantchenko but visited the patient on the same day. He did not hear Bouturlin describe his sensations after the treatment by Pantchenko and asked no questions as the matter had no interest for him. He had visited the doctor's office on the day of the autopsy to destroy evidences of his association with Pantchenko. If the latter really injected toxin in treating Bouturlin the defendant did not know what the motives of the prisoner were.

WHEAT THIEVES BUSY NEAR DES LACS, N. D.

Minot, N. D., Feb. 9.—Wheat thieves are operating to a considerable extent in the territory south of Des Lacs, according to information received by the Minot authorities.

Judge Murray is trying the case of the State vs. James Tucker, E. Ferris and Walter Durkins, who are charged with stealing $190 worth of wheat from one Demaree. The men deny guilt, and a large number of witnesses have been sworn in. It is expected that the case will last several days.

NEW LAW DRAFTED.

Independent Telephone Companies Desire Public Utility Commissions.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—A committee of the National Association of Independent Telephone companies, now in session here, has ready the draft of a new law to provide public utility commissions for states, which will have charge of telephone companies in the same manner that railroad commissions oversee the operations of common carriers. It was expected to be presented to the association meeting today.

The idea is to combine the best features of existing laws of New York, Wisconsin and a few other states, and to submit the plan to the legislatures of every state in the United States for adoption, as a means of providing uniform legislation and control.

EMPEROR HAS JUST AN ORDINARY COLD.

Berlin, Feb. 9.—It was officially announced today that the cold from which Emperor William is suffering was taking an ordinary course and that his majesty would remain in his rooms for several days.

His indisposition made it impossible for the emperor to attend the court ball at the palace last night and he also canceled the arrangements for the military ceremony which was to have taken place today in connection with the entry of his sixth son, Prince Joachim, into the army.

BREAKS A COLD IN A FEW HOURS

Says Quinine Isn't Effective in the Cure of Colds and Grippe.

Nothing else that you can take will break your cold or end grippe so promptly as a dose of Pape's Cold Compound every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken.

The most miserable neuralgia pains, headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, running of the nose, sore throat, mucous catarrhaal discharges, soreness, stiffness, rheumatism pains and other distress begin to leave after the very first dose.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

largest sewer ever laid in Duluth. The estimated cost is $135,000. At the present the disposal of the sewage is bothering the authorities and the residents. It is claimed that to have the outlet of the sewer at the lake would be liable to contaminate the city's water supply. Others state that by properly treating the sewage there can not possibly be any danger from this source.

Petitions for the paving of East Fourth street between Fourteenth and Twenty-seventh avenues east have been received and the work ordered. It is divided into two parts, the first from Fourteenth to Twenty-third avenues and the other from Twenty-third to Twenty-seventh avenues. The estimated cost of the first is $80,000 and of the other, $26,000. When this is completed it will leave an unpaved stretch between Sixth and Fourteenth avenues. This is said to be one of the worst pieces of street in the city. A petition is being circulated for its improvement, but difficulty is being encountered in securing the requisite number of signers. The officials state that the petition ought to be signed in order that the job can be finished this season, together with the remainder of the work on East Fourth street.

Other improvements, with the estimated costs, are: Grand avenue between Fifty-fourth and Fifty-ninth avenues west, $60,000; Second avenue east between Michigan and Fourth streets, $28,000; Sixth avenue west between Michigan street and Mesaba avenue, $30,000; Tenth avenue east between Fourth and Sixth streets, $11,000; Third alley, between Twentieth and Twenty-second avenues and Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth avenues, $6,000; grading and improving East Fifth street between Fifteenth avenue east and Woodland avenue, $40,500; Wyoming street and Juniata street between Fifty-fourth and Sixtieth avenues, and Glenwood street, $25,000; Twenty-first avenue east between London road and First street, $18,000.

GHOULS BREAK DOWN DOORS OF MAUSOLEUM AND STEAL ONE BODY

turn notified the police.

As soon as the news of the grave robbery reached the Strong home, Mrs. Thora Strong Ronalds, a granddaughter of William L. Scott, went to the cemetery with her father, Charles H. Strong.

Casket Carried Away.

Investigation showed that the casket containing the body of Mrs. McCollum had been carried away. It had been sealed in a wall, and a chisel had been used in breaking the seals that the metallic box could be reached. Directly opposite it on the second tier is the casket containing the body of Mrs. Scott.

The seal here was also broken and when the tomb was examined it was found that this casket was half way out and to all appearances was ready to be carried away. A number of palms stored in the mausoleum had been broken down and two other caskets were broken into, but no attempt was made to carry either of them away.

That the casket was carried away in a wagon is indicated by tracks in the snow about the tomb. Footprints of four, and in some instances six men, were discernible.

An Italian settlement near the cemetery has become an object of scrutiny by the police and every dwelling is being searched from cellar to garret, at the command of Chief Wagner.

Two years ago the Strong family received "Black Hand" letters demanding $10,000, with the alternative of having their summer home west of this city blown to atoms.

Mrs. McCollum was a member of a prominent family of Philadelphia and her maiden name was Tracy.

One of the big bronze doors on the mausoleum had been pried from its hinges and the other had been badly battered. Practically every casket in the vault had been tampered with, while that containing the body of Mrs. Anna M. McCullum was removed entirely.

Mrs. McCullum died in Philadelphia nearly twenty years ago. She was the wife of J. A. McCullum and daughter of John A. Tracey of this city. The body was brought here and placed in the Scott vault, which is hidden from view from the street.

STOLE U. S. STORES.

Two Brothers Under Arrest at Davenport Await Action of Court.

Davenport, Iowa, Feb. 9.—Charged with stealing United States ordnance stores from the Rock Island arsenal and selling them to local junk dealers, Louis and Edward Rohem, brothers, living in Davenport, are under arrest here awaiting disposition of their cases by the federal court.

Louis Rohem was in charge of the government storehouse at the arsenal and his brother has been keeping house for him. The police traced government property to the Rohem's and, searching the house, they found quantities of cotton flannel, bridles, bits and leather goods stored in the rooms.

these were the real questions which must be answered in dealing with the reciprocity. His general position was then announced as follows:

Announces Position.

"If some think that the agreement is not all that it should be because of the treatment of a few articles, the answer is that even if this objection is sound as to those few details, yet it is negligible when compared with the importance of getting this great national policy established.

"As a matter of fact it will be found that the objection to a few scattered items is not sound; for this is a matter of agreement and mutual concessions are necessary. Even so our governors have done surprisingly well in the concessions it has secured.

"If the agreement is enacted into law and proves beneficial to the nation as a whole, it is certain to be extended as time goes on and the two peoples experience its good effects. If, on the other hand, it should prove harmful to the nation as a whole, it could be and would be repealed quickly.

"Every element of the situation is an unanswerable argument for intimate trade relations with Canada. These elements are peculiar. They exist only and exclusively as to Canada and the United States. Therefore, they require a policy as different from that which we apply to other countries as those unique conditions affecting Canada and ourselves are different from those affecting other countries and ourselves."

In a later connection Mr. Beveridge said:

Easier for Canada to Buy of Us.

"We do not need to protect our people from the Canadian people. What we need is to make it easier for Canada to freely buy from us the things she needs and that we produce instead of making it hard for Canada to do so. What we need is to make it easy for our people to buy from Canada those things which our people need instead of making it hard for them to do so."

Argument was then presented to show that the natural resources of Canada might be depended upon to reduce the cost of living in this country and to replenish the loss suffered by the premature destruction of American resources.

After undertaking to demonstrate that the objections of the various items covered in the treaty are trivial, Mr. Beveridge declared them to be of "the hop, skip and jump variety."

"But, even if they were valid instead of groundless," he said, "all of them put together are a small matter when compared with getting this fundamental and truly national policy established. The beginning of the policy itself is the great and overshadowing consideration.

"The beginning of freer trade relations between these two peoples who are immediate neighbors and who are of one blood, language and religion, is the large phase of this question."

Favored by Drug Exchange.

Philadelphia, Feb. 9.—The reciprocity agreement between this country and Canada was indorsed by the board of directors of the Philadelphia Drug exchange last night.

The resolution, offered by Harry B. French and which was unanimously adopted, follows:

Resolved, That the Drug exchange of the city of Philadelphia recommends to the senate committee on foreign relations and the committee on ways and means of the house the prompt ratification of the pending reciprocity treaty between this country and Canada.

Regarded Favorably.

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 9.—The reciprocity agreement with Canada was the subject of a protracted debate here yesterday of the executive committee of the New York State Millers' association. Rochester millers regard the prospect of free wheat from Canada favorably, but it was decided to take no action at this time.

FACE DISFIGURED WITH ECZEMA

Covered with Eruption to Back of Ears So They Hardly Knew What He Looked Like. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In 4 Weeks Face Fine and Clean.

"Our little boy with eczema when Gilbert was troubled but a few weeks old. His little face was covered with sores even to back of his ears. The poor little fellow suffered very much. The sores began as pimples, his little face was disfigured very much. We hardly knew what he looked like. The face looked like raw meat. We tied little bags of cloth over his hands to prevent him from scratching. He was very restless at night, his little face itched.

"We consulted two doctors at Chicago, where we resided at that time. After trying all the medicine of the two doctors without any result, we read of the Cuticura Remedies, and at once bought the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Following the directions carefully and promptly we saw the result, and after four weeks, the dear child's face was as fine and clean as any little baby's face. Every one who saw Gilbert after using the Cuticura Remedies was surprised. He has a head of hair which is a pride for any boy of his age, three years. We can only recommend the Cuticura Remedies to everybody." (Signed) Mrs. H. Albrecht, Box 883, West Point, Neb., Oct. 26, 1910.

Neal Three-Day Cure For the Drink Habit

A PURELY VEGETABLE REMEDY NO HYPODERMIC INJECTIONS

The Neal Treatment and the methods of its administration are pronounced and conceded by all who have investigated, to be not only ethical and professional, but entirely satisfactory. The sureness and success of the Treatment in all cases have been demonstrated and proved by Doctor Neal who, during the past ten years, has successfully cured upwards of three thousand bad cases of the drink habit without a single failure—each one in just three days' time.

The Neal Treatment is simple yet very effective. Doctor Neal, after many years of the most painstaking professional and thorough study, experiment and investigation, has found and demonstrated that the drink habit instead of being a disease or an inherited affliction is due to the stored up poison in the system, coming from the continued and excessive use of alcohol.

After making this discovery and demonstration he found the antidote for alcoholic poison. The administration of this antidote results in the neutralization of the poison. Thus antidoted and neutralized, the poison is eliminated from the system, and the desire, appetite and craving for drink is at once destroyed or lost.

This is all accomplished in each case in from one to thirty-six hours, depending entirely upon the physical and mental condition of the patient. With this accomplished, nature, aided by the recuperative and building-up treatment soon asserts its power, and at the end of three days the patient returns to his home in a normal and healthy condition.

The Neal Cure is the most effective and safest ever dedicated to the cause of greater human happiness. There is a buoyant air in the "God-bless-yous" which daily are showered upon Neal Institutes by men redeemed.

Each patient is given a plain contract, agreeing to effect a perfect cure in three days or return the full fee paid. Call, write, phone or wire for free booklet giving full information, also for a copy of our contract and guarantee bond. Everything confidential, bank reference cheerfully furnished.

ON THE IRON RANGES

EVELETH CLUB FORGING AHEAD

Various Matters Considered for City's Advancement Awaken Interest.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Eveleth Commercial club is enjoying a new lease of life, and the members of the membership and collection committee recently appointed by President James C. Poole, are meeting with gratifying results. Much money in dues has been collected and it is expected that the membership will soon pass 100. The collection committee members and secretary are usually given 50 cents, on every collection of dues made, but this year's committee has declined the commission and it goes into the coffers of the club.

Chairman Solomon Sax of the special agricultural committee appointed by President James C. Poole is communicating with state officials, officials of the state agricultural society, and State Federation of Commercial clubs, to determine the possibility of having an agricultural station located here. The members of the committee and the club are confident that Eveleth stands a good show of securing the station if one is to be established on the range, despite the claims of Hibbing residents, as many settlers and farmers reside in this vicinity.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Feb. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The beating that Gust Swanlund sustained in C. D. Lyons' saloon at Ball Club when he was set upon by some drunken half-breeds brought him judgment for $100 at the hands of a jury in the district court. Swanslund sued Lyons for $2,000. This was the last jury case tried and Judge Wright yesterday discharged the jury panel which has been in attendance on court since last October. Judge Wright will remain until the end of the month hearing motions.

LIBRARY SITE PUZZLER.

Eveleth Library Board Cannot Decide Where to Locate Building.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The library board will soon take steps for the establishment of a public library. The city clerk recently received blanks from the Carnegie library commission requesting data and this will soon be returned to the commission. A matter of a site for the proposed structure is puzzling the board and city officials. All agree that a centrally located site is needed to make the library a success. Many are in favor of having the library located on Jones street, while others believe it should be situated on Pierce street. The board is expected to decide the site question soon.

HIGH SCHOOL HOPS GIVEN AUTHORITY

Hibbing School Board Will Permit Dance Under Proper Conditions.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The high school dance can be given this year providing Superintendent Blair of the schools has supervision. This was the conclusion of the school board last night after a discussion of the proposition when Charles Bardesson asked for permission to hold this year's dance under the auspices of the high school and the board.

It was the unanimous opinion of the board that providing the affair is given under the proper conditions it would be a good thing for the school and the children, but the previous occasion at which the superintendent had no authority and from which children varying from 12 years to 18 returned home from 12 midnight to 3 a. m. in the morning was strongly criticized. It was decided that the board would permit the holding of the dance under the name of the high school on the condition that Superintendent Blair take full charge and authority of the proceedings, and had full and proper chaperons for those present.

The water and light commission has been criticized for allowing the boys to believe they would have the use of the city hall free and when the committee had spent nearly all its money counting on free hall rent, the commission sent in a charge for $40 for use of the hall. The police dance, which has generally been held in previous years, was abandoned this year in consequence of the high hall rate for the hall, it being the rule of the commission that only certain charity affairs could have the use of the city hall at a reduced rate. The committee of high school dance are still trying to pay off the balance of hall rent from 1910. The only other business done by the board was the passing of the regular monthly bills.

Believes State Institution Should Be Located on the Range.

Boyle of this city and in the house by Representative C. A. Congdon of Duluth, is being closely watched as Eveleth will be one of the contenders for the new institution. It is assumed that the new asylum will be located on the range as the other three state insane asylums are located in other parts of the state. Senator Boyle, and other members of the St. Louis county delegation at St. Paul, will be asked to work for the passage of the bill and the establishment of the fourth state insane asylum at Eveleth.

EVELETH GIVEN BETTER SHOWING

Amended Population Statistics Count Range City's Annexed Territory.

Washington, Feb. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Through the efforts of Congressman C. B. Miller, the director of the census has issued an amended bulletin for the city of Eveleth, Minn., which shows that city to have a population of 7,036.

It appears that when the first announcement was made Eveleth was given a population of 4,014, which constituted only three wards, in which might be termed the older portion of the city.

On April 8, 1910, prior to the taking of the census, certain surrounding territory was annexed and three additional wards were created. In the original announcement of Eveleth's population this additional territory was not credited to the population of the city.

Representative Miller took up the matter with Director Durand with the result that it was decided that Eveleth was legally constituted as a city of six wards and its population duly announced as being 7,036.

DIE SPIELER'S TEAM BEATS THE ATHLETICS.

Two Harbors, Minn., Feb. 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—The game last night between the Die Spieler and Athletic association at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium resulted in a victory for the Die Spieler by a score of 26 to 21. The playing was fast from start to finish and the game was very close. A. D. White refereed and J. C. Manville was umpire. For the Die Spieler, Emmett and Fortman each made three field baskets, H. Irwin two and V. Irwin one. Emmett also made five free throws out of seven shots while Hastings of the Athletics made six free throws out of nine. For the Athletics, Belland and J. Irwin each made two field baskets and Conliff one. Three points were awarded the Die Spieler and one to the Athletics for being fouled in shooting for basket.

Saturday night at the Y. M. C. A. there will be a double header. The Wolverines and the Tigers of the city league and the Gophers of Cloquet and the local Boy Scouts will play, alternating the halves.

A short program will be given before this game and refreshments will be served afterwards by the Athletics. For the first time this season, league players and ladies will have to pay an admission fee of 15 cents, while others are to be charged a quarter.

EASY CHANGE

When Coffee Is Doing Harm.

A lady writes from the land of cotton of the results of a four years' use of the food beverage—hot Postum.

"Ever since I can remember we had used coffee three times a day. It had a more or less injurious effect upon us all, and I myself suffered almost death from indigestion and nervousness caused by it.

"I know it was that, because when I would leave it off for a few days I would feel better. But it was hard to give it up, even though I realized how harmful it was to me.

"At last I found a perfectly easy way to make the change. Four years ago I abandoned the coffee habit and began to drink Postum, and I also influenced the rest of the family to do the same. Even the children are allowed to drink it freely as they do water. And it has done us all great good.

"I no longer suffer from indigestion, and my nerves are in admirable tone since I began to use Postum. We never use the old coffee any more.

"We appreciate Postum as a delightful and healthful beverage, which not only invigorates but supplies the best of nourishment as well." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

FAIR

Fatigued after long operation of the snow factory and wind machine and frost plant, the weather man has turned to milder pursuits and normal winter conditions prevail in Duluth. Last night was beautiful and today is cloudy and a little sticky. Continued fair weather is promised for tonight and tomorrow, with milder conditions prevailing tomorrow afternoon. The lowest temperature last night was 8 deg.

A year ago today was cold and wintry and windy and uncomfortable. The sun rose this morning at 7:22 and it will set at 5:23 this evening, giving ten hours and one minute of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"Low pressure areas central over Lake Superior and off the Carolina coast caused rain or snow in Atlantic and Gulf states and Northwestern Michigan during the last twenty-four hours, besides warmer weather over the Upper Mississippi valley, Lake Michigan and Eastern Canada. Colder weather attends an increase in barometric pressure which covers the Ohio valley, Southern states and the greater portion of the Northwest, the center of the high pressure overlying Wyoming. This turn to colder will reach the Head of the Lakes tonight, but its duration will be short as there is another disturbance developing over Alberta which will cause the temperature to rise somewhat during Friday afternoon and Friday night."

General Forecasts.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m., Friday:

Upper Michigan—Snow flurries this afternoon and tonight; colder tonight with cold wave; Friday fair with colder in east portion.

Wisconsin—Fair tonight and Friday; colder tonight.

Minnesota—Fair tonight and Friday; colder tonight; rising temperature Friday.

Iowa—Fair tonight with colder in east portion; Friday fair with rising temperature.

North Dakota—Fair tonight and Friday; rising temperature Friday and in North portion tonight.

It was a very successful affair. Although the work was under the supervision of Miss Clausen, the instructor in that department, the menu was entirely prepared and was served by the students, and the guests were also received by them.

The guests were the president of the board, H. G. Steven and wife, Dr. and Mrs. M. K. Whittemore, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Coy, superintendent of city schools; Peter Olsen and wife, Messrs. L. F. Leach and C. E. Clapperton. Alexander Summerfield, one of the members of the board, was absent from the city on business. This is the first year that domestic science has been taught in the schools, and as yet it is something of an experiment.

The following menu was served: Tomato soup, wafers, roast turkey, dressing, brown gravy, mashed potatoes, stewed peas, rolls, brown bread, olives, fruit salad, wafers, almonds, ice cream, cake, coffee. The table decorations were red carnations, and the place cards, diminutive purple pennants bearing the monogram in white, "C. H. S.," carrying out the school colors.

CROPS MUST BE INCREASED

Important Movement Begun at Chicago Meeting of Grain Dealers.

Duluth Man Tells of Efforts to Promote Scientific Farming.

A. W. Frick, president of the Board of trade, and C. F. Macdonald, secretary, have returned from Chicago, where they attended the meeting of the council of North American Grain exchanges.

A committee was appointed to cooperate with railroads, agricultural schools, farmers, agricultural experts, manufacturers of commodities of which agricultural products are components, and any one interested in agriculture to disseminate scientific information among farmers and teach them how to cultivate their ground intensively and without waste.

"The grain interests of the country realize that the crops of the United States must be increased," said Mr. Frick. "The soil in our country is seldom farmed scientifically. France produces as much wheat as our three leading Northwestern states. If set down in the Northwest, France would be swallowed up. It wouldn't make more than a few good-sized counties. Our soil is just as good as that abroad. We have had so much land in the past that we have farmed it recklessly. Practically all our free land is gone. We must devote our efforts to increasing crops upon the land under cultivation without robbing the soil of its nutritive elements.

"This movement I regard as one of the most momentous in present day life. Its importance is recognized by grain men, railroad officials, business men, farmers and scientists. Representatives of all of these interests are co-operating with each other. The grain exchanges of the country appropriated $5,000 to defray the expenses of the commission which will provide instructors for agricultural trains which will be sent by the railroads to the door of the farmer to show him how to select seed scientifically, how to plant it scientifically, how to cultivate and harvest it scientifically.

"There is a great field in this work for young men. The movement from the farm to the city should be checked. It can be stopped by the improvement of social conditions on the farm and by the application of scientific and business methods to the management of the farm. At our Chicago meeting a man from Iowa who has charge of the rural schools in that state said that he went there two or three years ago from Washington, D. C. He sent letters to boys and girls asking them if they intended to remain on the farm when they reached maturity. An overwhelming majority replied in the negative. A short time ago he sent out similar letters and an overwhelming majority returned affirmative replies. The seed of his teaching had borne fruit.

"Through the agricultural schools and the common schools children should be educated to regard the farm as a legitimate field of business worthy of the best endeavors of anybody. Of course many farmers have scoffed at the so-called scientists. The man from Iowa told a story of a Hawkeye farmer who sneered at the state's agricultural school where his son attended. The boy went back to the farm and grew ninety bushels of corn on one acre. In adjacent fields the old man was raising sixty bushels to an acre. After this object lesson he admitted the efficacy of scientific farming and he immediately applied scientific principles of cultivation to the remainder of his land."

REFORESTATION ON EXTENSIVE SCALE

Immediate Action to Be Taken in Province of New Brunswick.

St. John, N. B., Feb. 9.—Following an extensive investigation on reforestation an American lumber company now operating in New Brunswick, plans immediate action in reforesting the more denuded parts of the province. Nurseries will be established at Salmon river and Martin's Head, where trees will be grown from seed. The company has 50,000 acres at Cookshire, Que., which will be seeded this spring.

The work to be done this year, it is understood, is merely preparatory to extensive reforestation in New Brunswick and Maine.

A forestry expert has just returned from an extended trip which included many places offering material for study and observation on the subject of reforestation.

Under the guidance of foresters, he made a thorough investigation of the reforesting methods employed in New York state and in the forestry school of Yale university. He also visited the American National forestry bureau at Washington. He returned with enthusiasm as to the great benefit that may be accomplished in New Brunswick.

SLOGAN SUN DESCENDING

Suggestions Will Be Shut Off Saturday Morning at 10 o'Clock.

Hard to Hit Upon a Phrase That Seems Usable in Big Sign.

The Herald's $10 prize slogan contest is nearing its close. Saturday morning at 10 o'clock the lid goes on the hopper with a bang and then it will remain to be determined what one of the hundreds of suggestions submitted may be acceptable as a slogan to be used in the great electric sign which it is proposed to build on the hillside or hilltop.

To a man up a tree of slogans, it really looks as though there isn't much chance that the greatly desired slogan has yet made its appearance. There are a few that look pretty good, but objections might reasonably be made to some feature of each of them. Another day remains, however, and the best thing ever may turn up easily enough. Put on your thinking caps, figure out the best slogan you can, pin your faith to that one best bet of your brain output and let's get it.

The slogan is limited to fifteen letters. It is for use at the discretion of the Commercial club, which has tentatively considered the project of building the electric sign, and is planned to flash forth a greeting and message to the incoming traveler.

BOILER EXPLODES; TEN MEN KILLED

Frightful Accident Occurs in Roundhouse at Smithville, Tex.

Smithville, Tex., Feb. 9.—Ten shop employes of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad were torn to fragments and seven others were injured yesterday when an engine under repair exploded in the Smithville yards. Besides the loss of life, railroad property valued at $20,000 was destroyed.

The dead: Henry O'Rourke, Charles Gray, Thurston McNeill, F. Parine, E. W. Phillips, Harry Clark, Aaron Harless, ——— Detsiner, Phil Hubbard, negro, and Al Nichols, negro.

The injured: George Cook, C. H. Knott, William Bailey, Eugene Rohade, E. Mitchell, Harry Bants and Ben Hodges.

The locomotive had just been run from the repair shop to be tested when the explosion occurred. O'Rourke, a machinist, was attaching a safety valve.

The engine was blown to atoms, two other locomotives standing near were wrecked and the roundhouse was partially demolished. The force of the explosion was felt throughout the city. Buildings at a considerable distance were shaken and hundreds of windows were broken. With the bursting of the boiler fragments of the engine and portions of human bodies fell in every direction.

A guard was thrown around the wreckage and gathering of the remains began systematically. What remained of the roundhouse was improvised as a temporary morgue and portions of the bodies were matched when possible. In several instances identification was not possible. The exact cause of the explosion has not been determined.

DEEP-SEATED COUGH

CURED IN 5 HOURS.
New Home-Made Syrup.
From Boston Press.

Progress in medical compounds never ceases, and now it is stated by a prominent medical man that any deep-seated cough or cold on the lungs can be actually cured in five hours by the clock. Opium and morphine have been resorted to in the past, as relief measures. But now it is learned that the system must be treated to rid it of inflammation and congestion. A tonic laxative cough syrup does the work so quickly and thoroughly as to be almost magical. What heretofore has taken weeks to cure can be accomplished in hours. Get this formula filled or mix it at home and always keep it on hand: One-half ounce fluid wild cherry bark, one ounce compound essence cardiol and three ounces syrup white pine compound. Shake the bottle and take twenty drops every half hour for four hours. Then take one-half to one teaspoonful three or four times a day until the system is purified and toned up. Give your children less according to age. One filling will usually cure a whole family, as the dose is small.

CASH SHOWS BETTER TONE

Spot Wheat Approaches Nearer to May Delivery Which Advances Also.

Shorts Cover and Trades Are Evened Up—Flaxseed Is Higher.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 9.—Wheat advanced today on account of the short covering and a better demand for cash wheat. This was particularly true of choice spring wheat which is not in liberal supply.

May wheat advanced ¾c and July went forward a similar distance. Cash wheat firmed from 1c under May to ½c under. Oats lost ¼c, rye and barley were unchanged. Durum gained ¾c.

Flaxseed was stronger, crushers being buyers to a small extent. There were no receipts. The foreign markets were instrumental in causing an advance on this side as foreign prices were higher. La Plata linseed at Antwerp was quoted at $2.41.4. A Chicago house is reported to have sold back a considerable quantity of Argentine seed at a big profit. May flax gained 1½c.

Cables were higher. Argentine shipments will be lighter this week and this fact caused shorts at Liverpool to cover. Plate offers were more firmly held and Russian shipments displayed a disposition to increase. Crop conditions abroad are favorable. In the United Kingdom the sowing of the crop is progressing under favorable conditions. Wheat already sown, says Broomhall, shows a good condition. In France it is predicted that there will be a larger area sown to wheat and oats to offset the decreased acreage under winter wheat due to the heavy floods at the time of seeding. In Germany, Italy and Roumania the crop outlook continues favorable. In Hungary there are further reports of damage to the wheat crop as a result of freezing temperatures and lack of sufficient snow covering. In Southeastern Russia the weather is seasonable and the crop outlook is good. Arrivals from the interior are liberal and stocks are increasing. In the Southwest the weather is favorable. Arrivals from the interior are small but stocks continue to pile up. In Spain and Asia Minor the crops are progressing in good shape. In Northern Africa there has been too much rain for the growing crop. In India there have been storms accompanied by heavy rains, but no damage has resulted. The crop outlook in India is generally favorable.

The situation in the wheat market has rarely been so one-sided as at present. The result was plainly evident today. There was little or no buying on long account. Whatever buying power existed was from profit taking shorts or eleventh hour shorts running to cover. On the hard spots more short interests were created. The result was a nervous but fairly active market.

Receipts in the Northwest were erratic. Aarrivals at interior points are liberal and increasing in South Dakota and Minnesota where the roads are in fairly good shape. In Northern North Dakota there is two feet of snow on the level and roads are practically impassable for purposes of hauling. Deliveries, consequently, are exceedingly small. There is little demand for spring or durum wheat. Eastern mills are not buying any of the latter commodity. There is not much durum wheat in sight but its price position is weak on account the attitude both of buyers and sellers. Some time ago holders wanted a premium for their stuff and they refused to sell at prevailing prices. Now buyers are holding back and owners of the small supply of durum cannot sell it.

The cash market today was fairly strong although the demand was limited. Minneapolis advised that there were some fair sales of flour on the break to Eastern markets. The demand, however, is not active and mills still find it difficult to get shipping instructions. A mill at Minneapolis writes The Herald: "I am going after shipping instructions. My warehouses are jammed full of flour. I find it difficult to get new orders and my only alternative is to get instructions on orders now on my books. If I can't land these I will either have to find more storage room or sit back and twiddle my thumbs, like Micawber, until something turns up."

The Southwestern situation was unchanged. There was some precipitation in Texas, but the weather map for Kansas and Nebraska remained dry. Warmer weather is predicted for tomorrow in the two leading winter wheat states. Price Current said: "There has been no disturbing feature in the last week in any appreciable degree to the good promise of the growing wheat. The plant is generally well rooted and strong enough to stand the ordinary spring freeze. Country roads are generally in bad condition, causing a light interior movement of grain."

A contributing weakness to the market has been President Taft's notification to congress that he will call a special session unless the Canadian treaty is ratified before March 4. The New Bureau sent out a misleading report today concerning the effect of so-called free wheat. It said there are 5,000,000 bu of Canadian grain afloat here and at Buffalo and in store at various American points that would become immediately available to Eastern markets. "This," said the report, "would shut Duluth wheat out of its usual mill outlet with Eastern mills this spring. It would also throw wheat tributary to Duluth back on the Minneapolis market and shut the latter and Buffalo out of the market for hard winter wheat in Nebraska and Kansas. This in turn would leave Texas and Oklahoma no outlet except for export for their surplus above mill needs."

Duluth has not very much choice wheat to sell to Eastern millers and a brisk demand would clean it up in a short time. As to the general statements they can be condensed into a nutshell. This country has maintained its prices so high that it couldn't sell its wheat. The keeping of a barrier around the natural channels of trade has not helped the American farmer although it will take a few years of education to get the theories out of his head that have been placed there in the last sixteen years of tariff discussion. If we could have competed with Canada on an equal basis some of our surplus would now be disposed of instead of piling up in the show windows and becoming a drug on the market.

Prices will drop here and Duulth will go on an equal basis with Winnipeg.

MARKET GOSSIP

The government will make a report March 1 on stocks of wheat, corn, oats and barley on the farms and the percentage of those crops moved out of the counties where grown.

J. S. Graves and F. E. Lindahl have bought additional memberships on the board of trade. The latter purchased Finley Barrell's. The former purchases are said to have been $3,000. Reciprocity with Canada would make the memberships worth $5,000, some people think, as the cash grain dealers of Winnipeg would be compelled by competition to maintain representatives here and memberships would be at a premium.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool—Estimated Argentine shipments of wheat, 2,240,000 bu; last week, 2,008,000 bu; last year, 3,136,000 bu; corn, this week, 40,000 bu; last week, 102,000 bu; last year 148,000 bu. The Liverpool wheat market displayed a firm undertone at the start, with value ¼d to ⅜d higher and following the opening further advanced ¼d to ½d with the principal strength in March, which shortly after the opening was ⅞d higher. This support came largely from shorts on continued fears of shortage of contract and some speculative buying on the forecast of light shipments and a slight decline from the high occurred. Although Plata offers are more firmly held, Australian offers are increasing with country arrivals liberal. At this time the market was firm and ⅜d to ¾d higher than yesterday. The corn market was steady, but dull and unchanged. The firmness of Plata offers and unfavorable crop outlook in Argentina, together with forecast of light Argentine shipments this week, were offset by freer American offers. Our Argentine agent cables that heavy general rains are falling throughout the entire cereal zone. This rain is considered too late to do much good to corn except the very late sown, while some fears are felt regarding the movement and damage to quality of wheat.

After the close The Herald received this special message from Chicago: "Market showed some strength after 2 rather easy opening, caused by the local crowd buying in the Northwest markets and the reports of wheat being worked for export, also of a few more individual sales of flour, that will bring yesterday's total up to quite a respectable figure in Minneapolis. Leading milling interests bought quite a little May this morning. Cash wheat in St. Louis and Kansas City reported about 1c higher.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Unfavorable Weather in the Argentine Produces Strength in Wheat.

Chicago, Feb. 9. — Unfavorable weather conditions in the Argentine caught the attention of wheat traders today, and produced a little temporary strength. Heavy rains throughout the central portion of that country suggested fear that the movement of the crop might be interfered with, and that the quality would suffer damage. There was also a forecast that Argentine shipments would be small. Chances of rain in Oklahoma and of the enactment of the reciprocity agreement, however, led to a reaction. The opening was a shade to ¼c higher. May started at 94½c to 95⅝c, a gain of ⅛c to ¼c, rose to 94⅝@94¾c and fell to 94½c.

Better demand for flour and for cash wheat advanced the market later. Lightness of primary receipts helped and so did rumors of Winnipeg export sales. The close was firm with May at 95c, a net gain of ⅝c.

Corn showed initial firmness on account of liberal export clearances, but weakened with wheat, and because wet weather in Argentina might benefit late sown fields. May opened unchanged to a sixteenth up at 49⅜@49¼c to 49¼c and descended to 49⅛@49⅛c.

Free offerings from the country caused the bears to hammer the market but prices advanced later with wheat. The close was steady with May ⅛@⅜c net higher at 49½c.

Oats were easier from almost the outset, the pit crowd selling. May started the same as last night to ⅜c under 32c to 32⅛c and dropped to 31⅞@31⅝c.

Buying for packers offset a tendency on the part of commission houses to liquidate holdings in provisions. First sales were unchanged to 5c down with May options at $17.80 to $17.85 for pork, $9.52½ to $9.55 for lard and $9.55 to $9.55@9.57½ for ribs.

Wheat Becomes Strong Late in the Session and Closes Higher.

Minneapolis, Feb. 9.—Wheat during the late session today was very strong and more than offset the break following higher opening. Shorts covered freely and some support was given the market. FIRM TONE AT CLOSING

Stocks Open Heavy Under Bear Pressure But Have Good Rally.

Early Losses Are Recovered With Buying on a Large Scale.

New York, Feb. 9.—The tone of the stock market was heavy at the opening today. Almost all the speculative favorites declined good fractions. Reading, on an initial sale of 1,500 shares, declined ½ and Union Pacific lost ¼. Chesapeake & Ohio and Erie sagged ⅜ and Atchison ⅝. Some of the minor specialties showed strength. American Steel Foundries gaining ⅝ and United States Rubber ⅜.

Bear operators made attacks on the list soon after the opening and forced down prices sharply. Atchison, Chesapeake & Ohio, Lehigh Valley, Northern Pacific, Reading and Southern railway preferred all lost a point or more. Before the close of the hour, stocks rallied, Canadian Pacific leading with a rise to a point above last night's closing.

Speculation during the morning session showed a bearish tendency and the market was heavy. Advices from Washington renewed talk of an extra session of congress with the chances of tariff legislation. Failure of the bank of England directors to reduce the discount rate also had an unfavorable effect. During the late morning there was a general improvement, which restored prices to about last night's level. Erie issues were in active demand at large fractional improvements. Lackawanna dropped 15 points from the last previous transaction. Bonds were steady.

The market closed firm. Speculation was carried on in a desultory fashion in the closing hour and there were no movements of consequence to prices. The tone was, however, decidedly firm with the buying of Reading, Erie and United States Steel continuing on a large scale.

Midway Horse Market.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Feb. 9.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: The market appears to be in a congested condition and the prices secured for the offerings were unsatisfactory to shippers and while the attendance was fair, the bidding was less keen after a few urgent orders were filled, and the clearance was slow, considering the volume of the offerings. The call centered on good farm mares and horses with small defects that did not weaken their efficiency and are serviceable for all farm work. Shipments were made to out-over timber districts of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Upper Michigan, but there were few full loads filled out.

South St. Paul Livestock.

South St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 9.—Cattle—Receipts, 800; market mostly steady and unchanged; veal calves, 25c higher for the week, $3.00@7.00. Hogs—Receipts, 4,300; market 10c lower; range, $7.30@7.40; bulk of sales, $7.35. Sheep—Receipts, 400; market 15@25c lower; sheep, $1.00@4.75; lambs, $2.00@5.60.

New York Money.

New York, Feb. 9.—Close: Prime mercantile paper, 4@4½ per cent; sterling exchange steady with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.83.25@4.83.55 for 60-day bills and at $4.86.20 for demand; commercial bills, $4.82¼@4.82¾; bar silver, 51¾c; Mexican dollars, 45c; government bonds steady; railroad bonds steady. Money on call steady, 2@2½ per cent; ruling rate, 2½ per cent; closing bid, 2¼ per cent; offered at 2½ per cent. Time loans easier; 60 days, 3 per cent, and 90 days, 3¼ per cent; six months, 3¾@4 per cent.

Cotton Market.

New York, Feb. 9.—The cotton market opened easy at a decline of 8 to 11 points generally on 16 to 15 points lower, with all positions selling into new low grounds for the season under heavy liquidation and a renewal of aggressive bear pressure which was encouraged by weak cables; reports of freer Southern spot offerings to Liverpool at easier prices and rumors of labor troubles in Manchester. The decline was checked around 14.18 for May by covering, as some of the recent large sellers appeared to be taking profits, but there was no indication of aggressive bull support, and the market, while five or six points up from the lowest, was very unsettled during the middle of the morning.

Spot, closed quiet, 5 point lower; middling uplands, 14.35; middling gulf 14.60. Sales, 1,200 bales. Futures closed firm; closing range: February, 14.05; March, 14.15; April, 14.23; May, 14.32; June, 14.35; July, 14.36; August, 14.08; October, 13.17; December, 13.00.

FINAL TOUCHES PUT ON REAPPORTIONMENT BILL BY COMMITTEE

Will Probably Be Made Special Order at an Early Date.

Bill Now Provides for 61 Senators and 126 House Members.

Delegation of Duluth Builders' Exchange Protesting Against Bills.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The final touches were placed this morning on the reapportionment bill on which Chairman C. A. Congdon of the reapportionment committee has been working for more than a month, and it will be submitted in its final form Tuesday afternoon to the full committee. In all probability it will be approved, as the sub-committee has unanimously approved it and most of the members of the main committee have consented to its provisions. For that matter, practically all of the house members and many of the senators have gone over it and expressed satisfaction with it. It provides for 61 senators instead of 63, and 126 house members instead of 120. The bill will probably be made a special order for an early date and passed over the senate, where the real fight will be.

AMERICANS TO HELP PERSIANS

Five Experts Will Take Charge of Finances of the Shah.

Washington, Feb. 10.—To assist the Persian government in reorganizing its finances, W. Morgan Shuster of this city, will be appointed treasurer-general of the empire. Mr. Shuster, who reorganized the Philippine customs service and revived the Philippine tariff law, is one of five Americans who will be employed by Persia in its financial rehabilitation.

The Persian parliament recently passed a law authorizing the government to seek five American experts to reorganize the finances. The Persian charge in Washington thereupon took up the matter with the state department, which suggested the names of five Americans competent to undertake the task.

In addition to the treasurer-general, the positions to be filled by Americans are those of inspector and an expert accountant, who will serve as assistants to the treasurer-general, and a director of taxation with one assistant. The American appointees will be under the direction of the Persian minister of finance an. their contracts will be for a minimum period of three years. Arrangements practically have been completed for the appointment of these other experts and their names will be announced shortly.

The advent of the Americans in Persia will be in line with the policy of the new regime of the empire to introduce foreign talent in various capacities for the purpose of modernizing the administration of the country.

Mr. Shuster has had many years of experience abroad in the service of the United States government.

COURT SAYS EXPERT POISONER IS SANE

Mental Examination of Dr. Pantchenko Refused By Judge.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 10.—The Russian criminal court that is trying Dr. Pantchenko and Count Patrick Obrien de Lassy for the murder of Count Vassili Bouturlin indicated today that it was not disposed to entertain a plea of insanity on behalf of the physician.

When the session opened Pantchenko's counsel asked the judge to order a physical and mental examination of his client. His honor replied the alleged poisoner might be examined as to his physical condition, but that his mental state would not be made the subject of an official inquiry.

BELIEVED STOCKMEN HAVE BEEN KILLED.

Eagleville, Cal., Feb. 10.—Harry Cambron, John Laxgaue, B. Indiano and P. Erramuspe, wealthy stockmen, who have been missing since Jan. 1, are believed by the authorities to have been murdered.

The men left camp Jan. 1 to go to a sheep camp seven miles distant, through a country that they knew well. It has been learned that the missing men had trouble with cattle rustlers from Oregon, who always went heavily armed.

IS LIKE THE BJORGE BILL

New Tonnage Tax Bill Not Introduced on Its Merits.

Authors Hope to Use It to Defeat Honest Reapportionment.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Coming as it does just before the introduction of the reapportionment bill, which will come from the reapportionment committee to the house next Tuesday or Wednesday, the tonnage tax bill has a new significance, especially in view of the fact that the principle of the tonnage tax has practically been disposed of in this state by Governor Johnson's veto of the same bill two years ago, by the fact that it was not an issue anywhere in last fall's campaign, and by the fact that the state tax commission, employed by the state to work out the best methods of taxation, has not advocated the tonnage tax but on the contrary dwells at length in its annual report on the excellent results that it has been able to secure from the present system.

The tonnage tax bill is not introduced on its merits, but as a back fire to

AUTO WATER TOWER PROVES EFFECTIVE.

New York, Feb. 10.—The first occasion for the big automobile water tower just put in commission here demonstrated its worth and turned the tide in a struggle with a dangerous looking fire in a six-story factory building at 4915 Elizabeth street today. Back draughts had repeatedly driven the firemen back before the water tower's arrival, but the streams poured into the upper stories from the tower held the estimated loss in the building at $75,000 and saved surrounding property.

Defends Use of Alcohol.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 10.—There was a diversion in the proceedings of the duma today, when J. Novitsky, the vice minister of finance, delivered a lengthy address in which he defended the moderate use of alcohol. He declared he based his argument on the results of investigations in America and elsewhere.

OPPOSED TO ANY CHANGE

Root Does Not Want Senators Elected By Direct Vote.

Takes Positive Stand Against Both Propositions Before Congress.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Opposing all suggestions looking to a chance in the manner of electing United States senators, Mr. Root of New York today addressed the senate on the resolution providing for election by direct vote of the people.

Mr. Root commanded the close attention of a large attendance both on the floor and in the galleries. At the outset he took a positive position against both the propositions contained in the resolution. He would not have senators elected by direct vote, nor, if they were to be so elected, would he have the control of such elections transferred from congress to the various state legislatures. For congress to abandon jurisdiction over senatorial elections would be equivalent, he said, to the government's surrendering its power to maintain itself.

Mr. Root found in the main proposition, that of changing the method of electing senators, an effort to evade responsibility in the matter of government. Declaring that the principal reason given for the change to be the corruption of state legislatures in the interest of senatorial candidates, he said that a more fundamental change should be made than is proposed. He would go to the root of the trouble by so purifying politics as to obtain better material in the legislators. If the people look properly to the selection of legislative candidates, he was sure there would be comparatively little complaint concerning the election of senators by legislative action, and he was sure that in that event the agitation for direct legislation would gradually disappear.

GRISCOM THINKS DOROTHY ALIVE

Admirer of Miss Arnold Returns From European Trip.

New York, Feb. 10.—Conferences between members of the family of Dorothy Arnold and George S. Griscom, Jr., of Pittsburg, who returned yesterday from Europe with his father, were looked to today to develop possible new leads in the search for the long missing heiress.

Mr. Griscom, who was an admirer of Miss Arnold and had corresponded with her from abroad, came from Italy to join in the search for her and expressed confidence that she was alive and would be found. Members of the family had apparently given up hope of seeing the missing daughter again, but today the confidence expressed by the younger Griscom seemed to have renewed the family hopes of her safety.

DEFECTS OF CHILDREN NEGLECTED

Half of Cases Discovered By School Medical Inspectors Never Treated.

Parents of Children Too Poor to Shoulder the Expense.

County Medical Society Appoints Committee to Handle Serious Problem.

Fully one-half of the children discovered by the school medical examiners to be in immediate need of medical or surgical treatment are children of parents, who, while not poor in the sense that they need assistance in obtaining the necessities of life, are unable to bear the expense of providing their children with glasses for weak eyes or of having defects requiring medical or surgical treatment given attention.

That was the report made to the St. Louis County Medical society last evening by Dr. C. H. Schroder, school medical examiner, and to devise means of relieving the condition, the society decided to have a committee of three from that body appointed, one to be a school medical inspector, one a general practitioner and one a specialist in diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat. The committee will act with a representative of the Associated Charities and a member of the board of education and will seek to have a fund created, either by appropriation by the state legislature or by the city council or by private subscription, to defray the necessary expenses incident to such treatment.

Where immediate treatment is imperative and no means of paying fees can be devised, the physicians and

FISHERMEN MAY HAVE PERISHED

Vessels Return After Fruitless Search for Missing Men.

Viborg, Finland, Feb. 10.—The ice breaking vessels returned today after a fruitless search for the ice floe upon which 153 fishermen have been drifting for several days. It is believed that all have perished. One hundred other men, belonging to the same fishing party, were rescued after the ice floe broke away in a gale, but their companions, believing that they were in no immediate danger, refused assistance.

ROB THIEF IN CHICAGO

Man Who Held Up Rector's Quickly Loses His Spoils.

Three Men Rob Him of Ill-Gotten Gains Outside Door.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—Even a thief isn't safe in Chicago, is the plea of Charles Willard, made to the police yesterday, when he confessed that he held up Rector's restaurant last Sunday morning and secured $3,300. Willard's joy in his posesssion was short-lived, however, for as he was leaving the cafe door, he was greeted by three men who with a revolver pressed against his side, escorted him to an alley and robbed him of the proceeds of the holdup. Willard, according to his confession, was one of the three conspirators who planned and executed the Rector holdup. He in turn was the victim of a conspiracy devised by a friend to whom he confided the plan of robbing the cafe.

The story, incredible as it at first seemed to the police, was corroborated by them, $500 recovered and William Loftus, a saloon keeper has been re-

TIM HEALY WINS IN HAZLETON CONTEST

Succeeds in Having Seat for North Division of Louth Vacated.

Dublin, Feb. 10.—Timothy Healy's contest to nullify the election of Richard Hazleton, who at the last election turned out the "Ishmael of Nationalist politics," from the seat for the North division of Louth, which he had held for eighteen years, proved successful today.

The case has been before the court at Dundalk for several days, during which Healy presented evidence of much intimidation and rioting at the polling. Hazleton's attorney consented to having the election declared void without offering a defense.

The matter has not ended, however, as Healy asserted his right to introduce all his evidence in support of his charges, which include bribery, and the court decided to hear it.

The fight in the Louth constituency was one of the most bitter in the recent campaign. The Redmondites brought all their forces to bear against O'Brien's chief lieutenant, and the defeat of Healy overshadowed the chagrin in the Redmond camp at William Redmond's failure to oust O'Brien in Cork city. Exciting scenes marked the polling, free fights were frequent, and Healy himself at times required police protection. When it was announced that Hazleton had secured Healy's seat in the house of commons the independent candidate declared he would protest the election alleging gross corruption and intimidation. Hazleton was returned unopposed for the North division of Galway.

MEXICANS FIGHT REAL BATTLE AND NEARLY SHOOT U. S. SOLDIERS

Federals Suffer Another Defeat at Hands of Insurrectos.

Fighting Lasts for Over Five Hours in Vicinity of Mulata.

Shells Come Across River Endangering Lives of U. S. Troops.

Mulata, Mex., Feb. 9, by Presidio and Marfa, Tex., Feb. 10.—Mexican forces under Gen. Luque have sustained another defeat in their attack on insurrectos whom they have been fighting in this vicinity for the last week. Today the federals assulted the insurrecto force entrenched about Mulata. They were repulsed after a battle lasting five hours.

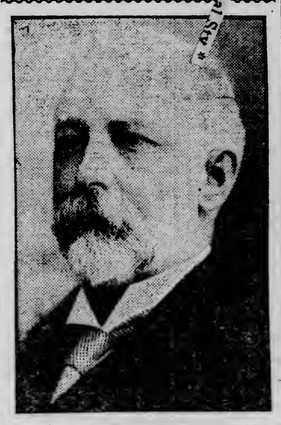

Frequently during the assault American troops on the opposite side of the Rio Grande were under fire. Shells from field guns used by the federals hissed across the river, bursting dangerously close to men of Troop "H" of the Third United States cavalry, which patroled the river bank. It is declared by witnesses that frequently the federals, chagrined at the fruitlessness of their assault, deliberately turned their guns at groups of women and children who had sought refuge on the American side of the stream. One shell from the federals' fire burst near Capt. Williams of the cavalry, killing an insurrecto, who was watching the battle from the American side.

Federals Withdrawn.

The federals withdrew after fierce fighting. It is expected that despite their losses they will renew the attack

HON. W. S. FIELDING,
Canadian Finance Minister, Who Says the Dominion Parliament Will Pass Reciprocity Agreement.

CANADIANS TO APPROVE

Parliament Will Act Favorably on Reciprocity Agreement.

Finance Minister Fielding Tells Purpose of Parliament.

Ottawa, Ont., Feb. 10.—The Canadian house yesterday afternoon began the debate on the reciprocity agreement with the United States. The great interest in the measure was indicated by crowded galleries and an unusually large attendance of members.

The result of the afternoon's discussion was a declaration by Finance Minister Fielding that parliament would put through the measure without delay with a provision that it should come into force as soon as the United States had taken favorable action, and a declaration for the opposition by Mr. Borden, Conservative leader, that after a 40-year development struggle, Canada had reached a position where reciprocity and increased trade with the United States was no longer desirable, but that Canada

PROSPECTS OF SEAL FISHERS VERY POOR

Ice Has Packed Heavily in the Straits of Belle Isle.

St. John's, Nfld., Feb. 10.—Prospects for the annual seal fishery in the gulf of St. Lawrence are dubious. With only a month and day remaining before the departure of the sealing fleet, on March 11, news has reached the owners of the vessels here that ice already has packed in heavily in the straits of Belle Isle. So extensive is the pack reported that open water cannot be seen for miles. A heavy frost is reported in the gulf, and the quest for seal this season is expected to be a trying one.

To add to the troubles of the owners a strike impends among the crews. The steamer owners declare they have not yet been approached but say that if the reported demands are made they will not send their steamers to the fishery. The average total annual catch of seal is well over half a million. With favorable conditons, it had been hoped to surpass the amount this season as seven vessels of the fleet will carry wireless telegraph outfits. The two vessels so equipped last season were high liners for the fleet.

VALUABLE FARM LAND.

District of Columbia Has 214 Farms Worth $6,301,000.

Washington, Feb. 10.—The most valuable farm land in the United States is found in the District of Columbia, according to figures given out today by the census bureau. These figures show that in the district there are 214 farms, comprising 6,000 acres with a value of $6,301,000.

The value of products is not given, but it is known that the value of the land is due to the fact that all of it is located in the suburbs of the national capital.

FOUR BODIES ARE TAKEN FROM MINE

Believed Six More Will Be Found in Cokedale Workings.

Trinidad, Col., Feb. 10.—The bodies of four Polish shot-firers had been removed from the Cokedale mine wrecked by an explosion last night, five more bodies had been discovered and six were still unaccounted for today. A. E. Sutton, assistant superintendent in charge of the rescue work was overcome by gas and was carried to the surface. He probably will die.

Superintendent Bayless declared this morning he believed the explosion was due to the accidental discharge of blasting powder. Little hope is entertained of finding the remaining six nallive. All those whose bodies have been found died from suffocation. It was evident they were attempting to make their way from the mine when overcome by black damp. All the dead and missing are foreigners.

OHIO MAN FALLS HEIR TO 300,000

First Message Over His New Telephone Brings Him News.

Bellefontaine, Ohio, Feb. 10.—J. L. Reams of Belle Center installed a telephone in his home yesterday and the first message received over it was that he had fallen heir to $300,000. A Columbus, Ohio, attorney called him and gave the information that Jonathan Reams, Topeka, Kan., had died and had left his entire estate to "J. L. Reams, an only nephew." The nephew had been sought for the past year. Reams gave proof over the telephone that he was the man sought.

MAY HAVE TAKEN BODY OF SCOTT

Ghouls Said to Have Secured Remains of Late Congressman.

Erie, Pa., Feb. 10.—Detectives are working on a clew that may lead to some material developments in connection with the robbery of the Scott mausoleum in the Erie cemetery.

Louis Wadlinger, a milk dealer, has informed the officers that about 4 o'clock on the morning of Jan. 27 his wagon was stopped near the cemetery by a man who asked for a match. Wadlinger says the man told him he had heard hammering in the cemetery and later saw four men emerge through a hole in the cemetery fence.

Although a statement issued by the family is to the effect that the body stolen is that of Mrs. Anna M. McCullum, a sister-in-law of Mr. Scott, rumors are persistent that the ghouls have taken the body of the former millionaire congressman. There has been no demand for ransom.

QUESTION IS ANSWERED

Life Is Worth Living, Says Rev. M. S. Rice at the Lyceum.

Suicide Does Not Have True Solution of the Problem.

"Is Life Worth Living?" was Rev. M. S. Rice's subject at the Lyceum today and he answered it with the assurance that life is worth living and living well. He spoke from the text, "For What is Your Life?" James, 4-xiv, and said, in part:

"The answer to that crisp text, will furnish a safe foundation from which to frame an answer to the familiar question I choose as a theme. 'Is Life Worth Living" has been answered by many a suicide, and maybe, as some try to tell us, that tribe is increasing. I do not know that men believe there is any more reason to take their own lives today, than ever before, but the mania for suicide seems at its height. It cannot be because life is any less worth living today than ever before. The matter with our day is not that we have worse conditions than we ever had before, though that be the burden of much effort at argument today. The matter with us is distinction from other days is that the ever growing men in the worst conditions and they have awakened to the fact that they are entitled to the places of men.

All May Solve Problem.

"But, after all, this is neither here nor there when it comes to the real question in hand. Whether or not life is worth living must be answered around far greater issues than rich and poor. These things are only the dust that flies into our faces as we make our hurried way across this little world. Life is a tremendous issue. A poor man may solve it as truly as a rich man. Life is an issue. It is a tremendous task to get done, and the people who put a spiritual element into it are called to answer its question aright, for the phrase of our theme has been tossed about the world much today in a half mocking manner by unspiritual men. The temper of its asking has revealed painful dissatisfaction, and the discontent of intellect has driven men to accuse the world of irrationality. If this life were all I would not challenge their conclusion. If this life were all, then human discontent is the most rational thing for us all. But I must meet life with my Christian faith, and I challenge the thought that it is a jest, a blunder, a tragedy, and insist as I believe in God and immortality that life is indeed a benediction, a service, a triumph.

"I am very sure that the question 'Is Life Worth Living?' is being today asked with carelessness. We use it like other common hailings, such as 'It is a fine day,' for almost every day, and every man we know. And still if we really discredited it as Chesterton has somewhere put it, the world would stand on its head, murderers would be given medals, and firemen denounced for keeping men from death. Let me establish a few plain facts before I answer the question standing on them.

Man Makes His Own Life.

"First, your life is your own construction. I must fix clearly where the blame of a failure will fall if it falls. And you say my first point is wrong. You say your life has all been cut out for you. 'Oh, if I but had a fair chance,' you cry. 'There are men in this town no better than I and with no more brains, but they are rich. They just stumbled on things. After all, life is about what it is cut out to be for every man. It is to me the weary old grind of a mill-horse. Tied to the center of his hard hoof-pounded circuit he makes his weary way with never a change from the grind of his round. That's my picture, a pull and a pull and a tramping circle. I am only spoken to like the old horse with a lash to force me around my circle a mite faster. I am really wondering whether or not life is worth while.'

"Hold on man! You have utterly missed what that old mill-horse was doing. He is not merely marching. He is turning the shaft. Didn't you notice him step over it every round he made? Can't you hear the low sound of the grinding through the wall there? And that signifies that beaten round where he plods. Step up, old horse, you are doing well; and you man, the reason you so often grow tired and rebellious at the way, is that you see only the way. You have missed the shaft. Perhaps you have stumbled over it even as you come around. Step up, man! Life is worth living. You are doing fine. Don't keep your mind on the grind. It would take the heart out of any man to look only at the work he does.

Part of God's Plan.

"Second—And that leads me to say my second thought that you are a part of God's great plan. It helps me to go on when I know my going has something to do with a big purpose. I don't intend to drop out while I know I have a real part. And you are ready again, and declare that you are too little to make any difference whether out or in. God is a great God and His plan is a very complex plan. I can think of Him with my eye at the lense of a telescope. But when I turn to look at human ants teeming over a little world like this, I never think of God. Why, my friend, you have come at God wrong, as you come at man wrong before. He is a God of minutae as He is of immensity. It is one of His finest evidence. On man's works you must take a careless look. Stand back and lose the brush strokes. Not so God. Get another glass than the telescope. Reverse the telescope if you please. Drive your vision into the microscopic construction of things. Don't tell me because you have times when your littleness discourages you that you think that any reason to leave God out of your plan, or that it leaves you out of His. An infidel once said to me in a scornful way about my faith, 'Mr. Rice, no one could ever make me believe you, a little finite creature creature, could ever reach up to an infinite God of whom you preach.' And I said you are right sir, only you have gotten religion wrong end to. I know I can't reach up to my God, but I tell you an infinite God can reach down to me, and that is the comfort of my faith.

Life Is Worth Living.

"I am sure life is worth living. Worth it, no matter what it costs. Worth it, even if we have to toil out our wearying days through a never-ending drudge of poverty. Worth it, no matter though we be misunderstood and misjudged, and persecuted all the way. Worth it, because of the outcome. The Christian conclusion is drawn with human ultimate in view. Life is not measured here. The real dignity of life is that which measures up today instead of measuring down tomorrow. The God of us all is interested in the efforts we are making to bring up amid just what we have to face as men and women, the real answer to life at its best. I speak in His name and adjure thee that even in the most seemingly hopeless place on earth humanity can work out an absolutely correct answer to our question, and God is walking among the people every day to see what answer they have made Him. Life is infinitely worth living. Let us live it then! Live it for men's sake! Live it for Christ's sake!"

ERRING HUSBANDS BROUGHT TO BROOK

Copper Country Heads of Families Who Desert Them Being Rounded Up.

Calumet, Mich., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—As the result of the strong campaign being made by the authorities of Houghton and Keweenaw counties to bring to trial men who have deserted their wives and families and have fled the district, several men charged with desertion have voluntarily returned to their families and are now contributing to their support.

The authorities worked on a dozen particularly bad cases, where it was shown that the county was supporting the deserted families, and brought the erring husbands back to the Copper country from Duluth, the mining camps of Montana, Arizona, Nevada and the Cobalt district of Ontario, and even from as far East as Pittsburg, Pa. Several have been sent to state's prison, where they will be forced to labor, their earnings being turned over to their deserted families. Rather than face possible prison terms, the runaway husbands are returning to their homes. It is claimed that, in proportion to the population, there are more desertions each year in Houghton county than in any other county in the state.

ADMIRAL BERESFORD ON THE RETIRED LIST

LORD CHARLES BERESFORD.

London, Feb. 10.—Admiral Lord Charles William de la Poer Beresford is 65 years of age today and by virtue of the age limit clause, is retired from the active list of the British navy. He has held no appointment since his surrender on March 24, 1909, of the command of the channel fleet.

There were no official formalities but most of the daily papers take occasion to eulogize the admiral's notable career. The radical press criticizes his political activities.

CROOK PREYS ON CHILDREN

Books of Poems Promised for 2 Cents Each Are Not Delivered.

Hundreds of Children and Some Principals Are Victimized.

Hundreds of grade pupils in Duluth schools were swindled out of 2 cents each by a smoth grafter who was in the city last December. Several principals were also victimized by his operations.

The grafter visited the different schools with a proposition to sell small volumes of poems for the price of a postage stamp each. They contained such selections as would appeal to the children, and which their teachers thought they ought to read. Many of them were of the staple sort which are read to all grade children at different stages of their early educational career.

He was highly successful in this city, it is explained. He collected in advance and took many dollars worth of pennies from different institutions. A smooth talker, with a plausible story, no one suspected that he had anything but a legitimate proposition.

The poems were supposed to reach Duluth shortly after the first of the year. A week overdue, and nothing was heard of them. The children began to ask questions and the teachers and principals began to wonder why they didn't arrive. Finally one of the principals started a quiet investigation. The matter was taken up with Chief of Police C. H. Troyer, who took the matter up with the New York police, the "agent" having given that as his address. It was ascertained that he had an office at the number named, but it was vacant. The employes in his office explained that he had left for parts unknown about the middle of last month. They were just as anxious to locate him as were the police, as he had flown without paying them their salaries.

The police think that he has worked the same game all over the country, reaping a rich harvest. The case is now being taken up by the postal authorities.

LOOKING FOR A MAN WITH "LARGE FEET."

The police have been asked to locate a man partly described as having "large feet." His name is Barthold Dahlgren, but his lower extremities are not the only big thing about him, as he stands 6 feet 2 inches tall. He is 19 years old, of average build, with brown hair, gray eyes, and heavy black eye brows. He is a native of Sweden and came to this country last April. He worked in Rochester, Niagara Falls and Buffalo. He has no profession, but is well educated, inclining to civil engineering and draughting. He is said to have come to Duluth last November or early in December on the steamer North Queen. Since then his mother, who is in Buffalo, has heard nothing of him.

ARGUES FOR RATIFICATION

Norris Says Tariff Agreement Will Benefit 90 Per Cent.

Tells Committee Something About Ways of Paper Manufacturers.

Washington, Feb. 10.—The paper and pulpwood provisions of the Canadian reciprocity agreement formed the subject of a prolonged session of the house ways and means committee yesterday, the principal witness being Chairman John Norris of the paper committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' association.

Mr. Norris was reinforced by Don C. Seitz, business manager of the New York World, another member of the paper committee.

Mr. Norris made good his promise of yesterday to make emphatic by an array of facts and figures his advocacy of the ratification of the reciprocity agreement exactly as it stands, including especially the pulp and paper provisions without amendment of any kind.

Mr. Norris characterized the agreement as "the greatest economic advance made by the United States in the present generation. It broadens our markets, it promotes interchanges that will immediately and directly benefit 90 per cent of the population."

He said he appeared "as the representative of newspapers which pay more than $55,000,000 per annum for news print paper."

"They are deeply concerned in the paper and pulp clause of the treaty," he said, "and they ask you to approve the clause exactly as it appears in the agreement.

"The tangle of the American government with Canadian provinces and the tariff burdens imposed upon print paper have added more than $6,000,000 per annum to the price which newspapers would pay for raw material under normal conditions. The complication with Canada and the excessive duty have enabled American paper makers to combine for an advance in print paper prices."

Makers Starved Market.

Mr. Norris alleged that the organization of the paper makers was "systematically starving the market," and in December last "exported more print paper than Canada shipped to us."

Dwelling upon the oppressive measures of which he accused this organization, Mr. Norris said they established a statistical bureau, ostensibly to ascertain the condition of the market, but he objected to the use which, he said, the paper makers had been making of it to regulate prices.

"All but two of fifty print paper makers of the country," Mr. Norris declared, "are violating the Sherman law by restricting the use to which the paper they sell can be put. No print paper can be bought f. o. b. mill unless the name of the buyer, the destination of the paper and the use to which it is to be put are disclosed, as well as the information that the buyer has no contract with any other mill."

Quotations From But One Mill.

Dilating further upon the alleged restrictions upon distribution, Mr. Norris said that today it was "impossible for the larger newspapers to obtain quotations from more than one mill at any price. The largest buyer in the country, who uses 100,000 tons per annum will probably pay an increase of $600,000 per annum for his paper because of the methods of the paper makers. Since the passage of the Payne-Aldrich law, though the duty on print paper has been reduced $2.25 per ton, that is, from $6 to $3.75 per ton, the paper combination has advanced prices $2.50 per ton and threatens further advances. Publishers, whose contracts are expiring find that they cannot get any terms except from the mill which had supplied them. A uniform price of $45 per ton has been established by the paper makers. It makes no difference what the freight rate is within a given zone.

MEXICANS FIGHT REAL BATTLE AND NARROWLY MISS U. S. SOLDIERS

tomorrow (Friday). The insurrectos had been warned that federal soldiers were coming. They took position on a hill near the town, in the abode houses and behind the banks of an irrigation ditch. The federals approached in battle line with infantry next to the river, cavalry on the right side and artillery in the center. After shelling the town at long range the soldiers advanced and the insurrectos opened fire. The hottest fight took place along the ditch. Twice the federals captured the ditch, but each time were driven out by the rebels. In the last charge the insurrectos were led by F. C. McCombs, an American. Seven Mauser rifles were captured in this charge.

Outnumbered by Federals.

The federals numbered 325, according to their own announcement. The pronunciados had 200 men in Mulata.

The Mexican soldiers were commanded by Gen. Luque and Col. Dorantes, the insurrectos by Torribo Ortega and Emilio Salgado. It is impossible to estimate the number of killed tonight. The bodies of eight soldiers have been stripped of their weapons, but many more were carried off the field. Only one insurrectos, Emilie Lopez, was killed.

The Mexican soldiers withdrew a mile from their position and camped. Tonight the insurrectos are moving to a better position and there is frequent firing between outposts. An attack will be made at daybreak.

Customs Inspector Tom Perrine and Lee Grigsby were fired upon by Mexican soldiers and their pack horses were shot.

During the fight, Deputy Marshal Eugene Warren disarmed several refugees. Capt. Williams has notified Gen. Luque that there must be no more firing across the river. If his orders are disobeyed, international complications may arise.

Armed Men Cross Boundary.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 10.—Reports reached the city early this morning that a body of armed men were crossing the international boundary between Noria and Malpais, about twenty-five miles west of this city, on the El Paso & Southwestern. A train of nine cars was made up and left at 3 o'clock this morning, carrying a large detachment of the Fourth United States cavalry to the scene.

Gen. Orozco, who was joined by Gen. Casillas yesterday, camped last night at Rancho Flores with approximately 600 men. Whether he will risk a battle with Gen. Navarro, who is marching north with 1,000 men, or whether he will retire to the hills until he can collect a larger force is uncertain.

If he should succeed in gathering the scattering bands of insurrectos under his command, he might oppose Navarro on nearly equal terms, but it is believed that the bitter jealousies among the insurrecto leaders will make this plan impossible. Gen. Blanco, with over 300 men is reported thirty miles south of Rancho Flores, but it is unlikely that he will join Orozco in view of the personal enmity between them. Gen. Navarro is reported eighty miles south of Juarez.

In no season of the Silberstein store's history have we had furs so good to sell at prices so moderate.

should continue to seek British markets with her surplus products.

For the government, Mr. Fielding said that the question was not new and there had been no undue haste in its presentation.

Promises Prosperity.

"It is the reciprocity agreement of 1865 over again, with comparatively little change," he said. "It promises prosperity to the people of Canada and this house would make a grave mistake and do a grave wrong if it refused to take advantage of it.

"I have very strong hopes that President Taft will be able to overcome the opposition at Washington, but whether he succeeds or not, we in Canada will do our part."

"The reciprocity measure is so far-reaching," declared Mr. Borden, opposition leader, who was the first speaker, in committee, "that no man can tell what its consequences will be. For forty years we have been seeking and the United States has been denying reciprocity, and, now, when the natural resources of timber, minerals and agriculture are being overtaken by the demands of their population, they return to us."

Mr. Boden said that there should be no arrangement which would turn the trade currents of Canada to North and South and render the proposed Hudson Bay railroad, the Georgian canal, the national trans-continental railroad and the enlargement of the Welland canal useless.

ROB THIEF IN CHICAGO

arrested and charged with being an accessory to the robbery and with having received stolen property.

The original robbery occurred Sunday morning, when a lone bandit entered as John Adams, the cashier, and Roy Saisline, assistant head waiter, were near the cashier's desk. Pointing a revolver at the men, he proceeded in true holdup fashion to procure $3,300 in receipts which was taken from the cashier's desk.

The police searched vainly for the lone desperado for many hours, when a note from an unidentified woman gave them a clue as to the nature of the "holdup." Saisline was arrested and confessed that he had arranged with Willard to commit the robbery. Saisline named Harry Anderson, a companion, as one of the conspirators and after the arrest of Willard both denounced him for his failure to meet them later and divide the spoils.

Willard after his arrest asserted that he, in turn, had been help up a few minutes after leaving the restaurant. The police refused to believe him, but later developments proved that he told the truth.

Loftus Held in $20,000.

William H. Loftus, a saloon keeper, who was accused by a confessed participant in the robbery last Sunday morning of Rector's restaurant as having employed three other thieves to rob the original robber, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $20,000 today by Judge Newcomer.

"You are worse than any of the other men in this affair," said the court to Loftus. "You not only planned the original robbery, but also the holdup of that robber. Your defense, that you merely loaned two revolvers for half an hour for $100, is enough to indict you."

WILL ADDRESS LAKESIDE CLUB

City Attorney Will Explain Lighting Plant Plans to Members.

The Lakeside club will hold a meeting in the Lakeside town hall tonight. Bert Fesler, city attorney, will explain the proposition to take over the lighting plant. The city owns the water and gas plant, but it does not have control of its electric lighting privileges.

It appears that the legislature may give Duluth the right to bond itself to buy the Duluth Edison company or to install a plant of its own, and the city attorney will explain the situation to the club members.

The club will discuss the Iron Range railroad crossings in Lakeside. Some people think more watchmen should be maintained by the company. The question will be thrashed out tonight. If the people who believe in additional protection are in the majority it is likely that the club will present its views on the subject both to the railroad and to the city council.

Members of the club will continue the discussion on the commission form of government which was started at a meeting devoted entirely to the argument of that subject several weeks ago.

LOST WIFE AND BUSINESS.

Aged Man Now Seeks Damages From Alleged Affinity.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 10.—Charged with alienating the affections of the wife of Samuel F. Wise, prosperous business man of Aspinwall, J. F. Miser was placed under heavy bail by the court on a caplas. The husband claims Miser has stolen not only his wife, but his business as well, and demands $20,000 damages. Wise is 70 years of age, while his wife and Miser are each about 40.

"You are too old for me," Mrs. Wise is alleged to have said to the husband some time since.

Wise, among other things, had a big poultry store in Sharpsburg, and a year ago he placed Miser in charge as a partner, keeping him at his home.

Wise said he stood for many things, but when Miser laughed in his face and said to him, "Better get out of the way, old man, and give a younger one a chance," it was too much.

Winona, Minn., Feb. 10.—A $10,000 subscription to the bonus for a building site of the proposed $300,000 boys' Catholic college has been secured, thus cinching the location of the institution for this city.

ROUNDUP OF THE SLOGANS

The Contest Will Close at 10 o'Clock Saturday Morning.

Another Big Collection of Suggestions Added to List.

Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock the branding season will close. The big round-up will be completed at that hour and all the "steers" will be corralled.

In other words, at that hour the lid will fall on the hopper and no more suggestions of a slogan for Duluth's great electric sign on the hillside will be received. It's been a fine thing to observe what a lot of people in a lot of different places take a lively and admiring interest in Duluth. Suggestions have come from Saskatchewan to Florida and in between, a large percentage of them coming from outside the city of Duluth. Which speaks well for the fame of Duluth and is no discredit to The Herald, by a long shot.

The sign, of large dimensions, is proposed to be built on the hillside or hilltop, electric lights flashing a welcome and message to the incoming traveler. The slogan is limited to fifteen letters and to the person whose suggestion proves acceptable The Herald will pay a prize of $10.

surgeons have given of their services in the past and will again, but they do not believe they should be called upon to do so. Neither do they believe that specialists should be called upon to supply glasses, even if they give the services free. It was figured last night that many of the defects discovered by the medical examiners are such that if they are allowed to run, a year's work is lost by the student afflicted and the child is kept in school a year longer, at expense to the city. They believe that it is a matter for the city or state to deal with, for the community is directly affected by defects in the children in the schools.

The theory of the medical society is that if properly presented the matter will be taken up by the state or the city. If no appropriation can be obtained from public funds, they believe that charitably inclined people will see the great benefit that can be given afflicted children and will subscribe a fund sufficient to defray necessary expenses in necessary cases. The committee, which was not named last night, will take the matter up immediately and will report to the society later.

Favor Duluth Asylum.

The society also went on record last night as favoring the location in or near Duluth of a detention hospital for patients suffering from mental diseases. Figures were presented to show that the cost of transporting patients to the detention hospital at Fergus Falls last year was $2,951.55, exclusive of the salary of the deputy sheriff accompanying them and the sheriff's fees. Another argument advanced was that every mental disease patient taken in charge by the county is held in the county jail while awaiting examination, and transportation, if committed to a hospital. People of refinement are taken to the jail and forced to associate with criminals and, if the examination discloses no serious mental defect, the person is discharged with the stigma of having been detained in the county jail on him or her. It was said that if a state detention hospital were erected in or near Duluth the saving each year would amount to $5,000 and the county would have a place for the detention of patients awaiting examination.

The secretary of the society was instructed to write the members of the St. Louis county delegation in the legislature urging them to use their influence to obtain the passage of a bill providing for the erection of a detention hospital in this county.

Physician's Duty in Politics.

The meeting of the society, which was held at the Commercial club, was well attended and was most successful. Henry F. Greene delivered an address on "The Physician's Duty in Politics." Mr. Greene went into the history of government in ancient nations and in more modern times. He pointed out that since the Civil war the government of this country and its subdivisions have become so complex that a class of professional politicians has grown up and the government is by the rich. The lawyers were powerful once in government, but they are not so powerful in the people's behalf now, he said, for most of them look to their own business, most of which is with people of wealth.

The physician, he said, is a democrat, close to the people, who can take a stand on public questions without fear of antagonizing anybody or jeopardizing his own interests. Few of the other professions and few business men can do that, he said. The physician, he said, should be alive to the interests of the people and should especially take a hand in city government to see that the streets are clean, the sanitation is proper, the schools are inspected and the public health assured.

Mr. Greene referred to what has been done in Panama by the physicians and sanitation experts in enforcing their regulations and said that in a similar manner, physicians in every city should stand behind rule of health and sanitation and obtain their enforcement.

Sanitation Expert.

One of the members of the association broached the subject of a sanitation expert at the head of the health department. He said that if the commission form of government is brought about, the department of public health and sanitation should be separated from the others, should include all matters of sanitation and health, including the inspection of the schools. He said that the salary for the head of that department should be such that a physician, who should also be a sanitation engineer in a way, could give up his private practice to become head of the department and the medical association should indorse a man for the position and stand behind him.

Even under the present government, it was urged, the organization of the health department could be made such that the same results could be obtained. The salary of the head of the department should be made so attractive that a good physician and sanitation expert could give up his private practice and give the city his full services. The results in other cities were pointed out as warranting such action by Duluth. Other members expressed themselves favorably on the subject, but no action was taken.

The house overturned two committee reports this morning. The game and fish committee recommended for passage a bill allowing the use of artificial lights in spearing pickerel and other coarse fish, but on motion of Representative Lydiard the house killed the bill.

Representative Sulerud offered in the house a proposed constitutional amendment intended to make it easier to amend the Constitution. LYCEUM—William H. Turner in "Father and the Boys."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
ODEUM and LYRIC—Photoplay.

TURNER IN CRANE'S ROLE

"Father and the Boys" Again Delights Lyceum Audience.

From fourteen miles behind the procession to seven miles ahead of the band is a pretty far cry and watching William H. Turner as Lemuel Morewood make the jump in "Father and the Boys," is one long laugh. Mr. Turner, who succeeded William H. Crane in the role, does not suffer by comparison with Mr. Crane. He succeeded Mr. Crane in "David Harum," and scored a personal triumph. His triumph in "Father and the Boys," is no less great.

Mr. Turner opened a three nights' engagement at the Lyceum last night in "Father and the Boys." He "got across" with his first appearance and all through the action of the play he drew sympathy in trouble and laughs in triumph. Lemuel Morewood is a likeable character and Mr. Turner's ability in portraying the niceties of the role makes the audience like the old wool broker and sympathize with him.

Lemuel Morewood, who has built up a big business and made a fortune in New York, has retained many of his rustic ways. He has two grown sons who have been taken into the business but give little time to it. One is a society hanger-on while the other is such an ardent devotee of athletics that they come before business. The old man feels that his boys are getting away from him. He wants to break them of their fads, arouse in them an interest in the business and get them married to his ward and her friend.

Goaded on by his friends and his sons, who place him first two and then fourteen miles "behind the parade," he breaks loose to show the boys that he isn't the old fossil they thought he was. He starts out by "bucking" a fashionable roulette game in his own home and breaking the bank and the banker, a bogus "major." Accompanied by a breezy Western girl, an actress, he goes on a round of pleasure that brings consternation to his sons. Driven to it by their father's neglect, they attend to business. The father gives dinner parties, attends the races and cleans out the bookies and cuts up capers that the sons think are out of place for a man of his age. The end comes when the old man leaves suddenly for Nevada in company with the Western girl, who has a half interest in a gold mine.

The sons follow, believing that they will break up a marriage. They find that their father is only helping the girl out, that she has a fiance in the Nevada town, that the old man is willing to settle down and wait for the band and that they want their father's ward and her friend, and want to stick to business.

"Father and the Boys" is a comedy, pure and simple.

Mr. Turner has a good supporting company, with Eugene Shakespeare and John Flanigan as the boys. Leo Hardman as "Tuck" Bartholomew, ex-prize fighter and betting commissioner, has a good character part. The other parts are well taken.

"Father and the Boys" is a good comedy and back of the comedy is a good story. There is a lesson that is given with such entertaining side lights that one doesn't know he is called upon to think—but he does think. The performance will be given again tonight, tomorrow afternoon and tomorrow night.

Green Room Gossip.

Miss Maud Leone has grown to be quite a favorite with the women of Duluth. To her talents as an actress Miss Leone has added graces of personality that have endeared her to the many women she has come into personal contact with. Her return to Duluth is therefore in the nature of the return of a friend or old acquaintance. Though she has been in Duluth only two days Miss Leone has received many personal calls and numerous calls from women who have become acquainted with her since she entered stock work here.

The Mack-Leone company will open its engagement at the Lyceum Sunday night, presenting "God's Country," which is the work of Mr. Mack's own pen.

The Imperial Russian Dancers, who will appear at the Duluth Orpheum next week, are in St. Paul this week, and will arrive in Duluth Sunday morning for their engagement here.

One of the strongest dramatic films shown in Duluth in weeks is being presented at the Odeum theater this week. It is called "The Three Sisters," and it centers around the efforts of an elder sister to safeguard her two younger sisters. "I wish any people who think motion pictures or photoplay, as they are called, are always immoral and never uplifting, could see this film," said Manager Thomas Furniss. "To my mind it is a stronger sermon than is heard in the ordinary pulpit, and it has a wider circulation, as it is shown several times daily at our theater."

To be stronger than one's husband is not given to many women, but Mlle. Alcide Capitaine, who is appearing at the Orpheum this week, has that distinction.

Mlle. Capitaine is a gymnast and one of the most remarkable ever seen at the Duluth Orpheum, while her husband is one of the three Messrs. Binns, appearing in a musical act on the same bill. Mr. Binns is by no means an undersized or delicate man, physically, and possesses probably more than the average strength of a man, but playing on musical instruments does not tend to develop one physically like walking head downward from a ladder by the rather difficult method of crooking one's toes around the rungs, which feat his wife performs. Mlle. Capitaine also spends about forty minutes each day hanging by her arms from a trapeze and going through the most difficult stunts, while her husband spends about the same time evoking laughs by his eccentric comedy. The result is that Mrs. Binns, although she is even smaller than the average woman, could probably dispose of her husband quite handily in a wrestling match or almost any form of physical test. "I could if we both ran a mile first," said Mrs. Binns, laughing, when asked if she "could thrash her husband."

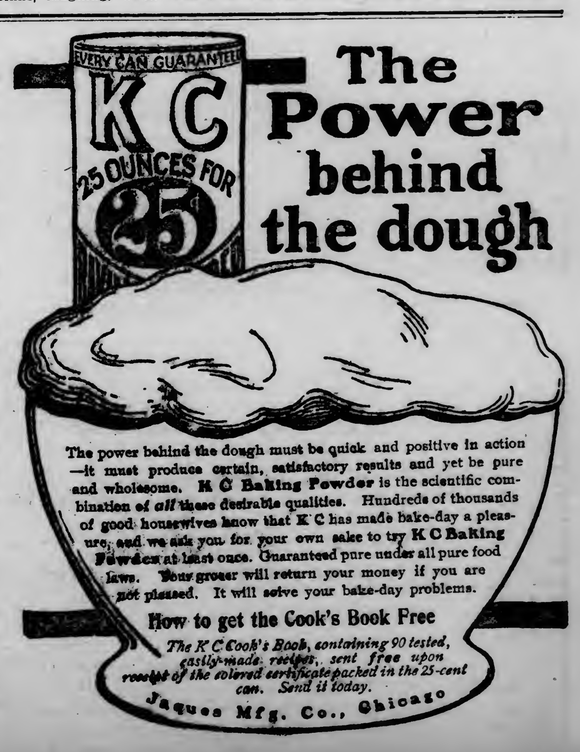

"She's never done it yet, but don't put the idea into her head," said Mr. Binns in mock terror, when he was asked the rather personal question of whether his wife could "lick him."

Unidentified Man Killed By South Shore Train Near Nestoria.

Marquette, Mich., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—An unidentified man was killed Wednesday afternoon by the South Shore train from the Copper country about a mile this side of Nestoria. He was lying on the track, the engineer says, at the time the locomotive struck him. He was not killed outright, but passed away before the train reached Michigamme, where the body was taken in charge by Ed Stensrud, who will hold it for a few days in hopes that the identity of the man will be determined. A notebook in one of the pockets of the clothes bore the name Matti Mars Matson, and it is possible that this is the name of the victim. He was apparently a man of about 30 years of age, was 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighed about 135 pounds. One of his legs was cut off and he was otherwise badly injured.

HEARD IN HOTEL LOBBIES AND ELSEWHERE ABOUT TOWN

Watching a Youthful Appearing Actor Transform Himself Into an Old Man—Inoffensive Broker Gets Two Hundred Applications for Job as Valet—Gordon's Aide Talks of Capitol Affairs—Train Makes Five Miles in Eight Hours.

Thirty-five years ago, in the city of Cork, a sturdy Irish lad of sixteen was preparing himself for the priesthood in a seminary. Last evening the same individual, now fifty years old but far from looking the part, emerged from his apartments in the Spalding and strolled across the street to the Lyceum theater, where he entered a dressing room, and in modest dishabille, began to toy with powders and grease paints, seating himself the while at the dressing table over which stood a large mirror.

With quick, deft fingers he began his work, and as he applied powder and paint and color tone after color tone, the features of William H. Turner gradually disappeared and those of Lemuel Morewood, aged 60 years, grew upon the human canvas with an amazing rapidity and vividness.

First a band, of a dark flesh color, was fastened over the black hair that is Turner's. Then a make-up base of powder was rubbed over the face. With a steel spatula the dark hair was snugly tucked away under the band. The cheeks were made ruddy, and white grease paint fore-shortened the Irish lip of the man who didn't become a priest. The wig of an old man on his fist while he combed it, the actor compared the art of make-up to that of the painter who uses oil, and then the wig was adjusted. Picking up what looked like a glue bottle, the artist remarked: "Spirit gum. Some use ordinary glue." A few deft passes and the jowl and jaw were ready to receive the whiskers of Lemuel, and that hirsute adornment was quickly slapped securely in place. "Water will take it off," it was explained.

The forehead was vigorously rubbed with grease paint to make the bald part of the wig and the natural skin appear one.

In the reflection thrown by the mirror another man was taking form. A swab of red gave the temples a rounder appearance; touches of dark grease paint brought a smile to the unmoving lips of the actor, and wrinkles about the lips, on cheek, forehead and chin followed quickly. The eyes acquired furrowed frames, and a dimple came into being on the chin. Dabs and ribs of white between the wrinkles brought them into relief, and a straight line of white along the length of the nose made that part of the face a straight one. Then a careful going over the whole work with powder—a flesh color, apparently, blended the colors smoothly. A stroke or two of blue around the eye lids changed the color of the eyes, seemingly, from a dark brown to a soft blue, and a few quick motions mussed the eye brows, which then he made gray with grease.

Then congress gaiters of the good old style, sedate business raiment, a hurried washing of the hands, and then a chat, not as at first between visitor and youthful appearing William H. Turner, but between visitor and another person, old but vigorous, but undeniably old.

Then the curtain went up and "Father and the Boys" had the stage.

"You needn't use my name in connection with this story, for Hamlin may think I had a hand in the joke, which I don't deny I did," said a traveling man from Boston at the Lenox last night. "It's the hugest joke of the season, although Hamlin probably hasn't got to that point of view as yet.

"Edward M. Hamlin of Boston is a friend of mine. He's cashier and customer's man in the brokerage office of Dick Bros., in the stock exchange building there. Some time ago he arranged to make a trip to Bermuda and told some of the boys about it. They cooked up a scheme and had an ad printed in a Boston paper, reading something like this: 'A capable man, colored or Japanese preferred, to act as valet for a gentleman going to Bermuda; no experience needed; good salary and all his expenses paid. Apply in person, ready to travel, Monday morning.' Then followed his office address.

"Say, that ad was a winner. When Hamlin got to the office Monday morning he found the corridors on the first two floors lined with about 200 men, most of them negroes. They all wanted that job. Hamlin quickly discovered what they were there for and ducked into the office to escape the mob, but found it crowded, too. Well, he had some trouble making the mob understand that he was the victim of a practical joke, and when at last the building was cleared of would-be valets he swore vengeance on the perpetrators of the joke.

"It was the culminating joke of a series of them. First he was notified that he must give the authorities a statement as to what he planned to take out of the country with him. He ignored that and then a uniformed man called to tell him that he was in contempt of the federal authorities. He then tried to get advice about how to purge himself of contempt. When he went to reserve a stateroom on the steamer he was told every thing was taken but the bridal chamber, which would cost him $175. Later he learned that another stateroom had been reserved for him. So he is going to make the trip to Bermuda, all right, and is probably on the way now.

"Hamlin is a good fellow and very popular. But he never seemed to the letter carrier to have ever before been so popular as his mail indicated he was after the appearance of that want ad. He was flooded with mail."

James S. Arneson of Chisholm, editor of the Tribune-Herald and secretary to Lieut.-Governor Sam Y. Gordon, came up from St. Paul this morning and will go to Chisholm this afternoon. Speaking of affairs at the capitol, Mr. Arneson mentioned the introduction in the house of a tonnage tax bill.

"That probably is an anti-reapportionment move," he remarked. "It is generally understood that the southern district members backing the tonnage tax take the position that, with such a measure pending, the northern members will be pretty tame on the reapportionment proposition.

"Things are moving along smoothly in the senate. It's true there was some feeling of uncertainty at first, traceable to a degree of misunderstanding relative to the committee appointments of the lieutenant governor. Now there is a better understanding and a better feeling all around."

A. J. Ammot of Hoffman, Grant county, is in the city, and he had a hard time getting here. He arrived this morning from the Twin Cities, where he stopped off to break his journey from the West. The train on which he traveled encountered a terrific snow storm which demoralized railroad traffic.

"At one stage of the trip we made only five miles in eight hours," said Mr. Ammot. "It was not a pleasant journey."

Mr. Ammot is here to look up a brother, who was sick in Duluth the last time he was heard of by his relatives. He is a guest at the St. Louis.

MOVING PICTURE PARTY SATURDAY

Duluthians Will Be Photographed in Front of Herald Building.

Tomorrow morning, at 11 o'clock, The Herald's moving picture party will be held.

Every reader of The Herald is invited to be a part of this first moving picture made in Duluth. It will take but a few minutes to make the animated scenes which will be reproduced in every part of the world by Lyman H. Howe.

"Try-outs," as they call them in the moving picture taking business, were made in front of The Herald office this morning. Every arrangement has been made to photograph the people who will be on First street promptly at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. The moving picture camera will be placed in front of the postoffice building, facing The Herald office, and every one who is present will be included in the scenes.

Mr. Howe is particularly anxious to have a large number of Duluth girls and women in the pictures.

If you can possibly arrange it, be present at this first moving picture-taking event in Duluth and help make the scenes noteworthy.

COPPER COUNTRY IS SNOWED UNDER

Heavy Fall Has Closed Down Lumber Camps and Tied Up Lines of Travel.

Houghton, Mich., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Not in years has so much snow fallen in the Copper country that it has forced the closing down of lumber camps, as is the case this winter. Two large lumbering concerns operating in Keweenaw county, near the end of the long point of land which runs out into Lake Superior forty miles north of Houghton, have been forced to close down their camps because the heavy fall of snow of the past four weeks has clogged all of the wood roads to a depth of eight to twelve feet. The snowfall has been so great since the first of the present month that in several of the Copper country towns it has been found necessary to engage large numbers of additional workmen and teams and work them both day nad night to remove the snow from the streets, where, especially in Red Jacket and Laurium, it fell to a depth of six feet in three days and almost completely blocked traffic.

The cost to the towns and to the traction companies runs far up into the thousands of dollars. The snow is hauled out of town by teams and on trains of flat cars, and is dumped in nearby swamps on vacant fields. It has been snowing almost steadily since the first of the month and more snow is promised. There has been little extreme cold this winter, the thermometer reaching 15 deg. below zero once or twice and 10 below not more than half a dozen mornings. There was one spell of zero weather running about ten days during January. The present winter has been marked by an almost total lack of the usual winter thaws. There has been but one thaw this winter, that coming during the last week in January and lasting but three or four days. Then the weather turned colder and several feet of snow fell. There has been a heavy blanket of snow on the ground all over the district since Thanksgiving. The farmers art rejoicing, claiming that the heavy snow means big crops and a prosperous summer for them. All the grains, practically all the tubrous crops and hay are grown in this district. Local grown hay is selling at $24 per ton.

OPINION IS DIVIDED.

Neither Soo City Crazy About the Proposed Canadian Reciprocity.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Feb. 10.—This city and its Canadian sister city are peculiarly divided on sentiment regarding the proposed reciprocity treaty between the United States and Canada. Members of the Canadian Soo city council have forwarded a general protest to members representing their district in the Canadian parliament. Local officials have hurried copies of their resolutions of approval, framed by the aldermen, to the Michigan senators and congressmen at Washington.

MELLEN MAN CHOSEN.

George Foster Is Ashland County Roadway Commissioner.

Ashland, Wis., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Foster, the Mellen lumberman, was elected county commissioner of highways by the Ashland county board yesterday on the first formal ballot.

Mr. Foster was the candidate of the Good Roads' association. Mr. Foster has built about seventy-five miles of railroad, and is a man of large experience, and his plan will be to use the salary of $1,000 a year, which the office pays, to employ expert engineers and road builders. He inaugurated the recent movement to get a road straight through Ashland county, and if possible, to make a passable road from Mellen north.

SPECIAL TAX ON FARM PRODUCTS

Michigan Man Has Bill to Offset Tonnage Tax Measure.

Calumet, Mich., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Moriarity of Crystal Falls is preparing for introduction into the state legislature a bill which will place a special tax on farm products. The measure is certain to pass the senate, and the probabilities of it passing the house are good, in which case it likely will be vetoed by Governor Osborn. The measure is retaliatory, however, aiming to hit the State Grange and others who are advocating the tonnage tax bill now before the house which would impose an extra tax on the products of the copper and iron mines of Northern Michigan. It is unlikely the Moriarity bill will be introduced if the tonnage tax bill fails. The governor will veto the tonnage tax bill should it pass both bodies.

(1) by consolidation of the rural schools, by State Superintendent C. C. Schultz; (2), by industrial contests, Supt. T. A. Erickson, Douglas county; (3) by normal departments in the high schools, Supt. A. M. Bank, Park Rapids; (4) by agricultural education, Supt. G. E. Keenan, Deer River.

Young Women to Sell Crackerjacks for M. E. Church Fund.

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Tomorrow afternoon, seventeen local young women, comprising a Sunday school class of the Methodist church, will canvass the city, carrying with them what is known as the famous Methodist crackerjack. The money realized from this sale will be placed in the fund which is to go toward the building of the new church, which is now under way. This sale feature by the young ladies is to take place every Saturday and if the demand for this crackerjack is as great in Bemidji as it has in another city, where it was successfully worked out, the demand will far exceed the possible output. The following are to be in charge of the sales: Ilive Clark, Grace Cleveland, Edith Schmidt, Esther Funkly, Nellie Bowers, Lillian Erickson, Louise Erickson, Margaret Brant, Helen Horlocker, Mabel Gaines, Gladys Loitved, Pearl Jackson, Cecil Olson, Florence Bagley, Grace Kilsela, Doris Helmer and Lillas Peterson.

ARREST WAVERLY YOUTHS.

Petty Thieving in That Section Is Probably Explained.

Waverly, Minn., Feb. 10.—With the arrest here of seven local young men, the authorities believe they have put an end to a series of petty burglaries which have for several weeks practically terrorized the community. The prisoners are William Martin, Joseph Leffler, Edward Leffler, George Gardner, Joseph Reardon, Joseph Kohoac and John Kohoac, all between the ages of 17 and 20. Reardon and the two Kohoacs were arrested Wednesday and the other four were rounded up Monday.

Last week the Great Northern depot here was entered and $13 taken. Six weeks ago a hardware and a confectionery store were entered and considerable merchandise taken. A detective of the Great Northern road, Sheriff Grant and County Attorney Wolley have been working on these cases with the seven arrests as the result. The county attorney says that all the prisoners have confessed to being implicated in one or the other of the last burglaries and that they will plead guilty before Judge Giddings of Anoka who will come here to hear the arraignments. All of the accused young men are well known here and members of respectable families.

IS WHISKEY DRINKING A SIN?

Where Does the Blame Lie, When the Husband Wrecks His Home?

Many claim that the hard drinker can stop drinking if he chooses; that his willingness to continue the habit and spend money which his family sorely needs for the comforts and, perhaps, the very necessaries of life is nothing but pure selfishness; that in doing so he deliberately chooses what he considers to be his own pleasure and places it above the needs of his family. While there may be some truth in this belief, yet without question the hard drinker is in many cases an absolute slave to his habit and if he is to be set free from the habit must receive assistance from without. The wives and sisters and mothers of such men are ordinarily the ones upon whom the responsibility lies for saving the drinker from this habit.

The White Ribbon Remedy put up by the White Ribbon Remedy Co., of Boston, is honestly made by honest people who desire to help the families that are being injured by drink. That they are succeeding is proven by letters breathing heartfelt gratitude of loved ones of men who have been saved by the White Ribbon Remedy. One such woman writes:

"Dear Sirs:—As I feel I owe you a debt of gratitude I can never pay thought I would drop you a few lines and tell you what your medicine has done for my husband. He has not touched a drop of anything to drink in over a year. My home is like a heaven on earth since that awful curse has been removed and I feel that I can never thank you for your kindness in being so prompt in sending the medicine. Husband took it willingly and is more than proud to think he can go to town and not want to visit the hotels and saloons. When I think of the years I lived with a drunkard when so little would have stopped it, I cannot help but feel that I cannot thank you for what you have done for me."

Without question the makers of this Remedy deserve the gratitude not merely of the families helped, but of the community at large, for the work they are doing.

The White Ribbon Remedy is odorless, tasteless, contains absolutely no habit-forming drugs, may be administered secretly if desired, and has proven its efficacy so many times that those who earnestly desire to win the drinker from the alcohol habit may begin treatment with confidence that excellent results will follow.

White Ribbon Remedy costs $1.00 per box, or 6 boxes for $5.00; and may be obtained of all the Hegeman & Co. stores, New York city, or direct from the White Ribbon Remedy Co., Boston, Mass.

MENACE OF HOLOCAUST

Drastic Reforms in Prevention of Fires in New York.

Commuter Who Has Traveled Over Half a Million Miles.

New York, Feb. 10.—Sweeping the standees from the theater aisles where their presence has always invited terrible tragedy, leaders in a mighty movement to fight fire risk in this city are planning even more drastic reforms in the hazardous handling of public buildings and combustibles. Only a kind Providence has prevented the tinder traps all over Manhattan Island from bursting into flames that might roast hundreds of human beings and spread for blocks, the fire authorities declare. The feeble enforcement of lax laws and the graft bribes that make inspection a joke have come to menace with sudden holocaust many sections of town, and New Yorkers are now up in arms to protect their lives and property. Before many months have passed it seems certain that lofts, workshops and office buildings will be really forced to guard against fire as the theaters have been. In the congested quarter of the metropolis the peril of flames is always near enough at hand, and no one intends to suffer needlessly for lack of proper precaution.

Fresh Financing.

Making even Morgan and Rockefeller sit up and take notice, Ed Green has come to town from Texas to wield the $70,000,000 money power of his mother Hetty Green. Blunt, frank and full of Western hustle, the middle-aged man who intends to sit in with magnates is surveying his new surroundings sharply through thick spectacles with apparently no fear or favor. It took Hetty Green twenty years to train this only son to take the reins to which she has always clung in the press of traffic of the money market and today she declares that her work is well done. No one will be sorry to see some new blood with strong Western corpuscles injected into the financial body here, where decadent heirs and effete old men have lately come to largely control the game.

Costly Causeway.

Almost the last link in the eight-mile driveway for which New Yorkers are to pay $25,000,000, the cantilever section of the Riverside Drive extension along the Hudson, has just been opened to the public with no trace of show or ceremony. For the mere bridging of one great gap in it from cliff to cliff, $250,000 have been put into the supports of this remarkable structure. High in air, this pleasure promenade and boulevard lies sixty feet from curb to curb and carries a picturesque bridle path twenty-two feet wide along its course. Though many millions more will be expended in putting through the short stretch of driveway, it is considered that crowded New York has none too many open spaces and can well afford to provide them even at such gigantic cost.

Commuter Crowned.

With a record of over 500,000 miles traveled between his New Jersey home and his office in this city, Thomas S. Young is today reckoned to rank highest of all the veteran commuters hereabouts. Though he is only a few months short of four score years, the suburban marathon leader has just tucked away in his pocket the five-hundred-and-third monthly commutation ticket which he has purchased in his daily travels. In 1889 Mr. Young moved out to his suburban home and since that time has ridden into town and out every day that he went to business. Only once in his 20,000 trips has he missed a train by being late, according to his testimony. It is this record of promptness rather than that of long distance performance that is today exciting the envy of the great army of commuters who are following in the footsteps of this winner of the suburban handicap.

Heads Hard Hunt.

After weeks of wrestling with a mystery more baffling than he ever faced in a long term as public prosecutor under Jerome, Frank Garvin is today as busy over the disappearance of Dorothy Arnold as he was ever called upon to be in solving the greatest criminal cases of this city in the last decade. That the man who probed into the depths of the Molineux, Patrick, Nan Patterson and Thaw murder cases has been selected to head the hunt for the missing girl is believed to be significant of the difficulties expected to be encountered in meeting the sad situation. Unless the hand of the man who convicted Albert T. Patrick has lost its cunning, something will soon be done to unravel the mystery that has held the interest of all New York for weeks.

FOR INCREASED REPRESENTATION

House Passes Bill Fixing Its Membership at 433.

Washington, Feb. 10.—The Democrats of the house, aided by a few Republicans, who declined to be bound by the party caucus, yesterday won their fight for an increased representation in the lower branch of congress under the census of 1910. They voted down the Republican caucus bill to maintain the membership at 391 as at present and then passed the original Crumpacker bill fixing the membership at 433 on and after March 3, 1913. If Arizona and New Mexico should be admitted to statehood they will be given one representative each, bringing the total to 435.

Yesterday's action of the house must be ratified by the senate. The house leaders believe the senate will follow the wishes of the lower branch.

Under the new reapportionment plan, no state loses a member. The following states gain the number indicated: Alabama, one; California, three; Colorado, one; Florida, one; Georgia, one; Idaho, one; Illinois, two, Louisiana, one; Massachusetts, two; Michigan, one; Minnesota, one; Montana, one; New Jersey, two; Pennsylvania, four; Rhode Island, one; South Dakota, one; Texas, two; Utah, one; Washington, two; West Virginia, one.

CORPSE AND CASKET

Of Woman Weighed Nearly Half a Ton at the Reburial.

Traverse City, Mich., Feb. 10.—When the body of Mrs. J. W. Overly of Kenton, Ohio, which had been buried for seventeen years, was taken to Central Lake for reburial this week, it was found that the casket and body weighed nearly half a ton. The corpse was in perfect condition but petrified.

SENATE HAS THE P. O. BILL

Provides for Increased Rate for Advertising Sections of Magazines.

Allows Thirty Days' Vacation for All Postoffice Employes.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Magazine publishers will have to pay a rate of 4 cents a pound on the advertising sections of periodicals carried as second-class mail matter, if an amendment to the postoffice appropriation bill adopted by the senate committee on postoffices and postroads yesterday is accepted by both branches of congress. Senator Penrose late in the day reported the bill to the senate.

The action of the committee was not accomplished without a spirited contest, although the amendment was adopted by a vote of 5 to 2. The senators who finally voted against the increase to popular magazines were Messrs. Owen of Oklahoma and Bourne of Oregon. Mr. Owen based his opposition on the ground that this tax upon popular reading should not be levied by congress, while Mr. Bourne contended that the action was a discrimination in favor of newspapers, and that they should be taxed likewise.

The increase in the rate for carrying the advertising sections of magazines will apply only to the large publications, as an exemption is provided for periodicals of less than 4,000 pounds weight per issue. The privilege of carrying advertising matter will be accorded by the amendment to fraternal, patriotic, scientific and educational publications, which privilege heretofore has been denied to such publications when entered as second-class matter.

Will Reduce Deficit.

It is estimated by Postmaster General Hitchcock, who framed the amendment as it was adopted, that its operation would reduce the annual postoffice deficit $5,000,000 to $6,000,000. In a previous controversy between magazine publishers and the postoffice department, Mr. Hitchcock declared that the cost of carrying magazines largely was responsible for the postoffice deficit. He does not admit that the increase provided by his amendment would be sufficient to meet the cost of carrying this class of matter.

For the extension of the postal savings bank system $500,000 is appropriated to be available immediately, and authority is given to the postmaster general to designate what postoffices shall be selected as postal banks.

An appropriation of $50,000 is made to provide for an investigation or such experiment as may be necessary to determine the lowest rates of postage at which the government can carry parcels not exceeding eleven pounds in weight on rural routes. The postmaster general is authorized to make travel allowances not exceeding $1 a day to railway postal clerks after eight hours from time of beginning their initial run, and thirty days' annual leave with pay to such clerks as work six days or more a week.

Another amendment allows thirty days' leave of absence to all classes of postoffice employes, placing them on equality with other civil employes of the government. Further amendments proposed were:

Requiring all residences and places of business to be provided with suitable mail boxes after June 30 next; authorizing the postmaster general to reward postal employes whose inventions are adopted for use in the postal service, and appropriating $10,000 for this purpose.

MEDICAL STANDARD

For Marriage Is Favored By Toledo Ministers' Union.

Toledo, Ohio, Feb. 10.—The Toledo Ministers' union went on record in favor of a medical standard for marriage in Ohio at its fortnightly meeting, adopting a resolution indorsing the pending McDonald bill, which provides for a medical examination of applicants for marriage licenses. Petitions for the bill were put into circulation among congregations.

The bill, introduced by Senator S. F. MacDonald of Ashtabula, proposes the license shal be refused if either applicant is found to be suffering from tuberculosis or any malady unfitting the person for parentage.

WHAT I WENT THROUGH

Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Natick, Mass. — "I cannot express what I went through during the change of life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold, I had creepy sensations, and I could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I also had a tumor. I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it had worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish my letter."—Mrs. NATHAN B. GREATON, 51 N. Main Street, Natick, Mass.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

PRINCESS IS FIGHTING HARD

Opposing Prince's Attempt to Have Church Annul Marriage.

Paris, Feb. 10.—One of the most extraordinary matrimonial cases ever brought before the Vatican is that of the Princess De Chimay, formerly Clara Ward of Detroit, Mich. This tempest-tossed woman, who is a daughter of the late Commodore Ward and a niece of a well-known banker of Chicago, is the divorced wife of the head of a princely house, the ex-wife of the gypsy fiddler, Rigo, and the discarded wife of an Italian railroad station master named Ricchardi.

She is making desperate opposition to the Prince De Chimay's attempt to have their marriage annulled by the church. Prince De Chimay is the head of an ancient Catholic house, which has powerful branches in France as well as in Belgium. His chief seat is at Hanault in Belgium. So powerful was he with the late King Leopold that after his marriage with Clara Ward he was able to have her made a lady of court.

In 1897, after her elopement with Rigo, the prince obtained a civil divorce, but had no intention of letting the matter rest there and endeavored to obtain from the ecclesiastical authorities a declaration that the marriage was null and void from the beginning. The case came in from the first instance before the matrimonial court of the archbishop of Paris, and much to the prince's surprise, Archbishop Amette took the side of the American woman. He holds that Clara Ward's marriage with De Chimay was valid and cannot be dissolved by the church.

This marriage was performed by the Papal Nuncio in Paris twenty years ago. Though Clara Ward belonged to a non-Catholic family, a dispensation was obtained from Rome. Prince De Chimay has appealed from the decision of the Paris archbishop and has taken the case to Rome. It is now before the rota, which is a body of church men appointed by the pope to try matrimonial cases. It was this court which decided against Princess Rospigliosh formerly Mrs. Parkhurst of Bangor, Me., and niece of the late Gen. Di Cesnola of New York.

Clara Ward's ecclesiastical counsel is making a strong fight for her. He says she is fighting solely for her two children, of which De Chimay is the father, and pleads that an adverse decision will pass a stigma upon them. Her daughter, Countess Elizabeth De Chimay, is now a beautiful girl of 19. She has all the physical beauty and charm of manner which made her mother the belle of Paris twenty years ago. Since the divorce, one-half of Clara Ward's income has been set aside for this daughter. The son is the Prince Joseph De Chimay Gino, a lad of 17, and now in college.

It is the opinion of the best authorities on the canon law that Clara Ward's contention will be upheld. Then she will be in a curious position of being civilly the wife of Ricchardi while she is ecclesiastically the wife of Prince De Chimay.

TONNAGE TAX IN MICHIGAN DOOMED

Governor Osborn Gives Death Blow to Bill Before Legislature.

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 10.—Governor Chase Osborn was an interested listener at the public hearing by joint taxation committees of house and senate on the proposition of placing a tonnage tax upon the iron and copper mines of the state.

The hearing brought to Lansing most of the operating officials of the mines, both copper and iron, in the Upper Peninsula, who addressed themselves to a discussion of the merits of the tonnage tax, pointing out the fallacy of the proposition and entering into the details of operating of mines for the purpose of demonstrating the utter unfairness of such a tax as between one mine and another and the absolute unjustness of the tax to the mines as a whole.

Among those who were heard were James MacNaughton, Calumet, general manager of the Calumet & Hecla; Charles Lawton, Hancock; Otto Davidson, Iron Mountain; W. M. Duncan, W. H. Johnston, W. P. Belden, Frank Dell, Ishpeming; W. J. Richards, Charles H. Watson, Crystal Falls; John Cumminskey, Escanaba; Allen F. Rees, Houghton, and a large number of others.

Governor Osborn was called on by Senator Kingman for an expression of opinion. The governor declared frankly that he was opposed to the tonnage tax idea.

"I am not trying to shield any class of property from paying its share of taxes," he said. "Every mine in the Upper Peninsula can be properly valued, but to do so you must give the state tax commission the necessary power and authority, and then all property will be placed on the rolls at cash value. One thing has been overlooked here, and that is that the mining properties in the Upper Peninsula have been only about one-fifth developed. New iron ore beds are being constantly opened and nothing must be done to stop this development. I am willing to stand sponsor for the statements made regarding the Upper Peninsula, and know that there is no disposition to avoid the just payment of taxes."

The governor's talk disposes of the proposed tonnage tax bill, which will probably be reported out within the next few days and killed in order to put an end to further discussion.

How Ladies Improve Looks!

"Many ladies, old and young, suffer a round of tortures with their nerves, and many are so frail, thin and bloodless, that their splendid features are lost sight of, while a vain attempt to conceal the angularity of the figure, deceives no one but themselves and really excites the pity or ridicule of the world," said a well known, largely employed practicing physician, in a recent lecture at a young ladies' college. "I do not mind exposing a little secret of mine to all such, as it can do no harm and may result in much happiness and health. It is simply this: Any thin, bloodless, nerve-tortured man or woman, can become as fit as the fittest by taking regularly for several months an easily obtained pharmaceutical product known by the profession and pharmacists, as "three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets, put up in sealed packages with directions for home use."

LAWRENCEBURG MAYOR,

Who Disappeared From Home Several Months Ago, Reappears.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., Feb. 10.—Willard B. Stier, Democratic mayor of Aurora, whose mysterious disappearance several months ago was reported to the police departments of many cities, mysteriously appeared at his home a few nights ago.

Stier says that for several weeks his mind was a blank, caused by worrying over personal debts amounting to several thousand dollars, and that he spent several weeks taking the rest cure in Northern Indiana. He has since obtained a position with a law firm in New York city and will endeavor to liquidate the pledges. Stier sold his home in Sunnyside avenue and after the transfer of the property left at once for New York city.

ARTISTIC RELIC OF THE SEVENTEEN YEAR LOCUST.

Bethlehem, Pa., Feb. 10.—James O. Kichline, a veteran resident of North Bethlehem, has a unique relic of the invasion in 1885 of the seventeen year locusts in this vicinity. When locusts by the million overran the country there, he spent his spare time gathering the insects. Then at his leisure he constructed out of them a wreath and a star. He took a year to do this, and in the construction of the wreath used many thousands of locusts.

The wreath itself is composed entirely of locusts' wings, arranged in flower-and-leaf fashion. The star's center is also composed of locusts' wings, while the six points are made of whole locusts.

The background of the star is made of leaves of locust wings.

The wreath and star stand two feet high by three feet wide, and this piece is but one of the many novelties made during his lifetime by Mr. Kichline, who is 74 years old.

WITH THE CURLERS.

Herald Rink Will Play Western Club Quartet—City Bonspiel.

The Herald rink of the Duluth curling club will journey to the West Duluth rink Wednesday evening, where they will be taken on by Strand's squad of All Stars.

The Herald curlers, in all eagerness, expect to win their first game at West Duluth. Although they have had numerous narrow escapes and on more than one occasion came near chalking up a victory, they still have a clean sheet of defeats.

The lineup for Wednesday evening's game is.

Liggett,	Simpson,
McCarthy,	Strand, H. N.,
Naughton,	Buckley,
Getty, skip.	Strand, Stanley, skip.

Ten West Duluth rinks will be represented at the Duluth club bonspiel Monday night. The following rinks have been selected: Buckley, Wade, Meldrum, Macauley, Iltis, Holland, Method, Olson, Evered and Scott.

A fourteen-head game, the first in the history of the local club, attracted much interest at the rink last evening, when Scott defeated Method, 11 to 10, in the Hendrickson event. In the twelfth head, ten stones had been laid apiece; the thirteenth head left the situation the same and Scott managed to put one over in the last frame.

Macauley defeated the Buckley aggregation, 11 to 6, and Olson took Wade in on a 9 to 5 score. Both games were drawn in the Henrickson jewelry event. Tonight two games will be drawn in the Burns event and one in the Henrickson. In the former, Keyes vs. Zaub and Judson vs Iltis are scheduled, and in the latter Method vs. Holland.

DULUTH MEN ON EXAMINING BOARD.

M. J. Fillatrault of West Duluth and Vincent M. Grady of Duluth were yesterday appointed to the board of examiners for state embalmers' licenses, by Dr. H. M. Bracken of the state board of health. Mr. Fillatrault, the retiring president of the Minnesota Funeral Directors' association, which held its twenty-first annual convention in Minneapolis this week, returned to West Duluth this morning.

Mr. Fillatrault declared that the convention was the most successful one ever held by the state organization, stating that it was instructive and interesting from the start. He said, among other things, that the crematorium at Lakewood cemetery, where the association witnessed a cremation, was the finest chapel of its size in the state.

He declined to have his name put up for re-election, and Fred Gee of Monticello, formerly first vice president, was chosen to head the association. Vincent Grady of Duluth was re-elected secretary.

About 400 undertakers from all parts of the state attended.

Sons Are Notified.

The body of John W. Davidson, aged 60, for a number of years a sexton at Oneota cemetery, who died Monday at St. Luke's hospital, is held at the Fillatrault undertaking rooms, awaiting funeral arrangements. He has one son, residing in Amesburg, Ont., and two at Detroit, Mich. They have been notified, and it is expected that they will be here to attend the funeral.

FLOUR WILL COST LESS

Total Reduction of Fifty Cents a Barrel in Six Weeks.

Even though the reciprocity agreement with Canada has not been ratified the effect has been to bring lower prices to the consumers of flour. Wheat prices declined precipitately today and the result was a slash of ten cents a barrel in flour, making a total reduction of 50 cents a barrel in the last five or six weeks.

A. D. Goodman of the Duluth Universal company said that the cut makes flour cheaper by 20 cents a barrel than at any time in the last two years or more. It is likely that wheat will continue to decline for the time being and for every drop of 2 cents a bushel in wheat, the price of flour will be cut 10 cents.

The Pillsbury Flour company, according to a special dispatch to The Herald from Minneapolis, reduced flour prices today 35 cents a barrel. It had not followed the recent decline in wheat as closely as local mills.

COMMITTEE FAVORS ROCK PILE PLANS.

The state and county committee of the Commercial club met today at the clubrooms and devoted some time to a discussion of the problems of the county jail and what to do with minor offenders against city ordinances.

It was the sense of the committee that a rock pile should be established for vagrants and minor offenders, and that it would be a desirable thing to have a farm settlement for the chronic misdoers. The state and county committee and the municipal committee are expected to hold a joint meeting in the near future to give these subjects careful and thorough consideration.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

WILL PLAY CANADIANS

Mohawk - Calumet Hockey Team Will Meet O. H. A. Champions.

Calumet, Mich., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Mohawk-Calumet hockey team, amateur champions last year of Northern Michigan, will meet the Peterboro, Ont., team, amateur champions of Canada for the world's championship in a series of games, to be played at the Palestra rink, Laurium, and the Glacladom rink, Mohawk, late this month. The sum of $1,000 is guaranteed the Peterboro club for its expenses for the trip, which will run close to two weeks. It is likely that three games will be played. The Peterboro team won the championship of the Ontario Hockey association, the largest amateur organization of hockey teams in the Dominion, numbering more than 150 teams in its several branches. The Mohawk-Calumet team and the Port Arthur, Ont., team will meet at the Palestra rink next Tuesday night. Monday and Wednesday nights the Port Arthur team will meet the Portage Lake team of Houghton and Hancock at the Amphidrome rink, Houghton The Portage Lake team is at present in Chicago, where games have been ararnged with the team representing the Illinois Athletic club. This is the second series between these two clubs for the Western championship. The Phoenix team of St. Paul, the Cleveland team and the Mohawk-Calumet team are also factors in the Western championship fight, while the Port Arthur club lays claims to a right to play for the honors also. If possible, arrangements will be made to bring the Phoenix team to Mohawk, Calumet and Houghton for a series of games. It is found here that independent hockey, as played by the Copper country teams this year, draws much better and attracts more interest than league hockey, as played last year and two years ago, between purely local teams. It is very likely, however, that Duluth, Calumet, Houghton, St. Paul and Chicago and possibly Port Arthur will unite in an international or Western hockey league next season.

COPPERS NEITHER GAIN NOR LOSE

The copper market showed strength after the opening today, but when the apparently bullish report of the United States Steel corporation on unfilled tonnage was succeeded by reports that several railroads would be compelled to issue notes to finance improvements the market declined. The close was about on a par with that of yesterday, the early gain being wiped out.

The Steel statement showed unfilled tonnage of 3,110,919 on Jan. 31 against 2,674,737 on Dec. 31 and 2,760,413 on Nov. 30. In comparison with the comparative tonnages of former years at this time the report was not favorable and traders did not overlook this fact. The bullish features of the report were eclipsed, so far as the immediate effect was concerned, by the comparisons with unfilled tonnage reports of other years.

Paine Webber & Co., said: "Thomas L. Chadbourne of Houghton, Mich., formerly counsel for Calumet and Hecla, who claims to be the owner of a little over 2,100 shares of Ahmeek, besides owning stock in several of the other Calumet & Hecla companies as well as in the Calumet & Hecla itself, in a circular asks stockholders who do not favor the plan to refrain from voting, 'which is as effectual as voting against it.'

"Mr. Chadbourne states that he desires to retain his Ahmeek stock as he is fully convinced that surrendering his shares in exchange for the new companies stock in the manner proposed would result in a heavy loss to him. His conclusion rests upon a knowledge of the Calumet & Hecla and Ahmeek mines which is as intimate perhaps as that of any one living in the Copper country not directly connected with mining.

"We abstract from the circular as follows:

"'Two more of Ahmeek's shafts are now entering the lode and within five years present production should be about doubled. At 13 cents copper and 8 cents cost, this would mean $20 dividends per year at least.'

"Mr. Chadbourne takes issue with some of the statements made by the Calumet & Hecla officials in their circular recently sent to stockholders. These statements, Mr. Chadbourne says are ill-founded and likely to mislead.

"Referring to the statement that the ground tributary to Ahmeek shafts Nos. 3 and 4, will yield less copper per ton of rock stamped than that tributary to the present producing shafts Nos. 1 and 2, Mr. Chadbourne states that no one is entitled to definite knowledge on this subject. He also denies that Ahmeek will have to secure water supply by a pipe line from Lake Superior, about five miles in length as indicated in the Calumet & Hecla circular.

"Referring to the claim of the Calumet & Hecla management that they would be able to continue working on the conglomerate vein at the present rate of production for seventeen years during which period the rock produced is expected to run thirty pounds of copper per ton, Mr. Chadbourne says: 'Now suppose the fact, which the future alone can determine, should falsify that estimate and instead of thirty pounds per ton the rock should prove to be substantially less, what would happen to the income of the consolidated corporation upon which income Ahmeek stockholders will then be dependent for their return? I see no reason why an Ahmeek stockholder should willingly stake the future of his investment in Ahmeek stock upon it.'

"In conclusion, Mr. Chadbourne states that he will cause to be introduced into the Michigan legislature a law such as is in force in several states which makes it possible for a stockholder who does not desire to go into a consolidation to receive cash instead of stock of the consolidated company."

A. B. Wolvin, president of the Butte & Superior company, says: "According to arrangements which I have just completed, the Butte & Superior company is now financed on a good basis.

A statement compiled up to Nov. 30, shows that $2,217,043 has been expended in the purchase of the property and in equipment and development. The indebtedness of the company at that date was $527,764, exclusive of $84,500 outstanding second mortgage bonds. There are $150,500 first mortgage bonds, which became due Jan. 1 of this year and arrangements have been made for an extension of these bonds for another year. President Wolvin predicts that within a short time the company should be earning $1,500 per day net, or the equivalent of $540,000 per year on an output of 600 tons daily, which would be well in excess of the amount necessary to meet its obligations for the year.

ARGUE INDIAN CASES HERE

Judge Morris Will Hear Arguments in White Earth Probe.

The White Earth Indian land cases, which have stirred up Northern Minnesota to the west of Duluth and have also occupied the attention of the authorities in Washington for some time, will have an innings in Duluth Monday, when the arguments will be made before Judge Morris in United States court on the demurrers filed by the defendants in the suits.

Just what phase of the matter will be argued here is not known. Judge M. C. Burch, head of the department of the bureau of justice, which is handling the Indian cases, and C. C. Houpt, United States district attorney, will submit the arguments for the government, and they have not yet arrived in Duluth. The cases have been filed in the Sixth judicial district and the files are not in court here.

The cases hinge around alleged invalid transfers of lands by full bloods under the contention that they were mixed bloods and thus had the right to sell their allotments. Other cases were brought to compel the government to make a new allotment, but it is not believed they will enter into the arguments here.

INCREASING THE SIZE OF CONGRESS.

With the example of the house action before it there is little reason to doubt that the senate will concur in the measure to increase the size of the national congress, and pass the Crumpacker bill. There has been no sound reason to doubt the course the house would take. While some opposition has cropped out it was reasonably certain that the membership would be increased from 391 to 433, irrespective of the new members from Arizona and New Mexico when those states are admitted.

Two main arguments have been made against the increase in membership: Expense and the greater difficulty in accomplishing anything in a larger house. The expense of the increase will be considerable, amounting to $315,000 in salaries for members, aside from the allowances for clerk hire, etc. Then it will be necessary to alter the chamber occupied by the house so as to make room for the additional members. As to the difficulty of transacting business readily in the larger body, that is simply a matter of organization. To make this increase in the size of the house will not make it extraordinarily large as such bodies go the world over. The English house of commons has 670 members; the French chamber of deputies 591. Of the larger governments the German reichstag, with 397 members, will be the only one smaller than the house of representatives in congress.

In favor of the increase in size there has been but the one argument strongly advanced—that any less number of representatives would mean that some states must lose part of their present representation—and this has proved a powerful argument with the members of the house. It probably will appeal equally strongly to the senators.

Only eighteen states ever have had their representations in congress reduced. It appears to have been the policy to make reapportionments for congress on bases that would preserve representations as nearly intact as possible, and yet not make the ratio to population unfair to the less thickly settled states. So the Crumpacker bill really is only in furtherance of that policy, and at the same time follows the precedents of the apportionments following the eleventh and twelfth census reports. During the last twenty years the distribution of population has been more equal than before. In only one apportionment previous to the last two did all states escape without reduced representations, and that was in the one following the census of 1800. In only one case has the membership of the house been reduced—following the census of 1840.

At any rate there is one grain of comfort for those who are opposed to the increased membership, and that is that if any interest wants to buy up half the members or all of them, it will have to pay just that much more than it would under present conditions.

ROYAL BLOOD IN CANADA.

For almost a century Canada has had no member of the royal family of the British empire as a regular inhabitant of the Dominion. She has been governed, as far as the governor general can be said to govern her, by some lesser light appointed by the ruler of England, ever since the death of the Duke of Richmond, who cossed the Atlantic in 1819 to take charge of affairs on this side of the water. There have been earls since then, but no other duke, and therefore it is only natural that there should be attempts to attach significance to the appointment of the Duke of Connaught, brother to the late King Edward VII, as governor of Canada.

Whether the appointment really carries the significance alleged is doubtful, not to say unlikely. Before the death of Edward, and therefore before the present proposition for reciprocity between Canada and the United States was even broached, it was suggested that the duke be sent as a substitute for Earl Grey. King George is but following out the suggestion made during his father's reign. If there is any idea in the appointment that it will bind Canada any more closely to Britain, that idea is the result of misinformation both as to the conditions in the Dominion and the temper of her people. It is safe to say that England has no more loyal province than Canada. She has prospered under empirical rule; she has, to an exceptional degree, control of her own affairs; her people are largely men and women who have been born to the sentiment "The King—God bless him!" Canada has no serious complaints against her treatment at the hands of her emperor or his government, and no particular incentive for independence unless it be in the fact that the Dominion is practically the only country now in this hemisphere that acknowledges fealty to an old world power. The same circumstances work against annexation to the United States that are opposed to independence.

The coming of the duke will be of special interest, therefore, because it will give Canada a chance to honor a representative of her king who is nearer by blood to that ruler than any governor general the Dominion has known in many decades. There is ground, too, for some interesting speculations as to the nature of the "court" the duke will build up around himself at Ottawa, the extent to which royal ceremonials will be employed, etc. Also because it will give the title-worshippers of this country an object of adoration nearer home than they have been accustomed to.

As to the future that may be argued from the sending of a duke to Canada, the following from the London Morning Post, a leader of the Tory press of England, gives unlimited basis for the loosing of the imagination:

> It will doubtless be argued that there is now no reason in theory, excluding tradition and convenience, why the king should not reside in Canada and delegate his duties in the United Kingdom to a distinguished member of his house. Some such development might, if the empire holds together, occur fifty years hence, and when the Dominion will probably outclass Great Britain in population and power, without any constitutional innovation on the principle established by the Duke of Connaught's appointment.

Here is a glorious chance for the writer of the antehistoric novel with a prehistoric plot. Put it out under some such title as "With Albert in Canada" or "His Majesty's New Flat," or even "A King by Cable" and embellish the text with plenty of democratic slush and ceremonial flapdoodle. And watch it take the place of at least four of the six best sellers.

FOR LIVE CITIES.

There is common sense in the bill before the legislature providing authority for cities to appropriate money for booster purposes. The advantages of publicity are recognized today as they never were before, and the application to municipalities of the principle that it pays to advertise has become an established factor in American city management. In every state there are cities that are profiting by a system of publicity. Sometimes the expenses incurred in the management of such a system have been met by private subscription. In other cases they are covered by the treasuries of organizations, and in yet others wholly or partly by appropriations from the city's funds.

In Minnesota the cities that have taken up the advertising end of municipal development have been handicapped by the fact that it was impossible for them to raise a publicity fund as part of the city's work. In St. Paul the council has appropriated set sums, only to find out at last that all such acts were illegal. It is proposed by the bill now under consideration to legalize such appropriations, the funds to be supplied from the income from a special tax. In the hands of good management even a moderate sum will work wonders in the way of city advertising, and the tax need not be so large as to be burdensome.

It is only right that the cities should be given the power provided in this measure. The growth of a city is a benefit to the whole community, and it is no more than just that the whole community share the cost of securing that growth.

In the program of present day conceptions of municipal work, publicity work occupies a prominent part. Live communities are using it to a great degree and with great advantage to themselves. If the proposed bill is made into a law it will help those cities that come under its provisions and care to use that method, and yet will work no injustice to others that do not see fit to act under its terms. The only suggestion The Herald sees fit to make as to the terms of the bill is that it might be made to apply to cities of 25,000 or more instead of those of 50,000 or more inhabitants. Since every city in the state that undertakes a booster campaign of any extent advertises not only itself but the state as well, such a provision would open the way to greater benefits to the state, and yet would prevent the assumption of an unwarranted burden by communities unable to carry it.

PRISONERS AND LABOR.

There is at least ground for serious consideration in the plan proposed for the county board of establishing a farm for prisoners from the county jail. St. Louis county must do something to better conditions at the local bastile, and must do something quickly. In the very nature of the plan proposed lies a rapidity in getting at the remedy that is a commendation. To begin now to build a new jail would mean that the building would not be completed for many months, during which time the present conditions would go unrelieved. In the meantime the progressing construction, by its very fact no less than on account of the expense involved, would practically prohibit the carrying out of other measures.

Advocates of the county jail farm plan claim that the work required there of prisoners sent up for drunkenness would in itself operate toward a cure of the drink habit, through the building up of a better physique and stronger will-power. Such a consummation not only is devoutly to be wished, but would be of distinct advantage to the county on account of the effect it would have on the characters and lives of some of its citizens.

In cases where a husband and father wastes the earnings of his wife and children for drink and so incurs fines which they must pinch themselves to pay, the jail farm seems to offer a solution that not only would make the man a better citizen but would force him to do at least a part of his duty by those naturally dependent on him. In his case as well as in others the present system of jail sentences is far short of the advance of humanitarianism that is working for the indeterminate sentence and other reforms in penal codes.

In a few weeks Duluth will see the annual influx of paid-off men from the northern woods. With that invasion the conditions at the county jail will almost surely become yet worse, unless some arrangement for a change is made before then. The least that can be done with the farm plan is to regard it as a possible solution of many if not of most of the problems that arise before civic and county authorities, and to investigate it as thoroughly as may be before abandoning it entirely.

Speaking of reciprocity, can't we manage to swap postal system with some of those other countries—if we pay them enough bonus?

A man may be as honest as honest can be and yet make serious mistakes and suffer big losses if he is handicapped by antiquated and inefficient methods. Same with a city.

The office boy has contributed a verse in which he tries to make "Lorimer" rhyme with "coroner." The point is obvious, but there are limits even to poetic license.

About the nearest approach to reciprocity this country has just now is with England—we exchange our foolish rich girls for their foolish poor noblemen's titles. Then England takes both commodities and pays us by sending us the details of the scandal.

Oregon has abolished the whipping post as a punishment for wife-beaters, just because it has stopped the practice in that state. Oregon is hasty. Or maybe the women have got so "uppity" that the legislature is seeking to remove the bar to their chastisement.

"I am a member of the council. I represent the First ward."

"I am a member of the commission. I represent Duluth."

TALKS WITH THE STATE PRESS

Trusts and Consistency.

Ogilvie Sentinel: A government employe is said to have tipped the defense in a trust suit in Chicago. It would be right queer if the malefactors of great wealth didn't have a government spy or two at the elbows of their prosecutors.

And most consistent if they did have such agents on the job.

Oratory and Ventilation.

Winona Independent: The Lorimer case in the United States senate is the occasion for a large amount of oratory these days. It is an important subject, however, and should be well aired, so, on with the ventilation.

Yes, obviously and noisesomely important.

"Jake" and the People.

Grand Rapids Independent: J. F. Jacobson of Lac Qui Parle will not down, and very once in a while he bobs up with something mighty good in the way of suggestions or opinions that shows his heart is in the right place, and that he is with the people all the time.

True enough, but upon one occasion it was demonstrated that the reverse proposition was not the case.

Eradicating the Senate.

Stillwater Gazette: Senator Zophy, the Socialist-Democratic member of the Wisconsin legislature, has introduced a resolution to do away with, extinguish and cause to fade from view, the whole United States senate.

Socialists often propose things that are too good to come true.

Picking Nelson's Successor.

Pillager Herald: Should Senator Knute Nelson see fit to retire at the end of his term, and, provided that the legislature remains Republican, we nominate James A. Tawney, the blacksmith; the man of principle and strong muscle capable of hammering constitutional fact into the heads of his dummy colleagues.

If Minnesota elects Nelson's successor by popular vote, how much chance will either Nelson or Tawney have?

Manahan's New Coat.

Cannon Falls Beacon: Some of the newspapers are indulging in some petty flings at Jim Manahan, because he has joined the Progressives. They seem to forget that the state of Minnesota owes a debt to Manahan that it will never be able to pay, for his services in the struggle of the people against the railroads.

Also that it's a man's privilege to decide for himself where best he can serve the people.

Back to the Land.

Long Prairie Argus: A southern Minnesota editor laments that the state immigration society brings new settlers right through that part of the state and gets them into the newer sections, and the consequence is that the southern counties are losing in population. But there is not much hope of settling up a country rapidly where land is held at a hundred dollars an acre.

Those able to buy at that price certainly would be good "settlers."

Kicking on the Quantity.

Mankato Free Press: Dr. Bracken of the state board of health, says the milk sold in this state, as a general proposition, is filthy. Whoever buys it gets some 2,000,000 bacteria in each teaspoonful. Is that all?

How many did you want, please?

Patching the Atmosphere.

Brainerd Tribune: It seems that most of the accidents to aviators are caused by "holes" in the atmosphere. When some plan shall be devised for patching the air, or avoiding the holes, the aviator will be safe at any altitude.

Take a congressman along.

Contradictory of Appearance.

Greenbush Tribune: Out in Washington the women have to swear that they are "male persons" before they can register for the city election. The women were given the ballot at the last election, but the oath has not as yet been changed by the legislature.

It is to be hoped that enjoyment of the franchise will not result in a general tendency on their part to indulge a desire to swear with mannish indiscrimination.

Coddling the Criminal.

Charles U. Nott, jr., in February Atlantic: Some figures will illustrate very well the safeguards which the law throws around persons accused of crime. In the year 1909, 6,401 cases of felony were disposed of in the county of New York. Let us see what the chances were that out of this large number an injustice could have been done as against a defendant—not as against state. The grand jury in that year dismissed 1,342 cases, leaving 5,059, no defendant as yet having been wronged. Of these 5,059 cases the district attorney recommended the discharge of defendant, or dismissal of the indictment, in 928 cases, leaving 4,131 cases, and no defendant wronged as yet. Of these 4,131 cases, 481 were disposed of in various ways (such as bail forfeitures, discharges on writs of habeas corpus, etc.) favorable to defendants, leaving 3,650 cases, and no defendant wronged as yet. Out of these 3,650 cases, 2,602 defendants pleaded guilty, leaving 1,048 cases, and still no possibility of injustice to a defendant. In 585 out of these 1,048 cases, acquittals, either by direction of the court or by verdict, resulted, leaving only 463 cases out of 6,401, in which any mistake against a defendant could have been committed. This residue of 463 cases, winnowed out of 6,401 cases, was invariably presented to juries under instructions by the court that twelve men would have to be convinced as one man, beyond a reasonable doubt, of the defendant's guilt before convicting; and in each of these 463 cases, twelve men were so convinced, and returned a verdict of guilty. The law still further safeguarded the rights of these defendants. While the state was allowed no appeal in any of the 585 cases in which it was unsuccessful, each defendant had an absolute right of appeal, and 104 appeals were taken during the year, resulting in 11 reversals of convictions, and leaving 452 cases, in the final result, in which there could have been any chance of injustice to a defendant. Of these 452 defendants many received suspended sentences, and to the remainder an application for executive clemency, or action in case of injustice, is always open.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The public never does its own business, so it's never done.

The cleverest trick a girl has is how often she can be kissed for the first time.

It's so natural for women to raise children that a few of them want to raise Cain instead.

It's awful foolish to find fault with the cook when she can get even by putting too much pepper in the soup.

All that seems to be needed for a man to get absorbed in a thing is for it not to amount to much of anything.

Angels With Wings.

Boston Herald: "What is an angel, mother?" asked a 6-year-old.

"Why, dear, it is a beautiful lady with wings, who flies. But why do you ask?"

"Because I heard father call my governess an angel."

"Oh!" said the mother. "Well, dear, you watch her and you will see her fly tomorrow."

Reassuring.

WHY IS A LEGISLATOR?

To the Editor of The Herald:

Nobody ever yet accused me of being a plutocrat.

I wear grey socks, like New England dinners, smoke a pipe and 5-cent cigars, warm my feet on the kitchen range, and would rather grub in the garden than attend a musicale. I am of the earth earthy; plebian in all my instincts; almost as much of a Populist as Sockless Simpson.

This is not all said to parade my qualities to the world, but for the purpose of proving that I am not prejudiced in favor of automobile owners, and therefore securing a hearing for what I want to say.

In last night's Herald, I noticed a little item about a Southern Minnesota legislator introducing a bill providing for the confiscation of an automobile which strikes and injuries a person, the automobile to be sold and the money turned over to the county.

Can you beat that?

I am going to suggest that the legislature pass a bill providing that if any person slips and falls on the property of that legislator, it be confiscated and the money turned over to me.

Such bills as this one sometimes make us steady, home going folk believe that it might be a good thing if legislatures were abolished entirely, and the country be given an opportunity to digest the laws it already has, and enforce some of them. I have never been quite able to see just what good the legislature accomplishes. We get all stirred up over it every two years, from fear of what it will do. I am going to run for the legislature out here in Lakeside in 1912 on a platform of voting myself out of existence as a lawmaker. Just watch my dust in 1912. Then I am going to try for the United States senate on the same platform. I am a native born citizen, and who knows? Thus does ambition "o'erleap itself" as Macbeth says. But I have a platform in any rate, and that is more than some candidates have. Your old friend,

THE LAKESIDER.

Duluth, Feb. 10.

Very noticeable in these tables is the interchange of the same article between the two nations. We see boards, deals and planks going both ways. We import from and export flour to Canada. Butter and cattle move in both directions and so of many other articles This shows how bootless are tariffs to obstruct movement of things people need, whatever may be their effect on price. The boundary line extends over 3,000 miles and very different conditions of supply and demand must exist along it. This fact doubtless accounts for much of these counter movements of like articles.

Fury of a Wounded Rabbit.

Twin Bridges correspondence Anaconda Standard: Frank Pahl and William Ehlert of Anaconda, who helped form a hunting party recently, are telling a story which sounds well for the kind of jack rabbits grown in the sagebrush hereabout. The story is told on Charlie Laier, another Anacondan, and as he does not deny it it must be true.

Ehlert and Laier are great hunters, and when Frank Pahl joined them here they were given the tip that they might see some rabbits the size of which they had never dreamed of. After having bagged fifty odd specimens Charlie blazed away at an old jack, wounding it slightly, whereupon it turned and in rage made for the hunter, who dropped his gun and shinned up a tree. After a while the calls of the treed Charlie attracted Pahl and Ehlert, who came to the rescue and bowled over the enraged jack, which was chewing the tree down in a determined effort to get at his tormentor.

Mr. Laier was nearly frozen when rescued. He says that he will have the head mounted.

Footlights and Coronets.

Westminster Gazette: Ever since one July day in 1728, when the third Duke of Bolton "ran away with Polly Peachum" and as soon as he could made a duchess of her, many a pretty actress has found her way through the stage door to the gilded circle of the peerage. Another "Polly Peachum," Catherine Stephens, wore a coronet as Countess of Essex; and a third, Mary Catherine Bolton, lived happily and died Baroness Thurlow. Anastasia Robinson, "the nightingale" of George II.'s time, won the third Earl of Peterborough for husband; Louisa Brunton was wife of one earl (of Craven) and mother of another; and Harriet Mellon, after wedding old Coutts and his moneybags, died Duchess of St. Albans. During the last twenty years or so we have seen one actress blossom into a marchioness (of Headfort); four others have married earls, and five have married barons or heirs to baronies.

NEWSPAPER ENGLISH.

Editor and Publisher: In a recent lecture on "Libraries and the Community," Bliss Perry, professor of English literature in Harvard university and formerly editor of the Atlantic Monthly, declared that the daily newspaper is in reality a true reflection of contemporary life. He also spoke highly of the historical value and the literary merits of the average daily newspaper. The English of the daily newspaper is often of a higher standard than that of books, he said, and suggested that it surpasses in quality the speech of every-day life.

Discussing the necessity of identifying real literature early in its career, and the desirability of accepting a piece of genuine literary work before its author belongs to a bygone century, Prof. Perry dealt with many relations of the library to the public, thus reaching his estimate of the newspaper. Among other things he said:

"Publishers and reviewers and professional tasters are notoriously fallible in forecasting the real impact of a book upon the public mind. The manuscript readers of eleven publishing houses, it is said, refused 'David Harum,' because they saw, accurately enough, its faults; but they saw nothing more.

"Critics have never been able to fathom the secret of Louisa Alcott's hold upon the interest of the young girl; but the fact is patent. The expert assessors of the hall of fame found out only the other day what any competent janitor of a public library could have told them for the past fifty years namely, that Edgar Allen Poe was famous.

"The library, let me repeat, must look at the goods and not merely at the label. 'Hudibras' and the 'Anti-Jacobin' and the 'Biglow Papers' are accredited examples of political satire. They are acquired and catalogued, and they are read less and less each passing year.

"The librarian should be keen-eyed enough to see that 'Mr. Dooley's' wit is as flashing and his satire as trenchant as was ever Samuel Butler's or George Canning's or James Russell Lowell's.

"The 'Odyssey' and 'Don Quixote' and 'Gil Blas' are on the accredited list of romances of adventure. It is the librarian's task to perceive that no literary canon could accept those stories and at the same time reject 'Huckleberry Finn.'

"It is true that the public will help him here, long before the professional assessors of literary values can adjust their figures to the new work of genius.

"The ideal city library, for instance, will know how to utilize newspapers, not merely as historical resources, but as an essential element in stdying and comprehending contemporary life. The library will naturally recognize, but need not concern itself unduly, with that bogey of the critics, the distinction between 'journalism' and 'literature.' Literature may safely be left to fight out its own battles. It has every advantage, and in the end it will win, just about the measure of approval which it deserves.

"There is more danger lest one who deals habitually with bound books should come to feel that whatever is manufactured into the outward form of a book acquires by that act some degree of inward literary virtue. But there is no mysterious transformation which changes poems like 'Old Ironsides' and the 'Battle Hymn of the Republic' into literature as soon as they are bound in boards. They are inherently literature, or they are not, from the beginning; and the sound librarian will not be misled by names. No publisher's juggiery can change trash into literature by binding it.

"It is often the fashion among half educated and among over educated people to decry newspapers as injurious to the cultivation of literary taste. Our children are solemnly warned in school and college against newspaper English; but who bids them beware of breakfast English, playground English, department store English, afternoon tea English, pulpit English?

"I should hazard the opinion that the average editorial column in the New York Sun, for example, is better written than the average page in the Atlantic Monthly; and that the English of both the Sun and the Atlantic is better written than that of the average book sent to those jurnals for review.

"The distinction between journalism and literature is a real one and is never likely to lose it validity, but we should not be misled by names. The library should understand boths newspapers and books, and be ready to utilize them both, in informing and training the public."

Money keeps a lot of people out of mischief by keeping them busy earning it.

Many good opportunities grow where you wouldn't think of looking for them.

You can't fool all of the people all the time, because they are as wise as you are.

In the game of life it isn't so much the cards you hold as the way you play them that counts.

A man seldom tells another how much money he makes. He either raises or lowers the actual figures.

Occasionaly a man who marries in haste spend his leisure in cultivating the acquaintance of a divorce lawyer.

It used to be said that the only good Indians were dead ones. The same might be said of husbands and other excellent people.

Popular Geography.

Mrs. Philip Snowden, the English suffragette, began, at a dinner in New York, her reply to a toast on "marriage" with the words:

"I once asked a little girl if she knew what leisure was.

"'Yes,' she replied. 'Leisure is the place where married people repent.'"

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Kansas City Journal: "How about this barefoot act you've booked for the op'ry house? Some of the leading citizens are a little worried about it."

"We have suppressed all the objectionable features."

"That's just it. We was afeered you would."

Boston Courier: Dick—I know a girl who accepts rings from men she doesn't know.

Clara—I don't believe it. How could she?

Dick—Why, she has to; you know, she's a telephone girl.

St. Louis Star: A—I am surprised to hear that young Smith who has just married old Kinman's daughter has given up his profession. Does he intend to live upon his love?

B—Not at all, my dear fellow, not at all, but—upon the father of his love!

Youngstown Telegram: A couple of young men on the Market street viaduct the other evening offered a new version of an old saw. After they had passed a couple of auburn-haired damsels one of the young men took his stand at the curb and gazed up and down the bridge.

"What are you looking for?" inquired his companion.

Pointing to the red-headed girls, the young man answered: "I'm trying to see a white automobile!"

Chicago News: "Talk erbout yore easy marks," said Uncle Silas Gershaw, who had been passing a week in the city, "us rubes ain't in it with them air 'eown chaps."

"Did yew sell 'em enny gold bricks, Silas?" queried old Daddy Squashneck.

"Naw, I didn't," answered Uncle Silas, "but I seed a feller peddlin' artificial ice—hed th' sign right on his wagon—an' blamed ef th' chumps didn't buy it fer th' real thing, by grass!"

Baltimore American: The last time I saw Bifkins he was going down hill very fast."

"Not that I know of. An angry bull was after him."

The Finish.

Catholic Standard and Times: "Isn't your new gown finished yet?"

"Oh, gracious no! the dressmaker's work on it was only completed last Saturday."

"But if the dressmaker's through, isn't that all?"

"Of course not! All my friends have to criticize it yet."

HOWLAND'S SUIT

For Alienation Against His Mother-in-Law Is Withdrawn.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 10.—John Arthur Howland's suit for $100,000 damages against Mrs. Rose O'Brien, for alleged alienation of the affections of his wife, daughter of the late John O'Brien, millionaire, was dismissed in circuit court here.

The attorney of the defendants, Mrs. Rose Carter O'Brien and others, asserted no cash consideration brought about the dropping of the suit. Howland's attorney refused to discuss the settlement, saying he was pledged to secrecy. Howland is traveling in Kansas for soap manufacturers.

A charge against Howland by Miss Sarah Hayes of Philadelphia is said to have prevented Howland from regaining his wife.

ADDRESS BY HUNGARIAN

Count Apponyi Talks to the House of Representatives.

Brings Greetings From the Old World to the New.

Washington, Feb. 10.—The interesting scene of a former speaker of the Hungarian house of representatives standing on the speaker's rostrum and addressing the lower branch of the American congress, was witnessed in the house yesterday when Count Albert Apponyi was formally presented, and brought a message of greeting to "the representatives of the New World from a representative of the Old World."

The house took a recess of fifteen minutes to permit of the exercises. Count Apponyi was warmly greeted and his address was frequently interrupted by applause. When he had finished speaking, the count held an informal reception, all the members of the house filing by and shaking hands.

After being introduced in a brief speech by Speaker Cannon, Count Apponyi spoke in part as follows:

"I am overawed by the responsibilities that rest upon me for every word said and for every word unsaid during these few minutes, I stand before you, gentlemen, not as a single individual, but as a representative of the Old World before you representatives of the New World.

"The Old World has legacies of tradition which are its pride and its burden. When your ancestors left the old world, they were privileged to take away with them the very best of the traditions and to leave behind what was the burden of them. You took with you the very best things, the very highest point of development which the old world had attained in those days, you took with you the sound, healthy, vigorous traditions of British liberty.

"You developed them and you adapted them to the conditions found in the new hemisphere to which you had come. You were people who left behind you what was burdensome in the traditions of the Old World. The mutual animosities and distrusts, the call for blood, you were enabled to leave behind you out of all the inheritance of hatred, of antagonism and animosities.

"Gentlemen, you feel it more keenly than I can express that this fortunate situation lays a great responsibility upon you and if I am to speak here before you on behalf of the Old World, I say this:

"We of the Old World, desiring to come out of the devouring waste of the ancient spirit of animosity and distrust, appeal to you for assistance to do away with the hateful legacy of hatred and war and antagonism between men who ought to be brethren.

"This is the object of my mission in America. This is what I think the spirit of the Old World has to say to the spirit of the New World, and after having delivered you this message, let me again thank you for the high honor which you have done me."

KIDNAPED FROM SCHOOL.

Youth Seeks Divorce From "Grass Widow" in Ohio.

Dayton, Ohio, Feb. 10.—Clinton Stahl, a minor, has brought suit for divorce from Della May Stahl, by his next friend, Howard B. Cromer. The petition reveals a remarkable tale of romance, inasmuch as Stahl claims that he was practically kidnaped when 16 years of age by a young "grass widow," eleven years his senior and the mother of a 5-year-old child at the time of the marriage.

Stahl abandoned his school books, awed by the attentions showered upon him, he says, and eloped to Cleveland, Ohio, where the ceremony was performed. He now charges extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty.

He alleges that his wife has threatened his life and that on one occasion she took a butcher knife to bed with her and hid it under her pillow. The petition states that she taunted him about her associations with other men while he was away working as a fireman.

DOWNFALL OF REFORMER.

Enters Plea of Guilty to Charge of Disorderly Conduct.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 10.—J. Paul Daley, white slave reformer and uplifter of fallen women, entered a plea of guilty to the charge of disorderly conduct in the police court. He admitted that he was scantily attired when the detectives found him in a room on Sixth street with Lillian Reed, a woman of the Tenderloin.

The courtroom was packed and jammed with church folk, club women and reformers, who believed the charge against Daley had been trumped up.

On the stand the woman said she and Daley heard knocks on the door, and she told him that it must be the landlady.

"Paul," she said, "jumped out of the bed, put on a few clothes and opened the door. The detectives then came in."

The woman was fined $10 and Daley was fined $19 and placed under a $100 bond for six months.

To "temporary weakness" Daley ascribes his downfall. He says he will leave town in a few days.

PRESS AGENT FOR WEDDING

How Newspapers Got Facts About the Gould-Decies Affair.

Notified When Vivien and Fiance Got Ready for a Drive.

New York, Feb. 10.—Press agent for a wedding?

Sure. Why not?

Take the Gould-Decies nuptials and the many functions germane to it, for instance. All of it was furnished to the papers and the press associations in a neat business-like way just like the theater stuff, only the Gould stuff stood a much better chance, or "chawnce" of getting into the papers.

The telephone rings at the office of a press association that supplies several thousand papers with photographs of current events. The conversation is something like this:

"Is this the Blank Press association?"

"This is Miss Righter of the Goulds. Lord Decies, Mrs. Gould and Miss Gould are to start on a drive at 3:45. Your Mr. Jones asked me to notify him about it so that photographers might be sent."

"Thank you."

So two camera men are sent to the Gould house. Then the party comes out. It is photographed descending the steps, photographed getting into the machine and then finally photographed sitting unconcernedly in the motor car and the plate is labeled, "Out for a drive on Fifth Avenue."

Good taste in the matter must be maintained, too. In the pictures Mamma Gould judiciously efaces herself behind Vivien's large turban and only the faces of the two principals show. The background shows the outline of the mother's figure for the chaperone effect.

The Bachelor Dinner.

Then the bachelor dinner is to be given. That, however, attracts little attention, but all the essential facts are given the press and it is used in the "society column." Next a few lines are allowed to "leak out" about the bride's trousseau. That is eagerly seized upon. As interest in the event seems about to lag there comes an announcement "unofficial, of course," that the engagement of Vivien's brother is likely to be announced soon, but that it is held back so as not to detract from the interest in the approaching wedding of Vivien. That is "played up" by the papers as a "feature."

Ten days before the wedding the press agent ararnges for the photographing of his lordship. The same press association that took the motor car pictures is called up. An appointment is made and the next day "My Lord" drives up to the dingy loft building beyond the "lobster square" district, past a brewery, a bottling works and an abbatoir. He alights at the entrance where roustabouts are trucking freight over a loading dock and is taken up twelve flights in an elevator that carries passengers when there is no freight. There the posing is done.

"My word," declares his lordship, "this is the second time I ever sat for my portrait, don't you know."

Then the bridegroom-to-be is shown about the plant. He expresses mild concern about everything indiscriminately and good humoredly and in a few moments the wet proofs of the picture are presented to him, approved, and half an hour copies of them are in the mails going to all the newspapers.

Getting the License.

Then the "surprise" visit to the city hall is made to get the marriage license. Everybody is gone except eighteen reporters and a dozen photographers all "tipped off" by the press agent. The bride's gown is described in the typewritten sheet. A photograph of the affidavits of both bride and groom is made and there the hungry news reading public sees it all just as they wrote it. But—

When that feature appeared the age of the bride was given in her own hand. Everyone in New York knew it anyway. She's just past 18. In his own hand is also given the bridegroom's age, 44 years. Then some iconoclastic person looks up Burke's Peerage. That good English classic gives my lord's age as 46. But then Burke's may be mistaken. Such a mistake never happened before, though.

TWO WOUNDED IN A REVOLVER BATTLE.

Cumberland, Md., Feb. 9.—Sheriff Noah Hendley, aged 50 and John Sweitzer, aged 65, a German, were probably fatally shot in a gun battle today when officers attempted to serve a writ of ejectment on Sweitzer at his home.

Sweitzer twice wounded the sheriff, one bullet entering his breast just above the heart and the other striking him in the hand. Sweitzer in turn was shot through the breast by Deputy Sheriff Walter Clay.

Item Welcomed By Many Men

This recipe can be filled at home, so that no one need know of another's troubles, as the ingredients can be obtained separately at any well stocked drug store. They are in regular use and many different prescriptions are constantly being filled with them.

This will prove a welcome bit of information for all those who are overworked, gloomy, despondent, nervous and have trembling limbs, heart palpitation, dizziness, cold extremities, insomnia, fear without cause, timidity in venturing, and general inability to act naturally and rationally as others do, because the treatment can be prepared secretly at home and taken without any one's knowledge.

Overworked office men and the many victims of society's late hours and dissipation will, it is said, find the restorative they are in need of.

If the reader decides to try it, get three ounces of ordinary syrup sarsaparilla compound and one ounce compound fluid balmwort; mix and let stand two hours; then get one ounce compound essence cardiol and one ounce tincture cadomene compound (not cardamom), mix all together, shake well and take a teaspoonful after each meal and one when retiring.

A certain well-known medical expert asserts that thousands of men and many women are sufferers all because of dormant circulation of the blood and a consequential impairment of the nervous force which begets the most dreadful symptoms and untold misery.

WOMAN'S REALM.

"Borderland Psychology considers all those mental processes that originate outside and independent of the field of attention, but may influence and even participate in our conscious states. Insistent ideas, hallucinations, hypnotic states, dreams, and neuresthenic states are among the common forms."

With this definition of Borderland Psychology, Dr. L. W. Kline opened the first of his two lectures on this subject at the library clubroom before a large audience of members of the Twentieth Century club and their friends this morning. Although a scientific lecture full of scientific analysis and expressions, his meaning was brought out clearly and strongly. He gave some very striking illustrations of the results of visional illusions and the power of suggestion. One striking illustration of the latter idea he brought up in a drawing. At first sight the drawing did not take on any form and one wondered what it could be, but he said "I presume some of you think this is a rabbit," and immediately the head of the rabbit stood out, "or some of you think it is a duck" and then you saw that it might be the head of a duck also but neither stood out until the thought was suggested.

"The object of our considerations" he said, "will involve an account of their origin, of their content and nature, of their laws of expression or appearance and lastly their hygenic treatment." He referred to the ideas expressed in the definition, in this statement.

He spoke of some of the fundamental principles of mental life and the effects their workings, though sub-conscious or pre-conscious, had upon the objective mind or the field of attention, giving some illustrations which were intensely interesting.

He said that the comparison had been made of the conscious life and the part of an iceberg which is above the level of the water and that great mass of the iceberg which is below the level of the water was likened to the other levels of consciousness.

He also compared the different levels of consciousness to a barrel of water and the ways of tapping the various levels, he said, would be taken up next week.

"The principle which asserts that our sensory impressions may become motor responses," he said, "furnishes a key to the problems of suggestion and hypnotism. If the pathways of response were always open, then all sensations and ideas and impulses would find immediate expression, the brain would constitute a great switchboard transferring incoming currents into outgoing ones."

He spoke at length on this subject and said that every action has its opposite and every action must be supplemented by belief.

He will continue his talk on the same subject next Friday morning at the same place at 10:30 o'clock.

"DULUTH BEAUTIFUL"

That Is the Aim of Duluth Rose Society.

"A More Beautiful Duluth" is the slogan of the Rose society which met yesterday at the home of Mrs. R. P. Boyington, 5804 Tioga street. Plans for an exhibit of flowers, fruit and vegetables which will be held in Duluth early in August under the joint direction of this society and the Twentieth Century club, were discussed.

Mrs. Arthur Barnes whose hybrid roses last summer were considered among the most beautiful grown in Duluth, gave an interesting talk on her care of them and Mrs. John H. Norton an instructive talk on her orchard and on the production and care of the trees and shrubs. An informal discussion of ways and methods of raising flowers followed.

The next meeting of the society will be held in March.

One American Woman Retains Influence in London Society

MRS GEORGE CORNWALLIS WEST.

This is a recent picture of Mrs. George Cornwallis West, better known to the American people as "Lady Randolph Churchill." Nobody knows exactly how old Mrs. Cornwallis West may be, but she was married thirty-seven years ago to Lord Randolph Churchill and she is the mother of Winston Churchill, the secretary of home affairs, who is a little more than 36 years old. Mrs. Cornwallis West has always been an active figupre in English social life and she is one of the leaders of the "Americans in London," about whom so much has been said lately. In fact these Americans, who are mostly American women who have married titles, were in the ascendancy in social London during the last reign because of King Edward's liking for them. Queen Mary has declared in favor of home products, however, and the Americans will be of much less influence in the social world during the present reign. But this condition does not apply to Mrs. Cornwallis West because she is really more an English woman than an American now and her son's position as a cabinet officer would guarantee her social supremacy. Mrs. Cornwallis West was a daughter of the late Leonard Jerome of New York. Among her activities was the publishing of a volume of reminiscences recently.

A Song Recital.

Alfred Wylie will present the following people in a song recital Monday evening at the Auditorium of the Young Woman's Christian association: Miss Maud Ayres, soprano; Miss Alva Jacobson, soprano; Mrs. E. E. Cammon, soprano; Mrs. August Lofgren, contralto; Mrs. Alice Tisdale, contralto; S. Theo. Johnson, tenor; W. C. Robinson, basso; Alfred Wiley, baritone; Miss Alfhild Nordby, pianist.

Costume Party.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Sons of Veterans, No. 8, will give a costume party on Wednesday evening of next week at Memorial hall in the courthouse at 8 o'clock. A short musical program will be given and refreshments served.

Lyceum Dance.

One hundred couples danced at the Spalding hotel last evening at the ball given by the staff of the Lyceum theater. Flaaten's orchestra played a delightful program of dances and late in the evening the guests were entertained by Mr. Crawford, who is singing on the Empress bill this week. He sang "I Love It."

The committee in charge of the affair was composed of: A. E. Ableson, James Allen, Gus Hanst, H. Baker, F. Baker, P. Schlender, A. Duffy, H. Hanson and A. Olsen.

Surprise Party.

Miss Edith Azine was pleasantly surprised last evening at her home, 314 East First street, by about twenty-five of her friends. They passed the evening with cards and music.

Luncheon at Club.

Miss Helen Ostram has invited guests for a luncheon to be given tomorrow afternoon at the Kitchi Gammi club in compliment to Miss Richardson.

Neighborhood Bridge Club.

THE EVENING STORY

IN DEFENSE OF CRUSTACEA

By Ranold MacPherson.

I blame Jenkins for it all. Jenkins and I were both "on the road" together, although at the moment from which I date my downfall he happened to be "on the glass."

"How's business?" he said.

"Couldn't say," I answered. "Haven't seen any for days."

"Nonstance," said Jenkins, "You're all rit!"

I expressed my doubts on the point. I was tired of being a commercial traveler, and said so.

Jenkins agreed. "Hash good of travelling?" he asked, addressing the "small special" which stood in front of him. "Cert'nly not. Chuck it. Thaash what I say."

I announced my intention of doing so, as soon as I could fix up another job.

"Qui' ri," said Jenkins, in liquid tones. "Ply 'er posht as segretary. Thash my advice, my boy. Not private segretary, mind. Segretary to'n organisation. Nothing bedder to be had."

Before we parted that evening he had advised me to enter forty-one other professions, all of them highly desirable, from picking oakum to buying a public house. The latter proposition seemed to appeal to him very strongly.

However, I decided that first thoughts were best—certainly, soberest in his case; so I scanned the advertisement columns next morning with an eagle eye. At last I found something which looked promising; it read:

"Secretary required, for benevolent association; vegetarian preferred; must be total abstainer; light duties. Apply, with copies of recent testimonials, to—"

I consulted Jenkins, and on his advice applied for the job. I also sent copies of testimonials, most of which Jenkins kindly wrote. This as he explained, insured their being "recent" enough.

On the following day came a reply asking me if I would be good enough to meet the writer—Miss G. de H. Smythe—at an office on Broadway. I decided that I would be good enough.

At the appointed time I reached the office, on the door of which was painted the legend: "Society for the Promotion of Kindness to Crustacea." I hadn't the remotest idea as to the identity of Crustacea, but I entered, firmly determined that I would treat her with all kindness. I found a grim-looking lady of uncertain age awaiting me. My heart sank. If this is Crustacea, thought I, that explains the need for the society.

I summoned up my courage and opened fire, "Excuse me, madam, but have I the honor of addressing—"

"My name," she said, cutting me short, "is Smythe—Miss Gertrude de Hawkins Smythe. Pray be seated. You came in answer to my note, I presume?"

I bowed.

She glanced critically at my testimonials.

"Are you a humanitarian?" she asked, regarding me ferociously through her pincenez.

"I am," I answered firmly. "My father was a minister of that denomination.

She regarded me skeptically, and it suddenly struck me that humanitarianism and Presbyterianism were not the same thing. "I suppose you mean, he taught his fellows to love dumb animals?"

"In his quiet way," I admitted, guardedly, remembering that the favorite amusement of my deceased male parent was dog-fighting.

Miss G. de H. Smythe seemed satisfied. "You are a vegetarian, of course?" said she.

I was about to answer, "Not for more than one course," but pulled myself up and replied with enthusiasm, "of course."

"Nothing can be more disgusting than shedding the blood of the timid sheep," she said.

I determined to show my humanity. "To my mind," said I, "the shedding of the green blood of the inarticulate, though succulent, cabbage is equally barbarous. For myself, I eat only potatoes and only those which (in spite of the blankets with which I tenderly cover them at night) are found next morning dead from frost-bite."

I thought this would impress her, but it didn't. She merely gave me a frigid stare and proceeded to discuss my salary.

The question of salary, she thought, was hardly worth mentioning, and when she named the sum her Society was prepared to pay for my services I thought so, too. But I remembered that the duties were light, and ultimately accepted.

"You see," she explained, "we vegetarians can live on less than the carnivorous, as we call the horrid meat-eaters."

Judging from what I had seen of the vegetarian paternity it seemed highly probable. I groaned inwardly.

She proceeded to explain that my duties would consist of answering correspondence, sending out pamphlets to those who wanted them as well as to those who didn't (I estimated that about 39,999,999 people didn't) and writing letters to the newspapers in defense of Crustacea.

"And the subscriptions?" said I.

Her manner became distinctly arctic as she replied: "The subscriptions are sent direct to the treasurer—that is, to myself."

"Quite so," I said, with as much fervor as I could muster.

"Your duties will commence on Monday next," she said, finally. "I think that is all."

I rose to take my leave of the Treasurer of the Society for the Promotion of Kindness to Crustacea when a sudden thought occurred to me. "I presume," I said, "that an introduction will be necessary?"

Miss G. de H. Smythe regarded me somewhat strangely. "An introduction!" she said; "to whom, pray?"

I smiled apologetically and said: "To the lady, of course."

Her gaze became more stern. "I'm sure I don't understand you," said she. "To what lady?"

I felt rather nettled. "My dear madame," I said, "I presume she will call here sometimes."

She started at me as a waiter stares at a two-penny tip. Then she rasped out: "I think you said you were a total abstainer?"

The shock made me swallow two coffee beans whole. I immediately assumed an air of outraged innocence, such as I have seen my friend Jenkins assume when a policeman, discovering him in the act of conversing with a pillar box, suggests that he should go home.

"Madame," I said, "you wrong me. I ask you, is it strange that I should wish to see the lady for the protection of whom this organization stands? How can I promote kindness to Crustacea when I don't know her from Adam—or rather from Eve?"

She applied a smelling bottle to her nose with vigor, when she had more or less recovered, she gasped: "Do you really mean to say that you don't know what the Crustacea are?"

"Is," I gently corrected.

"I said 'are,'" she repeated.

I looked the fool I thought she was and shook my head.

"The Crustacea," she explained, in a voice which was a cross between a file and a hollow-ground razor, "are an order of animals—"

"Oh, I said brightly. "Our dumb friends and all that sort of things, I see."

"Of animals," she continued, icily, ignoring my well-meant interruption, "having a hard outside shell."

"What!" I said. "You don't mean—?"

But she did not hear me. Her face took on an ecstatic smile as she continued: "Our Society is small, but not so small but what it can come to the aid of our poor shelly brothers and sisters. They, alas, are dumb. For centuries they have been voiceless, but at last—at last a brighter day has dawned. Come what may our devoted band will not cease from their labors until they have obtained freedom and happiness for every oyster, no matter how large; for every lobster, no matter how small; for every crab, no matter how backward."

"And for every solitary shrimp," I said fervently.

"Yes," she said.

"Freedom and happiness for every well developed mussel!" I cried.

She looked at me less coldly. "I see you understand," she purred. "You are with us?"

I nodded emphatically.

"You will sacrifice yourself for the noble Cause?" she asked.

"For the Cause!" I answered, striking a dramatic attitude, with my hand on my heart and my foot on one of the Society's new pamphlets.

"I am so glad you understand," she said, "for, since that is so, you won't need any salary. I am so glad."

I met Jenkins a few hours later and he comes out of the hospital next Thursday.

THE KITCHEN

Hungarian Goulash.

Put a quarter of a pound of butter into a stewpan and place over a moderate heat. When, melted, add a small onion, well chopped, and fry to a light brown. Add a pound of good beef steak, freed from fat and skin, and cut into dice; season with salt and pepper and fry gently for ten minutes. Dredge light with flour, stir in rather more than a quarter of a pint of stock, or failing stock, water in which vegetables have been boiled, flavored with a little meat extract, and half a wineglassful of Madeira wine. Add a teaspoonful of carraway seeds, tied up in muslin, and simmer slowly. Dissolve a further four ounces of butter in a frying pan add two rather thick slices of bacon, diced, and fry. Peel and slice up two medium-sized potatoes and fry with the bacon until they are nicely browned. Drain off the frying butter, add the bacon and potatoes to the beef, cover down and simmer gently until the beef is tender. Take out the carraway seeds and serve on a hot dish.

Bengal Tomatoes.

Stamp out some fairly thick slices of bread into rounds, fry until crisp in good dripping, then drain and keep very hot. Peel eight medium-sized tomatoes, cut into thick slices, season with salt and curry powder, pour a little liquid butter over the slices, and cook for ten minutes in a moderate oven. Spread thinly on each fried crouton a little chopped chutney; arrange the tomato on top and sprinkle over with a little minced parsley. Serve very hot. Enough for three or four persons.

Apple Ginger.

Boil two pounds of loaf sugar in a pint of water until a thick syrup is obtained. Skim well and flavor to taste with essence of ginger. Peel, core and quarter two pounds of sound cooking apples, throwing each piece as it is prepared into cold water in order to preserve the color. When all are ready drain well, lay the pieces carefully in the syrup and simmer over a gentle heat until they are transparent. Remove the apples very carefully, lay them in wide-necked jars and strain over the syrup.

French Orange Cake.

Three eggs, their weight in sugar and flour, weight of two eggs in butter, one teaspoonful of baking powder, rind of a skeet or Seville orange, and enough juice to moisten. Beat butter and sugar to a cream, well beat the eggs and add alternately with the flour and orange julce; add grated rind and, last of all, baking powder. Well grease a flat or round tin and make in a brisk oven for half an hour. May be cut into fingers and iced with orange icing.

TWO RIBS BROKEN BY BED PARTNER

Pulling Off the Bed Covers Is Sometimes Very Dangerous.

When James Dowd pulled the bed clothes off of his bed partner in a lodging house on Michigan street between Tenth and Eleventh avenues west last night, the partner became so irritated that he kicked, literally. He kicked Dowd out of bed and then had him arrested for drunkenness. This morning, Dowd was suffering and Dr. I. G. Murphy was called. It was found that two ribs were broken. Dowd gave his age as 60 years and said he was a fisherman, although he had been working in the woods for some time.

reapportionment. It is the hope of those back of the bill that it can be used to embarrass, if not to defeat, an honest reapportionment measure.

The Frankson-Johnson-Moriarity bill is practically the same as the Bjorge bill of 1909. Briefly, it imposes a tonnage tax for state purposes, to be in lieu of all other state taxes, on producing mines, leaving non-producing mines to be taxed as at present. The tax is to be according to the percentage of iron in the ore, and runs from 2 cents per ton on ore with less than 49 per cent of iron to 5 cents on ore running higher than 59 per cent.

The revenue thus derived is to go entirely to the state, all of it to go to the general revenue fund except that the state school and university fund is to receive an amount equal to what would accrue to that fund if the direct state tax for school and university purposes were applied.

The Bill's Provisions.

The text of the bill follows:

Section 1. For the purpose of taxation lands containing iron ore are hereby classified as follows: Mines producing 20,000 long tons, or more, of iron ore during the twelve months preceding the first day of January of each year, beginning A. D. 1912, shall be known as Class "A." All other mines and lands containing iron ore shall be known as Class "B."

Sec. 2. All mineral lands shall be listed and valued by the assessor in the taxing district in which they are located, the same as other real property, at their fair cash value, including the value of the ore therein, and such valuation shall be equalized by the county board of equalization and the Minnesota state tax commission, and treated in all respects the same as other lands, except that the valuation of mineral lands, of either class, may be raised or lowered by the county board of equalization or the tax commission without affecting the valuation of other real estate in the same assessment district.

Sec. 3. The tax commission is hereby authorized to employ a mineral expert to enable it to obtain for each year a list of all the iron mines in the state belonging to Class "A," with the exact government description of the same and the name of each mine, together with the owners and operators thereof, or any other information that may be required under this act.

On or before the first Tuesday of September in each year the tax commission shall cause to be certified to the proper county auditor a correct description of each tract of mineral land belonging to Class "A," together with the valuation as equalized of mineral lands of both classes; and all of said mineral lands shall be subject to all taxes imposed upon other real estate of the district where situated, but there shall be no tax for any state purpose, levied or extended upon the books of the county auditor against any mineral lands certified, as above required, by the tax commission as belonging to Class "A," nor upon the ore taken therefrom during the year from May 1 preceding to May 1 following, on an ad valorem basis, but in lieu of such ad valorem tax for state purposes on such lands and ore there shall be levied and collected a tax upon each and every long ton of the output of such mine or mines based upon the percentage in metallic iron, when dried at 212 deg. Fahrenheit, as follows:

Ore yielding less than 49 per cent, 2 cents per ton.

Ore yielding 49 per cent or over and less than 54 per cent, 3 cents per ton.

Ore yielding 54 per cent or over and less than 59 per cent, 4 cents per ton.

Ore yielding 59 per cent or over, 5 cents per ton.

Division of Revenue.

Said tax shall be paid into the state treasury at the time and in the manner hereinafter provided and shall be credited therein as follows: An amount thereof equal to what would accrue to the state school and university fund on the valuation of mineral lands of Class "A," under the state school and university tax, shall be credited to the state school and university fund, and the remainder thereof shall be credited to the general revenue fund. Ore heretofore taken from any mine and placed in stockpiles, shall be subject to taxation for all purposes as personal property and shall not be affected by the provisions of this act; but ore hereafter taken from mines subject to a tonnage tax as herein provided, remaining in stock piles on May 1 of any year, shall be assessed the same as other personal property for all other than state purposes; but no tax for state purposes shall be levied or collected on the ad valorem basis upon ore, in stock piles or otherwise, which is subject to or which has paid a tonnage tax for state purposes, as herein provided. In determining the boundary of land containing mineral land of Class "A," which shall be exempt from ad valorem taxes for state purposes, the taxing authorities shall take the smallest subdivision according to United States government survey, upon which the mining operations for the production of such iron ore were carried on. Every person, co-partnership or corporation engaged in mining iron ore in the state after Jan. 1, 1912, shall keep an accurate account of the quantity and the average yield in percentage of metallic iron of the ore so mined; and after the report of the tax commission shall be furnished to the county auditor of any county where iron mining is carried on, said county auditor shall forthwith notify every operator and owner, if a resident of the state, of mineral lands found to belong to Class "A," giving correct description of such land; but such notice shall be sufficient if served upon any person in charge of any operating mine. And on or before the first day of December and June thereafter it shall be the duty of every person, co-partnership or corporation operating such mine or mines, to make and forward to the Minnesota state tax commission, a correct semi-annual report covering the period from May 1 to Oct. 31, and from Nov. 1 to April 30 preceding, respectively, showing the name of the mine or mines operated and the exact government description of the land upon which such mine or mines are situated, from which such ore has been mined or produced and the exact number of long tons of such ore which have been mined or produced from the land so described, and the average yield in percentage of metallic iron of the same for the six months next preceding the date of such report. Such report shall be verified by the oath of the person or the president, secretary, superintendent or managing agent of the copartnership or corporation making the same.

The tonnage tax herein imposed shall be due and payable from every such person, copartnership or corporation on Dec. 1 and June 1 for the six months covered by the report thereupon to be filed.

Sec. 4. Upon the receipt by the Minnesota tax commission of such report it shall determine from all information in its possession whether the same is correct or otherwise, and if found to be correct, said tax commission shall enter the amount of taxes due thereon in its records and shall make its certificate of the amount of taxes due thereon and file the same with the state auditor and a duplicate thereof with the state treasurer, and thereupon the state auditor shall make his draft upon such person, copartnership or corporation, engaged in the mining of iron ore on mineral lands of Class "A," for the amount of such taxes due and place the same in the hands of the state treasurer for collection; and said tax commission shall have power, in case it shall deem said report incorrect, to make its findings as to the amount of such taxes due after hearing upon notice to the person, copartnership or corporation interested, and its findings shall have the same effect as the determination of the amount of such taxes upon a report made as hereinbefore provided.

Penalty For Failure to Report.

Sec. 5. If any such person, copartnership or corporation, subject to this act, fails to make return of the number of tons of such ore mined or produced from any such mine or mines within this state, or the whole thereof, and the average yield in percentage of metallic iron of such ore, at the time and in the manner in this act provided, there shall accrue upon the tax hereby imposed a penalty in an amount equal to ten per cent of the tax so imposed, to be added to and collected with such tax. The tax commission shall in such case fix the number of tons of ore mined and the yield in percentage of metallic iron and the tax due thereon, together with such penalty, upon the best information obtainable, and shall proceed as provided when such taxes are determined upon the sworn report of the person, copartnership or corporation operating any mine belonging to Class "A." Such findings shall stand in place of the report required by this act to be made by such person, co-partnership or corporation and shall in all the courts of the state, for all purposes, be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated.

Sec. 6. The draft of the state auditor for the tax imposed by this act shall be prima facie evidence in any court where proceedings may be brought for its enforcement, that the amount thereof is due from the person, copartnership or corporation against whom the same is drawn, and if the draft is not paid within thirty days from its presentation, the same shall be delivered to the attorney general, whose duty it shall be to bring an action thereon in the district court of Ramsey county, or of the county where such mine or mines may be situated, for the amount of such draft, together with interest and the costs of the proceedings. Such tax shall draw interest at the rate of 12 per cent per annum, commencing thirty days after the same falls due. The judgment of the court, when so obtained and properly docketed, shall be a lien upon the land from which the ore may have been mined or produced from the time the tax falls due, and upon any ore contained therein or taken therefrom, and upon any machinery or apparatus used in connection therewith; and said lien shall continue without limitation, with interest at the rate of 1 per cent per month, and the said property may be sold in satisfaction of such judgment in the same manner as provided by law for the sale of property upon execution.

Sec. 7. Any person, or the president, secretary, superintendent, treasurer or managing agent of any copartnership or corporation owning or operating any such mine or mines, who shall make or sign under oath any false return of the number of tons of iron ore mined and the average yield in percentage of metallic iron in such ore, or who shall submit any other false information required by this act, shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished therefor as provided by law.

Sec. 8. All books, inventories, waybills, correspondence and memoranda relating to or used in the transaction of the business of any person, copartnership or corporation owning or operating any such mine or mines, shall, on demand by the Minnesota state tax commission or its authorized representative, be open to its or his inspection and examination. If any such person, or the president, superintendent, treasurer, secretary or managing agent or person having charge of said papers and books of such persons, copartnership or corporation, shall neglect or refuse on demand to the said tax commission or its authorized representative, access to the papers and books aforesaid, he or they shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished therefor as provided by law.

Sec. 9. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Sec. 10. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after the first day of January, 1912.

J. B. COUGHLIN OF DULUTH PRAISES LOUGHNEY & LOUGHNEY'S BAKE OVEN

Tells of His Experience in Taking Treatment By the Wonderful Invention.

J. B. COUGHLIN.

One who has never had lumbago, does not know what torturing suffering it brings. At times the pain is so severe that it seems unendurable. In addition I was troubled greatly with catarrh. I had tried everything suggested to me, but without relief. I was advised by a friend, who had been taking Bakes for nervous troubles to go to Loughney & Loughney's Bake Ovens, which I did, and there I actually received instant relief. My case is only one instance in a great many in Duluth, where the Bake Oven has brought immediate and permanent relief. I see old men and old ladies taking Bakes there, that appear to be over 80 and 90 years and getting cured, and they are all boosters for Loughney & Loughney, and I want to say to all my friends that are troubled as I was that they can get good and kind attention and the quickest of relief from those Bake Oven doctors. I am back to my work again and I got up out of bed to take the Bake Oven treatment. I'm feeling fine and I intend to keep the treatment right up till I feel sure I am completely cured, the treatments are pleasant, and they seem to have cured my catarrh completely.

Lieutenant-Governor Gordon yesterday appointed Senators Fosseen and G. H. Sullivan members of the joint committee to confer with a similar committee from the Wisconsin legislature relative to boundary disputes between the two states.

The members of the senate from the cities, including Winona, met yesterday afternoon and approved Senator Pugh's bill allowing street railway companies to give free rides to policemen and firemen in uniform. The bill is now before the senate railroad committee, and it will be acted upon soon. Senator Pugh is working hard for the bill, and also for a bill to take care of mail carriers.

The senate railroad committee will act on the Cashman distance tariff bill in a day or two. Senator Cashman having refused to consent to any amendment taking care of communities on the longer line between two competitive points, there is little doubt that the bill will be defeated, and an unfavorable report by the committee is likely.

STILLMAN H. BINGHAM.

CUYUNA RANGE FATALITY.

Deerwood, Minn., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Dooley of New York city, aged 30 years, and single, compressed air man employed by the New York Foundation company at a concrete shaft being sunk at the Interstate mine near Ironton, while descending a ladder below the air hose, fell fifty feet, breaking an arm and suffering internal injuries which caused his death twelve hours later.

The vote yesterday indefinitely postponing the S. N. Lee resolution protesting against the enactment of the Canadian reciprocity treaty was something of a surprise to the opponents of reciprocity, who had no doubt that they would be able to pass the resolution. The vote on the motion to kill the resolution was as follows:

Ayes—Borgen, Bouck, Burnquist, Campbell, Christie, Clarke, Congdon, Davis, R. C. Dunn, Edwards, Farley, Ferguson, Fuchs, Greene, Herzberg, Hillman, Hoffman, Hurley, Jellnek, Just, Keefe, Kelly, Knap, Kneeland, Kunze, J. F. The house committee on telegraph and telephone will have a public hearing Feb. 21 on the Papke bill increasing the gross earnings tax on telephones from 3 per cent to 6 per cent and the Minette bill requiring telephone companies to connect with each other at intersecting points.

The working men's compensation code presented by the commission appointed two years ago for that purpose will be taken up for a hearing Feb. 15 by a joint meeting of the senate committee on general legislation and the house committee on judiciary.

The senate labor committee yesterday afternoon took up for hearing the semi-monthly pay bill, requiring public service corporations to pay their employes every fifteen days. W. E. McEwen of Duluth appeared before the committee in behalf of the bill and it was opposed by representatives of the railroads and a number of railroad employes.

Opinion seems to be divided among railroad employes as to this measure, which passed the house with hardly a dissenting vote. On the other hand, it is argued that it is a hardship to employes to wait so long for their pay. Some railroads pay on the twenty-fifth of the month, so that a man going to work on the first day of one month has to wait nearly two months for his first pay. On the other hand it is said that thrifty employes would rather get their wages in a sizeable lump because it is easier to save something out of them that way. One stock argument against the bill is that a semi-monthly pay system would be bad for the families of workers who like to leave part of their pay envelopes in saloons, because they would have two such occasions where they have but one now.

County Option in the Senate.

The senate temperance committee will report in the V. L. Johnson county option bill in a day or two without recommendation, and will move that it be made a special order in the senate for Friday, Feb. 17.

An attempt was made to hold a meeting yesterday, but only five members appeared, and it was decided to consult the absent members before acting.

The Anti-Saloon league, which is back of the bill, may decide to amend the senate bill to cut out the counties containing the three large cities. If that is done it will constitute the only difference between the bill on which the senators are to be put on record and the bill killed in the house Tuesday.

Capt. Neil McInnis of Eveleth, a former member of the house, is here visiting his son-in-law, State Treasurer Walter J. Smith, and incidentally renewing his acquaintance with the legislature.

The house yesterday afternoon refused to change the resolution previously adopted providing for an investigation of the state drainage work. The first resolution, which was framed, it is said, by enemies of State Drainage Engineer Ralph, provided that the committee appointed according to its provisions should report findings after taking testimony. The proposed new resolution reduced the committee's powers, and provided that it should take testimony and let the house draw its own conclusions from that evidence.

The house seemed to feel that there was some subtle purpose back of the proposed change, so it voted down the new resolutions unanimously.

Speaker Dunn will appoint in a day or two the committee of five provided for by the former resolution, and the investigation will begin at once. Speaker Dunn's purposes is to select a committee that will neither prosecute nor whitewash, but will get at the facts.

My Corns Don't Hurt a Bit.

Tired, Ailing, Swollen, Smelly, Sweaty Feet, Corns, Callouses and Bunions, TIZ Cures Right Off.

Say good-bye to your corns the very first time you use TIZ. You will never know you have a corn, bunion or callous, or sweaty, tired, swollen, aching feet any more. It's just wonderful the way the pain vanishes. Rub the corn—hammer it with your fist if you wish—no more pain after TIZ than if there had never been a blemish on your feet. Doesn't that sound good to you? Doesn't it? Then read this:

"The corns on either of my toes were as large as the tablets you make to cure them. Today there is no sign of corns on either foot and no soreness. It's an up-to-date Godsend.—Sam. A. Hoover, Progress, N. C.

Just use TIZ. It's not like anything else for the purpose you ever heard of. It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principle of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. TIZ cleans them out and keeps them clean. It works right off. You will feel better the very first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore feet. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. TIZ is for sale at all druggists, 25 cents per box, or direct, if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

SNOW

The mercury took another drop last night and touched a low mark of 12 deg. below zero The moon shone last night, the air was clear and crisp and it was really a beautiful night, if one did not have to stay out too long. Clear, cold winter weather prevailed a year ago today.

The sun rose this morning at 7:21 and it will set this evening at 5:24, giving ten hours and three minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The high pressure condition that during the last twenty-four hours has moved its center from Wyoming to the Mississippi valley has caused colder weather over the whole of the latter district and in the Western lake region, South Atlantic and Gulf states. The temperature fell 20 deg. at Duluth from 8 deg. at 7 a. m. Thursday to 12 deg. below zero at 7 a. m. today. The low pressure area that has moved its center to the North Atlantic coast caused rain or snow over the Lake region, Atlantic and Gulf states. The low pressure areas overlying Alberta and Oregon have caused rain in North Pacific districts and warmer weather over the greater portion of the Northwest. This rise in temperature will reach the Head of the Lakes tonight.

SMALL BUILDING VISITED BY FIRE

Contents of Photograph Studio Are Destroyed By Flames.

The one-story frame photograph studio of O. E. Miclan at 2302 West Superior street was gutted by fire early today and the contents were totally destroyed.

The blaze, which broke out at 12:45 o'clock, is thought to have started from defective electric light wiring, although the origin is not definitely known.

The building will not be a total loss. It is owned by A. M. Miller. The structure was insured for $700. It is understood that no insurance was carried on the contents.

Mr. Moilan recently purchased the gallery from E. O. Reppe, who has since left Duluth for Florida. There was nobody in the building at the time of the fire.

ALDERMAN RECOVERS STOLEN OVERCOAT.

An overcoat, belonging to Alderman Charles E. Hoar, has turned up at the county jail.

John Appleby, one of the men who were caught redhanded while they were attempting to escape after entering the tailor shop of Alfred Olson, 1805 West Superior street, Tuesday night, had the coat in his possession after the burglary.

When Mr. Hoar called at the tailor shop yesterday to get his coat, he was notified that the garment had been stolen. Concluding that the burglars had taken it, he called at the jail and after identifying his property had no trouble in regaining it.

Pastor Is Absent.

Rev. Edward Erickson, pastor of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church, who has been conducting revival services at Ashland, Wis., for the past few days, will not return before next week. In his place, Rev. Peter Jensen will preach Sunday morning and there will be no services in the evening.

Devils Lake, N. D., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—H. A. Moe of Churchs Ferry, was re-elected president of the North Dakota Hardware association, which brought its annual convention held in this city to a close today. Otto Saugstad of Northwood was the choice for first vice president and C. T. Meir of Kramer for second vice president. Assistant United States District Attorney Edward J. Henning has been notified to have the actions dismissed. Waupoose and W. E. Johnson, a noted secret service man, worked up the cases.

PERHAPS a man shouldn't be judged by the clothes he wears—but he is. Only the very rich can afford to be careless in matters of dress. We ordinary fellows must put on a good front; if we would be prosperous we must look the part.

The young men of the West end are realizing the truth of this statement more and more, and that accounts for their coming to this store and selecting the famous

MONUMENT TO WOMANHOOD

Rev. Robert Ellwood Would Commemorate Sacrifices of American Women.

Will Address Young People's Societies of Duluth at Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Robert Ellwood, founder and pastor of the famous Boardwalk church of Atlantic City, who is in the city to address meetings Sunday at both the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., is working everywhere he goes for sentiment in favor of a monument to be erected to the memory of the women of both the North and South who suffered and sacrificed at home while the men went to war against each other.

He says that the suggestion has been favorably received in every city he has visited and that at the present time a bill is being framed at Washington appropriating the money.

This monument to American womanhood is Mr. Ellwood's hobby. His congregation at Atlantic City is unique.

This evening Mr. Ellwood will speak before the Christian Endeavor and Young People's societies of the city. The services will be held at the First Presbyterian church. The Young people of the city are invited. Superior will send a big delegation from the C. Y. P. U.

HOW SHE KEEPS HER BABY HEALTHY--TEST FREE

An easy way for any mother to raise sturdy children

So far back as the memory of man goes every mother has had her own peculiar ideas about how to keep her children healthy. But women are getting to agree on the main point more and more, and that is that it is of first importance to keep the little one's bowels open.

From the bowels comes health or sickness. Unless a child is born diseased it can be kept healthy, and made to grow to vigorous maturity, if the bowels are kept free and pure in infancy and childhood. It is the main point for the mother to look after. The amount of romping and playing a child does keeps its bowels moving naturally, but there comes a time when they overeat or eat something that does not agree, and then a laxative is absolutely necessary.

Don't wait until matters get worse—give a laxative at once. What laxative are you going to give? Stewed fruit and things of that kind? No, not when the child is really constipated. Give a scientific laxative, a formula based on forty years of experience with children. Such a laxative is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which thousands of mothers are already giving in these emergencies. It is the mainstay of the children of Mrs. J. R. Whiting of Lena, Wis., Mrs. Chas. H. Reichert, Richmond Hill, L. I., and numerous others.

Don't give pills, tablets or strong cathartics for the child doesn't need it. Go to your druggist and buy a fifty cent or one dollar bottle of Syrup Pepsin. It is mild, gentle, free from griping and exactly suited to the needs of infants and children. If you want to try it before buying write Dr. Caldwell and he will send you a free sample bottle. He has sent thousands such bottles to mothers.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill

BUTTER AND EGGS WEAK

Declines Are Reported From Values Prevailing Ten Days Ago.

Good Demand for Potatoes---Fruit Prices Are Unchanged.

The situation regarding butter and eggs still remains mixed and unsettled. Eggs from storage are much weaker from values that prevailed a week or ten days ago. The supply of storage eggs is large, storage costs are mounting up and holders find it difficult to place their offerings. The consumptive demand for storage stock is not as large as is usual at this period of the year.

The decline in the price of storage eggs had an effect on receipts of fresh eggs from the country which have been arriving in small volume intermittently. The drop in values checked the movement from the country and arrivals of fresh eggs contracted in volume on account of the weakness in the market for storage stock. Values some time ago went down quickly and were shoved up again as soon as the buying power was revived. Buyers insured themselves against a repetition of this experience by continuing to hold aloof from the market except to enter it for the purpose of meeting their most pressing requirements.

Steady values for butter did not incate any material improvement in the trade. As the week closes the outlet seems to be as fully congested as at the finish of the preceding week. Dealers are of the opinion that all large consumers are fairly well stocked with butter which was purchased when indications pointed to increased costs in the future.

These enlarged values did not materialize but the butter on hand was present for consumption and it had to be disposed of regardless of the cheapness of additional supplies which could not be absorbed until the higher priced stuff was out of the way. Dealers felt that it would be futile to cut down values further but they maintained a watchful eye for any possible outlet and showed little reluctance in making necessary concessions when large blocks of butter could be disposed of by doing so.

There have been several thousand tubs of butter exported to Europe in the last few days, but they were of little benefit to the Western trade. British markets are quoting prices lower than at any of the domestic centers in this country. It is not likely, therefore, that American speculators who have large supplies of high-priced stuff on their hands will find relief from their present predicament through foreign channels.

The potato trade has been in fairly good condition. The demand for potatoes in all markets is firm and the cold weather has served to hold up quotations. The onion market is firm and quotations are slightly higher. The cabbage situation is tight and on account of a small volume of supplies it is likely that there will be additional advances before the next crop is available. Fresh green vegetables show little change in values. Home grown stock out of storage was pressed for sale and at the close of the week prices were disposed to be easy. The volume of this business, however, is small. Most vegetables are imported to this region.

Apples in barrels are slightly higher and box apples are more attractive to buyers in consequence. Business in the latter was greatly stimulated. Other fruits are meeting with a steady demand at stationary prices. Stocks of Eastern apples are getting low. Further advances in prices are expected.

With a steady consumptive demand and a well known scarcity of supplies compared with previous years, firmness continues to rule in the prices at which every article in the canned goods and dried fruits line is being held. Spot corn is noticeably scarce and firm, while future corn is more sparingly offered by the packers who have sold up well on their capacity and are waiting for further developments, being content to wait and see what they will get out of the 1911 pack.

Raisins are bullish, according to advices from the Pacific coast. The latest reports indicate that the amount of raisins left on the coast does not exceed 18,000 tons compared with 30,000 tons at this time last year. In view of the increased cost of sweatbox stocks, most packers are unwilling to shade prices and are asking unusually high prices for the fancy seeded variety. Seedless California raisins are being closely held and jobbers believe that prices will continue to have an upward trend.

Reports from the Pacific coast indicate that supplies of dried peaches are well cleaned up, one authority placing the available supply in the coast markets at 3,400 tons, most of which are said to be in the hands of packers. The market has an upward tendency.

CHINESE OBJECT TO CONCESSIONS

Would Give No More to Foreigners or Even Borrow Money of Them.

Pekin, Wednesday, Jan. 11.—Indications are not wanting in these days, of the growing hostility throughout the country not only to the granting of foreign railway concessions but even to obtaining money from abroad for the construction of the lines which the government is anxious to build. The student body of the province of Sinkiang has issued what amounts to a proclamation practically threatening the government with war should further loans be arranged with foreigners.

Some time ago a man from the province of Hupeh appeared in the court yard of the bureau of communications and threatened, in Chinese fashion, to kill himself on the spot unless a railway concession were given him. The ruse was adopted of telling him to go back to his people and raise the necessary money by subscriptions, an impossible task, and the fellow went away rejoicing and declaring that he had obtained his concession.

Such incidents and constant threats upon the lives of ministers, are only indications of the present general hostility to what is considered the aggression of foreigners upon the integrity of China. The members of the government appear to be seriously hampered, though, in the opinion of the diplomatists here, a strong policy would dissipate or crush all absurd hostility.

It is the declared policy of the government to proceed with the building of railways, believing them to be essential to the very object which the people desire — the strengthening of China. And the government is aware, from frequent experience, that sufficient money to construct any given line is only obtainable within the country with the greatest difficulty and at higher rates of interest than it can be procured from abroad.

The explanation is that the Chinese of the wealthy class have no confidence in Chinese administration, while foreigners are in a position at all times to press for the interest and payments on loans.

The legations are of the opinion that at the proper time the government will be pleased to receive a little pressure from them with regard to the Hukuan and other loans now in abeyance, as this pressure can be made by the government an excuse to the people for compliance with foreign demands.

ON THE IRON RANGES

HIBBING PLANS FOR WHITE WAY

Proposition Is Being Favorably Considered in Hustling Range Town.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 10. — (Special to The Herald.) — Hibbing will soon have a great white way if the plans being formulated are realized. A movement has been on foot for some time to promote the proposed white way through the business portions. It is proposed to light Third avenue from a point opposite the Carnegie library northwards to the end of the avenue at North street, and also Pine street, from Third avenue to First avenue. Some of the people interested are of the opinion that only a portion of the work should be done at once, and the balance as the occasion offered. It is generally understood that a considerable amount of street paving will be laid here during this year, and that no better opportunity could ever occur for the laying of the conduits for feed wires for the proposed white way. It was generally expected that the matter would be brought up at the meeting of the Commercial club Monday, but on account of the small attendance no meeting was held. The members of the water and light commission have not yet given their views on the matter, but it is not thought that they will oppose the project if it can be made practicable. It is suggested that the lights should be about two standards to a block on each side of the road, with five lights to a standard.

THROW MONEY ON STAGE IN HIBBING

Rain of Quarters and Halves Greets Popular Musical Production.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some enthusiastic patrons of the Healy theater created a stir last night when they threw three 25 and 50-cent pieces upon the stage. The silver came chiefly from the height of the first box, which is fully a dozen feet. Some rolled over the footlights, some under the curtain, and some stayed where it was. An Italian musical act was in progress at the time, and the warm hearted southerners apparently threw their money as a reward for the players.

VIRGINIA GETS ORPHEUM SHOWS

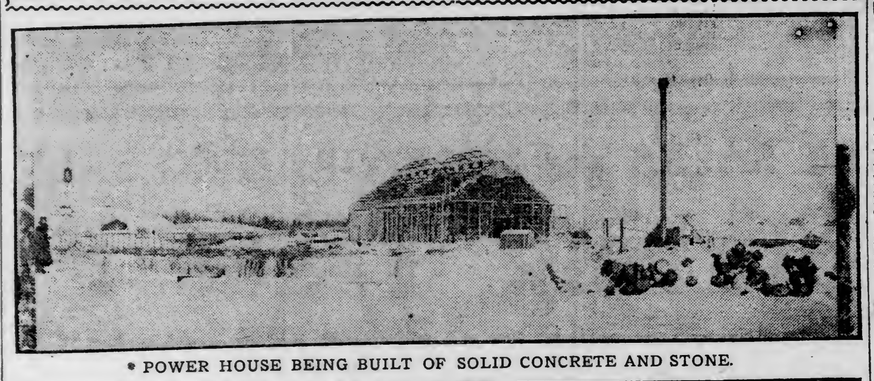

New Lyric Theater When Constructed Will Work With Duluth House.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Work on the new Lyric theater, the foundations for which were laid last year, will be begun in the early spring, according to one of the promoters of the enterprise. The original plans have been changed to a considerable extent and the building will be larger than at first planned, allowing for a seating capacity of about 1,100. The auditorium will be supplied with twenty-four boxes and the interior arrangement to conform with the modern playhouses of the country. As the building will be much larger than at first planned, the foundations will be reconstructed to conform with the new plans. Besides a large lobby and entrance, there will be two store rooms on the first floor and the second story will be fitted up for office rooms or for such other purposes as the lessees desire. The promoters of the new building, who are O. H. Griggs, J. A. Kennedy, H. J. Sigel, W. H. Eaton and a number of others, have entered into an agreement with the managers of the Orpheum circuit at Duluth whereby the new playhouse will be leased to that company, and the latter will have absolute management and control of the enterprise for a term of ten years from the completion of the building. High class shows and entertainments will be provided. The building will cost in the neighborhood of $50,000.

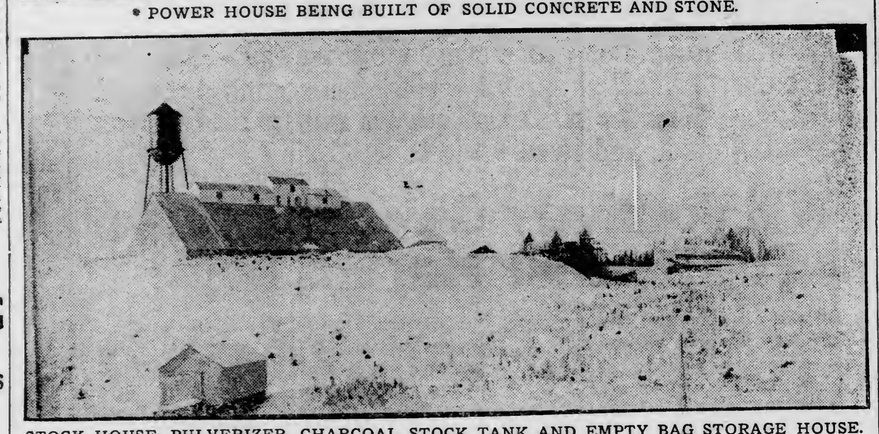

Gilbert-Eveleth Game Saturday.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Gilbert and Eveleth high school basket ball teams will meet on Vail hall floor tomorrow evening in their initial match. The visitors will be assisted by their coach, W. E. Whipperman, who will play forward. Many of the local second team will be given try-outs in the first half.

BIG DUPONT POWDER PLANT BEING CONSTRUCTED NEAR HIBBING

POWER HOUSE BEING BUILT OF SOLID CONCRETE AND STONE.

STOCK HOUSE, PULVERIZER, CHARCOAL STOCK TANK AND EMPTY BAG STORAGE HOUSE. The Salt Peter Stock House Is Shown Just Below the Water Tank. The Building Under Construction on the Right Is the Charcoal Pulverizer; Other Small Buildings Are Suplhur and Other Stock Houses.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Dupont Powder works being constructed eight miles south of here will be among the most scientific and up-to-date in existence. Every point has been carefully planned and studied, and while the manufacture of explosives is and always must be attended with risk, the plant is designed to be as safe as possible. The buildings within the danger zone are small and contain as few men as possible, in some cases only one or two, and the buildings are constructed of the simplest and lightest material that can be made to withstand cold, heat and rain. The buildings are scattered over several acres of ground and are all out of reach of the fire range in case of any one blowing up.

The buildings within the danger zone are so far apart that it has been found impossible to obtain a picture of them for the illustration. The elevation behind which the buildings rest is sufficient to protect them from flying missles in case of an explosion.

Their construction is of light material, containing no brick, stone, or concrete, making a double safeguard, in that it precludes the possibility of a spark from contact with some possible projection of steel or iron on case or box carried in or out. Also in the case of a serious explosion the missles would be small and light and the comparatively flimsy nature of the construction would offer slight resistance to the forces of the ignited gases, and the rending would therefore be less terrible, and less forceful, than if constrained within the walls of a stone, concrete or brick building.

HIBBING SCHOOL FUNDS.

Report of Treasurer Shows Independent District in Good Shape.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The report of the treasurer for Independent School District No. 27, shows a balance on hand Feb. 10, 1911, $8,823.56, deposited with the local banks as follows: $4,723.91 with the Merchants and Miners Bank of Hibbing, and $4,087.65 with the First National. The disbursements for the previous month shown by the financial report amounted to $17,125.08, and the balance on hand at the beginning of the month was $25,928.74. The total receipts during the month amounted to the munificent sum of $199.90. The report was signed by J. A. Redfern, and E. E. Kleffman of the finance committee.

HOBOES INVADE DEPOT.

Missabe Building at Zim Bothered Too Often, One Arrested.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—James Frazer, arrested at Zim and brought before Judge Prince, charged with disorderly conduct, was fined $5 and costs and being short of money, sent to Duluth today to serve his time at Sheriff Meining's hotel. Frazer is one of a gang of hoboes that have been making themselves at home in the Missabe depot at Zim to such an extent that patience ceased to be a virtue. Other arrests may be made.

To Improve Library Grounds.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The library board will ornament the grounds adjoining the building during the coming spring, having decided to purchase a number of shrubs for the purpose. The greenery will be planted as soon as the shrubs to see that their first year of life in this cold climate is not too much for them.

LIBRARY IS VERY WELL PATRONIZED

Many People Availing Themselves of Books in Two Harbors Concern.

Two Harbors, Minn., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The report of the public library for January shows the library was open twenty-five days, being closed on New Year's day. The readers and reference book workers numbered 1,447, an increase of 509 over January last year. The number of registrations was 117, of which 76 were new. Books were circulated as follows: Adult fiction, 1,020; non-fiction, 170; juvenile fiction, 537; non-fiction, 169; total, 1,896. Out of this number 112 were Swedish, 90 Norwegian and 11 French; a total of 213 foreign books as compared with 143 for the same month last year. The percentage of non-fiction was 18 as against 16 per cent last January.

Art Exhibit at Library.

On Jan. 26, 27 and 28, an art exhibit was held at the library. This consisted of 200 colored reproductions of pictures from the principal art galleries of Europe loaned by the Minnesota State Art society. This exhibit was visited by about 250 adults and 1,800 children. A feature that added considerable interest was the privilege given to each visitor of voting for his favorite picture. Murillo's "Children With the Shell," received the largest number of votes.

The Tuesday club at its last meeting took advantage of the unusual opportunity for the study of the great article that the picture afforded and instead of its regular program had papers on Raphael, Titian, Rubens, Murillo and Rembrandt.

The county board at its meeting, Jan. 14, appropriated $300 to the library fund for the establishment of the traveling library stations throughout the county. The librarian recommends that in order to get these started this month, we rent one collection of fifty volumes and three of twenty-five volumes each from the state library commission. For the ten volume collections and the lumber camps, a collection can be made from the books in the library at present.

Through the efforts of Dr. Budd the library has received during the past month from the G. A. R. Culver post, No. 123 of Duluth, a very considerable addition to its shelves, consisting of eight sets of books of historical interest.

Miss Borresen, the librarian has also prepared a list of thirty-five volumes to be recommended to the board for purchase this month.

Keep Down Your Weight

Fatty Accumulations Are Unsightly, Uncomfortable and Tend to Produce Disease.

The greatest danger that fat people encounter is with their heart. A fatty heart may cause death at any moment. Fatty liver is a very serious disorder and not any less dangerous are fatty kidneys. In fact, fat wherever it is found and ought not to be, is a menace to life and good health. The inconvenience and annoyance of deposits of fat and useless flesh are moreover an indication that the blood is unhealthy and that the stomach is not properly assimilating the food, so that people who are subject to corpulency and excessive fat should safeguard themselves against this advancing disease for which we have commonly the name, obesity.

Instead of tiresome exercise and dieting, a good way to reduce one's weight is to take the simple prescription which has been so successfully employed everywhere in making fat people comfortably slender. As long as you take the Marmola Prescription, which consists of three ingredients that can be had at any good drug store for a trifling sum, you will lose the superfluous and excessive fat and as soon as you find that you have gotten down to the weight and size you wish—you stop—and your weigh and size will neither increase nor decrease. Marmola prescription is as follows: ½ ounce Marmola, ½ ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 3½ ounces Peppermint Water, and the dose is one teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime. Can be had at any druggist for a very trifling sum—but be sure to get Marmola in the original unbroken package.

ACQUIT KORACH OF USING KNIFE

Gilbert Man Indicted for Assaulting Two Others Is Given Freedom.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The jury in the case of the state against August Korach, who was indicted by the late grand jury on three separate counts, charging him with having assaulted Louis Erjole, Louis Sever and Ignatz Poch with a knife at Gilbert, on Dec. 26, found the defendant not guilty.

Ed Johnson, indicted for assault in the second degree, is being tried upon that charge. He is alleged to have attacked Matt Koshinen with a knife at Gilbert on May 19 last.

COMMITTEE OF FIFTY MEETING

Gathering of Eveleth Civic Society Next Monday at Notable Affair.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—New features will be added to the program to be given Monday evening at Monitor hall by the committee of fifty. Rev. Phillip A Schwarz, chairman of the committee, is communicating with A. L. Zimmerman of Duluth to take part and it is expected that he will accept the invitation.

County Superintendent of Schools Noah A. Young, Supt. Barton O. Greening of the local schools and Miss Elizabeth G. Marsh of the high school faculty, the judges of the civic improvement contest expect to have their work completed by Monday morning so that the author of the winning essay can be notified in time to be present to read the paper at the gathering.

Plans are already being made for the second public gathering of the Committee of Fifty in March, with Alderman Watson S. Moore of Duluth as principal speaker.

FITZGERALD HAD JUST SOLD HOTEL

Gilbert Man Beheaded By Train Was Well Known in Village.

Gilbert, Minn., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Deputy Coroner John J. Gleason of Eveleth came here yesterday afternoon on hearing of the tragic fate of Thomas Fitzgerald, who was killed by a Missabe passenger train yesterday about 1 p. m. as he stepped from the cars at the Petit station and after viewing the body at Dowling's morgue decided an inquest unnecessary. Fitzgerald was well known here and his shocking death created a sensation. He had bid his wife goodby and stepped from the car when he slipped on an icy spot and fell sprawling right under the last coach which took off his head. He was popular and a member of the Eagles, which order will have charge of the funeral Sunday. He was 42, married and had a brother in Virginia. He had just sold the Gilbert hotel, which he ran since April of last year. He came here in July, 1909 from Virginia as truant officer.

DIVISION PLANS BEING DISCUSSED

Many in Tower Favor Three Counties, Giving Tower County Seat.

Tower, Minn., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—County division is a topic of much interest in this section at present and there are a variety of opinions on the subject. Some are against division, some in favor of division, and others in favor of division only if into three counties; Duluth and the south in one, Mesaba range another, and the Vermilion range a third. The latter plan is the one probably most in favor here. Tower would be an ideal place for a county seat and the hill to the north would furnish a sightly place for a courthouse. In the event of disvision into three counties, Tower would no doubt make a strong bid for one of the county seats.

Tower Notes Change.

The newly-elected administration has already taken the city in hand and improvement in various ways is already seen. Virginia, Minn., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The local Socialists will honor the name of Abraham Lincoln next Monday, when his birthday will be observed in a style befitting the great friend of the common people. The Socialists will take occasion to protest against many present day conditions and will especially protest against the alleged attitude of the courts in ruling against the masses.

AUTOS FOR BUSINESS.

Many Hibbing Concerns Will Install Machines Next Spring.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Hibbing will have plenty of new automobiles this spring if the present indications prove correct. Many inquiries are being received for new cars for the coming year, the tendency being toward cars for business use rather than for pleasure. The garages here report that the majority of the people who ask for particulars of the new cars this year, desire to find the comparative running cost as against covering the same distance with a horse-drawn vehicle. Several of the liveries of the ranges are finding the tremendous advantages of having some powerful touring cars in the barn to take mine officials, engineers and others out to the various properties.

TWO MORE AVIATORS FALL TO THEIR DEATHS.

Doual, France, Feb. 10.—Two more names were added to the death roll of the aeroplane yesterday. The aviators Noel and Delatorre were killed while conducting a trial of a military areoplane before experts from the war department, previous to its delivery to the army. Noel was the pilot and Delatorre a passenger.

According to the requirements of the department, Noel put the machine through its paces for an hour and the trial, which was considered in every way successful, was practically at an end. The aviators were planing down from a height of about 250 feet, when suddenly the wings folded up and the machine fell headlong to the earth. The two men were taken out dead. Their skulls were fractured and they were badly crushed.

MAN HAS AIRSHIP WITH SAFETY ATTACHMENTS.

Bing's aeroplane is equipped with spoon-shaped dips designed to keep it from upsetting while in the air, and has a number of other attachments which Bing declares will insure safety.

The machine will be tried out near Castalia as soon as it is completed.

MINNEAPOLIS CHOSEN AS CONVENTION CITY.

Chicago, Feb. 10. — Minneapolis was chosen as the place for the 1912 general Methodist conference, after the general book committee had spent almost the entire day listening to speeches, exploiting the charms of several cities. The choice must be ratified by the special convention committee. Des Moines, Iowa, and Saratoga Springs, N. Y., were named respectively for second and third choice.

The Minnesota summer climate together with the opportunity offered to work among the Scandinavian immigrants, were the chief claims presented by Minneapolis men.

Minneapolis was the second choice for the last conference. The next conference will be held in May, 1912.

Do You Enjoy Your Meals?

One of the Most Important Questions to Consider in the Search for Happiness and Health.

The burning question to you is, "Are you getting out of life all the pleasure and the health you are entitled to?" If not, why not?

No matter whether every organ and member of your body is in a sound state of health and strength, if your stomach is in any way disordered, you are not going to be "yourself." You are going to be a worried, out-of-sorts, nervous or sullen individual, whose actions will reflect your condition inside, and people will naturally avoid you.

The world wants to smile and be cheerful, and unless you are cheerful and smile, at least, occasionally, you will have few friends, fewer opportunities, no success, and you will go down in defeat—defeated by dyspepsia and a bad stomach.

A good and thorough digestion has a quick, wonderful reaction upon the brain. You must have noticed it many times, for the brain and stomach are as intimately connected as a needle and its thread, one can hardly be used to advantage without the other. If your stomach is slow and lazy in digesting your food, it will produce at once a slow, lazy and cloudy influence upon your brain. Mark it! If your stomach has absolutely quit work, and fermentation is poisoning your vitals as a result, surely your brain is going to be sluggish and correspondingly depressed. No one need tell you that.

But why continue to suffer all the miseries and torments that a disordered stomach brings you?

If your stomach cannot digest your food, what will? Where's the relief? Where's the cure?

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the relief and the cure. Why? Because, as all stomach troubles arise from indigestion and because one ingredient of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is able to thoroughly and completely digest 3,000 grains of any kind of food, doesn't it stand to reason that these little Dyspepsia Tablets are going to digest all the food and whatever food you put into your stomach? Science nowadays can digest food without having to use the stomach for it. And Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the result of this scientific discovery. They digest and digest thoroughly and well, anything and everything you eat.

So, if your stomach refuses to work or can't work, and you suffer from eructations, bloat, brash, fermentation, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn, irritation, indigestion, or dyspepsia of whatever form, just take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and see the difference. It doesn't cost you much to prove it. Then you can eat all you want, what you want, whenever you want, if you use these tablets, and you can look the whole world in the face with a beaming eye and you will have a cheerful spirit, a pleasant face, a vigorous body and a clear mind and memory and everything will look and taste delicious to you. That's life.

Get a package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store on earth for 50c a package.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Envy Her Lovely Hair?

When you see a woman who uses this dry shampoo to dress her hair instead of soap, water, soda and the like you are almost certain to witness the looks of admiration and envy which other women and girls cast at her.

The following home-made dry shampoo certainly works wonders in a short time on a frowsy, stringy, oily, dirty head of hair, be it man or woman:

Just mix 2 ounces of antiseptic vilane powder with 6 ounces of powdered orris root. Apply a tablespoonful and distribute through the hair with the fingers. Permit to remain several hours or over night and then brush and comb out all traces of it. The hair becomes beautifully lustrous, fluffy and clean-looking, often assuming a slight wave hitherto unknown.

Sleeplessness Cured:

Mr. Wm. Seaver, Onondaga, New York, says: "With gratitude and many thanks I send these few lines to let you know what your CascaRoyal-Pills have done for me. Before using them, my nights were ones of horror and misery, and I had little or no appetite; now my sleep is like the sleep of an infant, and I awake thoroughly refreshed, and feel like a new being. My appetite is something wonderful, for the first time in three years. $1,000.00 would not buy the box of pills on hand. If I could not get another. Blackburn's CascaRoyal-Pills are a Godsend to the human family, etc."

If you or any friend or relative suffer as did Mr. Seaver write for a Free trial package of Blackburn's Casca-Royal-Pills. Address, The Blackburn Products Co., Dayton, Ohio. Sold by all druggists, 10c and 25c.

DEFENSE CLAIMS VOSHALL SHOT TO SAVE HIMSELF

Sheeran Was Aggressor in Quarrel on Boat, Witnesses Say.

Complaining Witness Says Assailant Interfered in Another Fight.

The state rested shortly before the noon hour today in the case against Bradford Voshall, charged with having assaulted James Sheeran on board the steamer J. H. Bartow Nov. 4, last.

In outlining the defense to the jury on opening his case, Attorney W. A. Gurnee, counsel for the defense, stated that he would show that Sheeran was the aggressor in the quarrel from beginning to end; that he called Voshall vile names; threatened to thrash him before he went to bed; that he insulted Voshall's wife and that when the trouble finally did come there was nothing else for Voshall to do but to shoot as he was boxed in a corner, had no chance to get away and stood no chance in a fight with Sheeran because of the latter's size and strength.

A part of the defense as outlined by Attorney Gurnee was borne out by the first two witnesses he placed on the stand.

Quarrel On Docks.

N. P. Nelson, a watchman on the docks, on being called to the stand stated that he heard the two men quarreling on the docks and had ordered them to go aboard the boat and forget it.

Nelson said that Sheeran was the one who pushed the fight. He said that Sheeran threatened to whip Voshall and applied vile names to him. To none of these threats or names did Voshall respond, according to the watchman's story. When Sheeran threatened to whip him, Voshall is said to have said "all right." This is all he said during the entire argument, according to this witness.

Nelson was not on the boat at the time the actual shooting took place, but ran and boarded the craft as soon as he heard the shots. The captain told him not to arrest Voshall as the police would be there in a short time and it was their duty to make the arrest. He stayed on the boat and watched Voshall until the officers came, however, so that there would be no chance of his getting away.

Three Men Were Drunk.

John Herrwick of Cleveland, Ohio, was the next witness. He was with the men all through the evening and was near at hand when the shooting took place.

He told how the three men, he, Voshall and Sheeran, had determined to go to town early in the evening. None of them had any money, but they succeeded in borrowing $6 and all agreed that the money should be spent and each man would pay back a third of it. On coming up town the first thing they did was to enter a saloon, where they had several drinks. Then they repaired to a barber shop, where all three were shaved. After this they visited other saloons in which they were served with beer and whisky.

Herrick said they were all very drunk by the time they started back to the boat. Although Sheeran and Voshall had been having words nearly all the evening, he said that Sheeran was the agressor and that Voshall did not say a great deal back. At one time during the evening both men were in good humor and Voshall bought a postal card and Sheeran wrote both the message and the address on it, for him.

On returning to the boat he and Voshall went into the kitchen for something to eat. It was then near midnight and was just before the shooting took place. Court adjourned at this point for the noon recess.

Voshall to Take Stand.

This afternoon Voshall will take the stand in his own behalf. He will state, it is expected, that he shot in self defense after being cornered by the larger, younger and more powerful man.

Yesterday James Sheeran, the complaining witness, in telling his story on the stand, claimed that previous to the shooting he had no trouble with Voshall whatever, and that he was quarreling with another man named Murphy when Voshall, taking sides with his opponent, stepped in and shot him.

Sheeran made an excellent witness for the state. He made no attempt to elaborate on any one particular, and answered only the questions put to him by the attorneys and in a very direct way. He was very positive in all his statements.

Sheeran Tells His Story.

On returning to the steamer after their evening spent on shore, Sheeran stated that Murphy, a fireman, demanded to know why they had been gone so long. As Sheeran did not consider this any of Murphy's business, he answered with some heat, and he states that Murphy then called him a vile name.

At this Sheeran knocked Murphy down with a blow with his fist. In doing it, Sheeran did not get up from the pile of tarpaulins on which he was sitting.

Murphy, he states, got quickly to his feet, and catching up a billy, he struck Sheeran on the arm, rendering that member useless. In the struggle which followed, Murphy is said to have yelled: "Why in hell don't you shoot the ——?"

Sheeran then says that he turned to Voshall just in time to see him draw his gun and fire twice. Only one shot took effect, he says.

The case, it is expected, will go to the jury Monday. The defense has but a few witnesses, and they will probably finish by the time court adjourns this afternoon. The concluding arguments will probably be made Monday morning and the case will then be up for settlement by the jury.

SUPERIOR

BASKET BALL GAMES.

The first and second basket ball teams of the Nelson Dewey high school and the Cooper Alumni will play tomorrow evening at the Cooper gymnasium.

Last evening the Nelson Dewey Alumni defeated the Dewey high school team, 98 to 31, in a practice game. The heavy scoring on the part of the Alumni is accounted for by the fact that the high school team was trying out a number of new men.

Next Sunday night two games will be played at Central high school gymnasium. Ashland high school will send its quint to Superior to meet the Centrals. As a curtain raiser, the Cooper Alumni five will play the Duluth Y. M. C. A.

FIRST POULTRY EXHIBIT.

Superior will have its first annual poultry show next week.

The exhibition will be held at the Anderson grocery building, Fifth and Tower, and it is expected that it will be one of the largest and best in the Northwest.

A large number of birds will come from Duluth, where the show is in progress this week. One display will come from Florida and over sixty birds will come from Janesville, Wis.

There will be a big list of prizes and trophies.

HOUSE MAY BE NAMED AS ST. PAUL CITY ENGINEER.

Rumors from St. Paul say that G. O. House, engineer in charge of the improvements being made at the Northwestern Fuel company docks in Superior, may be appointed as commissioner of public works and city engineer of St. Paul. Mr. House has been a resident of Superior for the past two years, coming here from St. Paul. The appointment is to be made by Mayor Keller.

Lincoln's Day.

Members of the 1913 class of the Nelson Dewey high school, East end, have made plans for holding a Lincoln's birthday program next Monday afternoon at the school. Sunday, Feb. 12, Lincoln's birthday, special sermons will be preached in most of the Superior churches.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE BILL DEFEATED

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The woman suffrage bill was defeated in the senate yesterday afternoon by a vote of 25 to 23.

Judge Lindsay of Denver is to deliver an address before the legislature. The fact that the legislature is considering the juvenile court proposition, prompted the invitation to him.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, contrary to general opinion, is not fighting the electric headlight bill proposed by the locomotive engineers. The bill will be amended to except way freights on branch lines and switch engines.

Dean's unfair discrimination bill, against which there has been active protest from line elevator companies, will be reported out of the state senate affairs committee unfavorably. The measure as proposed by the house is designed to prevent unfair discrimination in the purchase of grain in different towns, comparative mileage considered. The report of the senate committee likely means the death of the bill.

The medical physicians of the state were successful in securing favorable action in the senate public health committee on the bill designed to control practice and the measure now goes before the upper house. On the floor it is claimed that a fight is to be waged on the measure.

The announcement that the bill for an increase in the congressional representation had passed the house of representatives has awakened interest again in the proposition of dividing the state into three congressional districts.

Speaker Hanley will name the members of the committee to investigate the charges laid against Judge Cowan this afternoon. The committee will be charged with taking evidence on the question and will very likely hold meetings at Devils Lake.

RAILROADS

MAY PASS UP DULUTH

A message from Chief Engineer H. T. Hazen of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific railway, received today at the local office of the D., W. & P. railway company, stated that Mr. Hazen would not be in this city until Sunday or later. Nothing was said of the coming of Messrs. Hanna, McLeod and Pulpen, the Canadian Northern officials who are busy in St. Paul making arrangements regarding the local terminals of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific.

The message stated that Mr. Hazen would go to Chicago, Milwaukee and possibly Winnipeg before his return to this city. The Canadian Northern officials may not come here, but may complete the details of their mission at St. Paul or Chicago.

It was expected that the officials of the Canadian Northern would return to Duluth with Mr. Hazen and that further details of the plans for Duluth would be known.

It was generally reported here yesterday that the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific would use the Union depot here, and that this plan had been decided upon. It is further stated that satisfactory arrangements have been made as to trackage rights.

No definite information was received today as to the future movements of the officials wtih Mr. Hazen.

BUYING TIES FOR CANADIAN NORTHERN.

J. J. Driscoll and F. W. Tisdale, purchasing agents for the Canadian Northern, were in the city late yesterday completing arrangements for the purchase of a number of ties for the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific. The ties are being bought in this city and will be delivered in time for use on the Virginia extension this coming spring.

According to the two purchasing agents of the Canadian Northern, a large amount of material for the new extension will be purchased in the near future.

IMPORTANT POINT ON CANADIAN NORTHERN.

W. H. Stephenson, traveling freight agent of the Lehigh Valley, and J. H. McKinnon, commercial agent for the Canadian Northern at St. Paul, are in the city today.

"Duluth will in the near future become one of the important points of the Canadian Northern system," said Mr. McKinnon today. "The completion of the extension from Virginia to this city will naturally make this city one of the big terminal points and will also serve to establish closer and more intimate traffic relations between Duluth and the Winnipeg office.

"We are increasing annually the freight between American points and Canada. You have probably also noticed the increase in passenger travel via the Duluth gateway. Both travel and tonnage should increase in the near future, which means naturally the growth of Duluth as an important point on the growing system of the Canadian Northern."

POLE STAYS WITH LION

Hackenschmidt Fails to Throw Zbyszko in Ninety Minutes.

Foreign Giants Meet in Handicap Match at Madison Square Garden.

New York, Feb. 10.—In ninety minutes of wrestling, George Hackenschmidt, the Russian Lion, failed to throw Stanislaus Zbyszko, the Pole, at Madison Square Garden last night and the match went to the Pole. Hackenschmidt had undertaken to throw Zbyszko twice within an hour and a half.

Hackenschmidt was the aggressor in the early portion of the bout and the faster, cleaner workman of the two; but Zbyszko's great weight began to tell with every additional minute and at the finish he seemed the stronger of the two.

The weights were given on the program as Hackenschmidt 219 and Zbyszko, 270, but experts thought that the Pole weighed at least ten pounds less. In spite of his huge bulk, Hackenschmidt twice heaved him over his shoulder and slammed him to the mat with all his force. The shock shook the Pole heavily, but did not lessen his strength.

For the most part Zbyszko chose a chancery hold and Hackenschmidt found trouble in working free from it. At other times the Pole tried Gotch's favorite toe hold, but Hackenschmidt, with his tremendous strength repeatedly broke it by driving his leg back like a piston.

Whenever Hackenschmidt got a half-nelson Zbyszko broke it by flipping a back somersault. For perhaps half the period they were on the mat. Toward the close of the bout Zbyszko, who had been on the defensive took the aggressive and continued to show stronger to the end. His work was rough and sometimes drew the disapproval of the crowd. He butted with his head and punched with his elbows.

No purse was announced, and there was no clear proof of superiority for either man. Technically, the Pole is the winner.

WANTS GAME AT DULUTH

St. Paul Hockey Manager After Series With Amateur League Winner.

Harry Given of St. Paul, manager of the Crocus Hills, a hockey team playing in the St. Paul Amateur Hockey league, has written to the sporting department of The Herald, asking that a game be arranged between the Crocus Hills and the winner of the pennant in the City Amateur league of Duluth.

Mr. Given writes that the season of the St. Paul league ended last Wednesday, the pennant going to the strong Phoenix team, the same aggregation that played in this city. He says further that the Phoenix team outclasses the other members of the league as the members average from 10 to 15 pounds heavier than the members of the other teams.

Most of the members of the Crocus Hills are high school boys. Given says his team is playing a fast game and would very much like to meet the winner of the Duluth pennant.

TINKER WILL PLAY THIRD

Cub Star to Insist on Covering Harry Steinfeldt's Corner.

La Crosse, Wis., Feb. 10.—When Joe Tinker signs up his contract for 1911 with the Chicago Cubs he will insist on being assigned to the third base position, if there is to be a change in that position. This is the statement made by Tinker, who is in La Crosse this week.

Tinker declares the change is a matter of lengthening his life in the baseball game. The shortstop position at which he has been a wonder in the past, he says is a grind upon a man and a player cannot possibly conserve his ability and remain in the game so long in this grueling position as he could at third base or in a position where the work was less strenuous. Tinker declares if he is given the third base position it will mean that he can remain in baseball several years longer and be as good as he ever has been and even better.

From the standpoint of the efficiency of the team, Tinker declares that a fast man at third, a man with the speed necessary to hold down short, would permit of making the third base position much more important. A fast man there, he declares, would not have to cover so much ground as at short, and consequently could use his speed to much greater advantage over a small territory and to large benefit to the whole team.

Leach Forced Out.

He declares Leach, the greatest third baseman who ever filled the place, was forced into the outfield owing to trouble with his side.

"I consider it is important to my interests and to my continued efficiency in the game that I make this move," said Tinker. "I have been at short so long the play has become more or less automatic with me. To move to third would give a man new ideas, new chance for development, new things to think about and do; it would permit him to build up new ideas, retain his pepper and fighting spirit, and I know it will mean many more years in baseball for me, than if I remain at the shortstop position.

"I will insist when I sign my contract," continued Tinker, "that I be given this position, if there is to be any change, for it certainly is to my interests. Furthermore, a man with shortstop speed at third can be a greater help to a team than many people have any idea of."

Cartmell was formerly intercollegiate champion and wore the colors of the University of Pennsylvania. Cartmell is now at Chapel Hill training. LAJOIE HAS NEW SCHEME

Frenchman Invents Play to Spoil Hit and Run Game.

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 10.—Larry Lajoie is credited with inventing a play which greatly reduced the effectiveness of the hit and run, and which limits that style of play to batters who can hit the ball to right field. His play was soon taken up in both leagues.

A bluff start by the runner on first, when the hit and run was to be played, showed whether the second baseman or shortstop would cover second to take the throw and the batter tried to hit through the position to be left unguarded. Larry saw that this could be broken up by switching orders on covering second. It was a simple play, but had long been overlooked. The batter, instead of hitting through an unguarded position, hit into a sure double play if he made a grounder. That was the end of the bluff start to see who would cover.

The necessity of both the second baseman and shortstop being able to tag out runners was another result of Larry's play. It naturally followed that the better infielder at putting the ball on the runner would take most of the throws. The latter tried to hit through the strong player's territory, taking it for granted that he would cover second. The infielders at second began to divide the work according to the batters being right or left field hitters.

The hit and run has come to be considered a good play only when the batter can hit the ball between the first and second basemen. As few can do this, the hit and run has ceased to be the style of any one team.

CALLAHAN FOR BROWNS.

Rumor Rife That Former Sox May Manage St. Louis.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—Rumors are rife here today that the St. Louis Browns may be purchased by a syndicate of wealthy Chicago men, and that Jimmy Callahan, formerly White Sox star, will be placed at their head. It is said that much of the mystery in the sale of the Browns and their subsequent return to Hedges will be cleared up at the spring baseball meeting in Chicago, and that an offer for the team will be made by the Chicago syndicate for the purchase of the club at that time.

The head of the syndicate, whose name is kept secret, is quoted as saying that if the St. Louis club is for sale and a satisfactory price is named, he can procure the money and consummate the transfer within twenty minutes.

WOLGAST LOSES BOUT BY POOR SHOWING.

Philadelphia, Feb. 10.—"Jack" O'Brien of the American A. C. announced yesterday that because of Ad Wolgast's poor showing against Knockout Brown Wednesday night, he had called off the six-round bout between Wolgast and Packey McFarland which was to have been held at the American A. C. on Feb. 22.

WITH THE WRESTLERS

Tomorrow evening at Negaunee, Mich., Karl Lehto of this city will meet Marty Cutler, the same man who was with Jack Johnson when the big buffalo was preparing for his fight with Jim Jeffries. Marty is a brother of the famous Kid Cutler, the big Bemidji boy who took the American championship away from Ordemann at Minneapolis recently.

Marty has followed in the footsteps of his famous brother and is considered one of the toughest heavies in the vicinity of Chicago, where they have some of the best in the business.

On Feb. 13 Lehto will clash in a finish match with William Demetral at Calumet. Demetral is one of the best of the Chicago brigade and the match between him and the young Finn is attracting a great deal of attention in the Copper country. Demetral is the same man who wrestled a draw with Chris Person when that gentleman did not claim that he was feeling ill.

For some time the Greek Demon, as he chooses to call himself, has been after Lehto, and the very fact that the pair are matched is attracting more than usual interest.

It is said that Demetral has improved wonderfully the past year, and this statement must be true as he only recently wrestled a match with Yussif Mahmout, a man whom some of the best wrestlers in the country are avoiding.

The match between Lehto and the Greek should be an exceedingly interesting one. The wrestling season is entering on its last half and some of the big matches of the season are yet to come. Lehto has made a splendid record so far the present season. He has several more big matches in sight, naturally the most important being the handicap match he will wrestle with world's champion Frank A. Gotch in this city.

There is no man in this part of the world, it would seem, who can wrestle on even terms with the wonderful man from Iowa, and the local promoters have about decided to make the handicap three times in an hour.

It is reported that Matsuta, the Jap whom Sailor Jack (John Blanchette) defeated in two straight falls in Ellensburg, Wash., will come to the Head of the Lakes after his match with Young Miller this evening, searching for a return match with Blanchette. This is undoubtedly at the suggestion of the St. Paul promoter and protectors of Miller, who are doing everything possible to stall out the present season without a meeting between Jack and the St. Paul man.

Ed Adamson of Chicago writes to The Herald that he has discovered one of the greatest wrestlers in the country. As the Christopher Columbus of the wrestling game Edward has the spangles in profuse collection.

The new find is Chief Hoo Hoo of the Osage tribe. Adamson encloses a photograph of his royal redskin, and in tribe regalia he looks plum imposing. Ed and the buck may be along this way.

Jack Billings, a welterweight wrestler of Stanley, Wis., a boy who claims a long record of victories, and also states that he made Fred Beell at least let out a couple of kinks to beat him, writes in that he is most desirous of a match with Sailor Jack of this city.

Billings states that he has a match with Ted Tonneman of Chicago tomorrow evening and that he will write later regarding the outcome of the match. With the return of the Sailor it is probable that a match will be arranged for the Wisconsin town.

Ole Sampson is negotiating for a match with Demetral and may wrestle the Chicago man at Ironwood. Big Ole is very strong there, for the city believe him one of the best wrestlers in the Northwest. The big Finn may be given a chance to show in Duluth before the close of the present season.

AMERICANS ARE STILL WINNING

Dunbar, Hastings and Orde Continue Their Streak at Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Man., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—The American rinks in attendance at Winnipeg's big bonspiel are still winning.

Hastings of Minneapolis is playing stronger than ever and he now looks good to again win the Caledonian event for the third successive time.

Dunbar and Orde of St. Paul seem to be invincible. Both men are playing wonderful curling games and their opponents thus far have been among the best of the Canadian curlers. They were 100 games played yesterday. The Americans all won. General regret is being expressed over the failure of the Duluth rinks to send representative rinks.

Dunbar beat the crack Thistle rink skipped by Spillette. The score was 17 to 1. The game was one of the big surprises yesterday as it was generally supposed that the Canadian would give the St. Paul man a better run.

Orde and Hastings both tallied wins.

McLEOD GOES DOWN TO DEFEAT

Crack Portage Lake Skip Downs Duluth Man at Curling.

Portage, Wis., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—After getting down to the eights and looking like a winner, McLeod's Duluth rink was defeated in a hard-luck curling contest by Kelm of Portage in the Portage Merchants event.

Up to the time of his defeat by the Portage man. McLeod looked to be about the strongest rink playing in the event. He had won a number of games and the contest lost counted in the eights.

In another event McLeod ran up against his old rival Tucker of Pardeville, Wis., and the Badger trimmed the Duluth man. The Zenith City rink hopes to get another game with Mr. Tucker.

In a telegram to The Herald McLeod states that there are several "Dunbars" playing at the Portage Lake bonspiel.

Russell of Superior lost to Wells of Portage, 11 to 6 in the Portage Merchants event. The Superior man defeated to Deysenroth, Columbus, in the second round of the Portage Hotel trophy.

The Portage Lake 'spiel is one of the most successful ever held there.

DULUTH HAS "WHITE HOPE"

C. E. Lee Discovers Man He Believes Will Steal Johnson's Crown.

At last it has struck our section of the country. Maybe Duluth will be eagerly watched over the country, the telegraph wires keeping watch like silent sentinels for every move of the bidder for fame. We have a "White Hope."

C. E. Lee is the discoverer. He is filled with optimism regarding his find. He is going to set him at work with the padded mitts and find out what he can do. If the hope comes up to what Mr. Lee believes a contender for the Johnson title should show he will put him through a course of delsarte something like the prelim course that Carl Morris is going through at the present time.

But we have a hope, that is the best of all. We have entered into the class with Salulpa, Okla., with Seattle, Minneapolis, Chicago, and Missouri, which has produced its Miles McLeod.

Here is what Mr. Lee has to say on the subject:

"Bruce," Sporting Editor, Evening Herald:

"Duluth is coming to the front in all branches of clean athletic sport, from wrestling and boxing to tennis, rowing, skiing and motor boating.

"We have champions and near champions in most every line of clean sport No one can conscientiously deny the fact that in Sailor Jack we have the making of a welterweight champion, and Brown stands nearly as well in the lightweight division of the 'scrappers.' But Duluth is yet to produce what we are all clamoring for, a white heavyweight or 'White Hope.'

"The writer thinks he has at last come across a man residing right here in our midst who has the making of a great fighter among the heavies. Wouldn't it be a fine thing if Duluth was to bring to the front a real live heavy who could wrest the honors from Johnson, who stands at the top of the world's fighters today?

"The local white hope stands six feet three inches, weights 285 pounds, and when trained down to condition could easily tip the scales at 240 to 250 and still be strong, light on his feet and fast. In fact, when it comes to strength this unpretentious hope of the Head of the Lakes is there with the goods, and at the same time is marvelously fast for so big a man, and can strike a blow like a pile driver.

"I am going to get this man into a good gym and give him a good work out. If he comes anywhere near my expectations, Mr. Mitchell and I are going to see that he gets a chance to show some of the skeptical.

"I can't at present give up his name, as he is employed with a responsible institution as superintendent, and let me further say that he is a man of education and a graduate of Chicago university, and has a record as an all-around athlete and a hammer thrower.

"C. E. Lee."

HOLDS OUT $5.00 FOR SODA WATER.

New York, Feb. 10.—"Knockout" Brown, who had the better of Wednesday night's fight at Philadelphia over Ad Wolgast, returned from the Quaker City today. He went directly to his home and dumped his share of the purse, $2,300, into his mother's lap. She peeled off $5 for him to keep spending money until he fights again, and bunked the rest. Brown is 19 years old and his sole dissipations are ice cream and soda water.

CUTLER NOW CHAMPION

Minnesota Boy Claims the Title Held By Henry Ordemann.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—Charley Cutler, local heavyweight wrestler, last night formally claimed the American heavyweight championship. He insists that his claim is well founded since he defeated Henry Ordemann last week and Ordemann is the man to whom Frank Gotch gave the title not long ago when he said that he did not intend to wrestle any more.

Further than this, Cutler says he believes he has an excellent chance of defeating George Hackenschmidt, the "Russian Lion," in their match Monday night at the Coliseum. He bases this prediction of success on the line he secured through Ordemann. The Empire club last night informed Cutler that if he made good with Hackenschmidt that he could have the March 16 date here with Frank Gotch.

EVERS WILL PLAY.

Little Trojan Has Entirely Recovered From Injured Ankle.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—Johnny Evers, the crack second sacker of the Cubs, returned from Troy, N. Y., today. Evers looks much heavier and admits that he has gained ten pounds since he left to look after his shoe business in the Eastern city. Without a cane, and with the slightest semblance of a limp, the star of Manager Chance's team looks as though he will be able to cavort around the keystone bag with all his old-time speed and cunning.

Johnny said he had given his injured member thorough tryouts while skating in the East, and had found that he was not in the least incapacitated. Incidentally he gave out the information that he would leave for the regular spring training trip Feb. 26.

FRANK BRYANT WINS TWO MORE RACES.

Frank Bryant defeated Frank Schultz of Hibbing, the skater that the range people were doping to defeat the Head of the Lakes champion on the rollers, easily at Grand Rapids, Minn., winning the race by three-quarters of a lap. Bryant also defeated a local in Chisholm last night. He will return to Duluth within a few days and will be ready to meet any of the men in this part of the country. The little Duluth flyer has made a splendid record on his trip and has shown that he is the speediest boy around these parts.

FORMER BARBER NOW A PITCHER

ED. HENDRICKS.

Southpaw Ed. Hendricks is one of the new Giant pitchers of whom McGraw expects a great deal this season. He stepped from the barber's chair to the South Michigan league and without preparation made a great record. Hendricks is a 200-pounder and has great control.

READY FOR BOWLING MEET

Duluth Teams Will Leave Next Week for I. B. A. Games.

The third annual tournament of the International Bowling association will open at St. Paul tomorrow with something like 150 teams entered. It is expected to be the biggest and most successful tournament ever held under the auspices of the new association of bowling clubs.

The tournament will be held in the new alleys on the West side, constructed at an expense of $50,000. These are the finest alleys in the West and are capacious enough to care for all the teams that have entered.

Three teams have entered from this city. The Stanley Shoe company team, the Fitgers and the Three Winners are the teams that will go from this city, though the Duluth teams will not go down until the latter part of next week, as their games are late on the schedule.

Bowlers of this city who are entered in the individual event, which will be played Tuesday, Feb. 21, are Stigler, Lindgren, Mausolf, Berini, John. Olson, Otterson, Compton, Campbell and Ferguson.

The two-men event will be contested Feb. 21, and in this event Duluth will have Campbell and Compton, Mart Nobis and Staudt, Mausolf and Anderson, Ferguson and Gay Olson, Lindgren and Stiegler, A. L. Lindgren and Massey, Olson and Berini, John and Otterson, and perhaps one other entry.

The Fitgers, Three Winners and Stanleys will be in the five-men event.

The big meet will extend over to Feb. 22, and teams are entered from Canada and practically every city in the Northwest. Bill Witherspoon of St. Paul is on about every other committee, and as he is very friendly to Duluth interests, the boys from this town are assured of a grand time.

PARK POINT AND KODAHPAS WILL MEET.

The Park Pointers and the Kodahpas will meet at hockey this evening. The Park Point boys hope to win the game this evening and retrieve some of the honors they have dropped the present season. The team has been strengthened and a very good game is expected.

The teams will line up as follows:

Park Point.	Position.	Kodahpas.
Waagatti	right wing	Taylor
R. Gillis	left wing	McCrea
J. Gillis	center	Trathern
Fisher	rover	Clark
Roberts	cover point	Caulkins
Matthews	point	McKenzie Watterworth
Charbonneau	goal	Feetham

COMISKEY THINKS LORD IS WORTH $25,000.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—Comiskey thinks he was trimmed in the Harry Lord, Amby McConnell, Bill Purtell, Frank Smith deal with the Red Sox. Listen to this right from the Old Roman:

"I wouldn't take $25,000 for Harry Lord. He is the greatest third baseman of his time. He's a wonderful hitter, a marvel at fielding bunts and a jewel as an inventor of plays. That was the best deal I ever made and just about the best one in baseball history."

POGGENBURG LEADS IN BILLIARD TOURNEY.

New York, Feb. 10.—Five of the fifteen scheduled games for the world's amateur championship billiard tournament have been decided and so far the best run and highest averages have been made by J. F. Poggenburg, who represents the home club. These he acquired yesterday in his contest with Dr. L. L. Mial, of Morristown, N. J.

Charles F. Conklin of Chicago scored his second winning bracket last night when he defeated John Meyer of Philadelphia, 400 to 326.

Refuses to Sell Franchise.

St. Joseph, Mo., Feb. 10.—Jack Holland was made an offer yesterday by Oklahoma City for the St. Joseph franchise in the Western league. He has refused to sell.

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

"Sailor Jack" Signs His Name Wilbert John Blanchette—May Claim the Welterweight Title—The Champion and the Saloon—Wolgast Appeared to Be the Better.

(BY BRUCE.)

It is time we gave to the fans of this city some history of the wrestler who will in a short time claim the world's welterweight championship and will defend the title against all comers. This chap is a champion that the lovers of wrestling and athletics in general can be proud of, for he is one of the toughest and best boys of his weight in the world.

Sailor Jack's right name is Wilbert John Blanchette and he is of French descent, as his name indicates. He has been a sailor in the United States navy and also sailed a season on the Great Lakes. Though he has crowded much into his life and has been many places, he is but 21 years of age and has not as yet come into the full prime of his athletic powers.

Jack wrestled in Liverpool, Eng., when he was in the navy and, taking the place of a man who failed to appear, he got his first start in the real wrestling game. Before this match he had won the championship of the navy.

Next he went to Buffalo and there met Capt. Massey of this city. First the Duluth boy won the amateur championship of Buffalo. Emil Ream was in Buffalo at that time. He claimed the amateur championship of Buffalo. A match was made with the sailor and the audience was lost in wonderment at the splendid development of Ream and hardly noticed the little marine, when the men were introduced.

When the sailor walked to the stage someone in the gallery yelled "dub" at the tar and this remark aroused all the fight in his system. He went at Ream and beat him so quickly that the German youth could explain little about his defeat after the match.

Jack beat Tommy Hoy and Danny Gallagher and Jack Mills. Then came his two famous matches with Conkle. Conkle agreed to beat the husky sailor in fifteen minutes. He failed and he roughed it so with his smaller opponent that the police threatened to stop the bout. Then came the next match with the wonderful wrestler of Ohio, who would only agree to beat the sailor one fall to win the match.

Those who witnessed the match and several of the sailing captains who make this city were in the audience that evening, which was something like two years ago, say it was one of the greatest matches ever wrestled in this country. Conkle beat the sailor in fifty-two minutes and not until he had torn the ligaments off his ankles and had given him so scientific a beating that the tar was unable to be around for two weeks.

Since that time, as the people of this city are well aware, Jack Blanchette has beaten Billy Schober, for many men here witnessed the match and beat Matsuta, the man Miller wrestles this evening in St. Paul. This is a small part of the record of the man the much over-rated Walter Miller is afraid to meet.

When we are on the subject of the growing controversy between Blanchette and Miller, let us pause to ask why Miller is afraid to meet the sailor of Duluth. He is afraid he will lose his title. He is faint around the heart line and in this regard he differs materially from the sailor. Miller is not looking for tough matches.

Here is one little comparison before we stop: Conkle beat Otto Suter in Cleveland—in fact, showed him a lot what wrestling is. Miller has wrestled Suter twice and has failed to get a fall in something over four or five hours of actual time.

Letting logic loose for the once, who would you consider the world's welterweight champion wrestler?

Here is what the promoters of this city will agree to do: Let Miller and Conkle wrestle here for the world's welterweight title, with the understanding that John Blanchette, the able seaman, be permitted to meet the winner in a finish match at the welterweight limit.

John Blanchette, world's champion welterweight wrestler of the United States navy, will wrestle Young Miller and agree to make the welterweight limit for the St. Paul man, at the same time permitting the "world's champion welterweight" to come in at any weight he desires.

He will wrestle Miller for charity, in an alley, in a hay mow, in a penny theater, or in an auditorium. He will wrestle Miller on the top of any of the Duluth hills or in any of the depressions of saintly St. Paul.

Here is the rather peculiar case of a man begging and even daring the champion of the world to come out and "tassle." Why should the conqueror of Ed Adamson, though Edward is not as young as he used to be, and old George Bothner and little Willie Schober, fear a tough young buck like Sailor Jack?

That question is one several hundred people are beginning to ask themselves.

Down the news pike comes the information of the intentions of Lil' Arthah Johnson to start one of those places where men stand in front of a mahogany barrier and look satisfied at themselves in the mirrors, no draped drinking place is complete without looking glasses, and get woozy in the head and tell each other what good fellows they are. A saloon has been briefly described.

When a Man Is Up and When He Is Down.

Other champions have started saloons. Here is the game. When a man is at the top of the fighting game men come to his place and feed their ego. The ego is one of the most ravenous things running loose. They shake hands with the champion and they ask him if he doesn't remember them. He answers that the face is familiar but he can't just recall the name. Then the poor gink comes through with his name and the champion says of course, and hits the rum on the back, and the rum is tickled to death.

That is when a man is at the top.

Here is where he is at the bottom.

Some fighters drift into the saloon business after they have been beaten. They keep a saloon because they can't do much of anything else. They think because they used to be champions they will draw a trade. Most times they make a fatal mistake.

The ego feeder may drop in occasionally. He doesn't go up and introduce himself to the man who is down and out as a rule. He tells the friend with him that this guy is a rum dum and Kid So-and-So knocked his can off. Then he tells his friend that there is a good example of how a man can fall. There is homage, of the mushy sort, where a guy butts in and then tells his neighbors that he knows the champion well and passes his neighbor a nickel cigar to make the awe thing stand up on its hind legs. There is hurt and humiliation, too, for the butter-in, the fresh guy is the very first to abuse the beaten man, even though that man did his best.

This is all anent the published dispatch that John Artha is going to open a saloon. He is champion now and it is very probable that the limited philosophy he is possessed of has not hurdled the immediate years and obtained a clear view of what he may be when the first successful "white hope" hits the change button on the fame register.

When two good men, especially the little fellows, meet over the six-round route, it is often hard to determine the better man. From the accounts of the Wolgast-Brown quarrel it would seem that Wolgast in a longer fight would be the master of the man who has been tearing up the lightweight ranks of the gay city of Gotham.

Wolgast Looked Really the Best.

Understand and allow for the fact that Wolgast has not been fighting for some time and it was surprising that he showed as well as he really did. He was getting better round by round and rocked the Brown party in the closing round.

There are quite a few boys with New York paper-made reputations who can't fight one, two, three with the best boys we have in the West. Much abused as he is, Wolgast is probably much better than the Harlem Tommy Murphys et al.

MEDALS ARE OFFERED FOR CITY BONSPIEL.

Medals will be offered for the city bonspiel which will be held at the Duluth Curling rink and also at the West Duluth rink next Monday. Some of the preliminary rounds will be played off in the morning and early afternoon at the two rinks, the finals being contested at the downtown rink.

Gruesson, the jeweler, has offered medals for the winners, so that the spell is taking on the characteristics of the Northwestern events. Since the announcement of the offering of the medals added interest has been taken in the events. So far there have been few entries and the officials request that the rinks send in their names as quick as possible.

CHRONIC ULCERS

INDICATE BAD BLOOD

Where the blood is pure any wound or laceration of the flesh heals "by first intention." This is true because nature has provided a constituent to the circulation known as Plasma, which joins and holds the place together until the fibres and tissues can permanently knit and interweave. Whenever the ulcer becomes chronic it is because this healing quality of the blood has been impaired by some impurity in the circulation, and the place remains open, infecting all surrounding flesh, until the character of the circulation is changed. No sore can heal where the blood is bad; because the morbid impurities on which it thrives are constantly deposited into it by the burdened circulation. Cleanse the blood and the sore will heal of its own accord, because then its very source and foundation will have been destroyed. S. S. S. cures Chronic Ulcers of every kind for the one great reason that it thoroughly purifies the blood. It goes into the circulation and removes every particle of infectious or morbid matter, enriches the corpuscles, and assists nature in the formation of the necessary plasmic qualities of this vital fluid.

SSS

No matter from what source the impurities of the blood came, S. S. S. will remove them. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free to all who write.

PASSPORT TO SOCIETY

Summed Up in the Word Extravagance, Says Mrs. Asquith.

Witty Epigram Uttered During Trial of English Slander Case.

London, Feb. 10.—Most entertaining to ordinary folk are the glimpses obtained of life in high society, in the libel suit just heard in the law courts brought by Mrs. Horace West against her father-in-law, Sir Algernon West. A society case always attracts an immense amount of attention both on the scene of action and in the newspapers.

Mrs. Horace West says that in consequence of what her father-in-law said to various persons as to the reason for her separation from her husband, which took place in April, 1908, she suffered damage in the loss of the society and hospitality of her friends, and that she was debarred from attending court and other official functions to which, as the wife of a gentleman usher, she was entitled, whereas it was owing to her husband's conduct that she was forced to leave him.

Entertaining among the upper circles is evidently an arduous affair, and from what one reads in this case, hospitality seems to be a misnomer for it. In giving her evidence, Mrs. Asquith stated that the invitations to official functions sometimes amounted to between 5,000 to 6,000, so one is only mildly surprised at finding the hostess and the guest flatly contradicting each other as to whether they had exchanged visits or not, although, at first blush, it seems a bit peculiar. When questioned, Mrs. Asquith hadn't a notion whether Mrs. West had ever attended the receptions for which she, as the premier's wife, sent out the invitations, had not noticed her name in the list and didn't know whether it had been removed or not. She also said she never had visited Mrs. West, nor had Mrs. West been her guest in Cavendish Square. Mrs. West subsequently stated that she had received an invitation from Mrs. Asquith to dine at Cavendish Square, that Mrs. Asquith had called on her and she had returned the call.

Somewhat At Variance.

Again, Mrs. West's and Lady Grove's views of their social relations seem a trifle at variance, but they evidently do things differently on those elevated planes. Mrs. West declared they were great friends until her separation, when Lady Grove cooled off and would have nothing to do with her for some time. Lady Grove, on the other hand, said she had regarded Mrs. West as merely an acquaintance.

Mrs. Horace West is an instance of the anamolous existence led by some of the people who have the misfortune to belong to smart society. At no time does she seem to have been overburdened with cash, yet to live within her means seems to have been an absolute impossibility. After she left her husband, she told the judge, owing to her husband not fulfilling a promise to provide her with furniture, she had to wander about from place to place taking furnished houses. The places she mentions at which she stayed are Ewhurst, Saint Leonards, Westgate and Bettws-y-Coed, and she added plaintively that as the season arrived at each place the houses became dear and she had to move on. The simplest plan would have been to settle down in a place which had no season, but this doesn't seem to have occurred to the lady, who chose two fashionable watering places and one of the most famous beauty spots of Wales in which to live. This prevailing tone among society women was tersely put by Mrs. Asquith, who, when asked whether she had ever heard of anyone being excluded from society on account of their extravagance, replied, "I should say extravagance is a passport to society."

GOOD PROPERTY AWAITS SOME ONE

Estates of Men Missing Since the Civil War Ended.

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 10.—A search of almost half a century for two Columbus men who left Columbus during the Civil war and who failed to return at the close of that great conflict will end when Attorney Ira H. Crum by virtue of an order by Judge E. B. Dillon of the common pleas court advertises for their heirs. The distribution of the estates of the missing men will also close the oldest piece of litigation on the common pleas court records.

During the last part of the Civil war Jonathan Reams, a wealthy resident of Columbus, died leaving quite a large estate and also a large family, of which William A. and Charles B. Reams were the sons. These two men were away to war and so when the estate was distributed trustees were appointed to take care of their shares. When the war closed the trustees began to wait and later to search for them, but no trace of them has ever been found. Trustee after trustee has handled the funds until now Mr. Crum, the latest trustee, has been granted authority of Judge Dillon to advertise for heirs.

The estates coming to the two men or their heirs consists of $1,200 in cash, eighteen shares of stock in the old Columbus & Xenia railroad and six shares of stock in the old Little Miami railroad. The stock is of great value, for although the railroads have passed out of public mind they still exist as part of the Pennsylvania system. The Columbus & Xenia road was one of the oldest roads in Ohio as was the Little Miami also. The estates will mean considerable to anyone able to convince Trustee Crum of their relationship to the two missing Reams boys.

NEW FRENCH TOYS.

The Gentlewoman: Not long ago M. Lepine, the prefect of police, organized an annual toy competition, and the toy that wins a prize becomes, so they say, hall marked and is certain to attract attention.

The chief feature this season is called "Le Circuit de L'Est," thus named after the great aeroplane race through France a few months ago. It is very cleverly contrived and shows a biplane and a monoplane revolving at a great speed around a church steeple.

Another contrivance, half toy, half race game, consists of four aeroplanes turning round a mast and rising one above the other. It contains the genuine sporting element. I noticed, too, that wild beasts are plentiful, especially bears and tigers, although monkeys also are very well represented. Altogether toys have been very ingeniously treated this year.

WORKING FOR THE NEGROES

Plan For the Spiritual Welfare of the Brother in Black.

Remarkably Liberal Offer Which Is Made by Chicago Men.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 10.—Significant among the signs of the times are the numerous new movements in behalf of the religious welfare of the colored people, especially by Southern whites. During the last three or four years there has been a more thorough and impartial study of the negro on the part of his white neighbors than ever before. A large number of new books on the subject have been issued and they have been remarkably free from the prejudice which characterized earlier productions. These books have been widely read; some are being carefully studied. The result is a general awakening of interest in negro evangelization and uplift which is manifesting itself in many ways.

The Y. M. C. A. has shown its interest in the welfare of the blacks for a number of years, but recently this interest has been quickened and this branch of the interchurch organization for young men will probably receive much more attention than heretofore. About the first of this year a powerful impetus was given to this movement by the generous offer of a Chicago capitalist. Julius Rosenwald proposes to give $25,000 to each city in the United States which will raise the sum of $75,000 for a Y. M. C. A. building for negroes. A movement is well under way for the erection of a well appointed building of this character in the negro district of Chicago, and it is expected that a number of Southern cities will take advantage of Mr. Rosenwald's offer.

Christian Endeavor Movement.

Another of the new movements in behalf of the negro is that begun by the International Society of Christian Endeavor, through a committee composed of Southern white men and negroes. At the fall meeting of the trustees it was determined that the colored people ought to have larger benefits from the Society of Christian Endeavor, and a committee was appointed to carry out a plan for the accomplishment of this purpose. The committee consists of Dr. W. J. Darby, chairman, a Southerner, though he lives at Evansville, Ind.; the Rev. Thomas Ashburn, Knoxville, Tenn.; Prof. J. L. Howe, Lexington, Va.; E. L. Philpot, Nashville, Tenn.; and F. F. Ballard, Birmingham, Ala. These are all white men, but the following negro ministers all of whom are trustees of the United Society, were appointed to co-operate: Dr. J. C. Caldwell, Nashville; Dr. W. T. Johnson, Richmond, Va., and Bishop Alexander Walters, New York city. The purpose of this new movement is threefold: To give to the young negroes the benefit that comes from Christian Endeavor work in such organizations as local and state unions—conditions in the South making it impossible for the black people to have part in the white unions; to extend Christian Endeavor into the colored denominations of the South where it does not now exist, and to encourage the white endeavorers of the South to assist in the religious development of the negroes.

Nashville a Center.

It appears that Nashville is to be the center of this undertaking. The committee met in this city in December and appointed a working committee of nine colored ministers, representing as many denominations. The chairman of this committee is the Rev. J. C. Caldwell, D. D., of Nashville, and that city is to be the headquarters. Dr. Caldwell represents the African Methodist Episcopal church, which has the largest number of endeavor societies of any colored denomination—1,800—and he has been active in the work for some years. The A. M. E. Zion church has about 300 endeavor societies, but the other negro denominations have few societies, and the first effort will be to extend the organization among them and to perfect local and state unions, so that the negroes may know something of the fellowship and inspiration which come through association in these larger organizations.

In another sense Nashville is the center of a new effort to help the Southern negroes, for it is the home of W. D. Weatherford, student secretary of the Y. M. C. A. for the South, and Mr. Weatherford has recently prepared a book entitled "Negro Life in the South," which is destined to have a large share in awakening among the white students of the South an intelligent interest in the moral betterment of the Brother in Black. This book is being used as a textbook in Y. M. C. A. study classes in a large number of Southern institutions, and one of the remarkable incidents of what seems to be a general awakening is the manner in which these college students have welcomed the opportunity to become acquainted with the needs and conditions, and put forth effort for the uplift of the colored race.

John Little's Work.

The organization of these study classes was in a large measure the work of the Reverend John Little, a Southern Presbyterian minister of Louisville, Ky., who has been for years at the head of the colored mission conducted by Presbyterians in his city. Mr. Little made a tour of Southern colleges, presenting his own work in Louisville as revealing the conditions and needs of the negroes and what could and should be done for their social and moral improvement. Besides delivering numerous other addresses, Mr. Little spoke before the students of nineteen Southern colleges, the audiences ranging from 100 to 800. In most of these colleges, if not all, study classes have been organized, Mr. Weatherford's book being used as a text book. The smallest of these classes numbers twenty and the largest 123, and at least half of the classes are led by members of the faculty.

In Mr. Little's estimation two facts which were brought to his attention on this tour are significant of the new interest in the negro. One is that in many Southern cities the white people —Southerners—are conducting religious work for the negroes, teaching negro Sunday schools, etc. The other is that numbers of earnest young college men expressed their readiness to devote their lives to some kind of work for the uplift of the negro.

THE VERSATILE FARMER.

The Craftsman: As a matter of fact the farmer is one of the very few men who are qualified to be called "all round men." His roodless workshop is at a distance from communities of any considerable size, hence he naturally and almost insensibly becomes a master, in part at least, of practically all the trades and professions; not because he is miserly o rlacking in funds but because he must grapple with things at first hand.

He becomes perforce a bricklayer, carpenter, plumber, butcher, sheepherder, swineherd, hunter, veterinary surgeon, dentist, well driller, bacteriologist, entomologist, meteorologist, horticulturist, agriculturist, pomologist and at times minister, tinsmith, watchmaker, harnessmaker, banker, doctor, lawyer and even, on occasion, an undertaker.

FARGO-DILWORTH LINE DEFERRED

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—When the Northern Pacific gave more than a year's notice that its shop train from this point to Dilworth, Minn., three miles east, would be discontinued Jan. 1, 1911, the Fargo Commercial club began an effort to have the Fargo & Moorhead Street railway extend its lines to Dilworth. The company has looked over the proposition but does not seem to enthuse much over the plan. At present there are about 800 people in Dilworth. Many of the railroad employes live in Fargo. If the shop train is abandoned more will have to move to the railroad town. The street car people think if Dilworth is larger they could afford to extend the tracks and Fargo does not want to lose any more population to make Dilworth larger.

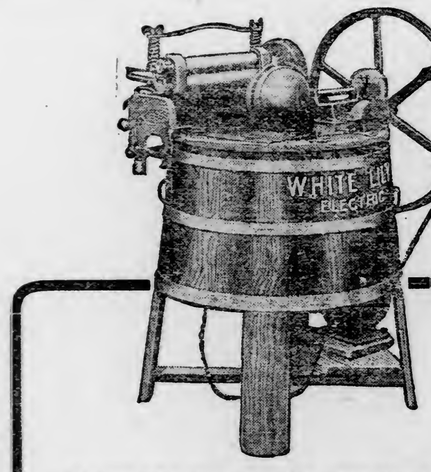

"TOM" SHEVLIN BACK FROM TRIP TO WILDS.

Thomas Shevlin, Jr., of Minneapolis, famous as a Yale football player, was in Duluth today, a guest at the Spalding. Mr. Shevlin was returning from a visit to the Canadian woods, where he devoted his attention for several days to supervising the extensive logging operations being carried on this winter by the Shevlin interests.

He left for Minneapolis on the afternoon train. Mr. Shevlin said he found logging conditions good, and added that his concern would make a large cut before the close of the season.

WORK YARD SUCCESSFUL

Many Men Given Temporary Employment While Looking for Steady Jobs.

The work-yard that was established by the Associated Charities some time ago is working "like a charm."

Although in operation but a few weeks, many men have been given work at the yard and but few of them have stayed there more than two days. Most of them have preferred to get more profitable employment and easier work. Breaking rock is not classed by them as the easiest work especially when they get but 15 cents an hour.

The Associated Charities has secured permanent work for a great number of men. They have been tried out at the yard and if it is found that they will work, they are sent to such places as the society has on its list. A great number of the men have been sent into the woods.

The police are working in connection with the Associated Charities with the result that all those who hang around saloons with no visible means of earning a living are being cleared out of the city.

The police inform them that there is plenty of work at the work yard of the Associated Charities with a good chance for a steady job if they prove to be capable and willing workmen and that if they are found loafing again they will be arrested.

"Old Timers" Leave City.

The old timers who never work are leaving the city. They would rather do this than go to work. Those who do want to work are glad of the opportunity to get started at something that they may live for a few days decently while looking for a permanent place. Many times the society furnishes the permanent work.

The work yard is taking care of several kinds of men, the men who never work are getting out and the city is being cleared of beggars and those who hang about the saloons living on the free lunches which come with the drinks that some woodsmen fresh from the woods and with a roll will purchase. There has been a remarkable decrease in the number of beggars and loafers since the yard was started. The men who really are worthy and wish employment are given a chance and this takes care of them for a time. The decrease in the number of loafers along the Bowery during the past few weeks is said to be very noticeable.

Charles Traff, an employe of the board of public works is foreman at the yard. It is located at Thirteenth avenue west and Superior street and the men are engaged in cutting down the rock on a line with Superior street.

One good feature of the work is that the city is getting more than value received out of the work. One member of the board of public works has told Mr. Dinwiddie of the Associated Charities that it is a good thing for the city, leaving out the other features altogether.

When the yard was first started some weeks ago the average was from fifteen to twenty men per day. At the present time the number averages from three to five.

It may be that when the two committees, one from the county board and the other from the city council, get together on the matter of a joint county and city workhouse that they will decide to work with the Associated Charities in cutting away the point of rocks. The city and county may take the entire matter over and if they do the society will simply turn their men, as they come in, over to whoever is in charge of the work. This will, it is stated, save money all around and simplify the matter of taking care of the short-term prisoners and also the other class that the society is at the present time trying to reach. Commissioner Joseph Cumming of the county board is known to be very favorable to this proposition.

Rev. J. T. Moody of the Bethel says that the work yard is one of the best ideas ever developed and worked out in Duluth. Mr. Moody says that the work yard has taken care of a great number of men from the Bethel who needed to be tided over until they could find regular work.

HOTEL CLERKS HAVE A UNION

"Duluth is a city or princes," was the farewell remark of Earl Byers of the Ryan hotel at St. Paul, who left Duluth this afternoon for his home after spending two days here for the purpose of pushing the organization of local hotel clerks.

"Results of my visit to Duluth have been far beyond my expectations," he said. "In the short time I have been here fifteen clerks joined the Twin City Hotel Clerks' association. That's a greater number than we have in St. Paul.

"Retaining its present title of the Twin City Hotel Clerks' association, the organization will be expanded to include Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota. There is no question but that this fraternizing will be beneficial not only to the clerks but to the hotels where they are employed as well.

"The Twin City association will be a part of the Greeters of America, which was represented here yesterday by Mr. Hawkes of Springfield, Ill. The national organization is one that is needed and it is certain to prove its worth in many ways."

The fifteen Duluth clerks who have joined the Twin City association and their hotels are: Spalding, Edwin H. Lee (honorary), C. A. Hine, H. A. McWilliams, J. Herbert Stafford; St. Louis, J. T. Michaud (honorary), Tilton E. Lewis, F. C. Bouchard, F. C. Gaylord, J. H. Dixon; Holland, Henry Dodge, J. M. Rule, Oscar Aubin; McKay, Hymen Nurick.

"The men eligible are clerks who have been employed in that capacity for not less than six months," said Mr. Byers, "and who are vouched for, if necessary, by the hotel management."

With so promising a start, the Duluth clerks look forward to a very successful career as an organized body. A number of them are expected to attend a ball to be given by the Twin City association at the Ryan hotel in St. Paul, Feb. 20.

For Breakfast Try "Sunkist" Oranges

Luscious Tree-Ripened Fruit

It is not sufficient to know that oranges are the most healthful of all fruits. It is quite as important to know the kind of oranges that are most healthful and most palatable. The very finest California oranges are now packed under the label "Sunkist." Please serve "Sunkist" oranges at breakfast tomorrow and learn the superiority of tree-ripened, seedless, fiberless oranges over the commonplace kind. Don't fail to save the wrappers.

There is so much "meat" and nourishment in "Sunkist" oranges and so little waste that, in addition to their extra fine flavor and goodness, they are really the most economical oranges to buy.

"Sunkist" Lemons Juiciest

Lemons differ as much as oranges. Pithy, thick-skinned lemons contain very little juice. You waste money when you buy them. Please ask for "Sunkist" Lemons and note how uniformly sound each one is, and what a small percentage is skin and fiber.

Get This Valuable Orange Spoon

Save 12 "Sunkist" orange (or lemon) wrappers and send them to us, with 12 cents to pay charges, packing, etc., and we will present you with a genuine Rogers Orange Spoon, of beautiful design and highest quality. Begin saving wrappers today. If you desire more than one, send 12 "Sunkist" wrappers and 12 cents for each additional spoon. In remitting, please send one-cent stamps when the amount is less than 24 cents; on amounts above 24 cents, we prefer money order, express order or bank draft. Don't send cash. We will be glad to send you complete list of valuable premiums. We honor both "Sunkist" and "Red Ball" wrappers for premiums. (32)

HEMP INDUSTRY MAY BE TESTED

Fargo, N. D., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some North Dakota farmers are investigating the possibility of developing the hemp industry in this state. There are high fibre values in the crop because of the enormous yields that can be secured in this territory and a second and a highly desirable factor in that it effectually cleans the land of all weeds.

Some experiments have been made which indicate the Red river valley soil will grow from ten to fifteen tons per acre of the straw. This will make from two to three tons of fibre. The latter is of such high quality that, when hand broken, it will readily bring from $100 to $150 per ton. With cheap labor when the straw could be broken in the winter months when there is little employment the crop would be highly profitable. There are hemp breaking machines which produce a high quality of fibre, though not so long and silky as the hand broken.

As a weed eradicator the hemp is in a class by itself, according to those who have made tests. One or two crops will effectually stamp out weeds on the worst infected fields, and make the land doubly valuable for ordinary grain crops.

Hemp grows luxuriantly in the valley. Some tests near Fargo have shown over six feet length and practically any of the land will grow it five feet.

The Manchurian hemp for seed could be raised here, but it does not possess the high fibre qualities of the regular fibre hemp nor does it grow in such length

STEEL SKI SLIDE FOR CALUMET.

Calumet, Mich., Feb. 10.—(Special to The Herald.)—It is practically certain now, that Calumet will, next year, have one of the largest steel ski slides and jumps ever built in this country and that the Calumet Ski club will affiliate with the National Ski association. This means that ski jumping tournaments comparing with those now held at Duluth, Chippewa Falls, Coleraine, and Ishpeming, Mich., will be held here. Business men of the town are backing the ski club in its plans.

LONGS ARE PUT TO ROUT

Stop-Loss Orders Cause Sharp Decline After Market Sags.

Reciprocity Talk Leading Bear Argument—Rains in Texas.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 10.—Wheat sagged lower today. The decline was sharp and selling pressure continued to the close, although there was a slight rally around noon when shorts covered. Toward the close the weakness was accentuated by the uncovering of stop-loss orders.

May wheat lost 2⅞c and July declined the same distance. The slump was the sharpest in many months and carried values lower than at any time in about two years. The result was a decline of 10c a barrel in flour prices, making a total reduction of 50c a barrel in about five weeks and carrying prices 20c lower than at any time within the last two years.

Cash wheat was ½c under May, oats closed ¾c off, rye and barley were unchanged. Durum lost 2¾c.

Flaxseed was strong. Foreign markets were higher, and the effect of a decrease of 25,000 bu in this market this week was not lost. There were few offerings and the demand was firm but not insistent. La Plata seed at Antwerp closed at $2.471 per bu, making a new record. May here advanced 2c.

The early decline in wheat was precipitate and the activity of the market indicated a renewal of selling following the evening up of trades in yesterday's bulge. The Northwestern markets were the weakest in the country as the situation in the Northwest in view of possible reciprocity with Canada, is the weakest in the United States, although the Southwest now has more cash wheat in store than it will be able to use.

The realization that 5,000,000 bu of bonded grain is at Buffalo and other markets in this country, which will become available if the reciprocity agreement is ratified or if reciprocity legislation is enacted, had a distinctly bearish effect. In this connection it must be remembered that only a small part of this is wheat that corresponds to our No. 1 northern, of which there is not much of a supply, and which would be quickly absorbed if the milling demand was normal. On the other hand it must be considered that the approximate visible supply of Canada, amounting to about 15,000,000 bu, would be piled on top of the American supply, making a total visible for this country, so far as effect is concerned, of what now amounts to the entire visible of both countries.

The weakness was assisted by the action of the British parliament in favoring the reciprocity movement, the victory of those members of the Canadian lower house who favor immediate action on the agreement and the proposal of the president of the United States to make speeches in the Central states in favor of the agreement. These speeches will be disseminated to all parts of the United States by the newspapers and are expected to help crystallize sentiment in favor of the administration's program. A political surprise was the avowal of several representatives of this and other Northwestern agricultural states to vote in favor of reciprocity legislation.

There was some shifting of speculative interest by today's down-turn as some weak longs unloaded while shorts bought moderately toward the close. There did not appear to be any new buying movement and apparently nobody has made any spreads on a theory that the reciprocity agreement will not be ratified. The popular opinion among traders is that the agreement will be ratified and placed into effect as soon as possible.

Liverpool Cables Higher.

Cables were higher but the effect on this side was lost. While the Buenos Ayres market was higher on account of rains in that country yet shipments from Argentina this week will increase over last week by about 200,000 bu. Indian shipments will increase 112,000 bu. World's shipments are larger than last week and an increase in the world's visible supply as well as increase in the supply of wheat in this country is expected.

The weakness of the Northwestern situation was further induced by the increasing supplies of wheat at the two leading primary markets. Stocks here are expected to increase 320,000 bu and stocks at Minneapolis this week have increased 250,000 bu. Receipts are still comparatively small, but that feature is insignificant compared with the bearish effect of the heavy supplies. The big increase in the Northwestern stocks is confirmatory of the theory that interior stores are depleted and that the show windows have been filled up wholly wheat at the expense of the interior stocks. Deliveries at elevators in parts of the Northwest where roads are in fair condition are said to be increasing. Some farmers seem to be imbued with the idea that prices are going to drop further on account of the reciprocity movement and that they should get rid of their wheat before a further decline materializes.

There was rain in Texas over night which caused some selling in the Southwestern markets. The weather man showed an absence of precipitation in the two leading winter wheat states.

The outside public is not interested in wheat and public speculation is at a low ebb.

The market is coming to a belief that the Armour-Lichstern holdings have been adroitly liquidated during the last two or three weeks, most of the stuff going to anxious shorts.

It was said that the foreign demand for Manitoba wheat dwindled today to small proportions.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "The market was firm at the opening with offerings light and values were ½d higher and following the opening there was good support in May. Buying was due to the light shipments from Argentina, and especially to the United Kingdom, no increase in the Argentine visible, firmness in Buenos Ayres at the close yesterday and that fact that La Plata offerings are dearer. Receipts for the three days are light and spot markets firm with an improved demand. The continent is making inquiry for cargoes off coast which are held at 1½d to 3d advance. The firmness in Winnipeg was also a factor for the steadiness. Just before mid-day there was some realizing and prices declined ¼d to ½d on the larger Australian and Indian shipments and forecasts of larger world's shipments than last week. At this time the market was easier but ¼d to ⅜d higher than yesterday. Visible supply in chief ports wheat now 3,360,000 bu; week ago, 3,360,000 bu; a year ago, 3,360,000 bu. Corn now 595,000 bu; week ago, 595,00 bu; year ago, 731,000 bu. Argentine—The wheat market is firmer on the unfavorable weather conditions for the movement, better European demand and moderate arrivals from the interior, the quality of which, however, is satisfactory. The corn market is quiet with sales very difficult to be transacted. Arrivals from the interior are very light with the quality satisfactory.

A special dispatch to The Herald after the close from Chicago said: "Prices had quite a setback today under local selling pressure. Some of the bears who covered on the swells late yesterday resold this morning. A number of big commission houses had wheat to offer on the decline. The bullish features in the early cables were ignored. The Northwest markets weakened and caused further selling pressure here. In a general way the belief that the reciprocity move will go through is creating a bearish sentiment. Trade here had a rumor this morning of a material cut in flour prices by a big Northwest mill. The cash situation is generally unchanged and the crop news favorable."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Larger World Shipments and Reciprocity Nervousness Affect Grain.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—Larger world's shipments than last week had a bearish effect today. Forwardings from Australia, India and the Argentina all showed an increase. There was also a feeling of nervousness regarding reciprocity. Many traders were disposed to believe that the tariff agreement would be a heavy handicap on prices until the question of adoption was definitely settled. Opening prices were unchanged to ¼c down. May started at 94¾@95c, the same variation from last night as the market as a whole, and declined to 94⅝c.

Rains in Texas led to considerable selling. The stoppage of cash demand was also against the bulls. The close was weak, with May at 93⅛@93¼c, a net loss of 1¾@1⅞c.

Business in corn was slow, and quotations eased off with wheat. May opened unchanged to ⅛c lower at 49⅜@49½c and fell to 49¼c.

Open buying on the part of a leading elevator concern rallied the market somewhat, but prices slid back further than before. The close was weak, with May ⅝@¾c net lower, at 48⅞@48⅞c.

Scattered selling of oats by commission houses proved sufficient to make that cereal weak. May started a shade to ⅛c under last night at 32@32⅛c, touched ⅛@¼c and descended to 31⅞c. Offerings in provisions were good, but not heavy. First sales ranged from the same figures as the previous close to 5c less, with May options at $18.05 for pork, $9.70 for lard and $9.67½ to $9.70 for ribs.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Favorable Developments of Reciprocity Depress Wheat Prices.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 10.—Developments favorable to the Canadian reciprocity treaty had a depressing influence on wheat prices, which went to further new low positions on this turn. May sold to 99¼c, the lowest price for this contract since August, 1909. Pit offerings were liberal and support was lacking. Both May and July closed 2¾@2⅞c below yesterday. Local elevator stocks of wheat increased 250,000 bu for the week in spite of decreasing receipts. Minneapolis today received 103 cars of wheat against 206 a year ago; Duluth 57 against 47 and Winnipeg 78 against 143. May opened $1.01⅞@1.01⅝; high, $1.01⅞; low, 99c; closed, 99⅛c; July opened, $1.02⅝; high, $1.02⅝; low, $1; closed, $1@1.00⅛; to $1. Cash wheat was in strong demand today. Offerings were light and the market was quoted firmer. Inquiry was best for choice spring grades. Mills principal buyers. No. 1 northern sold from unchanged to 2c above, No. hard closing $1.01⅛; No. 1 northern, 98⅝c@$1.00⅝; to arrive, 98⅝c@$1.00⅝; No. 2 northern, 95⅞@98¾c; to arrive, 95⅞@98⅝c; No. 3 wheat, 93@99½c; No. 3 yellow corn, 41⅞@42½c; No. 3 white oats, 28@28⅛c; No. 2 rye, 77½@78½c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 1,494 tons. Demand good at steady prices. Bran in 100-lb sacks, $20.75@22.00.

Flour—Market showed some further improvement again today. Shipping directions improved, although shipping instructions were light. Prices unchanged. Shipments, 40,710 bbls. Flour had spent itself the market became dull and prices receded gradually until most of the early gains were canceled. Bonds were steady.

The market closed dull and heavy. Prices fell off decisively in the closing hour and the lowest level of the day was made. St. Paul and Reading declined a point under yesterday's closing, and Atlantic Coast Line 1½. Prices generally ruled below last night. Selling increased in volume as prices went down.

Cotton Market.

New York, Feb. 10.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 2 to 5 points on a continuation of yesterday's late covering movement, but private cables regarding the labor situation in Manchester were rather less encouraging and prices here soon weakened under a renewal of local bear pressure and scattering liquidation. Expectation of a bearish week-end statement probably encouraged sellers in connection with reports of further rain in some parts of Texas and the absence of outside speculative demand.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Lowest Level of the Day Reached in the Closing Hour.

Selling Increases in Volume as Prices Drop—Close Heavy.

New York, Feb. 10.—A moderate degree of strength was shown at the opening of the stock market today, almost all the active issues advancing from last night's close. Union Pacific, Reading, United States Steel and Amalgamated Copper gained ⅜, New York Central ½ and Chesapeake & Ohio ⅝. National Biscuit declined ⅝ following the announcement of an increase in its dividend rate and Northern Pacific lost ½.

The improvement of the opening brought out substantial buying orders and prices advanced further. The Gould stocks and other low-priced issues were in especially good demand and responded buoyantly to bullish operations. Reading moved in a feverish fashion between 160¾ and 161½, but the rest of the market showed a more stable tone. Union Pacific improving 1 and Missouri Pacific 1½. Near 11 o'clock the marget yielded a sharp fraction on realizing sales.

Uncertainty as to the character of the United States Steel corporation's monthly report of unfilled tonnage today caused traders to restrict their operations. After the buying movement of the first hour had spent itself the market became dull and prices receded gradually until most of the early gains were canceled. Bonds were steady.

The market closed dull and heavy. Prices fell off decisively in the closing hour and the lowest level of the day was made. St. Paul and Reading declined a point under yesterday's closing, and Atlantic Coast Line 1½. Prices generally ruled below last night. Selling increased in volume as prices went down.

RECIPROCITY WILL BENEFIT FARMERS

President Makes It Clear in Speech at Corn Exposition.

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 10.—Reciprocity with Canada will benefit the United States farmer, manufacturer, railroad company, middleman, warehouse man. This was the declaration made by President Taft in an address made here today at the National Corn exposition. "All will be the gainer," he said.

While his speech was devoted especially to showing that the farmer had nothing to fear, but that he had much to gain, he attempted to prove also that all other interests of the country would be benefited by the proposed reciprocity.

"We have the pioneer energy pushed on to the Pacific," the president said, "and taken up all the good lands. We are now spending millions to reclaim the arid and semi-arid lands of the Great Western desert. Should we not by taking down a useless and unnecessary tariff wall bring within our agricultural resources the great plains of the Northwest when they can bring to us what we need and that without hurting our own people?"

Answers Criticism.

The president expressed the opinion that in addressing a corn exposition audience, it would be particularly appropriate for him to answer the criticism which had been made of the agreement, "as an attack upon the farmer by depriving him of protection."

"It is said to be a manufacturers' agreement," he continued. "That is, in the interest of the manufacturing classes and adverse to the farmer.

"I am a Republican and the Republican party has always advocated and pursued a policy of protection to American products and manufactures. For a long time the policy had little or no limitation. It was thought that tariffs on protected products could not be too high, that if all foreign products were excluded, competition would stimulate production and reduce its cost and its price. The temptation to destroy competition by combinations became so great, however, that the party in its platform modified its policy and imposed the limitation that the tariff should be limited for purposes of protection to the difference between the cost of production in this country and the cost of production abroad with an allowance for a reasonable profit to the American producer.

"The principle of production thus stated takes away the justification for any tariff whatever by way of protection, on articles imported from a country where the conditions as to labor and other circumstances are the same as in ours and thus makes the cost of production substantially the same.

Canada Our Neighbor.

"Canada is our neighbor on the north for 3,000 miles. Her population is English, Scotch and French. Her soil is like ours. Her traditions are the same as ours. Her language is ours. Her climate is temperate like ours, except that her growing seasons are shorter and she cannot raise corn in any great quantities. She has a free popular government with a wage earning class as intelligent and as well paid as ours. It is difficult to see in what respect her farmers have any advantage over our own except in virgin soil in the far Northwest.

"How is the farmer to be hurt?" he asked.

He then took up the effect it would have on corn and wheat prices, on the cattle and sheep raising in this country, and the milling industry in this country. He declared that in respect to corn, the American farmer is king and will remain so, reciprocity or no reciprocity.

As to wheat he said the domestic price is governed by the world price and that "the sending of any part of Canada's surplus through our country instead of through Canada to the mills and the milling industry in this country. He declared that in respect to corn, the American farmer is king and will remain so, reciprocity or no reciprocity.

CONGESTION OF BILLS NOW THREATENS THE STATE LEGISLATURE

More Frequent All-Day Sessions Necessary to Relieve Situation.

Grass Seed Bill for Forest Fire Sufferers Is Passed.

Hillman Explains His Bill on Advertising for Strike-Breakers.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The sixth week of the Minnesota legislative session closed yesterday, and unless the legislature adopts the Moonan resolution providing for adjournment April 1—which is extremely improbable—there are more than nine weeks of it left in which to do a lot of pending work.

This session is no farther advanced at this point than previous sessions, whatever might have been the case had it been determined at the opening that the session should be shortened. The legislature now has a large accumulation of bills in committees, another large accumulation of bills on general orders in both houses, and plenty more bills coming in every day. General orders never will be cleaned up again in either house, and unless all-day sessions are more frequent, the end of next week will find both houses with a rather appalling congestion of bills on general orders for consideration in committee of the whole.

Not that these things are particularly significant. Matters of real urgency are certain to be considered, and if the legislature ran to next fall, instead of

WOMAN SMUGGLER SENT TO PRISON

Aristocratic New York Dame Severely Punished By the Court.

New York, Feb. 11.—As an example to women who have no qualms against smuggling, Judge Martin, in the criminal branch of the United States district court, yesterday sentenced Mrs. Robert A. G. Hill to the Tombs from last night until 8 o'clock Monday morning and fined her $2,000. The fine was promptly paid and Mrs. Hill was led away sobbing hysterically. She is the daughter of Morris Menges, a well-known Brooklyn horse man, and the divorced wife of Capt. James Hill of the British army.

Counsel for Mrs. Hill made a strong plea for the court's mercy, but Judge Martin said that he felt that a jail sentence was necessary as a lesson.

"I regret to say," he added, "that women are much more prone to attempt smuggling than are men."

Mrs. Hill had pleaded guilty of smuggling into this country a sable coat and other articles valued at $8,000. Her mother sat near her during the proceedings and sobbed bitterly when sentence was pronounced.

WOULD USE OWN MONEY

Germans Object to Its Investment in American Stocks.

Conservative Member of the Reichstag Makes Warm Speech.

Berlin, Feb. 11.—Count Von Kanitz, Conservative, in the reichstag today interpellated the government regarding what measures it proposed to take to prevent the flooding of the German market with foreign securities. When the count recently gave notice that he would make this inquiry he was supposed to have in mind the current report that the Berlin handelgesellschaft contemplated making an attempt to list the stock of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway on the Berlin bourse. It has been semi-officially announced that the Prussian government was considering the advisability of rejecting the application for this listing if made in view of the condition of the German gold market.

Speaking on the question today Count Von Kanitz quoted figures showing the great increase in the listing of foreign securities locally in the past year and demanded that German capital, in the first instance, subserve German economic interest. He continued:

Raises Interest Rates.

"The movement of capital out of the country necessarily raises the interest rate in Germany. The big banks prefer bringing out foreign issues, to ex-

ONE BOARD OF CONTROL

Normal Schools of North Dakota Go Under New Control.

State Aid for Rural and Small Town Graded Schools.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Normal school control under the direction of a single board, as proposed in the bill introduced upon the initiative of the joint educational committees of the house and senate, looms up with new proportions under a favorable report from the senate committee. It will be given its third reading either today or tomorrow.

Under the plan proposed the present normal board of management, an unwieldy body comprising thirteen members, will be done away with in favor of a control board consisting of seven members. Three of these members will be representatives of the normal schools, three will be appointed by the governor from the state at large, while the superintendent of public instruction is made the ex-officio chairman of the board.

State aid for rural schools is also favored by the senate educational committee, a report for passage being made. The first appropriation is fixed at $15,000, instead of $50,000, annually. In addition to rural schools, aid is provided for the small town graded school and for the consolidated schools.

Another important educational bill that has been acted upon favorably increases the membership of the state high school board from three to five, and it makes the high school inspector the agent of the board, appointed by that board instead of by the superintendent of public instruction as at present.

VENGEANCE OBJECT OF THE ERIE GHOULS

Not a Body Taken From the Mausoleum of Late Congressman Scott.

Erie, Pa., Feb. 11.—No bodies were stolen from the mausoleum of the late Congressman W. L. Scott. This authorized information was given the Associated Press last night by a friend of the family of Charles H. Strong, a son-in-law of the late congressman. Four of the crypts had been broken open. The casket containing Mrs. McCollum's body had been placed head foremost in an unoccupied crypt, in the innermost recess of the mausoleum. None of the bodies had been molested. The square marble slabs that had sealed the crypts had been unscrewed, two of these had been replaced in a reversed position and were broken, from one of the crypts the casket was half way out.

The disturbed caskets were those of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Scott, Mrs. Anna McCollum and Richard Townsend, a son-in-law of Scott. Nothing of value was removed from the mausoleum or any of the bodies. The statement of detectives that the jewels were sought by the robbers was ridiculed by the family.

In the mausoleum was found a coat, a pick-axe, a jackknife and a can opener. Through these it is asserted tonight that two arrests will be made in the morning. The names are known but are not permitted to be made public. The motive for the vandalism is pronounced one of vengeance.

REGISTER OF DEEDS OF CARLTON COUNTY ENDS HIS LIFE BY SHOOTING

Charles Stolberg Commits Suicide While Walking to Scanlon.

Indications Show He First Attempted to Hang Himself.

Deceased a Well-Known and Popular Resident of Carlton.

Carlton, Minn., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Stolberg, for twelve years register of deeds of Carlton county, shot and killed himself last night about half a mile north of here, presumably while suffering from the effects of a severe attack of grip. So far as known his office and family affairs furnish no cause for the act. He left during the afternoon for a walk to Scanlon, he said, intending to return later on the train. His failure to return resulted in a searching party tracking him about half a mile north of town, where he was found lying dead in the snow with a bullet hole in the head. A new revolver near the body

AMERICAN STUDENT MISSING IN ROME

Police Asked to Find Henry Lawrence Wolfe of New York.

Rome, Feb. 11.—Unusual interest has been excited in the mystery surrounding the disappearance of Henry Lawrence Wolfe of New York, the student of painting at the American Academy, who has not been seen by his friends since Monday. Frederic Crowninshield, director of the academy, today offered a reward of $100 for the discovery of Wolfe, dead or alive.

Mr. Crowninshield has examined the academy records, in which he finds that the missing man was 29 years old. The room which he occupied has been thoroughly searched but yielded no clue beyond indicating that the occupant when he left the place intended to return soon. Apparently he took no baggage or clothing other than what he wore. He was dressed in his working clothes when last seen.

It has been ascertained that on Feb. 1 he drew $70 from the banking house of Sebasti & Bell, while on Monday he drew $5 from a private account amounting to only $15.

ECKERT FAMILY SECRETS BARED

Fight Over Will Shows the General Was Very Liberal.

New York, Feb. 11.—Two days before the death of Gen. T. T. Eckert, formerly president of the Western Union Telegraph company, he gave all of his wife's jewels to Minnie Egan, the housekeeper, according to R. G. Page, his secretary, testifying in the will contest yesterday. Miss Egan was married to "Young Tom" Eckert a month after the general died.

"The general directed me to give the jewels to Miss Egan as a wedding gift," testified Page. "He was fearful about his recovery and said he wanted to make sure the jewels went to her."

Check stubs and letters of the general were introduced to show the general's affection for his eldest son, James Clendenin Eckert, who received but $50,000 and interest on $100,000 by the will, in comparison with $1,500,000 left to S. T. T. Eckert, Jr., the younger son.

The stubs showed that in his lifetime Gen. Eckert was equally liberal in gifts to his sons, and letters were produced which he wrote to Clendenin Eckert, expressing affection for his family.

Secretary Page testified that Mrs. Clendenin Eckert's demands for money had often annoyed the general.

MORE ARGUMENTS ADVANCED BY TAFT FOR RECIPROCITY

ARNOLD MYSTERY MAY BE SOLVED VERY SOON

Believed Young Griscom Will Tell All He Knows of Case.

Goes to Atlantic City for Purpose of Seeing Missing Girl.

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 11.—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Dorothy Arnold may be solved before George S. Griscom, Jr., of Pittsburg leaves here today. It is expected that before the day is over Mr. Griscom will make a statement in connection with the affair. Rumors that Griscom and Miss Arnold had been married or are about to be married are in circulation.

Mr. Griscom arrived here early last evening and was followed two hours later by his parents. Young Griscom came unexpectedly. It is reported his purpose in coming to this city is to meet Miss Arnold.

It is also reported that Miss Arnold's father and one of her brothers had engaged rooms at a hotel here for today and that Mrs. Arnold would come here at once after her arrival from Europe.

Chief of Police Woodruff at Atlantic City was asked by the New York police

Washington, Feb. 11.—The Canadian reciprocity agreement was reported favorably, 12 to 7, to the house today by the committee on ways and means.

"WHAT IS THERE IN IT ANYHOW?"

Rev. M. S. Rice Takes Striking Theme for Last Noonday Theme.

No Price High Enough for Man to "Sell Out All."

"What is there in it?" Rev. M. S. Rice asked his audience in his noonday sermon at the Lyceum today. The chase for the dollar, the struggle for a living, the pursuit of pleasure were all taken up by the speaker and he asked, "What is there in it?" It was the concluding sermon of the series and another large crowd filled the parquet of the theater.

Mr. Rice took for his text, "The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord," Rom. vi-23, and said in part:

"The reason I choose this rough sounding phrase for a theme is because it puts the sum of our various inquiries for the past week before you for a plain answer. It was given to me from the lips of a street preacher I heard on the street of a little town in another state recently. As I passed by he shouted to the little company, 'What is there in it? That is the biggest question of the age.' I went on down to my train and lay awake most of the night thinking it over. The keen sense of bargaining leaped to my mind as one of our characteristics. And yet I am ready to declare that nowhere else does our real blindness seem so evident as at that very thing. And the contention I make now is to deal with this fact as evident in many phases of life in which we eagerly

HAITI HAS TWO GENERALS LESS

Couple of Insurgents Captured and Immediately Shot.

Cape Haitien, Haiti, Feb. 11. — Gen. Chapuset, commander of the rebels, who captured Quanaminth, and Gen. Micael Codio, who led the insurgents at Fort Liberta, have been captured by the government forces and immediately shot to death.

President Simon will visit the scene of execution. He has conferred with the foreign consular agents who are using their influence today to end the trouble, and has assured them that no more prisoners will be put to death. He added that he had shown clemency to the rebels and would continue to do so though he regretted to see such a condition of affairs in the country as had been brought about by the uprising.

The rebellion is officially declared to be at an end and general interest is now concerned with the punishmentof those who took part in it.

LEGISLATORS OF ILLINOIS

Listen to an Earnest Talk on Tariff By the President.

Logical Conclusion of Protection Plank of Republican Platform.

Tariff Should Not Exceed Difference in the Cost of Production.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 11.—President Taft defended the proposed reciprocity agreement with Canada in an address before the Illinois legislature here today as the "logical conclusion" of the protection plank in the last Republican national platform. He defined the protection theory as one that should impose a tariff not exceeding the difference in the cost of production in this country and abroad and allowing a fair margin of profit for the home producer.

He argued, therefore, that inasmuch as the conditions of production in the United States and Canada were "substantially the same, the widest latitude was given Secretary Knox and the commissioners who represented the United States in offering to Canada a reduction of duties on goods and products coming into this country from Canada in consideration of the establishment of the same duty, or freedom from duty on similar goods going into Canada."

The president explained that it was thought wiser on behalf of both governments not to make a formal treaty "but to make an agreement between the executives by which each, exercising his constitutional power in his government, should submit the agreement in the form of a statute to be enacted and to go into force on condition that a similar statute was passed

DEATH OF BARON RECALLS ROMANCE

Son of Austrian Rothschild Committed Suicide Some Years Ago.

Vienna, Feb. 11.—Baron Albert S. A. Rothschild, head of the Austrian branch of the Rothschild house, died today. He was born in 1844.

The death recalls the romance of the baron's youngest son, Oskar, who died suddenly in the Rothschild palace here in July, 1909, following the breaking off of his marriage engagement with Miss Olga Menn, daughter of Dr. Rudolph Menn of Chicago. It was widely reported that Baron Oskar committed suicide by shooting, though the family asserted that death was due to apoplexy.

During the year preceding the young man made a tour of America, met Miss Menn and they became engaged. His father objected to the match and Oskar returned to his home, dying two days after he reached Vienna. He was 21 years of age.

SAVE TIME AND MONEY

Ore Docks Will Be Provided With Electrical Equipment.

All Three Roads Are Planning to Adopt New System.

To reduce materially the cost of operating the ore docks, the transportation companies which carry the product of the mines from the range to the lake are planning to substitute electric for man power. Incidentally, this substitute will decrease the time required to load an ore boat.

The great steel dock being built in Allouez bay for the Great Northern railroad will be so equipped, and the Duluth & Iron Range road has invited bids for similar equipment to be used at Two Harbors, while the Duluth, Missabe & Northern is giving the subject careful attention and is likely to follow suit.

The only purpose for which the electric power can be used on the docks is to raise and lower the ore hoists. Naturally, the use of electricity instead of manual labor will reduce the time now needed to load the boat, but that is not the chief consideration. It

"Government of the People, For the People and By the People" (?)

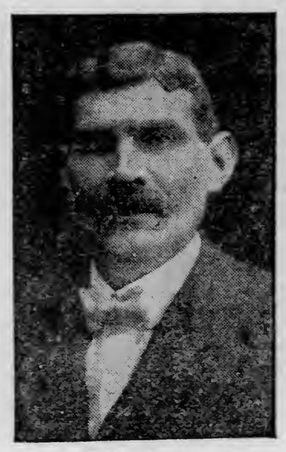

DEFECTIVE PAGE

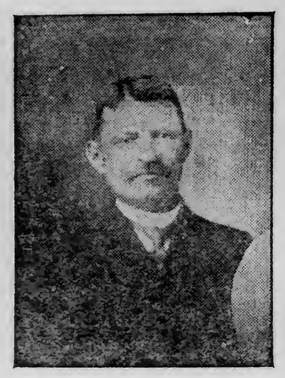

DULUTH'S FOUR NEW ALDERMEN AND THE NEW CITY COUNCIL

Z. D. SCOTT
Of the First Ward.

W. M. MILLER
Of the Second Ward.

OTTO KRUEGER
Of the Eighth Ward.

JOSEPH GIBSON
Of the Seventh Ward.

The last election returned an overwhelming Democratic council. The Bourbons have eleven out of sixteen councilmen, the Republicans have three representatives and the Independents have two city fathers, who, for all purposes, may be included in the Republican ranks.

Four Democratic members who are now in the council were returned by substantial majorities. They are Aldermen Hector, Shartel, McDonell and Hoar, of the Third, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth wards, respectively. Of the new members Z. D. Scott of the First ward was elected on an Independent ticket; W. M. Miller of the Second was carried on the Democratic list, as was Joseph Gibson of the Seventh. Otto Krueger of the Eighth ward, a resident of New Duluth, was the only Republican whose efforts were crowned with success when the ballots were counted after the election Tuesday.

Mr. Scott is one of the substantial business men of the city, having been connected for years with the Scott-Graff company. He has not mixed in politics, but having been a resident of his ward for years, he will undoubtedly have a good understanding of its needs as well as those of the entire city.

Mr. Miller is a retired dairyman. He has considerable property in the Second ward and he now devotes most of his time looking after these interests.

Mr. Gibson is the head of the Gibson Barber Supply company on West First street between Third and Fourth avenues, and has an extensive acquaintance.

Otto Krueger of New Duluth has the almost undivided support of the suburb in which he makes his home. He has lived there for years. At different times he has been street commissioner, and until a regular patrolman was sent out there, capably filled the duties of special policeman. In the latter capacity he made many arrests and had several narrow escapes.

The complexion of the council dispels all doubt as to the politics of the officials who will be elected when it reorganizes in March. There is little doubt but that Harry W. Cheadle, who resigned as city clerk in order to attend to his duties as state senator, will be again elected. At that time the session will be about over, and he is so capable that the aldermen have already stated that they will insist that he again accept his old place.

George Duren, the present sealer of weights and measures, was elected a year ago after a hard contest. He has filled the place acceptably, and there is small question but that if he is again a candidate, as is likely, he will be re-elected without opposition. Thomas Burke has been harbor master for several seasons past and he also has a good chance to fill the same shoes another term.

The only question seems to be as to the election of a president of the council. Frank Jordan, the present incumbent, has filled the chair the last two years. It is not beyond possibilities that he may be elected for a third year. However, this is doubtful, as there are several other strong Democrats in the council who would make good chairmen and who wouldn't object to the honor.

POLICE STOP GLOBE'S FREE GIFT OF CLOTHES.

If one wishes to get clothes for nothing in Duluth he must see the Associated Charities or the Salvation Army. Hereafter no store will be permitted to give away clothes at their front doors.

Following the announcement of The Globe in last Evening's Herald, that the store would give away suits for men and boys between 10 and 11 o'clock this morning and between 7 and 8 o'clock tonight, there was a veritable mob in front of the store this forenoon. By the time a dozen suits had been distributed, without cost, to the recipients, there was a small-sized riot on and the police were forced to step in and forbid the gift-making event. Not that the police wish to prevent anybody from getting clothes for nothing, but because they must preserve peace and prevent crowds from blocking the walks, roadway and even the car tracks.

Weather: Snow flurries tonight or Sunday; lowest temperature tonight about 10 deg. above at Duluth; moderate winds.

COPPERS HIGHER; TRADING LIGHT

Market Is Listless---Summit Is Active---Rally at Close.

The copper market was dull and listless today. Trading was small and little interest was manifested in the market. The bank statement was expected to be good and values rallied toward the close, recovering the early loss. The day's net results were favorable, values closing slightly higher than yesterday on an average.

The local market was fairly active. The part paid Scott sold at $5.25, Dern at $5.12½, Carman at $1, Keating at $2.06¼ to $2 and Summit went from 70c to 75c.

Summit was the feature of the day. Buying orders were rather numerous following the president's report which purported to show $1,900,000 in values proven up in the mine. Summit, to an outsider, is quoted at a favorable price. The mine is selling higher today than several stocks which are earning real money and have their property nearly paid for or entirely paid for, which is considerable more than Summit is doing. The public, however, generally does not pay any attention to the investment or financial aspect of a property. What the public seems to want is a speculative stock and from the action of Summit one would be permitted to hazard a guess that the people who lost money in Cactus will try to get it back in Summit.

Amalgamated sold at $65.62½ to $66 to $6587½. Butte Coalition at $19 to $19.25, Calumet ⅞ Arizona at $53.50, Giroux at $6.50, $6.62½ to $6.56¼. Greene sold at $6.25, North Butte at $29.25 to $28 to $29.25. Superior & Pittsburg at $14.87½ to $15. Cactus at 19c.

It is said that the management of the East Butte Mining company has hopes of selling 100,000 shares at $20 to raise its needed $2,000,000, instead of selling 200,000 treasury shares at $10 per share. The developments in the property continue highly encouraging. The eighth level has been drifted on for a distance of 1,100 feet, and for distances of from 50 to 200 feet the ore body widens to 20 feet and in some cases to 35 feet. Disregarding the wider places, the entire 1,100 feet averages a width of from four to six feet and assays 7 per cent copper and around $2.50 per ton in precious metal values.

Paine, Webber & Co. wired from Boston: "The News Bureau says the consensus of opinion of the street is that the broadside which Thomas L. Chadbourne of Houghton, Mich., has issued, protesting against the Calumet & Hecla merger on the terms outlined, is likely to be the entering wedge for a movement which will prevent the plan going through. Mr. Chadbourne is held in the highest esteem at Lake Superior, and it is felt that opposition from him will carry far more weight than from any other source. Mr. Chadbourne was for many years the Lake Superior counsel of the Calumet & Hecla, and up to a few months ago was a director of Ahmeek. He presented his resignation when the proposed consolidation was first broached, as he did not believe it was equitable. He is the first of those who have protested against the merger who has had a definite plan of action mapped out. His proposed law which he is to introduce in the Michigan legislature is believed to be the forerunner of litigation which will eventually forestal the consolidation."

The Chicago Post says: "One reason assigned for the favorable unfilled Steel tonnage figures falling so flat in the speculative market is the statement that the management of the corporation has been doing everything possible to make a good showing by writing letters and telephoning customers to place their orders now, especially for rails. If it required all this hard work to make this showing, and in view of the fact that many of the orders are not delivered except gradually during the next six months, the showing cannot be regarded as such a speculative bull card as might at first appear. Nevertheless it reflects the trend and indicates that a turn has come."

* * *

Thompson, Towle & Co., say "We have just received private advices from the Northwest that the next dividend on Shattuck-Arizona will be $1, and orders have gone forward to immediately increase shipments from the Shattuck-Arizona mine to the Copper Queen smelter, that there may be no question about the maintenance of the $4 dividend rate.

The copper situation is still unsettled. Sales have been made at 12¾c thirty days, equivalent to less than 12¼c cash, and then sellers put up the price to 12½, which is the general asking price. Consumers are timid, however, and refuse to buy except for immediate needs. Rumors of refusal of bids for 30,000,000 pounds at 12½c should not be taken seriously, for any legitimate bids for a 30,000,000-pound block of copper would not be turned down by the two leading copper interests, who have sold considerable March copper, but could still furnish a considerable tonnage of February or spot copper.

However, the copper situation is subject to change without notice—all the more so considering the unsettlement. Copper stocks apparently have discounted the unfavorable factors, and would quickly reflect a change in the situation.

Thompson, Towle & Co., say: "One of the leading copper interests in New York tells us:

"New properties may come and old properties may go, but Amalgamated is destined to keep the position as the leading copper mining stock of the world. The value of its assets may be difficult to compute, but it is known that outside of its mines its cash and coal and timber resources are extremely valuable, and I have been told officially that its copper costs are down to 9c per pound, which would indicate that even on the present low price for copper Anaconda, its main operating company, can earn $2 per share, which is the equivalent of $4 per share for Amalgamated, for there are two shares of Anaconda in its treasury for every share of Amalgamated outstanding.

"A few years ago the bulk of Amalgamated stock was in banks and brokerage offices carried on margin. It may still be in banks, but its owners are not the owners of a few years ago, and the holdings in brokerge offices are almost nil.

"The time to buy Amalgamated is when business is bad and copper prices are low, independent of any talk of consolidations, etc., and I believe the purchase of the stock around present prices will show the purchaser handsome profits.

"Incidentally I might say that things may happen in copper which may place an entirely different aspect upon the situation, and if this does happen Amalgamated will be a pretty good stock to own."

There have been many rumors current of some important development in Amalgamated. The rumors probably have relation to the liquidation of the United Metals Selling company.

We are reliably informed that steps have already been taken to eliminate the United Metals Selling company and turn over its copper selling contracts to the Anaconda company, where it belongs. It may take some little time to bring this important change about, but when accomplished it may be the first step in a broader scheme to create more stability in the copper business.

President W. A. Eaton of the Summit Copper company, who is in Denver, has written a report on the property which has been mailed to shareholders. On Jan. 30 of this year ore reserves proven up were valued at $1,000,000, based on 12c per lb for copper. The high-grade ore shoot in the Pasquale was six inches wide Jan. 30. Since then it is said to have widened to three feet. The ore shoot is developed on the 300 and 400-foot levels. A 100-ton plant for the treatment of the low-grade ore may be recommended by engineers soon.

In the West Colusa and Tramway mines of the Butte Coalition ore is exposed from the 1,200 to 1,800-foot levels showing 500 feet long and 100 feet wide on the eighteenth level. The ore averages 5 per cent copper and is high in gold. One of the latest developments has been in the Badger State mine on the western extension of the Jessie vein of the North Butte company, where from the thirteenth to the eighteenth levels some good ore has been opened. On the sixteenth level the shoot is 100 feet long and 10 feet wide and of better than average grade, it is said.

The assessment has been paid on considerably more than 100,000 shares out of the outstanding 160,000 shares of the Franklin Mining company.

The Algomah has opened up an additional 200 feet of ore on the 110-foot level, both faces of the drift being in ore.

* * *

The North Lake No. 11 drill has been withdrawn and a new hole will be driven nearer the outcrops of the Adventure lodes.

* * *

The January output of the Old Dominion was 2,095,000 lb, comparing with 2,130,000 lb a year ago.

The Indiana shaft is down fifty feet and work is progressing rapidly in the building of the circular steel shaft.

* * *

The Lake Copper company's new compressor will be operated within two or three days. Favorable developments on the seventh level north are reported.

* * *

That the Steel corporation plans to retire within a year the outstanding $360,000,000 of 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock is the statement credited to a former high official of the corporation. This would leave only the first and second mortgage bonds ahead of the common stock, and would save approximately $25,200,000 paid yearly as dividends on the preferred. The reptued plan fixes price at which preferred may be retired around 130, but how this is to be arranged is not stated.

Political conditions strongly tend to improve business conditions. Both parties must realize that in order to secure popularity nothing must be done to disturb business conditions and everything must be done to make such conditions smooth, easy and acceptable to the people. Therefore they look for strong efforts, especially on the part of the administration, to encourage a general revival in trade and in our industries, and a renewed demand for, and advance in the prices of manufactured products. Everything will be done by the present administration to make conditions easy. On these lines great efforts will be made to improve the condition of our foreign trade, and they believe that at the end of the present calendar year our foreign merchandise balance will be, at least, $500,000,000.

Money probably will remain easy, and every inducement which is possible to be given will be exercised to the encouragement of great business activity. Of course, no one can say what our crops may do during the present year, but barring any deficiency and assuming that they will be normal, and taking into consideration the present depressed condition of our industries and the very small supply of manufactured goods on hand, it seems logical to look for greater activity in the near future and later on for a period of prosperity.

DECLINES TO BE TRIED

John T. Teetzel Will Exhaust Law's Resources Before Going to Trial.

Demurred to Indictment and Appealed From Order Overruling Him.

John T. Teetzel accused of attempting to swindle the Kelley Hardware company out of $43.60 on some addiphones, is giving the county attorney's office a merry chase to bring him to trial.

Teetzel, who is out on bonds, refuses to be tried. He has delayed the proceedings on one pretext or another since September and claims that his only excuse for so doing is that he is innocent of any crime and that if brought to trial and even though proved innocent, the stamp of the courts would be on him, his reputation ruined and it would be impossible for him to retain his standing.

Teetzel was indicted by the September grand jury and the trial seems to be further away at the present time than it was at the time the indictment was returned. At the time of his arraignment, Teetzel pleaded not guilty and was released on bonds. He then left for Detroit, Mich., which he claims as his home and has not been in Duluth since, it is said. He seems to have plenty of money for he has been represented at several special terms of court by able attorneys.

He first demurred to the indictment, claiming that it did not specify a cause for action. This was overruled by Judge Cant at a special term of court.

Next he served notice of an appeal to the supreme court from the ruling on the demurrer. On the ground that the appeal was not well taken, Assistant County Attorney Warren E. Greene, who is handling the case for the state, made a motion that the defendant be required to plead in district court to the indictment.

This motion was made before Judge Cant this morning. The judge took the matter under advisement. He will either certify to the record so that it will be in shape to go to the supreme court or he will order the defendant to come into court and answer to the indictment.

THE BIG SALE IS STARTED
Anniversary Clearing Event at the Moe Department Store.
If anybody has an idea that the people of the West end, as well as other parts of the city, do not appreciate a real price cutting clearance sale, all they need to do to be convinced beyond the least doubt is to watch the crowds at the big Red Tag Anniversary sale inaugurated this morning by John J. Moe & Sons company, the West end big department store.
For twenty years this annual clearance sale at the first of the new year has been a feature at Moe's and the people of the West end have waited for it with an anticipation that fell far short of their realization. This is a sale that the big store never does by halves, but the price slashing goes into every department from the basement up. Nothing is permitted to escape. People have been quick to appreciate real bargains and this morning they came even from West Duluth and the up-town district, there being a good representation from the prosperous farming communities that lie back of the hill. Mr. Moe and his sons have entered the Red Tag Anniversay sale with a well-defined purpose—that of giving the biggest price reducing event that the city has heard of and the ten-days' event has been carefully planned and prepared to carry out that purpose.
If you miss the Red Tag sale next week you will miss the greatest opportunity of the season to save money.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflammed condition of the mucous surface.

TRAINED ON DISEASES OF MEN HALF A LIFETIME

Duluth Progressive Medical Specialists Have Wonderful Organization

The doctors who deserve the greatest credit are those who have done the most credible work, who have had the greatest success in saving human life from disease and death, restoring cripples to health, and worn-out, broken-down physical wrecks of men to strong manhood. In Duluth the specialists of the Progressive Medical association have won this credit, for they have been working with the greatest success and have cured thousands of patients where others have failed. Hundreds of men came to them pronounced "incurable," but they got cured just the same, because the Progressive Doctors have worked out a method which is simply marvelous. Of all the many diseases there is but one branch to which these doctors have devoted their lives and that is diseases of men alone.

These doctors are graduates of German universities, have had their training in men's diseases under the great masters of medical science, and have spent eight years in men's hospitals. They do not profess to know much about women's diseases, but all diseases of men they know in their minutest details, for their cures they have scientific instruments and machinery found in no other medical office.

One can see many queer diseases in the waiting room of these specialists any day. One man enters the room, who has been laid up with rheumatism for six months. He told that he had been to Hot Springs, had been baked almost to death and had but little benefit from all these tortures. The Progressive Doctors had given him two treatments with their wonderful dissolving process, which had greatly reduced the swelling of the joints, while the pain was almost nil. With three additonal treatments the patient will be cured and relieved from rheumatism forever.

The next patient was a man who was suffering from stomach trouble for over 12 years. His face displayed such a pitiable condition that his history of suffering could easily be read in it, though he has been under treatment for only one week, he says that he already feels much better than he has for the last ten years. The Progressive Medical association's office is filled from 9 in the morning till 8 at night, with men afflicted with all kinds of diseases and every imaginable ill, who constantly crowd the waiting room. Men whose systems have been fagged out by overwork, by sleepless nights and indiscretions, find here the long desired cure. Others who have abused their system by excesses, or otherwise have violated the laws of health and nature, find here a balm for every ill. The man who has spent in vain a thousand dollars on his diseases, will, as a last resort, come to the specialists who have made diseases of men their life study. Here he will find the cure he has been looking for. It surely stands to reason that the doctor who specializes in diseases of men alone will have by far a greater success than the man who treats every ill of men, women and children. This institute of the Progressive Medical association at No. 1 West Superior street has been established for more than twenty years. It is here for men alone and the doctors of the association have spared no expense to fit their office with the most costly therapautic devices. Of late they installed a high powered microscope, the duplicate of which there is not in the state of Minnesota. This microscope is of such enormous magnifying power that the bacilli of every disease can be discerned and the case be diagnosed by it. People who want to know the true cause of their troubles are welcome to a free consultation any day.

DEFENDANT TAKES STAND

Bradford Voshall Says He Shot James Sheeran in Self-Defense.

Assault Case Will Go to the Jury Monday Afternoon.

That he shot James Sheeran in self defense and that he shot to "get him" was the substance of the testimony offered by Bradford Voshall, charged with assault in the first degree and with intent to kill, when he took the stand in his own behalf before Judge William A. Cant of the district court yesterday afternoon. Today was special term day and the case went over until Monday when the final arguments will be made and the case allowed to go to the jury.

"I shot to get him. I had to get him or he would have got me." This in brief was the testimony offered by the defendant. He gave a graphic description of the trouble, illustrated what he meant by motions of the head, hands and body and spoke in a very loud voice so that what he was saying could be heard distinctly in every part of the room.

Much of the evidence in the case contradicted entirely that presented by the other side. The two sides are so entirely different that it is possible that the real truth as to how and why the shooting took place will never be known for certain.

The trouble occurred on board the steamer J. H. Bartow, Nov. 4 last. After a quarrel Voshall shot James Sheeran. The latter finally recovered after being in the hospital fifty days and after one of the most difficult surgical operations ever performed in the city.

Voshall claims that Sheeran ran at him with an ax. This, Sheeran denies. He says that he never had an ax in his hand. Voshall claims that he was cornered or boxed and that the only thing for him to do was to draw his gun and shoot in order to save himself. A part of each story is borne out by the witnesses for each side, but their stories are so widely different and they differ to such an extent as to detail that it will be a difficult matter for the jury to decide which side is telling the truth.

The police say that Voshall pretended to be both deaf and dumb when he was arrested. After a few hours he found his tongue and stated that Sheeran attacked him with an ax and that he shot in self defense.

After the court session of yesterday afternoon, an adjournment was taken until Monday morning. It is probable that the case will be finished and in the hands of the jury by Monday afternoon.

MARSHALL H. JEWELL OF NORTH DAKOTA DIES AT BISMARCK

MARSHALL H. JEWELL.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Marshall H. Jewell, editor of the Bismarck Tribune and register of the United States land office here, died at 11 o'clock last night. Mr. Jewell had been ill for some time and his death was not unexpected.

Marshall H. Jewell, for the past twenty-eight years editor and publisher of the Bismarck Tribune, was born April 29, 1857, at Hector, on the banks of Seneca lake, in New York state. Mr. Jewell's father was in the newspaper business at the outbreak of the Civil war, publishing a paper called The Bee, at Obid, N. Y. Later he went to the Yates County Chronicle at Penn Yan, N. Y., and thence to Grand Rapids, Mich., near which city he filed on a piece of government land. Not making a success of his farming venture, the elder Jewell went to Chicago where he secured work at his trade.

M. H. Jewell, having learned the rudiments of the art preservative in a Cedar Springs, Mich., office, later joined his father in Chicago, where, after being employed on various papers he was made foreman of the Daily Courier and later assistant telegraph editor of the Chicago Telegram.

Came to Bismarck.

After the demise of the Telegram, Mr. Jewell, accompanied by Stanley Huntley, later of "Spookendyke" fame, came to Bismarck, which was then at the end of the Northern Pacific railroad. Messrs. Huntley and Jewell purchased the Bismarck Tribune, which had been founded by Col. Lounsberry, now in Washington. Mr. Huntley remained but little over a year, when Col. Lounsberry again became interested in the paper. Two years later Mr. Jewell made a deal whereby he became owner and publisher of the Tribune, which position he retained during his life. Mr. Jewell was married to Kate Woods of Indianapolis in 1882, and they have two boys, Paul, aged 15, and Ralph, aged 12.

In November, 1908, he was appointed by President Roosevelt as register of the United States land office of the Bismarck district, which office he held until the time of his death.

only to April 20, the close would still find much unfinished business on hand.

For Forest Fire Sufferers.

The bill appropriating $25,000 to be spent in buying grass and clover seed for the sufferers from last fall's border fires was put through the legislature finally yesterday, and is now before the governor, who will promptly sign it. The house passed it soon after its introduction by Representative G. H. Mattson of Roseau and yesterday the senate passed it with amendments intended to make its constitutionality certain. The amendments went to show that the seed is to be distributed for experimental purposes, which makes the bill constitutional where a charitable distribution for the benefit of the settlers would not be. The seed is to be distributed by the dean of the college of agriculture, who is to give it to settlers whose applications are approved by the several county boards.

Largely as a result of personal work by Senator T. M. Pugh of Duluth the senate railroad committee yesterday afternoon unanimously recommended for passage Senator Pugh's bill allowing street railway companies to give free passes to policemen and firemen in uniform. To facilitate its passage the house bill already passed by that body was substituted.

The senate railroad committee also approved the bill allowing street railway companies to contract for reduced rates for mail carriers.

Bills approved by the senate railroad committee yesterday included the Gunderson bill, making railroad companies parties to proceedings before the railroad and warehouse commission involving the reasonableness of express rates, and the Stebbins bill giving the railroad and warehouse commission jurisdiction over track scales, and requiring that such scales be installed wherever necessary on the order of the commission.

Two More Assistants.

The senate committee on public accounts approved the bill giving the attorney general two additional assistants, one of whom is to be the present legal clerk, C. L. Weeks. It is reported that W. J. Stevenson, special counsel for the St. Louis county board, is being considered as the fifth assistant.

* * *

Lieutenant Governor Gordon yesterday appointed Senators Dwinnell and Stebbins members of the joint committee to investigate the state fair.

The bill introduced yesterday by Representative N. S. Hillman of Two Harbors, requiring employers when advertising for strike breakers to state in their advertisements that a strike is in progress, is a copy of a law passed two years ago in Massachusetts.

"The purpose of the bill," said Mr. Hillman yesterday, "is to prevent employers from getting men to come to work for them under false pretenses. It often happens that where a strike is in progress, the employers will advertise for men in other communities. Men in need of work are attracted, and when they come they find that they are expected to take the places of men on strike. Many of them wouldn't have come if they had known the circumstances, but as they are usually without money they have the choice of 'scabbing' or starving. The adoption of this bill would be for the benefit of these men, of the strikers, and of the community; because where men without money are attracted by misleading advertisements they are likely to become charges upon the community."

The house committee on education yesterday recommended for passage Representative Hillman's bill intended to facilitate the redistricting of Lake county school districts. The need of it arises in the fact that while the tax rate for school purposes in Fall Lake is but 2.1 mills, the rate in other districts is much larger; for instance, it is 23 mills in Knife River, which is much above the legal limit, and it may be necessary to close the schools there. The object of the bill is to permit such districts to take in adjoining territory to help out on the tax rate.

Hearing On Borgen Bill.

There will be a public hearing before the house judiciary committee Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock on the Borgen bill to protect people who build houses from liens for labor or materials coming in after they have settled with the contractor.

* * *

The judiciary committee of the senate and house will meet Wednesday evening to consider the constitutionality of the proposed workingmen's compensation act.

* * *

C. Robinson of St. Charles, who has the record thus far for explosive propositions, is preparing a bill to prohibit saloons, clubs or other places, where liquor is sold or dispensed from using the name of the state or of any educational institution supported by the state. The bill would affect the University Club of Minneapolis, the Minnesota Club of St. Paul, and other organizations of a similar character.

* * *

The senate elections committee will report Tuesday on the Furlong-Froshaug contest, and the report will favor the incumbent, Senator Froshaug. Not more than one member of the committee, if so many, will favor the contestant, ex-Senator Farrington.

* * *

When the senate temperance committee reports Tuesday, there will be majority and minority reports, instead of a unanimous report without recommendation, as had been anticipated. The minority report against county option will be signed by Senators T. M. Pugh of Duluth and Julius Colbert Shallenberger, and the fight will be on the two reports. The minority report will probably be adopted, settling county option for this session.

REGISTER OF DEEDS OF CARLTON COUNTY ENDS HIS LIFE BY SHOOTING

indicated the manner of death. The body has been taken to Cloquet, where Coroner Nydquist will conduct an inquest.

It was about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon when Stolberg left the courthouse after remarking to a friend that he believed he would walk to Scanlon, a distance of about three miles, and return on the evening train in the hope the walk in the fresh air would prove beneficial for a severe attack of the grip, with which he had been wrestling a good part of the winter. Nothing was thought of his action, as he appeared to be in a rational mood, until about 10 p. m., when Mrs. Stolberg became alarmed at his failure to return and notified friends of the family.

James B. Gillespie and John B. Thompson, who had been requested by Mrs. Stolberg to search for her husband, learned from Scanlon that he had not boarded the train there nor been seen in that vicinity and they started on foot for Scanlon in about the direction he would take.

Tried to Hang Himself First.

About half a mile north of town they followed very fresh tracks in the snow, then came across some blood and finally the body, indicating Stolberg had walked a few feet after firing the bullet into his head. A small piece of rope or string hanging to a tree and marks in the snow indicated Stolberg had first tried to hang himself, but the rope was too small and he then had recourse to the pistol. He had been dead some time when the body was found. The pistol used was new and he evidently bought it for the purpose. As soon as possible the body was brought here, then taken to Cloquet to the undertakers, where, as stated, an inquest will be held.

The news of the tragic fate of Mr. Stolberg created a sensation and came as a great shock to the community, as he was very popular, having been elected register of deeds several successive times without little or no opposition. He was a native of Hester, Sweden, aged 46, and had lived in this country many years. He is survived by his widow and one daughter, aged 12.

South Dakota Miner Quickly Weds After Being Divorced

Deadwood, S. D., Feb. 11.—Divorced at 11 o'clock in the morning and married to a new wife two hours later is the record of Henry C. Ricketts, a miner of Lead.

Ricketts charged his wife, Frona Ricketts, with deserting him for another man with whom he swore she is now living in Salt Lake City. He got his decree, and two hours later married Miss Abby Reed of Lead.

REVENGEFUL ACT COSTLY.

Menominee, Mich., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Howard Crooks, who was discharged by the E. P. Smith Coal company, attempted to take revenge by cutting electric wires running to the steamer Amazon. He was taken before the police judge and fined $50 and costs.

ADDRESSES VETERANS

Rev. Robert Ellwood Speaks to Comrades of Spanish-American War.

Says Organization Is Logical Successor to Grand Army.

Notwithstanding his numerous engagements and the multitude of duties falling to the lot of a public speaker, Rev. Robert A. Ellwood, the scholar, lecturer and preacher from Atlantic City, is a "live wire" in the United Spanish War Veterans' organization. He never misses an opportunity, while traveling about the country, of meeting with the camps and fraternizing with the boys whose comrade he was during the war with Spain in 1898.

To Mr. Ellwood is due, to no small degree, credit for the prominent place now given the Spanish War Veterans' organization among the patriotic bodies of this country.

After his address at the Presbyterian church last evening, Mr. Ellwood visited Memorial hall, where he was tendered a joint reception by the members of Camp John G. McEwen and Camp Maj. A. M. Diggles, Spanish War veterans. During a very pleasant social session, Mr. Ellwood brought to the local camps greetings from the department of Pennsylvania, of which he is chaplain, and gave a very interesting and instructive talk for about half an hour along lines pertaining to the good of the organization.

Of the 300,000 soldiers and marines that participated in the Spanish war of 1898, Mr. Ellwood says that statistics show only about 200,000 living. The surprisingly large death rate among those who saw service has furnished much food for thought and is arousing comment over the country. According to the speaker, the Spanish War Veterans' organization has a present membership of 40,000, the camps being well scattered over the United States, Hawaii, Philippine Islands and even the Isthmus of Panama.

Mr. Ellwood says that as the young soldiers of 1898 have settled down in life they have come to appreciate more and more what the organization stands for. Greater efficiency, he says, is being shown by the various camps, and those most efficient come the nearest to being what the organization stands for. In some of the Eastern states the camps have a large membership and own their buildings.

Successors of G. A. R.

Mr. Ellwood commented on the increased fraternal spirit between the members of the G. A. R. and the Spanish War Veterans and said that the two veterans' organizations are appreciating each other more and more in their associations. He is convinced that the Spanish War Veterans will be the logical successors of the G. A. R. as the leading patriotic organization when the old soldiers lay down their work.

The Spanish War Veterans' organization, said Mr. Ellwood, stands for the same principles as the Grand Army of the Republic. He said the younger organization is also entitled to special privilege when it comes to the matter of civic opportunities and benefits, that they should be entitled to all soldiers' privileges and benefits under the homestead exemption laws.

Mr. Ellwood urged a proper observance of Memorial day and paid an eloquent tribute to the late John A. Johnson, ex-governor of Minnesota.

It is expected that there will be a large turn-out of the Spanish War Veterans at the meeting in the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon, seats having been reserved for them, as well as the members of the G. A. R.

Next Tuesday evening the members of Maj. A. M. Diggles camp will hold a memorial service for the soldiers and marines who gave up their lives when the battleship Maine was blown up in the harbor at Havana, Feb. 15, 1898. A special program will be rendered after the regular meeting. Mr. Ellwood has consented to remain in the city until that time and will be one of the speakers of the evening.

SAVE TIME AND MONEY

requires the labor of from two to six men to raise and lower the hoists with the facilities now at hand, but if electric power is used only one man will be needed.

On the Great Northern dock a group-unit system will be operated. One motor will supply power for a shaft connected with ten hoists, which may be operated separately and independently by means of clutches.

The method now used on the ore docks to raise and lower the hoists was invented by a former official of the Duluth & Iron Range, named Denton. It is a counterweighted windlass device. Workmen operate it by hand and sometimes half a dozen or more of them are needed at the machine to handle the hoists properly.

The new electric hoist is to be run with an alternating current, which is growing more and more into favor as compared with the direct current. The Great Northern Power company supplies the alternating current. Machines are now in general use that can be operated with this current. The alternating current is utilized by the Duluth & Iron Range on its Two Harbors docks for lighting and other purposes. In some cases a direct current is required and the power generated at the Two Harbors plant goes through a process of conversion.

MORE ARGUMENTS ADVANCED BY TAFT FOR RECIPROCITY

by the legislature of the other country." He said in part:

Either Can Withdraw.

"This form of agreement between the two countries makes it one from which either country can withdraw at will by simply changing the statute by new legislation.

"I am a protectionist That is, I believe that there are certain industries in this country which need the encouraging effect of a tariff upon imports from foreign countries to enable them to pay good wages and furnish a reasonable profit to those who engage in them. The difference in condition which generally makes this tariff necessary is the lower price of labor in the foreign country as compared with the price of labor in our own. The country has been on a protection basis nearly all the time since 1861, and the tremendous strides in industrial progress which it has made seem to me to vindicate the wisdom of the policy.

"There was a time when leading Republicans thought that there was no danger of having a tariff higher than necessary to protect any industry. It was thought that if the country was made dependent on manufactures behind the tariff wall the competition between the manufacturers would stimulate the reduction in the cost of production and thus reduce the price.

"But the temptation to combine by which the price could be controlled and thus the excessive tariff taken advantage of led to a modification of the protection theory and to a declaration that the protection of any industry ought not to exceed in the tariff imposed more than the difference between the cost of production abroad, the cost of production here and enough to give a fair profit to the domestic producer or manufacturer.

Conditions Practically Same.

"This limitation of the protection theory necessarily took away any grounds for a tariff between this country and any country in which the conditions of production were substantially the same. The conditions of production and of manufacture in the United States and in Canada are substantially the same. Wages may differ in one part of Canada from another part, just as wages differ in different states in this country, but the character of the laborers, their intelligence and their skill, and the price paid them per unit of work is not substantially less in Canada than they are in this country.

"In other words, the plank of the last Republican convention, carried to its logical conclusion, would lead to substantial free trade with Canada.

"With that in view, still adhering loyally and sincerely to the principles of protection where it is needed to maintain our important industries, I did not hesitate to give the widest latitude to the secretary of state and the commissioners who represented this country in offering to Canada a reduction of duties on goods and products coming into this country from Canada in consideration of the establishment of the same duty or freedom from duty on similar goods going into Canada.

"I say this for the purpose of having it understood that in many cases where the agreement has been criticised for not making greater reduction, we could not secure them because, in the judgment of our Canadian friends, the trade or industry which they desired to foster would suffer by a greater reduction. Thus, with respect to meats, we would have been glad to put them on the free list. Canada objected, and we obtained the best figure we could.

Must Give and Take.

"A reciprocity agreement is give and take, and my impression is that when you examine closely this agreement, you will congratulate yourselves that we were able to make one that covered so wide a range of subjects."

The president declared the criticism that reductions had been avoided purposely on manufactured articles wholly unfounded, and that a reciprocity agreement between the United States and Canada must of necessity relate more to agricultural products than to manufactures.

"The suggestion that the opening of our markets to Canada wheat and other cereals," continued the president, "will reduce the price of land in Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Iowa is refuted by every table of statistics, and presents the comparative increase of land in those states under the influence of the opening of the wheat fields of the states further west.

"To let the wheat of the Northwest come down to Minneapolis and Chicago will steady the price of wheat, will prevent its fluctuations, will make speculation much more difficult and will furnish us greater insurance against short crops and high prices. But that it will in the end substantially reduce the price of wheat, which is fixed for the world in Liverpool, no one familiar with the conditions will assert.

Will Give Greater Control.

"It will give to the United States much greater control of the wheat market than it has ever had before. It will enable its milling plants to turn Canadian wheat into flour and send abroad the finished products, and it will stimulate the sale of manufactures and other things that we have to sell to Canada."

The president further asserted that, in removing the artificial barriers between the Northwestern part of the United States and the Canadian provinces, the agreement would result in the bringing over of live cattle to feed on the corn of the American farmer. He added that the rapid increase of population in the United States required "a source of food supply like Canada, right at our doors."

Blind to Reject It.

"We shall be blind indeed," said the president, "if we reject this golden opportunity to add to the strength and virility of our country by thus increasing our self-supporting capacity."

The president asserted that "no step could be taken more in the interest of a reasonable policy of protection than the approval of the treaty," and that insistence on too much protection would arouse an opposition in this country "that will know no moderation." He said that that was his reason also, for favoring the creation of "an expert tariff commission or board." He suggested that the tariff board might re-examine and modify other schedules if necessary, "but that a reciprocity agreement with Canada is not a revision of the tariff and in the nature of things cannot present the balance and the adjustment of all the duties against foreign countries which a consideration of the tariff, as a whole, would involve."

"We have taken up those things that are involved in a Canadian reciprocity treaty, because opportunity offered," declared President Taft in conclusion. "Now is the accepted time. She is at the partnng of the ways. Shall she be an isolated country, as much separated from us as if she were across the ocean, or shall her people and our people profit by the proximity that our geography furnishes and stimulate better trade across the border that nothing but a useless, illogical and unnecessary tariff wall creates?"

President at Champaign.

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 11.—President Taft arrived here from Columbus, Ohio, this morning and began his second day of speech-making in support of the proposed reciprocity agreement with Canada. Mr. Taft's principal speech on this subject today will be delivered before the Illinois state legislature at Springfield. He will also speak at a Lincoln day banquet in Springfield tonight.

Leaving his train at Urbana the president and members of the party proceeded by automobile to the state university, where Mr. Taft made a five minutes' address to the students. Other parts of the day's program included a brief address at James Milliken university, Decatur, and a trolley trip from Decatur to Springfield with lunch en route. Representative W. B. McKinley of Illinois, is accompanying the president throughout his present trip and will return with him to Washington Monday morning.

Lincoln Fifty Years Ago.

Danville, Ill., Feb. 11.—It was recalled today that fifty years ago, at the same hour and about at the same moment that President Taft passed through Danville this morning, en route to Springfield in a special train, President Lincoln passed through also, bound for the same place. President Lincoln was the first president to use a special train to reach his home at Springfield, and President Taft is the first president to use the interurban to visit the capital city and the tomb of Lincoln.

When Lincoln passed through here, not a soul knew he was coming with the exception of the station agent. When Taft went through this morning at 6:18 o'clock, there were fifty people at the station, but the president was asleep.

Boyd of Cavalier county introduced a county uniform text book bill. The plan is to make the adoption of the uniform system of books optional with the several counties, and the bill is introduced by those opposed to the idea of creating a state text book commission, which plan has been proposed in the Moritz and the Gunderson bills.

This morning there was a meeting of the joint committee charged with investigating the affairs of the game and fish board of control. It was held for the purpose of going over the evidence that was received Thursday evening from Thomas Griffiths of Grand Forks, J. L. Killion of Fargo, D. I. Armstrong of Willow City, members of the board, and Game Wardens W. N. Smith of Grafton and Olaf Bjorke of Abercrombie. Within a few days the report of the committee will be completed.

The auditing board joint investigation committee has also started its series of meetings, holding them each morning in the office of the state auditor. The plan of action is to make an examination of the bills allowed during the last three years, the bills for one month of each quarter being extracted and examined. After this portion of the work is completed the committee will go into other features of the auditing board's activities during the last three years. One point of which the board will make particular inquiry has to do with the sub vouchers for the bills allowed, it being contended that in several events such sub vouchers have been lacking.

New Judicial District.

One of the new judicial district bills has been passed and goes to the governor for his signature. It creats the Eleventh district out of Williams, McKenzie and Mountrail counties. Williams and Mountrail being taken from the Eighth and McKenzie from the Tenth districts. The law is made operative July 1 which will give Governor Burke the power to appoint a judge.

Codification of the board of health laws of the state is proposed in a bill introduced by Mr. Johns of Hettinger county. Very few changes in the laws as they stand at the present time are proposed in the Johns bill, although certain compensation is allowed health officers for duties which they now perform without fees.

Favorable report has been given by the house committee on public health on the board of control bill for the state dentists. This measure, which has the support of the State Dental society, is designed to raise the standard of educational qualifications necessary to be admitted to practice, and places the profession in this state on an equal footing with the requirements made in other states of the Northwest.

Several anti-pass bills have been killed by the house this week, the purpose being to clear the way for the committee bill. It is very likely that a conference committee will have to be appointed because of the deadlock that has been created through the fact that each house has a different committee bill.

Appropriations Favored.

Needs of the Valley City normal school and the Jamestown asylum for the insane are set forth by the committees that visited those two institutions. At the Valley City normal an appropriation for a building for teaching agriculture, manual training, domestic science and drawing to the amount of $75,000 is recommended. Appropriations for a hospital and a boys' dormitory are also urged, $40,000 being deemed sufficient for the dormitory. A $45,000 maintenance item in the appropriation bills introduced is urged. It is also pointed out by the committee that the average salary of $1,025 for the members of the faculty of the school is entirely too low, and should be increased.

At the asylum for the insane appropriations for the erection of a tuberculosis hospital for male patients, a ward buildings for male employes, a ward building for women patients, together with the taking of steps for the laying of a track from Jamestown to the asylum and the construction of a boiler house and laundry, are recommended. In both reports the manner of administration is heartily commended.

Favorable report has been given by the house public health committee on the bill creating a state tuberculosis sanitarium. Dunseith is the place elected for the sanitarium and an appropriation of $15,000 annually for maintenance is requested.

Insurance Deposits.

Representative Martin has introduced a new bill on the question of cash deposits with the state treasurer by life insurance companies. His new bill requires a deposit of 50 per cent of the premiums collected during the previous year as against 35 per cent, proposed in his first bill.

From the committee that visited the state agricultural college come recommendations for a number of the appropriations that have been asked. The committee looks with favor on the college's requests for $50,000 annually for maintenance, it being pointed out that there is a probability that the government will withdraw its support unless the state comes to the front properly. Favorable reports are also made on the requests for $50,000 for the payment of a deficit on Ceres hall, a girls' dormitory; $50,000 for a boys' dormitory; $15,000 for the purchase of additional land; $85,000 for the completion of a science building; and $12,000 for a new boiler and smoke stack. The requests for appropriations for a recitation hall and a dairy barn are not deemed urgent.

Speaker Hanley yesterday afternoon named the committee to take evidence on the charges presented against Judge John Cowan of Devils Lake in impeachment resolutions introduced this week. O. P. Jordal of Sheridan is chairman of the committee, and the other members are: Dosseth of Mountrail, Cunningham of La Moure, Boerner of Mercer, Andrus of Ransom, Moritz of Cavalier, and O'Connor of Pembina.

ARNOLD MYSTERY MAY BE SOLVED VERY SOON

to make a special search here for Miss Arnold.

Griscom admitted last night that he believed he was being followed by detectives enlisted at the request of New York authorities, who hope to find the girl through his movements.

Creditors Hold Baggage.

New York, Feb. 11.—Without his luggage, which had been seized in debt proceedings, George S. Griscom, Jr., hurriedly left New York for Atlantic City at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He had arrived from Italy only Thursday night with the express purpose of aiding in the search for Dorothy Arnold, who, he is confident, is alive.

While his father was engaged in a series of conferences with the Arnold family and counsel yesterday, the son stayed with his mother in their rooms at an apartment house all forenoon, practically in a state of siege. The hotel had, at the request of the Griscoms, denied any communication with them by newspaper reporters. Meanwhile a process-server waited in the hotel corridor with a claim of $250 for haberdashery, said to have been purchased by Griscom five years ago.

Abandoning hope of serving the papers on Griscom in person, a blanket attachment was placed on all his baggage, and he made the trip to Philadelphia with only the clothes he wore.

The father's conference with the Arnolds lasted three hours. Asked pointblank, "Will your son marry Miss Arnold?" the elder Griscom replied, "I know of no wedding."

John W. Arnold, a brother of Dorothy, said after the conference that from now on the family would act without the aid and advice of lawyers. He would not say whether this move means that the family are certain of her whereabouts.

NEW HALL AT LAKESIDE

Fire Board Advertises for Bids on a New Building.

Present Structure Is Unsafe and Unfit for Habitation.

The board of fire commissioners yesterday afternoon took the first positive action since the agitation was started for a new fire hall at Lakeside.

A resolution was passed at the meeting at the city hall calling for advertisements of bids for the station complete, and for separate bids on the plumbing, painting and heating.

Year after year the chief of the fire department has called attention to t ehbuilding which is used as a fire hall in the eastern suburb. It is old and rotten, with the walls and foundation crumbling. Besides that it is decidedly insanitary and it has been characterized as unfit for habitation. Despite that fact the men have to stay there day and night, with little opportunity for getting fresh air.

Bids were also opened for a new combination chemical and hose motor wagon to be installed at Lakeside. No action was taken, the matter being postponed until next week in order that the different specifications may be examined and the worth of the different machines passed upon. Provision was made for both the new hall and the new apparatus by the conference committee last fall.

The residents of Duluth Heights put in a complaint upon their fire alarm system. They state that at present the alarm doesn't alarm. They would like an air screech whistle with enough volume to it to wake the volunteers, or some other equally effective means of notifying the people that there is a fire some place in the village.

The building inspector was requested to examine the station at West Duluth. Attention has been constantly called to the fact that it is unstable and unsafe, dangerous to pedestrians as well as to the firemen. There is little doubt but that the report of the inspector will concur with this statement.

Pending a decision of the Minnesota supreme court, in which the city of Duluth is trying to compel the Duluth Street Railway company to pay a part of the expense of sprinkling those streets where its tracks run, the officials of the traction company have refused to meet a similar demand on the part of the city of Superior. This was brought out yesterday at a conference of the council committee with General Manager Herbert Warren of the street car company.

Oscar Chajes of Chicago occupied first or second position in the race up to the time Capablanca, the champion of Cuba, made a magnificent finish and beat him out for second place. Chajes tied with Charles Jaffe of the Illinois state champion for third and fourth prizes. Each made a score of nine wins and three losses.

FLASH SIGNALS FOR VESSELS

Duluth Men Patent Device of Value to Vessel Owners.

To overcome the difficulty experienced in exchanging whistle signals in wind at night or on account of conflicting sounds, M. B. Benson, foreman of the Duluth-Superior drawbridge, invented and put in use at the bridge last August, an electric light signal to work in connection with the whistle signal, giving a flash of the same duration and at the same time the whistle is sounded.

The device worked very successfully and caused much favorable comment by marine men who saw the advantage of using it on vessels as well as drawbridges, to avoid misunderstanding of passing and other signals and to enable masters to locate vessels signalling when boats became bunched at night, etc.

John A. Darling, chief of the government engineering department, and Capt. Swenson of the hydrographic office, consider it a great aid to navigation and they so stated in bulletins issued at the time. The board of marine supervising inspectors also strongly favors its use.

The information about the device in the bulletin led to the equipping of the steamer Promise of Detroit, with a somewhat similar device and there is information to the effect that several boats on the Atlantic coast have since been so equipped, indicating that they saw great advantage in its use.

A patent has been obtained, fully covering the working of light in connection with a whistle by solenoid operated valve, lever or other means and a company incorporated under the name of "The Universal Flashlight Signal company," with Mr. Benson as president, and office at Duluth, to manufacture and install the device on vessels and drawbridges. Local marine men believe that the time is not far distant when all vessels having electrical equipment will have the flashlight signal in use. They call attention to its great value as a safety device, a number of accidents having been caused on account of boats giving distress signals in high winds, which could not be heard and when a light could have been seen.

In a fog, boats can be more readily located and the use of the automatic whistle valve relieves the captain of the work of continually pulling the whistle lever.

Boats are compelled to have a whistle located four feet higher than the top of the pilot house in order that escaping steam can be seen if the whistle is not heard in the daytime, but there has been no provision for a visible signal at night.

Heimbach heels are comfortable, they also guard against slipping.

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

R. B. Postal, Highland avenue, Duluth Heights, Duluth, Minn., says: "I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills at different times in the past eight years and they have always given me relief from backache and other symptoms of kidney complaint. I am willing to recommend this remedy, for I have been given the best of proof that it is a good one. I keep Doan's Kidney Pills in the house most of the time."

RUSH PLAY IN EVENTS

Curlers Settle Down to Decide Possession of the Trophies.

St. Louis Competition Progresses Slowly---Games in Bagley.

The interruption of the Northwestern bonspiel held back the play in the local events at the Duluth Curling club, but now the curlers have settled down to determine possession of the various trophies of the club. The only event decided is The Herald event, which went to Will Dinham's rink.

Play has progressed slowly in the St. Louis event, which has been on the cards for some time. Two games remain to be played in the first round, while four remain to be played in the second round. MacDonald, Stillman, Heimick and Brewer have reached the eights. It is expected that the other four rinks to attain the charmed third round will progress that far next week and then the play will settle down to the contest for the possession of the trophy.

The Bagley event is the only event which is being played in squad style this year. The draw was made last week and several games have already been played. A longer time will be required to play off the event in squad style than would be required in bonspiel style, but the games committee will urge the skips to play their games off as soon as possible in order that all events may be completed before the season ends.

The loss of the Manley - McLennan trophy this year took one important event from the Duluth club, so that little trouble is expected in completing the play for the trophies by the time the ice begins to disappear.

Following are the games played in the Bagley event to date:

BIG CROWD TURNS OUT

First Moving Pictures of Duluth Taken in Front of Herald Office.

Films Will Be Shown in All Parts of the World.

"Gee, I'm in a moving picture."
"Say, mister, where will I stand?"
"Is this too near?"
"Will this be seen all over the world?"

These and a thousand other questions and exclamations filled the air in front of The Herald office this morning when The Herald moving picture party, the first of its kind in this country, was recorded by the Lyman H. Howe camera. It was a most successful event and proved the genuine interest Duluth people have in giving Duluth the best possible publicity.

The moving pictures taken will be included in the Lyman H. Howe Travel Festival, four companies of which cover the entire United States and Canada and representatives of which tour the principal nations of the Eastern Hemisphere with travel entertainers. Estimates of the number of people in First street in front of The Herald office vary, but the most conservative put it at 1,500. Others declare there were 3,000 during the fifteen minutes of picture taking.

The camera was moved to various points of vantage where the tiny films recorded the face of everyone in the crowd. It took several officers and the representatives of The Herald and Lyman H. Howe to keep the men, women, and children from filling every inch of ground on First street for nearly a block and traffic was turned for a time so that the camera would not be interrupted. Every window in every building within sight of the lens was crowded with faces. There were people of all ages with all kinds of dress in the field of the pictures. Many boys brought their dogs attached to sleds. Little girls with skis, some on their feet and others in their hands, were happily in the front of the crowd. There was a display of furs and other winter garb by girls that will give other parts of the world some good hints of how attractive are the ways of winter here.

Sleigh loads of people succeeded with difficulty in getting through the throng but several of them with high loads of humanity crossed the camera's view. There were hundreds of men from the downtown district who took or were given leave of absence and arrived just before eleven in time to be a part of this first moving picture ever taken of Duluth.

Today and tomorrow will be busy days for the Howe photographer and his assistants. Pictures of the aerial bridge were taken this afternoon and complete scenes of the ski tournament will be made Sunday.

The picture of The Herald's party and the other views of Duluth including the ski contests may be produced by Mr. Howe in Duluth but no date of the appearance can now be fixed.

EYES RED, WOULD BURN AND STING

Grew Constantly Worse. Could Hardly Work Any More. Used Cuticura Remedies, and in Six Weeks She Was Cured.

"It is just a year ago that my sister came over here to us. She had been here only a few weeks when her eyes began to be red, and to burn and sting as if she had sand in them. Then we used all of the home remedies. She washed her eyes with salt water, used hot tea to bathe them with, and bandaged them over night with tea leaves, but all to no purpose. She went to the drug store and got some salve, but she grew constantly worse. She was scarcely able to look in the light. At last she decided to go to a doctor, because she could hardly work any more. The doctor said it was a very severe disease, and if she did not follow his orders closely, she might lose her eyesight. He made her eyes burn and applied electricity to them, and gave her various ointments. In the two and a half or three months that she went to the doctor, we could see very little improvement.

"Then we had read so much how people had been helped by Cuticura that we thought we would try it, and we cannot be thankful enough that we used it. My sister used the Cuticura Pills for purifying the blood, bathed only with Cuticura Soap, and at night after washing, she anointed her eyes very gently on the outside with the Cuticura Ointment. In one week, the swelling was entirely gone from the eyes, and after a month, there was no longer any mucus or watering of the eyes. She could already see better, and in six weeks she was cured." (Signed) Mrs. Julia Csepicska, 2005 Utah St., St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 25, 1910.

Many severe affections of the eyelids are eczematous or sympathetic. Cuticura Remedies used judiciously seldom fail to prove beneficial in such cases. Send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Boston, for free booklet.

FLOOD OF SUGGESTIONS ENDS SLOGAN CAMPAIGN

Contest Could Be Continued Indefinitely as Far as Ideas Count.

Public Eager to Help in Securing a Fit Sentiment for Sign.

At 10 o'clock this morning entries closed in the slogan contest. Thousands of suggestions have come to the desk of the slogan editor, many of them very good, some of them passably good and many far from adaptable to the purpose, although very good in themselves. Then, of course, there came some that were absurd. The jests of the joshers didn't do anything worse than make the days happier for the intended victim, however, and persuaded him to the belief that this is a jocund world, after all.

In spite of the fact that so many suggestions have poured in, it is doubtful that the right one has come to the attention of those immediately interested. However, whether the suggestion awarded the first rank in this contest is used as a slogan on the electric sign or not, The Herald will pay its author the prize of $10.

This contest was inaugurated for the purpose of helping the publicity committee of the Duluth Commercial club in its plan to select a slogan for use in a great electric sign to be built on the hillside or hill-top. The plan is only a tentative one, but it is safe to say that the sign will in all probability be put up. It was desired to secure some phrase that would best express a Duluth sentiment of greeting, possibly combining with the greeting a message of some sort, to travelers coming into the city by lake and railroad. The idea was first put forward by Chairman Ryerson of the publicity committee and it met with immediate and general approval.

The day Mr. Ryerson suggested the plan as one that might with profit to the city be carried out, The Herald published its offer of a prize. The public took to the notion with gratifying enthusiasm and letters poured in by the hundred every day. They came from all parts of the country, from Canada too. Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan contributed their quotas of suggestions, while in this country the letters came from as widely separated points as Seattle and Tampa. In most instances, the writers mentioned that they were not residents of Duluth; some of them had been, and others were merely interested in the slogan contest because they had seen the city and had not forgotten.

Of course, most of the suggestions came from Duluth people, but all through the Northwest, and especially on the ranges and in the counties adjacent to St. Louis county, the liveliest interest was taken in the contest. Michigan people sent in rafts of ideas, and North Dakota and Montana people eagerly entered into the task of helping Duluth find an acceptable slogan.

Besides demonstrating that Duluth is deservedly popular as a city in all parts of the country, this contest has served to show that The Herald, while thoroughly covering the home territory, carries the name and news of the excellencies of the Zenith City far and wide. That is the mission of The Herald.

Arrangements will be made for a survey of the suggestions received and for the awarding of the prize. The prize will be awarded by disinterested persons, of course. Announcement will be made next week of the manner in which this will be done and by whom.

The list published today indicates that a contest of this kind could be continued indefinitely with no abatement of public interest and desire to help.

WOULD USE OWN MONEY

ploiting German loans to the bigger profits thus secured. It is astonishing with what carelessness second rate foreign paper is admitted to the German market. The securities of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway were declared to be the best class of investments and pay 7 per cent, but it is asserted without contradiction that this railway recently shows reduced earnings and that its dividends are kept up to 7 per cent only in order not to discredit the large sums placed in Germany. This and other American securities show fluctuations unknown to Germany.

Americans Have More Money.

"Why do not Americans keep these securities for themselves? They have more money than we have. They do not find any railway material in Germany. Their high tariff renders this impossible and the Payne tariff law permits the rising of the rate against us to a maximum of 100 per cent. The investment of German capital in American railway securities only places this capital at the disposal of the American iron industry which competes with ours in many over-seas markets, especially in South America. Thus the German stock market is rendered more dependent than ever over the New York stock exchange and this dependence has already become very marked. We have no reason to show a conciliatory spirit towards Americans who have not treated us with especial amiability."

plunge, and leave the great God-declared opportunity strongly alone.

The Fight For a "Living."

"First—Let me answer this question from the plain dominant economic conditions among us. This is the all-reigning thing of our day. I am not to contend that the matter of wage is not important, nor would fail to appreciate the fact that the actual return for work done in our country is one of our distinct American virtues. I wish every man could get more wages, and that every dollar would buy more luxuries. But come now and look square at the great struggle of life. These toiling hosts of men and women; men covered with soot and grease and smoke and sweat; men in glow of glaring furnaces; men hewing wood and drawing water; men bent over desks in stuffy foul offices; men clamoring and shouting on market floors Step right out here on our main street and watch the passing throng. Men and women, old and young, gentle and simple, fair and foul, rich and poor, merry and sad—hurrying bustling, scrambling. Through cold and storm they go until trampled down and falling out at last. Let us take our stand and shout at them as they go by. No, as we run, on with them for even we cannot stop.

"I don't decry the rampant life. I only want the ears of men a minute. I ask what is there in it? And they answer me with panting breath, 'A living!' And nothing needs asking more today than 'What's in a living.' We are a life! That is sure. I have no excuse whatever if I lose my senses and act the fool and sell out all I have for a living—$15 or $500 per week. No matter what the figure. The real question now is not to find vindication by amount, but to declare condemnation for any amount. If a man sells at all! To every man or woman here who has allowed their whole energy to be spent on making a living, I ask you most solicitously, 'What is there in it, anyhow?' What if you didn't make it? What if you starved to death What would the dreaded wolf get if he got you Are you in shape to give me a real fair answer as an immortal soul?

The Round of Pleasure.

"Second: But I must seek farther for an answer before I can take up the answer of Christianity which makes of the gospel of Jesus the never-out-of-date preachment to a world like this. I took my question one day to a man I saw reeling his uncertain way down the street. I followed him to his impoverished little home where I found sparsely furnished rooms. I waited till he had flung himself in a heap in his chair behind the stove, and the overworked heart-broken wife and mother had gathered her little family, poorly clad, about the scantily spread table to devour a much impoverished meal. And then I stepped up to that miserable drunken sot, and shouted into his ear to waken him—What is there in it?

"I found the schedule of a woman whose whole time was taken in one ceaseless round. Every day receptions, and teas. New and extravagant clothes and every possible equipment. Many times from sheer exhaustion and the fevered sameness of it all I heard a sigh from her inmost soul. And one afternoon as she returned from a 'perfectly lovely function' and before she made ready for the 'evening affair,' I ventured to put to her by inquiry—Tell me what is there in it?

"I was interested in a young man once, of promising parts. One time he was full of good works, never missed his church. But there came over him a strange change. He ceased to be in his accustomed pew. And I found he had grown careless about Sunday observance. He did many things on God's day that at least tended to blunt the sacred significance of it all. Then he easily drifted into questionable things. And today he is not only cold toward religious things, but utterly out with the church. And one evening just before he left his room for a night's revel, I got his ear just long enough to suggest the good past and point to his lost positions, for today he is out of a job, and I asked him also, 'What is there in it?'

"I cannot continue this, but I went to many and they answered me in unison with the same phrase as though all arranged—'We are having a good time.' Now, I don't object to a good time. I believe in it thoroughly. I only want it measured right. Ruskin somewhere speaks of the necessity of keeping together the plow and pleasure. Being dawdled is not pleasure. And we must admit that nothing, not even hunger has ever driven men to such baseness, as thirst for pleasure. Here lies the breakdown of the mere pleasure hunter. How do you think a man can be amused when he has doubts and is haunted ever as to whether or no life is really worth living?

Christianity's Answer.

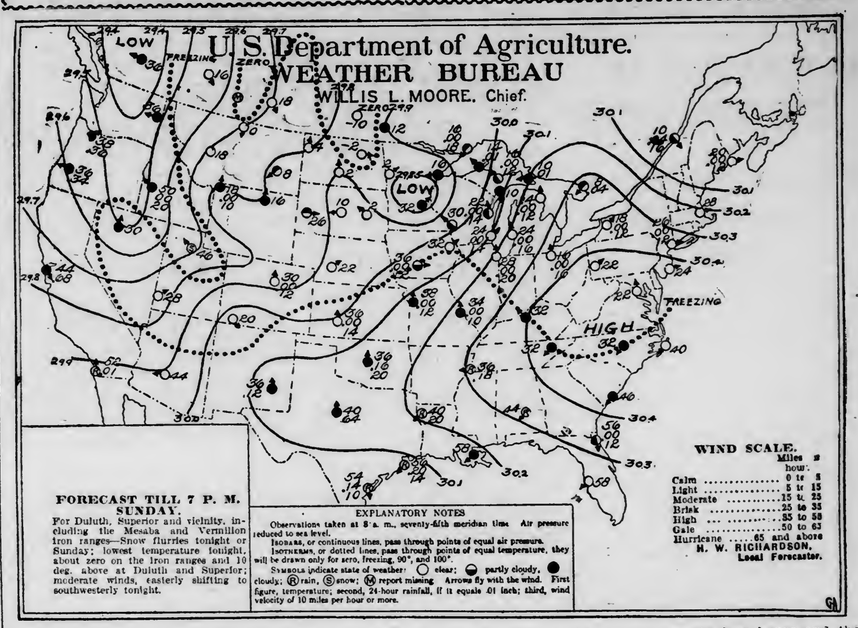

"3rd. But I must put my inquiry again. I know where now is a man working a great fight. The stream of life up which he is forcing his hard way is almost too swift at times. But he won't surrender. His face is set as a flint. Temptations come. He is told often that if he would swerve a bit he could make an easier living. He is told that if he would give up some of his puritanic ideas he could have great pleasure. Oh, he has been told a great deal and some folks think he is a fool. But he is as true to God as truth can be, and I want to ask that young man our question.

"I know where this minute sits a dear old woman. Suffering death is a daily experience to her. Days, months, years she has sat helpless and in pain. Come with me and step up to her room. Her children called me just last week thinking she was really about to die. As you draw near with this question, you won't get to ask it, for from her thin strung lips you will hear as I hear it so often, 'The mountains shall not depart, from thee, neither shall the covenant of My mercy be removed, saith the Lord that hath mercy on thee.' And you will agree with me you have heard an answer there sure.

"And I concluded to ask it once more of a very old man I know. He is past 80 years, blessed old man. He lived an honorable industrious life, and now is slowly burning into the very socket and will be snuffed out soon. He lies in his bed, and his long thin bloodless fingers clutch at the worn coverlid. His lusterless eyes are shut. The long gray hairs falling little cared for on his pillow. The hour is not far away. And I stepped up to that familiar bed and whispered in his ear, 'What is there in it, Grandpa?' And he never even opened his eyes, just went on with the Psalm that was already in his soul, 'Yea though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil'—and on till he had finished the lovely strains. And I said, as I took my hat to leave, 'No one on earth can answer our inquiry like the Christian.' I submit it to your fair judgment. 'The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life.'"

SNOW

This is fair enough weather for anybody. The promised snow didn't fall last night and the evening was fair and mild. Today is a beautiful winter day with a cloudy sky and even, comfortable temperature. Snow flurries are promised for tonight, with the temperature about 10 deg. above zero in Duluth.

The temperature a year ago today was about zero.

The sun rose this morning at 7:20 and it will set at 5:26 this evening, giving ten hours and six minutes of sunlight.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The low pressure conditions central this morning over Minnesota and British Columbia have caused warmer weather over the western Lake region, the Mississippi and lower Missouri valleys and the central Rocky Mountains, beside rain in Pacific and Western gulf states, Oklahoma and Western Tennessee. The Mississippi valley high pressure has advanced to Middle Atlantic states, the principal result being a drop in temperature over the eastern Lake region, North Atlantic states and the St. Lawrence valley. At the Head of the Lakes the outlook favors only slight changes in temperature and occasional snow flurries during the ensuing thirty-six hours."

BETTER CHANCE OF SUCCESS

Senator Cheadle Expects Reapportionment Bill to Pass.

"The outlook for reapportionment is becoming constantly brighter," said State Senator Harry W. Cheadle today upon his return from the Saintly City.

Senator Cheadle states that he is confident that a reapportionment bill will pass the present legislature. But he is rather uncertain as to whether or not it will be passed to take effect two or four years hence. He explains that those most directly interested have made a careful survey and canvass of the situation and that they report that there is not a question but that a reapportionment measure to take effect four years hence can be put through. He is hopeful that a bill may be put through to take effect two years from this session.

Senator Cheadle declares that despite some reports to the contrary, the Cashman distance tariff bill is far from being a dead proposition. He says that the men who are fighting for it are as determined as ever and that they will not quit until they are certain that all hope is lost.

Touching upon the matter of raising the salaries of the county officials, Senator Cheadle said that the recommendations of the Commercial club were largely followed in the bill which was presented to the legislature. He says further that he is satisfied that the bill allowing the people to vote upon the women's suffrage question is likely to pass the senate, and he would not be surprised to see it submitted to the people at the next state election as a constitutional amendment.

ANOTHER CLASS AT THE BANGOR MINE

Is Receiving Instructions in Giving First Aid to Injured.

Aurora, Minn., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The work in first aid to the injured, which has been carried on for some time at the Bangor mine, is meeting with much success. The present class has a membership of thirty-five. Capt. J. T. Vickers is president of the class and has the work in charge. He is ably assisted by Dr. C. W. Bray of Biwabik.

The work consists of instruction in the various methods of caring for a person who might be seriously injured at the mines while awaiting the arrival of a physician. The men take a regular course of instruction and are given certificates. The work is very similar to the work of the Red Cross society and Capt. Vickers hopes to have an alliance formed with that body in the near future, when the men will be able to secure Red Cross certificates.

The men are much interested in their work, but are also taking up other work at the same time. A committee has recently been appointed which is arranging for a concert to be held at Pineville in the near future. They also have an athletic association for the teaching of wrestling and boxing.

The present class is the second which has been organized at the Bangor, a class of twenty members having been graduated in January. Classes are being organized in this work at various mines on the range and the movement is meeting with much encouragement.

LOCATE CREAMERY IN GRAND RAPIDS

Itasca Co-operative Association Will Locate Plant in Village.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—A meeting of the Itasca Co-operative Creamery association officials was held at the office of Village Recorder Le Febre Thursday afternoon to discuss the securing of a site for a creamery. All of the officers were present except Director Buck. The meeting expressed itself in favor of a site downtown, but felt that the village or the business people should donate or supply such a site free of charge to the association. In a body the officials viewed the various sites suggested, and talked to as many owners as they could see. From the canvass they came to the conclusion that a site could be secured at a very reasonable price.

The plan which seemed most feasible to the meeting was that the village purchase a site and lease it to the association, rent free, as long as it is used for creamery and kindred purposes by the co-operative concern, and that as soon as it was used for other purposes, to revert back to the village. Director William Hoolihan was appointed as a committee to confer with the village council at its next meeting. If the association cannot secure a site downtown from the village or from the business people, it is their purpose to accept the offer of William Hoolihan of a free site on the southwest corner of his farm.

ITASCA COUNTY BOARD SESSION

Various Matters Pertaining to Affairs of Neighboring County Come Up.

Grand Rapids, Minn., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Itasca county board in session this week looked over the preliminary sketches of the proposed changes in the courthouse submitted by Architect D. V. Case. The plans will call for the use of part of the basement.

The sum of $300 was refunded C. D. Lyons and Frank Payne of Ball Club for unexpired saloon license, their place having been closed by the government.

The board instructed County Surveyor Brown to survey Judicial Ditch No. 2, and appointed L. W. Huntley, F. A. Johnson and Olaf Lind as viewers. This ditch is to drain Blackberry lake, running two miles south to the Mississippi river. The ditch will drain several hundred acres of swamp lands in Trout Lake town.

The county surveyor was instructed to survey the new road from Feeley to Bruce.

The application of Frank Payne to sell liquor at Ball Club was laid over until the next meeting of the board.

The annual financial statement of the county was approved by the board and ordered published.

Petitions for a road in towns 55-27 and 142-25 and a road running from Trout lake north to Marble were presented and committees appointed to view same.

Will Lower Lake Level.

County Surveyor Brown made a report on the Horseshoe Lake ditch, which was accepted and ordered filed for future reference. It is proposed to lower the level of Horseshoe lake by a short ditch, thus giving a better and more dry roadbed for the Horseshoe lake road.

The sum of $8,000 was appropriated to be expended on state roads. The state road fund furnishes one-third of the money expended on state roads in the respective county, and enough has been set aside to get the limit of the Itasca county state appropriation, which is something over $2,000 per year.

J. S. Loberg, superintendent of construction on the new addition to the county jail reported that the plumbing, electric wiring and cell work and painting on the new addition had been satisfactorily completed with the exception of a little painting on the outside of the building.

State Inspector Foley of the state board of control made minor recommendations on the condition of the jail and the poorhouse. Among the recommendations for the jail was a new bath for the women's department and some painting in the old section of the jail. He called attention to the fact that more room and a better poorhouse are needed, for the care of the poor, the present quarters being too small and not adapted for the purpose of economically caring for the poor. The matters were referred to the courthouse and jail committee.

County Auditor Spang was authorized to advertise for bids for the construction of a bridge over the Swan river at the Wilmann place on the Feeley-Bovey road. Advertisements for bids for wood for the courthouse were also authorized.

The depository bond of the First National Bank of Coleraine in the sum of $50,000 was approved.

A resolution was passed requiring the bills to the county to be O. K'ed by the party receiving the goods or services and one member of the county board.

Several abatements and the usual number of bills were allowed, and the board adjourned until March 7.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council has taken steps to prevent the local business places from being flooded when the snow melts in the spring by having the street department clear Grand avenue of the large piles of snow on the sides of the thoroughfares. The sidewalks are also being covered with ashes to prevent falls, and both the sidewalks and streets are being kept in a safe, passable condition.

GILBERT'S HIGH PRONOUNCED FINE

New Structure Declared to Be About Best in This Section.

Gilbert, Minn., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The carpenters have finished the greater part of their work on the new high school. The sheet metal workers will be in the building for three weeks and the electricians will finish their work within the coming month. The marble workers and plaster artists from Chicago have completed their contracts. The Spencer Heating & Ventilating company, and the plumbing companies will also finish during the month.

Electrician Trichler of the Trichler Electrical company of Virginia was in town this week, figuring on the electrical supplies for the new high school. He expressed himself enthusiastically on the new structure, giving it as his opinion that the Gilbert high school was the most artistic, both inside and out, of any in Northern Minnesota, and that the effeciency was far greater than any school building that he had ever inspected.

BOWLERS READY FOR NEXT MONDAY

Currie's Kittens of Virginia to Meet Fitgers of Duluth at Pin Knocking.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Much interest is manifested among the bowlers in the game with the Fitgers of Duluth next Monday night at the Lusk & Sigel alleys.

Currie's Kittens will be pitted against the Duluth bunch, and as the locals have defeated everything in this part of the country the boys from the Zenith City will have to go some to win.

The high scores for the week in local alleys: Murray, 222, 298; Rogers, 222, 229; Rivers, 227, 207; Taylor, 227, 213, 211; Ellers, 218, 221; Currie, 232, 222, 231; McCoy, 211, 214; Klabosek, 213, 293; Backus, 232, 211; Bellman, 218, 206.

TWO HARBORS TRIO DECLARED WINNERS

High School Team Has Captured Eight District Debating Honors.

Two Harbors, Minn., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Two Harbors high school debating team won the championship of the Eighth district of the Minnesota State Debating league by unanimously defeating the Pine City team in a debate held at the high school assembly hall last evening. Pine City upheld the affirmative, being represented by James Clark, Lillian Polk and Elenore Clark, while Two Harbors defended the negative, represented by Edwin Strand, Leroy Pegelow and Carl Olson. Two of the judges were from the University of Minnesota, Prof. W. O. Clure and Prof. Rarick, president of the state debating league, and Supt. C. H. Barnes of Ely. John Dwan was chairman. The senior trio, composed of Myrtle Nelsenius, Edith Falk and Lela Dorger as the opening number of the program, sang "Crossing the Bar" and "Boating Song." After the debate, a special chorus sang selections from the "Pirates of Pensance."

Commission Form Discussed.

The question debated was: "Resolved, That the city of Minneapolis should adopt a commission form of government." The local boys excelled both in thought and delivery, being especially strong on their constructive arguments. The two Harbors team has now had three victories over outside teams, having previously defeated the Duluth Centrals and the Irving Industrials of Duluth.

The preliminary debates are now over and Two Harbors enters the state contest. The local team has always upheld the negative side, but it is likely that in the next debate with another district, will have to change and take up the affirmative side. One noticeable effect of the debates held at the high school on the commission form of government is that, whereas before the people in general in this city were in favor of the commission plan, the attitude is changing.

After the debate a reception was given in one of the recitation rooms in honor of the visiting team, who were accompanied by Supt. McAdam and Miss Gunn of Pine City. The Marine band came as a surprise immediately after the debate and played several selections. Great hopes are being entertained that the local boys may carry off the state championship.

DULUTHIANS TO PREACH

To the German Lutherans of Eveleth on Sunday.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. Herman Drews of the St. Matthew church, Duluth, and Rev. William Greve of West Duluth, will preach to the German Lutherans Sunday. Rev. Greve will preach at the Swedish Lutheran church in the afternoon, while Rev. Mr. Drews will conduct services at the Swedish Mission church.

Rev. Mr. Drews has been engaged by members of the German Lutheran Grace Mission church, which was organized Jan. 1, while Rev. Mr. Greve started his local congregation last month. The two local German Lutheran congregations have been at outs since the formation of the Rev. Greve congregation, and the members of that belief here feel certain that a substantial edifice of worship could be erected here if the two factions could work in harmony.

Rev. Phillip A. Schwarz, Jr., of the First Presbyterian church and Rev. George W. Turner of the First Presbyterian church at Gilbert will exchange pulpits tomorrow.

Appropriate Lincoln services will be held at the local churches tomorrow. At the Methodist Episcopal church Rev. D. B. Hanscomb tomorrow morning will speak on "Abraham Lincoln," while in the evening he will preach on "The Name Christian." A special quartet will furnish appropriate vocal numbers at the evening service. At the St. John's Episcopal church appropriate services will be conducted with Rev A. E. Carswell in charge.

Eveleth School Dances.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Though the school boards of other range towns have tabooed school dances, the dances in the local high school, held weekly, are sanctioned, and are conducted in a proper manner. A class in dancing was recently started by Misses Gem Sherman and Grace Darrah of the high school faculty and many of the students have joined. Music is furnished by the high school orchestra of five pieces.

Route for Proposed Range Electric Railway Is Mapped Out.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Duluth engineers who have been surveying routes for the proposed range electric road have completed their work here and returned to the Zenith City. According to the routes laid out the new road will enter Eveleth from Mud Lake, continue along Adams avenue to Pierce street, up Pierce street to Chandler avenue and then out to Fayal road which connects with the county road which leads to Gilbert. It is believed the road will be extended to Aurora in time. It is planned to have the new road completed by next spring and with this in mined it is believed the backers of the traction company will soon apply here for a franchise.

Whiskey For Colds.

Fine Formula for Old Time Remedy Cured Thousands Here Last Winter.

The increased use of whiskey for colds is causing considerable discussion among the medical fraternity. It is an almost infallible cure when mixed with certain other ingredients and taken properly. Mix as follows: "Two ounces of Glycerine and half an ounce of Concentrated Pine compound. Put these into half a pint of good whiskey. Shake well and take one to two teasponfuls after each meal and at bed time." Smaller doses to children according to age. This treatment often knocks the worst cough or cold in a day. But be sure to get only the genuine (Globe) Concentrated Pine. Each half ounce bottle comes in a sealed tin screw-top case. If the druggist does not have it in stock he will quickly get it. Don't experiment with cheap uncertain mixtures. It is very risky.

IN THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD

AUTO OWNERS—SAVE THIS MAP FOR REFERENCE.

This map, prepared under the direction of County Surveyor E. K. Coe for the county board of commissioners, shows all the roads about Duluth.

It took something like seven months to gather the data for the map and about three months of hard work to draw it. The map as shown here is not even a quarter of the whole.

On the original map in Mr. Coe's office every stream, railroad, road and lake in the entire county is shown. The map is in three sections and each section is very large. It was drawn on a large scale so that the lines could the more easily be followed.

This small portion of the map that is reproduced should be a great help to people who drive automobiles and who have had at previous times trouble in finding their way about on the roads near the city.

On the big map all the roads are plainly marked but the names could not be shown plainly on a map that had been reduced several times.

HORSES TO BE ABOLISHED?

They Do Much to Spread Disease Germs in the City.

Trucks Would Be Cheaper From Every Standpoint, It Is Claimed.

Horses may be abolished from city streets of Chicago. It is pointed out that the economic loss alone resulting from the employment of horses in modern municipalities that have in reality outgrown the age that found these animals serviceable, makes it as clear to progressive economists as to scientists that civilization should relegate the horse to a past age and forbid his presence in cities, as the keeping of hogs, sheep and cattle has been forbidden for many years in the congested sections of our largest cities.

Also it is declared that the horse is the principal source of littre in city streets. The cost of cleaning the streets of New York city, for instance, amounts to more than $6,000,000 a year, of which $2,134,195 is paid for sweeping, $1,747,350 for carting and $1,180,685 for final disposition. Cost of administration accounts for the balance. A very large percentage of this would be saved if all the horses were replaced with motor trucks, delivery wagons and other forms of commercial machines and by pleasure cars. The same of course, holds true in Chicago and other large municipalities.

Of even greater importance is the fact that when the street litter caused by horses becomes dried and is blown about it carries germs into the lungs of those who live or work in the city, thereby increasing the cost of hospital maintenance, medical service and causing an increased death rate, with its direct loss to the community. The yearly victims to the dust nuisance are placed at 20,000 in New York city alone, whose aggregate value to the municipality, at the value of $2,500, which the individual in modern society is considered to have, is $50,000,000. Sanitary science is confronted by the formidable fact that there are in the cities of America 2,936,887 horses and 173,208 mules, making a total quadruped population that has become a curse to municipal civilization of no less than 3,110,789.

American cities, scientists make plain, would be comparatively free from flies but for the presence of horses in the stables and streets. The more than 3,000,000 horses and mules make possible the breeding places of flies by multiplying billions. And flies are not only a nuisance, but are extremely active distributers of disease, including the dread typhoid.

Again, it is made apparent that the saving each month in operating a 2,500-pound capacity motor delivery wagon, as compared with horse vehicles to do equivalent work, amounts to approximately $1,400 a year. Hence, if in one small firm the loss incurred amounts to more than $1,400 annually because of retaining horses, the total loss to an industrial and commercial community like Chicago becomes prodigious.

Railroad presidents are pointing out that the great cost of food and other supplies in the metropolis is due, not alone to the cost of the long haul from the farm and factory, but also to the price paid for trucking within the city. While railway freight rates tend to decline, the cost of trucking in great municipalities is steadily rising. This is due in great measure to growing traffic congestion, increasing cost of feeding, rising rentals of stables and wage increases demanded by teamsters and drivers. The 120,099 horses hitched to vehicles in New York add a long and unnecessary line to the traffic parade. Counting eight feet from the dashboard to the horse's head, the city submits to a daily procession taking up nearly 200 miles in the streets. If the horses were eliminated the pedestrian millions would suffer much less delay in their weary waitings to cross the crowded streets. Furthermore, the horse truck will average about four miles an hour, while the motor truck will make from ten to fifteen, so that if power wagons were universally used the rate of traffic movement would be doubled or trebled and a great saving would result to all business establishments.

Of all manufacturing trades, the brewing industry seems to use the motor truck and delivery wagon most extensively. The Anheuser-Busch installation in St. Louis aggregates sixty-five or more, both gasoline and electric, all housed in the company's own garage. One truck manufacturing concern alone has sold sixty-three three-ton trucks to thirty different brewing companies. The Anheuser-Busch equipment ranges from 1-ton trucks to trucks of 5-tons' capacity. The largest machines, which are electric, average twenty miles an hour, while the lighter ones average from twenty-five to thirty miles. Out of the fifty electrics in use never more than one or two are laid up for repairs, and there have been periods of as many as ten days when all were in condition for service.

ACTRESS HAS "SOME" CAR

Mrs. Carter Has Limousine Built After Her Own Ideas.

Footman Blows a French Le Testophone, What Ever That Is.

Mrs. Leslie Carter's ambition to own the most distinctive, beautiful and the costliest creation of the automobile and carriage builder's craft has at last been realized.

The car was built on a 70-horse power, Thomas chassis, and in body and design and interior decoration is unlike anything ever seen in this country.

When Mrs. Carter placed her order for the car she gave strict instructions that no expense was to be spared. Her own ideas were followed out and are decidedly of the Parisian type. The color scheme is yellow and green, the yellow being mixed especially for her and has since been standardized as "Carter" yellow.

The upper panels of the body are yellow and are worked over with imported white French cane work, thus toning them down to an exquisite ivory shade. The upper panels of the doors have been treated in the same manner. The lower panels are in green. The back is plain yellow with Mrs. Carter's crest and coat of arms worked in the center. The coat of arms is also worked on the doors.

Two large oval windows are built in each side of the car and two smaller ones in the back. The driver's seat is enclosed with foredoors, but it is not protected with a glass front, a mammoth searchlight, which is to be operated by the footman, taking up the space.

The interior decorations are the most expensive and gorgeous obtainable. Over $500 worth of gold lace from the original design made for the sultan of Turkey is used. The permission to use this design was obtained by Mrs. Carter personally from the sultan and it has been made only for these two notables. The sultan's coat of arms is woven in the design every three inches. The upholstering is of cream colored hand buffed leather, also imported from Paris.

Concealed cabinets are built in each side of the car and open when a hidden spring is touched. A gold speedometer and clock are among the many lavish interior fittings. Costly Turkish rugs cover the floor and the car is heated electrically.

Mrs. Carter retains her own mechanic and driver, who was present when the car was assembled. She also carries a footman, who sits on the driver's seat and blows a French le testophone, an imported winding shaped horn of five notes. The commonplace "honk honk" of the ordinary automobile horn, Mrs. Carter declared, cheapened her beautiful car. The mellow tones of the le testophone, she said, also carry a great distance and give warning to the attendants at her country home at New Rochelle that she is approaching.

MOTOR TRUCK IS NO INFANT

Business Motor Is Much Older Than the Pleasure Vehicle.

Earliest Self-Propelled Road Wagons Built Across Water in 1763.

The motor truck is no infant. Likewise it is a mistake to think of the commercial and industrial motor vehicle as an offshoot of the pleasure car business. Nothing is further from the truth. The business motor vehicle is older than the pleasure car. It was its progenitor, in fact. True, the infant grew faster and attained larger proportions in a few years, but the motor truck and delivery wagon have been developing steadily while the pleasure car grew to maturity.

Historians of the motor car relate that the earliest self-propelled road vehicles, built in France and England as long ago as 1763 and 1788, were steam coaches constructed to carry passengers and baggage on the old stage routes out of Paris and London. Even coming down to modern times, it will be recalled by those who have watched the development of the automobile in America, that among the earliest models of electric and steam vehicles away back in the '90s, from twelve to fourteen years ago, there were a considerable number of delivery wagons, stages, brakes and other models that were employed for business purposes, and at least one Chicago concern devoted its attention exclusively to the production of heavy gasoline delivery wagons, omnibuses and twelve and eighteen passenger brakes and stages.

From that period down to the present time a few manufacturers have been building electric and gasoline commercial cars continuously. Others that came into the field a little later have been building trucks, delivery wagons and other types of industrial machines for fully ten years. As compared with present day vehicles the early electric and gasoline freight and passenger cars were heavy, inefficient and poorly designed, while the steam wagons were too light and troublesome to be a commercial success. Nevertheless, some of the business machines built ten years ago are today in regular service.

Even some members of the motor car trade still talk of the commercial motor vehicles as a "coming development," whereas the fact is that it is here already, and is much more strongly intrenched than is generally realized. A few years ago automobile manufacturers, news and trade papers and the public in general thought that the pleasure car industry had developed marvelously, when it really was of no greater magnitude than the industrial motor car business of today. Getting down to cold figures to prove this statement, it may surprise many who have thought they were posted on the whole motor car trade, to learn that there are now 130 companies in the United States that are actually producing and marketing motor trucks, delivery wagons and special forms of self-propelled industrial vehicles. In addition to these there are as many more that have built experimental work machines or first models, thus raising the present potential strength of the industry to approximately 300 manufacturers. There is good reason to believe that in a comparatively short time the number of commercial vehicle builders will equal if it does not exceed the number of pleasure car manufacturers, because every pleasure car company which has not already done so is likely to devote some attention and energy to the production of machines for business purposes, and in addition to these concerns there are already many well established companies that are manufacturing such vehicles exclusively.

BACK FROM AUTO SHOW

Duluth Dealers Return From the Big Chicago Exhibition.

Outlook for Prosperous Season This Year Is Very Promising.

Among the Duluth automobile dealers who visited the great Chicago automobile show are William Buchanan, E. J. Fillatrault, and A. M. Russell.

All three of the returning Duluth dealers are enthusiastic over the show and they all agree that it was the best ever attempted in the Windy City.

Those who attended the show say that while every one was conservative, they all are looking forward to 1911 as the best automobile season yet experienced.

The wild-cat days are over and while people are not this year talking as much about automobiles as they have for the past two or three, there is a steady, quiet trade and many cars are being sold and some times to people to whom the dealers think there is but little chance of making a sale.

Last year and the year before were the years during which the medium priced cars held the boards, but few of the higher priced cars being sold. This year it is again the higher priced cars that are being sold.

There are many of the cheaper cars being sold too, but it is the costly cars that are being purchased to greater extent this year.

In Duluth it is known that at least six fine new cars of the best American makes have been ordered and will be seen on the city streets early in the spring. Only one of these is replacing an old car. The other five are all new owners. This shows that people are looking to the big, roomy and powerful touring car for real comfort and are willing to pay for it.

The Duluth dealers are enthusiastic over the outlook for big business during the coming season. Nearly every make of car is now represented by an agent here and there is no need to go out of the city to get the best in automobiles.

MINNESOTA UNIVERSITY

Operetta "The Girl in the Moon" Withdrawn By Its Author.

Many Students to Take Parts Were Deficient in Work.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 11.—(Special to the Herald.)—"The Girl in the Moon," the operetta written by Edgar Allen and which was to have been staged and presented by the Men's Union of the University of Minnesota has been withdrawn by the author. Reasons for the withdrawal have come from the application of the academic faculty ruling that no student with a deficiency in his work shall be allowed to take part in student activities, to the entire cast and to all students connected in any way with the opera. In speaking of his withdrawal of the play, Mr. Allen stated that inasmuch as the application of the ruling would force the opera to be given with an exceedingly infefior and mediocre cast, he thought that the presenting of it would be of no value to the Men's union and that, in fact, the production would be so poor that it would work harm rather than good. Just what the union will do, the managers cannot say at present. In all probability it will result in the abandoning of any presentation of a play or opera this year.

The annual time-honored senior cap and gown parade was observed, Thursday morning. Starting from the corridor of Folwell hall, the parade marched down University avenue to the main gate and then over the campus into chapel. As the seniors filed into chapel a new song, written by the author of "Hail Minnesota" was sung, and was also sung during the exercises by the male quartet. The parade was to have been led by President Northrop in his doctor's gown but the cold weather prohibited this. Instead, he greeted the seniors upon their arrival with one of his most inspiring chapel talks. Over 200 seniors from all departments took part in this time-honored custom.

Regent George Sommers presided at the meeting of the finance committee on Tuesday. He and Prof. Nicholson, in speaking of the policy to be pursued, emphasized the fact that their function is to educate and co-operate with the students rather than act the part of the detective. They will try to protect the college activities from unfounded accusations and blackmail and the advertisers from dishonest schemes.

"Initiated," the play written and presented by the senior class of last year, has been accepted by a Chicago theatrical production house and will soon be sent on the road. The play was acknowledged to be an unusually successful senior production, through the efforts of Lelia Witchie, who plays the leading role and who is now connected with the theatrical company in Chicago, the manuscript was submitted to the officers of the company. The class play committee has accepted the offer of $70 for the play, with royalties of 10 per cent.

Plans for a new girls' gymnasium are on foot among the women of the university. The women of the alumni association have formed an associate board which will co-operate with the college athletic association for furthering the plan.

The gymnasium for girls is one of the most keenly felt wants of the university. At present the girls are required to take gymnasium work during their freshman year and a portion of the armory building has been fitted up as a girls' gymnasium. The rooms are entirely inadequate, however, and every one acknowledges that a building must soon be provided.

The "Senior Engineer's Song" is finally to be put up in book form. A committee has been appointed to revise and add new verses to the song and get it up in printed form. It is a tradition of long standing among the engineers that each senior class adds a few verses to the song, and in this way it has grown until it now has about thirty-five verses. The book will be of the loose leaf paper form, so that each senior class can add to the song.

Since its organization in the spring of last year, the student's council has acted upon five cases of cheating and plagiarism. Of these, three cases were considered by the Woman's council and two by the Men's council. In the case of one girl, a senior last year, who handed in a note book which had been copied, the Woman's council imposed as punishment extra work in the English department. Another case of plagiarism was punished by the girl being dropped from the rolls of the university. Recently a girl charged with copying parts of themes from dramatic criticisms was suspended from college for one year. One of the cases that came before the Men's council was dropped because of lack of evidence. The other case, that of a senior who cribbed in finals, was decided by denying the man his degree and suspending him from college for two years.

MANY INDICTMENTS.

Grand Jury at Danville, Ill., Returns 216 True Bills.

Danville, Ill., Feb. 11.—The grand jury yesterday returned 216 true bills and adjourned until Monday afternoon. A large number of subpoenas were issued last evening returnable next week, when it is believed, the real work of sifting the charges of political corruption will be commenced. Among the indictments returned were bills against City Attorney Frank W. Jones and Peter Sanichas, a Greek merchant, who are charged with perjury in connection with their testimony in the election inquiry. It was stated that several indictments were returned against vote sellers, and at least one against a vote-buyer, but the names will not be disclosed until the bench warrants are served. It is stated unauthoritatively that the indictment was returned against a vote-buyer in order to secure a test case on points covered by Judge Kimbrough's recent decision that such offenders are immune from punishment because of the unconstitutionality of that section of the city election law providing a penalty for vote-buying. An indictment containing 210 counts was returned against Hardy H. Whitlock, former county treasurer, who is supposed to be in Detroit, charging him with embezzlement. An order was immediately telegraphed to Detroit for his arrest. His bail was fixed at $7,500 by Judge Kimbrough.

An indictment was also returned against Harry L. Freeman, clerk of the probate court who was Whitlock's chief clerk in the treasurer's office, charging him with being accessory before the fact to embezzlement.

CHINESE STARVING.

Two Million People Are in Danger of Losing Their Lives.

Washington, Feb. 11. — Unless relieved, 2,000,000 people in China will die of starvation. This is a calamity predicted by American Consul General Wilder at Shanghai in a cablegram received from him by the American National Red Cross society. The consul general appeals for quick assistance for the suffering people and says that a half a million dollars is needed.

The Red Cross yesterday cabled to China $5,000, which was contributed by John D. Rockefeller. Red Cross committees throughout the United States are collecting supplies to be sent to the stricken people on an army transport from Seattle.

SIGNS OF IMPROVEMENT CONTINUE

New York, Feb. 11.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

Signs of improvement continue to multiply. The marked betterment in the condition of the money and investment markets has served to inspire greater confidence in the industries and trades, and especially in the iron and steel industry, in which there are unmistakable proofs of expanding interest and activity, particularly in finished products. The building outlook brightens perceptibly as the spring approaches, and there is a good prospect of much new construction.

Each succeeding week brings forth new evidence of expansion in iron and steel with the latest statement of the leading interests showing a substantial increase in unfilled orders on hand. There is practically no change in footwear conditions. The market in hides and leather show considerably less activity than previously. The trading in dress goods and noils is wear for fall is along conservative lines, but prospects now are that the mills will secure a very fair business before the fall selling season is over.

Sickness Cured By Mechanical Adjustments of the Spine

The locomotive has its boilers, valves, pipes, sheels, pistons, etc., while the human machine has its heart, stomach, lungs, brain, spine, etc.

The locomotive runs by steam, which has come from water heated from the fires in its boilers, while in the human machine the blood serges through the system. Chemicals are not necessary for either.

We feed the locomotive coal that we fire up, to heat the water that produces the steam. All the food the human being eats, serves as the fuel, which heats the blood in the human body.

When the locomotive breaks down a mechanic is called to fix it. Chemicals are not poured into the damaged boiler, or the clogged pipe, in hope that they would repair the damage. No, the locomotive is given a mechanical overhauling.

When the human machine breaks down what is done. Drugs and chemicals are poured into the system in hope that they will repair the damage and ailment. Do drugs build up an organ? Never. It tears, wears, breaks down the human system, instead. The human machine needs mechanical readjustment the same as the locomotive machinery does.

Disease, sickness, ill-health start from mechanical causes. They must be cured mechanically. Drugs do not build up, replace or adjust the human machinery.

Go where you can get skillful and careful mechanical adjustments when you are ailing. Visit Dr. D. W. Riesland's large Chiropractic offices at 707, 708, 709, 710, 711, 712 Palladio Building, Duluth, Minn.

JACK LESTER HAS PROMISE

Tommy Burns Believes His "Hope" Will Be Next Champion.

Western Man Is But 18 Years Old and Shows Ability.

While quondam notables of the heavyweight species all about the country are vainly striving to "come back," Seattle and Northwestern devotees of the Queensberry game are being diverted by the more fascinating speculation as to whether its most notable representative in the class can "go forward" to that rank where he is entitled to dispute with the immortal black the rights to the greatest title. This bright particular young star whose performances are attracting ever-widening notice is Jack Lester, find of former champion Tommy Burns, and by him made undefeated heavyweight topnotcher of the Northwest.

This animated young wildcat, still two years away from voting age, is generously endowed by nature for the profession he has elected to pursue even at this stage of the career. He is as near perfect physically as a man could hope to be and this bounty of health is stored in a completely built body, upholstered at every point where they are required by thick layers of close-lying muscles, remarkable for even and consistent development.

Built Like Tommy Burns.

Strangely enough, Lester's architecture is much the same in every characteristic feature as the unusual build of his mentor, Burns. His weight is belied by shortcoming of stature, accentuated by a natural slight stoop. But any time Lester is not training to the limit of discretion he tips the beam past the 190-pound mark—and remember he has several "growing years" ahead of him.

Burns first was not impressed by Lester on account of his physical superiorities—Tommy had laughed at a score of aspiring hopes of far greater tonnage who had begged him to take them under his wing.

Burns happened to see the youngster, then ignorant of all save the most elementary tactics of the game, struggling with an opponent far more skilled, as heavily built and in every way apparently entitled to win. Lester, smothered by the attack of the better boxer, and not knowing even how to get power into the blow he tried so desperately to land, won on sheer nerve. He would not see that he was up against what to ninety-nine out of 100 other boxers would have appeared a hopeless proposition. He simply kept going on the principle that the fight would not begin to end until he had been totally disabled.

With the caution of the foregoing paragraph against too high expectation still in mind, it is significant to know Burns' down-in-his-heart confidence in Lester and the latitude of his hope for the boy.

Champion in Eighteen Months.

"Jack Lester will be champion of the world within another eighteen months," declared Burns a few evenings ago, when talking with some close friends of his belief in the youngster. "If I am disappointed in this belief, it will be the biggest mistake in judgment I ever made. It will not come to him any sooner than that, for the simple reason that I will not hazard a single chance he has by rushing him against men fortified by years of experience, limitless knowledge of the game and having the advantage of better perfected training. True, he may meet some setback at any time from now on, but I will not put him up against it at any time I feel he has only a bare chance to win. I don't care a hoop for the spectacular victory; what I want is to beat them step by step until we get into the top ranks. Whenever I send Lester in I am going to tell him he must win and am going to expect him to do it.

Compares Lester With Hart.

"Lester today," said Burns, "I figure is at about that rank I reached when I took on Billy Woods here in Seattle seven years ago. He is as good a man as I was then, and has the advantage of being several years younger. I broke into big notice first probably by beating Marvin Hart. How these things go you can tell by the fact that I was a 1 to 3 bet. I believe Lester is a better man than was the Marvin Hart of that time, and I know he could make a monkey of him as he is at present."

Burns' prodigy hails from Bessemer, a small Michigan town. This fact, which has been announced at several recent matches when Jack was introduced, has been the cause of an uproar from Cle Elum delegations, who have insisted he ought to be introduced as "Jack Lester of Cle Elum, Wash."

FIGHT AL KAUFMANN, SUGGESTS OLD DELANEY.

Billy Delaney has bobed up again in sporting circles, and said the other day in Frisco that if Jim Jeffries had any idea of returning to the ring Al Kaufmann was willing to box him for $10,000 a side.

"I understand," said Delaney, "that Tex Rickard is trying to match Jeffries and Johnson again, and that Jeff is seriously thinking of the affair. Now, the public does not take the thing as seriously as Jeffries does, and if he will defeat Kaufmann there's a chance that the Johnson go might attract some attention. Billy Brady offered to bet $10,000 two years ago that Kaufmann could beat Jeffries, but we never even got a rise out of Berger & Co., the managers of the white hope.

"I have backing right here in Frisco for the same amount and will let Jeffries cut the money any way he likes."

Frisco papers are inclined to think that a Kaufmann-Jeffries go would help stimulate the game some and at least give us a line on the ability of both men as an opponent for the present champion.

Should Jeffries go into training now and refrain from drinking tea and knock Kaufmann out the public certainly would like to see a return match between Johnson and himself, but until he is tried out by another good heavy the Reno affair will stick hard.

CENTRAL SENIORS WIN FROM HUMBLE FRESHIES.

The interclass league of the Central high school basket ball league was opened yesterday by a sweet victory of the haughty seniors over the humble freshmen, the four-year lads vanquishing their little rivals by a 36 to 14 score. The freshies did the best they could and were coming all the time.

Team work and speed proved too much for the freshmen. Joe Boyle caged seven baskets and proved the star of the four-year men. Getz got four baskets for the freshmen.

Johnson	forward	Armstrong
Bevis	center	Sayer
Northfield, Cook	guard	Goetz
Bondy	guard	Lawrence

"WHITE HOPE" MORRIS IS PART INDIAN.

Carl Morris, "the White Hope," is an American way back as far as records go. His father was an Easterner—a German-Yankee—and his mother a Cherokee Indian.

His father is an Eastern man, said to be part Yankee and part German. Morris is probably, considering the mixed blood of the Cherokee, 90 per cent white man, but he counts as an Indian under tribal law and under the rules by which the government gives allotments to the aborigines. Some horse on the 'white man's hope' enthusiasts, isn't it? And yet—how appropriate it would seem should a black man be beaten by a real American, descended from the genuine Americans who were on the job before C\ Columbus discovered the large area!

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

Gotch's Opponent Not Yet Picked—Eau Claire's Little Appeal—Duluth's "White Hope" Challenged—Another "Rassler" Coming West.

(BY BRUCE.)

Who is the man entitled to wrestle Champion Gotch? The wrestling match of Thursday evening has apparently brought the question no nearer to an answer. Who is the man to meet Gotch? That is what the promoters of the country are trying to figure out at the present time.

There is Hackenschmidt, Zbyszko and the Turk. By the odious comparison route not one of these men is as good as the Humboldt shark. After settling the question of supremacy by the comparative dope way we are confronted by the fact that Gotch failed to throw Hackenschmidt in their Chicago match.

But there are those, and they are many, who argue that Gotch has gained in every branch of the wrestling game since the night he caused the Russian Lion to quit. With the three foreigners clamoring for the right to wrestle Gotch, and one American, too, for Cutler now announces, through a letter to this column written by Joe Coffey, that he is ready to meet any man in the world.

It might as well be admitted that there is a question as to the claims of Hackenschmidt, Zbyszko or Mahmout; but the great American public desires to see Gotch and the Russian complete the match that has never been regarded as finished by the wrestling fans, and for that reason it will most likely be Gotch and the Russian.

This Zbyszko is a whale. His immense bulk makes him one of the hardest men in the world to beat. His powers of endurance are wonderful. His great bulk and strength make it very difficult for the ordinary man to defeat him, as Yussif Mahmout, the Bulgarian, knows full well.

When you come right down to facts, rating performance as the basis for them, Zbyszko is more entitled to a match with the champion than is the Turk, the grumbler, and it might be stated, a great wrestler.

All comparisons are made with the wonderful ability of Gotch. Is a man good enough to give the champion a decent match? That is the question that is asked at the present time. Mahmout never troubled the champion; Zbyszko made him go some in the second fall, and, as we know, Hackenschmidt gave him the battle of his life.

There are a great many of us who would very much like to see Hackenschmidt and the Turk wrestle and show us once for all which is the better man. It is true that the wrestlers of the country have turned against the Turk, and there must be some reason for it. Hackenschmidt should put personal reasons aside and meet the sick man of the wrestling game. It would clear the atmosphere and would also tend to make us all enjoy the meeting with Gotch, the one greatest bet in the wrestling world.

One of the newspapers of the league leaders' abode came out the other day with the front page decorated with one of these supplications that would make the appeal of the French revoltuion sufferers sound like the haughty refusal of Mrs. Jones to play bridge while that cheating Mrs. Brown was hiding cards.

Down at Dear Little Eau Claire.

It has called for all patriotic citizens to come to the defense of the baseball team. The caption is in big flare type and tells in high-sounding adjectives of the need of support. The case of Eau Claire is like that of some of the other town of the league. They are not certain just at the present time whether they will have baseball.

Here is what should have been done before the election of officers. The retiring officers should have instituted a house-cleaning and insisted that some of the deficits of the past season be settled and some rating be taken of the goods in the store. In the general excitement attendant on the meeting at Winona this detail was overlooked.

Talking from the business point of view, the men of the Minny league should cut down salaries to the point where baseball can be supported without the patriotic petition being circulated every season. Business men are, in the main, the best fans, and you are very apt to find that they look upon sport with the clear and logical view of man who has been trained to place insistence upon order and intelligent detail.

It is Feb. 11 and several of the towns of the Minnesota-Wisconsin are exceedingly uncertain as to the future. This state has been brought about because baseball has proved a losing venture in more than one of the towns of the league. Expenses should be reduced to meet the revenue accruing from the somewhat lonesome click of the turnstiles.

The First Challenge Has Arrived.

Since the newsy announcement of the springing into the shower bath of publicity of the latest "White Hope," the one sprung on the public by Mons. Lee, attention has been turned to the rangy hills of our beautiful little city.

"Doc" Reid of Chicago, who has many ideas, and likes action and color and life, slips his challenge in under the door, and thereby beats others less energetic than the genial "Doc."

"I have Jim Galvin," said the doctor yesterday, "and he thinks he would like to be a fighter. He isn't sure, and the only way he can ascertain definitely his feelings on the point is to engage in a glove dispute.

"Let him fight the 'White Hope' of your city. The winner would climb steadily on to the first rung of the ladder that is steep and fraught with many pugilistic perils, but to the strong, with the determination of the Excelsior youth, a character I much admire, leads straight to the championship throne of Lil' Artha.

"Let them battle industriously for the first grasp of the lowest rung, and the winner will be able to fight other budding hopes. I don't know how good my Galvin is, and I take it that some of the Duluth folks are unacquainted with the ability of the future hope that has been sprung upon you. Let them settle the thing in an illustrated argument."

Another Well-Known Wrestler Antes.

Fred Pilakoff, of Russian-Finnish birth, and who has the present season made a record that his countrymen may well be proud of, casts his hat into the Northwestern wrestling arena, through his manager, John P. Dunn of Brooklyn, by casting a broadside challenge at Ordemann, Lehto, Sampson, Cutler, or any man who has ever wrestled in this part of the country.

Knowing that many of his countrymen reside in this section of the northwest Pilakoff has expressed the desire to show what he can do. He made a really remarkable stand against Hackenschmidt early in the present season, and since then has won some very good matches.

An enclosed photograph accompanied the missive of Dunn, and shows the Pilakoff person in a most advantageous light. He is massive of shoulder and thick of arms. His pose is one of defiance and his countenance shoots forth that bold disdain that d'Artigan hurled against his enemies.

Pilakoff is called the "Finnish Lion." He is modest, if the words of his manager are true to the spirit of the big wrestler. It is rather unique to meet with a modest grappler, and for that reason alone the case of Pilakoff is interesting.

JUMPERS MAKE LONG FLIGHTS AT STOUGHTON.

Stoughton, Wis., Feb. 10.—The opening of the new ski slide yesterday was marked by excellent jumps, but many of the visitors fell, preventing their scoring. Anders Haugen of Chippewa Falls jumped 131 feet on each trial, taking the professional championship, and Jacob C. Jestad and Knute Holland of Stoughton and Chippewa Falls, were tied for second. Carl Strom, Soughton, took first among the amateurs with jumps of 119 and 116 feet.

GOTCH THROWS SWISS TWICE AT ST. JOSEPH.

St. Joseph, Mo., Feb. 11.—Frank Gotch threw George Eberly, a Swiss, twice last night in the Auditorium here. The first fall was in 18 min. and 54 sec, and in it Eberly exhibited much skill. The fall resulted from a hammerlock. The toe hold, for which the champion is so famous, gave him the second fall in 10 min. and 25 sec.

Iowa Beaten.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 11.—Minnesota defeated Iowa last night at basket ball by a score of 37 to 7.

TEAMS PLAN SPRING TRIPS

Most Managers Have Given Up Idea of Long Series.

Present Month Will See Many Players Leaving for the South.

New York, Feb. 10.—Since the annual meetings of the National and American leagues in this city the managers of the various pennant-chasing clubs have given much attention to plans for the spring training of their teams. With the exception of the Boston Red Sox long training trips have been abandoned. A few years ago the big league teams were in favor of Georgia and South Atlantic coast cities for training camps. Now the big league managers prefer to take their teams to the other side of the Mississippi.

It has often, though not invariably been the case that a good training trip meant a good deal to a team. The Chicago Cubs, for instance, won four championships in five years and trained each spring at a different place. In 1906 they did practically no training at all. President Charles Murphy had the idea that Champaign, Ill., would be the proper place.

Snow drove the team out of the college town after a week of idleness. They hurried to Vicksburg, where rain allowed only a day or so of work. They went to Atlanta and again were prevented from working by rain. All the real work the team got was in exhibition games north of the Ohio river. Yet they won the pennant hands down.

Six weeks from now reports will come from the training camps lauding the youngsters being tried out. Few players get regular jobs on the strength of the work done in the training season. They must make good in a real ball game before they can lay any claim for having upheld their end.

Long Trip for Red Sox.

President John I. Taylor of the Boston Red Sox has mapped out the longest trip ever taken by any baseball club. The players will leave on Feb. 18 and go to California by way of Chicago. The team's training will be done at Redondo, just outside of Los Angeles. The club will use two special trains and live on them. The itinerary will cover about 8,500 miles.

With a perfect baseball diamond and well-prepared playing field awaiting them, the Giants will again do their training at Marlin Springs, Tex., which Manager John McGraw considers an ideal spot for the purpose. The first squad will leave Feb. 11, by way of New Orleans, and the second on Feb. 18, from St. Louis. They will begin practicing under McGraw's eye Feb. 23. The third squad will leave this city by steamer on Feb. 22, and the fourth from St. Louis on Feb. 27. The team will break camp on March 28 and come North in two divisions.

Manager Hal Chase of the Highlanders expects to have twenty men or more at work at Athens, Ga., by March 15. On March 1 he will have the older members of the team report to him at Hot Springs for a two weeks' stay, when they will leave to join the recruits at Athens.

The journey North will begin on March 25, when the second team is due to play in Richmond. The first team will leave Athens on March 27 to play at Atlanta.

Early Start for Dodgers.

Manager Bill Dahlen of the Brooklyn will be at Hot Springs by Feb. 4, there to meet Pitchers Nap Rucker and George Bell, the "hopes" of Brooklyn. The other players will report later. They will remain there until March 17 after which the team will divide into squads and work their way north.

Fred Clarke of the Pittsburgs will have the Pirates at West Baden on March 7. They will remain there until March 17, and go to Hot Springs, where the club has trained for several years. They will remain there until April 3.

The Philadelphia club will start for its training grounds at Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 23, in charge of Charley Dooin. Three weeks will be spent in Birmingham when the club will spit into two teams and work North. The local series between the Phillies and the Athletics is scheduled to begin on April 1.

Clark Griffith of the Cincinnati Reds will send his pitchers and catchers to Hot Springs, Ark., on March 7. Two weeks later the other members of the team will go South. The stay at the springs will be short because several exhibition games have been arranged in Cincinnati prior to the opening of the season.

President Murphy of the Chicago Cubs has once more made arrangements for his team to train at New Orleans. The players will report there the first week in March. They will begin regular games at once, as Charley Frank, manager of the New Orleans club, has ordered his players to report by March 10. The Cubs will also play a series of games with several American league teams.

Roger Bresnahan's St. Louis Cardinals will report at West Baden about March 15. After a ten-day stay the team will return to St. Louis.

Fred Tenney's Boston Rustlers will do their training at Augusta, Ga., leaving for that town on March 15.

Hughey Jennings of the Detroit Tigers made an extended tour of the South before he finally selected Monroe, La., as the training place of the 1911 Tigers. Some veterans, including the pitchers, will train at Hot Springs. By March 1 the entire team will report at Monroe. They will remain there three weeks and then come North in two squads.

KODAHPAS ARE VICTORS

Defeat Park Point Hockey Team By Score of 6 to 2.

Aerial Bridge Riders Are Outclassed By Other Teams.

Team Standing.

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Big Duluths	4	1	.800
Adams	4	1	.800
Kodahpas	4	2	.667
Fairmounts	1	4	.200
Park Points	0	5	.000

Either the Park Point hockey seven is very unfortunate or it is outclassed by the other members of the city league. Last evening the Kodahpas defeated the aerial bridge riders by the score of 6 to 2, it being the fifth straight defeat the Park Pointers have sustained since the opening of the league season.

While the Park Point boys are good skaters they have less knowledge of the game than the other teams and are also woefully lacking in team work. The game last evening was played by the Kodahpas without some of the regulars, which may account for lack of team work at times. The playing of substitutes caused a switching of some of the players.

The lineup:

MANY RINKS ARE ENTERED

City Bonspiel Will Start Monday Morning With Big Entry List.

The draw for the city bonspiel of the Duluth Curling club and the West Duluth curling club will be made some time this evening. To date twenty rinks have sent in their entries and H. S. McGregor, who has charge of the entries, predicts that at least ten more rinks will be entered by this evening.

To date ten rinks have entered from West Duluth and ten from the Duluth Curling club. Play in the event is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock sharp Monday morning and it is expected that the finals will at least be reached by evening. It is hoped to finish the spiel by Monday evening.

Gruesen, the jeweler, has donated four silver medals which will go to the members of the winning rink. Some of the games will be contested during the morning play on the rinks of the West Duluth club. The finals will be played off at the downtown club.

PRESIDENT SETS DATE OF MEETING

Minny League Magnates Will Gather March 14---Darby Arranges Dates.

In a letter from Frank E. Force, president of the Minnesota-Wisconsin league, that official states that the meeting of the league club owners and directors has been set for March 14 and that at that meeting all of the clubs will be compelled to post their forfeits for the season.

Mr. Force also states that he has chosen all his umpires for the present season and says further that their names will be made public at the March meeting. It is also expected that some other important matters will come up at this gathering.

Darby O'Brien has written to Jawn Desmond stating that the spring training trip is about lined up. Following are the dates made by the poet to date, with more in sight:

Akron, Ohio, April 12, 13 and 14; Marion, Ohio, April 17 and 18; Lima, Ohio, April 19 and 20; Fort Wayne, Ind., April 21 and 22; South Bend, Ind., April 23, with later dates at Madison, Wis.

BULLS TRIM BEARS BY TWO-POINT MARGIN.

Yesterday the bold bulls of the board of trade did a repetition act and trimmed the bears of the raging pit at baseball, the indoor brund, the score being 12 to 10 in favor of the optimistic boys.

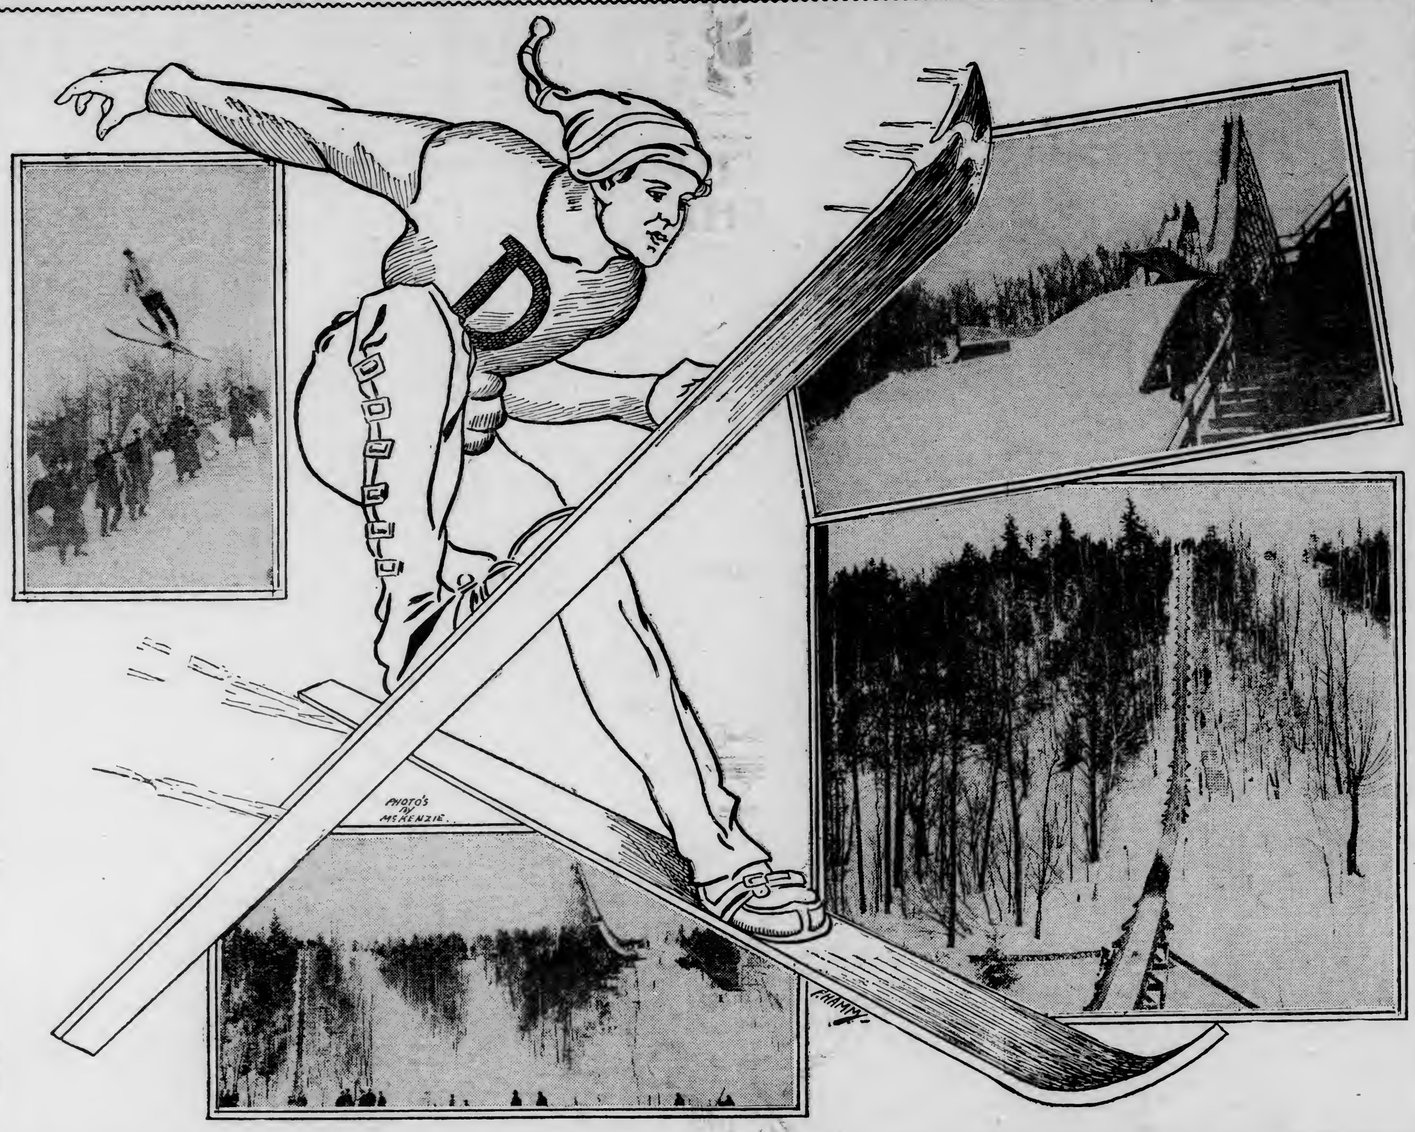

Guy Warren did the flinging for the bulls and did a very nice job, although only the earnest pleading of his teammates and the fatherly advice and calm reason of Capt. "Hi" Salyards prevented Guy from taking a trip in the balloon at several exciting stages of the contest.

Parker Paine occupied the slab for the bears and while his work in spots was smooth, it lacked continuity, so to speak. Mr. Paine looked very handsome and it was generally agreed that he did very well, everything considered.

Julius Barnes made a gallant effort to rally the bears, but failed. It might also be said that the playing of C. F. Macdonald at third was one of the finest features of the game.

DULUTH SEVEN WILL MEET ST. PAUL.

Members of the Duluth Curling club hockey team left on the 1:55 this afternoon for St. Paul. The Duluth boys will meet the Phoenix team this evening at the big hippodrome rink at the state fair grounds, midway between the Twin Cities. As the rink is a monster one and the members of the Duluth team are used to playing on a small rink, the chances will favor the boys from St. Paul.

Big Ed Murphy of St. Paul, a well-known hockey and lacrosse star, will referee the contest. Roy Deetz of this city will also be one of the officials. The contest is arousing a great deal of interest in St. Paul.

Pneumonia Follows a Cold

But never follows the use of Foley's Honey and Tar, which checks the cough and expels the cold. M. Stockwell, Hannibal, Mo., says, "It beats all the remedies I ever used. I contracted a bad cold and cough and was threatened with pneumonia. One bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar completely cured me." No opiates, just a reliable household medicine. GREAT TEAMS COMPARED Cubs Rated as Strongest Baseball Machine Built in Ten Seasons.

Philadelphia Athletics Classed as Best Team of the Past Year.

The Philadelphia Athletics without any doubt were the strongest baseball team of 1910. They easily were stronger than the Chicago Cubs, whom they defeated in hollow style, but were they as strong as the Cubs were when the latter won three straight pennants in 1906, 1907 and 1908? Not according to the point system, says the New York Sun.

The point system was used as one way of arriving at a conclusion as to which was the strongest football eleven ever in the field. This time it is applied to baseball teams for the last ten years, to baseball teams of the American and National league teams that have won pennants in that time; and the figures show, allowing of course for fallibility of judgment in rating the players composing the twenty teams, that the Cubs were the best aggregation of individual players since 1900. Team play is not considered in this plan, but any pennant winning team must needs be strong in team play and the Cubs were among the best in concerted ability.

The point system consists first of listing the regular players of each team, grouping the pitchers, the catchers, the first basemen, and so on for each of the nine positions. Then each of the pitching staffs is compared and rated anywhere from first to twentieth, according to one's judgment. There won't necessarily be twenty different ratings, because when one team has practically the same staff for several years in succession that staff will have the same relative rank for the several succeeding seasons. Catchers, too, are rated as staffs, and then the rest of the players individually. There's no use making detailed rating of pitchers and catchers, because every team has several backstops and numerous twirlers, and a team's batting strength consists rather of staff strength than individual prowess.

Chicago Cubs First.

Having rated the players, add together the points for each of the nine positions on each team, and when this is done for each of the twenty teams concerned the smallest total means the team with the best collection of individuals. The Chicago Cubs of 1910 come first by this method and by the rating which the writer considered the proper one for each player. The Cubs of 1908 rank second with 26 points, the Cubs of 1906 and 1907 third with 33 points each and the Athletics of 1910 fourth with 37 points.

In reality, that is, team strength as a whole considered, the Cubs last year were not as strong as theAthletics nor as strong as the Cubs of 1906, 1907 or 1908. The pitching staff wasn't as good last season as that of any of the four other teams mentioned. But in the apportioning of points for 1910 the Cubs more than offset the lower pitchers' rating by a higher rating for the catchers. The figures are contradictory with the facts in showing the Cubs last year the strongest of the twenty teams, but taken man for man the Cubs of 1910 rank the highest, granting that the judgment which did the individual rating was not wrong. Judgment of course will differ according to who does the rating.

However, although here and there teams may be ranked higher or lower than they really deserve the scheme gives a pretty good idea of the respective strength of the entire twenty combinations. In this case it gives sixth place to the Giants of 1904 and 1905, years when they won two pennants and a world's championship, and eighth place to the Boston Americans of 1903 and 1904, years in which that team won two pennants and a world's championship. Getting away from the rating figures for a moment, the Athletics were the strongest actual team last season because of their superior pitching staff, but the individual rating of their outfielders brings them down as compared to the Cub outfield rating.

BIG MEET OF THE SEASON

620 Amateur Athletes Will Compete in Washington Games.

All Principal Colleges and Athletic Clubs Are Represented.

Washington, Feb. 11.—Deciding the intercollegiate indoor championships in fact, if not in name, by reason of the wide college representation, and including several hundred of the best performers in the athletic clubs of this country and Canada, the annual Boston Athletic association games in Mechanics' building tonight will be the greatest athletic meting of the year. A record entry list for even this classic was obtained in 620 athletes.

To the usual program of individual competition in ten events, interspersed as in the past with nearly a score of relay races among the colleges and between leading athletic clubs, there was added this year a new event, the Hunter invitation mile. This race promises the keenest competition of the night, the expected starters including George V. Bonhag and Abel R. Kiviat of the Irish-American A. C., New York; O. F. Hedlund, Brookline G. A.; J. P. Jones and T. S. Berna, Cornell; P. S. Harmon, Dartmouth, and Jack Tait, Toronto.

In the relay races, four Harvard teams are entered respectively against the Yale freshmen, Williams, Princeton, and Yale 'varsity in the great annual two-mile event. Other team races include B. A. A., N. Y. A. C., Pastime A. C., Pennsylvania, Cornell, Syracuse, Columbia and Boston college, Holy Cross and Georgetown.

Among the prominent athletes numbered are: Intercollegiate champions; Joseph Horner, Michigan, shot putter, who is entered in half a dozen events; Tex Ramsdell, Pennsylvania, 100 yards; C. D. Reidpath, Syracuse, quarter mile; J. W. Burdick, Pennsylvania, high jump; George Chisholm, Yale, high hurdles; J. P. Jones, Cornell, cross country, and T. S. Berna, Cornell, two miles.

Other prominent club and college men are George V. Bonhag, American middle distance champion; J. R. Kilpatrick, Yale; R. C. Foster, Harvard; W. W. Coe, B. A. A., former world's champion shot putter, and Jack Monument, I. A. C., New York, national mile champion.

The great gathering of college men enabled the New England Intercollegiate association to hold its annual meeting during the day, at which the place of holding the championship meet was discussed. It was predicted during the forenoon that the games would be returned to Worcester after several years on Technology field in Brookline.

WOULD BAR TOE TORTURE

Cultured Boston Mat Fans Want Gotch's Famed Grip Barred.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 11.—There has been much talk about abolishing the so-called "toe hold," and it would be well to keep up the agitation until the rule makers are forced to take cognizance of it, for if ever there was an anguish-producing, cruel, first-cousin-to-murder hold invented, this is it. Frank Gotch brought this hold into prominence some years ago, and used it so effectively that it was copied by as many of the catch-as-catch-can artists as were able to master it.

The strangle hold was barred by wrestling authorities who wished to prevent unnecessary cruelty and perhaps fatal results from its use, but the toe-hold has come into vogue since that time. As it is fully as cruel and as dangerous, though perhaps not so fatal as the strangle, it might well be barred also, as a long lay-off from active mat work and sometimes permanent injury results from its application.

Must Quit or Suffer.

It is comparatively hard to get this hold right, but when an expert does get it right the victim has absolutely no chance to defend himself, and he must either quit or suffer severe injury to his foot.

Writers have advocated the abolition of this hold for several years, and while realizing that when two men go on the mat the best man should get the best holds and should always profit by his superior skill, they still contend that the toe hold is not wrestling, it is an instrument of torture and no sport lover wants to see a contestant tortured.

The majority of people go to see a wrestling match from pure love of good, clean sport, and are not actuated by the same motives that inspire the attendants at a bull fight. By all means let us keep the sport clean and the standard high and there is no surer method of raising the standard of wrestling than by eliminating such dangerous, cruel and entirely unsatisfactory freaks of the game as the toe hold.

Consider the Mat Official.

Juts a word about that long-suffering, patient, and, at times, down-trodden official—the referee. To the casual observer it appears that all a referee has to do is to make the men live strictly up to the rules, and if they don't do that he should disqualify them; yet this personage would be the first to set up a howl if he were thus suddenly deprived of his evening's enjoyment.

The thoughtful referee realizes this, and sometimes may even stretch the rules (than which there are none more elastic in the decalogue) in order to give the crowd a good run for its money, and at the same time be fair to the men, either of whom may at times lose his head and do things which appear uncalled for.

The referee is allowed considerable latitude in this respect, and is only forced to resort to disqualification when rough work may result in injury to a contestant.

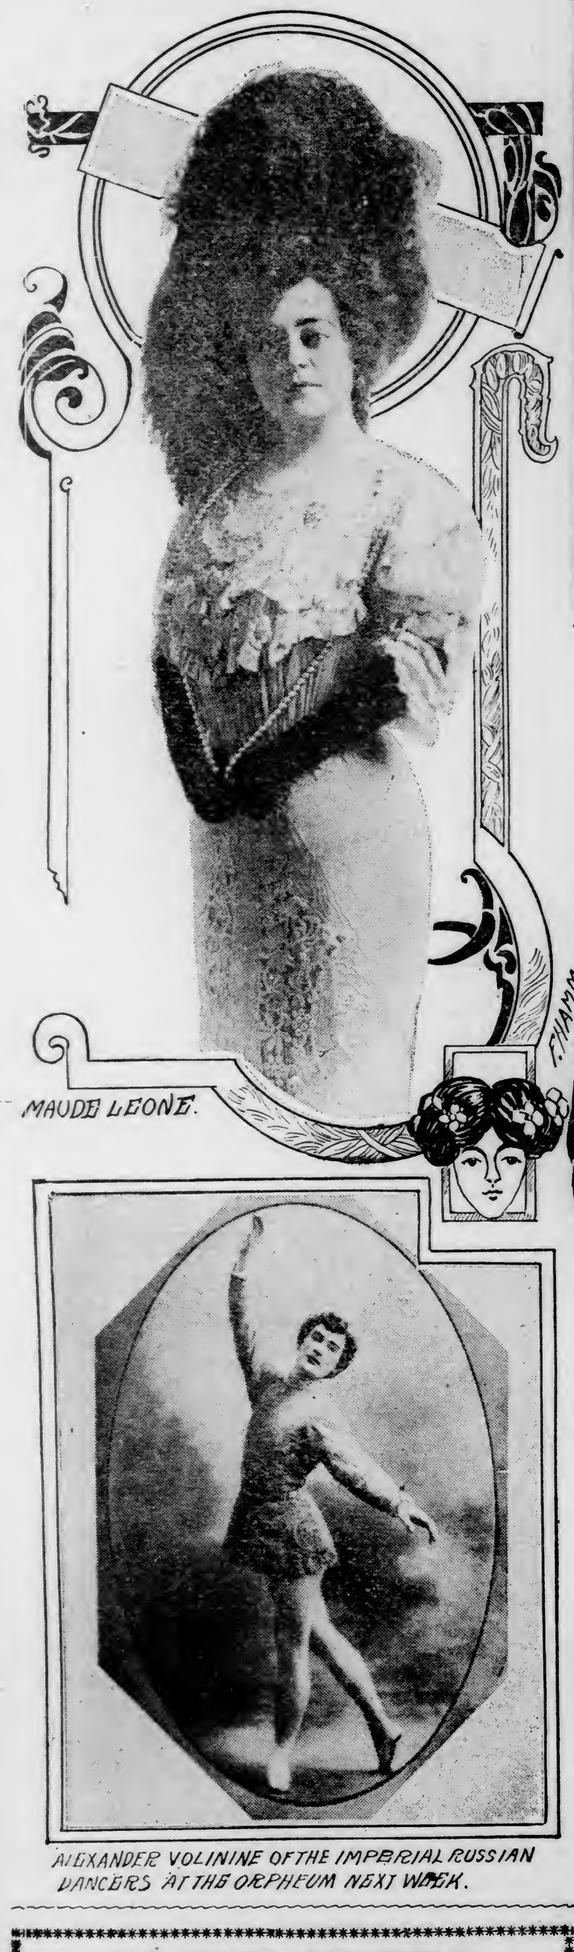

The referee must at all times be cool and collected, and must never lose his head; he must be fair to the wrestlers and to the crowd. If the latter would extend a little of this same fairness to him his otherwise not too rosy path of duty might be somewhat brightened. In fact, it would help a lot.

FIRST SQUAD OF GIANTS LEAVES FOR THE SOUTH.

Only a few of the recruits for the 1911 season were assigned by Manager McGraw to start on today's steamer, the men sailing including First Baseman Gowdy, Pitchers Rudolph, Clyde Fullerton and Ernest Lush.

The next party of Giants will leave on the steamer Creole on Feb. 22.

THE COMING WEEK IN DULUTH THEATERS

MAUDE LEONE.

MISS LYDIA LAPOKAWA OF THE IMPERIAL RUSSIAN DANCERS AT THE ORPHEUM NEXT WEEK

WILLARD MACK

ALEXANDER VOLININE OF THE IMPERIAL RUSSIAN DANCERS AT THE ORPHEUM NEXT WEEK.

AT THE LYCEUM

There will be one man in the audience when "God's Country" is given its production in this city who may be expected to take the deepest interest in every line, every situation. In fact every word of the new Mack play. This man is Charles McLaughlin, father of the author-actor, Willard Mack, and also the man who has had much to do with Twin Bridges, Mont., the scene of the new drama.

It was Mr. McLaughlin who was the contractor for the building of the Pacific coast extension of the Milwaukee railroad, known as the Milwaukee & Puget Sound railway. Twin Bridges, Mont., is part of the history of this extension, a great feat of modern railroad building, by the way, and a dramatic story of events that occurred, for much of "God's Country" is founded on fact, will naturally interest Mr. McLaughlin.

Mr. Mack's mother will be here to witness the Duluth production of the play. It is a peculiar coincidence, this; that a son should write a story around a little place that has had much to do with the destiny of his father, and that the father should be able to witness the play.

Telegrams have been received at the office of H. E. Pierce & Co., stating that several producing managers will be in this city Sunday to witness the first production in Duluth of the Western drama. It is stated that if the play proves the success that advance notices have indicated, an effort will be made to secure it for Dustin Farnum, who scored his first and biggest success in another romantic play of the West, "The Virginian."

The production of a new play is an event of unusual interest in theatrical and society circles. The production of "God's Country" at Duluth is really the genuine debut of the play, in the shape that it will probably eventually go on the road. It was tried out, as it were, in Salt Lake City, and despite the fact that it contained crudities which have been eliminated with rewriting and some minor changes, the new piece scored a thorough success. The papers of the Mormon city were lavish in their praise of the entire production.

There will be a beautiful scenic setting and the play allows amply for the skill of the scenic artist and the scene builder. No expense has been spared in the mounting of the play. Willard Mack, as Duluth audiences have reason for knowing, has built a reputation for the generous mounting of every play produced by any company he has been the head of, and he has gone even further in giving "God's Country" a scenic investiture that few producers give the big traveling road productions.

This play will serve to introduce again to Duluth audiences Mrs. Adams, the mother of petite Maud Adams, perhaps the best loved actress on the American stage. Mrs. Adams will be remembered by some of the playgoers of Duluth. She was here with John Drew and came again with Ethel Barrymore. She has the part of Mrs. Muggins in the Mack drama, and in the hands of so accomplished an artist, the character is made one of the strongest of the play.

Willard Mack as the sheriff, Bill Ruggles, and Maude Leone as Pinto Crockett, have roles that give them every opportunity. Mr. Mack has provided himself with one of the best character parts he has had in recent years, and judging from what the reviews of the play have said of the work of Miss Leone, she, too, must have been fitted with a character part of exceptional opportunities.

"God's Country" will open at the Lyceum Sunday afternoon and will continue through the week.

One of the novelties of the theatrical season in Chicago was the big dress rehearsal scene which Mort H. Singer introduced into "Miss Nobody From Starland," his latest musical comedy production at the Princess theater. It will come to the Lyceum Saturday, Feb. 18 for matinee and night. Mr. Singer literally takes his audiences out of their seats back on the stage and shows them how a big production looks from the other side of the footlights. Although there is a ritous spirit of travesty all through the scene, making it a continuous series of laughs, one following the other at lightning speed, the scene has opened the eyes of the public to some of the accidents and disadvantages against which the manager has to contend when he stages a production worth thousands of dollars.

Miss Nobody in "Miss Nobody From Starland" is a chorus girl, who when the show opens, is engaged with a gambling brother in the risky enterprise of smuggling a few diamonds into the United States. The scene is aboard the ocean liner, Lusitania, and there is a hoard of detectives, led by the great Pierce of Scotland Yard, on the track of the smugglers.

Then there is Preston Halliday, son of Frederic Halliday, the millionaire manufacture of Halliday's Hair Restorer. Preston had trouble with his father over in England and hired out as a drug clerk. By mistake he gave a customer arsenic instead of essence of peppermint. After discovering the error, he flees, thinking he has murdered the man. On the Lusitania he is suspected as a smuggler by Pierce and is accused of "the crime." Thinking the detective means the supposed murder, Preston confesses. But the detective thinks Preston is the brother of Miss Nobody, whom Pierce loves. And old man Halliday, who is aboard, also falls in love with Miss Nobody, the chorus girl. Preston himself tries to flirt with her.

Out of these circumstances, Adams, Hough and Mitchell, the authors, have provided a lot of comedy.

From the Lusitania, the principals are taken to the stage of the Princess theater, Chicago, on the first night of a musical comedy. Before the curtain goes up, the stage manager calls a dress rehearsal. Miss Nobody is there as the prima donna, and Preston Halliday still at outs with his father, is the lowly chorus man, and "onion," the stage manager calls him. The comedian of the piece falls ill suddenly and the "onion" volunteers to play his part.

Before the performance the stage manager calls a rehearsal. Stars, stage hands, author, comedians, chorus girls and boys, and all the "back stage" characters are shown in real life. And such a rehearsal! It shows the stage manager as a czar, before whom everybody bows. The stars fight for "lines" and "laughs," the author protests when his "book" is "cut," the chorus forget their "business" and the stage hands fall down on their "props." But the stage manager is undaunted, and finally the curtain goes up on a mock performance.

Here is more fun. The audience sees the performance from behind the scenes and witnesses the desperation of the stage manager, when the actors forget their lines and cues, stage hands forget to fire the shot in a 'battle,' and a float bearing the leading man to the prima donna, at the height of a big scene, refuses to work. The culmination of the difficulties comes when one stage hand forgets to turn on a rain storm, which is supposed to be the pece de resistance of the production, until the curtain is down and the stage manager is yelling like a wild man, "Where in hell is the rain storm!"

Blanche Ring will visit Duluth at the head of her organization in "The Yankee Girl," that charming musical comedy by George V. Hobart and Silvio Hein.

"The Yankee Girl" is three clever acts of musical comedy that is fully up to the standard of high class effort. George V. Hobart, who wrote the book, and Silvio Hein, who was responsible for the music, have certainly "delivered the goods," it is claimed.

Miss Ring's season has been one continual triumph, for wherever she has appeared the business has been so satisfactory that she might remain in the Eastern section of the country playing return engagements for an extended period; but the West has demands upon her time and a tour has been laid out for her that will take her to the principal cities as far as the coast.

What the press agent announces with all sincerity as "A bewildering mixture of melodious songs, gay dancers, gingery lines, amusing situations, handsome costumes, flowery scenes, star cast, young, fresh, fascinating, female pulcritude and Jefferson De Angelis," will be seen at the Lyceum very soon, when F. Ray Comstock's Herald Square success, "The Beauty Spot" arrives.

The piece is a light and nonsensical piece of laughter-producing foolery, built on a story by Joseph Herbert and adorned with Reginald De Koven's tuneful music. The supporting cast is made up of the artists who were in the original production.

AT THE ORPHEUM

The long looked-for engagement of the Imperial Russian dancers will open at the Duluth Orpheum with the Sunday matinee, and continue for one week, with a matinee daily and without any change in the regular Orpheum prices.

This is the biggest feature act on the Orpheum circuit this season, and is said to be one of the most pretentious acts ever secured for vaudeville.

Duluth has seen one company of Russian dancers this season, headed by Mikail Mordkin and Anna Pavlowa. The three dancers who are coming to the Orpheum are from the same ballet, and are said to be fully as well known in their native land as Mordkin and Pavlowa. They do Russian dances almost exclusively, while Mordkin and Pavlowa introduced many Italian and French ballets in their program, also.

H. W. Pierong, manager of the Duluth theater, was fortunate enough to have seen the dancers two years ago, when he was in Europe. The dancers were then appearing in Paris, and in speaking of their act, Mr. Pierong made the following statement today:

"Their art is the greatest of any of that wonderful school of dancers concerning whom travellers to the land of the czar have been bringing back great tales for the past dozen years, extolling their beauty and grace, but who were unknown outside of the breat Muscovite empire until two years ago, when the first of them to leave their own country visited Berlin, and made a sensation.

"Afterwards in Paris, the home of the greatest love of the highly artistic, that impression was even greater, and so fast did the fame of their Paris season spread, that their services were immediately in the greatest demand in all parts of the world.

"Then the general public and the managers woke up to the fact, which artists have all along insisted upon, that the ballet has survived in its best form in Russia, and that the school of St. Petersburg has cherished the traditions of classical dancing as no other opera in the world has done, not even Paris and Vienna.

"It was the dancing of Mlle. Lapokawa in the Grand opera in Paris which finally established the vogue of the Russian dancers firmly in that capital, and gave them the reputation that has spread their fame over the world. Mlle. Lapokawa is only 17, but is a full-fledged member of the house of the Imperial Russian ballet, and is the most beautiful member of the picked corps. Daintily petite, and divinely young, wonderfully agile, and inexpressibly graceful, she is a very sprite of the dance. It is no wonder that she captured the hearts of the Impressionable Parisians.

"Dainty Lydia has as her companion in the classical dances, Alexandre Volinine, a symmetrical, lithe, young Russian, of almost tigerish grace of movement, the particular beauty of whose dancing is said to reside in his leaps into the air, and his easy grace, which gives him almost the appearance of remaining poised motionless in space.

"The third member of the troupe is Theodor Lapokawa, a brother of Lydia, and like the other two, a member of the Imperial house of dancers. He has a great reputation in St. Petersburg, where he is almost as much of a favorite as his lovely sister is in Paris. He secured special permission from the management of the Marien theater in that city to join her on her American tour, and his forte is the portraying of the distinctly acrobatic and virile peasant roles, in their national dances.

"The American engagement of this trio has the special sanction and permission of the czar. It will be but a limited one, for their engagements on the continent, and especially at home will not permit a long stay. In fact, the charming little Lapokawa was engaged to dance next July at the exhibition in Rome, long before her American contracts had been signed.

"It is characteristic of Orpheum enterprise, that no sooner had this trio of the best representatives of the Russian school been assured of the sanction of the czar for their absence from his empire, than General Manager Martin Beck cinched them for the

H. W. PIERONG,
Manager of Duluth Orpheum, Who Says Russia Is Home of Dancing.

Orpheum circuit. The contracts for their engagements outside of New York were signed before the Russian consul general of that city, such a deep interest does the imperial government take in the welfare of its artistic children during their wanderings abroad.

"Everywhere where they have appeared on the Orpheum circuit they have made a big sensation.

"Lapokawa and Volinine have not been talked of so much, perhaps, as those dancers who depend on the approval of London only, because the fact that England and America have a common language is rather an assistance to those who appear first in the British capital, but they have the seal of approval of the greatest of all art centers, Paris and St. Petersburg. As all professionals and all artists know, to get that approval stamps the recipients as at the top of their class."

There are not many acts on the circuit for which Miss Ida O'Day takes second place on the billing, although she has to do it for the Russian dancers. Miss O'Day was the dramatic feature of the Orpheum Road show last season with her playlet, "A Bit of Old Chelsea." This season she has a new offering, which she calls, "Cinders," in which she is supported by Donald Bowles. Miss O'Day is said to be one of the most beautiful women in vaudeville. In her new play, "Cinders" is a little waif, the daughter of a laundress. The play is said to be replete with tender sentiment and delicate humor.

No act is more popular with vaudeville audiences than a knock-about, blackface comedy turn when it is good, and the humor is bright and fresh. The Kaufman brothers are claimed to have such an act, and they will appear on next week's bill. One of the brothers is said to have a stage laugh that is worth a fortune to him for its spontaneous qualities.

Three daughters of the late Sam Weston of minstrel fame will be seen on next week's bill. They are the Misses Catherine, Florence and Juliette Weston, who present a dainty and refined act of instrumental music. The three young women have been appearing in vaudeville since they were mere children, having made their debut at a notable social function in New York city at a very tender age. Their act is claimed to be of a standard a little above that of the ordinary musical act.

The Robert De Mont trio of comedy acrobats, Lawson and Namon, presenting a comedy cycling and bag punching act, and Jean Paul in a vaudeville novelty, are the other three acts on the bill.

The usual Orpheum motion pictures will be shown, and the orchestra promises a special overture in honor of the Russian dancers. The bill will continue all week with the usual daily matinee, the opening performance being given Sunday afternoon.

AT THE EMPRESS

The patrons of the Empress will be offered another high-class bill of vaudeville commencing with the Sunday matinee. Although comedy will predominate, there will be plenty of novelty and daring feats. The week's offering consists of a roaring comedy skit, a troupe of trained dogs, a dainty comedienne, a very clever song and dance team and a trio of cycling comedians. The show will be right up to the high standard that has been set by all of the Sullivan & Considine road shows which are becoming very popular from coast to coast.

Heading the bill will be Harry Foy and Florence Clark in a comedy creation entitled "The Spring of Youth." This delightful skit is one that was written with but one point in view and that was to secure laughs. That it has attained this end can be readily seen from the following notice from the Milwaukee Sentinel: "Foy and Clark are presenting a comedy sketch entitled 'The Spring of Youth,' at the Empress this week which is one of the most convulsing offerings that has ever been presented in this city. There is a laugh every minute of the time that these inimitable artists are before the footlights. Indeed the audience just laughed itself into exhaustion." Mr. Foy is a well known comedian, having appeared in several big legitimate productions and his partner, Miss Clark, is a clever and very winsome young woman.

With each incoming season, vaudeville adds to its list of luminaries several prominent stars of the legitimate and musical comedy. This bill brings to Duluth Miss Grace De Mar, former star of "A Knight For a Day." Miss De Mar is a magnetic and mirthful maid and has an entirely new list of songs. She has been so prominently identified with musical comedy and her success was so pronounced, that she will doubtless become as big a vaudeville favorite. She is a very pretty girl and there is brightness and cheerfulness in her work and this together with her remarkably sweet voice makes her offering an extremely pleasing one, it is claimed. At the completion of the Sullivan & Considine tour, Miss De Mar will return to New York to commence rehearsing a big musical comedy which is being written for her.

Lovers of animals will be afforded a treat by Prof. Ballerini and his trained dogs. "This is an act, which sends the children into raptures," says a recent notice, "and is highly entertaining and interesting to the grown folks as well. These little dogs perhaps represent the highest degree of canine intelligence as they dance, act little plays, and exhibit marvelous control over their inclinations without a word from their master. The little dogs do everything in the acrobatic line and are actors of unmistakable intelligence and sense of humor. Their performance is astounding for its rapidity and originality. Every child should see these cunning little pets as they are the foremost aggregation of animals before the public."

Moran and Moran should find instant favor with lovers of sweet singing and clever dancing as their offering is brimful of clever conversation, singing and danoing. Miss Moran is the possessor of a remarkably sweet voice and is a sprightly and winsome comedienne. Mr. Moran is a comedian of national reputation and his eccentric and acrobatic dancing has classed him as one of the foremost entertainers on the vaudeville stage. Their number, says the press agent, is presented with a snap and a dash that finds favor with the fast living American public and they have been pronounced favorites in every city where they have appeared.

The added feature for the week will be the Hoefler Trio of Cycling Comedians, who are just returning from a successful tour of Europe. Heading this combination is Will Hoefler, who for ten years was the leading clown of the great Barnum show and supporting him are two of the most clever and daring riders. Although their offering contains whirlwind comedy, it also has many daring and thrilling feats. It is an act, it is claimed, that has the audience convulsed with laughter one minute and breathless and spellbound the next. It is seldom that one sees a bicycle act that is original, but the work of the Hoefler trio is claimed to be far removed from the rut traveled by the other bicycle acts. This act recently played four consecutive months at the Palace theater, London, and immediately after the completion of their engagement with Sullivan and Considine they will return to England for another run.

The moving pictures will be the newest and best subjects obtainable and will include one of the best vaudeville performances ever offered at the Empress and one that is in keeping with the policy of the Sullivan and Considine circuit, "the highest class of vaudeville at popular prices."

A matinee is given at 2:45 and evening performances at 8 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved one week in advance by either 'phone. A special school children's matinee will be given every Saturday at 2:30. All scholars under fourteen years of age are admitted for five cents. Special attention is paid to the comfort and amusement of ladies and children at all times.

WEEK'S BILLS OF PHOTOPLAY

Feature Films Are Promised at the Odeum and Lyric Theaters.

At the Odeum theater a first-class performance is promised for tomorrow and the remainder of the week. A dramatic film is "Heart Beats of Long Ago." It is the feature of the bill at the Odeum.

The story takes place at a time when feuds existed among the great houses of Europe. In the motion-picture story the daughter of an influential family has given her heart to a son of another great house. He braves everything to see the lady of his love. In one of his meetings with her he is surprised by the guards and is forced to conceal himself in a closet. He is discovered by the father's choice for a husband for his daughter. The villain locks the hidden man in the closet. When the door is opened later he is found to have met the fate designed by his rival. The length of the film is 977 feet.

"The Little Circus Rider," is an interesting tale. Jim and Bertha are childhood sweethearts. Bertha yearns for the life in the big city. It is circus day and the little town is in the throes of excitement. Reginald Black, a chap from the city, takes her to the circus and Jim is sent trailing after by Bertha's father. Black persuades Bertha to go with him to the city. She leaves a note to her father to the effect that she and Reginald will be married. When she gets to the city she realizes Reginald's insincerity. She gets work with the circus manager after she leaves Reginald. Jim gets a job as hostler. He picks her up when she falls making her entrance into the ring. She is nursed back to health by him.

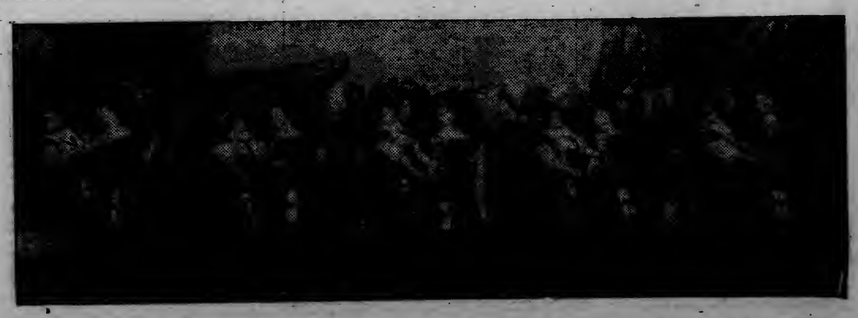

A comic film is "The Jilted Joker." It is about two young people who go to a fine hotel to spend their honeymoon. They learn that they were not legally married, but the hotel is quarantined and they cannot obtain another clergyman. Many laughable incidents result.

"Hank and Lank," is a comic film. Cupid is on the trail of the two youths and Hank proposes to a maiden fair who turns out to be a man on his way to a masquerade party.

Miss Maddox will sing "Arab's Dream."

A good bill has been arranged for the Lyric. "The Two Reformation" is a dramatic story. Frank McLain goes "broke," and departs for the West. He fails to find gold and joins "Bad" White in outlawry. Mrs. McLain goes West also and White learns of her trip in time to stop a holdup of the stage coach by which Mrs. McLain is a passenger by her husband. Both White and McLain see the error of their ways and reform.

"The Sheriff's Sister," is a story of a brother's love. He forbids Elsie to see Enrico, a Mexican, according to a promise he made to Elsie's mother, now dead. The Mexican calls while Bob is away, but he comes back and knocks the Mexican down. The Mexican returns and takes Elsie to another town, but the minister refuses to marry then and takes Elsie into his home. She is shown the Mexican's true character and she returns home with her brother.

"Hearts, Hunger and Happiness," is a funny story. Billy is in love, but he thinks he is sick. He is ordered by a doctor to fast three days. On the third day he gets an invitation to his sweetheart's birthday party. He goes and finds a big dinner which he can not help to eat. He stuffs his food into his pockets and then into those of his neighbor. The dog finds him out and Billy "gets well" and marries the girl. "Trout Breeding" is an interesting descriptive film.

Mr. Mistachkin will sing.

GOSSIP OF THE RIALTO

The Shuberts and Eugene Walter have patched up their differences and the former firm will produce the latter's new play, "Homeward Bound." This play was first tried by Dillingham a few months ago, with Arnold Daly in the cast, but for some reason or another was abandoned.

• • •

Henry Miller's new play, "The Havoc," has been acquired by Sir Charles Wyndham for production in England. The English actor intends to produce it during the coronation season, acting the role of Richard Craig himself. One of the conditions of the purchase was that Sir Charles should have the option on H. S. Sheldon's next work.

• • •

Ethel Barrymore is shortly to revive "Alice-Sit-By-the-Fire." It is preceded by a quaint little one-act play, also written by Barrie, and called "The Twelve-Pound Look."

A rich little bounder is about to be knighted, the story begins. With a muffler for a sash and a cane for a sword he rehearses before his wife the proper demeanor one should display on receiving a tap on the shoulder from the sovereign's sword. The wife is arrayed in a costly presentation gown, although the action takes place in the morning and the great event is several days distant.

A typist arrives to answer letters of congratulation. Her complacency and cleverness makes the timid, broken-spirited bounder's wife envious. When the bounder enters the room he finds the typist to be a wife who had deserted him fourteen years previously. She had not run away with another man, as he had thought, but simply had eloped and submitted to a divorce because of her husband's great success. She had determined shortly after marriage that as soon as she had accumulated twelve pounds she would desert him.

She rented a typewriter, soon earned the necessary amount and then fled from his jewels, his dinners and his fat friends. She warns her former husband to watch for the twelve-pound look on the face of his present wife—the look that will mean how she too is wondering how she can escape from him.

The second wife enters. Hastily the husband dismisses the typist. Restored to his customary arrogance by the gentleness of his subdued spouse, he begins to reassert himself. He promises to buy her a rope of pearls for display purposes. The wife innocently asks him the cost of a typewriter as she leaves the room, and the curtain falls on the puzzled husband, who wonders if the first symptoms of the twelve-pound look have arrived.

"Judith Zaraine," in which the English actress, Lena Ashwell, was playing, has proved to be a failure. Miss Ashwell returns to England this week. Her several American experiences have been more or less unfortunate in regard to selection of plays.

• • •

It is rumored that Otis Skinner may supplant Maude Adams as "Chantecler." While no one doubts the ability and popularity of Miss Adams it is generally conceded that her feminine charm and girlish art are too deep-rooted for the proper suggestion of the character of the rooster, which is principally symbolic of masculinity. Skinner's latest play, "Sire," has not done as well as was hoped, which may be another influence to Frohman to make the change.

• • •

Martin Beck predicts that all the vaudeville interests of the United States will be amalgamated in one corporation within one year, and that the European vaudeville circuits will be affiliated with the organization. The plan to form a popular circuit of forty theaters which Lawrence J. Weber and others interested in the Columbia Amusement company have been working upon has met with such serious obstacles that it has temporarily been abandoned. The promoters of the projected circuit have been unable to secure control of the theaters essential to the successful carrying out of the scheme and have been compelled to defer any attempt to organize their circuit for the present.

• • •

Oscar Wilde's celebrated play, "The Florentine Tragedy," the whereabouts of which constituted an international mystery after the author's death, was performed in Chicago one morning last week by Constance Crawley and company. The performance was given at the Victoria theater for the vaudeville agents and managers. In Miss Crawley's company were Arthur Maude and James Cooley. Cohan & Harris owned the rights to the play for a long period, but recently forfeited them.

• • •

Anna Held has begun arrangements for her return to America next fall in a new musical piece. The first news of Miss Held's plans came last week in a cable dispatch stating that she had acquired the rights of a farce recently produced in Paris. Miss Held was acting in the interests of F. Ziegfeld, Jr., and he has elaborate plans for her return to Broadway in September.

• • •

The first performance of "Every Woman" is scheduled for Pearson's theater, Hartford, Thursday of this week. Then follow engagements in Baltimore and Washington before the play reaches New York.

• • •

Edgar Selwyn, author of "The Country Boy" and co-author with William Collier of "I'll Be Hanged If I Do," will return to the stage next season as an actor. To this end he has written a comedy named "The Arab." In which he will play the title role. As indicated by the title the principal character is that of a son of the desert. The three acts are laid in Syria. The first performance of this play will be given by a stock company in Los Angeles next May.

• • •

Harry Conor, featured comedian of "Marriage a La Carte," at the Casino theater, was severely, if not seriously, injured last week by an automobile at Eighth avenue and One Hundred and Ninth street. The machine ran over his chest, and two ribs were fractured.

• • •

The Oncomers is the name of a new society recently formed in London with the object of exploiting, by means of periodical matinees to be given at West End theaters, plays and players who have not yet gained the attention of the West End managers and audiences. Experienced artists have enrolled themselves as members, and the patronage of such eminent players as Mr. H. B. Irving, Mr. Lewis Waller, Mr. Charles Hawtrey, Mr. F. R. Benson, Mr. Gerald du Maurier and Miss Decima Moore has been obtained.

• • •

George W. Wilson, the character artist, will shortly produce in vaudeville Horace Hazeltine's dramatization of his own latest sensational mystery story, "In the Noon of the Moon," which appeared recently in one of the adventure magazines.

• • •

"Preserving Mr. Panmure," Sir Arthur Pinero's latest play, which has just been produced in London, is an emphatic success, and notable in that it marks the return of this distinguished playwright to the field of farcical comedy in which he was so successful earlier in his career.

• • •

Billie Burke has added a curtain raiser to "Suzanne" at the Lyceum theater, New York. The playlet, called "The Philosopher in the Apple Orchard," is a dramatization by E. Harcourt Williams, of an Anthony Hope story. Lumsden Hare plays the role of a crabbed old philosopher, who learns from an unsophisticated young woman about things of which he had never dreamed.

• • •

Marie Doro, who, after the failure of "The Climax" in London, decided to give up the stage for music, being quite an accomplished pianist, is very ill and will probably retire permanently from public life.

• • •

"Baby Mine" has not only become accustomed to its new uptown home at the Nazimova, but the accessibility of the theater has also aided the popularity of Margaret Mayo's play to attract increasingly large crowds. From present indications it will continue in New York until the close of the season. Margaret Clark, Ivy Troutman, Ernest Glendinning, Walter Jones and the other members of the cast remain.

• • •

The second month of "Over Night" at the Hackett begins tomorrow night. Phillip H. Bartholomae's farcical comedy recites the misadventures of the divided honeymooners and creates situations that are ludicrous. Margaret Lawrence, Jean Newcombe, Norma Winslow, Herbert A. Yost, Robert Kelly, A. P. Aylsworth and others contribute to the merry-making.

• • •

"Way Down East" has apparently settled down for a run at the Majestic. Instead of showing evidences of its sixteen years of existence the play retains a pleasing rural freshness that is attractive. William A. Brady has given the popular old play an entirely new scenic dress and the company, with Grace Hopkins in the leading role, is good throughout.

• • •

Edmund Breese in "The Scarecrow" at the Garrick theater has been sufficiently encouraged to warrant the prediction that he and the play will be seen in New York for some time. The character of the devil, the picturesqueness of the scarecrow and the quaintness of the settings have attracted attention.

• • •

"Pomander Walk," one of the theatrical novelties of the season, remains at Wallack's. The little sketch of English life in the Georgian days is a delight because of its simplicity. Lennox Pawle, George Giddens and Dorothy Parker are prominent in the unusually well balanced company.

• • •

Blanche Bates is as popular as ever in "Nobody's Widow," Avery Hapwood's farcical romance of fashionable life at Palm Beach. Miss Bates' impersonation of the madcap heroine is as artistic as any of her more serious efforts.

• • •

At the Belasco "The Concert" is the same big drawing card it has been since its first presentation. Leo Ditrichstein in the leading part has won new fame for himself, both as an actor and as author. He adapted the play from a foreign original.

• • •

"The Deep Purple," at the Lyric, is a melodrama by Paul Armstrong and Wilson Mizner. Most of the characters are those of the under world. The plotters plot, the schemers scheme, the fighters fight and the wicked flee, finally. There's lots doing all the time.

"The Fortune Hunter," with John Barrymore in the title part, has proved so popular at the Grand opera house that it has been retained for another week.

Melodies that set the crowds humming, a dramatic story embracing the romance of a charming princess, and bright comedy are some of the reasons for Christie MacDonald's success in "The Spring Maid" at the Liberty. An additional reason is found in the company in which Miss MacDonald shines as the star. Elgie Bower appears as the real Spring Girl, who changes places with the Princess.

"Madame Sherry" continues to trip merrily along at the New Amsterdam theater to audiences of the same proportions that have attended since its premiere last August. Lina Abarbanell's performance of vaudeville's capricious treasure trover maintains all its original vivacity and Ralph Herz's comic study of the little Uncle is still full of the varied eccentricities he first imparted to the role.

• • •

Elsie Janis in "The Slim Princess" and fifty other girls of Annette Kellermann grace and slenderness and the buxom beauties who illustrate the chorus of Joseph Cawthorn's song, "I Like 'Em Plump," crowd the stage of the Globe theater with feminine loveliness. The theater itself is crowded at every performance with appreciative audiences.

"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," by Kate Douglas Wiggin and Charlotte Thompson, begins its seventeenth week at the Republic theater. The play will finish the season out in New York.

COMPENSATION LAWS IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES

Waste in Distributing the Recompense Eliminated—Just Distribution of the Loss Promoted—Compulsory Compensation Reduces Accidents.

The cumbersome, erratic and unfair workings of our present laws regulating the rights of master and servant in regard to accidents justify legislative interference, except where the injury results from the intended wrongful act of the one hurt, so that the loss may be borne not by him on whom it may happen to fall, but by those who benefit by the dangerous business to which it is incidental, for "when a person on his own responsibility and for his own profit sets in motion agencies which create risks for others, he ought to be civilly responsible for the consequences." Logically each industry should "bear its own cost in human life as well is in wear and tear on machinery." We have been slow to abandon the old theories of "liability for negligence" by requiring an employer to compensate all workers injured while at their jobs according to a uniform rate regardless of the cause of the accident. This plan, though limiting an employer's liability to a certain fixed and moderate proportion of the economic loss resulting seems to many to be an over radical proposition. So we are among the last of civilized countries to abandon the old liability law governing industrial accidents. While it may be discreditable to be so far behind, it is to our advantage to have the new laws in actual operation, so that Europe can be our laboratory.

Germany in 1884 was the first to enact legislation embodying the new principle of liability. Austria, Finland, England, France, Holland, Sweden, Denmark, Belgium and Hungary have followed her example. The foreign system differ considerably but are of two kinds—those in which the employer is merely required to compensate his workmen on a uniform plan, and those in which he must also insure against this indemnity. In the former system, of which the English law is an example, a workman is assured indemnity from his employer for accidents. In the latter, which is the German system this indemnity is doubly assured because the employer is compelled to insure himself against it. The provisions of the German compulsory workingmen's insurance law relating to accidents are as follows:

Workmen in manufacture, mining, agriculture, forestry, building, transportation, navigation, etc. receive compensation in all cases except where the injury was intentionally self-inflicted. In non-fatal cases, beginning with the fourteenth week of disability, employers are required to furnish full medical assistance and two-thirds, in rare cases 100 per cent, of the regular earnings. In fatal cases, a funeral benefit equal to one-fifteenth of the deceased's earnings, must be given and the widow until remarriage gets 20 per cent of her husband's regular earnings and for each child up to its fifteenth birthday 20 per cent is allowed, with 60 per cent of the deceased's regular earnings as the maximum. By another law all workmen who receive not over $480 must insure in local associations and the employer must pay one-third of his premiums. During the first thirteen weeks of disability from injury a man is entitled to benefits from this association.

Disputes are settled by boards of arbitration, and the employers in each industry are required to form accident insurance associations to which all contribute according to risk of trade and to payroll. The right to sue under the employers' liability act is not retained for workmen covered by this act.

The scheme has several striking features. By requiring compensation for all except self-inflicted injuries it eliminates all disputes over questions of negligence. By requiring employers to insure, the workman is protected even in case of his employer's bankruptcy. The employers' associations formed for purposes of insurance as required by the law become agencies for preventing accidents and for securing the best medical help for injured workmen. This is because assessments depend directly upon the frequency of serious accident among all workmen in all the plants in an association, and it is to the interest of all employers to keep down their assessments.

In England, in 1893, the rules of the common law had been modified by statute and there was dissatisfaction with the law on all sides. The workmen's compensation act was passed in 1879 and at first was limited to employes on railways, in factories, mines, quarries, in engineering work, and in construction work on buildings over thirty feet high. In 1900 agricultural workers were added, and in 1906 practically all employes were included, even domestic servants. In fatal cases three years' earnings are given to the dependents if there are any. In non-fatal cases a weekly payment, not exceeding 50 per cent of the average weekly earnings, must be made so long as the disability lasts. An employer is not obliged to insure against the indemnity. An employe may claim compensation under this act or sue for damages but may not do both. If he fails in his suit he may have compensation under this law with the costs of his unsuccessful suit subtracted.

After a nine years' trial in a limited field the law was extended to cover all employments so that now the compensation principle has become an accepted factor in British industry. In France, the government guarantees against the loss of pension payments from the bankruptcy of employers or insurance organizations.

There are three tests to apply to remedial legislation dealing with work accidents. Does the law tend to prevent unnecessary accident, does it promote a wise and just distribution of the economic loss, and does it eliminate waste in the process of distribution?

It is sometimes argued that if the workman were made sure of compensation for every injury, he would become careless. If the fear of death or injury does not insure caution in the workman, we cannot hope to instil it by holding over him the fear of death. A large steel manufacturer in Birmingham, England, after the act had been in operation, admitted that accidents had not increased. But by making the penalty for an employer's carelessness sure, we do create an agency calculated to make for such improvements in the construction and operation of plants as to eliminate their possibility.

Compensation laws provide for remuneration to the employe for unavoidable accidents which, under the present system of liability, is impossible and so contribute to a wise distribution of the loss for this charge, as a cost of production is included in the selling price of the product.

As a measure to eliminate waste in the distribution of the loss the advantages of a system of compulsory compensation which is not dependent upon the uncertainties of a lawsuit are obvious.

LIVING STAGE FOLK WHO KNEW AND CHEERED THE LINCOLNS

Adelina Patti's Own Story, Hitherto Unpublished, of How She Sang "Home Sweet Home" for the First Time in Her Life at Lincoln's Request—How Teresa Carreno Shocked Her Father at the Time of Her First Visit to the Lincoln's—Lotta and Maggie Mitchell, Two Other White House Favorites—Other Stage Folk Who Helped to Lift the Gloom Temporarily From the President's Brow—Mrs. Lincoln's Fondness for the Drama.

(Copyright, 1911, by the Associated Literary Press.)

There is still living, at Louisville, Ky., a woman who for four years was a fellow pupil of Mary Todd — who afterward became the wife of Abraham Lincoln — at Madame Mantelli's school for young ladies, at that period the most exclusive educational establishment of the kind in the state of Kentucky. Although stricken in years —she is in her 85th year—this old lady seems never to have forgotten anything connected with her companionship with Mary Todd.

"After the Lincolns went to Washington to live," she said recently, "I was both amused and indignant over the way some of the big newspapers went on about Mary's unfitness for the position of first lady of the land. Some of them went so far as to insinuate that she was actually illiterate. Why, Mary Todd was one of the very brightest girls in Madame Mantelli's school and always had the highest marks and took the biggest prizes. French was the language of the school, and Mary Todd spoke it as fluently as did madame herself. She was unusually bright in everything she attempted. In rhetoric and history she was always at the head of the class. I don't believe there's ever been a president's wife, before or since, who had a better education than Mary Todd. She had a real taste for study. After she finished at the madame's she took a supplementary course at the Ward academy, at Lexington. Don't ever believe for a moment that Mary Todd lacked education.

"She was one of the Lexington Todds," continued the old lady in a tone which seemed to imply that no discussion of the point was necessary. "But she wasn't the least uppish on that account — just a jolly, companionable girl with a smile for everybody. She was really the life of the school, always ready for a good time and willing to contribute even more than her own share in promoting it. She took a great interest in our school theatricals and was always prominent in them. That reminds me of my first thought when I heard she was going to marry a poor young lawyer whom she had met while on a visit to her sister in Springfield. Of course, we girls at Madame Mantelli's used to discuss our future husbands, laying down the law pretty explicitly as to what they would have to be and what we would expect of them. Mary Todd stipulated that her choice should be willing and able to let her see as much of the theater as she wanted; beyond that, she said, she didn't expect to be too particular.

"So when I heard that Mary had chosen a struggling young lawyer—the plainest looking man in Springfield, her sister wrote me—I wondered how she was going to manage about the theater going.

Mary Lincoln achieved her ambition; it was slow in coming, but when she went to Washington as the wife of the president of the United States the opportunity which had seemed so desirable in the days of her girlhood was hers to accept if she would. Her nineteen years of married life in a country town had not dulled her taste for the drama and, fortunately for her, Mr. Lincoln sympathized warmly with her in her fondness for the theater. During their Springfield life they were always liberal patrons of all the itinerant shows that came to town, and the man who was working his way to the top with an energy that was heroic in its power of endurance could always spare time to attend these rather infrequent entertainments, which were all the way from broadest farce to William Shapespeare.

When Lincoln Was a Congressman.

Mr. Lincoln's opportunity to cultivate the drama at close range had been rather less restricted than that of his wife. In November, 1847, he went to Washington as congressman from his district, and although the Washington of that date was but a faint outline of the imperial city of today, it offered considerably more in the way of amusement than did Springfield or any of the county seats of the circuit on which Mr. Lincoln traveled in the practice of his profession. His wife did not accompany him to Washington, the burden of family cares making it imperative for her to remain in the new home which Lincoln had acquired in Springfield.

Theatrical affairs at the national capital were still in a decidedly primitive condition. The Adelphi theater was opened that winter, and the plays that were presented there, mediocre and poorly acted as they were, afforded great satisfaction to the man who had enjoyed even cruder exhibitions of dramatic art in the little opera house at Springfield. At the Olympia, a playhouse devoted to the variety of theatrical expression known nowadays as "vaudeville," but termed "variety" at that time, what was advertised as "a lively and beautiful exhibition of model artists" was having a run, and at various times during that winter Herz and Sivori, European piano virtuosi then touring the United States, gave recitals in a public hall. Besides these more prominent places of amusement, there were a Chinese museum, an exhibition of Brown's paintings of the heroes of Palo Alto, Resaca, Monterey and Buena Vista and of Powers' "Greek Slave," the performances of one Dr. Valentine, "deilneator of eccentricities," and sundry lectures, which were just beginning to be popular. There is no reason to believe that Congressman Lincoln kept himself aloof from any of these means of counteracting the loneliness which was due to the absence of his wife and children and the uncongenial atmosphere of Mrs. Spriggs' boarding house in Duff Green's row, Capitol Hill.

Fourteen years later, when the Lincolns went to live in the White House, the public entertainment feature had made a distinct advance. Several new places of amusement had been opened and the time had arrived when everything best in the musical and dramatic way found its way to the national capital. It was then, for the first time in their lives, that the Lincolns were able to see and hear many of the famous actors and singers of the time, an opportunity which they accepted to full value, not only by frequenting the playhouses and halls in which the celebrities appeared, but by extending to many of these footlight favorites the coveted hospitality of the White House.

Some of those who were as truly personae gratae at the presidential mansion as most of the more or less distinguished individuals who crossed its threshold during the Lincoln tenancy are still in the flesh, and the warmth of the welcome they received, the unaffected geniality of their host, the matronly charm of their hostess have never passed from their memories.

Mme. Adelina Patti at the White House.

One who cherishes her recollection of the Lincoln's friendly interest in her as one of her most precious treasures is Adelina Patti, Baroness Cederstrom. To a fellow singer, also retired, an American woman who knows her well, the empress dowager of grand opera told the story of her first visit to the White House.

"I was a young girl, a very young girl," she said, "when Mr. Lincoln saw me for the first time. Let me see; it must have been in 1853 or 1854 that I made the first concert tour with Maurice Strakosch and Ole Bull. Yes, it was in 1853 and I was just 10 years of age. You see, I don't fight shy of dates any more. We gave a concert in Washington, and it so happened that Mr. Lincoln was in the city on professional business. He wanted to hear the great Norwegian violinist, and that is how he happened to hear me sing.

I don't remember what it was, but it was probably something very coloratura that Ettore Barili had taught me—something to show off an infant prodigy, you know. Mr. Lincoln heard me that night and I made quite an impression on him. When he returned to his home in Sprinfield he had not forgotten me. Even the memory of Ole Bull's wonderful playing hadn't effaced poor little me entirely, and if you had ever heard that wizard of the violin you would appreciate what a compliment it was to be remembered after such an artist had done his very best. Yes, Mr. Lincoln remembered me when he got home and spoke of me to his wife and predicted that I was going to have a career. So, you see, my queer little vocal pyrotechnics must have impressed him.

"How do I know all this? Mr. Lincoln told me, but not at that time. I didn't meet him then and didn't know for some time afterward that such a person existed. It was not until he had been in the White House more than a year that I found out he had heard me sing nine years before that time. During those nine years a great many important things had happened. Mr. Lincoln had been president for more than a year and I, too, had experienced some eventful changes. Contrary to the predictions of some of the noted musical experts of the day, my voice had not saold goodbyo to me, but had developed into something really worth while. In 1859, Ettore Barili—he was the teacher, you know, who made me what I turned out to be—declared I was ready for grand opera, and, although I was not quite 16 I actually made my operatic debut in America at the old Academy of Music in New York. I really achieved quite a triumph on that occasion, due in part to my youth and to the fact that I was practically a New York girl. I remember that one of the noted newspaper critics said that a real Gilda had arrived. The opera was our old friend "Rigoletto," and I suppose I did fairly well for a girl, but the London and Paris folks were very skeptical.

"In May, 1851, I made my London debut as Amina in "La Somnambula," a role that leaves no doubt concerning one's vocal ability, you know. Well, I won out, as the sporting folks say, and the following year I came back to America and sang in several large cities. It was in the fall of that year, 1862, that I met Mr. Lincoln and his wife and was received by them at the White House.

Patti Meets the President.

"We were giving three performances at the capital. It was the first night of our engagement and I was singing 'Amina.' Some time during the progress of the opera some one remarked that President Lincoln was in the house, but I was so absorbed in my own affairs and in those of the doleful heroine that I paid little attention to anything else, and when Maurice Strakosch came and asked me if I would like to meet the president I had forgotten all about his presence in the theater.

"'Oh I don't know,' I answered rather indifferently—I was very young, you know, and considerably spoiled by my good fortune. 'Is it absolutely necessary?'

"'It would be something unheard of to decline—especially since he has expressed a willingness to meet you,' my impresario returned seriously.

"'Very well then,' I said, seeing there was no help for it and believing that my manager regarded the matter from a purely business viewpoint. 'Come on,' I added quickly. 'Let's have it over as soon as possible.'

"I was dressed for the sleep-walking scene—not a costume, you will admit, in which to meet strangers — and I picked up the first thing at hand—it happened to be a big broadcloth cloak, the property of Mr. Strakosch — and wrapped myself in it. Thus accoutered, we made our way to the back of the president's box.

"Judge of my surprise when a tall, dark man standing alone in the shadow at the rear of the box stepped forward and held out his hand, saying as he did so: 'You have changed a great deal since I saw you last. I don't believe I should have recognized you.'

"Of course I could only stare and wonder, but he went right on and told me all about seeing me with Ole Bull, in 1853. The entire length of that first meeting couldn't have exceeded five or six minutes, but the president was so perfectly charming that it seemed as if I had known him always, and when I left him I had received an invitation to call next day at the White House to meet Mrs. Lincoln. I noticed as I went on again that the president was not in his box. Later on, Mr. Strakosch told me that he had been seen very seldom at places of amusement since the death of his little boy, Willie, which had occurred the previous winter, and that Mrs. Lincoln had not yet reappeared in public.

Patti Sings for Lincoln.

"The following afternoon my manager took me up to the White House and we were received by Mrs. Lincoln in one of the big parlors. The president's wife was a handsome woman, almost regal in her deep black and expansive crinoline, only an outline of white at her throat and wrists. Her manner, too, was most gracious, without a particle of reserve or stiffness.

"'My dear, it is very kind of you to come to see us,' she said, taking both my hands in hers and smiling in my face. 'I have wanted to see you—to see the young girl who has done so much, who has set the whole world talking about her wonderful singing.'

"Then the president entered the room. He greeted us cordially and again made mention of the great change in me since the Ole Bull concert. 'I shall always regret, Mary, that you were not with me at that time,' he said, turning to his wife.

"'I, too, have regretted it,' she said. "'Such a self-possessed little woman and with such a voice,' he went on.

"By this time I was actually blushing—I was still very young, you know—and so, without waiting to be asked I volunteered to sing for Mrs. Lincoln.

"'Thank you so much, my dear,' she said. 'I have been wondering how I could manage it without seeming presumptuous.'

"I drew off my gloves and went to the piano. First Mr. Strakosch accompanied me in a couple of rather florid things we both knew, and then I sang to my own accompaniment, 'The Last Rose of Summer,' which I should have to repeat a few hours later, the opera for that evening being 'Marta.' When I had finished the last long-drawn-out note of the song, I turned to have a look at my audience. Mrs. Lincoln had risen from her seat and was standing at a window in the back part of the room, with her back toward me. Of course, I couldn't see her face, but I knew she was weeping—the melancholy strains of the ballad had recalled the sense of deprivation and set her heart aching with renewed bitterness. I reproached myself that I had made such an awkward choice and was about to attempt to remedy my mistake by ending the performance with a rollicking bolero when Mr. Lincoln, who had been sitting motionless on a sofa near by, his eyes shaded by his left hand, asked without removing his fingers from his face:

"'Will you please sing "Home, Sweet Home?"'

"Strakosch gave me to understand in an undertone that he was unfamiliar with the air, but, fortunately for me, I knew it well enough, although I had never sung it. I didn't know the words, though, and while I was wondering how I should manage it, the president rose from his seat, went quickly to a small stand at the foot of the piano took from it a small music book, with a vivid green cover, and placed it on the piano rack, opened to the music of 'Home, Sweet Home.' Then he returned to his seat without a word, and resumed his former posture.

"Well, I sang the song the very best I could do it, and when Mr. Lincoln thanked me his voice was husky and his eyes were full of tears. By that time I was so wrought up over the situation myself that I actually blubbered when we were taking leave of the recently bereaved parents.

"As we were being driven back to our hotel, Strakosch congratulated me on the success of my first visit to the White House.

"'I won't look at it in that way!' I declared indignantly. 'There are other things in life besides business.'

"'I quite agree with you,' he admitted soberly. 'I give you my word of honor that I had some difficulty in subduing my emotion while you were doing that folk-song. The way I succeeded was by picturing to myself the hit you might make with it as a positively final encore.'

"I gave him an indignant look, but I saw he was perfectly serious. I repulated his suggestion mentally, but I sang the homely old song that very night at the opera, and I have been singing it ever since. How many times, I wonder?"

Mme. Teresa Carreno and Her First Visit at the Lincolns'.

Late in the fall of 1863, soon after the Lincolns had returned from their summer sojourn at the Soldiers' Home and were settled again in the White House, the president and his wife and Tad—the elder son, Robert, was a senior at Harvard—went to hear another infant prodigy, that time a little pianist from Venezuela who was astounding the musicians and delighting even the unmusical by her wonderful technique and skillful interpretation of the best classical compositions.

This diminutive artist, who figured on the playbills of those days as Little Teresa and is still a living refutation of the assertion that prodigies do not develop into mature excellence, appealed strongly to the tender maternal sympathy so prominent in the character of Mrs. Lincoln, and the president himself was scarcely less attracted toward the clever little musician who afterward became Mme. Teresa Carreno.

Mme. Carreno still preserves a very lively recollection of an afternoon spent at the White House, to which she was taken by her father in response to a pressing invitation from President and Mrs. Lincoln.

"I was a capricious little minx," she said, in relating the episode, "not a day older than 9 and with a will that was considerably stronger than my physical appearance, which was that of a child even younger. I simply tyrannized over my people and was fully alive to the fact that my alleged genius was permitted to override every other consideration. I must have been an uncanny little creature, for I seemed to realize that I was the breadwinner and that I was entitled to special treatment on that account.

"Now to show you how much of a little terror I was in those days, let me tell you how I domineered over my poor father, who was an excellent amateur pianist. Up to the time of my first appearance in concert in New York I had had no other teacher, and my father had taught me only the most classical music—Bach, a number of movements from the Beethoven sonatas, some Scarlatti, but mostly "The Well Tempered Clavichord." It happened that Louis Gottschalk, then at the height of his popularity as a concert pianist and composer, was in the hall and heard me play. He was so interested in my performance that he called on my father next day and volunteered to instruct me.

"Of course, Gottschalk was a very brilliant player, but my father detested his compositions and wanted me to keep on with Bach and Clementi. He warned me, with tears in his eyes, that no one could become a real artist without a proper foundation in Bach. From sheer perverseness, I believe, I decided right then and there to study with the American pianist. I began to play his pieces at all my concerts and he taught me to do them as exactly like himself as possible.

"As my father and I were going to the White House that morning, he implored me to play something severely classical if Mr. Lincoln should invite me to try the piano. He had an idea that Bach would be suitable for such an occasion, and although I did not agree with him, I said nothing, resolving mentally to do as I liked—perhaps decline to play at all.

"The president and his family received us so informally and they were all so very nice to me that I almost forgot to be cranky under the spell of their friendly welcome. My self-consciousness all returned, however, when Mrs. Lincoln asked me if I would like to try the White House grand piano. At once I assumed the most critical attitude toward everything—the stool was unsuitable, the pedals were beyond reach, and, when I had run my fingers over the keyboard, the action was too hard. My poor father suggested that a Bach 'Invention' would make me more familiar with the action.

"That was quite enough to inspire me to instant rebellion. Without another word, I struck out into Gottschalk's funeral 'Marche de Nuit,' and after I had finished modulated into 'The Last Hope' and ended with 'The Dying Poet.' I knew my father was in despair and it stimulated me to extra effort. I think I never played with more sentiment. Then what do you think I did? I jumped off the piano stool and declared that I would play no more—that the piano was too badly out of tune to be used.

"My unhappy father looked as if he would swoon, but Mr. Lincoln patted me on the cheek and asked me if I could play 'The Mocking Bird' with variations. I knew the air and I didn't hesitate over the variations. The whim to do it seized me and I returned to the piano, gave out the theme, and then went off in a series of impromptu variations that threatened to go on forever. When I stopped it was from sheer exhaustion.

"Mr. Lincoln declared that it was excellent, but my father thought I had disgraced myself, and he never ceased to apologize in his broken English until we were out of hearing."

Lotta and Maggie Mitchell, White House Visitors.

It was during the latter part of the Lincolns' occupancy of the White House that Charlotte Crabtree, the theatrical idol of the '60s, was at the apogee of her fame. It is impossible for anyone who is not a survivor of the last generation of theater-goers to realize the universal admiration and esteem in which this admirable young comedienne was held by the American public. Her success was due almost entirely to her personal worth and charm, for the pieces in which she became famous possessed small literary merit. Born with the true dramatic instinct, she began her stage career at the age of 10, and her early sobriquet of Little Lotta continued to be a term of endearment until her retirement, in 1891.

Miss Crabtree—she never married despite the fact that she might have had the pick among a host of eligibles for the choosing—is still a vivacious and very attractive woman in her 64th year, mistress of a large fortune of her own upbuilding and yet in possession of much of the personal magnetism which made her so irresistible in her younger days. Her memory is a precious storehouse filled with the record of her social and dramatic triumphs, and there is nothing in it more sacred to her than her recollections of many pleasant hours spend in companionship with the Lincolns at the White House.

Maggie Mitchell, too,—who, as Mrs. Charles Abott, is still living at Elberon, N. J.—was a prime favorite at the White House, as she was everywhere else, for she had captured the American public with her dainty impersonation of Fanchon the Cricket, and her equally interesting successors—Mignon, Lorle, Nan and Jane Eyre.

In 1862 Kate Bateman achieved a remarkable success in such legitimately tragic roles as Julia, Pauline, Juliet and Lady Macbeth, and in 1864 the Lincolns saw her as Leah the Forsaken, a most realistic impersonation that appealed powerfully to President Lincoln. Miss Bateman, who was of a Baltimore theatrical family, was a young woman of great intellectual endowment and personal charm and was a social favorite in the most select circles at the capital. She met the Lincolns frequently and visited them at the White House.

Anna Elizabeth Dickinson, Emancipation Advocate.

Another surviving famous actress who came to know President and Mrs. Lincoln well through her visits to the White House is Anna Elizabeth Dickinson. It should be said, however, that she did not take up the drama until after Lincoln's death; but while she was still alive she began to build up the reputation she long enjoyed of being the country's most famous woman lecturer. Thus, she properly belongs among the living stage folk who knew and entertained the Lincolns.

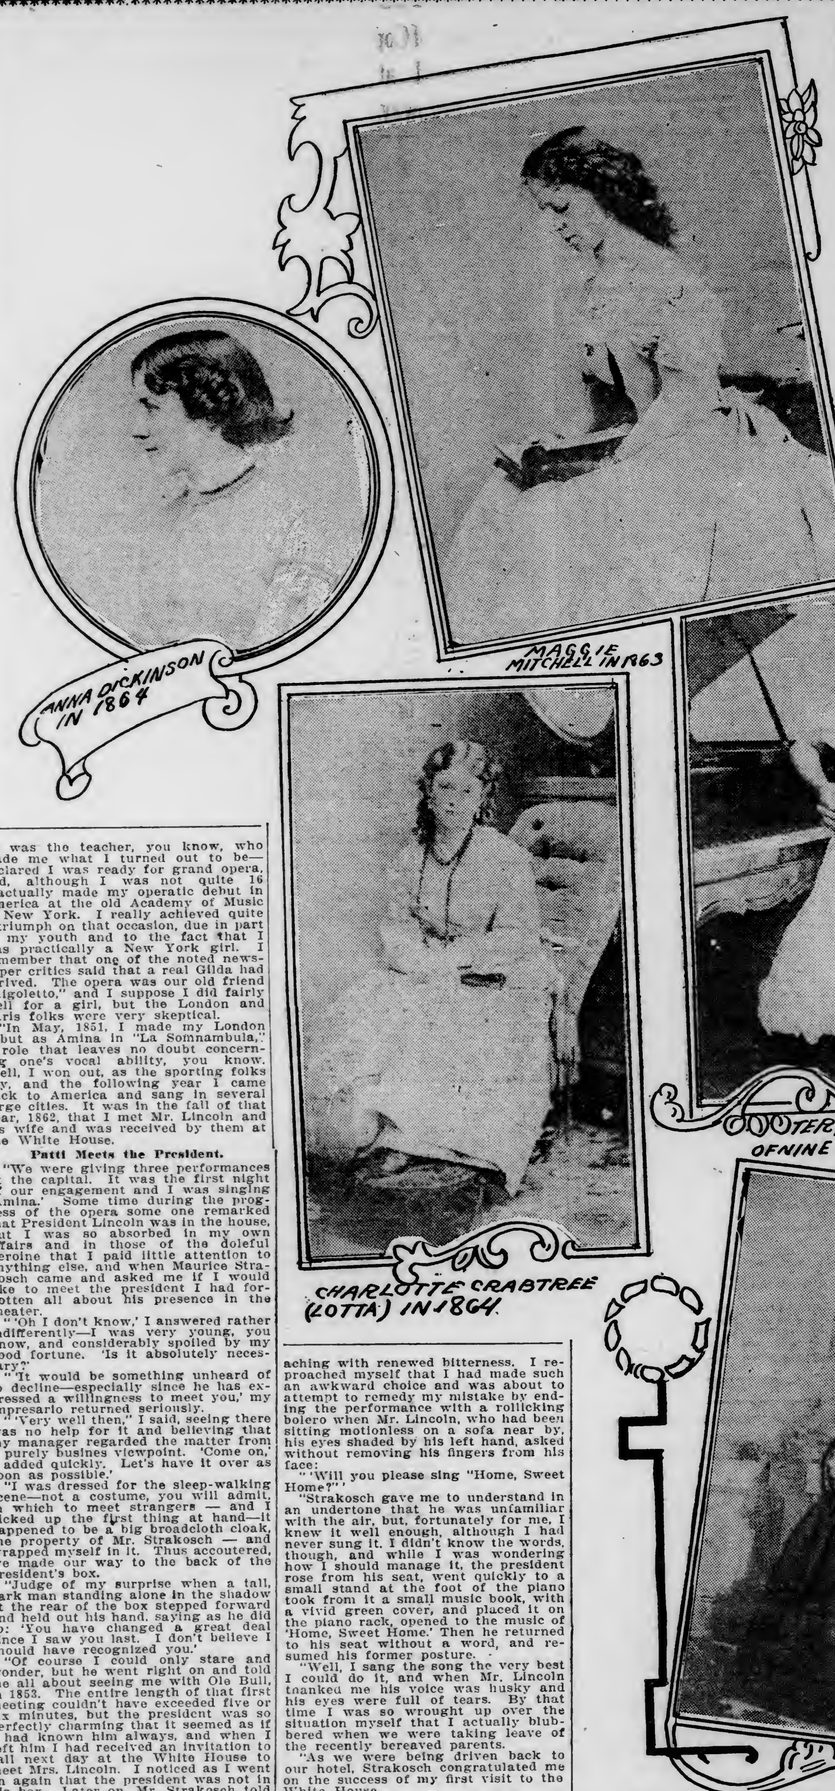

About a month after Mr. Lincoln was inaugurated for the first time, there went to Washington in search of employment a young woman who was destined to play an active and very important part in the great political drama which had begun to unfold. Her name was Anna Elizabeth Dickinson, a native of Philadelphia and a school teacher by profession. Believing that she had a mission, she went to the national capital and took a position in the United States mint, but after a few months' service gave herself up unreservedly to the cause of emancipation. It was inevitable that the militant champion of such a reform should come face to face with the one man who had it in his power to make her advocacy bear fruit, and Miss Dickinson found her way to the White House speedily, with the enthusiasm of youth over her mission and a mental equipment that was a passport to respectful consideration.

To this day Miss Dickinson is a firm believer in the idea that she played the role of a successful promoter of emancipation during those dark and uncertain days which followed the outbreak of the Civil war. In the sense that her virile and frequently eloquent crusade against the well-rooted evil stirred the minds and hearts of men to follow her advice, she was indeed all that she tried to be. President Lincoln was at one with her in her propaganda, and she was always welcomed to the White House with a cordiality that left no uncertainty as to the esteem in which she was held by Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln. There is no other woman living today who has discussed the great race problems of the early 'sixties with the great emancipator so frequently and so earnestly as has Anna Elizabeth Dickinson.

In the days when Miss Dickinson knew the Lincolns intimately and was privileged to visit the White House informally whenever the spirit moved her she had never thought of the stage as a possible means of exploiting her unusual oratorical ability. That came as an afterthought, after she had long demonstrated her power on the rostrum to hold an audience spellbound for two hours with her forceful and rapid delivery. It was not until 1876 that she made her venture into the dramatic field in tragic roles. Although the experiment was a success from an artistic viewpoint, Miss Dickinson abandoned the stage after a few years and returned to the lecture room and literature. Her novel, "What Answer?" attracted much attention and her two plays "The Crown of Thorns" and "Mary Tudor," although they were not found available as acting dramas, were of decided literary merit.

Other Stage Folk Who Cheered the Lincolns.

The only other living stage folk whose good fortune it was to lift temporarily the cloud of gloom which enveloped the White House during the trying period of the Civil war were Clara Louise Kellogg, who was just at the beginning of her triumphal career as an interpreter of grand opera roles; Virginia Buchanan, who was one of the most promising ingenues in America; Denman Thompson, who had not yet passed beyond the reputation of a clever Yankee sketch artist; Frank C. Bangs, who was doing good work in minor parts; Oliver Doud Byron, who was beginning to attract attention as a juvenile; Rose Eytinge, who was already an admirable exponent of a certain emotional school; Edward Harrigan, who sang and danced inimitably; Frank Mordaunt, who was doing good work as a young lover; Clara Morris, who was a member of John Ellsler's company, which visited Washington when on tour; Mrs. Sol Smith, who was a prominent member of one of the best traveling organizations of the time; Charles Walcot, member of several of the best stock companies of the period, and clever Annie Yeamans, who was doing some of her best work in those days.

FIRES IN THE BUTTE MINES ASCRIBED TO ANARCHISTS

Any One Caught Doing Damage May Be Given Rough Treatment.

Surplus of $4,000,000 Still in the Butte Coalition Treasury.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fire in the powder magazine of the East Gray Rock recently, following close upon the fire in the High Ore, has set people talking and many there are who are of the opinion that both fires were the work of some maliciously disposed person bent on the destruction of property without regard to the consequences. The opinion does not prevail that there is any particular feeling against the Anaconda company, for it is generally conceded that it is treating its men as well as any corporation in the world today in every respect, but there are some people at work with anarchist views running in the direction of destroying the property of corporations on the principle that they have no right to exist. That there are such people in the city there is no doubt, as they have been frequently heard during campaign times from the street corners endeavoring to sow the seed of discontent and anarchy and declaring that the corporations were the enemies of the people. Fortunately the class referred to has not any great strength in the city. The great majority of the people thoroughly appreciate the manner in which the Anaconda company management provides work for the men, notwithstanding the fact that several of the mines are down for repairs and that a curtailment is in progress. Development work and improvements of an unusually extensive character have been going on for many months, thus giving work to hundreds who would otherwise have had to walk the streets or seek work elsewhere. This fact is fully recognized by nine out of every ten working men in the district, and if any individual is caught in the future in any way attempting to injure property it is doubtful if he would have a chance to appear before the constituted authorities, so strong is the feeling just now in this community.

The fire in the East Gray did not do any damage, as a lot of brave men, as soon as it was discovered, rushed to the scene and by forming a bucket brigade soon subdued the flames and secured the two boxes of powder which was in the magazine. All the men were able to resume work in the mines on the next shift.

Still in Coalition Treasury.

A story was recently printed in an Eastern publication to the effect that the $4,000,000 surplus in the Butte Coalition treasury had been diverted to other channels, printed no doubt for the purpose of creating some uneasiness among stockholders and urging on a few dissatisfied people to continue their agitation for a movement to upset the sale of the company's property to the Anaconda company, on the ground that the same was illegal. It can be stated on a very high authority that the $4,000,000 is still in the Coalition treasury, and the holders of the stock need have no fear in regard to the protection of their rights in every respect.

The High Ore Fire.

The fire in the High Ore mine is no longer exciting any interest, and although it is not yet out, it is believed that in the next two weeks all signs of fire will have disappeared and men will be on shift on all levels of the property as usual. The pumps are being kept in good working order and the 2,800 level is now practically free of water. As yet it is impossible to make an estimate of the damage, but as the flames were largely confined to old workings there will be little interference with mining operations when once it is decided to resume. The Anaconda company has been particularly fortunate in conquering this fire, which at one time threatened the shutting down of several mines for some time.

North Moccasin.

The North Moccasin property in the Kendall district is to be sold this month and there is every prospect that it will be purchased by the Barnes-King company. By many people this would be regarded as a good mine for the Barnes-King people to secure as it adjoins the North Moccasin and is known to be rich in gold values.

Raven.

The Raven Copper Mining company has a force of men at work on development work and no effort whatever is being made to block out any ore at the present time. A crosscut is being run from the 200-foot level of the Old Glory to the Snoozer and four veins have been encountered. No effort will be made at the present time to prove up the veins, but just as soon as the management is satisfied that ore in good paying quantities exists then the work of blocking the same out and shipping will be commenced.

Butte & Superior.

The Butte & Superior company, during January, shipped 425 tons daily to the Basin concentrator, which netted $30,000 for the month. It is predicted that during the present month the company will average better than 425 tons a day and that the net proceeds will run $35,000 unless some unforeseen accident occurs. The increased profits, while to some extent due to the increased shipments, have been increased through the new improvements made at the concentrator which has reduced the cost of production to $3.90 a ton, which includes cost of mining and freight charges to Basin. Still, with all these reductions and the announcement of President Wolvin as to the favorable financial arrangement made, the general public does not seem disposed to take kindly to the stock and it is not in demand.

Mountain View.

The work of preparing the engine of the Mountain View mine for the operation of the compressed air plant for the hoisting ore, is proceeding along with all possible speed, but there is no reason to change the time previously set for the hoisting of the first ore by the new system, namely, March 1. Just as soon as the Mountain View is got into successful operation the Diamond mine will be closed down and the engine changed to meet the new requirements.

Anaconda's Production.

The official figures as announced of the production of the mines of the Anaconda company for the past month are 21,600,000 pounds, which is 100,000 pounds more than the previous month. The East Butte company turned out a little over 1,000,000 pounds during January, which brings up the total production of the district for the past month to 22,600,000 pounds. When it is considered that the Boston & Montana group of mines were down for several days in consequence with trouble at the Great Falls smelter on account of the cold weather and that some of the mines of the Anaconda group were down on account of the fire in the High Ore, the production was well maintained.

Corbin.

The Corbin Copper company in the Corbin district is making regular shipments of high-grade ore. The concentrator has been closed down on account of the cold weather and when it is reopened in the spring it is more than likely that electric power will be substituted for steam. Negotiations to this effect are now going on. Recent returns from the Rosalie Lee tunnel show 9.15 per cent copper, 25 8-10 silver and 90 cents in gold to the ton. Extensive development work is proceeding and the prospects of the company are very bright. The Corbin Copper company is one of the Dow properties.

Alice Silver Company.

There is a report to the effect that a proposition is soon to be submitted to the stockholders of the Alice Silver Mining company to dissolve the company and distribute the assets pro rata among the stockholders as soon as practicable. The assets of the Alice company as shown by a report made Dec. 31, 1910, are 30,000 shares of Anaconda company stock, cash in bank $29,122.99, and dividend due from Anaconda company $15,000. The liabilities consist of 400,000 shares of the capital stock of the company. Since selling the property of the company to the Anaconda company, the Alice has received three dividends of 50 cents each. It is announced that in addition to receiving 30,000 shares of Anaconda stock, a floating indebtedness of over $34,000 was taken care of. The secretary of the Alice says in a report that just as soon as the plan is ready for dissolution the stockholders will be advised.

RICKETTS MAY HEAD ALL MINES

Likely to Be General Manager of Cole-Ryan Properties.

Bisbee, Ariz., Feb. 11.—Charles A. Dinsmore says in the Review: "Rumor has it that Dr. L. B. Ricketts, general manager of the Cananea Consolidated, now on a pleasure trip to Europe, will on his return become the general manager of all the mining holdings of the Cole-Ryan interests. I cannot get verification or denial. It is a logical theory, however, and the mining man first stating that this was to be the program is well equipped to know something of the matter. It is problematical, of course, as to who will take Dr. Ricketts' place at Cananea, though it might well be Mr. Kirk. The Cole-Ryan interests have large holdings in many sections of the country—Arizona, New Mexico, Montana, Utah, Nevada, Chihuahua, Sonora, Sinaloa etc. and it is in line with policy, economy, and best results that the entire management of all should be in the hands of one person—and there isn't a man in the country more competent than Dr. Ricketts."

MINING IN THE BLACK HILLS

Homestake South Extension and Oro Hondo to Consolidate.

Deadwood S. D., Feb. 11.—Andrew H. Oleson, for some years past superintendent of the Homestake South Extension Mining company, has gone East to complete details of the consolidation of the company with the Oro Hondo Mining company. The properties practically adjoin and can be worked together. The development work done thus far indicates that the Homestake ledges are to be found in both at some depth. Preliminary arrangements for the deal were made last summer, when the Brooklyn interests that control the Homestake South Extension agreed to take over the Oro Hondo ground and begin deep mining, although over 1,000 feet in depth was attained on the Oro Hondo without reaching the vein and estimates following careful examination indicated that the ledge had dipped deeper than at first supposed. Both properties are in close proximity to the Homestake workings and are on what is known as the Homestake belt.

Up Deadwood gulch, in the so-called phonolite belt the Hidden Treasure, Pennsylvania, Gladiator and Big Four are preparing to resume work in the spring. The Hidden Treasure only made a temporary suspension a few weeks ago and will shortly be in a position to continue, while the Pennsylvania, which shut down a few weeks previously, has completed arrangements for future work. A new shaft will probably be sunk. The Gladiator has some good grade ore in sight and as soon as the present plans are completed it will be worked again. The Big Four, which has been idle for nearly five years, is being considered by its Tarkio, Mo., owners for resumption within a few weeks if proper arrangements for handling the flow of water that was encountered some years ago can be made.

SEARCHING FOR IRON

International Harvester Company Exploring in Crystal Falls District.

Open Pit Mine May Be Opened in the Randsville District.

The International Harvester company is again searching for iron ore in the Crystal Falls district of the Menominee range. It has resumed operations at the Lot 3 property. It holds the tract under lease. Lot 3 was partly tested last year. Operations were suspended late in the fall. At that time ore of excellent grade had been encountered in underground workings. It was heavily charged with manganese and evidently the deposit was not deemed desirable of development. In any event, the present work is being conducted in a portion of the property heretofore not explored. Lot 3 is in the Paint river valley and as far as location goes it bears the earmarks of a promising mine. The work of the Harvester company will be watched with interest.

A mining innovation in the Crystal Falls district has been adopted by Oglebay, Norton & Co. of Cleveland, Ohio, at the Bristol property. The big new hoisting shaft, the sinking of which is in progress, will be provided with wall plates, dividers and end pieces of steel inside of timber. The lining will be tamarack and hemlock. The shaft will be comparatively dry. However, should fire break out, the flames can do no more than burn out the planking, and there is little danger of that. It is not improbable that an open-pit mine will be opened in the Randville district of the Menominee. In this event the steam shovel will be employed. The tract in question is the one which the E. N. Breitung interests of Marquette explored last year, and where a large tonnage of ore was proved up. The deposit is close to the surface and can be mined cheaply. A number of sample cargoes will be taken out and shipped the coming season, after which the method of developing the tract will be determined.

Aun Unfounded Report.

A statement that has appeared in various city newspapers latterly has announced that the United States Steel corporation, operating through the Oliver Iron Mining company, was building a power plant on the Menominee river, four miles from Iron Mountain, at a cost of $750,000. It was stated that the works would furnish power to the mines in that vicinity, as well as to the city. The item is without foundation. The waterpower to which reference is made is owned by interests other than the Steel corporation and when put to commercial use it will be by private capital. The Steel corporation has no project of the kind under way. It already owns a big hydraulic plant at Quinnesec Falls, on the Menominee river, and this plant is supplying compressed air by means of which there is operated a considerable portion of the machinery of the big Chapin mine.

Representatives of the Lake Superior corporation, which controls the Algoma steel plant and iron furnaces at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., have been on the iron ranges on the United States side of the international border latterly arranging for the purchase of ore for 1911 delivery. The company uses about 1,000,000 tons of ore per annum, which amount is expected to increase considerably as operations are expanded. Approximately half of the tonnage is procured in this country and the balance at the company's own properties in the Michipicoten district, principally the Helen mine. The great bulk of the American ore is bought in the open market, although only certain grades are taken. The rest comes from the Millie mine at Iron Mountain, Menominee range, the lease of which is controlled by the Lake Superior corporation.

Moving Buildings.

Some years ago, when the Martel furnace property at St. Ignace, Straits of Mackinac, was sold, the furnace, itself was dismantled and was removed to Boyne City, Mich. Now the dwelling houses at the furnace location are being shipped elsewhere. There are seventeen of these, one of which is big enough for use as a convention hall. The buildings are going to Newberry, Mich., where they will be re-erected for the occupancy of employes of the Lake Superior Iron & Chemical company. This corporation has, it is announced, reduced wages at its Ashland, Wis., plant 10 per cent. The cut is attributed to the depressed state of the market for pig iron. Whether a similar reduction will be made at the various Michigan plants of the company is not stated.

Ore from Rogers, Brown & Co.'s Ohio mine at Michigamme, Marquette range, is being shipped to Iron Mountain for treatment in the Ardis furnace of John T. Jones. A thorough test of the process and the product will be made and it is reported as not likely that a duplicate of the furnace will be erected at the Ohio property. The mine produces an ore of low grade, for the treatment of which the Jones process is especially designed.

The strike recently made at the Aronson property, in the Iron River district of the Menominee range, is apparently one of importance. The diamond drill is stated to have passed through 150 feet of merchantable ore, with indications that the deposit is a large one. The property is in the hands of the Geary & Powers Exploring company of Hibbing, Minn., and will probably be turned over to one of the big operating concerns.

SHOWING IS EXCELLENT

Rich Showing of Copper Ground Obtained at the Ojibway.

Indiana May Make an Assessment or Issue Treasury Stock.

Houghton, Mich., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Ojibway Mining company is opening copper ground of exceptional richness at depth in the No. 1 shaft. In this shaft drifting is in progress at the several levels from the 350 to the 1,550-foot level and it is at this latter level that a most excellent showing of copper ground has recently been obtained. The crosscut at this depth entered the lode about fifty feet from the shaft and for a distance of thirty-five feet from foot wall to hanging wall discloses commercial ground without a break. Measured at right angles to the formation the lode at this point shows a width of nineteen feet.

Indiana.

The Indiana Mining company is making good progress in the shaft which is being sunk to tap the copper-bearing felsite disclosed in the diamond drill operations of a year ago, and which proved such a sensation at the time of its discovery. The shaft has attained a depth of about sixty feet and is therefore within fifty feet of this deposit which, as nearly as can be calculated, lies at a depth of 110 feet from surface at this point. Sinking is progressing at the rate of three to five feet daily, and though the rate may be expected to grow less as greater depth is attained it is altogether likely that a disclosure of the felsite will be made before the end of the month. The company has been under considerable expense in making a cross section of its property and this work is still unfinished so that it will be necessary soon to provide additional funds with which to continue operations. This may be accomplished by the issuance of treasury stock of which there are 20,000 shares, or by levying an assessment on the 80,000 outstanding shares of the company.

Ahmeek.

The Ahmeek Mining company has put the third unit of its stamp mill into commission and is now having its entire rock output treated in its own mill. About 1,700 tons of rock are being milled daily. The average yield of copper per ton of rock milled continues high and though fluctuating greatly from month to month is well above twenty pounds fine copper. At the mine, four shafts are sinking steadily, two are below an average depth of more than 1,800 feet entirely in copper ground, and two opened on the underlay below the Mohawk mine at average depths of 1,250 feet. The latter are just getting into copper ground at this depth. Such ground as has been exposed at this point is richly charged with copper.

Wolverine.

The Wolverine Copper Mining company in exploring the territory lying immediately to the east and under the Kearsarge formation has driven a crosscut through this ground for a distance of about 700 feet, without encountering anything of value. This territory is traversed by as many as seventy distinct amygdaloid beds, some of which at points farther south are shown to carry copper in small quantities, and in one or two instances give indications of commercial values. The Wolverine crosscut is at a depth of nearly 3,000 feet from surface and will be extended indefinitely according to present plans in the hope of encountering a lode that may be wrought with profit. The shaft sinking in the Osceola formation has reached a depth of about 260 feet and will be sunk to considerably greater depth with the idea of developing a mine upon this lode. The Osceola lode is notoriously low grade and so far as opened on this property discloses little that may safely be classified as commercial ground. Despite the small yield per ton of rock expected the management is confident of its ability to make its mining operations in this lode return a profit.

Contact.

The Contact Copper company, organized last year for the purpose of taking title to and exploring the old Elm river tract and section 13 adjoining, is meeting with the same difficulties that beset the Elm River company in its sporadic attempts to explore that territory by means of diamond drills. The property is overlain with a heavy blanket of sand, at most points so thick that attempts to drive sand pipes through it preliminary to drilling proved unsuccessful, and in consequence exploratory work by the original company was not as thorough as might be. The new company is putting down its fourth drill hole, and at a depth of 400 feet the overburden has not yet been penetrated. This work is in the horizon of the Lake lodes, so-called.

FITCH ON CHIEF CONSOLIDATED

Annual Report Shows Its Finances Are in Good Condition.

The second annual report of President Walter Fitch of the Chief Consolidated Mining company is issued. Total receipts for the year, including balance of $108,789 brought forward, were $288,088; and the expenditures, $242,469, leaving a balance on hand in cash of $45,569. The total shares outstanding on Jan. 1, 1911, were 871,384.

President Fitch says:

"Since the date of our last reports your company has acquired the balance of the outstanding shares of the Little Chief Mining & Milling company and had its charter surrendered. In addition to your company's former ownership of the Eureka City Mining company's shares, it has acquired by exchange of its own shares for that company's, on the basis of one for five all but a few of the shares of those outstanding. Additional mining claims have also been acquired.

"It was found to be absolutely indispensable to provide the mine with new machinery in order that proper development work could be carried forward, and as the character of this work had demonstrated ample promise of results to justify the outlay, a very complete power plant has been provided and the same is now complete and in operation, with the exception noted in the superintendent's report, and has proved to be extremely satisfactory. As a result of this improvement there will be during the current year a very considerable increase in the amount of work done and the results, I predict, will be very satisfactory to you.

"The treasurer's statement will show you that without the sale of any of the treasury shares or the incurring of any indebtedness the mine has produced enough ore to provide the means to cover its operating expenses and has in addition paid for its new equipment, purchased additional mining claims, provided the working capital for the development work for the Eureka City Mining company, in accordance with its contract with that company, discharged the indebtedness inherited with the Little Chief Mining & Milling company and besides incurring some abnormal expenses, incidental to the starting of a new enterprise, still has an ample balance of cash on hand to start the new year with.

"With the product now making and the very excellent promise of its workings, I anticipate a rapid replacement of the company's original cash capital and following this the payment of dividends.

BANK PRESIDENT ENDORSES NEAL CURE FOR DRINK HABIT

Through It He Saves His Friend, Bringing Honor to Himself and Happiness to All.

J. A. McWAID, President. ATLANTIC NATIONAL BANK ATLANTIC, IOWA.

I was instrumental in inducing a very close friend of mine to take the NEAL THREE-DAY CURE and treatment for the drink habit. He took the cure at the Neal Institute, commencing the treatment on Wednesday and was discharged as cured and returned home on the following Saturday evening, having been in the said institute under treatment just three days. This man as I personally know, had been a hard drinker for several years—in fact, had reached a point where I am sure he could not control the appetite for liquor. Since taking the cure, this man has greatly improved, both physically and mentally, the habit and desire seems to be entirely eradicated, and I feel that the cure is permanent. His general health is good, and nervous system wonderfully improved. I also know of four other bad cases and the results of same, treated by Doctor Neal, and they all seem to be perfectly cured and are leading sober and industrious lives and supporting their families as they had not done before for years.

I gladly write this letter, and authorize the Neal Institute company to use the same in any way that they may desire, hoping that it may be the means of inducing some unfortunate man afflicted with this awful habit to try the Neal Cure. Respectfully submitted, J. A. McWAID.

CURES IN THREE DAYS

The Neal Internal Treatment cures the periodical, occasional or moderate drinker, the habitual and excessive drinker, and the nervous man who has to drink to keep from becoming nervous. It takes away all inclination to drink, all desire and craving for drink, by neutralizing the poison of alcohol in the system and ridding the blood of the poison by a rapid system of elimination, leaving the drinker in the same condition that he was in before tasting liquor.

Refuse to take any treatment for the drink habit where hypodermic injections are given, for they are so liable to result in blood poison from the use of an infected needle.

Each patient is given a plain contract, agreeing to effect a perfect cure in three days or return the full fee paid.

BETTER YEAR FOR DIVIDENDS

Early Reports From the Mines and Works Look Good.

Judging by reports made to The Mining World for the month of January there is reason to believe that the year 1911 will prove a better year in point of dividends paid by American mines and works than was 1910. A compilation of these reports show that forty-four American mining properties yielded profits sufficiently large to enrich shareholders to the extent of $11,204,608. In addition to this amount are the declarations of four security holding corporations which distributed among their shareholders $1,524,688, making the January dividend disbursements total $12,729,196.

In comparison with January, 1910, the dividend payments made last month show an increase of $2,676,123 and an increase of eight companies participating. As compared with January, 1909, the 1911 disbursements show an increase of eleven in the number of companies contributing, and an increase of $3,607,641 in the total amount paid.

Of the forty-four mines and works paying dividends in January, thirty-four are in the gold-silver-lead-zinc class, and they contributed nearly one-half of the month's total, or $5,628,215.

Of these thirty-four companies, seventeen operate in the United States and they paid dividends in January totaling $2,968,382. Of this amount Goldfield Consolidated contributed over three-fifths, or $1,779,549. Seven Canadian companies, all operating in the Cobalt district, contributed $1,380,480, while ten Mexican companies contributed $1,279,353.

Seven copper companies, all operating properties in the United States, paid dividends in January totaling $3,570,600, and Anaconda, under its new organization, was responsible for nearly two-thirds of this, or $2,110,000.

Two metallurgical companies paid January dividends totaling $1,975,793, $1,375,000 of which was paid by the American Smelting & Refining company.

SPOILING THE CHILD.

The Gaulois: The efficacy of corporal punishment in the treatment of apaches and unruly children has for some time been agitating the minds of French people.

Henry IV of France was a firm believer in the adage, "Spare the rod and spoil the child." In a letter to the governess of his son he wrote in October, 1607: "Madame—I have to complain that you have not informed me of having flogged my son. I desire and request that you will flog him whenever he is disobedient or otherwise troublesome, knowing as I do that nothing will do him more good. I speak from experience as at his age I was frequently birched.—Henry."

A NATIONAL "ACCIDENT."

Sunday will be the birthday anniversary of one whom the nation delights to honor. His name will be spoken from platforms and pulpits and will blazon thousands of printed pages. In homes where there is to be found the combination of patriotism and intimacy between children and parents, the story of his life will be told by admiring tongues, and will fall on eager ears, impressing young minds with the double lesson of individual and civic virtue. Even though it be dressed in the homely phrasing of daily conversation, with none of the rich regalia of oratory or fanciful phrases of rhetoric, the story will be beautiful to those who listen, and will stand more firmly in memory than it would with all the literary and verbal decorations known to the best trained writer or speaker.

And yet, with all its beauty, all its deep significance, all its lessons of tenderness and strength, of sincere love of country and his fellow men, of manhood, of untarnished honor, it will be the story of what, in our loose application of terms to the things we do not understand, was in fact "an accident."

In the days of ancient Israel we read that "the Lord raised up" men to do great things. If Moses had been an American he would have been regarded as "an accident" from the time he was pulled out of the bulrushes. The judges who came one after another to govern the Hebrew nation would have been merely later accidents. It seems strange to think of them in that way, perhaps, but were the developments and emerging into prominence of these men of other days essentially different from the growth and rise of this famous American?

First of all we must grant certain native tastes and desires. Among these, in this particular instance, we find an inclination toward reading and study. Books were scarce, and volumes of law came most readily to his hand. By this "accidental" circumstance, then, he took up the law as his profession, that being the one way in which he could get real benefit from the time he spent in reading. By another "accident," the custom of lawyers in the regions where he lived necessitated their getting acquainted with people who lived in different parts of a wide territory. He followed the example of others of his profession and became known to many men.

Again "by accident" the nature of the work that fell to him was such as to show these people his character and abilities, and they naturally chose him to represent them in congress. By yet another "accident" there arose in the party with which he allied himself a dissension as to leadership, and by a yet stranger "accident" the contending sides united upon this lawyer-congressman as the candidate for president.

There the list of "accidents" ends. It was the personality, character, power of the man himself that counted after that. What he did was the fruition of his earlier achievements, and his acts live today and will live forever in the memory of Americans, not only on account of what they meant to the nation, but because, with all the vainglory and pettiness and self-seeking that has developed among us, we all admire and respect—yes, and reverence—honor and manliness.

Perhaps we are forever past the day when the race will concede that "the Lord raises up" men for great purposes. Perhaps we have reached the time when, in the intoxication of his conquests of nature and her forces, the human insect will insist that what in other times was attributed to divine intervention in human affairs was, and is, due in fact to "accident." Even with that view there is a lesson for every mother's son of us in the story of this man's life. For though accident may have made him a lawyer, may have sent him to congress, may have made him president of the United States, it was not accident that gave him the character that made him great, that made him equal to the tasks that confronted him, made him a man whose memory is revered today by nearly one hundred million people.

How would such a man as he handle your affairs? Better than you do or can? And yet, in the essentials of character, in the things that determine success, in the things that make a man honored and loved by his fellows, you can be such as he was. That is a matter, not of accident, but of self-choice, of personal development. If this man had not been capable to meet the big questions of his day, his election would have led to shame and disgrace instead of to honor. When the "accident" occurred, he was ready. But whether we regard his rise as an "accident" or as part of a divine plan, it is only a matter of choice with every man whether he himself shall be, in character, purpose, and daily life, like Abraham Lincoln.

SAME OLD TROUBLE.

A few days ago there was printed in the Open Court a communication from a citizen who objected to the dumping into the ravine on Sixth avenue east between Fifth and Sixth streets, of ashes and other refuse, in an effort to fill up the place. Writing, he said, in the interests of all residents of that vicinity, the contributor said:

"We have made complaint to the health department and to the board of public works, but they do not pay any attention to it."

Here is one of those clashes of authority or of responsibility that are continually occurring under the present form of government. The health department assuredly has nothing to do with the disposal of ashes or with the filling of cuts and ravines in the city limits. On the other hand, the board of public works has no authority over the disposal of garbage and manure. It is the duty of the health department to see that no matter that may cause disease or epidemic is exposed within the city limits, and in such a case as the contributor makes out it would be necessary for the health department to call a halt on the public works department. That is, the city must tell itself to be good. And if the city tells itself that it will not be good, if it refuses to obey itself, what shall it do to itself for refusing to obey its own orders?

It is the same old trouble, the trouble that has led to extra expense and inefficiency in the management of city affairs ever since the present system of government was first put into practice. If a condition of that kind arose in an up-to-date business house do you suppose that it would remain unsettled for one minute? Hardly. There would be a notice served on whoever was responsible and the trouble would be remedied. And there would be no doubt as to who should receive the notice, and no hesitation about authority when that notice was received.

Sane business management is what the city needs. It is what every city needs. And the only form of government that has been found so far that affords sane business management is that known a commission government.

HOW IT STRIKES CANADIANS.

Those timorous souls who are losing sleep for fear that the reciprocity agreement with Canada, if put into effect, will bring disaster to this country, ought to read some of the opinions expressed on the other side the international boundary line. There, as well as in the United States, there are interests opposed to reciprocity, and in their attack on the agreement they include the men who represented the Dominion in preparing it. "Traitors," "robbers," "deceivers of the public trust" are some of the terms they are applying to Messrs. Fielding et al., and they charge that the Canadian cities that now have a thriving commercial life will, under the reciprocity plan, become nothing but unimportant relay stations, so to speak, for the cities on this side.

Like the opposition in the States, this kind of twaddle is being put forth only to scare people into demanding that their representatives in the national parliament vote against the agreement. That the sentiments expressed do not represent those of the Dominion's people as a whole is set forth by the Calgary News Telegram as follows:

> The county council of Lincoln, Ont., is in trouble because it granted $600 for the purpose of paying the expenses of sending a delegation of fruit growers to Ottawa to protest against the proposed reciprocity agreement. Two fruit growers in that county state that they will take legal proceedings against the council if it pays over the money, on the ground that the grant is illegal. Aside from the legality of the grant, it is interesting to know that there are fruit growers in Ontario who are in favor of the reciprocity agreement. The lumbermen of the Dominion are also divided in their opinion. Some of them say their business will benefit if the agreement becomes effective, while others assert that they will be ruined if the agreement comes into force.
> The fishermen, the coal men and the grain men of Canada are satisfied with the agreement, and what is more important, the great mass of the people of the Dominion are satisfied with it. Those who object are far in the minority, but their statements will receive more space in the newspapers as they are taking steps to block the agreement, while those whom the agreement satisfies are content to let the federal government move in the matter.

The thing which there is a tendency to forget is that this agreemnt is a bargain which needs two ratifications to complete it. The putting into effect of the reciprocity plan depends on the action of the Canadian parliament as much as it does on congress. For that reason there is less opportunity for changing its terms than there would be if its acceptance depended on congress alone. The Canadians give the United States certain advantages, and in return demand certain other concessions from this country. Any serious revision of the terms of the agreement may mean its complete failure before the Canadian parliament. The thing for congress to do is to go ahead and ratify it and so earn the applause of the bigger part of the American people.

TRADES AND EDUCATION.

With the question of vocational education attracting great attention in this country and state, the way in which the same question is being handled in England is interesting. It is shown in part in the reports of American consuls to the Washington government. According to these reports, there is a system of centralization of trades in the vocational schools in that country. In the big shoe manufacturing centers, for example, the young people are taught the trade of making shoes, if it can be called a trade in these days of machine methods. They are given the rudiments of an ordinary education, of course. That is, they are taught how to read and write, certain branches of mathematics and a system of bookkeeping, but beyond the ordinary common school studies, as we term them in this country, their education is entirely neglected. Instead of taking them further in those lines the instructors show them how to cut and sort leather, how to operate certain machines, and how to look after shipments. And the same system is being tried in other manufacturing centers of the country.

That the work in that line in England is only in the experimental stage as yet is proved by the active discussions of the question that are being conducted throughout the United Kingdom. Only a short time ago the lord mayor of London announced a belief that the best way to train the rising generations in trades was to go back, at least to a certain degree, to the old system of apprenticeship. He argued that that system turned out the most skilled workers of any method ever practiced, and that it was impossible for the trade schools to take the place of it. In spite of the fact that the English trade school courses give the pupils opportunity to do some actual work in the trade they are studying, the lord mayor holds that this does not give the young man or woman the same insight into the business that constant work in the trade itself gives. He would modify the old system to the extent that he would not make the masters responsible for the food, lodging and clothing of the apprentices. He would have the children bound to the masters for stated periods, but they would live at home during their apprenticeship, and the master would make up to them or to their parents in money what he would have had to spend on them under the old methods of apprenticeship.

Neither of these English methods would be likely to succeed in America. There is too general a spirit of freedom of choice in trades here. In England, the mere fact that a boy lives in a shoe manufacturing center is reason enough for him to take up that trade, or if he lives in a woolen mill town he is expected to take up work in the mills. In this country there is more of an inclination to get away from the things with which one has been familiar all his life, and try something else. As for the apprenticeship scheme of the lord mayor, that would involve choice by a parent of his son's trade, and that is another point at which English practice differs from that in this country.

That vocational education is not only excellent but necessary, very few attempt to deny. But the ways of life in this country and in England are so different that probably neither one ever will be able to adopt the plan of the other in this respect. The American schools will be more expensive than those of England, for they demand that there be several trades taught in the same community instead of all the instruction being on one line. But there is reason to expect that the American schools, with their greater adaptability to the personal liking of the individual pupils, will furnish better workmen and more contented citizens than the English schools will turn out.

UNCLE SAM ABROAD.

With a coincidence that one could almost believe was prearranged, have come the publication of a book by the American Embassy association and the announcement that the house at Washington has passed a bill providing $500,000 annually for the acquisitions of sites and buildings for the United States diplomatic and consular service.

If anybody doubted the wisdom of the congressional action, it seems safe to say that his doubts would be removed by a study of the publication referred to. It is called by its compilers "an argument in pictures and paragraphs," and it constitutes a mighty strong argument. In contrast with page after page of illustrations showing the buildings owned by other nations in our own and foreign capitals, it contains pictures of the four diplomatic residences and five consular buildings owned by the United States. It also gives multitudes of expressions by the press of the country and by prominent and influential men, in favor of such action as the house has taken. And as if all these were not arguments enough, it supplies incidents from the American service abroad that show how this nation has been handicapping itself through its policy toward its diplomatic and consular service.

This action is just and reasonable. The step taken by the house means a better standing among nations for the United States, better provision for the accomplishment of their duties by American foreign representatives, and more justice to the men in the foreign service, both because they will not have to spend their entire salary for bare living during their service, and because it will mean that a man will not have to be a millionaire before he can accept appointment to a foreign post which he perhaps could handle better than anyone else. The house has done well, so far. The senate should join in the good work.

A PRACTICAL BUSINESS EDUCATION.

From the Hub of the Universe there is radiating a story of a course in compulsory practical business education. The school had only one pupil and was started as a joke. It has finished its career, in spite of the undeniable merit of its work as an impressive place of instruction. But that one pupil has learned his lesson so thoroughly that nothing could make him forget it, and incidentally his course of instruction was the means of impressing the same lesson on the minds of several scores of other people.

In a certain brokerage office in Boston is an employe who soon is to take a vacation, and who has decided to spend that vacation in Bermuda. Among his friends are some practical jokers who began to make things interesting for him as soon as they learned of his plans. After harassing him in every other way they could think of, they finally hit on the scheme of advertising for a valet for him, though he wanted no valet and could not have afforded to pay one if he had wanted to. They inserted a six-line "want ad" in a newspaper, directing applicants where to call. When the prospective traveler arrived at the office next morning he found something more than 200 men waiting for him and all through the morning others arrived, while the mails brought yet more applications.

Now there was nothing admirable in the playing of such a trick. It was a rotten piece of business, both as concerned its victim and the would-be valets. But the incident proved to be a lesson to both the victim and the jokers, for it gave them a new insight into the value of advertising. And that is one of the most valuable lessons in the whole course of modern business, whether it is involved in big enterprsies or in smaller matters.

If you have something you want to sell, whether is to be dry goods, shoes, automobiles or an old stove, you cannot sell it unless you can let somebody who wants such a thing know that you have it for sale. If you want to buy something but don't know where to go to get what you want, your chances of securing it will be mighty slim unless you let other people know that you are in the market for that article. The answer in both cases is—advertise. If you have some article you are willing to trade for something else, how can you find the man who is willing to make the exchange? Advertise. You can see examples of the value of advertising all around you every day. It ought not to be necessary for your friends to bring the truth home to you as forcibly as this Boston man got it rubbed into him.

Now all together: Just what is meant by the term, "Representation based on population?"

Parliament has reassembled and the open season for suffragettes will soon be in full swing.

TALKS WITH THE STATE PRESS

On Gubernatorial Travels.

Mesaba Ore: 'Member how the hide-bound Republican press of the state howled every time Governor Johnson went away from home? That was because he was a Democrat. Republican Governor Eberhart, who can't hold a candle to the late governor in anything, chases popularity up hill and down dale and it's a hard proposition to put your finger on him at any time. Then why this silence from the Republican brethren?

Perhaps they have simply become convinced that comparisons are odious.

Has Some Expectations.

International Falls Echo: We predict that before the year 1911 has come to a close we will see our postoffice in the second class, and carriers delivering mail throughout the city. The next thing to be done by our council should be the numbering of the streets, and then it will be up to the Commercial club to petition congress for a federal building. No idle dreams these, either, but the natural deductions of local conditions.

Go to it, hustler!

Not Dealing in Junk.

Cass Lake Times: We wish to correct the belief, which happily is not a general one, that we are dealers in junk.

Never would have dreamed of such a thing up here.

New Organization Forming.

Bemidji Pioneer: Now that the upper berth is cheaper, the "I always liked 'em; the-air-is-better" association is rapidly increasing in numbers.

At any rate, members of that association are not fined for liking the air, as they were before.

Christmas in Latin Lands.

Grand Marais News-Herald: In most places Christmas comes but once a year, but in Honduras and other Central American republics Christmas seems to come about once a week. Gen. Lee Christmas is always on the job.

He seems to be making a roamin' holiday all the time. Trouble is a gift to him.

Mr. Goodwin's Future.

Eveleth Star: Now is the time for some enterprising journal to offer a prize to the first one to guess correctly who will be next to marry Nat Goodwin.

Why not award Nat as the prize. That might save him the trouble of selecting the next, unless they're all "next" and won't rise to the spoon.

Prospect of Some Fun.

Cambridge Independent-Press: With a decided movement on the part of the Progressives in both national and state politics there is bound to be a warm time in the political world for the next two years. The Progressive movement seems strongest in the Republican party although many Democrats have endorsed the movement inaugurated by the Progressive Republicans.

It can't get too warm to suit Mr. C. P. Ultimate Consumer.

Mr. Wickersham's Desire.

Little Falls Transcript: Some of the trusts may be bigger than the state of New Jersey, but Attorney General Wickersham wants to find out if they are bigger than the United States of America.

He's not so plumb inquisitive about it.

Works Both Ways.

Austin Transcript: If Lorimer lost his seat, the Illinois legislators are not the only men who would decide that in this instance boodling was pretty expensive.

If Lorimer lost his seat, the Illinois legislators are not the only men who would decide that in this instance boodling was pretty expensive.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Believe only half you hear—then proceed to forget two-thirds of that.

All men are born honest, but it requires constant practice to keep that way.

There, Little Girl.

There, little girl, don't vote!
You've been badgered and urged, I know,
And the things they said
Nearly turned your head
And set your young heart aglow;
But it's hackneyed heresy they quote—
There, little girl, don't vote,
Don't vote;

There, little girl, don't vote!
'Tis a fashion and fad, I know,
And the millionaires,
With their subtle snares,
Are making you think it's so;
But they are wrong, and time will show't—
There, little girl, don't vote,
Don't vote!

There, little girl, don't vote!
You have beautiful clothes, I know—
That blue marquisette,
With the band of jet,
Would make a most splendid show;
But, though you've a Russian sable coat—
Don't vote!

American Factories in Canada.

Consular Reports: In the absence of government statistics showing the number of American factories which have established branches in Canada, the Montreal Star, after a careful canvass, reports a list of no less than 184 with a combined estimated capital of $233,000,000.

The products of these branch factories include, among other things, agricultural implements, electrical machinery, malleable and gray iron castings, gas engines, saws and tools, conveying and mining machinery, railway iron and steel work, chains, automobiles, horse shoes and nails, transmission machinery, stoves, lumber, barrels, boxes, office furniture, couches, folding beds, silverware, paints, oils, varnishes, printing inks, fountain pens, cereals, confectionery, self-sealers, silk thread, paper, roofing paper, gum, gas, fly paper, chemicals.

Some of these are well known and their coming has been widely announced. The city of Hamilton alone has 15 branches, while in Montreal there are 19, and in Toronto 63. There are no statistics showing the number of persons employed, but it is clear there are many thousands. Two factories in Hamilton alone employ 5,000.

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

A GROUCH HEARD FROM.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I've got my kicking clothes on today and I guess the only safe way to demonstrate that fact is to write to the Open Court.

Because I am at heart a kind hearted person, I won't locate this first kick accurately. However, being called upon to go to a certain public building several times a day, I find it most convenient to go there from the Commercial club. That necessitates my passing a vacant lot. This lot is used by a concern which also uses the street generously, but not considerately. That doesn't concern this present kick, however. What I'm hollering about is that the sidewalk is covered with snow, which has been tramped into a miniature mountain ridge. Every time I go by there I'm in mortal fear that I'll fall and break my neck. That's a valid kick.

Ever notice what a lot of trouble can be caused by the pleasantest people in the world? All that kind live in Duluth, but I'll be jiggled if I think it's fair for them to hold their soirees on the street corners, to the result that pedestrian traffic is impeded and morals demoralized. My grouch started this morning just because of that corner confab habit. I tried to pass a group of men who had leisure enough for a morning chat. My effort was a polite one, but the group paid no attention to me and didn't offer to get out of the way. I dodged, slipped, fell and slid. That's how I got by. If I had waited until they had finished their chat I probably would not now be the nervous, peevish wreck that I am.

There's another street habit that tends to fray men's nerves, and women's, too, I supose. That's the habit of turning to the left instead of to the right. Why, I've seen men going to their stores or offices in the very best of good humors and then arrive there in a nasty, snarling mood. Just because some lunkhead dodged from side to side with an inane smile of half apology on his mug until the other man stood absolutely still and asked him to take one direction or the other.

I guess I won't write any more kicks. Writing about these has helped some, though, and I thank you, Mr. Open Court. Yours for the right.

A. FUSSER.

Duluth, Feb. 11.

A Rank Absurdity.

New York Sun: Another rank absurdity is the notion that with free entrance for Canadian foodstuffs the entire surplus of the country would be thrown into the markets of the United States. Canada's exports of grains of all kinds show about one-fiftieth of the value of the cereal crop of the United States. Its 1910 exports of barley, regarded as a serious menace to the producers of 160,000,000 bushels on our side of the line, were 1,107,000 bushels. Butter exports for that year were valued at $1,010,274, and egg exports at about $40,000. On a basis of 25 cents a dozen the annual egg consumption of the United States amounts to about $500,000,000, and on a basis of 25 cents a pound the butter product of this country is worth about $350,000,000. In the same year Canada exported $21,607,692 worth of cheese, out of which $21,481,566 worth went to England, where Canada's cheese would continue to go under the proposed agreement unless sufficiently desired here to induce offers of higher prices than the English cared to pay. In the fiscal year 1910 Canada exported 157,000 head of live cattle, and the United States exported 139,000 head. The only probable result of our purchase of Canada's surplus of live cattle would be a return of our exports to something like figures of a few years ago. As Canada's exports of bacon and hams amount to about one-fifth of our own there seems to be no menace to the American hog. In the same way the entire list may be analyzed without discovering any reasonable foundation for the fears of the grangers. The goblin of Canadian competition is a creature of their own imagination.

When the interests of the farmer are in danger Secretary Wilson may be relied upon to blow the trumpet.

Bede on Lorimer.

Des Moines Register and Leader: It is an interesting picture of "Billy" Lorimer we get from former Congressman Adam Bede:

"Any one who knows the life history of 'Billy' Lorimer cannot help admiring him. I have known Senator Lorimer for many years; knew him in the house, and in private life, and I do not know a man in all my acquaintance who is cleaner in morals. He was never known to utter an oath or to use even slang. He does not drink or use tobacco, and he is a model man of family. There is not a day passes when he is away from Chicago that he does not call up his wife and talk to her on the 'phone. 'Billy' Lorimer started as a newsboy and bootblack in Chicago, and then went to running a car. He was graduated to the position of transfer agent, and it was while occupying that position that he became an organizer. Frank Mondell, who represents Wyoming in the house, started life in about the same way as Lorimer. He was a motorman on a Chicago street car, and on one of his runs, he told me recently, he met a blue eyed, yellow haired, mild mannered young man who was acting as transfer agent. It was 'Billy' Lorimer. The two became friends and have remained steadfast. One is in the house and the other in the senate."

Interesting and worth a great deal as a life study, but entirely beside the point when it comes to the senatorial election in the Illinois legislature.

So far as known Dr. Cook has all the domestic virtues, and he likewise grew up in the streets of a great city and had his own fortune to work out. But neither the domestic virtues nor his admitted achievements as an explorer bring him any nearer the pole.

It all serves to point a moral. Life should be so well balanced that there is no one particular weak spot. For some time the light may be turned on that one spot, and then the world is as merciless as a pack of wolves.

Sumter's Guns for West Point.

Charleston Post: An effort is being made to locate such guns as saw service at Fort Sumter during the Civil war with a view to having the ordnance mounted at the United States military academy at West Point, N. Y. With this end in view Maj. E. W. Hubbard, commanding the Fort Moultrie army post, is now prosecuting an investigation to identify and locate the guns for use by the military academy.

At the present time there are two old guns and two thirteen inch mortars at Fort Sumter, but Maj. Hubbard is inclined to the opinion that ordnance is of later date than the period of the Civil war, and it may be possible that some of the soldiers who served at the fortifications in Charleston harbor may be able to furnish him with information.

To Discourage Gun Toting.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: A good suggestion for the curtailment of gun toting is made by a Cleveland hardware man. He would have city ordinances framed to prevent any one from buying a revolver without a formal permit from the police department. Already the city prohibits the display in show windows of guns and other deadly weapons. This man would go further. And most people will agree with him.

Learning Art Quickly.

Lippincott's: The new girl had been but three weeks in the employ of an artistic family, but her time had evidently not been spent exclusively in studying the domestic arts. As her mistress was giving her instructions about the dinner she said:

"And, Marie, don't forget the potatoes."

'No, madam," was the reply. "Will you have them in their jackets or in the nood?"

SATURDAY NIGHT TALK

Needs Versus Wants.

We rise in the moral scale when we learn to run a sharp line of cleavage between our wants and our needs.

My wants—they are multitudinous and constantly increasing. I want a bigger salary, an easier job, a longer vacation, a trip to Europe about once in so often, plenty of good things to eat and an ample and well-stocked wardrobe, a home which the reporters would call "one of the finest residences in the city," horses and carriages, and an auto, too, social recognition and popularity with the crowd. Bless me, how many things I do want when I stop to think of them. If I give rein to my fancy I am at once impressed with a realization of the few things which I possess and of the many which I want and ought to have just as much as Mr. Money-bags or Mrs. Newly-rich.

But my needs—that starts another line of thought. And if I am honest with myself I have to confess that my absolute needs are not so very many, and perhaps not so unattainable. I need daily bread, a roof over my head, respectable clothing, a good appetite and digestion, a job by means of which I can support myself and those dependent upon me, a hearth stone of my own, a good conscience, by which I do not mean necessary an easy conscience, someone who cares for me and someone to care for, a fair amount of hope concerning tomorrow and all the days that are to be.

When we once begin to classify them on different sides of the ledger we see how wide a difference there is between needs and wants. The latter arise largely from the fact that we are sentient human beings with eyes and ears, with a palate easily tickled, with hands capable of grasping and holding earthly good. The former are due to the fact that we are something more than body and head, arms and legs, that we are immortal spirits with capacities and longings that cannot be satisfied by the choicest viands, the most delicate fabrics, the most stylish and up-to-date equipages.

So it all comes down to this: Will a man give free rein to his wants, even to the extent of allowing them to run away with him, or will he restrain and discipline them, perhaps even crucify some of them so that he may be the better able to cultivate and satisfy his needs. The choice is constantly presenting itself to us in one way or the other. It did to a young woman of my acquaintance the other day who had to choose between a new hat she wanted badly, and perhaps needed, and a $5 ticket to a lecture course by one of the most celebrated and helpful ethical teachers in America. Her deeper nature coveted the latter and she finally decided to wear her old hat another winter. Thereby she won a real moral victory.

For when we come down to the essentials of life the range of our needs is comparatively limited while the range of our wants is limitless, and to satisfy them we go on restlessly and feverishly unto greater and greater expenditures of time, interest and money. But if we will once elevate our needs high above our wants we shall find life assuming an altogether and far more joyous and satisfying aspect to us.

Even the lists of needs stated above can be somewhat abridged. The average man has only three great outstanding needs. One is something to do, the second is someone to love, and the third is someone to worship. Work, friends, God—these are the final and indestructable needs of human life. You must find something to do that will be reasonably congenial and productive, you must have at least a few friends whom you can trust and serve, and who, in turn, will help you, and you must have a God upon whose immeasurable strength and unfailing love you can securely lean.

Chicago Record-Herald: "I hear they are building flats now that are provided with disappearing furniture."

To which the countryman replied: "'Tis very like you may, for I am sowing hemp."

Houston Chronicle: "I am a candidate for your hand."

"But my parents have indorsed another young man."

"All right, I'll run as an insurgent."

Baltimore American: "How singularly appropriate is this office mailing arrangement."

"In what way?"

"In a mail chute for epistolary messages."

Judge: "Isn't it awful? According to the papers there just seems to be one revolution after another."

"Yes; that's the way the world goes round."

MONUMENT TO MEMORY OF LINCOLN

Sunday, Feb. 12, will be the 102nd anniversary of Lincoln's birthday. It will be especially memorable this year in view of the fact that on Thursday the United States senate concurred in the house amendments to Senator Cullom's bill providing for the erection in Washington of an appropriate monument to the memory of the great emancipator. The house so amended the bill as to place Senator Cullom and Speaker Cannon on the permanent commission. Senator Root moved concurrence by the senate, and the motion was unanimously adopted. The proposed monument is to cost $2,000,000.

BALTIMORE AND THE CONVENTION

By SAVOYARD.

"Auld Ayr, wham ne'er a town surpasses,
For honest men and bonnie lasses."

It tends to lend inspiration to the Democratic heart to hear that Baltimore is seeking to secure as guests the delegates who will make the Democratic platform and name the Democratic ticket in 1912. It reminds of old times, when the Democratic party was long dominant and triumphant, and the Maryland metropolis distinctively the convention city of the Union.

Prior to 1832 political parties nominated their national tickets in congressional caucuses, or by resolutions of the state legislatures, and these were reinforced by mass meetings throughout the country. The anti-Masonic party, a creation of Thurlow Weed, was the inventor of the national convention. In 1830, that organization held a pow-wow in Philadelphia to launch the new party and sail it on the tempestuous seas of national politics. The following year, in the month of September, delegates met in Baltimore and nominated William Wirt of Virginia as the anti-Masonic candidate for president, though he was a Mason of the "fellow-craft" degree. In 1832, he carried Vermont for president and received eight votes in the electoral college.

So it will be observed that Baltimore was the scene of the first political national convention that put a ticket in the field a presidential year. In December, 1831, the "National Republicans" held a national convention in Baltimore, and nominated Henry Clay of Kentucky for president, and John Sargent of Pennsylvania for vice president. And in May, 1832, the Democrats assembled in convention also in Baltimore and nominated Andrew Jackson of Tennessee for president, and Martin Van Buren of New York for vice president.

Subsequently Van Buren was twice nominated for president by the Democratic party—1836 and 1840—and both times the national convention sat in Baltimore. It was in 1836 that what is become known as "Convention eloquence" was first heard, and Joseph Holt's speech in defense and advocacy of Richard M. Johnson of Kentucky, who was nominated for vice president, has been rarely equaled and never surpassed in a political assembly in our country. That was in Baltimore.

The Democrats nominated Polk and Dallas for president and vice president in Baltimore in 1844, and that same year the Whigs met in national convention in that same city and nominated Clay and Frelinghuysen. Four years later the Democrats again held their national convention in Baltimore and nominated Lewis Cass of Michigan for president, and William O. Butler of Kentucky for vice president. In 1852, the Democrats were again in Baltimore, and named Franklin Pierce of New Hampshire for president, and William R. King of Alabama for vice president. In 1864, the Republicans held their national convention in Baltimore and named Abraham Lincoln and Andy Johnson for the national ticket, and perhaps it is worthy of note that the temporary chairman of the convention was Rev. Robert J. Breckinridge of Kentucky, who at that time had two sons fighting in the Confederate army. Early in life this extraordinary man abandoned the bar for the pulpit, but he always took a keen interest in political affairs, and had he not abandoned the law for theology, it is reasonably safe to say that he would have attained to even greater eminence as a statesman than his father, or his brother, or his son, or his nephew.

Mention should be made of the fact that in 1860, the Democratic national convention assembled in Charleston, S. C., but unable to agree on either platform or ticket, the convention adjourned to meet in Baltimore, where there was a split—one faction nominating John C. Breckinridge of Kentucky for president, and Joseph Lane of Oregon for vice president; the other faction nominated Stephen A. Douglas of Illinois for president, and Benjamin Fitzpatrick of Alabama for vice president, who declined, and Herschel V. Johnson of Georgia was named in his stead. The last national convention held in Baltimore to name a national ticket was when the Democrats assembled there in 1872 and indorsed the Liberal Republican ticket of Greeley and Brown, that had been nominated in Cincinnati, in May previous. A delegate from Missouri announced that his state would give the ticket 80,000 majority, whereupon John T. Hoffman, governor of New York, took the platform, and enthused his hearers with the prediction that New York would give Greeley and Brown a bigger majority than there were votes in Missouri. And disastrously as the ticket was beaten in November, there is much reason to say that had public sentiment in November been what it was in July and early August, Greeley would have beaten Grant as signally as Cleveland beat Harrison twenty years later.

Thus it appears that the leading parties have held nine national conventions in Baltimore, not counting the adjourned Democratic convention of 1860, and it further appears that of the tickets nominated in Baltimore, five triumphed in the electoral college, a record surpassed by Chicago only, that scores seven winning tickets and three losing, counting the two leading parties only.

It is a fine old town, is Baltimore. Not as sedate as Philadelphia, but equally provident and prosperous. Nobody has a mortgage on her industries, but her surplus capital is shrewdly and thriftily invested in the West and Far West. Read the bank and trust company statements of Baltimore, and you will be surprised at her enormous accumulations. It is true Cleveland crowded her out of sixth place in the matter of population, but the superiority of the Ohio city is seeming rather than actual. Cleveland is spread over more than twice the area Baltimore occupies, and if the suburbs of the Maryland town were annexed, Baltimore would have much the greater population.

There is another consideration that challenges the attention of visitors and that is the luxuries to tempt the palate and appease the appetite of him who loves good things to eat. In that particular Baltimore is unrivaled by any other city of our hemisphere, except New Orleans. Besides, the prices are always reasonable, and, compared with some other towns, ridiculously cheap. A great many clerks and other employes of the department stores in Washington reside in Baltimore, and save money thereby, though daily they take trips on the railroad to and from the capital. But then Washington is the dearest town east of the Mississippi river in which to live. The reason is that it is distinctively a salary town, and income so derived does not stick to the pocket like the wage of labor or the dividend of investment.

By all means let the Democratic convention be held in Baltimore. Grant was nominated in Philadelphia in 1872. McKinley was nominated in Philadelphia in 1900, and in the Pensylvania city, Roosevelt was nominated in 1900.

The Republicans found good luck on the Atlantic coast. Why should there be none of it for the Democrats there?

PUBLIC SCHOOLS AS EMPLOYMENT AGENCIES

Schools Blamed for Individual Faults of Pupils—Finding Proper Job for Each Boy—Value of a Vocation Adviser.

By ELI W. WEAVER.
Chairman Students' Aid Committee, High School Teachers' Association, New York.

(Exclusive Service The Survey Press Bureau.)

A few summers ago, while tramping through Dutchess county, New York, I saw hundreds of bushels of early apples going to waste. At the same time fruit was sold from the retail stands in New York city, only sixty miles away, at almost prohibitive prices. The farmers could not, during the busy season, afford to use his regular hired help to prepare properly for the market these by-products of his farm. Occasional help was hard to secure. But I knew that there were thousands of young people out of school for the summer months, seeking work of any kind to earn a little for their support while being educated in the high schools and colleges.

I was able the next season through co-operation with the state department of agriculture, to send from the school where I taught, a large number of pupils to farmers in the Hudson river counties. After eight or ten weeks' work these boys came home in September with from $30 to $70 cash each and the benefit of a summer of healthful labor with their country cousins.

Frequently employers criticize the public schools, saying that they do not turn out boys properly prepared for business life. The boys, we often hear, cannot even write and spell decently and lack habits of punctuality and responsibility. I called upon one such complainant and found that he hired any boy who came along in answer to an advertisement and then blamed the school for any deficiencies he developed. That employer since then has applied to me whenever he needed a boy and every year he has been supplied with boys who have proved perfectly satisfactory.

Experiences such as these led to the forming of the students' aid committee of the High School Teachers' association of New York. This work has grown in value. Supt. William H. Maxwell has recommended that the board of education "organize a vocation or employment bureau." "The special field of labor for such a bureau," he says, "would be to bring to the attention of employers of labor the various kinds of training given in the public schools, to ascertain from principals and teachers, and in some case from young people themselves the kind of work for which each is best suited to aid in placing each student in a position in which his talents will have full scope to develop. The small cost of such a bureau would be a mere nothing compared with the good it would accomplish."

Each year thousands of boys graduate from our high schools. For most school life ends then and the question is how to earn a living? Many young people who go out into the world think that they must take the first thing that is offered to them. They do not know that they can choose their careers, yet to a large extent this is true of young people of education. If the family does not need their assistance they may be practically free to choose any career.

High school teachers spend much energy in studying the requirements of the colleges and properly advise pupils as to the selection of a university. But nine-tenths of those who go to high school need help and counsel to enable them decide wisely what business they are to follow. A wrong choice, a beginning under unfavorable conditions and a failure in the chosen field means misfortune to the individual, a loss to the community, an exasperated employer and unkind criticisms of the school system.

Here is a man who conducts a foreign agency business. He hires "bright American boys to begin at small pay with excellent prospects for advancement." These boys work hard during long hours and have few chances to become acquainted with the world outside of that office. When they discover that their much advertised chances for advancement are purely imaginary they have lost their hopefulness and their faith in the fairness of men.

Another large corporation has at the head of its employment department a gentleman who has devised a carefully graded system of promotions and advancements, aims to keep his employes satisfied and strives to make them more valuable to the corporation and to themselves. This firm is anxious to get our good boys. Our committee has arrangements for placing boys with many large employers can save them from making the costly mistake of taking work and with irresponsible firms.

The success of a typewriting machine is due to the fact that the selling agents of the manufacturers have carefully studied the public requirements and shown a disposition to meet changing needs. By a careful study of the demands of the market school authorities can meet the requirements and save to the child the maximum amount of time for acquiring culture. That this is a proper field of endeavor for school authorities to undertake has been recognized in Boston, where the school board pays the salary of one official in the vocation bureau to give his entire time to training vocation counsellors for the large public school. The London county council has recommended that in every borough of the city, associations be formed of teachers, employers and residents who shall study conditions and try to place children leaving school. These associations are now being formed.

The work has been performed in New York for several years by teachers who gave their time and labor voluntarily and supplied the funds to support the work of the students' aid committee. The committee sends to employers only boys whom it can recommend for faithfulness and efficiency in school work and for suitability to the kind of employment concerned.

A young fellow gets a vacation job with a steamship company to whom he goes with an excellent school record. He works at a desk as a clerk at $8.00 per week. A neighbor's boy hears of his success and applies at the same place. He is assigned to work as a messenger at $5.00 per week. At the end of the first week he complained to the manager who promised him a "raise" if he could secure a recommendation from the school stating that he could be depended upon to do a certain kind of work. The school management cannot recommend him and he goes back and works all summer for $5.00 per week while his fellow, of whom it could be said that "he will do well whatever he undertakes," gets $8.00. The boy learned a lesson that summer which enhances the prestige of the school in the eyes of all the pupils attending, while at the same time employers are learning that some of the so-called faults of the school system are but the failings of individual boys.

Our committee places during a year nearly 1,000 boys, of whom very few are misfits. Sometimes we find work for pupils who would otherwise have to leave school, in the offices and factories of the fathers of other boys in the same school, by a mere request from the platform when the school is assembled. The value of the work becomes more and more apparent. Vocational guidance supplies one missing link in our educational and social chain.

SEVEN SEEKING THE JUDGESHIP

No Dearth of Candidates for the Twelfth Michigan Judicial Position.

Houghton, Mich., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Houghton county is having everything its own way in the first primary nomination in the Twelfth judicial district, in that it has seven candidates for circuit judge, while neither Keweenaw or Baraga counties, which are included with Houghton county in the circuit, are represented in the field. There are seven strong candidates in the field, including William J. Galbraith, the able representative from the First district, Calumet, of Houghton county in the lower house of the legislature a few years ago and who was the father of the Galbraith railroad bill; Prosecuting Attorney W. J. McDonald, a graduate of the University of Minnesota, and formerly a resident of Washington, D. C.; former prosecuting attorney Oscar J. Larson, who returns here from Duluth to enter the fight for the judgeship and who, many believe, will capture the nomination of the Republican party with his strong backing of Finnish voters; Joseph F. Hambitzer, one of Houghton's brilliant attorneys; Ernest McNally of Calumet, and Patrick H. O'Brien of Laurium, a former Superior, Wis., attorney, and one of the most successful personal injury attorneys in Northern Michigan and Wisconsin, with a large practice in both states. Mr. O'Brien is the only Democrat asking for the judgeship and members of his party predict that he will receive the vote of half the Republican ranks, as did James J. Byers, the present sheriff and a Democrat, who was elected two terms in succession by a landslide of Republican and Democratic votes. To make a seventh candidate in the fight the present circuit judge, Albert T. Streeter, has announced his candidacy.

SIXTY-YEAR SENTENCE

Given Young St. Paul Highwayman By Judge Orr.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 11.—William Koehn, self-confessed highwayman, who terrorized St. Paul from Dec. 12 last to the end of that month and received $178 as a result of his operations, was sentenced to the Stillwater state penitentiary for sixty years by Judge Orr in the Ramsey county district court.

This is the longest sentence ever imposed in Minnesota for a similar crime and unless pardoned or given a commutation of sentence, he cannot hope to escape serving at least thirty years in prison. Koehn is 22 years of age. He operated principally in grocery stores and saloons in the early part of the evening as the day's cash receipts were being counted.

In one saloon he lined up a half dozen men, including one policeman in uniform, and relieved all of them of their money.

AN APPRECIATION OF THE CHARACTER OF LINCOLN

An address on Abraham Lincoln was delivered Thursday evening before the Park Point Improvement club, and at the request of some of the members who heard it, it is published in The Herald tonight, in memory of Lincoln's birthday.

The address follows:

"Measured by the flight of time, this nation is still in its infancy, and yet we have something to be proud of when great names are mentioned; something to remember when the story of great deeds are told. We have come here tonight to pay our tribute of respect to the greatest American. It is seldom that duty and destiny, fate and fortune, opportunity and achievement are found so completely blended in the life of a single individual as in that of Abraham Lincoln. Born in obscurity, reared in penury, without birth, without breeding, without the influence of wealth, without the culture which comes from colleges and schools, this rude child of nature grew to such large proportions that he stood head and shoulders above those who had all of the opportunities which society affords.

Lincoln's Imagination.

"Lincoln was rich in resources. His mind was garnished with the garniture of a vivid imagination. He fled with Hampton from the shadow of the Tower and went with Sidney to the block. He sat with Henry in the house of burgesses, and heard that firy orator, with eyes adash and soul aflame, exclaim, 'As for me, give me liberty, or give me death.' He had been with Washington at Valley Forge and felt all the hardships and privations that the Revolutionary fathers suffered that we might throw off the yoke of English oppression. He was the great general at Monmouth, and Princeton, and Yorktown, and saw the complete and unconditional surrender of Cornwallis. He saw the fathers and founders of this country as they hewed and framed the timbers of the ship of state, and was present when it was launched upon the stormy and tempestuous sea of revolution. He sat with John Marshall on the bench as he breathed into the Constitution the breath of life in a series of decisions that for clearness, cogency and masterfulness have never been surpassed. He was a companion of the immortal Webster, and heard him in the senate, with flashing eye and ringing voice building up an insurmountable wall out of the Constitution, over and around which the nullifiers and secessionists could not pass. He heard this great man expound the Constitution with logic inexorable and eloquence sublime.

Lincoln a Dreamer.

"By nature he was sensitive and sympathetic. He dreamed dreams and had visions. He possessed one of those rare clairvoyant minds that could see things that others could not see, and hear voices that others could not hear. The night before his death he had a dream which was full of portent to him. In speaking of it he said, 'Something extraordinary is going to happen.' 'Something good, I hope,' said the attorney general at the cabinet meeting. He said, 'I don't know; I don't know. But it will happen, and that shortly.' They were all impressed by his manner, and the attorney general asked him, 'Have you received any information, sir, not yet disclosed to us?' 'No,' answered the president; 'but I have had a dream, and I have had the same dream three times. Once on the night preceding the battle of Bull Run, once the night preceding the battle of Antietam and again last night.' 'Might one ask the nature of this dream?' asked the attorney general. 'Well,' replied Lincoln, without lifting his head or changing his attitude, 'I am out on a great, rolling river, and I am in a boat, and I drift, and I drift—but, gentlemen, this is not business; let us proceed to business.'

His Premonition.

"He always had a premonition that he would not last longer than the war. Harriet Beecher Stowe says that at one time Lincoln was much distressed, and said, 'Whichever way it ends, I have the impression that I sha'n't last much longer after it.' Speaking to Hannah Armstrong, he said, 'Hannah, if they do kill me, I shall never die another death.'

"As a boy he had a glimpse of his future greatness, and was often found wandering on the banks of the Sangamon thinking of his first love and seeking to read his future in the stars.

"At last, after all those years of thick, thronging disaster; after all the doubts and fears for the preservation of the Union, he heard the salvos of applause for the complete and final overthrow of secession and heard the plaudits of a nation.

"On the evening of April 14, 1865, Mr. Lincoln, accompanied by his wife and Maj. Rathbone and his fiancee, Miss Harris, attended the play at the old Ford theater and occupied a box together. Gen. Grant and wife were to have joined the party, but were unavoidably detained. While the play was progressing, a man stealthily entered the box and shot the president. It was a deed which, for cold-blooded atrocity, malignity of purpose and devilishness in design, has scarcely a parallel, and from whence he fled, bearing with him and his memory for all time the execrations of a nation and the curses of a world.

"Death came speedily. It has been said that over the rest of those who were in the box that night there hung and hovered the blackest of fates and furies who marked them

"'To bear the extremity of dire mishap.'

"One was to wander with the stain of murder on his soul, with a price upon his head, suffering great physical pain, and at last to die like a dog in a burning barn. The stricken wife was to pass the rest of her days in melancholy and madness; of those two young lovers, one was to slay the other, and then end his life a raving maniac.

"When Lincoln breathed his last, he was surrounded by the great men of the nation. Standing by his side, as life ebbed out, they caught something of the spirit and purpose of his life; they saw something of the rugged grandeur of his character; and realized, in some measure, the magnificence of his personality. Stanton, the great war secretary, in a burst of grief, said, 'Now he belongs to the ages.'

"Yes, he belongs to the ages. The nation claims him, but the world owns him. Because he lived, tyranny is rendered less secure and liberty must come at last to be the heritage of the human race.

His Life a Poem.

"His life was a poem, a sermon and a discourse all in one. From its beginning to its close he was borne upward and onward by unseen hands and moved by some mysterious force towards the summit of his ambition, until at last he became the central figure around which played all the passions—all the love and hate of a nation. As the principal actor in the great drama of Civil war which scourged the nation for the sins it had committed, this strange and unique man stood alone, wrapped in the mystery of his mighty thoughts. Henry Watterson says:

"'Where did Shakespeare get his genius? Where did Mozart get his music? Whose hand smote the hand of the Scottish plowman and stayed the life of the German priest? God alone; and as surely as these were raised by God, inspired of God was Abraham Lincoln; and a thousand years hence no story, no tragedy, no epic poem, will be filled with greater wonder than that which tells of his life and death.'

"'We mark the lowly place where he was born,
And try to dream the dreams that starred his nights.
When the rude path that ran beside the corn
Grew to a fair, broad way which found the heights;
We try to sense the lonely days he knew,
The silences that wrapped about his soul,
When there came whispers tremulous and true
Which urged him up and onward to his goal.

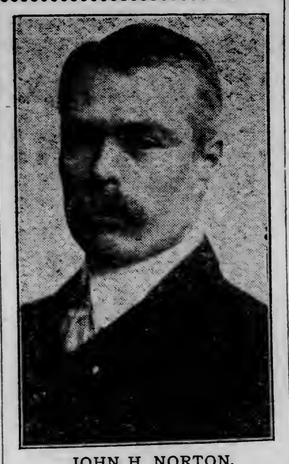

"'His was the dream-filled world of kindly trees;
And marvel-reaches of the prairie lands;
The brotherhood of fields, and birds and bees,
Which magnifies the soul that understands;
His was the school of unremitting toil,
Whose lessons leave an impress strong and deep;
His were the thoughts of one close to the soil,
The knowledge of the ones who sow and reap.

"'And all of this, and from all this, he rose,
Full panoplied, when came his country's call,
Strong-hearted and strong-framed to bear the woes
Which fell on him the bitterest of all.
And well he wrought, and wisely well he knew
The strain and stress that should be his alone;
He did the task long set for him to do—
This man who came unfavored and unknown.

"'We look today, not through Grief's mist of tears,
Not through glamor of nearness to the great;
But down the long, long corridor of years,
Where stand the sentinels of Fame and Fate,
And now we see him, whom men call uncouth,
Grown wondrous fair beneath the hand of Time,
And know the love of liberty and truth
Brings immortality, and makes sublime.

"'But, Oh! this rugged face with kindly eyes,
Whereln a haunting sorrow ever stays!
Somehow it seems that through the sorrow rise
The echoed visions of his other days,
That still we may in subtle fancy trace
The light that led him with prophetic gleams—
That here we gaze upon the pictured face
Of one who was a boy that lived his dreams!'"

EASILY BREAKS A SEVERE COLD

Also Ends All Misery From the Grippe In Just a Few Hours.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Pape's Cold Compound, taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken, will end the Grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach, limbs or any part of the body.

It promptly relieves the most miserable neuralgia pains, headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects, as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

NEWS OF THE WEST END

MILLER'S CREEK SKI SLIDE IS POPULAR WITH AMATEURS

THE WEST END SKI HILL.

Jumps ranging from 85 to 100 feet are becoming quite common on the hill of the West End Ski club at Miller's creek and Fourteenth street.

The hill is an ideal one for the purpose and unlike all other slides at the Head of the Lakes, where jumps of any distance have been made, no scaffolds have been erected.

On Sunday afternoons, when the weather is good, weekly tournaments are held among the amateurs on the hill.

Some of the older members of the club, who participate in the tournaments at the Chester creek hill, use the West end slide to practice on.

The Norsk sport has become quite popular among some of the West end boys, who range in age from 12 to 18 years and although they have taken advantage of the hill and have been doing some good jumping, up to this time there have been no accidents.

Arnold Olson and Nels Floan of the West end, who have entered and made a creditabel showing at various tournaments held recently, are members of the West End ski club and do most of their practice work on the Miller's creek hill. Each has jumped 100 feet on this hill.

MARKET FOR THE WEST END

Plan Will Be Special Order of Business Before Club.

Market Gardening Industry Growing Rapidly in Neighboring Territory.

That the West end is the logical location for a public market place is the contention of a number of the business men and members of the West End Commercial club. The public market proposition will be taken up as special order business at the next meeting of the club, Friday, Feb. 17.

With the completion of the new Hutchinson road this spring, gardeners back of the hills, will have an easy and direct route into the city, where they can sell their products. The distance has been shortened and the grade lowered as compared with the old Hermantown road.

West end merchants are particularly desirous of meeting the market established this year. They say that if the market is placed near the business district of the West end, that the farmers will naturally do their trading there. Heretofore, much of this trade has been lost.

Market gardening has been becoming more and more extensive in the vicinity of Hermantown within the past year. Last fall, a local real estate firm bought up a tract of land back of the hills and sold it out in small plats. Many West end people have bought these tracts and will engage in the market gardening business this summer.

Some of the owners of vacant property at the West end last fall signified their willingness to allow the use of the lots free for the purpose of establishing a market place, with the stipulation that it should be vacated in case of a sale or for improvements. One of the locations is at Twentieth avenue west and First street and two other places offered are on Twenty-second avenue between First and Michigan streets.

Although none of the property owners making these offers have been approached recently, it is thought that the proposition is still open if the Commercial club completes the other arrangements. The plan now under consideration is to build sheds on the property, where the gardeners can drive in and display their products for sale.

EXPECT BOOM AT MIDWAY

Village Expects to Prosper With Coming of the Railroad.

Midway people look for a mild boom this spring.

With the building of the Canadian Northern line through the settlement, it is expected that the village will be the necleus of a large farming district, and that the place will assume the proportions of a prosperous village.

The homesteads of the early settlers in the Midway district are vanishing and many of the large 100-acre farms have been platted and sold in small tracts, the original owners reserving for their own use only a few acres.

Many Proctor people have bought up these tracts and have converted them into garden patches, and not only grow enough vegetables for their own use, but also to market gardening on the side. Many of the purchasers are mechanics and other employers of the railroad at Proctor. They walk about two miles to their work.

ARE AFTER A NEW SCHOOL

Smithville Residents Will Again Petition Board of Education.

Smithville people will again revive the agitation for a new schoolhouse to replace the old wooden structure, which was built in the early nineties.

The petition for a new building was turned down by the board of education last year, but the people in that section are still complaining and will ask the board to reconsider its action.

Since its erection, an addition was placed on the eastern end of it, but even with that, it does not meet the demands of the increasing population and the school is crowded. There are forty children now in attendance.

Besides being crowded, they say it is insanitary and is rapidly going to decay. The building is poorly ventilated and has a poor heating system, they say. The location of the school is also criticized as it is situated on the north side of the Northern Pacific tracks, making it necessary for most of the children to cross the tracks in order to go to school.

The residents want a modern brick building, with at least four rooms.

Four Contacts To Kill Him.

Raleigh, N. C., Feb. 11.—Phil Mills, a negro wife murderer, was electrocuted in the state prison here yesterday. Four contracts were necessary to cause death.

WANT BRANCH OF Y. M. C. A.

West Duluth Will Renew Old Agitation During Coming Spring.

Agitation for a West Duluth branch of the Y. M. C. A. will again be taken up with renewed vigor this spring and those in the Western end of the city, who are interested in the movement, will call a mass meeting to be held this month at one of the local churches. The date and place have not been selected.

A self-supporting institution from the start, is the aim of those who are fostering the movement. The plan has the support of the W. C. T. U. of West Duluth, several of the ministers and many of the business men.

Exclusive of those from West Duluth, who are now members of the Duluth association, it is estimated that there are at least 200 young men in the Western end of the city, who would gladly take memberships, if the proposition is launched.

Proctor has a self-supporting branch of the Y. M. C. A. and has fewer people to draw upon for its membership than has West Duluth, and there is no reason, it is claimed why West Duluth could not as well.

About $30,000 would be required to build the branch. The site for the building was purchased by the W. C. T. U. several years ago at the southwest corner of Fifty-seventh avenue west and Wadena street, two lots having been acquired.

NEW BUSINESS BLOCK BEGUN

M. A. Fedji, second vice president of the Kamloops Copper company, has let to Richard Hanson the contract for the erection of a two-story brick business block on the upper side of Superior street between Nineteenth and Twentieth avenues west. The new block will cost about $10,000 and work has already commenced.

The new structure will have a frontage of fifty feet on Superior street and will run 140 feet back to the alley. The location adjoins that of the St. Louis County bank, Nineteenth avenue west and Superior street. The foundation will support a three-story structure, and the plans may yet be changed so as to include three instead of two stories.

Mr. Fedji stated yesterday that the building would be given over to mercantile purposes, but said that no definite plans could be announced at this time.

CHURCH WINDOWS BROKEN.

Art Glass Smashed and Rewards Offered for Arrest of Destroyers.

Incensed by a fresh outbreak on the part of an unknown crowd of hoodlums, bent on smashing expensive stained glass windows in a number of the churches, the trustees of Bethany Swedish Lutheran church have added to offers previously made by other congregations, a reward of $10 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the parties wanted.

This week, stones were again hurled through the windows of Bethany church, Twenty-third avenue west and Third street, and the trustees at a special meeting, determined to make every effort to catch what is believed to be an organized gang which has been perpetrating this kind of work for several weeks.

According to Rev. C. G. Olson, pastor of Bethany church, the congregation may have to resort to wire nettings over the windows to ward off the missles. The trustees of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church also recently offered $10 reward to anyone who would catch the vandals.

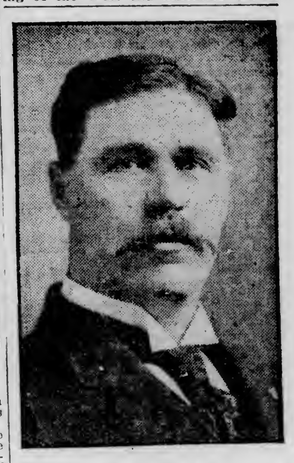

OLSON AGAIN PRESIDENT

Head of West End Hillside Improvement Club Is Re-Elected.

Mass Meeting of Residents to Discuss Water Supply.

Peter Olson was re-elected president of the West End Hillside club last evening at the annual meeting. The other officers were also re-elected as follows: Frank Norquist, vice president, and H. J. Webber, secretary and treasurer.

The water situation was the main topic for discussion during the evening and it was decided to call a mass meeting of the West end hillsiders within the next three weeks for the purpose of learning what guarantee can be given for the extension of the water mains to the Ensign school district.

PETER OLSON.

West end hillsiders want the work started this spring, as they do not care to have a repetition of the fire scare this year. Last summer the residents had to carry water for their homes a long distance, as some of the wells went dry and much property was in imminent danger of destruction by fire.

SACRED CONCERT.

Minneapolis Singers Heard By Audience at Swedish Mission Church.

A sacred concert of more than usual interest was given last evening at the Swedish Mission church, Twenty-first avenue west and Second street, last evening under the auspices of the Young People's society.

Prof. Theodore S. Reimstad of Minneapolis, the best known Norwegian tenor soloist in the country, was the principal attraction of the evening. His interpretation of the Swedish classics was excellent and his rich tenor voice delighted the large audience present.

Kenneth Cranston of Minneapolis, a talented young lyric tenor, also contributed to the program. Mr. Cranston, who aspires to be a grand opera singer, possesses a voice of great range and sweetness. His rendition of a difficult program was an artistic one and met with the enthusiastic approval of those present.

George Johnson was accompanist, and among others who were on the program were Mrs. J. J. Daniels, who gave a solo and the choir was heard in two numbers.

Judge J. B. Flack of West Duluth, who started mandamus proceedings in district court against W. F. Houk, state labor commissioner, for the removal of Martin Cole, recently appointed superintendent of the free labor bureau in this city, contending that the labor commissioner should appoint him because of his old soldier record, says that he made the application for the job before Mr. Houk was appointed labor commissioner.

The application was sent to the governor Dec. 28, 1910, with the request that it be turned over to the new commissioner. Whether this was done or not, Judge Flack says that he does not know. At any rate, he says that he believes that his application was made in due time to be considered with others.

ADDITIONAL SOCIETY NEWS

Mrs. Grace Hamilton Morrey, who is one of America's noted pianists, is gaining note in Berlin musical circles. She wrote in a letter to Mrs. E. Frank Barker, who was a school mate and chum of hers for five years, the following extracts: "I am having such a splendid time in Berlin and accomplishing wonders in an artistic sense with Emil Paul." She has been engaged to play with the Berlin Philharmonic orchestra, in Beethoven Saal in Berlin, on April 8 and is playing three concerts, Beethoven "Empress," Tschaikowski "B Flat Minor," and the List "E Flat" concerts. Before she left for Berlin, Mrs. Morrey appeared as soloist with the Pittsburg Symphony orchestra, playing the Tschaikowski Concerto before an audience of 10,000 people. She always plays from memory, which appeals to the hearers.

She quotes Mr. Paue as saying, "It is a shame for American pianoforte students to come abroad as too many as most of them do. They should study in America with the many fine and conscientious teachers there until they have a solid musical knowledge and equipment, a brilliant style and technique and a big repertoire. Students should learn more at home in every way before coming abroad as there are so many incompetent, unscrupulous pianists and teachers here, who pose as great teachers in the musical Courier and Musical America. Then the unsophisticated American pupils float to them and are dosed with various insidious forms of flattery, which most pupils except faggerly and haven't sense enough to see that it is just a put up job on their vanity and ignorance to get their money. It is an outrage the way silly Americans allow themselves to be overawed by such means. They spend much money, time, strength, etc., and receive nothing of real artistic value and go home with perverted musical ideas and a bad case of 'swell head.' Students should remain in America and study until they develop the power of right artistic discrimination, strength of purpose and character, clearness of vision, (mental), good common sense and advanced musical knowledge and ability. Then they are ripe for the experience of European influence and musical opportunities and can go directly to a master musician."

Playgoers Get Artificial Warts and Real Champagne Corks as Souvenirs of David Harum—"Sure Thing" for Once in a Court Trial—Sheriff Meining Talks About Why He Thinks St. Louis County Needs a New Jail.

ARTIFICIAL warts and real champagne corks as souvenirs of a play are out of the ordinary, but for seven years William H. Turner distributed just such mementoes to an insistent play-going public.

Mr. Turner and Frank Lyman, who is playing the part of Maj. Bellamy Didsworth in "Father and the Boys," at the Lyceum, in which Mr. Turner is starring, were talking on theater topics at the Spalding last night and a lot of interesting things were said.

An annual average of 214 appearances as David Harum for a period of seven years made Mr. Turner tolerably well acquainted with that character. He was telling Mr. Lyman of some incidents of that time, and mentioned David's big diamond pin and big cheek wart. He was asked if the wart was made of putty.

"No, I used cotton, just common cotton," he said. "I twisted and rolled it, then smeared it with spirit gum, stuck it on my cheek and covered it with grease paint. Yes, it did come off at times, and that was embarrassing, of course, but the audience couldn't well notice it, because when it came off it left a splotch of white that served as a partial substitute.

"I always kept a half dozen or more of them on my dressing table, and people who called to see me insisted upon taking one with them as a souvenir. It was odd, carrying away artificial warts."

Then he trailed off into a story about how a David Harum audience was "reached." He said that in the first act there are a couple of lines that tested the mood of the audience. If the lines took, all was well and good, and the night's success was assured.

"I recall an incident that was exceedingly embarrassing at the time, but which in perspective is simply amusing. It is difficult to see clearly over the footlights, so that the audience as individuals were not visualized, but it happened that there was in a stage box a rather impressive and prosperous looking man whom I could not avoid seeing. I noticed that when the house was pleased, he was stolid. Never a smile could I bring to his face. He sat and watched. All the lines and all the quiet business that characterize Harum went for nothing with him. The situation began to get on my nerves, but before the play was over he laughed. In the last act, you know, David opens a bottle of wine. I wrestled with the bottle and got the cork started, and when it popped my face was spattered with wine. My man in the box laughed immoderately at that, and I was puzzled. After I got in the wings I asked a stage hand about the man in the box. "'He's the richest man in the theater tonight,' said the hand. I told him why I asked and he explained that the man was deaf.

"That reminds me of my distribution of champagne corks. I made it a point to aim the pop at the audience, and there always was a scramble to catch the cork. I've been told that David Harum champagne corks are to be found bound with ribbon in many a home, and in fact have seen numbers of them so treasured, myself."

THE lawyer was at leisure last evening and he yearned, telling story after story about his brothers of the bar. Among others was one about an incident of years ago in the St. Louis county courthouse, at the opening of a term over which Judge Ensign was presiding, the calendar was being read when a peculiarity was observed that set the assembled attorneys into a sudden gust of laughter.

The clerk or some one else had made a mistake and named one attorney as the representative in court of both the complainant and the defendant. The lawyer who was named was in court. He was a character, one of the most picturesque characters the St. Louis county bar ever contained, and when Judge Ensign had sternly called the attorneys to order he stepped forward, a broad smile on his face.

"Well, I yust guess I can vin this case, all right," he said.

"OF COURSE, if the people of the county don't want a new jail, there will not be one," remarked Sheriff John R. Meining, at the St. Louis, yesterday. "I have simply set forth the conditions as I see them and that is all that's up to me. But I notice in all the discussion of this subject that no mention is made of several points which, in my opinion, should be seriously considered.

"In the first place the county now has the site for the jail adjacent to the courthouse, where it should have been built when the courthouse was built. The county owns the site of the prospective new city hall, and that is worth a large amount of money, and it owns the present jail and its site. This property represents values great enough in extent to provide the cost of the new jail.

"Another thing is that it costs the county a lot of money to transfer prisoners from the distant county jail and from the municipal jail to the courthouse. The cost would be eliminated if the new jail were built. Then there is the danger involved in thus transferring the prisoners. They may have opportunities for escaping, and that involves possible loss of life.

"In the present county jail the condition is not simply one of over-crowding. It is no place for sick persons, and there is no city or county hospital to send them to where they would be properly restrained and guarded.

"Perhaps worst of all is the fact that there is no room in the jail and no provision for the lodging of juvenile prisoners. It is impossible, under present conditions, to prevent the mingling of the juvenile offender with the adult criminal.

"A modern jail would provide for all these things, and it is my opinion that St. Louis county should house its enforced guests as well as does any other county in the state. I am saying this simply for the purpose of presenting my point of view and not for the purpose of seeking to influence the opinions and actions of those who will have power of decision in the matter."

A guest walked into the buffet at the Spalding this noon, put a quarter on the bar and said, briefly enough, "Bourbon."

"Yes, sir," said the Bourbonist, producing.

The guest drank and the party of the second part rang up a quarter.

"I beg your pardon," he immediately exclaimed. "I never did that before," he paraphrased, addressing the biggest man behind. "I'll give the guest his change."

"No, sir, dont' you do it," expostulated the guest. "I don't want it. Not a bit of it. This is the first time I have had a chance to get two Bourbons for a quarter two hours apart. I'll come back later and take it out in trade."

And so it stood.

Reciprocity with Canada or the contrary is a subject of much controversy and barber shops hear these controversies as much as do any other places of resort for men. Incidentally, discussions of what will be the ultimate result of the consummation of such a treaty are getting men into trouble. For instance:

At Grand Rapids yesterday a couple of traveling men got into a barber shop and an argument at the same time. The argument concerned reciprocity and the shave concerned the barber more than it did the traveling men apparently. At any rate, one of the men was E. H. Nyhus, who early in life discovered that drugs are not a drug on the market if properly marketed and since has been peddling drugs. Mr. Nyhus confessed while at the Lenox today that after they had emerged from the barber shop he was accosted by the barber and was told something like this:

"You've got a new one, you fellers has. But I guess I'm wise. Reciprocity, hey! Talking about Canada and not paying for yer shave from a good American barber, hey! Take it from me, you can't get away with that sort of stall."

Whereupon they realized that reciprocity had so completely occupied their thoughts that they had failed to pay duty to the barber.

LAST DAY OF THE SHOW

Special Prizes Are Awarded the Exhibitors of Poultry.

As far as the awarding of prizes is concerned the Duluth Poultry association's exhibition is over.

There will not be any of the chickens moved away from the show until late tonight, however, and today is expected to be one of the big days of the week.

The awarding of the special prizes was made yesterday, which closed the competition. The winners, ribbons and all, will be on exhibition all of today, and judging from the early morning attendance there will be a very big crowd on hand this afternoon and evening.

The Ancona special, offered by the International Ancona club, was won by J. H. Baker of this city, and the Black Minorca special was carried away by J. W. Nelson.

In remarking on the fine show of chickens that Superior fanciers have made, the superintendent of the Southern Minnesota poultry association, gave his humorous version of it, this morning:

"I attribute our success to the fact that the past season has been very dry," he stated. "The wet weather has the tendency to produce chickens with webbed feet, owing to the insufficient drainage that the poultry men across the bay have to contend with."

BIG VERDICT IS RETURNED

A jury in district court has allowed Albina Trenholm $4,837.50 from the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railroad company for injuries received when she was injured in a railroad accident.

The verdict, which is one of the largest returned by a district court jury in some months, was reported to Judge J. D. Ensign at 10 o'clock this morning. The case has been on trial for several days.

The plaintiff sued for $27,000. She claimed negligence on the part of the company in that the train was run in a careless manner.

She claimed that while riding on one of the company's trains from Hibbing to Sparta, the train was derailed and fell down an enbankment of several feet. The coach was overturned and she claimed injuries to nearly every part of her body.

A picture, which was taken of the injured parts shortly after the accident, was introduced as evidence by the plaintiff.

WILL USE OMAHA DEPOT AND DOCKS FOR PRESENT

Canadian Northern Officials Return From Conference in Chicago.

Depot Will Be Constructed at West Duluth This Year.

"We have made tentative arrangements for the use of the Omaha depot and will use that depot until such time as we shall build a passenger depot of our own in this city."

That was the statement of M. H. McLeod, general manager of the Canadian Northern railway, upon his return today from Chicago. The construction of the passenger depot in West Duluth will begin in the near future, how soon Mr. McLeod stated today he was unable to say. He further stated that many of the plans of the officials of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific Railway company were in an uncertain state, but that most of them would be worked out very soon.

According to the statement of Mr. McLeod the conference in St. Paul was with the Northern Pacific and Great Northern officials. The conference with the first named officials had to do with the securing of trackage rights here, for the use of the Northern Pacific terminals. The interview with the Great Northern officials had to do with certain matters in connection with the affairs of the two companies at Winnipeg.

"We have had amicable relations with the Omaha for some time," said Mr. McLeod, "and the decision to use their depot here for passenger purposes is very satisfactory in every way. Naturally we are going to have a passenger station of our own here, or think we will; but when we cannot say at this time.

"We will use the docks of the Omaha for any purpose that we may need them for until the construction of our own docks at the property we own at the foot of Forty-seventh, Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth avenues west. It is very probable that we will build our own docks in the near future, but on that subject I can make no definite statement at the present time."

Mr. McLeod stated that there were many plans regarding the coming to Duluth of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific, but that outside of the decision to use the Ohaha passenger station here, to construct a passenger depot in West Duluth, and also the probable construction of freight sheds there and docks in the near future, and the further fact that construction in the extension would be rushed with all possible speed so as to bring the road here as early as possible next fall, there was nothing more to be given out at this time.

C. E. Friend, auditor of the Canadian Northern, and H. T. Hazen, chief engineer of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific, returned with Mr. McLeod. Mr. Hanna and Judge Phippen returning to Winnipeg.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

GAVE BOOZE TO INDIANS

Cass Lake Man Caught Red-handed Violating Law Goes to Prison.

Pleads Guilty and Judge Stanton Sentences Him to Six Months.

Cass Lake, Minn., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge C. W. Stanton yesterday sentenced Andrew McCormick of this place to six months at hard labor at Stillwater and imposed a fine of $100 for furnishing liquor to Indians.

Some few months ago, some Indians were picked up here by one of the village policemen in a very much intoxicated condition. Some of the radicals of the village charged the saloon men with violating the law as regards the sale of the spirituous stuff to the Indians, and as a result a vigorous investigation was made. The intoxicated Indians were strongly questioned and finally admitted that a stranger to them had furnished the booze. The officer accompanied by the Indians made the rounds of the town endeavoring to find the party who furnished the liquor. It was not long before the party ran upon McCormick and he was at once identified as the guilty one. He was promptly arrested and after a strong examination admitted purchasing the liquor and taking it out to the Indians. A trial was given the prisoner and he was bound over to the district court, and some days ago he asked to be permitted to appear before the judge and plead guilty. In company with County Attorney Funck, Sheriff Delury and Clerk of the Court Palmer, all of Cass county, the prisoner was taken to Bemidji, and the plea entered. Judge Stanton promptly sentenced the prisoner to six months at hard labor and a fine of $100.

It is evident from the prosecution of McCormick that the law regarding the sale of liquor to Indians is going to be enforced to the limit.

LANGDON NEEDS LEGISLATIVE AID

Burning of School and Lack of Money to Rebuild Property Felt.

Langdon, N. D., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The recent burning of the public school building in this city leaves the citizens in a predicament which may require special legislation for its solution. The district now has an outstanding indebtedness of $13,000, which is the limit allowed by law. The cost of a new building commensurate with the needs of the city is variously estimated from $30,000 to $50,000, the old building which was valued at $15,000 being wholly inadequate for the needs of the city, classes at times being held in the city hall.

The insurance carried on the old building was but $10,500, which leaves approximately $20,000 to be raised for the new building in some manner not provided by law. The only feasible suggestion made is that the state legislature be appealed to and if possible pass a special law that would relieve the situation. The assessed valuation could be raised in next spring's assessment and additional bonds floated, but even if sufficient money could be raised in this manner it could not be accomplished in time to have the building ready for opening in September.

Smith at Elmira, is also very ill and Dr. Hill has been notified that she is sinking rapidly.

TRANSFERS OF THE WEEK

E. H. Windom Purchases Residence of Philip P. Thomas in East End.

Three-Story Brick Building on Piedmont Avenue Is Sold.

Several sales of improved residence property and a number of deals in low-priced residence lots furnished the activity of the week in the real estate market. There was a better tone to the market all the way through and the volume of inquiry and the new deals started kept real estate men busy. Some firms reported that they had more work and more prospective deals in the past week than for the six weeks preceding, and the statement probably applies to the entire market.

Two important residence deals in East end property came out during the week, but the parties interested in one of the deals have not been announced. E. H. Windom has purchased Philip P. Thomas' residence at 2111 Jefferson street. The other deal involves one of the fine residences in the normal school district. The consideration in each case has not been announced.

Stryker, Manley & Buck report the sale of a lot and a three-story brick building at 1810 Piedmont avenue from Ole Carlson to Mrs. A. Black. The consideration was $10,500. The lot fronts ninety feet in Second street and about fifty-five feet on Piedmont avenue. The building has room for stores on the first floor and is arranged for flats in the upper floors.

The same firm reports the sale of a lot at the corner of Tenth avenue east and Eighth street by G. W. Buck to A. E. Arnison for $500, the sale of two lots on Third street between Eleventh and Twelfth avenues east by H. C. Hale to A. Karon, the consideration not being given, and the sale of two lots in Chan Smith's addition to West Superior from Elizabeth B. White to F. J. Wildner for $500.

Richardson, Day & Harrison have filed with the register of deeds the plat of Norton's Steel Plant division, which consists of forty acres platted according to topography. Commonwealth avenue, the principal street in that section of the city, runs through the division

SMALL LOTS ATTACKED

Improvement Bulletin Urges Adoption of the 50-Foot Standard.

Small Lots Cause Over Crowding and Increase Fire Risk.

The Improvement Bulletin, published in Minneapolis in the interest of the building trades, comes out with a suggestion that might be followed up to good advantage. The practice of platting divisions into 25-foot lots and offering the lots for sale singly is vigorously attacked, and in attacking it the Improvement Bulletin strikes at an evil that every city of any size has faced.

Duluth is facing it and Duluth's hands are tied. Any division platted into 25-foot lots may be submitted to the plat commission and, everything else being legal, the commission will approve it. Out of nearly 200 additions and divisions in the city more than 100 are platted into 25-foot lots, while others have lots fronting thirty-three and forty feet.

The result is that in the built up portions of the city few people have purchased two or three lots and the houses are crowded together, a menace in case of fire and a discomfort in any event. There is plenty of room for any city to be built properly and the city starting out with lots of not less than fifty feet in width is starting right. It is too late for Duluth or any established city to start over, but new residence additions springing up might be laid out in lots of adequate size to good advantage.

The insurance feature is also one that will commend itself to any home owner. Real estate men will find when people think on the subject, that it will be as easy to sell a 50-foot lot for the price of two 25-foot lots as it would be to sell the 25-foot lots separately.

Following is the Improvement Bulletin's comment:

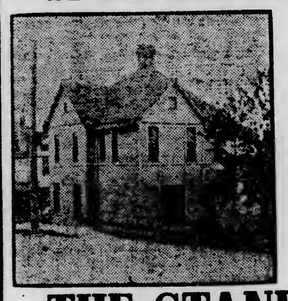

"If the various legislatures would like to take up a topic which would work to the advantage of the communities they could find a line of work for their activities in passing a law to regulate the minimum widths of city and town lots which might be accepted for platting. The acceptance of plats with twenty-five and even narrower frontages for residence sections is simply a move to the encouragement of huddling houses close together; of inducing the development of slums; of increasing fire hazards, and of encouraging the things which are most objectionable in large communities.

"The fire insurance companies have but recently removed the additional charge which they formerly levied upon buildings which were within a certain limit, so they now ask no more for the extra hazard of a building which is within a few feet of its adjacent neighbor than for another which is twenty or more feet separated. The wisdom of this move is very doubtful, and it would seem that in view of the heavy losses which have been the case in the larger cities of this state—that there should have been an additional charge levied rather than otherwise. But fire insurance companies are in business to make money, and it is probable that they can and do distribute the cost in other manners. The legislature is supposed to be seeking to make laws which work for the benefit of the communities, and this suggestion of making narrow lots in residence districts harder to acquire is one way in which better things can be done.

"Unfortunately, the damage is largely done. Plat after plat through the cities of the state and of other states have been accepted, with miserable little strips of ground, and some sections show houses huddled up nearly like sheep, as is necessary in order to utilize the lots for dwellings. With ample room, and no necessity for crowding up in this manner, except the desire to get as many pieces of real estate out of a block as possible, the thing should be abated as far as it is now possible to do."

Why Not Own Your Home?
WE WILL LEND YOU THE MONEY AT 5% SIMPLE INTEREST

Money invested in house rent receipts is a poor investment, and one that you will never derive any future benefits from. Anybody can pay rent, but it takes energy, economy and determination to own a home. We will lend you the money to buy, build, improve homes or lift mortgages anywhere in the Union. For each $1,000.00 borrowed, you pay us $7.50 per month, together with 5 per cent interest on yearly balances; giving you 10½ years in which to repay loan, with the privilege of taking up all notes or as many as you wish at any time, and by so doing you would get a discount of the 5 per cent interest on all notes taken up before maturity. We allow six months' grace in case of adverse circumstances. Now why do you pay rent when our plan will enable you to own a home with the money you spend for rent?
On receipt of this coupon, properly filled out, we will mail you full particulars in regard to our method of loaning money, or, better still, come to our office and let us explain to you our liberal proposition in detail.

ATTRACTIVE ENGLISH COTTAGE WHICH WOULD COST $4,000 TO BUILD HERE

ANTHONY PUCK & HOLSTEAD ARCHITECTS

The above illustration suggests a simple scheme and design for an English cottage" home on the hillside or the edge of a ravine—a characteristic Duluth building site. Such a site is often obtained at a lower figure than the ordinary level "ideal" building lot.

Besides gaining in interest and appearance, a house situated as here shown would be assured of unobstructed sunlight and view from the lower side. In the plan the sloping site is taken advantage of by finishing a room in the basement—a den or billiard room under living room would be a practical as well as an attractive feature.

Although a small house, a noteworthy feature is the roominess of plan and entire absence of cramped space. The first floor shows a living room with abundant light to make it a bright and pleasant room—the entrance hall is uncommon and attractive in appearance, and the coat closet would be much appreciated, a kitchen, china pantry and scullery are arranged in convenient relationship.

The second floor shows three good bedrooms with large closets and bathroom, well lighted and proportioned.

The living room and hall would be finished in stained oak—the pantry and kitchen in birch and the bedrooms and bathroom in white enamel.

The exterior finish would be rough cast and shingle.

A house as above described would cost in Duluth and vicinity, inclusive of heating and plumbing, $4,000.

APPROACH OF SPRING PUTS LIFE IN REALTY MARKET

Inquiry Increases, Much Applying to Steel Plant Property.

West Duluth, First Street and East Superior Figure.

The real estate business is looking up. There has been more inquiry and more deals have progressed during the past week than in any one week since early last fall, is the opinion of real estate men who get their share of any business that is floating around. With the passing of January, people begin to realize that spring is close at hand and prospective builders are getting into the market to get their sites for early spring building operations.

The inquiry from outside of the city continues to grow in volume and it is of such quality that dealers look for much of it to materialize into deals. A great deal of inquiry is in regard to property in the vicinity of the steel plant and there will be a constantly increasing activity in lots in that vicinity as the season advances.

Real estate men generally are interested in the negotiations in progress this week between the Canadian Northern officials and other interests and are rather anxiously awaiting the announcement of the terminal plans of the railroad. It is quite generally understood that the ore docks and elevators of the company will be located at the foot of Forty-ninth avenue west, but no definite announcement to that effect has ever been made by the company. The location of the passenger station at West Duluth is also in doubt. The Canadian Northern means a great deal to West Duluth. Although much property was bought up by the company and the railroad runs straight through the residence district in that section of the city, the location of the terminals there will mean a great deal to West Duluth through the employment of many men and the consequent demand for homes. West Duluth real estate was active last year and greater activity is expected during the coming season.

It is understood that several deals are in the air for factory sites and dock sites in West Duluth. That section of the city is the logical location for factories and practically the only dock sites available in the city are located there. Several dock site sales were made last year and negotiations were carried on for several others. It is epexcted that this year the sales will be closed up and announcement is also expected of the prospective location of several new factories and other industries in that section of the city.

Although West Duluth's importance as a real estate center is primarily on account of the advantages it offers to industrial plants, it also figures largely in residence possibilities. During the next two years hundreds of men will be employed in industrial plants in that section of the city. Homes must be provided for those men and their families and lot sales in West Duluth this year will be numerous. West Duluth has a wide expanse on which to build up and the next two or three years will see hundreds of homes erected in the Oneota district and the district farther to the west.

Inquiry for investment properties is centering on First street and East Superior street. Superior street property in the downtown business district is being so closely held that prospective investors have little chance of breaking in, except at prices that are based on anticipated profits and are thus prohibitive to the careful investor.

First street and East Superior streets, the growing retail districts, offer the best opportunities to prospective investors in business property. Both districts have a great future. The main retail district is crowded and more retail men are turning to First street and East Superior street each year in search of locations where the rents are not so high and the opportunities are good for new business.

East Superior street and First street have come up fast in the last few years. A few years ago there were only a few small business houses in those districts. Now there are scores of business houses, many of which formerly had locations in the main retail district. More will follow on May 1 and there will be a great appreciation in the value of property. Property in both districts has appreciated greatly in the past two or three years and the advances are continuing steadily.

OPTIMISM CONTINUES

Few Announcements of New Work Made By Architects.

Best Building Year in History of the City Is Expected.

Announcements of new work are slow in coming out in building circles. The architects say they are busy, but none of the projects are far enough advanced to be made public. They maintain the optimistic stand that this will be one of the busiest building seasons in the history of Duluth, and contractors take the same position.

Winter building was given a better chance by the weather man this week, and good progress was made. The work on the superstructures of the two buildings being erected on First street in the business district is being pushed and the buildings are expected to be ready for occupancy May 1.

Bray & Nystrom are preparing plans for the furniture of the new district court building at Virginia. The bids will be received immediately, and the building will be taken over by the county early in the spring.

• • •

The contract for the four-room addition to the Lowell school will be let at the next meeting of the board of education. The plans as prepared by Kelly & Ligneli have been accepted by the board and bids are being received.

• • •

There was more demand for building permits at the office of Building Inspector S. M. Kielley during the past week, and the list for the week is longer than for any week since the first of the year. Following are the permits:

To Northwestern Oil company, pump house, Michigan street, between Thirty-second and Thirty-third avenues west	$ 200

CARLTON JOTTINGS.

Carlton, Minn., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Socialists are billing the town for a big meeting in the city hall on Sunday afternoon to protest against present day conditions. It is expected that there will be a large crowd in attendance.

The Modern Brotherhood of America lodge of Carlton is now in a highly flourishing condition, and has a large list of members and is gaining more every week.

John Hedeen of New London, Minn., arrived Monday evening and has accepted a position with the Vidette.

Anton Ellingston, formerly of Carlton, was in the city Saturday between trains on his way back to Duluth from Cloquet.

The Misses Matie Beattie, Wenonah Watkins, and Anna May Woodworth were among the Carlton visitors at Duluth on Saturday.

Cashier C. D. Dixon and Guy Smith from the First National Bank of Cloquet Tuesday, were on a general business visit to a good live town.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Beginning of Second Semester—Junior Mid-Year Dance—Interclass Basket Ball League Started—Mock Trial—Work on the 1911 Zenith Progressing—Rehearsals of Senior Class Play to Begin Next Week.

Last Monday was the first day of the second semester and as was expected there was a great deal of confusion among both the teachers and students on account of the changes in the programs. There are only eighteen weeks of school left this year and the seniors are at last appreciating the fact that their high school days are nearly over.

Next Monday the reports for the past semester are due and then it is possible that some of the seniors will find that their high school days will be lengthened until 1912.

The event of most importance at Central during the past week was the junior midyear dance which was held in the halls of the high school last night. The decorating committee received many congratulations upon the pretty decorations in the halls. Rev. St. Clair was chairman of this committee. The other members of the decorating committee were: Adelaide Miller, Elsa Bieberman, Vivian Ker, Dorothy Thwing, Robert Mars, George Stillman and Ely Salyards.

The dance was open to all the high school students and the alumni. A large number attended and all report a very pleasant time. Flaaten's orchestra played the dancing music from 8 until 11 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Young and other members of the faculty chaperoned for the juniors.

The first game of the interclass basket ball league was played yesterday afternoon at the high school gymnasium. The seniors won from the freshmen 36 to 14, but the score does not tell a true story of the game and the strength of the teams. The freshmen excelled in team work, but could not throw baskets consistently while the seniors seldom missed a good shot.

Some of the members of both teams were kept from the game for various reasons and when they return the seniors and freshmen will be among the strongest contenders for the championship. A very small crowd attended the game, but it is hoped that a larger one will attend the next game which will be between the juniors and sophomores next Tuesday afternoon.

The mock trial which will be given as a part of the year's work of the Forum society will take place next week. Mr. Brackett is drilling those who will take part in the trial and every effort will be made to make it a success.

• • •

The Zenith board is progressing rapidly in the work on the 1911 Zenith. A new feature of this year's book will be a large number of popular kodak pictures, which will be placed in it.

Thursday the individual write-up committee held a fudge party in the chemical recitation room and an enjoyable afternoon was spent. This committee reports a difficulty in finding suitable nicknames for those of the seniors, who have not been given such a name.

The rehearsals for the "New Merchant of Venice" to be given by the senior class will begin next week and Mr. Custance and the members of the cast will be kept busy from now until the date of the play.

• • •

Much enthusiasm was shown during the week over the trip to be taken by the basket ball team and all the students are hoping that the team comes home victorious over Little Falls and St. Paul Central high school.

CLUB WANTS PROTECTION

Grade Crossings in Lakeside Are Dangerous, Residents Say.

Bert Fesler Addresses Club on Municipal Electric Plant Project.

The Lakeside club last evening discussed the matter of adequate protection of grade crossings in their section of the city, without coming to any conclusion. The sad death of Marie Mattson, who was struck and fatally injured by a train about 11:30 o'clock one night recently, has aroused the residents of that section of the city to the necessity of some action along this line. A committee, appointed before the accident, took the matter up with F. E. House, president of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad. In their report last evening the members embodied the suggestion that automatic bells be installed, but this did not meet with approval. The outcome was that the matter was referred back to the same committee for further investigation.

Following a discussion, led by Capt. J. C. Bush, the club went on record as favoring the commission form of government.

City Attorney Bert Fesler discussed the proposition of municipal ownership of the electric lighting plant. He was heartily in favor of it and was confident that with the local delegation back of it, the bill allowing the issuance of bonds would have little difficulty in passing.

Mr. Fesler alleged that the capitalization of the company represents at least $1,450,000 of watered stock and explained the several processes whereby he said it was put in. He took up the history of the company from the time it went into bankruptcy, as the Commercial Light & Investment company, until the present time.

He stated that in his opinion the plant could be built for $700,000, which is the amount of the bonds which the city asks the legislature to allow it to issue, and that it could be operated at a profit. Taking up the last statement of the Duluth Edison Electric company, he analyzed it, claiming that instead of a profit of $47,000, as shown by the statement, the company actually made between $150,000 and $175,000. Touching upon the tax statement he said that it shows that the company is paying taxes upon $366,000 of personal property and about $79,000 in real estate.

Mr. Fesler spoke for over an hour. He was very careful and deliberate in his statements. Alex. G. McKnight, president of the club, and an ex-alderman, said this morning that the electric company had a stenographer present at the meeting to take the remarks made by City Attorney Fesler.

MUST SERVE SIX MONTHS.

Thomas B. Riley Found Guilty of Publishing a Private Letter.

New York, Feb. 11.—Thomas B. Riley, formerly an employe of the interstate commerce commission, must serve six months in the penitentiary at Blackwell's island for furnishing interesting "sugar trust" material to the magazines. He was found guilty by a jury in the United States circuit court late yesterday afternoon of causing to be published without authority a letter from Attorney General Wickersham to United States District Attorney Wise with reference to the prosecution of the American Sugar Refining company. Within half an hour he was on his way to serve his sentence.

On a count of the indictment charging larceny of the letter, the jury found him not guilty and they disagreed on a count charging him with publication of another letter. The conviction came solely as regards the Wickersham documents and under a state law prohibiting the publication of private documents without permission.

DISCUSS METHODS OF RAISING FUNDS.

At a meeting held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. M. Marshall, Twenty-sixth avenue east and Branch street, ways and means for securing subscriptions for the children's pavilion, to be erected on the site of the St. Louis County Sanitarium, were discussed.

Dr. William Hart was present at the meeting and he went over the plans with the women. About $10,000 is needed, according to the plans of the Saranac Lake architects, and about half this amount has already been pledged. The other $5,000 will have to come in small subscriptions, it is thought.

The women behind the plan and who will start lists are: Mrs. A. M. Marshall, Mrs. A. W. Hartman, Mrs. George C. Stone, Mrs. John Killorin, and Mrs. Edward T. Buxton.

In the case of Andrew Thompson, respondent, vs. St. Louis River Dam & Improvement company, appellant, an action by a homesteader in possession of his claim to recover damages for loss of his crops thereon, alleged to have been caused by the negligence of the defendant in maintaining, operating and supervising its dam in the river, whereby its waters cast upon the land in destructive quantities, a verdict for the plaintff having been returned, it was held by the supreme court that the trial court did not err in denying defendants motion for a change of place of trial, nor in its rulings as to the admission of evidence, nor in its charge and further, that the verdict is sustained by evidence. SEE BLACK HAND WORK

In Strange Disappearance of Iron Mountain, Mich., Man.

Iron Mountain, Mich., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the sudden and unexpected disappearance of Alderman Angelo Gabardi, a well-to-do business man of this place, the city believes it has a "Black Hand" mystery to solve.

Gabardi, who is an Italian alderman, is said to hold considerable political power here, and has made some enemies. He left Iron Mountain suddenly on Jan. 25 and has not returned. One report says he has secretly notified friends here that he is with relatives at Stockton, Cal.

The evening that Gabardi disappeared a closed hack was seen to drive up in front of his meat market. He entered, and the hack was driven away. He has not been seen since.

An article which appeared in an Italian socialistic publication has been translated since Gabardi's disappearance, and it was found to be an attack on the missing official.

WHEAT ON TOBOGGAN

Favorable Action of House Committee on Reciprocity Is Bearish.

Rains Fall in Southern Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 11.—Wheat declined slightly today. The market became oversold around noon and values went forward but on a report that the house committee in congress had reported upon the agreement favorably by a vote of 11 to 5, the market suffered a reaction and values lost their strength and declined fractionally below yesterday's closing levels.

In the early hour wheat was weak on account of selling pressure which started in the Southwest. The Southwestern markets were weak because of reports of further rains in Texas and Oklahoma. The precipitation in the latter state was said to be widespread although not heavy. Wichita, Kan., reported a slight rain and the message that additional moisture was likely.

The crowd pressed the situation too strenously and the market became oversold. Covering by shorts caused a rally which carried values above the opening. Cables were lower and had some influence on the opening weakness.

On the hard spot selling reappeared quickly and values slid until the close. The cash market was not as weak as prices indicated. Millers picked up a little stuff but the trading was light. Offerings, however, were small. The fear trade does not show any improvement and Northwestern mills are embarrassed by an absence of shipping directions.

Trading was more active than for some time in the last several weeks.

Flaxseed was slightly weaker but trading was without significance. May closed $2.69½ asked. La Plata seed at Antwerp display a further advance, going to $2.483 a bu.

The Chicago Record-Herald of yesterday said: "Winnipeg exporters are speculating freely on the strength of their belief that the reciprocity agreement will be ratified. They are in a peculiarly favorable position for profitable speculation. They are buying No. 3 northern at Winnipeg, a grade that will go No. 1 northern in the American markets, and in the event of the failure of the treaty is still a prime favorite abroad. By hedging in the American market there is a difference of easily 10 cents per bushel in favor of the buyer in Canada who sells here. Purchases of about 600,000 bu of the above grade of wheat have been made by Winnipeg and other Canadian exporters in the last three days, preference being given to Canadian wheat already located in bond or in boats within the United States. Yesterday's purchases of the No. 3 Canadian northern were on the basis of 6c per bu below Winnipeg May delivery price. The latter was, in turn, 5⅝c below Duluth May, or closing at 97⅛c, as against $1.02⅜ at Duluth. With no duty to interpose, this wheat could cross the border at a net profit of 10c per bu after paying 1⅜c per bu freight if sold on the basis of yesterday's Canadian-American prices."

Somers-Jones of Chicago, say: There seems to be considerable needless apprehension as to the effect the reciprocity treaty will have on barley values. The law can hardly become effective until along in March at the earliest, and then only if ratified by the Canadian parliament. There is very little barley in sight in Canada that would be available for this year's business—423,512 bu in the Canadian visible and 356,642 bu of Canadian barley afloat at Buffalo. Canadian farmers, on account of the high export duty to this country and the lack of feed demand from abroad, had largely gone out of the barley growing business. Under the circumstances, there can be no pressure from Canadian barley until after another crop is raised—that is, next September or October. It should not in the least affect present values. We are inclined to think that values already have suffered more than justified merely in anticipation and without thorough analysis of the situation.

Our Western shippers write us that late high prices in barley have caused farmers to sell even their seed and that farmers in many cases will be compelled to look to the centers for seed barley for their next year's sowing. Under the circumstances, a heavy movement of barley toward the centers is utterly impossible for the balance of the season, this pointing naturally to higher prices. It is well known that brewers have the lightest supplies of malt in their history for this time of the year, and, having lately bought from hand to mouth only, they will be compelled to remain in the market for large quantities of malt until new crop grain is available. We would not in the least be surprised to see barley values again advance to the dollar point or over. Stock of barley in the centers are light and mostly of a quality considered too poor for malting purposes. Much of it is North Dakota barley, which, under the pressure of recent high prices, was exchanged by farmers for corn at the rate of one bushel of barley for one and one-half bushels of corn. It is barley that was raised for feed and fit for feed only and would never have been marketed except for this great pressure. We know of no round lots of desirable malting barley anywhere. Our shippers, without exception, claim that their barley is mostly disposed of and that they will have little or none to sell for the balance of the season.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: The wheat market at the opening was easy and partially reflected the weakness in America yesterday and the weakness in Winnipeg and values were ⅜d to ⅝d lower with the principal pressure in March. Selling was also encouraged by the predictions of larger world's shipments to the United Kingdom, weakness in Buenos Ayres at the close, easiness in Paris and less continental demand. Argentine crops continue favorable and offers of Australian and Russian wheat are free and lower. Notwithstanding these bearish factors the market showed an inclination of steadiness during the entire session and just before the close week end shorts covered and values advanced ⅛d to ¼d. Argentine weather is still unfavorable for the movement, although latest advices report clearing and fine and Plate offers are more firmly held. At the close the market was steadier and d to ½d lower than yesterday. Corn—After opening ¼d to ⅜d lower, further declined ⅛d for March and at the close was heavy. Pressure was due to cheaper American offers of parcels and the spring-like weather here, which will reduce consumption.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Various World Conditions Serve to Send Wheat Downward Again.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—Stop-loss selling, the result of bull discouragement regarding reciprocity, made weakness of wheat prices worse today. Large world shipments formed another bearish factor. European crop advices continued favorable, and offers of Russian and Australian wheat were free and lower. There was also a change to fine weather in the Argentine, where storms had interfered with the movement of the new crop. Rains in Oklahoma and Southern Kansas, much wanted for fall sown grain, added to the woes of the speculators working for higher prices. The opening was a shade to ½@⅝c down. May started at 92⅞c to 93¼c, a loss of 1-16c to ¼@⅜c, and declined to 92½c.

Profit-taking by shorts rallied the market. The close was steady, with May at 92⅝c, a net loss of ½@⅝c.

Corn eased off with wheat and on selling by pit traders. May opened a shade to ⅛@¼c lower at 48⅝c to 48¾c and fell to 48⅛@48⅝c.

Later the market rallied with wheat. May closed steady at 48⅞c, a net gain of a shade.

Resting orders from shorts in oats offset unloading by tired owners. May started a shade to ⅛@¼c under last night at 31¼c to 31⅜c, and rallied to 31½c.

Taken as a whole, the provisions market was easier, the result of a decline in hog quotations. First sales were 10c lower to 7½c up, with May options at $17.70 to $17.75 for pork, $9.45 to $9.50 for lard and $9.50 for ribs.

STOCKS ARE IRREGULAR

Early Rise Uncovered Selling Orders Which Caused a Reaction.

Sharp Advance From the Low Level Occurred Near Close.

New York, Feb. 11.—The stock market opened dull today, most of the issues selling at about the level or last night's closing. The only feature was Canadian Pacific, which advanced 1¾. International Harvester gained ¾ and Missouri Pacific ½, while Union Pacific and Reading yielded slightly.

The general market stiffened up, with an advance of nearly a point in Consolidated Gas and Missouri Pacific. The rise uncovered selling orders, which caused a reaction to below yesterday's closing, Reading losing ½.

The market closed firm. A further advance in the Canadian group and steadiness in certain specialties impelled a degree of short covering which advanced the list sharply from the low level. Trading, however, was altogether without definite purpose. International Paper fell 1¼ and the preferred 2¼.

COMPLETED SCHEME OF REAPPORTIONMENT BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

Represents Hardest Kind of Work By Chairman C. A. Congdon.

Both Senate and House Members Generally Well Satisfied.

Boundaries of the Five St. Louis County Districts Given.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The completed scheme of reapportionment, after more than a month of solid work, will be presented tomorrow afternoon to the house committee on reapportionment, and there is little question that the committee will approve it and that it will be introduced in the house on Wednesday as a committee bill.

It will probably be made a special order for an early date, and it will pass the house. Some attempt may be made to amend it, but its supporters will resist any such proposals. The bill as it stands is the fruit of the hardest kind of work, most of which has been done by Chairman Chester A. Congdon of the reapportionment committee. There has been, first, the task of framing a fair reapportionment based on population.

BREAKS THE NIGHT ALTITUDE RECORD

Aviator Frank Coffyn Rises 800 Feet Shortly After Midnight.

Augusta, Ga., Feb. 13.—Shortly after midnight Frank Coffyn broke the world's night record for altitude in a biplane here. He rose 800 feet. The previous night record was held by the late Arch Hoxsey, he having gone up 250 feet. Coffyn expected to make a secret flight, so he would not be hampered by a crowd in making a landing, but the fact that he was going up became known, and a large crowd was at the aviation grounds. The rule of the Wrights preventing flights on Sunday caused the late start.

SAW MISSING STUDENT AT GENEVA R. R. STATION.

Rome, Feb. 13.—A railway engineer living in the suburb of Villa Marafiore, the seat of the American academy, upon returning to Rome today, was shown a picture of Henry Lawrence Wolfe, whereupon he said that he was almost certain that he had seen the missing art student at the railway station in Genoa. The police have no other clue to the whereabouts of the American.

PROMISES TO TELL JURY ALL

Whitlock Brought Back to Danville on Embezzlement Charge.

Changes Mind and Goes Back to Detroit Before Subpoenaed.

Danville, Ill., Feb. 13. — Hardy H. Whitlock, who was indicted last week on the charge of embezzling county funds, returned to Danville yesterday in custody of Sheriff Shepard and immediately gave bond. In a statement Mr. Whitlock said that if subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury he would gladly do so.

"I will answer truthfully and fearlessly every question put to me," he said. Mr. Whitlock was asked what he knew about buying votes. He declined to answer the question.

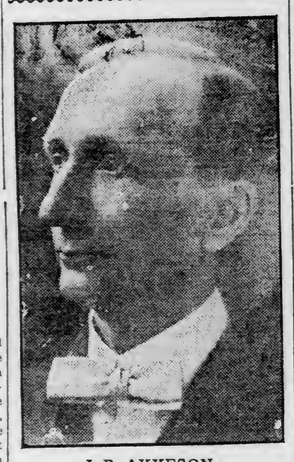

Sheriff Shepard and his deputies began serving bench warrants this morning on some of the persons who were indicted last week.

The grand jury will assemble at 1:30 o'clock, when it is expected vote-selling at the soldiers home will be delved into. Several persons connected with the management of the home have been subpoenaed.

Mr. Whitlock suddenly changed his mind this morning about remaining in Danville and left for Detroit. It was stated by his attorney that Mrs. Whitlock was ill at Detroit, which necessitated the presence of her husband. It was said that if Mr. Whitlock was wanted by the grand jury he would return.

The statement is being freely made about the courthouse that Whitlock was urged to return to Detroit before a subpoena for the grand jury could be issued for him.

ERUPTION IS CAUSED

Friends of North Dakota Bank Examiner Are Much Exercised.

Find McDowell Bill Would Legislate Knudson Out of Office.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Provisions of the amended banking law under which the present bank examiner of the state, Oliver Knudson, would be legislated out of office, have caused an eruption in the banking committee of the senate and the McDowell bill, once reported out, is again in the hands of that body. Efforts are being made by the friends of the present examiner to secure an amendment to the bill under which it would be possible for him to continue in office in the event that Governour Burke should reappoint him, and the indications are that such appointment would be made if the bill is passed in such a manner that he would be eligible. The provision in question is to the effect that the bank commissioner must have had at least five years of banking experience prior to his appointment.

The death of the Trimble insurance bill in the senate will be followed by the introduction of a similar bill in

KAISER HAS A FEVER.

Condition of Emperor William of Germany Causes Anxiety.

Berlin, Feb. 13.—The indisposition of Emperor William apparently is more serious than has been indicated in the official announcements, though it is insisted that no anxiety concerning the outcome is felt.

The first bulletins described his majesty as suffering from a cold but with the absence of any fever. Subsequently it was admitted an attack of feverish influenza had been experienced.

Today it is stated the emperor is up after two days in bed, but that he will be confined to his chamber until the end of the present week. The court ball set for Wednesday night has been cancelled.

F., for Boston, three weeks ago today, is believed to have been lost and her crew of nine men drowned, during last week's storm. About a week after sailing from Bay of Islands, the vessel was reported to have put into a Nova Scotia port, but cleared again within a few hours.

PRESIDENT IS PLEASED

Executive Arrives Back in Washington in High Spirits.

Believes He Has Accomplished Much on Short Speaking Tour.

Washington, Feb. 13.—President Taft arrived at 8:45 o'clock this morning from his speaking trip to Columbus, Ohio, and Springfield, Ill. He was in high spirits and showed no ill effects from the trip. With Capt. Archibald Butt he was driven immediately to the White House.

Pleased With Trip.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 13.—President Taft, much pleased with the results of his flying reciprocity campaign in Ohio and Illinois, passed through here last night en route to Washington. During the day he received a number of congratulatory messages from different parts of the country. There was cheering news from Washington, too, and the president is in a happy frame of mind.

The president will push the fight for the Canadian reciprocity agreement with renewed vigor. He has planned a number of important conferences during the week and will devote himself particularly to the situation in the senate.

Mr. Taft feels that the house problem was solved with the reporting out of the McCall bill Saturday.

The president was particularly

DELEGATES ARRIVE FOR BIG CONFERENCE

Pan-Americans Open Commercial Meeting at Washington.

Washington, Feb. 13.—Many delegates to the Pan-American Commercial conference, which is to occupy the entire week, arrived here today and indications are for one of the most comprehensive gatherings of commercial interests ever held in this country.

Representatives from leading manufacturing, exporting and importing establishments in all parts of the United States are in attendance. Many Latin-American diplomats and consular officers have accepted invitations to participate in the general discussion of the conference.

With the exception of the opening session today, no set speeches have been scheduled, the plan of informal discussing being decided upon in the hope of wide participation by the delegates and the presentation of proposals for the improvement of commerce between the United States and Latin-America. The steps to be taken by the business interests of America in preparing for the opening of the Panama canal and conditions surrounding the exchange of commerce between the two continents are subjects which the conference will take up in its daily sessions.

SERVES THREE DAYS IN TOMBS FOR SMUGGLING

MRS. ROBERTA CORWIN-HILL.

New York, Feb. 13.—The prison sentence of three days in the Tombs last Friday upon Mrs. Roberta Menges-Corwin-Hill, divorced wife of Capt. Arthur Hill of the British army, who pleaded guilty to a charge of smuggling, expired today and Mrs. Hill was released.

A big crowd of the curious was in waiting when Mrs. Hill, closely veiled, appeared on the arm of her father, Morris Menges, the racing man, and was quickly escorted to a waiting automobile, which started off to the accompaniment of a rapid fire clicking of camera shutters. Mrs. Hill is the first woman upon whom a prison sentence has been imposed here on a smuggling accusation.

DOG BRINGS AID TO SICK FAMILY

Note Tied to Collar and His Owner Sees It and Renders Assistance.

Carrington, N. D., Feb. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—As if by an act of Providence, a dog happened to seek admission to the farmhouse of Martin Franzen, near Goodrich, just in time to save the family and farm stock from much suffering and perhaps death. The entire family had been sick and without medical aid or proper food for several days when the dog arrived. He was called in, a note telling of the distress was tied to his collar, and then turned loose again. The dog went straight to his home, but his master, W. N. Jones, a farmer, did not discover the note until the next day. He immediately hastened to the Franzen place and arrived at the critical moment. He rendered every assistance possible to the family, and also found the horses suffering from lack of attention.

QUICK ACTION IS EXPECTED

Immediate Consideration of Reciprocity Bill Begins in House.

No Limit to Debate But Vote May Occur at Any Time.

Washington, Feb. 13.—The house by a vote of 195 to 121 decided today to begin immediate consideration of the McCall bill carrying out the reciprocity agreement with Canada. No agreement has been reached as to the limit of debate but the bill may be passed today.

While the vote to displace the regular order for today on the house calendar and take up reciprocity cannot be accepted as an exact indication of the final vote on the bill it is regarded as being approximately so. The vote against taking up the measure today came almost wholly from the Republican side.

The Democrats voted almost solidly for immediate consideration. Some of the Republicans who voted against displacing the regular order are not expected to place themselves on record against reciprocity at a final vote.

Mr. McCall of Massachusetts, will handle the time for debate in favor of the bill, and Mr. Dalzell of Pennsylvania will serve in like capacity for the opposition.

To Receive Moral Support.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—Reciprocal trade agreements between Canada and the United States will be given considerable moral support at the reciprocity banquet to be given here Wednesday night by the association of commerce, at which James J. Hill and Secretary of State Knox will speak. Plans of the association for showing the sentiment of the Middle West became known today with the publication of resolutions adopted here.

These resolutions, declaring that approval of Canadian reciprocity "would reflect the politics of a constituency desiring peace and international relations promotive of the even and uninterrupted flow of commerce," will be duplicated by others in the same strain adopted and presented at the banquet Wednesday by nearly a score of chambers of commerce of cities in the Mississippi valley and adjoining.

Frank Day Will Not Dispose of Minnesota Interests.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 13.—Frank A. Day, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, left for Missoula, Mont., where he will take charge of a daily newspaper, in company with John E. King, former state librarian.

Mr. Day said he and his partner hoped to meet with success in Montana, but that he would retain his Minnesota interests. Mr. Day will not sell his old paper, the Fairmont Sentinel. Although moving West, he said, he would be seen frequently in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

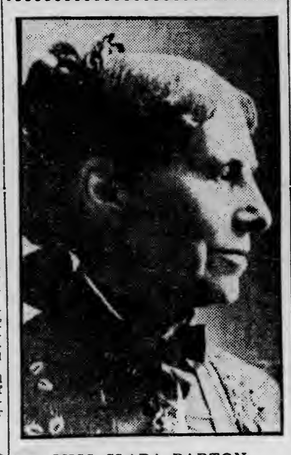

"The report that I will stay in Minnesota until the next state campaign is absolutely untrue," said Mr. Day.

Marfa, Tex., Feb. 13.—Delayed advices received here today clear up suspense over results of the fighting between insurrectos and federals around Mulata. The last word received during the middle of last week, told of federal reverses in an assault upon rebel lines at Mulata. News today says the tide of battle remained the same with the result of the federals retreated to Ojinaga their base of supplies. The insurrectos were unable to check Luque's retreat. Their supply of ammunition was exhausted. The federal loss was forty killed and wounded. The insurrecto loss was one killed and wounded throughout the two days' battle. Their leader, Ortega had provided excellent defensive works against the federals. The insurgents fought from behind breastworks, stone heaps and trees. It reminded one of days of fighting when the Indian combated the Westward march of the Yankee.

Senator Curtis Opposes Revised Resolution on Election of Senators.

Favors Joint Resolution Providing for Direct Vote By People.

Washington, Feb. 13.—As "one of the senators from Kansas," Senator Curtis today addressed the senate in opposition to the revised resolution, proposing to submit to the states a constitutional amendment for the election of senators by direct vote. All through his speech, Senator Curtis burled attacks at his colleague, Senator Bristow, for approving the amended resolution.

Senator Curtis said that he was in favor of a constitutional amendment looking to the election of senators by direct vote but he was not willing that it should be amended so congress should give up all its rights to make or alter the regulations of a state for the election of United States senators. This, he said, was what the amended resolution would provide. The amended resolution, if its substance was approved by the states, would result in the state's disfranchising colored voters if they so desired, without congress being able to raise a hand, he said.

Favors Joint Resolution.

"I strongly favor the joint resolution to provide for the election of senators by a direct vote of the people," said Senator Curtis. "But I do not think it should be burdened with the objectionable and unfair provisions placed in it by a majority of the committee, and as one of the senators

MURDER IS MOST ATROCIOUS ONE

Four Wealthy Stockmen Are Killed in Nevada Without Cause.

Alturas, Cal., Feb. 13.—Details received here of the murder of Harry Cambron, J. B. Lexague, Peter Framuspe and B. Indiano, wealthy stockmen of this county, whose bodies have been found near Denio, Nev., show the tragedy to be one of the most atrocious crimes in the history of this region.

The men were all unarmed and intent on a peaceful mission at the sheep camps near Denio when they were shot down and stripped of clothing and valuables. Their bodies were concealed in a hidden cave.

Indiano left home three weeks ago to meet the other three ranchers at Denio and accompany them to their camps. The road to Denio and from there to the sheep camp leads through Little High Rock canyon, four miles from the town.

When he arrived in Denio, Indiano told of seeing several freshly slaughtered beeves lying on the hides in the canyon, also of seeing two horsemen near the place. It is the theory of the dead men's friends that Indiano surprised cattle thieves at their work and that the rustlers, seeing him returning with others, thought he had gone for help to give battle and fired on the party from ambush. The bodies of the murdered men were taken to Engleville.

The sheriff of Washoe county came here yesterday to recruit a posse and take up the man hunt. The party set out immediately, taking besides a company of well mounted men, several Indian trailers and a pack of bloodhounds.

FRENCHMEN ARE MUCH INTERESTED

Think Reciprocity Arrangement With Canada May Hurt Their Trade.

Paris, Feb. 13.—The French government is much interested in the plan for reciprocal trade relations maturing between the two great governments of North America, while French exporters are plainly apprehensive.

The first foreign arrangement made by France under her new scientific tariff was with Canada, and there is a feeling here that a close commercial union of the United States and Canada will have the effect ultimately of diminishing French trade with the dominion.

Writing for the Journal des Debats, Baron Robert de Caix sees in the proposed agreement a force tending to detach Canada from Great Britain and draw her into a political nearness to the United States through great material advantages to both nations. The writer thinks that the relations of the other great colonies to the British empire may also be affected by the action of Canada and the results of the new policy.

WOULD NOT LIVE ALONE

Woman Kills Herself and Son on the Death of Husband.

Carries Out Compact Made Before the Man Died.

Oxford, Maine, Feb. 13.—In fulfillment of a compact made with her husband during his lingering illness, which death ended Saturday, Mrs. Linwood S. Keene took her own life yesterday, after having fatally shot her 14-year-old son Gerald. The compact, dated about a month back, was found by the coroner in a sealed envelope in the woman's room.

Keene was once a prosperous farmer, but according to the compact, the family had become impoverished and discouraged during his long sickness. He was 38 years old and his wife a year or two his junior.

The document found in a dresser in Mrs. Keene's room along with several farewell letters to relatives, bore the names of both Mr. and Mrs. Keene, although the husband, apparently, had been too feeble to make more than his mark, and his name was written by his wife. The document recited briefly the family troubles, the result of Mr. Keene's illness. In it his death was predicted and it was stated that as both the parents thought it would be wrong to have their son remain in the world to suffer the troubles they had experienced, Mrs. Keene bound herself to "do away," in the words of the compact, with herself and their son, Gerald, as soon as possible after the death of the husband and father.

Friends of the family, who were in the house preparing the body of Mr. Keene for burial, heard shots fired up-

I have been for years an intense sufferer from rheumatism, with the added tortures of stomach and bowel trouble and you can realize what I have had to endure—I am now enjoying real health for the first time in a decade, and I give all thanks to the merits of the Loughney & Loughney Bake Ovens. It was none other than this medium through which I so wonderfully recovered.

"No one who has not been a sufferer from rheumatism has the least idea of what great pain and continual agony it brings. I tried everything. I resorted to all kinds of experiments, but none gave me anything like permanent relief until I sought Loughney & Loughney's Bako Oven treatment. I took a course of treatments and began to improve from the start. I feel liko a new man. In my case the change was almost miraculous. I eat and sleep well. I have no more pains and today I feel as if I had been born again.

500 INDIAN LAND CASES HINGE ON LEGAL POINT

Government Claims Indian Lands Still Belong to Uncle Sam.

Judge Morris Hearing Arguments on Demurrer to Test Cases.

The right of the government of the United States to bring actions for the annullment of conveyances of allottments by Indians of the White Earth reservation to other parties, is at stake in a proceeding in United States court today.

Before Judge Morris arguments are being presented on demurrers by the defendants to the government's complaints and on exceptions to answers filed by the defendants in other cases In aall, about 500 cases have been filed and six of these have been selected on which to make arguments.

The government bases its right to bring the actions on the allegation that the Indian lands are owned by the government in fee simple and allottment to the Indians conveys only the right to live on and enjoy the lands for a period of twenty-five years, after which a patent giving title in fee may be given. The defendants claim that the government has no title in fee, that the treaty of 1867 with the Mississippi bands of the Chippewa Indians gave the bands title to the lands of the White Earth reservation and the selection of allottments by individual Indians gave them the title in fee and the government has no right to restrain them individually in their disposition of the land. It is further contended by the defendants that the queston of the validity of the conveyances made by the Indians is one for a court of law and not for a court of equity, and all of the proceedings have been brought in equity.

Two Classes of Cases.

The cases, which have been filed in the Sixth judicial district, are divided into two classes, one involving lands conveyed by full bloods and the other involving land conveyed by heirs of mixed bloods without obtaining the consent of the secretary of the interior as required by the regulations. Six cases, which have been agreed upon by the attorneys as embodying in them all the fundamental points on which the ruling of the court is desired by all parties, have been selected for argument at the proceeding here.

The action against Hovey C. Clark involves the complete conveyance of land by an Indian; that against Albert O. Nachon involves a conveyance of timber, and that against the First National Bank of Detroit, Minn., involves a mortgage of an allottment by an Indian. The other cases are against the Park Land company, Nichols-Chisholm Lumber company and W. B. Davis.

The government is represented here by Judge M. B. Burch of Washington, assistant attorney general; W. P. Norton of Denver and Arthur M. Seckell of New York, special assistant attorney general, and C. C. Houpt, United States district attorney for Minnesota, R. J. Powell of Minneapolis, and C. M. Johnston of Detroit, Minn., are appearing for the defendants.

History of Indian Treaties.

Mr. Powell opened his argument this morning in support of the demurrers he has filed against the government's actions. He indicated that his argument would be a long one, would go into the history of the United States from the first dealings of the colonists with the Indians down to the present condition of the Indians as dependants of the government and would go fully into the treaties made with the Indians at different times and the significance of their provisions.

"This question as to the right, title and sovereignty of the United States over the White Earth reservation is one of the great questions which will concern us in this argument," he said, "it necessitates examining into the fundamental principles of the organization of the government of the United States; it necessitates examining into the fundamental documents on which the state organization of Minnesota is founded and it necessitates going into a century or more of dealings between the government and the Indians."

Mr. Powell said that the question of the title of the government to the reservation lands and the possession of those lands by the government is a question of law, which must be ascertained from treaties and acts of congress, of which the courts have taken judicial notice. He contended that the court sitting in equity should not decide the question.

Indians as Nations.

Mr. Powell states as his first proposition that by the laws of the United States and treaties and solemn contracts with the Chippewa Indians, culminating in the treaty of 1867 with the Mississippi bands, title to the reservation lands passed from the government to those bands of Indians; that when an individual indian made his selection of allottment, title to that allotment passed to him; that any attempt to restrain the individual is ineffectual, because it is contrary to the provisions of contracts.

Mr. Powell took up various Indian treaties and decisions of courts to show that the United States government has always dealt with Indians as nations and not with individuals. He said the United States supreme court has held that the Cherokee nation is a nation and that every treaty of the government has dealt with the Indian nations as nations capable of self-government and capable of holding lands. He said that the relations of the government and the Indians, as guardian and ward, is but a figure of speech and is interpreted too literally by government officials. Mr. Powell suspended his argument for the noon recess.

Chaotic Conditions.

Conditions at the White Earth reservation are chaotic in the extreme. Allotments have been transferred by the Indians, retransferred and transferred some more. The actions brought by the government to annul conveyances are brought in each case against the party now in possession or claiming possession, the theory being that that party is the one putting a cloud on the government's title.

The government claims that it owned the lands in fee simple. When allotments were made, it is claimed that only a trust patent was given, the Indian to have the right to use and enjoy the land for himself alone for twenty-five years, after which time the president would have a right to issue a patent giving title in fee. The government claims that full-blooded Indians or minor mixed bloods, had no right to convey their lands under the Clapp amendment, but many of them mistood their rights or willfully violated the restrictions placed upon them and gave what purported to be valid conveyances. It is alleged by the government that the trust patents issued to the Indians conveyed no vested rights and the purchasers under conveyances from Indians of the restricted classes acquired no rights.

Consent Not Obtained.

In the other class of cases, conveyances are alleged to have been made after the death of mixed bloods without the consent of the secretary of the interior having been obtained. Under the Clapp amendment, mixed bloods have the right to convey their lands, but should a mixed blood die before conveying his land, his heirs can convey only after obtaining the consent of the secretary of the interior. That consent not having been obtained in many cases, it is claimed by the government that such conveyances are also void.

Over five hundred cases have already been filed, and hundreds more are expected to be filed, if the demurrers of the defendants in the actions pending are not sustained. The land in the White Earth reservation is rich and valuable, and it is claimed that in many cases the Indians executed conveyances for considerations far below the real value of the land. The question is a big one, and is of great interest all through Minnesota, hundreds of people in the thirty-six towns included in the reservation being vitally interested in the result.

COMMITTEE WILL REPORT FAVORABLY

Sulloway Pension Bill Adopted By Vote of 8 to 3.

Washington, Feb. 13.—By a vote of 8 to 3 the senate committee on pensions toay agreed to report to the senate the Sulloway general pension bill, which has already passed the house. It was amended so that the annual cost in addition to the $153,000,000 estimated for the ensuing year, will be about $45,000,000. As the bill passed the house it would have cost about $50,000,000.

Senator McCumber, chairman of the committee, opposed the Sulloway bill and endeavored to have the committee report a measure which would cost for the first year about $8,300,000. He was joined by Senators Gore and Tallaferro in making up the minority report on the final vote.

As passed by the house, the Sulloway bill would increase the monthly pension of veterans of 62 years from $12 to $15; of 65 years from $12 to $20; of 70 years from $15 to $25, and from 70 or more from $20 to $36. The senate committee by a vote of 6 to 5, reduced the proposed maximum allowance from $36 to $30. As there are estimated to be 63,461 veterans who would be affected by this amendment at the present time, the change would decrease the annual cost a little more than $4,500,000.

On the statement made by Secretary of the Interior Ballinger the cost of the Sulloway bill as passed by the house would be $45,489,463, but the committee found that there would have to be added to this amount about $4,000,000 to which a limited number of veterans would be entitled under general laws, increasing the total to about $50,000,000 a year.

ROTARY CLUB IS FORMED

Duluth has acquired one of the latest trade devices, in the form of a Rotary club. This organization was launched at a dinner given Saturday evening at the St. Louis in honor of a visiting delegation of Twin City business men, representing the Rotary clubs of St. Paul and Minneapolis. They were enthusiasts in praising the benefits resulting from the organization of their clubs and inspired the Duluthians interested with a desire to emulate them.

The Rotary club is a peculiar organization. It is said that not more than one representative of any particular line of business is permitted to become a member, and that it is obligatory on each of the members to boost the business of all the others. It is sought by this means to increase the volume of business transacted by each and steadily to promote the prosperity of all.

Another of its objects is to attract new manufacturers to the city, seeking out those which produce articles not in competition with the products of manufacturers already here and who are members of the Rotary club. It is said that Rotary clubs in other cities have been potential forces in city and state development enterprises and its promoters say there is no reason why the Duluth club should not be just as valuable an asset for Duluth as the Rotary clubs are to other cities.

President Frank Trasher, Secretary J. MacMartin and Treasurer Frank Waterman of the Minneapolis Rotary club and President F. G. Leslie, Secretary J. W. G. Curtis and Treasurer Charles F. Lovering of the St. Paul Rotary club were among the visitors.

The visitors came to the city in special cars attached to the Lake Superior limited. The occasion was an exceptionally pleasant one, the Duluth business men fraternizing in the most cordial way with the Twin City bosters.

NO MORE PAY FOR CITY OFFICIALS

With the exception of the city assessor, it is not probable that there will be any raise in the salaries of the city officials, made at a meeting of the council tomorrow evening, when the matter will come up as special order business.

The finance committee of the council met today and recommended that the salary of the city assessor be raised from $1,500 to $1,700 a year. A new assessor is to be elected this spring.

WILL HONOR SAILOR DEAD

The 13th anniversary of the blowing up of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor will occur Wednesday, Feb. 15, and a memorial service for the sailors and marines lost in that great disaster will be held at Memorial hall, tomorrow evening by Maj. A. M. Diggles camp, No. 13, United Spanish War Veterans. An invitation has been extended all members of the Spanish War veterans at the Head of the Lakes, also to the members of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The program follows:

Reading, W. C. Kimball, historian, Maj. Diggles' camp; oration, Don Carlos V. Musser, senior vice commander Maj. Diggles camp; address, Rev. Robert A. Ellwood, Atlantic City, N. J., chaplain of the department of Pennsylvania, U. S. W. V.; prayer, W. O. Flodin, chaplain Maj. Diggles camp.

WILL INVESTIGATE.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Governor Eberhart said today that he would investigate the charges made by Former Senator Stephens and will confer with the state board of control and the board of visitors to see what they know about the matter.

No charges against the treatment of the boys at Red Wing have been made except the statements attributed to Mr. Stephens at Crookston.

The governor will ask one or both boards to investigate the charges.

Trade Advantages

Buying Organizations—Trade Prestige—And Facilities for Procuring "Correct Styles," are of many grades and classifications—some people seem to labor under the mistaken impression that various stores enjoy like advantages in the procuring of merchandise.—This is not so!—The class of goods a store is able to present to its customers depends entirely upon the shrewdness of its Buying Forces, and upon the position it maintains in the Commercial World.

The fact that the Gidding Organization has worked itself well to the top of the ladder in the Women's Wear Trade of this Country, and is now backed by the power and prestige of Three Large Stores handling Naught But High Class Apparel, places us in a position to procure Styles that other Local Stores cannot Procure.

WOMAN'S REALM.

Trying to Raise Fund For Statue to Hallam

ALICE FISCHER.

Lewis Hallam brought the first actors to America and presented them in Shakesperian plays. Oddly enough there is no monument to Mr. Hallam in New York. Miss Alice Fischer, who is playing the witch in Percy MacKaye's play, "The Scarecrow," in New York, proposes to remedy this defect and she started a movement to erect a statue of Hallam in New York.

"We want to do some things to make it pleasanter for the people at the poor farm and are working on several plans which will lead toward this object," said Mrs. William S. Woodbridge this morning. Mrs. Woodbridge is the chairman of the Civic Welfare committee of the Woman's council which visits the poor farm and other public places once a month.

"We visited the poor farm last week and as far as the sanitary conditions are concerned, we could find no fault. But the social side was what attracted our attention and we thought perhaps the public would be interested in helping us make it more comfortable for the people there.

"In their reading room they have only benches without backs to sit on, very little literature, and no games of any kind to help them pass their evenings. A great many people doubtless have things which they would be glad to send out if they thought about it and what we want is easy chairs, magazines, books or any reading matter, pictures and games. Dominoes or checkers, would be very good for those people. Of course the county is not authorized to pay out money for things like this, but they would add so much comfort that we determined to get them for them.

"They have a phonograph out there and records, but they can't use them for lack of needles. All the needles that they had are worn out, so we would like needles, too."

Anyone who has anything which they would like to send out there can notify any one of the members of the committee and they will arrange about getting them out. The committee is composed of Mrs. William S. Woodbridge, chairman; Mrs. F. L. Barrows, Mrs. Z. D. Scott, Mrs. I. Bergstrom and Mrs. D. Cohen.

Another plan which they intend to work out is to arrange for some sort of an entertainment to be given out there at least once a month. They will probably get the various clubs to each take a month to provide the entertainment. The different Christian Endeavor societies go out every Sunday and hold a service there.

The women on their visit were very cordially received and were made to feel that they would be welcome to come every month.

Events of This Evening.

THE EVENING STORY

"AT THE ASSIZES"

From the French.

By Irene Maizeroy.

The manager of the Northern bank, Claude La Foret, had succeeded in getting a seat in the front row between a fat wine merchant, much embarrassed by a coat which had become too small for his ample proportions, and a professor, clean shaven with smoothly combed hair, whose figure was reminiscent of a fashion plate.

The role of juryman was quite new to him, and interested him.

He imagined himself at the theater, taking part in the last act of a melodrama.

And while the clerk with monotonous voice, read out the charge, pag by page, he gave a careless glance now at the sinister objects on the table—the bloodstained purse, the knife-torn shirt, and the napkin twisted into a gag; now at the famous advocate for the prosecution, busy with his papers, and reflectively stroking his beard; now at counsel for the defense, as he consulted with his assistants, now at the two assassins, the younger of whom crouched limp as a rag between two warders with bowed head, pale cheecks, and quivering lips, whole the other, lean and restless, dressed in his Sunday best, with a mocking smile on his lips, hair parted over his temples, and head erect, turned a bold face to the gallery; now at the public, as they rustled in their seats, a motley lot, with here and there among them an elegant toilet to be seen.

He thought of his wife and smiled.

How she had sought to persuade him to get a doctor's certificate and be rejected! How her affection had filled her with foolish alarms!

Should he cut himself off from the world, and from all public duty, and take up the life of a hermit at the age of 40 just because he had a slight lesion of the heart? This vulgar case, this miserable crime of degenerates, who, like two beasts of prey, had attacked a luckless bank messenger and put him to death in a rag store—was there anything in that to excite him beyond measure?

Besides, are the best specialists not sometimes mistaken? The heart affection which had troubled him in the winter, was it not merely accidental, the result of overwork? At the same time he began to regret he had caused his wife needless pain, he began to reproach himself for not having submitted to her desire so tearfully and so affectionately expressed, and he began to fear a reprisal of destiny; the presentment of a disaster began to torment him, and he had an impression fate had withdrawn its protection from him.

Meanwhile, clad in black, with a faded bonnet on her head, and staggering like a condemned man walking to the scaffold, trembling and haggard, with furrowed forehead, bent back, and clenched teeth, a poor working woman advanced step by step to the bar and clung to the rail like a shipwrecked sailor to a rock.

Rough toil, the harsh battle for daily sustenance, the bitterness of disappointment, had shrivelled her up body and spirit.

Her face was scarred with deep wrinkles, and violet blotches veined her high cheekbones. The corners of her lips drooped. She was altogether emaciated, altogether angular. And one would have thought she had powdered her hair with dirty cinders.

Of her long-perished beauty and grace the only survivals were her limpid eyes of an uncertain blue, velled with long lashes.

She replied with stammerings and sobs to the questions the judge put to her, in a voice that spoke of his kindliness and pity; then, gaining courage, she spoke louder, pleading "extenuating circumstances" for her boy, her Francois.

"Ah! good sirs," she groaned, "if you but knew how easy he was to bring up; how kind he was even to animals; how I was proud to see his mother; how good a scholar he was, what kisses he gave me! I would have given my last farthing that he should lack nothing. I always dreamed he would make his way and become a gentleman. I fancied more than one rich young lady his wife. * * * How has he been able to forget all this and leave me, since he went to work, since he met this rascal Grailloz?"

She pointed with her hands to the cynical youth who stared mockingly and insolently at her from the dock.

He mimicked her. She hissed in fury. "Villain! Villain!"

The judge interrupted them with a threatening gesture.

The unfortunate woman turned to the jury and continued in a rasping voice:

"Do you see what he has needed, it is a father * * * A father who would have kept him in check, who would have tamed him when he wished to play the man, who would have prevented him gallivanting with bad companions * * * Women are only good for giving their sustenance and their heart to their children, not for showing them their teeth. To be sure, that's what he lost by being a love child. * * * He has good right to cast it up to me. * * * Well, at 17, one never thinks of the morrow * * * A fine evening, some one follows you when you come out of the workshop, speaks to you as they do in story books, offers you a bunch of violets, asks you to meet him * * * Then one day Francois comes, and adieu love and lover. I never knew but my lover's first name. He was called Claude, and he worked in a bank. Maybe he has been happy, and his purse has grown fat, while I have been toiling for two till my back has been like to break. Ah where is the justice to be found in this world?"

She shrieked like a fury, and waved her arms like the black wings of a crow, and her face hardened, and her eyes dilated.

A hush as of the sanctuary filled the court.

And suddenly the financier clasped his tightened breast as if he was being choked in a vice, gasped out some unintelligible words, and fell back dead on the wine merchant, like a falling wall.

OLD SOLDIERS HOLD SERVICE

A Lincoln memorial service was held at Memorial hall Saturday evening by the local posts of the Grand Army of the Republic and the affiliated body, the Women's Relief corps.

The principal addresses of the evening were made by Rev. Robert Yost of the First Presbyterian church and Rev. Arthur Ellwood of Atlantic City, N. J.

Mr. Yost told of Lincoln's characteristics, and drew for his audience many lessons from his life.

Rev. Mr. Ellwood told stories and anecdotes, both from the life of Lincoln and the Civil war.

After "taps" had been sounded, the women served a light lunch.

HEARD IN HOTEL LOBBIES AND ELSEWHERE ABOUT TOWN

Tipping the Waiter for Somebody Else's Good Work—Snow and Education in the Copper Country—Capt. Ennes to Have Fine New Ship—Duluth Lacks Provision for Family of a Negro—Failure of White Way to Materialize Is Bemoaned.

Hotel guests don't see more than half the people employed in the big inns for their comfort and convenience. Now and then a hotel guest sees a chamber maid flitting through the hall, and he sees other employes not so easy to identify, at times, but he doesn't come into actual contact, ordinarily, with any but the clerks, office staff, bell boys, porters and waiters. Also, probably, bartenders.

It was in this connection that a much traveled Duluthian proposed a reform. It is not certain this reform will be enthusiastically received in certain quarters.

"When you tip a waiter, what are you compensating him for?" asked the traveled one. "Are you tipping him because the cook had your steak broiled just to your taste? Are you tipping him because the man behind mixed the cocktail just as it should be mixed? No. You're tipping him because you've got the habit, like all the rest of us.

"I'm no grouch. I like to tip people who do things for me. But just the same, it seems to me it would be better to have a 'Kitty' at each table in a cafe and whenever the spirit moves you to tip somebody you can feed the kitty. The management will supervise the distribution of the fund, and everybody who had a hand in the job of pleasing you will get his or her just share.

"But I don't suppose my suggestion will be acted upon."

James Sliney, who formerly taught school in the Copper country, but reformed and has of recent years been teaching Duluthians the advantages of insurance, was recalling some of the incidents that marked, but did not mar his career in Michigan, which happens to be his native state.

"Most decidedly I'm not the oldest inhabitant," he said, "but it is everybody's privilege to talk about the weather, and I would observe that we don't have snowfalls like we used to have. In the Copper country it snowed snow and lots of it, when I was a boy. I remember that we often saw tunnels dug from the doors of shacks. They were real tunnels, too—not mere trenches.

"The top of the snow would freeze pretty hard and the boys had a habit of playing pranks, as boys will. One of their tricks was to carefully remove a cake from the top of the snow and dig a deep hole there. Then they would replace the cake and wait in unholy glee for the next passing pedestrian to fall into the trap. And the trap was so placed that Mr. Pedestrian was pretty sure to step on it.

"Speaking of school days reminds me of an incident that came afterwards, but was connected with school affairs. I had been a teacher and was well informed concerning conditions in the district in which I lived at the time. The schoolhouse was a dilapidated structure, partially heated by a stove of the big, old-fashioned box type.

"As a heating system it was decidedly a failure, and the seating arrangements were far from desirable. I attended a school meeting for the purpose of doing what I could to remedy matters. The district school director was present, but the county school commissioner presided. The director ran things to suit himself. He was an illiterate old codger and was to blame for the defects of which I complained. The commissioner called for the reading of the minutes of the last meeting, and the director handed them over, requesting the commissioner to read. I objected, saying the proper official should perform that duty. That was the director. He hemmed and hawed, and at last said he couldn't read without his glasses, and those he had left at home. I stuck to my point of order and insisted that he read the minutes, offering to go to his home for the glasses. He was afraid I wouldn't be able to find them. Then I moved that a committee be appointed to accompany him home during a recess and assist him in the search.

"Well the upshot of it all was, after a stormy session, that the director confessed his inability to read. After that it wasn't much of a job to replace him as director with a man fit for the place."

C. M. Ennes, master of the ill-fated steamer Moreland, which went aground and was destroyed at Eagle River last season, is going to command a new boat that the Jones & McLaughlin firm is building.

Capt. Ennes has many friends in Duluth who will be pleased to learn that he will have just as good a vessel this year as is afloat on the lakes. The name of the new craft has not been made public, but friends have received word from the captain that it is arranged for him to command the vessel.

The destruction of the Moreland was one of the sensations of the shipping season on the lakes. Capt. Ennes was not held blameable, but he assumed all the responsibilities nevertheless. His selection as the man to command the new boat is said by his friends to be an expected and deserved tribute of confidence and esteem on the part of the owners.

Duluth has no place for a negro of family and respectability to live, according to the statement of one of them.

William England of St. Paul has been working in Duluth for some time, but he will not continue for long to do so. He is going back to St. Paul where his family lives.

"The best a negro can get in Duluth is a bedroom in a colored man's lodging house," said England while waiting on a group of business men in the Spalding grill room. "There's no place here where a colored man can go to housekeeping with his wife and children. That's why it is hard to keep us employed here. We've got to have the company of our people just the same as white folks.

"No, I'm not a Southern negro, not directly. I'm from Michigan. Detroit was my home before I went to St. Paul. Our people are buying homes and getting along pretty well, everything considered.

"I like Duluth good enough, but this is no town for us."

"What's become of our nice, new, fine white way, that's what I want to know," said the man who's afraid to go home in the dark. "I understood that Superior street was going to gleam and glitter, to shine and shimmer, and maybe this plan to put a big sign on the hilltop is just a blind—a blind to make everybody fall to see the absence of the pretty lights on Superior street.

"The lights now stretch from the Bowery to St. Croix avenue. 'Nuff said about that. It's nice to have lights along First street, but more important to have lights on Superior street. Duluth can profit more than any other city in the country from a carefully worked out plan of lighting, because of its topography and geography. Because of that fact it seems to me there should be some action pretty soon in the direction of securing for Superior street its necklace of lights.

"True enough, I'm not one of the men who would be assessed for the cost, but I hope to be in that class pretty soon. I've lived in Duluth for quite a while and if I didn't like the town I wouldn't care to say that. The fellows who don't pay a lot of taxes are necessarily shy about proposing public expenditures, but just anonymously I'd like to say it's about time to get action on this lighting question.

"Because I'm afrad to go home in the dark."

LITTLE TIME IN DULUTH

Change in Road Schedule Great Inconvenience to Patrons.

Will Make It Difficult to Return on Same Day.

It is believed that a general protest on the part of travelers on the Iron Range railroad will result, when news of the change in leaving time is generally known among residents of the range who have been in the habit of coming down on the Iron Range road to transact business here and leave on the same afternoon.

Commencing next Monday the leaving time of the Duluth & Iron Range train will be changed from the present time, 3:15 p. m., to 2:45 p. m. There have been frequent requests in the past that the time be changed to a later leaving hour, say 5 o'clock, which would give range people a chance to conduct their business during the afternoon, after their arrival on the noon train, and leave for home with all their work accomplished.

With the train from the range reaching here at noon and leaving at 2:45, there is little chance for range people to do any legal business at the courthouse, as the county offices are not open until 1 or after, and the courts not until 2 p. m. Some of the range people come down here to attend the theaters. If the train left at a later hour it would be possible to see the matinees and go home that same afternoon. Shoppers are affected in the same manner, and visitors will have little time to get their lunch and visit the stores.

There are many reasons why the Duluth & Iron Range should leave at a later hour and few reasons, it would seem, why the officials should put the leaving time forward. All the requests made to date have been for a later leaving time.

GREAT EXPLOSION OF AMMUNITION

Detonations Last for Two and Half Hours at Managua.

Managua, Nicaragua, Feb. 13.—A series of explosions occurred this morning in the ammunition barracks situated within the grounds of the presidential mansion. Great excitement has been caused but the cause of the explosion and the extent of the damage done cannot be determined yet.

The detonations caused by the exploding ammunition was heard constantly two and a half hours after the first explosion. It is impossible to approach the ammunition barracks in order to ascertain if any persons have been killed or wounded.

Martial law has been declared through the city. To safeguard the members of President Estrada's family, they were taken in a coach to the American consulate.

Now Recipe for Home Made Laxative Cough Cure.

A cough or cold is due to congestion and inflammation of the membranes of the throat and lungs. Something to overcome the congestion is necessary if you expect a cure. Morphine and chloroform preparations relieve, but they do not cure—only aggravate ultimately and weaken the natural resistance and health.

Here is a formula that will cure chronic cases of old people and acute coughs of old or young:

Essence mentho-laxene..2½ Ozs.
Granulated sugar syrup.13½ Ozs.

Get the essence mentho-laxene of any well stocked druggist, empty it into a pint bottle and fill up the bottle with syrup made as follows: Take a pint of granulated sugar, pour over it a half pint of boiling water, stir and let cool. Then add it to the mentho-laxene and take a teaspoonful every hour or two as needed.

This will break up any cold, cure sore throat, relieve coughing instantly, loosen the tightest cough and soon cure by its laxative tonic action, differing from everything every heard of.

Try this simple but effectual formula and you will forever bless the day you learned of it, and you'll save $3 or $4 besides.

MEETINGS OF PROTEST

Socialists Hold Gatherings Despite Pardon Extended to Fred Warren.

Yesterday Socialists held meetings over the length and breadth of the United States. The meetings were advertised as being "in defense of free speech, free thought and the right of full and unrestricted citizenship." Morris Kaplan and John A. Keyes of this city spoke at Carlton, where there was a big celebration. For some reason there was no demonstration in Duluth, many of the Socialists of this city going to Carlton.

The sentencing of Fred Warren was really the foundation of the various meetings planned throughout the country yesterday. Warren was sentenced to serve a sentence of six months' imprisonment and to also pay a fine of $1,500. This sentence was for Warren's advertisement offering a reward for the capture and return to Kentucky of ex-Governor Taylor.

President Taft pardoned Warren and also commuted his fine to $100, which could be collected only by civil process. This act upon the part of the president may have tended to take some of the fiery oratory from some of the meetings, but Morris Kaplan, speaking of the meeting at Carlton, stated that it was turned into one calling for a general protest for free rights of speech and thought.

Though the sentence of Warren was the basis of the meetings yesterday, the fact that the president of the United States pardoned him and reduced his fine, did not, in the main, according to Mr. Kaplan, prevent the meetings from carrying out their original intention and making a protest in general against any interference with the rights of free speech, being it Socialistic or otherwise.

"What effect these meetings will have on the attitude of the municipal authorities in various parts of the country, cannot be foretold at the present time," said Mr. Kaplan. "As we grow in power we will be more respected and also left to have our rights, simply from motives of self protection. When the head of a great country finds that an order is growing it is natural that he should take an increasing interest in that order, that his mind will become more used to considering what the members of this order will do or think of certain acts that will vitally affect them.

"The treatment of Fred Warren aroused the Socialists over the country. The president did something very unusual in pardoning a man who never sought the pardon or even courted it. It may be that he realized the utter injustice of the sentence and was brought to his act by the thousands of protests that went up over the face of this country. It is very probable also that he realized at the same time the growing power of Socialism and further came to the belief that here was a cause that was to be reckoned with.

"In Duluth we have never had any trouble to speak of with the police or any other authorities. In other parts of the country this has not always been the case. But it was the sentence of Fred Warren that really caused the call for the meetings of yesterday, and the calling of the meetings resulted in a general protest for rights of speech among the people, be they Socialists, Democrats or Republicans."

TWO BILLS ARE OPPOSED BY CLUB.

Two bills that have been introduced in the legislature have attracted the antagonistic attention of the Duluth Commercial club and will be actively opposed by that organization. These particular bills relate to waterways. One of these measures provides for the appointment of a commission to evolve and execute a comprehensive plan of waterway development and to have custody of the waterways of the state. This project contemplates the ultimate expenditure of $36,000,000, an amount far in excess, according to the Commercial club sentiment, of what the project deserves.

The other bill provides for the appointment of a commission to make a survey and report on the waterways of Minnesota. This scheme involves an expense of $40,000. The measures were considered by the executive committee.

RAID RENDEZVOUS FOR TRAMPS

What is characterized by the police as one of the worst hang-outs for "bums" in the city was raided at an early hour this morning by Patrolmen Dickman and Wright, who arrested eight men and brought them to police headquarters, where charges of vagrancy were placed against them.

They were taken from the basement of a saloon on Lake avenue south near the viaduct. All of them were hard-looking characters, either unshaven or with unkempt beards. Part of them were but half clothed, having evidently made use of any garment which they were able to pick up.

The police claim that they have been loafing about during the daytime, consorting with drunken lumberjacks for the drinks or the money they could get out of them. At night the police state that they have been sleeping in the basement, on dirty, improvised cots or the bare floor. They gave their names as Andrew Larson, George Pesonen, Arthur Sillanpaa, Paul Saari, John Makl, John Longquist, John Ketola and Charles Laino. All but Saari and Makl entered pleas of guilty when arraigned in police court this morning, and got $40 and costs or thirty days. They took the thirty days because they couldn't help themselves. The others will have their trials tomorrow afternoon.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

RAIN

Unsettled weather is looked for at the Head of the Lakes during the next thirty-six hours.

This morning a genuine February thaw set in, with a light drizzling rain falling, and it made it very difficult for pedestrians to keep their footing.

The sun rose this morning at 7:16 and will set at 5:29, making ten hours and thirteen minutes of sunlight.

A year ago today the weather was fair and clear.

Mr. Richardson makes the following comment on weather conditions:

"The low pressure conditions central this morning over Kansas and British Columbia caused rain or snow over Southern states and the Far West during the last twenty-four hours, besides milder weather in all districts lying between the Mississippi river and the Rocky mountains. Light rains fell over Kansas and Oklahoma during the last forty-eight hours. An increase in pressure over the Rocky mountains is attended by colder weather, but the temperature is rising again in the plateau region. At the Head of the Lakes the weather during the ensuing thirty-six hours will be somewhat unsettled and the temperature may become a little colder tonight."

Chicago, Feb. 13.—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Tuesday:

Wisconsin and Minnesota—Unsettled weather with rain or snow tonight or Tuesday.

Upper Michigan—Rain or snow tonight or Tuesday.

North Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; warmer tonight.

South Dakota—Generally fair tonight and Tuesday; moderate temperature.

Iowa—Unsettled with rain tonight or Tuesday.

Montana—Cloudy. In east, probably rain or snow in west portion tonight and Tuesday; warmer in extreme east portion tonight.

Shippers forecast: Protect thirty-six-hour shipments of perishables against temperatures 5 deg. to 20 deg. above zero in the Eastern Dakotas, Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin.

The Man For Whom The Nation and the World Mourned Alike

Over a Hundred Years Ago Today

In a lonely Kentucky cabin one cold and wintry night, unto an humble pair came a child to greatness born.

Amidst surroundings profound and solitary he grew up to man's estate, and in power of mind and thought and strength of body, developed the full flower of his individuality.

In due time the world acclaimed him the greatest American since Washington, and the greatest and most heroic exponent of Human Liberty that has trod the earth for two thousand years.

In the days of his young manhood there was alarm and terror in the land and frightful domination. At twenty on the Mississippi's lordly bosom, he toiled at the oar for bread. At twenty-four he was a pioneer chief and a captain in the Black Hawk war. At twenty-five he was a rising young legislator—at twenty-six he was an eloquent lawyer defending the cause of the weak and oppressed. At thirty-seven be became a congressman.

Then fame threw her mantle upon him, and step by step he rose to place and power, until at last, in the government of a vast republic and in the affections of mankind he stood alone and absolute.

If ever there lived beneath the skies a Christian hero of sincere and profound piety, a true champion of the Lord of Hosts, it was Abraham Lincoln.

He spoke softly—he thought fearlessly—but like fire flamed his heart.

To the cause of the great common people he gave limitless allegiance, and nothing made him more indignant than legislative tyranny or usurpation of any kind. "He disliked sumptuary laws, and would not prescribe by statute what other men should eat and drink."*

Upon a famous occasion he declared "When the white man governs himself that is self-government—but when he governs himself and also another man that is more than self-government—that is Despotism."

Again when fellow legislators attempted to impose absolute prohibition upon the young state of Illinois, he arose [Dec. 19, 1840] "like Saul among the Prophets," and tabled a motion which led to its defeat and final extinction by a sweeping vote of 75 to 8."

Such was the record of that beloved American—a constant and consistent exponent of the right to exercise in moderation, liberties, civil, religious and personal.

So today stand the liberty-loving people of this broad land on the question of the right of the people to eat and drink what they desire.

WEST END

BOAT CLUB FOR WEST END

Motor Boat Enthusiasts Planning to Erect Substantial Building.

Meeting Will Be Called Soon to Form Organization.

Motor boat owners of the western section of the city are looking forward to the permanent organization of a West End Boat club this spring, the main object in view being the erection of a substantial club house on the Twenty-first avenue west slip.

Difficulties arising between the Northern Pacific road and the boat owners in coming to an agreement as to the lease of property desired by the club last fall, may be cleared up this spring, in which event an up to date and substantial boat club may be built.

John Moir, grocer and motor boat enthusiast, who is behind the movement to have a boat club, states that when the railroad officials were approached last fall by the boat owners, they refused to give anything but a short-time lease on the property. The boat owners could not see their way clear to make expensive improvements without being more sure of their footing.

When Whitney Bros., contractors, put in a sand dock on the east side of the Twenty-first avenue slip last fall, between twenty and thirty boat owners were forced to move their boat houses across to the other side of the slip. This property is owned by the railroad and the boat owners want to lease it and erect a substantial club house this spring.

There are about thirty boat owners who are affiliated with the boat club movement and it is expected that a meeting will be called early in the spring to complete the organization.

CHINESE NEW YEAR OBSERVED

Chinese Residents of Duluth and Range Towns Enjoy Banquet.

Duluth was the scene of a unique banquet last evening when the Chinese residents of the city and the range towns gathered at the Mandarin cafe, 103 West Superior street, to commemorate the anniversary of their New Year. The day fell on Jan. 15, but it was postponed at that time in order that the preparations might be completed for a more elaborate celebration than was possible at that time.

Invitations had been sent to all the towns and cities tributary to Duluth and thirty-five guests sat down to the spread, consisting of ten courses of the most famed of Oriental dishes, from soup to desert. Chop sticks and other Chinese table utensils were in evidence, but all were garbed in the American costume. The conversation, however, would have been unintelligible to an outsider. All he could have understood would have been the popular airs which were played on the piano in an adjoining room.

The cafe was closed to business from 8 to 10 o'clock in the evening in order that the guests might not be interrupted in their enjoyment of the occasion. It was probably the most memorable celebration of the Chinese New Year that has occurred in this part of the state.

As nearly as it can be transcribed the menu was as follows:

Menu: 1. Kai Yong Yen Wor; 2. Gook Far Yu Do; 3. Ying Hong How Get; 4. Fing Ton Bark Up; 5. Fat Toy How Chee; 6. Yen Young Kai; 7. Woo Dip Hoy Tom; 8. Sub Gum Long Har; 9. Fing Ton Bo Yu; 10. Hong Lo Gook.

QUEUE THE SUBJECT OF MUCH RIDICULE

Newspapers of China Print Cartoons Making Fun of the Pig-Tail.

Pekin, Feb. 13.—A curious agitation, significant of the times, is going on throughout China with regard to the queue. The pig-tail is being ridiculed by all progressives as an emblem, indicative of backwardness, distinguishing the Chinese from all other civilized peoples. Cartoons appear regularly in the newspapers, showing the advantage of the queue to the assistant of the headsman in the act of decapitating a criminal or depicting the various animals that wear the tail, the dog and the pig being in the foreground.

Editorials denounce the custom, and new groups of men and associations are daily falling into the line of reform. Progressive military officers, newspaper men or employes of foreigners meet together and agree to sacrifice their queues, and then hold a firecracker festival to celebrate the performance publicly.

The general movement is meant to indicate the change of ideas that has come over the nation's advanced men. It has been followed by hundreds in the treaty ports, but in the conservative capital, where the official spirit prevails, the movement has received slight checks. For instance, the movement amongst students of the imperial university was speedily suppressed by the faculty giving to the first students appearing without the appendage one-third the number of demerits necessary for dismissal. On the other hand, a newspaper, which printed the statement that the empress dowager was against the change, suffered suppression for the period of one week.

FOR TOTAL ABSTINENCE.

President Taft Sounds Keynote in Letter to Sunday Schools.

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 13.—President Taft in a letter dated Dec. 29, 1910, and read in 3,000 Sunday schools in the United States yesterday, sounded the keynote of a total abstainers' movement. The letter is addressed to Sunday school pupils as "My Dear Young Friends," and reads:

"The excessive use of intoxicating liquor is the cause of a great deal of the poverty, degradation and crime of the world, and one who abstains from the use of such liquor avoids a dangerous temptation. Abraham Lincoln showed that he believed this in writing out for his boyhood friends the pledge of total abstinence so often quoted. Each person must determine for himself the course he will take in reference to his tastes and appetities; but those who exercise the self-restraint to avoid altogether the temptation of alcoholic liquor, are on the safer and wiser side."

Dr. Howard H. Russell of Westernville, Ohio, founder of the Anti-saloon league, also is founder of the Lincoln legion, which instigated today's services throughout the United States.

Priest Had Gun.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 13.—Discovering Raoul Vasedur, aged 26, in the act of robbing the mite box of the St. Alphonsus church yesterday, Father Johns fired a bullet into the floor to halt the thief. The priest held Vacedur captive until the police arrived.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

GAVE DRINK TO REDSKIN

Another Cass Lake Lawbreaker Caught Redhanded and Sent to Prison.

J. H. Parkhurst Seen Giving Indian "High Sign," Then Some Liquor.

Cass Lake, Minn., Feb. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—J. H. Parkhurst, who came here recently from Wisconsin, is today on his way to the state penitentiary to begin serving a sentence as a result of his being caught red-handed Saturday afternoon giving liquor to an Indian. He was hurried before Judge Ives soon after being arrested on the charge of furnishing liquor to an Indian and bound over. He was taken to Bemidji on the evening train and arraigned before Judge Stanton in district court, where he pleaded guilty. The court fined him $50 and costs and sentenced him to six months in Stillwater.

Gave Indian a Flask.

Marshal Lilly was suspicious of Parkhurst when he was seen going up to an Indian and opening his coat evidently giving the "high sign," after which the two walked through an alley where Parkhurst was seen handing something over to the Indian. Parkhurst was arrested and also the Indian, who was searched and a pint bottle of whisky found in his possession. At first Parkhurst denied having giving the Indian the liquor, but finally confessed, saying that he did not think he was doing anything wrong. He is a recent arrival here, having worked several weeks in a logging camp in this vicinity and came to town Saturday to spend the day.

After the hearing before Judge Ives the prisoner was taken by Deputy sheriff Mack Kennedy on the evening train to Bemidji, where he was brought before Judge Stanton with the result stated.

This makes two convictions secured in Cass Lake within a week of parties making a habit of furnishing liquor to Indians and this should put a check to the practice. Cass Lake's police officers are vigilant in the matter and run down every possible clew showing the least sign of Indians obtaining liquor.

Parkhurst and Andrew McCormick, who was convicted on a similar charge a few days previous and is now in the county jail at Walker, were taken to Stillwater today to begin serving time.

WANTS ELECTION PROBE.

Burke County, N. D., Asks for Grand Jury Investigation.

Minot, N. D., Feb. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—A petition is being circulated among the taxpayers of Burke county to Judge Leighton, asking that a grand jury be called when the next term of court convenes in that county, to investigate the so-called election frauds in connection with the last election. It is alleged that the county officials did not distribute either supreme court ballots or county seat ballots in the Lignite district until threatened with a mandamus from the district court. The failure of the canvassing board to canvass all the precincts will also be brought to the attention of the jury, it being alleged that the canvassing board threw out every precinct in the county where Lignite had a majority for county seat.

YOUNG SPERRY IS BOUND OVER

Accuser of Summerfield Held for Killing of Aneta, N. D., Youth.

Anota, N. D., Feb. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Clyde Sperry, a youth of this city was bound over to the district court on the charge of manslaughter in the first degree after a hearing before Judge C. F. Templeton of Grand Forks which lasted all day Saturday. Sperry is charged with the crime of killing young Kenneth McKenzie on the night of Oct. 16, 1909. His being held is the direct result of a statement he made to State's Attorney S. G. Skulason and Sheriff Johnson laying the crime on Louis Summerfield of Milnor, then under arrest, but later discharged.

Sperry on the stand admitted telling the story implicating Summerfield but said "that it was false and was wormed out of him by leading questions and that he was induced by fear of punishment and threats of immunity to tell the story. Both the state's attorney and sheriff denied on the stand using such tactics while the evidence of the various other witnesses called convinced the presiding judge that Sperry knew more of the burning to death of Kenneth McKenzie than he had yet told Deer River Man President of North Central Teachers' Association.

Bemidji, Minn., Feb. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Selecting Bemidji again as the meeting place in 1912 for the North Central Minnesota Teachers' association, the convention held here Thursday, Friday and Saturday ended Saturday.

One of the most interesting addresses of the convention was the talk on "Teaching Agriculture in the Common Schools" by Supt. A. D. Wilson of the extension department of the college of agriculture.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Supt. George E. Keenan, Deer River, president; Anna Olson, Cass Lake, vice president; W. P. Dyer, Bemidji, secretary and treasurer.

The committee on resolutions made their report and it was accepted. The resolutions thank the Bemidji people for their hospitality and continue:

"That we deplore the lack of a suitable building for the college of education at the University of Minnesota, and we heartily favor granting its request for $100,000 to remodel Pillsbury hall for the use of the college.

"That a law be passed giving authority to boards of education in all districts to make contracts with superintendents for a term of years not to exceed three.

More Money for Training Schools.

"We ask for an increase in legislative appropriations for summer training schools for teachers, for an appropriation to maintain the agricultural contest work of the state.

"We favor all legislation tending toward the introduction of the training of agriculture and the industrial subjects in all the schools of the state and more especially in the rural schools.

"We heartily indorse the proposed law increasing the length of term and the salary of the county superintendent of schools.

"We heartily indorse taxation of state land or any measure granting an appropriation, the distribution of which will be based on the state land acreage.

"We indorse the outline of legislation as proposed by the legislative committee in regard to provisions for consolidation, supervision of rural schools and lengthening of the school year in common school districts, and increasing the number of days' attendance required for state apportionment.

"We favor the extension of the power of the state superintendent by liberal appropriations for additional assistants and clerical help, in order that the department may more effectively direct all phases of educational effort in the state.

PREVENTS PLANE UPSETTING.

Minister Patents Device That May Solve Aeroplane Problem.

Carrington, N. D., Feb. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Rev. R. Paton, pastor of the Congregational church in this city, has just been allowed patents on aeroplane improvements that promise to do away with the danger of machines turning over suddenly while in the air. The device consists of a pendulum arrangement at the bottom of which is the seat of the operator. The upper end of the pendulum is connected with the four rudders, one at either side of the plane, one at the front and one at the rear. By a practical system of equilibrium should the aeroplane tilt a little one way the weight of the operator in the pendulum seat instantly and automatically adjusts the proper rudders to swing the aeroplane immediately into a stable position. The working of the rudders is positive and entirely automatic and they respond to the slightest tilting of the machine. The pendulum with the device at the top is the only radical departure from the present method of building and it can be adapted to mono or bi-planes. A model of the invention is on display here and the owner expects to make actual experiments before long.

Do You Enjoy Your Meals?

One of the Most Important Questions to Consider in the Search for Happiness and Health.

The burning question to you is, "Are you getting out of life all the pleasure and the health you are entitled to?" If not, why not?

No matter whether every organ and member of your body is in a sound state of health and strength, if your stomach is in any way disordered, you are not going to be "yourself." You are going to be a worried, out-of-sorts, nervous or sullen individual, whose actions will reflect your condition inside, and people will naturally avoid you.

The world wants to smile and be cheerful, and unless you are cheerful and smile, at least, occasionally, you will have few friends, fewer opportunities, no success, and you will go down in defeat—defeated by dyspepsia and a bad stomach.

A good and thorough digestion has a quick, wonderful reaction upon the brain. You must have noticed it many times, for the brain and stomach are as intimately connected as a needle and its thread, one can hardly be used to advantage without the other. If your stomach is slow and lazy in digesting your food, it will produce at once a slow, lazy and cloudy influence upon your brain. Mark it! If your stomach has absolutely quit work, and fermentation is poisoning your vitals as a result, surely your brain is going to be sluggish and correspondingly depressed. No one need tell you that.

But why continue to suffer all the miseries and torments that a disordered stomach brings you?

If your stomach cannot digest your food, what will? Where's the relief? Where's the cure?

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the relief and the cure. Why? Because, as all stomach troubles arise from indigestion and because one ingredient of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is able to thoroughly and completely digest 3,000 grains of any kind of food, doesn't it stand to reason that these little Dyspepsia Tablets are going to digest all the food and whatever food you put into your stomach? Science nowadays can digest food without having to use the stomach for it. And Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the result of this scientific discovery. They digest and digest thoroughly and well, anything and everything you eat.

So, if your stomach refuses to work or can't work, and you suffer from eructations, bloat, brash, fermentation, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn, irritation, indigestion, or dyspepsia of whatever form, just take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and see the difference. It doesn't cost you much to prove it. Then you can eat all you want, what you want, whenever you want, if you use these tablets, and you can look the whole world in the face with a beaming eye and you will have a cheerful spirit, a pleasant face, a vigorous body and a clear mind and memory and everything will look and taste delicious to you. That's life.

Get a package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store on earth for 50c a package.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Reed denied before the judge that he had anything to do with taking the coal, although he admitted that he had an idea that it came from the Soo car.

NORTH DAKOTA COUNTY COMMISSIONERS TO MEET.

Minot, N. D., Feb. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The fourth annual convention of the county commissioners of the state convenes in this city tomorrow and the city is prepared to entertain between 300 and 400 visitors. The meetings will continue until Thursday evening and one of the most important matters to be taken up and one which will take up a great deal of time is that regarding a fair and equitable system of taxation and assessments. The present law which requires all property to be assessed at full value has not been followed by any county and different percentages of the full value have been adopted. For this reason the assessment has been very uneven and many of the counties have contributed more than their share of the state taxes. Whatever plan is adopted it will be presented to the legislators immediately.

LINCOLN DAY IS OBSERVED

The Banks, Stock Markets and Public Offices Are Closed.

Lincoln Memorial Service Is Held at the Courthouse.

The observance of Lincoln's birthday as a holiday is confined almost exclusively today to the banks, stock markets and public offices. Business houses of all kinds are open as usual, schools are in session and some of the public offices are also doing business. State and federal courts are in session.

Many people observed the day yesterday, which was the legal holiday. In the churches, many of the ministers referred to Lincoln in their sermons. The musical program at the Masonic temple was patriotic in its nature and a Lincoln memorial meeting was held at the Y. M. C. A., with Rev. Robert A. Ellwood, pastor of the Boardwalk church of Atlantic City, N. J., as the speaker.

A Lincoln memorial service was held at the Memorial hall in the courthouse Saturday evening, under the auspices of Culver post, G. A. R., and the Women's Relief corps of the post.

Although the schools are in session today, the occasion will not pass without some note. Reference will be made to Lincoln's life and service by the teachers and a lesson will be drawn for the children from the remarkable rise made by the great emancipator from his birth in a log cabin to the the greatest office in the gift of the American people.

which was no small task in itself. But when that was done the work was just begun. It was necessary to go over it with the members from the districts affected by the changes, and to satisfy all of them if possible. It was not possible to satify everybody, of course, but it is safe to say that in both senate and house there is as general satisfaction with the measure as it was possible to expect.

Cities Made Sacrifice.

Every effort was made to avert the possibility of criticism. Some members feared that the cities would be given the best of it, but in each case, in point of fact, the large cities have been given the worst of it, and have cheerfully consented to accept something less than they were entitled to for the sake of getting a reasonably just reapportionment. Both St. Paul and Minneapolis are entitled, on the population figures, to more representation than they are getting from this bill; but to meet the objection from the country that a reapportionment based absolutely on population would give the cities too much power, Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis have been given less than they might have had. It is greatly to the credit of the representatives of the cities that they have accepted this sacrifice cheerfully, and that they will support the bill fervently.

Nothing but words of praise are heard from those who have examined the measure at it stands. It is true that there are one or two cases where it was absolutely impossible, in justice to others, to give members just what they wanted; but that was to be expected.

No Gerrymandering.

On another point sound judgment was used. The Democrats in both house and senate, seeing reapportionment in Republican hands, expected that some attempt would be made to gerrymander the interests of the Republican party, and that Democratic districts might be wiped out. No such thing was done. There was a case or two when the merging of a Democratic district with a Republican district was the logical thing to do; but it wasn't done because the framers of the bill wished to avoid even the appearance of partisan discrimination.

Mr. Congdon had excellent help in the detailed work of framing the bill from W. R. McKenzie, secretary of the Northern Minnesota Development association, and Judge Moen of Fergus Falls, clerk of the committee.

The scheme provided for by the bill as it goes to the committe reduces the senate from 63 members to 61 members and increases the house from 120 members to 126 members. These changes were made solely because it was thereby made easier to apportion representation equitably. The plan is as follows:

St. Louis County Districts.

The five St. Louis county districts, each of which is to be entitled to one senator and two representatives, are as follows:

Fifty-third district—The Seventh and Eighth wards of Duluth; Proctor; the south half of township 50 range 15; all of 50-16, 50-17, and 51-17; and all of St. Louis county lying west of the line between ranges 17 and 18 and south of the line between townships 54 and 55.

Fifty-fourth district—The city of Virginia and all of St. Louis county west of the line between ranges 17 and 18 and north of the line between townships 54 and 55; also all that part of St. Louis county in range 17 north of the line between townships 64 and 65.

Fifty-fifth district—The Fifth and Sixth wards of Duluth; the north half of 50-15; all of 51-15 and 51-16; all the territory (except that included in the city of Virginia) between the lines between ranges 15 and 16 and the lines between 17 and 8, and north of the line between townships 51 and 22 and south of the line between townships 64 and 65; also all of range 16 north of the line between townships 64 and 65.

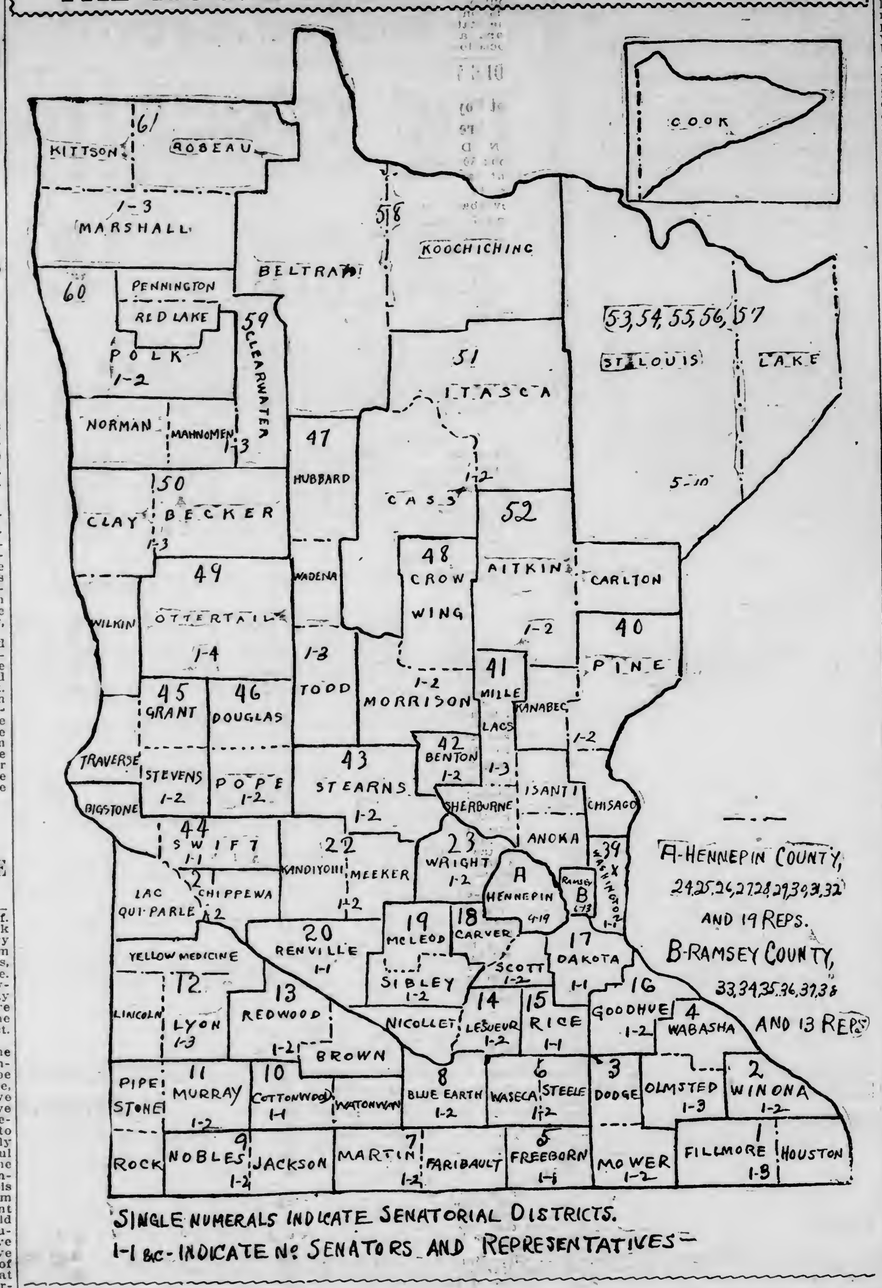

Fifty-sixth district—Second, Third and Fourth wards of Duluth; 51-14 except sections 35 and 36, and all of St. Louis county between the range line between ranges 13 and 14 and the range line between ranges 15 and 16 and north of the line between townships 51 and 52.

Fifty-seventh district—First ward of Duluth, and all of St. Louis county east of the range line between ranges 13 and 14, and Lake and Cook counties.

The Mesaba range has one district all to itself, and the eastern part of the Mesaba, including Eveleth, shares the Fifty-fifth district with the Fifth and Sixth wards of Duluth and the country between. The Fifty-sixth district may be divided so as to give Duluth one house member and the range the other. This has not yet been decided upon, but probably it will be done sooner or later.

the house, probably less drastic in its provisions. The Trimble bill made it mandatory upon insurance companies that they invest a certain percentage of the profits derived from North Dakota business in North Dakota securities.

In the senate tomorrow the medical control bill comes up for final passage on the favorable report of the public health committee of that body. No amendments have been made to the bill since it left the house.

Missouri Slope Fair.

The bill creating a Missouri slope fair at Mandan, introduced by Representative Whitmer, came back to the house Saturday afternoon with a favorable report, the measure being amended considerably. As amended, the bill carries an annual appropriation of $5,000 for the fair.

Another legislative investigation has been placed under way, the resolution of Mr. Price asking for reports of state institutions, state officials and state boards being responsible. It was found that many boards and officers had failed to turn over their reports at the proper time, and a house committee, to be appointed by the speaker, will endeavor to fix the blame for such failure.

Governor Burke has appointed J. Stege of Jamestown as a member of the board of trustees of the state asylum for the insane to succeed John B. Fried, resigned. The appointment was submitted to the senate Saturday afternoon.

No New Capitol.

The very light support that was given the capitol building report, as evidenced by the vote in the senate, puts a quietus on the new building talk for the present session at least. Only ten members of the senate were recorded as being favorable to the plan of taking immediate steps in the question. There is still a report before the house on the question of constructing a capitol building, which report is to be considered in the committee of the whole.

A splendid compliment is paid to Dean Babcock and Prof. Snyder in their conduct of the state briquetting station at Hebron by the assembly's junketing committee that visited the institution. The report urges that the legislature make the appropriation that has been asked for, and points to the tremendous importance of the fuel problem in this state as sufficient cause why the legislature should take favorable action on the request. Surprise is expressed by the committee at the results that have already been attained at the state institution, in view of the limited appropriation that was made two years ago.

Senator Steele of Renville has introduced a bill proposing an amendment to the present primary election law which would give the state the first and second choice plan in the selection of candidates for state offices.

To Reduce County Officers' Term.

There doubtless will be a storm of protest from the county officials of the state against the bill introduced by Representative Wambum of Walsh county. He would limit the terms of office of registers of deeds, auditors, treasurers, clerks of courts and sheriffs to two consecutive terms of two years each. This bill, if it were passed, would result in legislating a number of county officers out of positions that they have held for a great many years and which they might continue to hold for an indefinite period. The judiciary committee bill providing for the calling of a constitutional convention will be introduced in the senate either today or tomorrow. The sub-committee of the senate judiciary committee is composed of Senators Gilbert, Pierce, Hookway, Linde and Talcott, and the task of drawing up a bill to cover the question was commenced yesterday.

To Raise State's Debt Limit.

With the indorsement of the committees on appropriation, a bill providing for an amendment to the Constitution under which the debt limit will be raised to allow for the issuing of bonds for the construction of buildings at the state educational, charitable and penal institutions, a joint sub-committee today commences the task of drafting a bill to cover this point. On this joint committee are four house and three senate members, being Representatives Ployhar, Bond, Stern and Norheim, and Senators La Moure, Linde and Davis.

As a business proposition the plan is looked upon with favor, as it will place the several institutions of the state in a position within the next few years where they will be well equipped in every particular, whereas by the continuation of the present system many years would elapse before the same stage could be reached, and then the institutions would not be in possession of as good buildings as would be possible under the bonding plan. Another argument used in favor of the plan is that it would place a portion of the burden of paying for those new buildings upon future generations as well as the present, thus those receiving the most benefit would share equally in the payment of the same.

FEDERAL SOLDIERS RUTHLESSLY MURDER NON-COMBATANTS

fusal of the insurrectos' leader to permit his men to take revenge.

Four old non-combatants were found in a farm house near Mulata when the federals first approached the town. They were Eucevio de la Cruz, Cruz Samenijo, Decederio Carrassco and Matias Carrasco. One of the men was 90 years old, another was blind and another a cripple. All were white haired. The insurrectos found these old men with their hands tied behind their backs lying riddled with bullets. Their heads were crushed and one was slashed across the face by a sabre. A number of Americans viewed the bodies and several signed an affidavit describing the incident. This sworn statement will be sent to Washington.

Dramatic Incident.

A dramatic incident followed the discovery of the four murdered men. A government soldier had been found lying wounded on the field. He had been cared for and fed. When the murdered men were found several insurrectos made a rush for the plaza in Mulata to take revenge by killing this wounded soldier. In the crowd was a son and a nephew of one of the aged victims. Like crazy men they ran yelling into the plaza and dragged the soldier into the street. Many argued against him, but others, maddened by the sight of the butchered old men, drew their pistols and declared they would kill any man that tried to stop them. At that moment Ortega, the insurrecto commander, rode into the plaza and called a halt.

"My children," he said, "I have had a home laid in ruins and a wife and babies driven naked and starving into the hills, but I am not yet ready to kill an unarmed wounded man."

Mob's Rage Quieted.

The mob's rage was quieted and only one man, the son of one of the victims, stepped forward to take the federal soldier's life.

Ortega drew his pistol. "It would break my heart to have to kill a comrade," he said, "but we shall not be murderers like the soldiers of Diaz."

The terrified federal was picked up, mumbling his thanks, and removed to a shanty.

In the two days' battle, the pronunciados lost one man killed and one wounded. The dead man, Hilario Sanchez, was shot while battering in a door in one of the houses with the Scotchman, F. C. McCoombs, to get at a squad of federals.

McCoombs entered the house alone and drove the federals out. One of them was killed. McCoombs is the soldier of fortune who has earned the title of "El Diable" among the insurrectos.

The battle started at 10 o'clock Feb. 7, and lasted until 8 o'clock the night of the 8th. The federals had 600 soldiers in the field and the insurrectos mustered about 200 men.

The American soldiers and federal officers guarding the American side of the Rio Grande were repeatedly fired upon by the federal soldiers.

The insurrectos announce their intention of capturing Ojinaga as soon as they get a supply of ammunition.

Coyame, thirty-five miles from Ojinaga, is surrounded by a band of insurrectos under Emilio Salgado, who has demanded the surrender of the government's stores and archives. The town is garrisoned by a small company of rurales and a company of armed citizens.

Five boys, all American citizens, were captured by Mexican rurales yesterday, while bathing in the Rio Grande. The rurales shot at them and compelled them to wade across the river and surrender. The boys were released this morning after being locked up all night. Capt. Williams, commanding the American troops at Presidio, was on the point of ordering the commander of Ojinaga to release the boys, whn they returned to Presidio.

Locomotives Burned.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 13.—A special to the Herald from Monterey, Mex., says the roundhouse and sixteen locomotives of the national lines burned there Saturday night. The superintendent of the line had received warning in an anonymous letter that if certain contemplated changes in the official force were made the roundhouse would be burned.

Mail advices from Chihuahua to the Herald say that passengers arriving in Chihuahua report seeing 350 Indians in the town of Cusihuiriachic, west of Chihuahua, each carrying four belts of cartridges and having additional ammunition on pack burros. Advices further state that the passengers saw 250 armed revolutionists, many of them Tahuamari Indians, at San Isidro. The party carefully examined the train for federals, many speaking good Euglish.

stairs. They found the boy, Gerald, in bed in his chamber, with a bullet wound in his right temple. So close had the revolver been held to the child's head, probably while he was asleep, that the hair about his temple was singed. The boy was alive, but unconscious when found. He lived less than an hour.

The door of Mrs. Keene's room was broken in and her body was found stretched on the bed. She had placed the revolver muzzle to the roof of her mouth and fired, death probably being instantaneous. The revolver was on the bed beside her.

In letters to relatives to whom small gifts were made of personal belongings, the husband and wife asked to be buried in a double casket, and that their son's coffin and theirs be placed in the same box for final interment. The triple funeral will be held Wednesday.

cheered by a report from Washington that the probability of a filibuster against reciprocity in the senate is lessening daily. Mr. Taft is confident that if a vote is reached in the senate, the agreement will be enacted into law beyond the question of a doubt.

In the furtherance of his campaign, President Taft will send several of his cabinet officers out into the field. Secretary Knox is to speak Wednesday at Chicago.

Secretary Nagel of the department of commerce and labor, will speak next week at Akron, Ohio, before a business men's organization and Secretary of Agriculture Wilson will speak at Buffalo, Feb. 22.

Attorney General Wickersham has several speaking engagements this week and the president will ask him to touch on reciprocity in all of these.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED STUDENTS ARRESTED.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 13.—Fifteen hundred striking students were arrested today following riotous demonstrations in the University precincts. After having been closed for two days, the lecture rooms were reopened this morning. The attendance was small and those present were soon driven out by fumes of noxious chemicals with which the strikers filled the building.

from the state of Kansas, the home of old John Brown, I cannot support the 'rider' or 'joker' placed in the resolution by a majority of the committee."

That Senator Bristow should consider the amendment to the resolution as immaterial was a matter of regret with Senator Curtis.

"I regret very much," said Senator Curtis, of his Republican colleague, "to see the senator treat a Constitutional amendment so lightly.

"The colored people are entitled to protection in their rights and congress should not directly or indirectly say it was willing to let the states take away the right which came to them as a result of the Civil war," continued the senator.

"If the resolution as amended is passed, and the Constitution is amended as provided therein, then the congress gives up all its rights to make or alter the regulations of a state for the election of United States senators and if electors are disfranchised, if outrages are perpetrated, if fraud is committed or if corrupt practices are resorted to, the congress remains helpless."

WOMAN FINED FOR CONTEMPT

Annie Lourke Pays $1.60 for Failure to Appear in Court.

Mrs. Anna Lourke was fined $1.60 by Judge William A. Cant of the district court Saturday afternoon for failure to be present in court as a witness when she had been notified to appear.

Mrs. Lourke is said to be the proprietress of the store at which the postal card was purchased by Bradford Voshall, accused of shooting James Sheeran on board the steamer J. H. Bartow, Nov. 4 last.

It was as a witness in this case that she had been notified to be present. She had been in court during the morning and Judge Cant had told the witnesses that they might be excused until 2 o'clock. When her name was called it was found that she was not in the building and it was found necessary to send a deputy sheriff after her.

So many people treat lightly the orders of the court that Judge Cant thought it time to call a halt and make an example of the woman, that others might know that when the court issues an order it is meant to be obeyed.

Mrs. Lourke stated to the court that her husband had told her that she didn't need to go unless she wanted to. She also gave as a reason that she had several small children to care for.

Judge Cant told her at some length that when the court issues orders they must be obeyed.

NEED COUNTY DETECTIVE

County Attorney Says Plain Clothes Man Should Be Appointed.

Many Crimes in Outlying Districts Are Never Traced Down.

County Attorney John H. Norton wants a county detective whose duty it would be to work in connection with the county attorney's office and get special information in regard to crimes committed in the outlying country districts.

Mr. Norton says that a great many of the cases tried in district court are those that originate in the country. He says there are many crimes that never come to the attention of the authorities. These crimes are of greater or less importance. If a man were employed whose duty it would be to look up every case and hint that is brought to the county attorney's office, there would not only be more people brought to justice but the number of convictions would run even higher than at the present time, he claims.

Mr. Norton cites the present case at Allen Junction as an excellent example of the need of a county detective. It is suspected that Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Newman were murdered and then burned in their house. It is thought by people who live near Allen Junction that robbers did the job. The county attorney says there should be a man sent out to represent the county attorney's office in getting the facts of the case.

Two years ago Mr. Norton tried to get a bill into the state legislature which would permit a detective to be hired and set to work under the direction of the county attorney. On the claim that the county could not afford it, the bill was killed. Mr. Norton proposes to introduce it again.

RETURN OF THE MACK-LEONES

Popular Stock Actors Open a New Engagement in Duluth.

The return of the Mack-Leones attracted two large audiences to the Lyceum theater yesterday.

In the afternoon the big theater was packed to the door, while the evening audience filled the house to almost capacity. The enthusiasm of the two audiences was in keeping with the size, for in the afternon and again in the evening Mr. Mack and Miss Leone were called before the curtain and both principals were compelled to say a few words. The home-coming of the Mack-Leones was one that will long be remembered by the members of the company.

Willard Mack's new play was well liked. If the reception given the piece last night is a criterion of the way it is going to be received later on, "God's Country" is going to prove one of the most popular plays of the Western type, and will surpass in popularity and earning power that other Mack success, "In Wyoming."

The story is well told, and the play moves logically and directly to the climax. The situations are effective and there is one very strong scene at the climax of the third act.

Briefly the story of the play deals with Bill Ruggles, a college graduate who goes West. He settles at Twin Bridges, Mont., and is eventually elected sheriff of the place. Hastings, a lawyer representing an Eastern syndicate, is also at Twin Bridges. Hastings tries to defraud Pinto Crockett of the mine left at the death of her father, is opposed by Bill Ruggles, and this opposition results in the theft of letters from the sheriff's shack explaining why he came West, and also is the cause of the sensational stage fight that furnishes the climax for the third act. In the end the sheriff wins, not only against Hastings, but something nearer to his heart, the love and respect of the one woman.

Willard Mack made of the character role of "Bill" Ruggles a part that stood out. There are several good parts in the new play, and the sheriff is one of them. The sheriff of the actor is picturesque, but is never out of the atmosphere of the play.

Miss Maude Leone has done few better things in this city than the part of Pinto Crockett, the Western girl, who is self reliant, loyal to her friends, and fearless to those fighting her.

Miss Leone won much praise in the West for her rendition of the part, and yesterday her work won the commendation of both the afternoon and evening audiences. The actress knows the Western country and its people, and she makes of Pinto Crockett a type of the woman who might have been met in the passing chapter of Western history.

Next to the work of the two principals interest centered in the appearance of Mrs. Annie Adams. To her has been alloted the part of Mrs. Huggins, a motherly woman, whose mission in life is to help and cheer. It may be that Mrs. Adams is peculiarly fitted for the role, for the character is a replica of some quaint and motherly old lady, and Mrs. Adams made one forget that the character was not real.

C. R. Walling made a hit as Dictionary Jones; in fact, made one of the best impressions of the entire company. Mr. Walling has a droll line of humor that kept the comedy parts of the play strongly in the foreground. Forest Taylor had the villain, and he didn't make an unhuman villain of him, for it might be added that most villains are very human.

James Nelson did well with the character of Ole Parsous, and Viola Marshall made a very sweet and charming Allee Huggins. James Rennie had the role of Hugh Stanton and handled it well.

William Donova and George Surtees did very well with minor parts. The company made a very good impression and bore out the statement of Mr. Mack, who claimed that he has one of the strongest companies that he has ever been associated with.

TRIUMPH OF BURNT CORK

Blackface Comedians Hit of Orpheum Bill---Russian Dancer Crippled.

Along towards the end of the Orpheum bill last evening, the stage manager handed the Kaufman brothers, "blackface comedians," a metaphorical slapstick and told then to wade in.

The two brothers waded. They found an audience ready for a laugh, and they were welcomed like long lost brothers. Following the Russian dancers, crippled by the absence of Alexander Volinine, and the pathetic little sketch, "Cinders," the Kaufmans had the softest spot that two blackface comedians ever landed in, and they reveled in it. They did a burlesque "bullet dance," rehearsed a scene from "Cinders," "kidded" the three Weston sisters, who had gone before, and showed themselves off amid a perfect gale of applause. It was the triumph of the slapstick; the sweeping victory of the burnt cork; the complete vindication of the knock down and drag out school of comedy.

It was most unfortunate that the headline act this week, that of the Imperial Russian Dancers, is crippled by the absence of Alexander Volinine, who lies in a St. Paul hospital, suffering from a sprained ankle sustained while dancing in St. Paul Saturday.

His absence makes it impossible for the other two members of the company to do themselves justice. Volinine was the member of the company who appeared with Mlle. Lapokawa in her dances, and his accident forced her brother, Theodore Lapokawa, to take his place at a few hours' notice. He is not built for the role. In the first place he is the member of the company who does the more strenious peasant dances, and he was out of place in the light ballet dances of the graceful young woman. Mlle. Lapokawa was plainly not at home with him as a partner, and could not do herself justice. He was also forced to cut down his own number in order to make a change of costume. In spite of all these handicaps, the two accomplished young foreigners went through with their act, and made a very favorable impression. They did just enough to make the audience want to see what they could accomplish under favorable conditions. Mlle. Lapokawa is a charmingly graceful young woman. She is somewhat more stockily built than Mlle. Pavlowa, who appeared here last fall, but any attempts at comparisons between the two acts would be impossible owing to the different conditions under which they appeared, and the handicap under which Mlle. Lapokawa was appearing. The two dancers are from the same ballet in St. Petersburg, it is claimed.

By all odds the most meritorious number on this week's bill, outside of that presented by the Imperial Russian Dancers is the comedy acrobatic act of the Robert De Mont trio.

These people are truly remarkable athletes, and they do some tumbling that has never been equalled at the Duluth Orpheum for strenuosity. They have a hotel lobby scene as the setting for their act, one member of the company appearing as a bell boy, and the other two as very much over dressed children. The tumbling of the boy is nothing short of phenomenal.

"Cinders" is the name of a pleasing little dramatic sketch presented by Ida O'Day and Donald Bowles. Miss O'Day is well known on the Orpheum circuit, having been with the road show last year. Her sketch this season is a well written little drama, and it proves an excellent vehicle for her.

The three Misses Weston have a first class little musical number playing the piano, violine, 'cello and cornets. One of the girls also sings a pleasing solo, and the act proved very popular last evening.

Lawson and Namon open the bill with a comedy bag punching and cycling act. The woman punches the bag and the man performs some rather sensational cycling tricks.

The motion pictures and the overture by the concert orchestra complete the bill which will continue all week with a daily matinee.

MAKES GOOD WITH FIRST NIGHTERS

Grace De Mar Features New Empress Bill With Clever Character Work.

With a good voice, some stunning gowns, a pair of very expressive black eyes and a lot of talent for the singing of character songs, Grace De Mar, a former star in "A Knight for a Day," appeared at the Empress theater yesterday and had no trouble in captivating three large audiences.

Miss De Mar drifts on to the stage in a light, airy way and at the same time makes her audience feel as if they had known here when she used to wear ribbons in her hair. Her act is as refreshing as a cool ocean breeze, and she establishes a feeling of cordiality that is seldom noticeable between actor and spectator.

This young woman sings character songs, and, needless to say, she sings them well. She has been endowed with more than ordinary good looks, and even in her last makeup, a sort of "Liz" of Avenue A style, she was unable to conceal them. She was easily the favorite yesterday, and probably will be throughout the week.

Ballerini's dogs are almost human. In fact, they are more nearly human in point of intelligence than any dogs seen in local vaudeville for a long time. They do their act with very little help. They know what they have to do and they do it. They are even more anxious than their trainer. They are real vaudeville dogs. They come in at the proper time, take their places and go through their tricks with no help or coaxing. The man who appears on the stage with them simply sets up the apparatus. The dogs do the rest. A great many of the tricks are new. One cat is a member of the troupe and she gets along finely with the dogs. She has a few tricks of her own that are by no means slow. To one who knows absolutely nothing about cats, she looks to be just a very ordinary striped yellow feline. She is not ordinary in point of intelligence, however.

Moran and Moran are singers, dancers and have a line of comedy. They certainly know how to dance, and they would do well to rely on it more. Their comedy is rather rough, and they would improve their act by eliminating it.

Harry Foy and Florence Clark have a playlet entitled "The Spring of Youth." This is a trick act, and in it all sorts of unusual things happen. The idea is new and the act is a success when it comes to getting laughs.

The Hoefler trio of cycling comedians wind up a thoroughly good vaudeville program. These men do all sorts of difficult feats on moving machines, many of them being new.

The moving pictures this week are as interesting as usual. They tell the story of a ring that was lost and found again.

There will be three performances of the same bill each day all week, one in the afternoon and two each evening.

New Way to Make Apple Dumplings

Served With Hard Sauce or Cream and Sugar

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

Here is a new way to make apple dumplings that will surely please every housewife, for it is not necessary to have whole apples, and the juice cannot run out and burn as with apple dumplings where the apple is placed in the center and the dough turned up around it. The biscuit part forms a crispy shell that holds the apples and juice.

K C Apple Dumplings

One and one-half cups sifted flour; ½ teaspoonful salt; 3 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; ¼ cup shortening; about ½ cup milk; apples.

Fill the cups of a buttered muffin pan with pared and sliced apples, sprinkle with salt and turn two or three tablespoonfuls of water into each cup. Sift together, three times, the flour, salt and baking powder; work in the shortening, and mix to a soft dough with the milk. Drop the dough from a spoon with the apples in the cups, giving it a smooth exterior. Let bake about twenty-five minutes. Invert the pan on a large serving-dish. Put a spoonful of hard sauce above the apple in each dumpling and finish with a grating of nutmeg.

This is only one of the many new, delicious and appetizing recipes contained in the K C Cook's Book, which may be obtained free by sending the colored certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the Jaques Mfg. Co., Chicago. Be sure to get the 25-cent size—smaller cans do not contain Cook's Book certificates.

WILL BE PUT ON RECORD

Senators Will Vote on Wednesday on the Conservation Question.

Gifford Pinchot Talks on the Importance of Watershed Bill.

Washington, Feb. 13.—Members of the senate will have perhaps their best opportunity of the session to put themselves on record either in favor or against conservation, on Wednesday of this week, when the vote is taken on the Weeks' bill to appropriate $11,000,000 for the purchase of forested watersheds to protect navigable streams. The purpose of the bill is to remedy conditions in the South Appalachians and in the White mountains, where many watersheds are being destroyed by deforestation, and friends of the conservation movement in the senate say that in all probability the act will pass this year. If it does, the administration will have another piece of conservation legislation to its credit.

The measure has the support of Gifford Pinchot, during whose administration of the forest service it was almost continuously before congress, in one form or another. The former chief forester thinks that the only danger to favorable action in the senate is that some of the members generally friendly to the conservation movement have not been aroused to the necessity of the legislation at this time. In an interview today he said:

"There is an enormous difference between a general impression on the part of the public that some action is a good thing and might well be carried out, and the determination of the same public that a particular thing must be done because it is not only good, but necessary. It is said that the effort to get the pure food bill through had been going on for fifteen years before it was successful, and many other similar illustrations might be given. The bill to create national forests in the Southern Appalachians and the White mountains, in its present form, is not fifteen years old, but the movement for national forests in the East began before congressional pure food legislation had become a public question.

Will Reach Culmination.

"On Wednesday the efforts of all these years will reach their culmination, and succeed, or they will fail and the work will all have to be done over again. The Weeks' bill, behind which all the friends of forest protection can conscientiously unite, has passed the house. It will be voted upon in the senate on that day. There is but one danger which confronts its passage—that the men and the organizations who are friendly to its passage, and who believe in what it is trying to accomplish, may fall through over-confidence to give it the necessary aggressive support.

"The project for national forests in the East, of which this bill is the embodiment, is one of the great objects which the National Conservation association is particularly anxious to secure this year. It is the central object at the present moment of the American Forestry association. The united support of these two bodies of public spirited citizens is proof that the bill is worthy of general public approval. There is every reason why it should pass, and no single good reason against its passage.

"I have now, and have long had, a peculiar interest in this project. The effort to preserve the forests on the steep mountain slopes of the Eastern United States, and protect the headwaters of many interstate streams valuable for navigation; to perpetuate the hardwood supply of the Southern Appalachians; to prevent the total destruction of the White mountain forests, and to prevent the clogging of river channels with eroded material from the mountain slopes; all these are objects to which all good citizens are committed in advance. The only danger of the present situation is the danger I have mentioned, that the friends of the measure may fail to make their influence felt at the proper time."

PATRIOTIC MUSIC AT FREE CONCERT

Lincoln Memorial Program at the Masonic Temple---C. O. Applehagen Soloist.

The patriotically inclined found a well arranged program at the Masonic temple yesterday afternoon on the occasion of the Lincoln memorial free concert and judging by the vim and earnestness with which the audience joined in the rousing chorus of the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," splendidly sung by Charles O. Applehagen, they enjoyed the style of music and entered into the spirit of the occasion. As an encore to Mrs. Howe's immortal song a Custance composition, "Hurrah For Our Banner," was sung. It is a splendid piece of patriotic music, the refrain, a portion of the "Star Spangled Banner," fitting in well to the sentiment and music of the original. Owing to a bad cold Mr. Bjorquist was unable to sing and Mr. Applehagen on the spur of the moment took his place and gave with great force and spirit the recitative and aria from Handel's oratorio, "Judas Maccabaeus," "Arm, Arm, Ye Brave," a spirited call to arms with an insistent repetition of the theme, which contrasted beautifully with the soft legato of the encore, an arrangement of "Rock of Ages" by Custance. Those pieces demonstrated the singers versatility and ability to interpret fortissimo and pianissimo alike. He certainly was in good voice and all the pieces were enthusiastically received.

The instrumental music opened the program beginning with Sousa's swinging march, "Stars and Stripes" following which was an arrangement of old American airs, principally of the Civil war times. The only non-American composition on the program was Tschaikowsky's "1812," a descriptive piece dedicated to the patriotism of the Russians; supposed to represent the victory over the French which occasioned the disastrous retreat from Moscow. It begins with a prayer hymn, which is interrupted by the call to arms, following which are the preparations for the combat, the actual battle, the temporary retreat of the French, during which is heard the strains of the Marsellaise as if trying to secure a rally; it evidently succeeds because there is a reopening of the battle music, but not for long as the French this time retreat in earnest and the Russians give vent to their joy; the first hymn is repeated with fuller volume and the Russian battle song ends this very celebrated composition. Dudley Buck's concert variations on the "Star Spangled Banner," followed and after the second song the program was completed by a selection of familiar American melodies and Sousa's "International Fantasie," a collection of many national airs.

ARCHBISHOP RYAN FINALLY SUCCUMBS

Aged Prelate Passes Away at Philadelphia Late Saturday Afternoon.

Philadelphia, Feb. 13.—Most Rev. Patrick John Ryan, archbishop of Philadelphia, and metropolitan of Pennsylvania, died at 4:08 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the arch-episcopal residence in this city.

Archbishop Ryan was considered the greatest of the line of bishops and archbishops that have occupied the episcopal see of Philadelphia since its erection in 1808. His reputation was national and in his home city he was accorded a popular recognition that far surpassed that of any of his predecessors, he having been on the friendliest terms with men of all religious denominations. He was one of the foremost pulpit orators in the Catholic church in this country.

The archbishop was born in Thuries, county of Tipperary, Ireland, on Feb. 20, 1831. His ancestors on the paternal side were originally the O'Ryans who figure in Irish history. His parents died when he was very young and his youthful education was received from the Christian Brothers at Aries. Young Ryan studied at the Carlow seminary and later came to this country, going to St. Louis, where he was appointed a professor in Carondelet seminary. On Sept. 8, 1853, he was ordained a priest by Archbishop Kenrick. In 1856 he was made rector of the St. Louis cathedral and four years later was placed in charge of the Church of the Annunciation. In 1872 Father Ryan was consecrated coadjutor bishop of St. Louis with the right of succession, and in 1884 he was appointed archbishop of Philadelphia.

During his twenty-seven years residence in Philadelphia he was an important figure in the life of the city, participating in many of the public functions held in that time. The University of Pennsylvania gave hime the degree of L.L.D., an honor which he had previously received from the University of Missouri.

Two great works of the archbishop were what he did for the Indians and his establishment of the Protectory for Homeless Boys. The labors of the archbishop in behalf of the Indians was recognized by President Roosevelt when he appointed him one of the board of Indian commissioners.

Under the administration of Archbishop Ryan the Catholic church in this diocese has more than kept pace with the growth of the city and country. The arch-diocese embraces Philadelphia and nine adjoining counties.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW.

Decrease in New Business By Selling Force Achievements.

New York, Feb. 13.—The decrease in the volume of new business in finished steel products since the beginning of February is overshadowed by the achievements of the selling forces in January. The release of many contracts that had been held back last month provided specifications for increased operations this month, but thus far the new orders in February have been disappointing.

Keener competition has developed in plain and fabricated structural shapes and the bulk of the business has gone to independent companies at concessions.

Railroad work of all kinds contracted sharply last week. The only important rail contract was 60,000 tons for the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha. Contracts are now pending for 60,000 more.

Out of the 20,000 tons of fabricated steel contracts placed, 8,000 tons were for railroad bridges.

The report of the steel corporation for the month of January was the most encouraging for nearly six months. January operations were increased 4½ per cent, the output being about 18,6000 tons a day.

The pig iron situation is unsettled. There were more activities in the East during the last two days of the week, but previously business was flat.

Aggregate sales in the East were about 30,000 tons and about 60,000 tons in all sections.

The senate has passed a bill authorizing the town of Blackberry, Minn., to construct a bridge across the Mississippi river in Itasca county, Minn. This bill has passed the house and now goes to the president for his signature.

SEVEN MEMBERS OF ONE FAMILY ASPHYXIATED.

Philadelphia, Feb. 13.—Seven members of one family, the father, mother and five children, were killed by illuminating gas in their home in the Ghetto district in this city yesterday. The dead are:

HYMAN BERKOWITZ, aged 42 years.

ROSE, his wife, aged 40; and children, Minnie, Michael, Israel, Rebecca and Pauline, whose ages range from 18 years to 5 years.

When their bodies were discovered in the gas-filled room by neighbors, the father lay fully dressed on one bed with the two small boys, while the mother and the three girls were in another bed in the same room on the third floor. The gas was escaping from a tube which connected a gas stove on the first floor, where the kitchen and living room were located.

The father was seen by neighbors coming home about 1 o'clock yesterday morning and it is supposed that he accidentally stumbled against the tube, pulling it away from the fixture on the wall.

The dam was Aaggie Cornucopia Pauline, the world's champion senior 4-year-old. The sire was Colantha Johanna Lad.

LEADER OF FENIANS ILL.

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 13.—Thomas O'Bolger, who was a member of the Irish Revolutionary Brotherhood which attempted the rescue of Col. Thomas J. Kelly and Capt. Timothy Deacy from a prison van in Manchester, England, in 1867, for which Allen, Larkin and O'Brien were hanged, is lying dangerously ill at his residence in this city. Mr. O'Bolger, who made a sensational escape after the attack on the prison van, came at once to America.

GOLD DUST IS PAY-DIRT FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Gold Dust is to the housewife what "Pay-dirt" is to the miner.

Read the unsolicited testimonial which Stewart Edward White recently gave Gold Dust in his book "The Mountains," Page 181:

"Even if you do not intend to wash dishes, "bring along some Gold Dust. It is much "simpler in getting at odd corners of ob-"stinate kettles than any soap. All you "have to do is to boil some of it in that "kettle and the utensil is tamed at once."

When a work-dodging man has to wash dishes you may be sure he is going to find "the easiest way." Mr. White evidently found it in the use of Gold Dust. More than a million housewives agree with him; you will if you once try Gold Dust.

Gold Dust cleans everything—read directions on the package for a full list of its accomplishments.

Use Gold Dust for washing clothes and dishes, scrubbing floors, cleaning woodwork, oil-cloth, silverware and tinware, polishing brasswork, cleaning bathroom pipes, refrigerators, etc., softening hard water and making the finest soft soap.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

What a chimera, then, is man! what a novelty, what a monster, what a chaos, what a subject of contradiction, what a prodigy! A judge of all things, feeble worm of the earth, depositary of the truth, cloaca of uncertainty and error, the glory and the shame of the universe!

STAND FIRM FOR REAPPORTIONMENT.

This promises to be a most important week in the present session of the Minnesota legislature, for there is every probability that the bill for reapportionment will come before at least one and possibly both of the houses before Saturday. Final action will hardly be taken on the measure for some days, but with the bill actually in the hands of the members, the fight will begin to take definite shape, preparatory to the bill's going to the senate.

That there would be opposition to the measure in the senate has been plain from the beginning. There has been opposition for the last few years, and the opposing forces have not stopped their efforts. Events of the last week at the state capital showed something of the form the opposition is to take. This is well, for the more definite their knowledge of what they will have to contend with, the more effective will the supporters of reapportionment be able to make their own fight.

There should be no hesitation, no hanging back on the part of the reapportionment forces. The constitutional rights and the equitable rights of the people of the state are on the side of reapportionment. The only real ground on which its opponents have been able to base their claims in the last few years has been that of the unofficial character of population statistics in the various sections of the state. The federal census of 1910 removed that ground, and at the same time showed the necessity of reapportionment to just representation in the legislature.

If anything more than simple justice were needed to gain support of all members of the legislature to the reapportionment cause, it is to be found in the declaration of Governor Eberhart that if reapportionment is not provided at this session of the legislature, he will call an extra session to enact such legislation. Nobody wants an extra session. It would be an expense to the taxpayers of the state, and a nuisance to the members of the legislature. But the declaration of the governor is based on a sense of justice, and if the legislature fails to carry out the pledges of the state Constitution and of both the principal parties, during the regular session, the governor will be fully justified in carrying out his promise.

Meanwhile it is reasonably certain that the real fight begin this week. "Thrice is he armed that hath his quarrel just," and the men in the house and senate who are in favor of just distribution of representation in the state legislature should take up their triple armament and get into the fray with all their might.

CONSPICUOUS EVEN IN SILENCE.

There is something peculiarly insistent about that college president governor that New Jersey recently put into office. For the last few years the American people have had their attention attracted and held more or less of the time by two men—Roosevelt and Bryan—who have managed to keep in the public eye, or ear if you prefer, by frequent outbursts of opinion on all kinds of topics. To say that either of them has been forgotten because of his recent silence would be absurd. But it is only true to say that neither occupies the place today that he did while his opinion-factory was discharging its output on the public.

With Woodrow Wilson it is different. He was heard of occasionally before his nomination on account of his keen analysis and striking statements of public questions. His entrance into the race for office introduced a new element into American politcal life, and his success confirmed the introduction. On his inauguration he attracted attention by the character of his message to the legislature, with its progressive spirit and its aggressive tone. And when, as governor, he began his fight against Former Senator Smith, and then carried it to a successful end, he was once more a figure of national prominence.

Just at present Governor Wilson is doing nothing that calls attention to him throughout the country at large, but his prominence is being continued indirectly by the course Governor Dix is following regarding the election of a United States senator from New York state.

It is impossible, as the struggle at Albany continues day after day, to avoid comparing that situation with the one in New Jersey which Governor Wilson found, faced and solved. Governor Dix is keeping rigidly to a policy of hands off, although he knows that Tammany is at work to dictate who shall be Depew's successor at Washington. By his silence and inaction he is playing directly into the hands of the ring, while making the plea that he is abiding strictly by the constitutional rights and powers of the state's executive. He ignores the fact that the terms of that constitution are being torn to shreds by the activities of Boss Murphy and his aides. He refuses to believe that by doing his utmost to smash that ring he would be living closer to the spirit of the constitution which he affects to admire so strongly, than he is by his present course.

Watching the course in New York and knowing the deails of the fight in New Jersey, one cannot help but contrast the two governors, and the comparison, as far as popular favor is concerned, is all in favor of Wilson. If he were seeking to become a national figure later on he could not have wished for a better foundation than he is getting out of that contrast.

CUSS-WORDS AND SWEARING.

White Horse, N. J., has some wonderfully keen moralists. A certain church in that place has declared for a revision of the English language on moral and spiritual grounds. It wants the word "hello" abolished on account of the nature of the first four letters, and for fear that some worldly-minded people will reverse the syllables and so infringe on these people's conception of what is right. Also, the demand is made that the word "dam," referring either to the maternal relation of an animal or to an obstruction in a stream, be abolished on account of its similarity in sound to the word "damn." And they also want some other changes.

To the reader of epigrams the demands of the White Horse people suggest numberless quotations. How Mark Twain would have enjoyed writing on that subject. "There are no people quite so vulgar as the over-refined ones," he declares in his Pudd'n-head Wilson's Calendar. And again, "The man who is ostentatious of his modesty is twin to the statue that wears a fig leaf." Then there is the famous "Evil to him that evil thinks," and to go back yet farther, "To the pure all things are pure."

What these people are objecting to is not an evil. Even though a man may use what are sometimes called "cuss-words" he does not necessarily sin in so doing. To refer once more to Mark Twain, he says: "The spirit of wrath, not the words, is the sin, and the spirit of wrath is cursing. We begin to swear before we can talk." While there might be reasonable objection to accepting Mark Twain as an authority on religious matters, his statement in this case certainly comes within the bounds of reason. "It is the letter of the law that killeth, while the spirit maketh free."

The use of "cuss-words" is bad form, it is an indication of carelessness in speech, and it unquestionably is offensive to many. Whether it is in truth an offense to the Deity is another question. But to seek to abolish from the language every bare suggestion of such words, particularly when that suggestion is so remote that it is rarely recognized except by people whose minds naturally turn to the baser modes of expression, is absurd.

If these people at White Horse want to do some real good they can find plenty of bona fide evils to attack. But if, as seems possible, they are merely seeking some cheap advertising, they might get a more valuable brand by sticking to common sense. It is to be hoped that they are not hoping to be taken seriously in this movement, for if they are, they will get a hard jolt when the returns are all in.

THE UNIVERSITY BANQUET.

Next week is to see Duluth's first banquet of university and college men in which institutions from all sections of the country will be represented. It will differ from other similar events that have been held in this city in that the participants will not be alumni of any particular college or university. The function is not being planned by any organization, but by individuals who have taken this means of trying to bring that element in this vicinity together for purposes of acquaintance and possible later association. In seeking out persons to attend the affair, an effort has been made to reach every former college man in Duluth, Superior and on the ranges.

While the primary object of the coming banquet is of a social nature, it is easily possible that this event will lead to the organization in Duluth of a University club. If such should prove to be the outcome, the meeting of these men may mean a great deal to Duluth. An organization of such a character could be of material benefit to a community, through the medium of civic affairs, if its members saw fit to enter together into such work. In any event it would serve as a center of information for outsiders who might wish information as to college men in this and surrounding cities, and by being in touch with different institutions, through alumni who were members of the association, it would spread interest regarding Duluth and the surrounding country. As long as the members avoid the setting up of false lines of regard for individuals, such an organzation is capable of much good for a community. Because a man has been to college does not make him better than one who has not had that privilege. But the fact of that common experience gives a basis for organization, and it will be a good thing for this part of the country if the former "rah-rah boys" shall see their way to perfecting such an organization.

The dictionary says it should be pronounced "Hwahras."

The near-insurgents see in President Taft's reciprocity agitation another instance of his unfriendliness to them personally.

And then too, if the house of lords is abolished, its members will have more time to spend in hunting out the richest American girls.

It can hardly be possible that the moving picture men failed to have some representatives on the American side of the river during that affair at Juarez.

That girl who waded up to the ski tournament with a hobble skirt on may have enjoyed it, but she didn't get half the fun out of it that the other people did.

A Philadelphia bandit used up his whole supply of ammunition in shooting at some policemen's hats. Maybe that is his idea of the best way to puncture the lid.

While some men are wrestling with the problem of the long hatpin, the rest of the male population of the country is merely wondering how the dickens the women manage to manipulate the blamed things.

TALKS WITH THE STATE PRESS

On Being Called.

Little Falls Transcript: The Minnesota legislature seems to say almost in a body, "We pass; but not a reapportionment bill this year."

If the legislature doesn't pass a reapportionment bill, it's likely the voters will pass when its members come up as candidates for re-election.

And That's Rite.

Grand Marais Journal-News: When a subscriber writes to the editor that his "site is so bad that he cannot rite at nite," would you call that an example of simplified spelling?

No, but we'd say it suggests the need of simplified spelling.

Altitudinous Progression.

Grand Rapids Independent: When some one mentions a "high flyer" nowadays, one doesn't just know if he means an aviator or an ordinary every day "sport and good fellow."

It won't be long before the "sport and good fellow" will be more a rarity than is the aviator now.

Clapp and Lorimer.

Sandstone Tribune: Senator Clapp is opposed to Mr. Lorimer's continued presence in the United States senate, which position meets with distinct commendation among the people of Minnesota.

If Senator Clapp should initiate a movement for the unseating of Lorimer his niche in the hall of fame would be reserved forever, especially in the event of success.

Like the Slogan Editor.

Winona Independent: New York's governor says the New York legislature can take care of its senatorial election without any help or suggestions from Western states. But it will, of course, accept suggestions from Tammany.

There's nothing like "consulting," you know.

Coming to Blows.

Walker Pilot: Sad to relate, pugilists are not the only people who come to blows as a result of ring ceremonies.

If that's a news item, what's happened to the names?

Billtaftism and Progress.

Fairmont Sentinel: Progressive Republicanism means anti-Billtaftism. It is a big improvement on the original article.

And that word is a big improvement on any other description extant.

Trusts and Toga Wearers.

Princeton Union: An Indianapolis paper declares that every trust has a friend in the United States senate. Isn't this putting the number of friends too low? Some trusts seemingly have at least a score there.

But so eager are some of them to assist the infant, that they burden themselves with responsibility for several, aside from their own particular one.

In the Orient.

Albert Lea Standard: At last the imperialists are forced to admit the truth. Congressman Foster, Republican chairman of the committee on foreign affairs, says that the Philippines are a lemon and that Uncle Sam will cheerfully let the Japs have them if they want them. But the sugar trust and the other favored exploiters would hardly consent to this.

Why not incorporate them and then permit the sugar trust to freeze out the government?

Ballinger and Lorimer.

Two Harbors Journal Press: If the stock of whitewash was not exhausted on Ballinger, perhaps there will be enough left for Lorimer.

Impossible.

Convicts As Farmers.

The Survey: At the Colorado state penitentiary at Canon City, the prisoners have worked outside the prison for the past four years.

Some 1,500 men have been employed on ranches and garden tracts leased by the prison, in constructing a water system for Canon City and on public highways anywhere from one to 150 miles from the institution. Few escapes have been made in spite of absence of bars or manacles, and most of the few who got away were caught or came back of their own will. About 100 miles of splendid mountain road, half of it blasted through solid rock, and the value of the farm products raised gave back to the state more than the $225,000 for maintenance which it appropriated two years ago. On the other side, the men improve in many ways and most of them who are paroled go direct from the work camps with no prison mannerisms to forget. No depredations or misconduct have been charged against the camps.

Render Unto Caesar——

New York Tribune: The agent of a recently completed large apartment house had a card placed in all the passenger elevators bearing this notice: "Gentlemen will remove their hats when there are ladies in the car." The cards were taken down after a few days, but there seems to be a difference of opinion as to the reason. The agent says that his aim has been accomplished, while some of the tenants say that he was willing to let the matter of the hats take care of itself after he had read a letter signed by a number of tenants protesting against his "mentorship." "If you want us to take off our hats to anybody let the order come from the janitor," they wrote. "He's the janitor, but you are only the agent."

Doctoring to Sick Minds.

"A fine, healthy boy, 14 years old, was brought by a grade teacher in March, 1896, to Dr. Lightner Witmer at the University of Pennsylvania for advice concerning his chronic bad spelling. The teacher assumed that psychology should be able to find the cause of the failing and advise ways for removing it. From that time the psychological clinic has continued its work.

"The boy was three years behind his proper school grade because of his excessively poor reading and spelling," writes Arthur Holmes of the University of Pennsylvania in The Survey, "though in other respects he was normal. He read 'was' as 'saw,' 'weather' as 'water.' His uncertainty of single letters led Dr. Witmer to look for some defect of vision. The suspiolon was confirmed by holding several fingers before the boy's face. At a little distance he was unable to distinguish the number with certainty. He then said that words frequently doubled under his pen. An oculist found that though each eye alone saw normally, the power to fix the two upon a single point was lacking. Glasses were fitted and special teaching given for a few months. From this time on he did not fail of promotion once.

"The psychological clinic is best described by comparison with the medical clinic. Both are to help the patient as speedily as ininsistent with the best results in permanent health. Both must face conditions and not theories. Their diagnosis, therefore, must be as concise and precise as practical demands and actual conditions permit. Decisive action is often of the first importance. In the medical clinic, life may be in danger; in the psychological clinic, mental health may be imperlled because of an already too long delay to take proper measures. Delicate and extensive laboratory tests are out of the question except in special cases."

THE OPEN COURT.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

CLEAN THE LIBRARY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Anent the report of Dr. H. E. Webster, health commissioner, relative to the public library sanitation and ventilation, it should receive prompt attention—the half has not been told in your comments.

The so-called toilet rooms are disgraceful with not an attempt at deodorizing or antiseptic cleansing. They are not fit for a family dog to be shut into. The ventilating measures, meager at best, are not exercised. The rooms are shut up entirely too much.

There is another barbaric measure resorted to. From about 3:30 in the afternoon until about 7 o'clock in the evening these places are positively shut up.

If the appropriations are not sufficient to pay for the proper care, shut them up. In the present condition they are a menace to health of the patrons. Let the institution be properly cared for, and sufficient help of the male gender employed to have all the apparatus of the institution that Andrew Carnegie endowed, kept in perfect sanitary condition.

Recently while pursuing a line of studies that require some considerable references, I have passed some time in the reference library rooms and have commented upon the unsavory, undesirable odor that permeates the place. Let the health commissioner get after the library board and through them at the city of Duluth, to compel improvements. A LIBRARY PATRON.

Duluth, Feb. 12.

A FARMER ON THE TARIFF TREATY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Any unbiased person can see that the Canadian reciprocity treaty with this country is altogether in favor of the already over-protected interests. Taft's plea for the interests is protection to American labor.

The iron workers of Milwaukee are notified of a reduction of 10 per cent in their wages in anticipation of the lower cost of living. Other manufacturers will soon follow suit and reduce the wages of their workmen. The workers would be foolish indeed to expect that benefit would accrue to them because of cheaper cost of living. If there are any benefits to be derived from treaties or legislation, they belong to the interests, of course. They need it in their business. The foreign laborers who are working in competition with American labor for the sum of $1.20 per day are getting restless. The cost of living must be lowered for them. Then, perhaps, they can work for $1 per day or less.

Now I believe the farmers would not object to this tariff treaty, if manufactured goods were put on the free list also. It would in a measure compensate them for their loss. The tariff has been of practically no benefit to the farmers of this country, except for the past two years. Now when it is seen to be of some little help to him, repeal it. It was never intended that he should come in on the tariff deal, except on the blind side. The senator or member of congress who favors the treaty in its present form need not be surprised if his former supporters among the farmers greet him with the Filipino song:

"You may be a brother of William H. Taft,
But you ain't no brother of mine."

POEMS ON OPPORTUNITY.

The following query and answer appeared in an exchange recently:

"Can you give the text of a poem (written by a judge of Tennessee, I believe), which was an answer to the following sonnet by Senator Ingalls, published in the Eclectic Magazine for February, 1898?

"Master of human destinies am I!
Fame, love and fortune on my footsteps wait;
Cities and fields I walk, I penetrate
Deserts and seas remote, and passing by
Hovel, and want, and palace—soon or late
I knock unbidden once at every gate!

"If sleeping, wake—if feasting, rise, before
I turn away. It is the hour of fate,
And they who follow me reach every state
Mortals desire, and conquer every foe
Save death; but those who hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury and woe,
Seek me in vain, and uselessly implore,
I answer not, and I return no more!"

"In the poem I desire to find this fatalistic doctrine is confuted. Opportunity comes often to every man's door, and no one need despair of a daily chance for achievement."

The poem requested is by Judge Walter Malone of Memphis, Tenn., and is as follows:

OPPORTUNITY.

"They do me wrong who say I come no more
When once I knock and fail to find you in;
For every day I stand outside your door
And bid you wake, and rise to fight and win.

"Wail not for precious chances passed away,
Weep not for golden ages on the wane!
Each night I burn the records of the day—
At sunrise every soul is born again!

"Dost thou behold thy lost youth all aghast?
Dost reel from righteous Retribution's blow?
Then turn from blotted archives of the past
And find the future's pages white as snow.

"Art thou a mourner? Rouse thee from thy spell;
Art thou a sinner? Sins may be forgiven;
Each morning gives thee wings to flee from hell,
Each night a star to guide thy feet to heaven.

"Laugh like a boy at splendors that have sped,
To vanished joys be blind and deaf and dumb;
My judgments seal the dead past with its dead,
But never bind a moment yet to come.

"Though deep in mire, wring not your hands and weep;
I lend my arm to all who say 'I can!'
No shame-faced outcast ever sank so deep
But yet might rise and be again a man!"

Among the delegates were Mayor M. J. Davis, J. B. Sutphin, City Attorney S. D. Allen, T. W. Hugo, S. A. Thompson, Leonidas Merritt, C. C. Tear, J. C. Hunter, J. D. Ray, M. O. Hall, O. H. Simonds, R. S. Munger, Capt. Sharp, Martin Wheeler, Judge Devore, Morris Thomas, Monroe Nichols, C. H. Clague and Judge Stearns.

The Myrna Iron company has filed articles. The incorporators are A. J. Trimble, Frank Hibbling, Thomas H. Presnell, R. D. Mallet and Frank J. Tedford. The capital is placed at $200,000. A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Washington Herald: "Thrifty, is she?"

"Thrifty? I won't go into a long discourse. I merely tell you that she banks money in December."

Detroit Free Press: "Have you joined the More Daylight club?" he asked.

"I should say not. It's all I can do now to get home before daylight," replied the old rounder.

Judge: "I understand that young Wrightson has made a fortune out of his play."

"Yes; and a queer thing about it is that it was accepted by the first manager to whom it was offered."

Louisville Courier-Journal: "You say the elopement was sort of forced upon you?"

"Yes; after she came down the rope ladder her dad pulled it up."

Judge: We used to say, "Good things come in small packages;" nowadays everything does.

London Opinion: She—Yes, we are all quite desperately in love with the new curate.

He—Ah, it was just the dread of that sort of thing in my own case that prevented me going in for the church!

Hamilton—He is a good judge; he's going to open a butcher shop in the vegetarian settlement.

Success Magazine: "Doctor, I've tried everything and I can't get to sleep," complained the voice at the other end of the telephone. "Can't you do something for me?"

"Yes," said the doctor, kindly. "Just hold the wire and I'll sing you a lullaby."

Boston Globe: "Yes, indeed," responded the young lady in the hobble skirt. When I go out in the country all nature seems to smile."

"Gracious!" exclaimed the Impudent youth, "I don't blame her. It's a wonder she don't laugh outright!"

Washington Star: "Does your wife want to go to the polls and vote?"

"No, sir," replied Mr. Meekton. "If Henrietta casts a vote, it'll be important enough to have the polls brought around to the house when she sends for 'em."

Judge: Swift—Do you mean to send any valentines this year?

Smith—No. Valentines always miss their object. A girl is almost sure to laugh at the sentimental ones and cry about the comics.

Baltimore American: "We've got to get somebody to play this light part."

"Why not the electrician?"

Judge: Mrs. Benham—You have torn my train.

Benham—That's all right; your train is long enough to be in two sections.

Argonaut: At a meeting of the state medical society, the secretary read a letter from the consul of one of our far-away possessions, urging the need of a resident physician in his district. In a moment of silence that followed the reading, a young man arose and said modestly:

"I wish you would put me down for that place, sir. It sounds good to me. My practice here died last night."

Punch: Man Servant—What name, sir?

Smiffkins (his first experience of a reception)—Oh, my name's Smiffkins. Let's see, where have I met you before?

Judge: "Does your husband go in for golf?" asks the caller.

"No," she answers. "He goes out for it."

RACE SEGREGATION.

Kansas City Journal: Although the race segregation ordinance has failed of passage in the Kansas City council, the problem involved must not be regarded as settled. No problem can be solved by being abandoned, and this one is not to be set at rest by being allowed to go by default. The indiscriminate admixture of incongruous and antagonistic classes cannot possibly make for that peace and order which is indispensible. It has been found advisable, because it is for the best interests of all concerned, to have separate schools and churches and other institutions for negroes and whites. It is unquestionably desirable, because for the best interests of all concerned, to have residence conditions such that the same irreconcilable hostility would be made impossible in this particular also.

But this is quite different from admitting the justice of any conditions which condemn the ambitious, self-respecting and law-abiding negroes to the "shack" districts of the city. Alderman Cleeton takes a high-minded view of the question when he says that he "is not inviting negroes to live next door to him, but if they come he will either make the best of it or move away." Negroes are not the only depreciators of property values. There are white people who are just as unwelcome in a given neighborhood as people of any other race or color.

The fairest and most logical solution of the problem is the voluntary establishment by property owners of high-class residence districts set apart for negroes, not by the hard compulsion of law, but by the more potent authority of business development. Whites do not "invade" the recognized negro slum districts; why should there not be recognized high-class negro residence districts where homes would be possible to the most ambitious and prosperous of the race and where they would be surrounded by people of their own class as well as color? This would be the way out for the negro who wishes to get away from the worst elements of his own race, for he would surely be in an environment more encouraging and congenial than is possible in a "white neighborhood," where he is regarded with aversion.

The problem is largely a commercial one. It is certainly not one for dynamite or the iron hand of the law in defiance of the fundamental rights of free citizens. There could be no more monstrous abrogation of the commonest rights of citizenship than that which shut the door of hope and progress in the faces of any class of law-abiding people.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

DULUTH MAN LANDS FIRST

John Evenson Carries Off Honors in Big Ski Festival Events.

Solberg Wins Amateur Prize —Mel Hendrickson Is Sensation of Meet.

One of the largest crowds ever assembled at a ski meet held in the Northwest, yesterday cheered to the echo the work of the ski riders and left for home well satisfied when it became generally known that John Evenson of Duluth, ex-national champion, would win first honors among the professionals. In point of everything but records made by the riders, the meet was a distinct success.

A worse day for the riders it would be hard to find. While the average spectator might have believed yesterday an ideal day for skiing, because of the mildness, it was decidedly against distance jumping and proved a sore disappointment to the riders who had hoped to establish some new American records on the Chester hill.

The snow stuck to the skis of the riders and made speed down the long slide impossible and the takeoff necessarily lost much force. The riders polished and greased their skis to combat the bad conditions, but in the face of conditions it was impossible to make anything near record distance. The wind was also against them.

Long before time for the calling of the riders to the top of the big hill for the preliminary trial jumps, the crowd looked like a huge, heavily moving snake, as it wound up the hill from the car line to the entrance of the grounds. Slowly and laboriously it wound around the circling up grade, for the snow was deep and soft and hard to waddle through.

Early the street cars had brought a huge crowd to the foot of the hill, for every street car bound for the ski grounds was loaded to the gates long before 2 o'clock, and when men, women and children began to look for sleighs to take them up to the grounds, they found in many instances that the only means of getting to the grounds, was to walk, and walk through deep snow drifts most of the way.

A Gay Scene.

Many living in the vicinity walked to the grounds along Chester creek, and others walked along the boulevard, coming by ski and snowshoe. Many men and women were dressed in bright colored snow shoeing costumes, which gave to the vast crowd a festive appearance.

Many of the people lined the brow of the hill, and trees in the vicinity of the grounds were occupied in many instances by some enthusiasts. If the moving picture men secured a general panorama of the crowd, the beautiful surroundings that nature has provided and the many different costumes of the people, the beholder of the finished film will readily believe that up in this neck of the woods the citizens are true winter sports enthusiasts.

One of the stars of the day was little Mel Hendrickson of Eau Claire. This boy yesterday lived up to the glowing accounts of his wonderful work. His form seemed to be the best of any rider at the meet, as he jumped with the grace and easy skill of a man who had mastered in every small detail the art of riding the skis.

Where this boy gets his length of jump it is difficult to see. He rises from the takeoff like an eagle from the crest of a cliff, and he alights with the easy skill that only perfect balance can accomplish. Where this stripling mastered the art of ski riding is difficult to understand; for surely he is an artist, and an artist at 14 is something of a rarity.

Hero of the Boys.

He was the hero of the youngsters attending the meet, and between jumps you would see young Mel surrounded by the youngsters of his own age, who felt his skis, looked at him with the soul of kid rapture in their eyes and plied him with questions that showed their eager interest.

Anders Haugen, one of the greatest riders in the Northwest, made the longest jump of the day, 129 feet, which was not accomplished in regular competition. The fact that Haugen did not make the long flight in his regular turn accounts for the fact that he did not get into the money class.

In the professionals John Evenson showed the best all-round form. It is possible that had the weather conditions been better yesterday John would have set up some records. He was traveling well. Oscar Gunderson showed great ability and also consistency for there was only a wee foot in difference between his two jumps. John Mangseth and Ole Feiring of this city secured third and fourth places, which gave the major share of the honors to the Duluth club.

Among the amateurs Carl Solberg of St. Paul carried off the first honors with Arnold Olson of Duluth second. Young Mel Hendrickson, the boy wonder, landed in third place, only seven points behind the winner, which is really wonderful when the age and size of this kiddo are considered.

The great Barney Riley, the attraction which draws the Irish to the grounds, proved a disappointment. Barney only drew down fifth place in the amateur events and for some reason was away off form.

There was little delay in running off the events and the big crowd was kept fully informed as to the name of the rider and the distance he jumped. The moving picture men furnished a feature of the meet and their movements excited as much interest among the members of the big crowd as the work of the riders.

A banquet was held last evening at Foresters' hall. A. C. Holter, national secretary, and Dr. C. H. Nason, national president, were present.

Following is the record made by the various riders:

GOLFERS ARE INSURGENT

Members of Western Association Threaten to Form New Organization.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—Individual golfers of the Western Golf association displeased with the way things are going in the East, are going to start a little insurrection of their own and they promise the reults will be more clearly defined than in the case when the W. G. A. started to "insurge."

The casus belli is the refusal of the Eastern Intercollegiate Golf association, which is under the protecting wing of the United States Golf association, to allow "Chick" Evans and Paul Hunter to compete for the intercollegiate title.

Chick and Paul, with the assistance of Ivan Webster of Homewood, have got their "dander up." If they can't play in some other person's back yard they'll make a back yard of their own forthwith and without further ado. In plain English, they will organize a Western Intercollegiate Golf association, fix dates for individual and team championship competition, and then dare the Eastern colleges to match their "champs" against the title holders of the Western schools.

Movement Old One.

The movement for a Western association is not new, but the added incentive furnished by the action of the Easterners has spurred the local boys on and they will delay no longer. The University of Chicago, represented by Hunter; Northwestern university, represented by Evans; Armour institute, represented by Webster, are sure "starters." In addition, it is considered a certainty that the Universities of Illinois and Wisconsin will join and an effort will be made to get Michigan and Minnesota as well. Wisconsin has a golf club of twenty-five members, as has Illinois and there are some individual stars attending all the schools considered for membership. There is little doubt regarding the willingness of the golfers to compete in such a tourney, but the long jaunt they feel at all certain that the Easterners would be willing to meet them in play for the national collegiate championship. The members of the Eastern association term their tournaments a national affair, but the Chicago boys say this is refuted by their refusal to allow Western players to compete.

The matter was up to the Eastern body during the national amateur championship at Brookline last summer, when "Chick" Evans remained in Boston a day longer than he intended to see if he and Hunter could play in the Eastern.

He was informed that they could not, although there was no reason offered for the decision.

KID CUTLER IS COMING

Bemidji Boy Will Wrestle in Duluth a Week From Thursday.

Northern Minnesota Man Returns to Duluth as the American Champion.

Charles Kid Cutler, the big Bemidji boy who has wrestled his way up to the American championship, will meet Ole Sampson in a finish match in this city Feb. 23.

This match will also show the wrestling fans what big Sampson can do. He has long waited for the chance, and the matching with the famous Kid Cutler will give it to him.

Here it might be stated that Sampson held the championship belt of Helsingfors, Finland, and has also won first and second prizes in the big wrestling tournaments of Sweden. Since coming to the United States, Sampson has wrestled some very good men and has beaten them. He has met and defeated Hans Weston, Peter Manard, Hans Conkle, Charles Gustofson, Canadian middleweight champion; has defeated Carl Nusch, one of the strongest of the Germans, the match being decided at Hogwam, Wash.; defeated Carl Lindrus in Wyoming, and defeated John Soderlund at Ironwood; has defeated Martin Johnson on two occasions, and has also taken two straight falls from Ole Johnson at Cloquet.

CHARLES CUTLER.

Cutler's coming will bring a sort of native son back here. The new American champion is known all through this district. It was in this part of the state that he first took up athletics. Of exceptional strength and big even when a mere youngster, Cutler took readily to the athletic game and soon gave promise of developing into a good man, but the most enthusiastic friends never dreamed that he would some day become the American wrestling champion. His defeat of Henry Ordemann the other evening stamps him as the best of the Americans, and as Cutler is only something like 24 years of age, he has unlimited opportunity ahead of him.

Duluth people have always taken a very deep interest in the work of Cutler. He was here one time with John L. Sullivan since he left this part of the country to seek athletic fame, and that is about the only chance Duluthians and fans from the town of Bemidji have had to see the big boy. When here with Sullivan, Cutler was little known. He was simply a strong boy with lots of nerve and the willingness to learn. Now he is the American champion wrestler and one of the five great stars of the mat game.

RHEUMATISM
WEAK KIDNEYS & THIN BLOOD

Not only is the blood the great nourishing source of our systems, but equally as important is its work of removing the waste of oxodized tissues which have been consumed in force and bodily heat. This waste is filtered out through the kidneys. When, however, the kidneys become weak and unable to perform their regular duties, the waste is allowed to remain in the circulation, soon forming uric acid which destroys the greater portion of nourishing elements of the blood and leave it weak and acrid. This imperfect blood deposits into the different muscles and joints the uratic impurity with which it is contaminated. Then the pains and aches of Rheumatism commence. The gritty formation which uric acid causes collects in the joints and produces the aches and stiffness which always accompany the disease. Likewise the muscles are coated and lose their elasticity, while the continual irritation to the nerves produces swelling and inflammation of the flesh.

S. S. S. cures Rheumatism in the only way it is possible to overcome the disease; it cleanses the blood of all uric acid poison and strengthens the kidneys so they are enabled to properly filter out the waste. S. S. S. is not only the best of blood purifiers, but a fine tonic. Book on Rheumatism free to all who write.

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

Walter Miller's Inconsistency in Refusing to Meet Sailor Jack—"Bill" Witherspoon, Sport Enthusiast—Pal Moore's Climb—"Kid" Cutler Is Coming.

(BY BRUCE.)

One more statement in the Sailor Jack-Young Miller controversy to show the methods adopted by some people in kicking the dear old truth into a cobwebbed corner for the convenience and reputation of a man who has come to wrestle the champion.

The sporting writer of the St. Paul Dispatch, who is very much interested in Miller, by the way, came out in his paper the day before the Miller-Matsula match and stated that Sailor Jack had never even wrestled the Jap. This statement was made for advertising purposes to boost the stock of the man brought to St. Paul to wrestle the "champeen."

To prove positively to the fans in this part of the state that Sailor Jack (John Blanchette) did not only wrestle Matsula, the Japanese, but also defeated him, the writer wired to the city editor of the Ellensburg, Wash., Evening Record for a confirmation on the clipping that was sent to the sporting department of The Duluth Evening Herald after the match at Ellensburg.

Here is what the answer, signed by J. C. Kaynor of the Evening Record, says:

"R. B. Liggett, Sporting Editor, Duluth Evening Herald, Duluth:

"Sailor Jack beat Matsula here in straight falls New Year's day, first fall in six minutes and second in forty-two minutes. Had agreed to beat Matsula twice in hour for $500 purse."

Probably nothing further is to be accomplished by argument. The above telegram is on file at the Western Union telegraph office, also the query. They can be examined by the man who stated that the Duluth welterweight star did not meet the Jap. It is now up to the man making the charges; let him prove them. The burden of proof lies on his shoulders.

A letter received in yesterday's mail from a very well-known man in St. Paul, who has for years taken a very deep interest in all sports, states that Ed Adamson will come to Duluth or St. Paul if the match is made, and will be prepared to wager all kinds of money on the chances of Miller. That mere statement, perfectly innocent on the part of the man making it, shows the spirit behind Walter Miller.

The other night at Mankato Miller wrestled with Ted Tonneman of Illinois (have you ever heard of him?) making the second match with this man in the past six weeks. One of the arguments that has been persistently employed by Miller in refusing to wrestle the sailor is that Jack is not well known, is a "dub" and is unworthy of consideration. The Tonneman incident is merely mentioned to illustrate the inconsistent mind of Mons. Miller.

This column will come out gentlemanly and to the point and state that Miller is one of the greatest little wrestlers in the world. It isn't nice to insinuate or intimate or to cast aspersions; they are liable to trudge home to roost. The only thing lacking about Miller is his courage. His discretionary powers are highly developed.

But what's the use? The argument might as well close. In every accusation made by the zealous supporters of Miller no refutation has been made. Miller don't want to wrestle Jack and the writer has received letters to prove that statement. Is it the money side of it? Let's see.

Miller wrestled Tonneman in Calumet and the house was very, very small, much smaller than the house Miller would draw in this city. Again the other night he wrestled this same boy in Mankato, and the house was hardly up to what Miller would draw here or in St. Paul with the sailor. Not so long ago Miller wrestled in Winona with some unknown and surely Winona is not drawing the houses that the city of Duluth has been pulling.

Right here let it be said that it is nobody's business but Miller's where he wrestled—the above facts are merely given to show that Walter Miller, while bright and possessing a very good imagination, is most inconsistent.

If Jack is a "dub" and "easy" and Duluth will draw bigger than Winona, Calumet and Mankato, giving logic free rein for the moment, will some astute student please attempt to ascertain Miller's objection to wrestling Jack in this city. There is something deep about it; it presents a study in psychology.

Perhaps Tonneman wagered $500 on his chances against Miller at Calumet and then showed that he was a dead game sport and went right back and bet $500 more in the Mankato match. Maybe Matsuda bet $500 in the Friday night match. If that is the case, there is nothing, not even a single word more to say, the supporters of the Sailor are through, non plussed, as it were.

But anyway let us wind it up. Too much of anything wearies the public and the public rules in the end. If the sailor can get a match with Conkle and beat him, he will win the welterweight championship without any assistance on the part of Miller. Miller doesn't want to wrestle, and in this broad cradle of liberty of ours a citizen should be left unmolested to his own free and unrestricted path of progress.

Therefore let us bid adieu to the merry Miller chap, a sunny little chap, pleasant and congenial, but, Bill, so terribly, we might say so horribly, inconsistent.

Just one more word! Wonder if Walter Miller recalls the promise he made last September to wrestle Sailor Jack the present season. Oh, well, ah well, what's the difference? So long, Walt.

Concerning Bill Witherspoon.

"Bill Witherspoon, city passenger agent of the Minneapolis & St. Louis railway at St. Paul, and one of the best scouts since the active retirement of Buffalo Bill, and, by the way, known by about every one in this city, drops a line to say that there will be over 400 visiting bowlers playing at the I. B. A. tournament at St. Paul.

William is one of your corraled enthusiasts. He has no chance to jump the fence that keeps the true fans and boosters together. The combination double bar brand of baseball, bowling, wrestling, football and everything save pin pong has been marked on the hide of Bill. He breathes inspiration and exhales enthusiasm. If anything pertaining to the sporting line was pulled off in St. Paul without the magnetic presence of W. E. Witherspoon, that event must have seemed nigh unto a performance of Hamlet without the assisting presence of the melancholy Dane.

Bill says somewhere along in the communication that the Duluth bowlers will be given a noisy welcome, even if he has to do all the "welcome to our fair city" stunts personally. He is the fair haired chee-ld that can do it, too.

Several citizens like Warbling William Witherspoon in our midst and we would have I. B. A. delegates among us begging us to hold a tournament at the Head of the Lakes.

The Making Of A Champion.

Anent the climb of Pal Brown along the ladder, it might be stated that the fibbing boy is a fighter naturally. He is coming all the time and he is slamming with either hand, hope filling his chest the meantime. When he lands you may have noticed the sick expression that comes over the countenance of the other fellow and thereafter a somewhat rightsous respect for distance and a generous resort to grunts and an aversion to any invitation courting reciprocity.

Many of us thought him a comer when he gave "Buck" Larson that very artistic lacing. His subsequent victories have further driven the spike of belief and there are many who are opined that it will require the efforts of a champion to cast gloom on the hopes of the Brown battler.

The kid comes of fighting stock and good as he is it is said that he would not care to get gay with father, for "Bill" packs one of those things in an arm that resembles muchly an iron post both in size and general hardness. Though along a ways on the marathon path of life, Father Brown can very ably take care of himself to this day, as some who have monkeyed in over optimistic spirit, have ascertained.

The Coming of Kid Cutler.

The announcement on another part of this page of the coming to Duluth of the new American champion will hold more than the usual amount of interest for many fans scattered throughout the entire northern tier of this state. The interest is engendered from the fact that Kid Cutler is a Bemidji boy and is personally known to many hundreds of the citizens of this part of Minnesota.

Often a man becomes famous in a day. That is about what has happened to Cutler. For the past two years he has been coming to the top in the wrestling world, wrestling some great matches with the best in the business. Most of his work has been confined to handicap matches and therefore he has not gained the reputation that it would seem should be his.

Then came his victory over Henry Ordemann at Minneapolis. That match stamped him as perhaps the man who will wear the mantle now worn on the capable shoulders of Frank A. Gotch. All of us have believed the past few years that Henry Ordemann was the chosen disciple of the wonder from Humboldt, Iowa. Here we have had our visions cleared somewhat.

The mere announcement of the appearance of Cutler in this city the present month, will excite interest in Bemidji, where the athletic career of the big Bemidji boy has been followed with interest by his townsmen. The securing of Cutler, right on the heels of his victory over Ordeman, when the big boy is filling dates over the country shows that Duluth is coming to the front as an athletic center, has arrived in fact, and is a city that has come to the point where the biggest and best athletic stars of the country are brought here.

INTERNATIONAL BOWLING TOURNAMENT UNDER WAY.

St. Paul, Feb. 13.—Two new marks were set in the second day's rolling of the international bowling tournament here yesterday when the Schmidtzes of St. Paul went into the lead with a score of 2,815 in the five-men event, and the Fenkin Claybournes of Milwaukee went into second place with 2,656.

B. McGarry and G. McGarry of St. Paul led in the doubles with a score of 1,134, W. Fenski and F. Palmer of Milwaukee being second with 1,117. E. Detzer and A. De Vos, both of Milwaukee, lead in the singles with scores of 571 and 564.

MILWAUKEE WILL HELP CHICAGO GET TOURNEY.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—Milwaukee formally withdrew its bid for the 1912 tournament of the American Bowling congress and pledged its support for Chicago at a meeting of the Illinois Bowling association held here yesterday. Secretary A. L. Langtry of the American Bowling congress, whose home is in Milwaukee, said Chicago undoubtedly would accept the tournament as the city has better facilities for holding the annual event. Chicago held the first tournament of the congress eleven years ago.

ADAMS AND FAIRMONTS WILL MEET AT HOCKEY

Tonight the strong Adams hockey team will meet the Fairmonts in a contest that should prove of more than the ordinary interest at the present time, as the Adams and the Big Duluths are fighting for the pennant up there at the top of the percentage column and are at the present time tied for first place.

If the Fairmonts succeed in defeating the Adams the chances of the Big Duluth team for the pennant will look very rosy. If the Adams win this evening their chances for the gonfalon will look just that much better, as they will have gained a game on the team generally looked upon as likely to cop.

The Adams are playing a very strong game at the present time, and as the Fairmonts are also coming along well, the contest should be a good one.

WILL TEACH THE CHINESE ATHLETICS

FRANK P. BEAL.

Frank P. Beal of California has been appointed by the Chinese government, athletic coach of the University of Tien-Tsin. He will have general control of athletics in all the schools of the province. They are included in the Tien-Tsin Athletic association, which has regular meetings for football, tennis, baseball, basket ball and track sports. The athletic meetings at Tien-Tsin are conducted like those of the American colleges. The men wear college colors and college uniforms. The viceroy is present and presents the prizes to the victors.

ADAMS AND COMPANY A

Old Rivals Will Decide Indoor Baseball Championship of City.

Tomorrow evening at the Armory the Adams Indoor Baseball team will meet its old rival, the strong Company A team, in a contest that will be played for the championship of the Head of the Lakes. The two teams have met twice the present season, both games resulting in great battles, the Company A boys getting the first contest and the second going to the Adams. The third and deciding game is exciting a great deal of interest among the followers of the two teams.

Following is the lineup for the game of tomorrow evening:

Adams.	Position.	Co. A.
Grenner	c	Bennett
R. Foster	p	Lee
Anderson	1b	Jones
C. Foster	2b	Schaeffer
Salvoy	3b	Summers

R. WHITESIDE MAKES RECORD

Youngster Sets New Mark in the Running High Jump.

Good records were made at the indoor games of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., which were held Saturday evening. The feature of the meet was the breaking of the city high jump record by Rodger Whiteside, who cleared the bar at five feet five inches. This is a very good jump even for a crack college jumper and is considered very remarkable for a lad.

Following are the results:

Intermediate—J. Shields, 4 feet 6 inches; G. Whiteside, second.

Damage Suit Jury Disagrees.

Menominee, Mich., Feb. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—In the case of Miss Mayme White against the Menominee & Marinette Light & Traction company in which she sued for $10,000 for injuries sustained by a fall from a street car, caused by the alleged carelessness of employes of the company, the jury disagreed. There will be a new trial unless the case is settled out of court. The jury was out for nearly sixteen hours.

VIRGINIA, FIFTH CITY OF THE STATE

VIRGINIA & RAINY LAKE COMPANY'S GREAT LUMBER MILLS AT VIRGINIA.

BY GEORGE REID.

Destroyed by fire for the second time ten years ago. Today, the fifth city in the state in population and fourth in business, ranking next to Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth. That is Virginia. The city's wonderful growth so far has been made possible by the great iron mines and vast lumber resources which surround it. Now it is becoming a railroad center, and fertile farm lands lying on all sides are being developed. Its slogan of 30,000 population ten years hence will in all likelihood come true, since, with its environs, it numbers half that many people today.

The revised census returns give Virginia 10,973 people, 270 per cent increase in ten years. Since the census was taken the headquarters of the Oliver Iron Mining company for this district were removed from Mountain Iron and located in the city limits of Virginia, adding more than 200 to the population, so that Virginia, with the exception of the Twin Cities and Duluth, is outranked in people only by Winona, and few people will dispute the statement that in production and volume of business Virginia outranks Winona. Virginia draws all the trade of adjoining mining locations, numbering about 4,000 people, all lying within a mile of the center of the city, making the aggregate population of the community at least 15,00 people. Within a radius of six miles of the city of Virginia are found 28,254 people, according to the government census just issued. The city is now entering upon a career of wholesale distribution.

Designed for a City Beautiful.

After the great fire of 1900, leaders in the city's affairs planned for a city beautiful as well as substantial. Fire limits were established within which no frame structures could be erected. All residence streets were parked and trees set out, which has done much to beautify the city. You can stroll along Chestnut street, the main thoroughfare, for almost half a mile, and see it built up solidly on both sides with brick buildings and lighted better than any street in Duluth, with a roadway and sidewalks not excelled anywhere in the state. Nearly all of the retail business is done on Chestnut street, a view of which appears on this page. Rents on this street are high, and it is almost impossible to rent a store or office on this main thoroughfare. Mining men of prominence are beginning to center at Virginia, owing to its railroad facilities, and almost every day you will hear one say that he is going to move his family here when he can get or build a house. For residences are just as scarce as business places, notwithstanding the extraordinary building operations of the last year.

Splendid Public Buildings.

The new courthouse, the technical high school and other public schools which are pictured herewith give a fair idea of the public buildings of Virginia, which also has a handsome brick city hall and will shortly have a stately new postoffice and a new library building. It is hard to realize that the city was not on the map until eighteen years ago and ten years ago lay all in ruins.

Good government has played no small part in the rapid development of Virginia. Today no Minnesota city has better local government. Railroads do not cut through the heart of the town, but are close enough to make their stations convenient for travelers. The business heart of the city is along Chestnut street from the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad to Silver lake, and no railroad tracks cross this busy section. Chestnut street is paved with creosoted wooden blocks, as is Broadway, New York city, and has wide concrete sidewalks. The street is 88 feet in width and there is ample room for the tracks of the range electric railroad which is expected to be in operation within a year. Duluth could take lessons in lighting Superior street from Chestnut street. On either side of each block on Chestnut street are five Corinthian standards, making ten to the block, with five cluster lights to each standard, or fifty to the block, which makes the street at night a brilliant blaze of illumination.

Chestnut street has a number of fine three-story brick department stores, office and hotel buildings. Still there are not enough for the demand. The house supply has never quite equaled the demand and several apartment houses have been erected.

Virginia lies on a level plateau, surrounded in a semi-circle by great iron mines and partly sheltered by hills. It has an elevation of 1,000 feet above Lake Superior and 1,600 feet above the sea. It is never very hot in summer and the nights are always cool. The city drains into the St. Louis river and there is no pollution of the adjoining lakes. Virginia has an abundant supply of pure water from artesian wells more than 400 feet in depth.

City Pays As It Goes.

Virginia will have five miles of paved streets before the end of this year, at which time it will be out of debt, notwithstanding it spent $130,503 during 1910 in permanent improvements, and expended $106,635 for current expenses. The city has a good paid fire department and an efficient police department. It makes a point of paying for all improvements as it goes along and has no funded debt.

Virginia has a beautiful forty-acre rustic park on a hill top within easy walking distance of all parts of town and here a start has been made toward a zoological garden. The huge steel barred enclosure of the bears is patterned after that in the New York zoological garden, in Bronx Park. The deer have a roomy enclosure in which to browse and the timber wolves have plenty of space in which to exercise. All of the animals in the park are natives of St. Louis county. This rustic park has been cleared of underbrush and has plenty of native shade, winding paths and driveways and is well illuminated by artistic lighting standards. Its log lodges and other buildings are artistic and on the whole it is a delightful breathing place for the people. It has a bandstand, from which concerts are given in summer by the Virginia city band, and the park is used as public playgrounds. The use of the land occupied by the park is given free to the city by the Oliver Iron Mining company. The park board has purchased a block of land for a small park in the south part of the city which will be improved during the coming summer. The board employs an experienced landscape gardener and all work is done under his supervision.

Wants to be Seat of New County.

Only two years ago, by act of the legislature, a branch of the district court was established at Virginia and now that energetic and progressive city is boosting for a division of St. Louis county. Politics, however, has no part in this story. The new branch of the district court assumed such importance that the range citizens demanded a courthouse, which has been completed, and will be occupied by the next term of court. The courthouse is in the center of a block fronting the new technical high school and the Roosevelt school, forming an imposing civic center. The remainder of the courthouse block is held in reserve for possible new county buildings.

The Virginia postoffice, although it is administered ably, is totally inadequate for the city's needs and is to be replaced by a new structure. Congress appropriated $60,000 for this purpose and a site has been purchased at Wyoming avenue and Maple street. This appropriation, however, is not nearly large enough and was based on the last census, when Virginia did not number quite 3,000 people. The Virginia Commercial club will head a movement to induce congress to make the appropriation $100,000.

New Library and Y. M. C. A.

Andrew Carnegie gave Virginia a library some years ago and an artistic concrete building facing Chestnut street on the lake end was built. No other city or town on the range has a larger percentage of English speaking people than Virginia. The library's facilities have been increased to its fullest capacity but are not adequate to the demands made upon it by the patronage, and Mr. Carnegie has been asked by the library board and the Commercial club to increase his gift by $50,000. It is intended to sell the present site to the Canadian Northern railroad for its new passenger station. The site is the best available in the city for railway purposes.

Plans are on foot to give Virginia a fine Y. M. C. A. building. The city has two good hospitals, first-class hotels and three theaters giving daily performances. Foundations have been completed for an opera house on Chestnut street to cost $60,000. It will seat 1,200 people and will be completed in time for the opening of the theatrical season next fall. In this fine theater will appear first-class attractions, such as play in Duluth and the Twin Cities. Plans have been drawn for an Elks' club house, to be erected this year at a cost of $30,000. The city has two banks, with ample assets and large deposits.

Virginia is devoted to wholesome sports. It has a fine ski slide and is after the next national tournament. Its baseball club is a winning team and has fine grounds donated by the Oliver Iron Mining company. Virginia may be found the coming season in the "Minny" league, being a much beter baseball town than some of the cities already in the league.

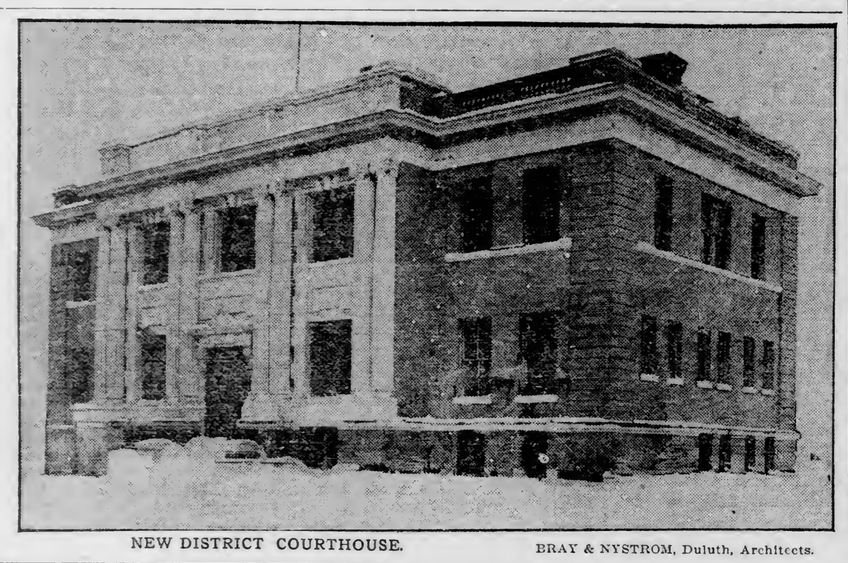

Saloon licenses in Virginia will now cost $1,000 a year each, having been increased automatically by the recent census which gave Virginia in excess of 10,000 population. Here the liquor traffice is held in control and saloons must live up to the law.

Virginia a Railroad Center.

Virginia has four railroads, the Duluth, Missabe & Northern, the Duluth & Iron Range, the Great Northern and the Canadian Northern. It has seven through passenger trains each way daily and with a short line service, twenty-eight passenger trains enter and leave the city every day. The completion of the Canadian Northern railway to Duluth this year will add several more trains and puts Virginia in a class by itself as a terminal point on the shortest railway line between Chicago, Duluth and Winnipeg. The Canadian Northern will erect shops here and add largely to the population.

Virginia is an important industrial city. It is the home of the immense lumber mills of the Virginia & Rainy Lake company, the largest in the world, told about in another column. It has foundry and machine shops, and a large brewing plant, and is beginning its career as a city of jobbers and wholesale houses. It has large department stores and supply houses of all kinds, which draw trade from all over the range.

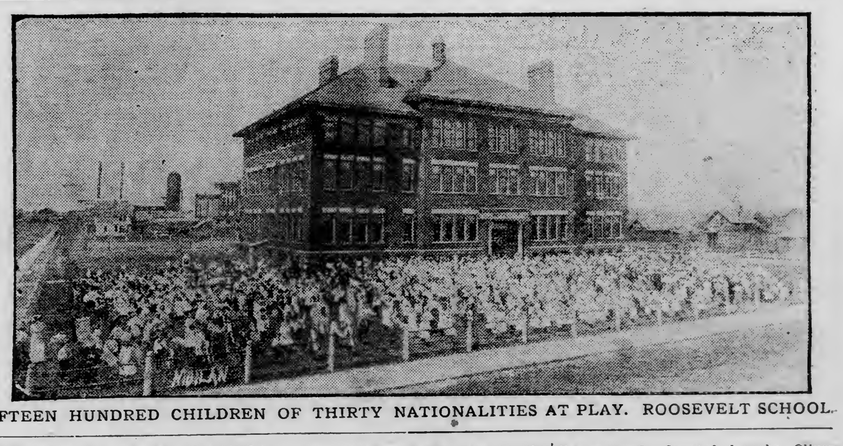

The city is fast becoming the center for mining men on account of its railroad facilities and generally progressive tone, as well as being a pleasant place in which to live. Among the mining offices located here are the general offices for this district of the Oliver Iron Mining company, the estate of the late Governor Frank M. Higgins of New York, the M. A. Hanna company and subsidiary companies, the Pitt Iron Mining company, the Commodore Mining company, the Interstate Iron company, the Euclid Iron Mining company, the Madeira Iron Mining company, the Seville Iron Mining company, the New York State Steel company, the Cole & McDonald Exploration company, Osterburg & Johnson, drilling contractors, who have large shops; Moe Bros., drilling contractors, and Lerch Bros., general assay office.

Demands Good Government and Gets It.

Virginia is made up of workers, whether it be in the mines, mills, shops or offices—workers of the highest intelligence. These men all demand good government and what is more they see that they get good government. They work in harmony with the city administration and the Commercial club for the city's best interests. That is one of the reasons the city is forging ahead so fast. With all of the improvements under way and planned Virginia has no bonds, no indebtedness but what will be paid before Jan. 1 next. Taxpayers, therefore always know where they are at.

Andrew Hawkinson is serving the last of four years—two terms—as mayor of Virginia and it is conceded that his administrations have been productive of much good. He has been aided ably by the other city officials, including the council, the fire and police commission and the park board. Albert E. Bickford is city clerk, O. A. Poirier, city attorney; W. B. Pratt, treasurer; J. P. Carey, judge of the municipal court; James H. Fleming, special judge; E. F. Johnson, city engineer; Ellis E. Walsh, chief of police; A. F. Thayer, fire chief; O. A. Johnson and E. C. A. Johnson.

Rich Agricultural Lands Nearby.

Some of the finest agricultural lands in the state are close to Virginia. All of the government land has been taken up by settlers. Good roads run from Virginia in all directions. This section is being developed agriculturally, the high prices for produce of all kinds and nearby markets being powerful incentives to settle on the soil. The Duluth & Iron Range railroad is offering attractive lands at low prices and on long terms to actual settlers and land companies are doing their share to encourage settlement. Some of these are offering forty acre tracts for truck gardening and dairy farming and it will not be long until Virginia gets all her farm produce within a few miles of the city.

Men who work in the mines are being encouraged all over the range to make their homes on acre tracts which will supply more produce than they can use if worked at odd hours and bring down the cost of living to everybody on the range. To the north, the Canadian Northern is opening up a vast agricultural country tributary to Virginia.

The city has two good social clubs, the Oliver club, described elsewhere, and the Virginia club. The latter organization has finely furnished quarters on Chestnut street and its membership includes 120 leading men of the range. M. E. Fanning is president; O. H. Griggs, vice president; Edward Wenzel, secretary; and George Simons, treasurer. These gentlemen and A. C. Stevens, M. C. Stewart and L. C. David are the directors. Virginia has two first-class newspapers, The Virginian and The Virginia Enterprise, both of which are equipped to do all kinds of printing.

Commercial Club Which Does Things.

Nearly every city and town in Northern Minnesota has its commercial club. Some of these clubs are active and doing much for their respective communities, while others have gone to sleep and might as well never have been organized for all the good they do for their respective towns. The Virginia Commercial club belongs to the active class. It leads public sentiment in the city and directs it into the right channels. The Commercial club is doing things. It started the movement for a range branch of the district court and it started the movement for county division. It is going after more industries for the city and boosting agricultural development. It wants the express companies to deliver parcels at other points besides the main street and demands that a single charge be made for telegrams on the range. It led the movement for the great "white way," which is doing so much to advertise Virginia, and in every way is awake to the city's best interests and progress.

N. B. Arnold, the lawyer, is serving his second term as president of the Virginia Commercial club; C. C. Butler, the contractor, is vice president; W. J. Archer is secretary and treasurer, and the trustees are Mayor Andrew Hawkinson, A. D. Heritage, connected with the Virginia & Rainy Lake company, and Special Judge J. H. Fleming. The publicity committee, which is planning an agressive campaign to advertise Virginia, is composed of W. E. Hannaford, editor of The Virginia Enterprise; David E. Cuppernull, editor of The Virginian, Councilman E. C. A. Johnson, N. J. Smith and F. E. Lister.

Committeemen Men of Affairs.

Heading the public affairs committee is S. J. Cusson, general manager of the Virginia & Rainy Lake company, and other members are E. D. McNeil, C. E. Hendrick, J. D. Lamont, Mayor Andrew Hawkinson, A. C. Osborn and M. E. Fanning. Members of other committees are as follows: Legislative, Judge R. J. Montague, R. C. Pickering, George F. Shea, Otto A. Poirier, William J. Archer, L. M. Osborn and S. S. Dahl; membership and finance, A. D. Heritage, John A. Kennedy, A. E. Bickford, R. L. Griggs and J. H. Fleming; public health and safety, Dr. J. H. Crowe, Alexander Reid, Thomas Gill, A. F. Thayer and H. S. Gillespie; civic improvements, Dr. C. B. Lanont, M. A. Murphy, M. J. Boylan, E. F. Johnson and A. W. Norton; county development, John Costin, Jr., William Rooney, O. H. Griggs and M. S. Hawkins; alternates, A. B. Coates, H. J. Nathanson, B. F. Britts and C. M. Dorway.

The men named above are the principal men of the city. All are interested in the city's growth and all are known for their civic pride.

Virginia has openings for various manufacturing enterprises as well as in other lines of business. Manufacturers and others desiring additional or special information about the city should address the Virginia Commercial club, which will cheerfully and promptly forward the information desired.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS NOT EXCELLED

Virginia Educational Institutions Are Models For the State.

Search the land for an example of what American free education means at its best, what difficulties it has to encounter and what triumphs it can achieve and it is doubtful if one will find a school system more truly illustrative than that of Virginia, which has children of thirty nationalities to deal with. Only seventeen years ago the first school was opened in Virginia with forty pupils. Today the school enrollment is 2,500, the number of buildings eleven, with sixty teachers employed in a school plant having a valuation of $400,000.

The beginning of the system with which Supt. Lafayette Bliss and his staff work is the kindergarten. There are seven kindergartens, well organized and equipped in the most approved fashion. The next step is the customary eight grades. Music and drawing are also taught. When the fourth grade is reached the girls are instructed in sewing and cooking and the boys are given manual training. The best appliances are provided in special rooms in the Roosevelt and Technical high schools. Topping the system is the usual four years of high school work, in addition to which instruction in commercial subjects is offered. Everything that goes to make up a thorough modern education is offered in the Virginia schools up to the point where the college course begins.

The Technical high school building, which has just been completed at a cost of nearly $200,000, was described in detail in The Herald ten days ago. The Roosevelt building is three stories and basement. It contains eighteen grade rooms, library, conservatory and a large auditorium seating 1,000 persons. The total cost of the Roosevelt school was $85,000. The John A. Johnson school building is another fine structure, costing $50,000. The eight other buildings are the Central, costing $20,000; Franklin, costing $2,500; primary, costing $20,000; Homestead, costing $1,000; Farmstead, costing $1,500, and the Higgins, North Side and South Side schools, costing $5,000 each. But buildings and furnishings are not all that is needed in a school system like that of Virginia. Circumstances of the parents of many of the children make it impossible for them to provide the text books or other supplies, and this work is undertaken by the district.

The children of the Virginia schools took the cup at the last state fair for the best exhibit in domestic science, manual training and general school work in competition with the schools of Minnneapolis and St. Paul. S. G. Schulz, state superintendent of schools, selected the Virginia schools to make the exhibit for the state at the World's fair at Nagoya, Japan.

Alderman.

ELECTRIC MARVELS IN NEW SCHOOL

Virginia Leads All Other Cities in Its Many Uses of the Current.

In the detailed description of the new technical high school just completed at Virginia, which appeared in The Herald ten days ago, only passing mention was made of the many parts played by electricity in the operation of the new building.

All of the electrical system installed in this building except light and power are operated by storage batteries. All wires are installed in conduits, removing all danger from fire. A Avery elaborate switchboard in the lower house of the Roosevelt school building, across the street from the high school, controls the light and power in both buildings.

The electrical equipment of the high school includes a most elaborate system of wiring for lighting and power, program clock system, telephone system and fire alarm system. Wiring was done for a total of about 400 lights and thirteen motors, aggregating 78-horse power. The equipment in the laboratory is very complicated, as all sorts of electrical appliances are necessary to perform experiments in physic and chemistry. There are four switchboards in the laboratory alone, with all of the necessary instruments for making experiments.

In the domestic science room, the wiring is arranged to take care of classes in cooking and for this purpose there will be several kinds of electric ovens, stoves, kettles, etc. There are motors for ventilating fans, air filters, the blacksmith shop, foundry, wood working room and so on.

The clock system is so arranged that one master clock in the principal's room will ring a program at any time or any number of times in any room of the building, besides operating thirty-seven secondary clocks in various parts of the building.

The telephone system is so arranged that the principal can talk to any room at will and any room is able to talk to the principal, but the rooms cannot talk to each other. Also the principal is able to tell at a glance which room is calling. The fire alarm system is the same as is employed in the public schools of Boston. On each floor are fire alarm boxes, from any one of which an alarm may be given over the entire building. The whole fire alarm system is absolutely controlled from the principal's room. A disarrangement bell is located in the principal's room, by means of which any fault in the system will immediately make itself known, and the bell will continue to ring until the fault is remedied.

Contracts for all of this electrical work were let last May to the Richardson Electric company of Duluth and are practically completed, to the satisfaction of the members of the school board.

NEW COURTHOUSE AT VIRGINIA

One of the Most Attractive in the State and a Credit to the County.

The new court house building just finished at Virginia is one of the most attractive court houses built in Minnesota and is a credit to the city of Virginia and St. Louis county. Owing to the increased legal business on the range, the St. Louis county commissioners, in the spring of 1910, decided to build a district court building and selected Virginia as the most central and accessible point on the iron range for this purpose. It was decided to build a thoroughly fire-proof reinforced concrete building and provide the same with the latest and most up-to-date equipment of every kind and equal in appointments to the new St. Louis county court house at Duluth. Plans were prepared and contract let early in the summer and the corner stone was laid with fitting ceremony early in the fall in the presence of many notable visitors included amongst whom was the governor of Mississippi.

N. A. HOLMER,
President School Board.

A building of French Renaissance design was selected by the county commissioners and a building committee consisting of Hon. Neil McInnis, chairman of the county board, and Commissioners Patrick J. Ryan and U. S. Grant McMahan were appointed a building committee to see that the work was properly carried forward and a building of creditable character was constructed. It was largely through these commissioners that Virginia secured the court house and it is due to their interest and attention that the building has been carried to a successful completion and Virginia has a court house second to none, for appearance and appointments, to any in the state of Minnesota.

M. E. FANNING,
President Library Board.

There are three full and complete stories in the building, which has been so arranged that the basement floor is level with the sidewalk in the street, consequently this is really a first floor and it is divided into five large offices and is finished in every way equal to the upper stories, on which are located the court rooms. The main entrance, on Central avenue, leads to the first court room floor. In this story is court room No. 1, with judge's chambers, quarters for the clerk of the court and the sheriff and accommodation for twenty-four prisoners. Leading from the main first story corridor is a broad staircase to the second story, in which is contained court room No. 2, the judge's chambers, juror's rooms, a room for the grand jury and rooms for the court attendants.

The interior woodwork throughout is a mahogany finish. The corridor floors are covered with tile and all of the corridors and entrances are wainscoted with cast plaster mouldings and carvings and all rooms are attractively decorated. In the court rooms the floors are covered with cork tile. This is a noiseless flooring and will insure perfect quiet in the court rooms. It is the first time this material has been used in any court house in the state of Minnesota, but it has been extensively used throughout the East.

The present building is but one unit of a future building that will extend from Central avenue to the alley, which when completed will be one of the most artistic, attractive and convenient court houses to be found anywhere, and will have accommodations equal to those in the court house at Duluth.

GIANT MILLS BACKBONE OF CITY

Saw a Million Feet of Lumber Daily and Are Busy Night and Day.

Despite the wealth of the iron mines and the riches they pour out in wages at Virginia, the backbone of the city industrially is the great lumber mills of the Virginia & Rainy Lake company, which gives hundreds of men, many of them high-priced mechanics, work all the year around. This great plant is a model one. During the two years General Manager S. J. Cusson has had charge of it, it has practically been rebuilt. All of the latest labor-saving machinery has been installed, so that today it can turn out finished lumber as cheaply as any other similar mills in the country.

The Virginia & Rainy Lake company has the largest tract of virgin pine timber in the entire Northwest, located in the Rainy lake region, and has recently bought other tracts, thus insuring an ample supply for years to come, notwithstanding its mammoth plant at Virginia has an output of 750,000 feet daily and its plant at Duluth one-third that amount, or 1,000,000 feet daily, and 300,000,000 feet per annum. These giant mills will be operated day and night all winter, except on Sunday.

The Virginia mills have from 1,200 to 1,400 men on the payroll and enough more men in the woods to bring the total number up to 2,000. The men in the woods have their families in Virginia, most of them, and contribute to the prosperity of the city. The company has an exceptionally high class of workmen, being situated in a model city for residence and the rearing of children, with splendid public schools, and has built 164 comfortable homes for employes midway between the business section, the schoolhouses and the lumber plant. The company pays its sawyers $7 and $8 a day. Its highest priced workman, an expert saw-filer, is paid $12 a day. The plant covers 240 acres.

The city of Virginia is indebted to this great plant for much of its rapid growth and solidity, since the Virginia & Rainy Lake company pays out 40 per cent of all the money paid in wages that are spent in Virginia.

OLIVER COMPANY HEADQUARTERS

New Shops, Dwelling Houses, Office Building and Club for Virginia.

The Oliver Iron Mining company has removed its headquarters for the district from Mountain Iron to Virginia, and recently completed the erection of shops, an office building, a laboratory, a handsome clubhouse and forty-five dwelling houses inside the city limits of Virginia, adding more than 200 to the permanent population since the federal census was taken. M. E. Hawkins, superintendent of the district, has held this important post for eleven years.

The district comprises the famous old Mountain Iron mine, the Virginia group of mines, made up of the Mesaba Mountain, the Lone Jack, Ohio, Norman and Shaw; the Minnewas and Higgins, north of Virginia, the Santry-Alpena and Stephens, near Aurora, with undeveloped idle properties in that vicinity. The Mountain Iron mine is not being operated at the present time. The Santry-Alpena was recently opened up and operations are being pushed.

The new shops include a power plant, and electric transmission system. Following out the policy of the Oliver Iron Mining company in looking out for the comfort and welfare of employes there is a fine clubhouse, 42 by 42 feet in size and two stories in height, with a billiard room in the rear, 24 by 52 feet. There are bowling alleys in addition to billiard and pool tables, parlors and reading rooms, and on the upper floor a commodious ballroom.

COATES GROUP OF COMPANIES

Euclid, Madeira and Seville Mines Had an Output of 300,000 Tons Last Season.

A group of independent mines which are steadily increasing their production are those of the Euclid Iron Mining company, near Chisholm, the Madeira Iron Mining company, near Hibbing, and the Seville Iron Mining company, near Buhl. The head of these companies is A. B. Coates, now absent in Europe. Another of Mr. Coates' properties is an underground proposition of small tonnage at Virginia, which will be opened up during the next few years.

These companies are miners exclusively and their ore is all high grade. They take over only proven properties. The production of the Euclid, Madeira and Seville mines last season was approximately 300,000 tons, which amount will undoubtedly be increased this year. The officers of all three companies are in the Finch building, Virginia.

TWICE MAYOR OF VIRGINIA

Andrew Hawkinson's Two Able Administrations May Lead to a Third.

Andrew Hawkinson, one of the pioneers of Virginia, is serving his second term as mayor of the city, being now in his fourth year as chief executive. So able have his two administrations been, with their wealth of public improvements and good government generally, as told about on another page, that it is conceded he is entitled to a third term, if he should care to hold the office longer than this year. Mr. Hawkinson has practically retired from active business and gives nearly all his time to the city's interests.

Born in Sweden, Mr. Hawkinson came to the United States when he was 22 years old, locating in Michigan. In 1884 he accompanied Neil McInnes, now chairman of the board of county commissioners, to Tower. Here he worked as a carpenter. Three years later he opened a hardware store at Tower, conducting it until the fire of 1893, which practically destroyed Virginia. He went to Virginia while it was being rebuilt and has resided there since, eighteen years. Soon his hardware business had reached large proportions and he added plumbing and other lines. This business he sold nearly two years ago to the Norton Hardware company. Mr. Hawkinson, however, retains desk room in the store, which is located in the handsome Hawkinson brick block. Mr. Hawkinson established a large furniture store, the principal one in the city, which is conducted by his son, E. Hawkinson.

By his sterling business methods Andrew Hawkinson has amassed a competency, practically all of which is invested in real estate in Virginia. He has brought business methods into

INTERIOR SAVOLAINEN'S JEWELRY STORE

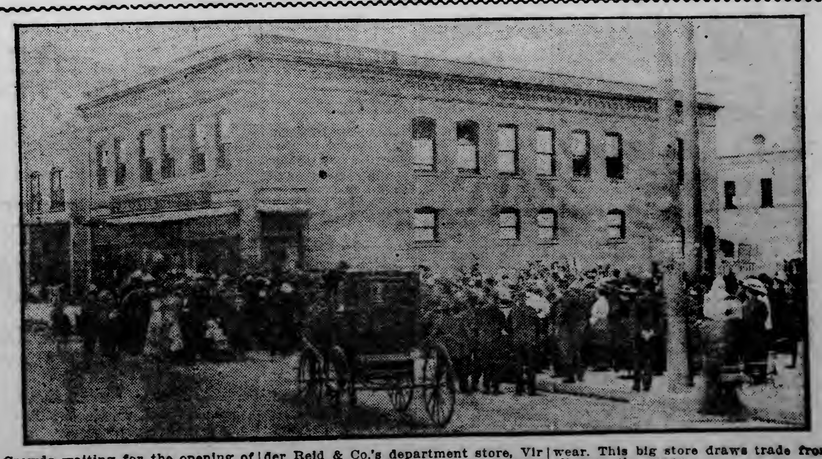

This large jewelry house, situated on Chestnut street, between the Fay and European hotels, in the heart of the city, is the oldest in Virginia, and draws trade from all parts of the range. It carries all the goods usually found in a large city jewelry stores including diamonds, watches, and jewelry of all kinds, cut glass and silverware.

MINNESOTA DRY GOODS CO., VIRGINIA

This large department store carries everything in men's, women's and children's wear. Business has grown constantly since its establishment five years ago, owing to its one price policy and square dealing. It has become necessary to fit up the basement as an additional sales floor for household goods. It is now one of the largest department stores on the range. Max Lewis is president of the company and Samuel Lippman is secretary and treasurer.

the administration of the city's affairs and when the taxpayers' money is spent they are given full value for each dollar. That is why Andrew Hawkinson can be mayor of Virginia again if he shall aspire to the office.

HAS MADE GOOD IN ALL HIS JOBS

City Clerk Bickford Making a Fine Record Now in Accounting.

Next to the mayor, A. E. Bickford, city clerk, is the most important official of Virginia. During his incumbency of the office he has devised one of the best systems of accounting in the state, especially as to assessments, which has been so pronounced by experts and which has been adopted by other cities. Mr. Bickford is an able writer and experienced printer. He has made good in every place he has occupied since coming to Virginia from Ironwood, Mich., in 1893, to be foreman of The Virginia Enterprise, then published in a little shack but which now occupies its own handsome brick building.

Mr. Bickford was through Virginia's two great fires. He remained with The Enterprise for seven years. Then he published The Hubbing News, which was consolidated with The Mesaba Ore. He was elected city recorder of Virginia in 1890, 1891, 1892 and 1893. He was engaged also in the insurance business, and in 1906 was elected city clerk under the new charter. He has held the office since and is serving his third term. Under the charter he is also secretary of the police and fire commission.

The city clerk is firm in the belief that Virginia will have a population of 25,000 by the time the next federal census is taken. Mr. Bickford has given much of his time to public affairs. He has filled most of the offices in the Virginia Commercial club and is secretary of the Virginia Curling club. He is an Elk, and is deservedly popular with all classes of people in the Queen City of the Range.

FOURTH TERM AS TREASURER

W. B. Pratt Has Ably Watched the City's Funds For Eight Years.

W. B. Pratt, head of the oldest grocery business in the city, has been city treasurer of Virginia for eight years. Once he beat Mayor Hawkinson for the office of treasurer and once the mayor beat him. His friends have tried to prevail on him to run for the office of mayor, but he has always refused. Mr. Pratt is one of the city's pioneers, having come to Virginia in 1893. He was born near Buffalo, N. Y., and came west in 1874, settling in Michigan and coming in 1889 to Duluth, where he engaged in the clothing business, removing four years later to Virginia.

Mr. Pratt is one of the substantial men of the city. He is a member of the Virginia club and the Virginia Commercial club. He is one of the most popular men in town and one of the most useful. He said to the writer a few days ago: "The City of Virginia was practically out of debt last year, and in spite of the heavy improvements being made the end of 1911 will probably see Virginia free of debt."

CITY JUDGE'S JOB DIFFICULT

Judge Carey Has to Deal With About Thirty Nationalities in Virginia.

Nowhere in the West probably are to be found people of so many nationalities and so many of whom do not speak the English language as on the range, and Virginia holds her share. This makes the place of judge of the municipal court an exceedingly difficult position to fill. James P. Carey, however, fills the office acceptably, owing to his long experience in the iron mining business in two states, during which he came in contact with nearly all of the nationalities who come before him for judgment. The judge is a man of even temperament, which enables him to "temper justice with mercy" to a nicety.

Judge Carey was elected for four years, but owing to a change in the city charter he had to run again last year, being elected by a handsome majority. He is now serving his fourth year. James P. Carey was born in Stevens Point, Wis. He attended the high school at Republic, Mich., and completed his education at Ripon, Wis. He worked in the mining business and came to the Vermilion range in 1894, being engaged by the old Minnesota Iron company. He was engaged in mining until elected judge, his last mining position being assistant state mine inspector. The judge of municipal court deals with civil as well as criminal cases, so that Judge Carey's time is fully occupied. As judge he has acquitted himself creditably and it seems likely that he will succeed himself in the office.

Judge Carey is a member of the Virginia club, the Virginia Commercial club, the Elks and other social organizations.

FIRE CHIEF NOW AN ALDERMAN

At 31, Successful in Business and One of the Leaders of Virginia.

An illustration of what may be accomplished on the Mesaba range by pluck and ability is afforded in the career of Edward C. A. Johnson, vice president of the board of aldermen of Virginia, who, at the age of 31, is one of the leading men of the city, although a little more than ten years ago he lost his all by the great fire that destroyed Virginia.

Edward C. A. Johnson came to Virginia with his father, J. O. Johnson, just after the fire of 1893. The elder Johnson established a bakery business and his son worked for him until 1900, when a second fire swept away everything they had. The young man then engaged in business for himself and worked hard, but he took time to be chief of the volunteer fire department, being its head for three years. He was largely instrumental in organizing Virginia's fine paid department and was a member of the commission which framed the city charter.

Mr. Johnson is serving his third term as alderman, and between his second and third terms he was vice president of the police and fire board, where he rendered good service. The Star bakery, conducted by Mr. Johnson, has grown from a small shack to a location on Chestnut street and a large bake shop on Maple street. The Star bakery does both a retail and a wholesale business. Work will begin on a new bake shop in the spring, a two-story building, with basement, 72 by 40 feet, to take care of the fast growing trade, which now keeps two wagons and fifteen employes busy. Orders are filled from all range points. In season the Star bakery does a large ice cream business.

MICHAEL BOYLAN USEFUL CITIZEN

Four Years an Alderman—One of First to Aid Fire Sufferers Last Fall.

Alderman Michael Boylan, as chairman of the committee on streets, alleys and sewers of Virginia, has had much important work to do for the city during the past three years, as his committee is in charge of all city improvements except the erection of public buildings. He is serving his second term and his fourth year in the city council and is one of its ablest and most popular members.

Mr. Boylan has been a resident of Virginia for six years and has the principal plumbing and heating business in the city. Mr. Boylan came to Virginia from Kalamazoo, Mich., where he was raised, and has been active in public affairs ever since. He is to be found in the forefront in every movement for the city's good.

Alderman Boylan and Alderman A. D. Heritage were chosen by the people of Virgina to go to the aid of the sufferers by the great forest fires last fall at Baudette and Spooner. They had two car loads of provisions ready when the special train of President McGonagle, of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad, arrived at Virgina from Duluth. These cars were attached to the special and Virginia shared with Duluth the distinction of being the first cities or towns to aid the sufferers. Both aldermen have been highly praised for their work at the border.

While he gives much valuable time to the city's interests, Michael Boylan is a hustling business man and has built up what is probably the largest plumbing and heating business on the range. He is a young man, being only 30 years of age. His business extends all over the range. During the last eighteen months he has done all of the plumbing and heating for 131 houses for the Virginia & Rainy Lake company, besides the new office building of the company, in Virginia, as well as the fine residences of S. J. Cusson, general manager; Mr. Ketchem, general sales agent, and Dr. J. H. Crowe. He has done much important work for the Republic Iron & Steel company, the Shenango Furnace company, the Interstate Iron company and other big mining companies.

Mr. Boylan's work is in nearly all of the principal business buildings on Chestnut street. He did the plumbing and heating work for every Chestnut street building that has been erected during the past two years. The new courthouse in Virginia, which is pictured on another page, is one of the handsomest and best constructed buildings on the range. Mr. Boylan installed all of the heating apparatus in the courthouse.

Boylan & Co.'s office is on Wyoming avenue, near Chestnut street, and their warehouse and workshops on Spruce street, near Virginia avenue.

LAFAYETTE BLISS NOTED EDUCATOR

Started Night Schools on Range and Built Up the Virginia High School.

For seven years Lafayette Bliss has been superintendent of schools of Virginia and has built up a splendid educational system. It is conceded that the city's public schools are not excelled by those of any other city in Minnesota, noted for its magnificent public schools, which lead those of all other states. Mr. Bliss is a native of Chicago, where he received his early education in the public schools, graduating from high school and from Carlton college, Northfield, Minn., and taking a post-graduate course in the University of Wisconsin. He was superintendent of schools at Waseca, Minn., for nine years before coming to Virginia.

Supt. Bliss started night schools on the range. He organized kindergartens and built up the Virginia high school to its high state of efficiency. Eight of the school buildings have been erected since he took office. The high school fits for all colleges in the North Central states. He is the originator of kindergartens suited to foreign children. Last year 100 of the men attending his night school took out their naturalization papers as the first step to becoming good Americans. Almost 500 persons, nearly all of them men, are attending the Virginia night schools. Afternoon classes are held for men who must work nights.

Mr. Bliss is president of the State High School council and a few years ago was chairman of the classical conference of the National Educational association. He takes an active part in all civic affairs.

HEAD OF THE LIBRARY BOARD

M. E. Fanning an Important Factor in Virginia's Public Affairs.

For six years M. E. Fanning has been president of the library board of Virginia, which has given the city splendid service. Owing to the rapid growth of the city it has become necessary to build a new public library, and Andrew Carnegie has been asked by the board to add $50,000 to his gift with which to erect a suitable building for a library, which the city will maintain. Mr. Fannings is also president of the Virginia club, the leading social organization of the city, and a member of the committee on public affairs of the Commercial club, which is mapping out a busy year's work.

Mr. Fanning is one of the pioneers of Virginia. He is a native of Merricksville, Ont., and went to St. Paul in 1888. A year later he engaged in partnership in the clothing business in Duluth with W. B. Pratt and in 1893 they established the grocery house of W. B. Pratt & Co., in Virginia, the oldest and largest establishment of its kind in the city, which keeps nine men busy besides the proprietors and does business all over the range.

While Mr. Fanning has been always active in public affairs he has never held a salaried office. He is past high priest of Virginia lodge, F. & A. M., and has all the degrees in Masonry except the 33rd. Mr. Fanning is highly esteemed by his fellow citizens for his untiring efforts for the public good.

HEAD OF THE SCHOOL BOARD

N. A. Holmer Also Served the City Capably as an Alderman.

N. A. Holmer, president of the school board, Independent School District, Virginia, was born in 1862, and has been in business in Virginia since 1895. He served as alderman from the Fourth ward, 1902-4, and one term on the library board.

At the organization of the Independent School District in 1909 he was elected director and was elected by the board as its first clerk.

The following year the board elected him president, to which position he was unanimously re-elected for the second term, 1910-1911.

BUSY CONTRACTOR ACTIVE FOR CITY

Charles C. Butler Gives Much of His Time to Civic Affairs.

Few business men having such large interests of their own give so much time to civic affairs as Charles C. Butler, who is one of Virginia's most useful citizens. Mr. Butler was the first president of the Independent school board and was a member of the commission which framed the charter for the city of Virginia, under which it is obtaining good government. He is vice chairman of the library board, which is seeking to induce Andrew Carnegie to add $50,000 to his donation, so that Virginia will have a public library commensurate to its needs. He is also vice president of the Virginia Commercial club, whose work is helping in the upbuilding of the city.

Mr. Butler has been a resident of Virginia for twelve years. He is a general contractor, building water works and sewers, and doing cement work on streets, brick and stone work, grading, excavating and logging. His contracting operations have extended over three states. He is an owner of timber lands and holds considerable tracts of choice cut-over lands. Mr. Butler makes a specialty of bidding on public work on the Mesaba range.

A native of Sheboygan, Wis., Mr. Butler was one of a family of fourteen children, twelve of whom are living. He has three children, two sons and a daughter. The oldest of the sons is an engineer in the employ of the Canadian government. Mr. Butler has spent all the years of his manhood in logging and contracting. He lives in a handsome residence on Locust street.

CARL R. JOHNSON.

YOUNG MAN'S RISE ON RANGE

It Shows the Opportunities Offered to Clever Business Men.

The chances offered on the Mesaba iron range to young men of ability and straightforward business principles is illustrated in the case of Carl R. Johnson, general manager of the Johnson Supply company, Virginia, who, at the age of 32, is at the head of a large and growing business extending all over the range.

Mr. Johnson came to the range only fifteen years ago and a year later engaged in business for himself at Eveleth as a member of the Nelson-Johnson company, with stores at Duluth and Eveleth. The name was changed to the Johnson Supply company five years ago. The company had stores in several range towns until recently, when all of its extensive business was concentrated at Virginia, in the company's own building on Central avenue.

The company has furnished a number of hotels on the range throughout. It does business all over the range, employing a number of salesmen.

While a resident of Eveleth Mr. Johnson served as an alderman, and was prominent in all affairs affecting the welfare of the city. He belongs to the Virginia Commercial club and lends his support to every movement for the best interests of the city. Mr. Johnson is a member of several secret orders.

He was married two years ago to Miss Gertrude Baker of Kiron, Iowa. They have one child.

This company constructed $70,000 worth of bitulithic paving for Virginia last season, as well as sidewalk work. It also did work in Buhl and Biwabik, and constructed sewers at Nashwauk, Gilbert, Marble and Keewatin. The company put in all of the equipment at the Knox mine, Mesaba, including dwelling houses, and installed the head frames and power house at the Cavour mine, McKinney. It put in a complete water plant at Calumet, even sinking the wells, and erected a steel tank and installed the pumping plant. The company is now engaged in sinking a mining shaft near Buhl.

The H. L. Bartlett company undertakes heavy timber work, mass concrete, bridges, dams, waterworks, etc. H. L. Bartlett of Virginia is president treasurer and manager. F. B. Tims of Duluth is vice president, and N. F. Hugo of Duluth, secretary.

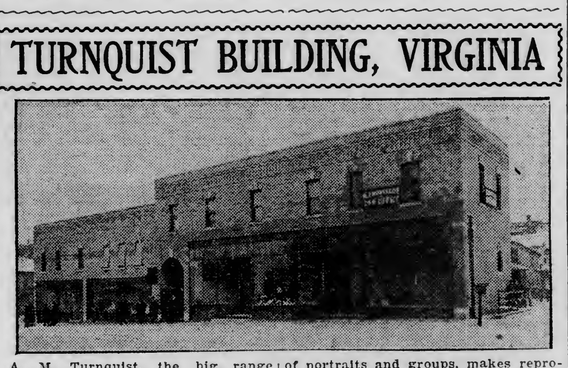

DRILLING FIRM'S BIG OPERATIONS

Osterberg & Johnson Have Turned Up Ore Bodies on Two Ranges.

During the five years it has been in existence the drilling firm of Osterberg & Johnson of Virginia, has done much drilling on the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges and has struck several large ore bodies on both ranges. The firm's work has been so thorough and satisfactory that its business has grown rapidly, so that now it has ten or twelve diamond and churn drills at work and has taken over large machine shops to do its own repair work.

C. H. Osterberg and H. O. Johnson,

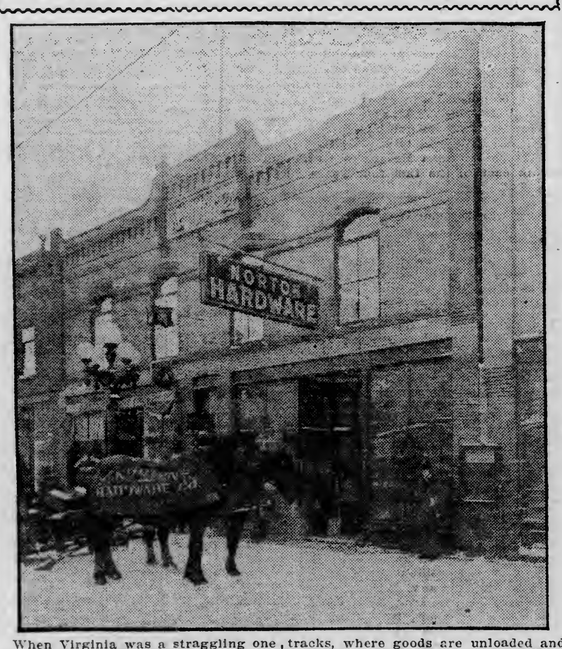

TURNQUIST BUILDING, VIRGINIA

A. M Turnquist, the big range photographer, erected this building last year at a cost of $14,000. Part of the ground floor is occupied by his studio and the rest by stores; upstairs are offices. The building is steam heated and modern in every way. Mr. Turnquist also has studios in Eveleth and Aurora. He takes the best of portraits and groups, makes reproductions and executes pastels, water colors and oil paintings. He makes a specialty of outdoor work, and will do satisfactory photographing anywhere on the Mesaba range.

Most of the photographs illustrating Virginia in these pages were taken by Mr. Turnquist and show the excellence of his work.

NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

When Virginia was a straggling one street village Andrew Hawkinson, now mayor, established the first hardware store on Chestnut street. From time to time the business was enlarged and other lines added until now it is one of Virginia's important business enterprises, its operations extending over the Mesaba and Vermilion iron ranges.

Two years ago the Norton Hardware company was formed and took over the business. Its store is 28 by 128 feet in size, with a tinshop in the rear, 35 by 25 feet. The company also has a warehouse on the D. M. & N. R. R. tracks, where goods are unloaded and loaded directly into cars. In addition to all kinds of hardware the company sells building material of all kinds. It makes a specialty of building hardware and is the sole agent in Virginia for Sargent's building hardware. It handles tools and all kinds of sporting goods, including guns. The company also sells paints and wall paper. Its business is growing all the time. A. W. Norton is president of the company, Marcus S. Norton, vice president and manager, and Charles S. Norton, secretary and treasurer.

The American Exchange bank is capitalized at $50,000, fully paid, and has a surplus of $30,000. Its average deposits are $625,000. The bank does a large business in foreign exchange, selling drafts on all countries of the Old World. It represents the principal steamship companies and sells tickets on all steamship lines. The bank negotiates real estate loans of any amount, large or small, on Virginia real estate, and has been a big factor in the rapid growth of Virginia, to which the recent census gave the largest population of any range city or town.

The stockholders of the bank all have other interests in the city and are interested in its upbuilding, and they lend their efforts to every movement for the city's progress. That the citizens generally appreciate these facts is shown in the number of the bank's depositors, of whom more than 600 carry check accounts and 1,200 have savings deposits. The bank is growing as fast or even faster than the city of Virginia, which is setting the pace for all the other towns on the range.

The laundry is one of the best equipped in the Northwest and does work equal to Duluth laundries at the same prices.

Three Troy laundry wagons gather and deliver work in Virginia and all locations surrounding the city, in Mountain Iron, Eveleth, Genoa, Gilbert, Elba and McKinley. The laundry has agencies in Aurora, Nashwauk, Cusson and Kinmount. Mrs. M. A. Laviolette is the owner of the Troy Laundry.

who compose the firm, are among the most experienced of Minnesota's drillers, each with more than a quarter of a century's experience in exploratory work. For years Mr. Osterberg worked for the Cole & McDonald Exploration company. Mr. Johnson began as a boy on the Marquette range, in Michigan, his early training being under George A. St. Clair, "the wizard of the Minnesota iron ranges." For years Mr. Johnson was employed by E. J. Longyear, famous as a driller, and by the Oliver Iron Mining company in Michigan.

Among the mining operators for whom Osterberg & Johnson do drilling are R. B. Whiteside and A. M. Miller, Jr., of Duluth, Senator P. R. Vail and A. B. Coates of Virginia, E. F. Bradt, the Fall Lake Mining company and the Irona Iron Company, of Duluth. The latter operations are on the Vermilion range. The work for Mr. Bradt is being done on a forty adjoining the famous Section 30 mine, the first producing mine in Lake county, which was brought into the shipping class by George A. St. Clair and Alfred Merritt. The firm has done much drilling for the North American Iron Mining company, the Minnesota Steel & Iron company, the Vermilion Iron & Steel company and the Extension of Vermilion Iron & Steel company, the T. J. Walsh group of companies on the Vermilion range. It is a tribute to Osterberg & Johnson's ability that shares in all the Walsh companies are away above par.

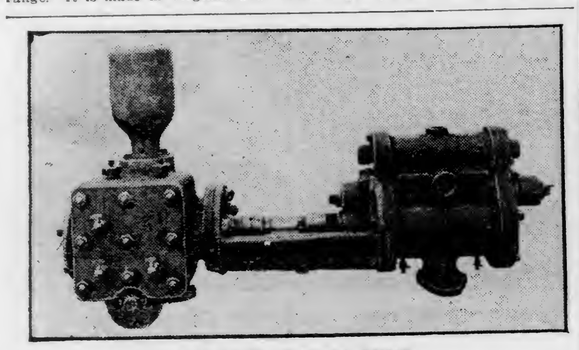

On Jan. 1 the firm took over the large machine shops of George H. St. Clair, at Virginia. These shops are on both sides of a branch line of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad. Machinery can be loaded onto cars directly from the shops, which are among the best equipped on the Mesaba range for doing all kinds of repair work for iron mining and drilling. Here also are the office building of Osterberg & Johnson and the firm's automobile garage, where machines are cared for and all kinds of repairs made.

This group of buildings constitute quite a large plant and are evidence of the large drilling business which has been built up by Osterberg & Johnson in a comparatively few years. Both members of the firm reside in Virginia, where they have lived for nine years.

PUMPS FOR THE MINES AND WOODS

Best Are Made on Range---of Simple Construction and Quickly Repaired.

Pumps for the mines, for drilling and for the lumber camps are made in Virginia and are taking the lead over other makes, owing to their simplicity, durability, rapid work, and the quickness with which they can be repaired while in place. All parts of these pumps are interchanageable, and they possess so many other admirable qualities as to justify a detailed description. The Pollock-Osborn pump was designed specially to met the needs of the iron mines, lumbermen and driller men, and after extended use has made good all the claims that have been made for it. Today it is the standard pump of the Mesaba iron range. It is made in Virginia, and in case any part gives way it is easily, quickly and cheapy repaired, which is an important consideration to users.

The steam cylinder of the Pollock-Osborn pump is fitted with interchangeable iron bushing, with balanced piston valves. The water cylinder is fitted with interchangeable brass bushing, brass valves and brass valve seats, and can be fitted with brass piston rod, if desired. The pump valves are readily accessible, the arrangement of valves being such that by removing one plate all valves are brought into view.

The pump's construcion permits of using any material for valves to suit liquids of any temperature or consistency. The water pistons are packed with fibrous packing, either for hot or cold liquids. Every pump has suction openings on both sides of the cylinder and the outlet can be turned in any direction desired.

This pump is built positively interchangeable in all parts. In making ordinary repairs it is only necessary to give the letter and figure on the part wanted. The studs in the valve chamber cover and the water end cover are spaced close enough together to prevent the blowing out of gaskets. The pump is also fitted with a novel construction of air chamber. The top of the air chamber is concave, thereby forming a funnel to prime the pump through in case of a very high lift.

These pumps can be driven as fast as steam will drive them without hitting the heads. They can be repaired in place by ordering the different parts from the factory. Each pump is tested thoroughly before leaving the factory. The No. 3 and No. 4 pumps are especially adapted to drill purposes.

The same company makes a lumbermen's tank pump which is fast coming into use and giving satisfaction wherever it is used. It is a simple pump, with no outside working parts and only a few parts in the entire pump. All parts are interchangeable and easily accessible. It weighs only 700 pounds and can fill a 10,000 gallon tank in fifteen minutes when run at normal speed. Steam is taken from a log hauler when such a machine is used, or from a small portable boiler. The pump is placed on top of the tank in a box. The exhaust steam is turned directly into the tank, thus preventing the tank from icing or freezing. The pump is supplied with a sufficient number of drains to empty both ends quickly. It has the Pollock patent steam valve, which is very positive in its action.

A horse would have to move at the rate of a mile a minute to do the same work as the pump in the same time. This pump does away with the water team and barrel, so familiar in lumber camps. Elevated water tanks and gasoline engine pumps are not needed when the Pollock-Osborn tank pump is used. Among the Mesaba range users of this pump are: Colvin & Robb of Biwabik, J. A. Redfern (the Sturgeon Lumber company) of Hibbing, and Sutton & Mackey, also of Hibbing. A lumberman with ice roads to build cannot afford to be without one of these pumps.

The same company is bringing out a vacuum pump to be used in connection with steam heating plants. It is notable for its extreme simplicity.

Prices for the mining and drill pumps will be furnished on request by the Kelley-How-Thomson company, wholesale hardware, mining machinery and contractors' supplies, Duluth; and on lumbermen's tank pumps by E. J. Hilliard, dealer in lumbermen's and mining supplies, Duluth, or by the makers, the Virginia Foundry & Machine company, Virginia, Minn. The company last named is one of the pioneer industries of Virginia, having been established twelve years ago. It has had a constant, healthy growth. The Virginia Foundry & Machine company makes general repairs, brass and iron castings and does heavy forging. This useful enterprise has been conducted for the last seven years by A. C. Osborn and W. S. Pollock, who control the company. Mr. Osborn is an able business man and Mr. Pollock is a practical machinist.

GRANDE UNIQUE AS A CONTRACTOR

Will Build a House or Furnish All Materials Used in Construction.

Virginia is possessed of a live citizen who has been very successful as a builder and who is unique as a contractor, inasmuch as he will contract to erect a building or he will sell you all the materials to be used in its construction from cellar to roof from his big stock of building supplies. He is Andrew Grande, who has been a resident of the city for ten years and constructed buildings in Virginia before that. Mr. Grande's business extends all over the Mesaba range and is getting bigger all the time. In the busy season he employs as many as a hundred men.

Among the buildings he has erected in Virginia are the Finch block, the Mesaba block and the Hannaford-Johnson block. In addition Mr. Grande has built many of the fine residences in Virginia, and one-quarter of all the buildings in town and notable structures all over the range. He does much work for the Oliver Iron Mining company, Hamm Brewing company and other corporations. He has helped to build up Virginia, erecting five fine dwellings on his own account and is one of the largest individual taxpayers in the city. He erected the new office building and clubhouse for the Oliver company at Virginia.

Mr. Grande has the largest building supply business on the range, with warehouses at Spruce street and the D. M. & N. R. R. and at Poplar street and the D. M. & N. R. R. His stock includes everything for the construction of a building, including hardware, to which will be added this spring farm implements and machinery of all kinds, and wire fencing, needed by the growth of agriculture on the range. He will further enlarge his supplies by the addition of sash, doors and interior fittings. He will then have everything needed for the inside or outside of a house, even storm doors and window screens.

No building undertaking is too large or too small for Mr. Grande to undertake, and people contemplating building on the range, no matter where, will do well to get his figures before letting the contract.

BEST OF ALL YEARS PREDICTED FOR THE MESABA IRON RANGE

Steel Situation, With Business Generally, Is Improving All the Time.

Last Year's Production of Iron Ore Broke All Records on the Range.

Not Controlled By Steel Corporation, Independents Shipping 40 Per Cent.

Accurate Record of Shipments By Districts for Each of Last Four Years.

BY GEORGE REID.

After breaking all records for shipments of iron ore last season the Mesaba range, judging from all the information obtainable, will set a new record for shipments in 1911. Notwithstanding that throughout last year there was dullness in the iron and steel market, which had not recovered from the big financial disturbance of 1907, shipments from the Mesaba exceeded the banner years of 1907 and 1909, and were nearly 12,000,000 tons in excess of the shipments of 1908.

Railroads are beginning to order the betterments they have been putting off for four years. The iron and steel situation is getting brighter week by week. Industrial prosperity has been slowly but surely returning for two years. Business is improving in all lines and this is reflected in the big railroad earnings and the increasing demand for iron and steel.

Much of the trading of the Mesaba range is done in Duluth, and this city is vitally interested in everything that concerns the range. Wherefore, this review. Care has been taken in verifying all the figures here set forth, showing the shipments from each district of the range during each of the last four years. These figures were taken from the books of the Oliver Iron Mining company, the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railroad company, the Duluth & Iron Range Railroad company and the Great Northern Railroad company. The three railroads named are the only ones shipping ore from the range.

When the Mesaba dropped in 1908 to 17,000,000 tons from 27,500,000 tons the year before, the blow was felt in all of the cities and towns of the range. But a year later saw the production slightly overlap that of 1907, and last year was the most prosperous in the range's history. Business might have been dull elsewhere, but the dullness was not perceptible on the Mesaba. Its cities and towns are all doing a good business and growing fast, some of them with marvelous rapidity.

Not Controlled by the Steel Corporation.

Contrary to the belief held by many people the United States Steel corporation, through its subsidiary companies, does not control the Mesaba iron range. Production by Independents is growing every year. Their shipments are now more than 40 per cent of the total. This is not a fanciful statement as the reader will find by consulting the figures that are presented herewith. Nor do the two railroad allies of the Steel corporation monopolize the shipments from the range.

Out of a total of 29,000,000 tons of ore shipped last year, the Great Northern railroad carried 8,500,000 tons, more than ever before. In the tables farther on, it would appear that the Great Northern carried less ore last year than in 1907 and in 1909. That table is made up only of the shipments of independent companies. Counting the ore carried for the Oliver Iron Mining company, the Great Northern carried the following totals: 1907, 7,440,386 tons; 1908, 3,564,030 tons; 1909, 6,540,505 tons, and last year, 8,437,261 tons.

St. Louis county no longer has a monopoly of iron mines in Minnesota. Lake county has its first shipping mine in Section 30, which shipped last year 52,900 tons and put much more ore on the stockpile. This year Section 30 is under contract to ship 225,000 tons. Itasca county shipped last year from the Canisteo district alone 2,320,787 tons, as against less than 500,000 tons the year before. When the Cuyuna range begins to ship this spring other Minnesota counties will be brought into the iron producing class.

Shipments in Detail and by Districts.

Following are the total shipments in gross tons from the Mesaba iron range during each of the last four years, by districts, of the Oliver Iron Mining company:

District—	1907.	1908.	1909.	1910.
Hibbing	7,009,102	5,730,158	7,242,179	7,031,607

New mines of the Oliver company and their shipments in 1910 were as follows: Una, 341,961; Mississippi, 36,581; Harold, 27,711, and Mace, 15,267.

During the season of 1909 the concentrating mill of the Oliver company at Coleraine, Itasca county, shipped 41,108 tons, which was increased last season to 610,392 tons. This concentrating plant is of great importance to the Mesaba range, especially to the western part of the range, which has great deposits of lean ores which will now be given a commercial value. This is not to be taken to mean that all the ores of the Western Mesaba are lean, for they are not. Some of the mines average up with the best on the range.

Big Shipments of the Independents.

Following are the shipments in gross tons by independent mining companies, by districts, over the Great Northern railroad during 1907, 1908, 1909 and 1910:

NEW MINE NEAR BUHL

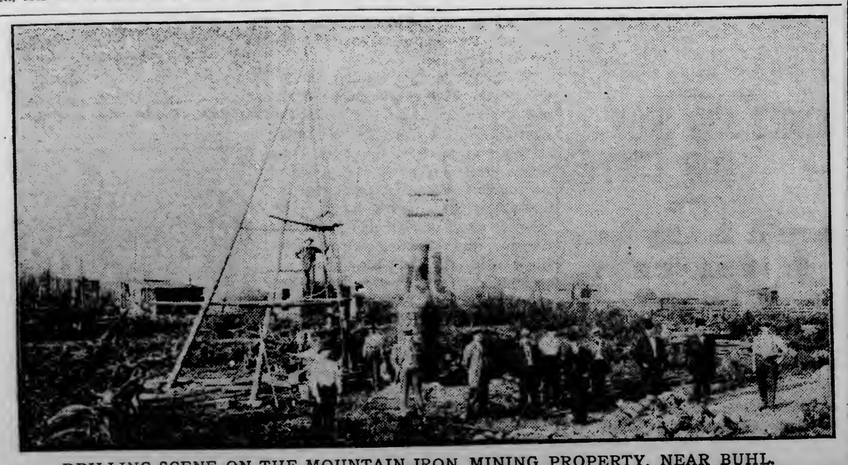

It Is Being Opened Up by the Iron Mountain Mining Company.

Two Drills Establishing Formation Preparatory to Sinking Shaft.

Adjoining Buhl a large mining property is being developed by the Iron Mountain Mining Company of Duluth, which has done much expensive development work and has been rewarded by finding what is apparently a large body of iron ore. Two diamond drills are being worked to establish the extent of the formation. When that is known definitely a shaft will be sunk. Drill No. 1 is down 500 feet and from a depth of 210 feet is in mixed ore the quality of which increases with depth. Drill No. 2 is down 200 fee in taconite, which on the Mesaba range always overlies the ore formation.

This property is in the heart of the range and is surrounded by the Culver, Frantz and Sharon mines, while the Grant and Iron Chief mines are eighty rods to the west. The company has a second desirable property under lease one and a half miles south of Buhl, which is crossed by the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad. The Iron Mountain company is capitalized for $300,000, dollar shares. Half of these shares were used in payment for all the assets of the company and the rest were placed in the treasury for use in developing the property. From time to time, as money has been needed to pay for work, these shares have been sold at par, but they have been in such demand owing to the good showing made by the diamond drills that the price has been advanced to $1.50 per share.

The Iron Mountain Mining company is a local concern, whose directors and promoters have their own money invested. They are G. A. Rydberg, timber and mineral lands; David O'Brien, real estate and insurance; B. F. Forrestal, real estate and insurance; W. H. La Salle, conductor Great Northern railroad, all of Duluth; William Brown, yardmaster of the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad at Hibbing, and T. P. Cory of Buhl, president of the Helmer Exploration company, which is doing the drilling for the Iron Mountain company. G. A. Rydberg is president and treasurer and David O'Brien secretary. The company's office is in the Torrey building, Duluth.

HIS READY WIT WON PLACE.

London Globe: There is now in the French chamber as attache of one of the ministerial departments a young man who owes his position to his native smartness. He went up to Paris with a letter of introduction to a minister and was received in the stereotyped fashion. He turned up at the department daily. At length the minister noted his pertinacity and by way of saying something asked the young man if he would like to have his photograph. The present was accepted and the minister overwhelmed with thanks.

After receiving the photograph the young man absented himself altogether from the bureau. Two months elapsed and then there was a chance meeting in the street. The minister, smiling, asked the suitor the cause of his prolonged absence.

"Mon Dieu, monsieur le Ministre," was the reply, "I had your photograph and spoke to it, and that was enough for me." "And what did my photograph do for you? What favors?" inquired the minister. "Oh, nothing, absolutely nothing," was the quick reply, "exactly as the original, so I knew the resemblance was perfect."

The next day this youth of enterprise received his appointment, and he is said to be named for an under prefecture.

ON THE GROUND FLOOR.

Los Angeles Times: "I dined with Henry James, the great American novelist," said a magazine editor, "at his London club, the Athenaeum. Over the dessert I reproached James for the dreadful way he roasts the morals and manners of our millionaires in 'The Jolly Corner.' James said they deserved roasting, and to prove it he told me a story.

"He said a New York multimillionaire got converted one night at a revival meeting, and, standing up in his place, the rich convert declared that his conversion was retroactive, and he proposed to make restitution to any one he had ever wronged.

"Well, about 2 o'clock that morning the millionaire was awakened by a long ring at the bell. He put his head out of the window.

"'Who's that?' he said.

"'I am Thomas J. Griggs,' was the reply. 'I heard about your conversion, and I'd like you to pay me back that $200,000 you cheated me out of in the U. B. D. receivership.'

"'All right, I'll pay you,' said the millionaire. 'But why the deuce,' he added angrily, 'do you want to ring me up at this hour?'

"'Well, you see,' was the reply, 'I thought I'd come early and avoid the rush.'"

MIDDLE NAMES FORBIDDEN.

London Globe: It is a curious fact that middle names were once illegal. The old English law was very definite as to the naming of children, and according to Coke, "a man cannot have two names of baptism." "It is requisite," this law goes on, "that the person be named by the name of his baptism and his surname and that special heed be taken to the name of baptism."

Royal personages have always been allowed to have more than one given name, but as late as 1600, it is said, there were only four persons in all England who had two given names. Even a century and a half ago double names were very uncommon.

A VIEW FROM THE ST. LOUIS RIVER OF THE ZENITH FURNACE COMPANY'S PLANT

The successful operation of the blast furnace in West Duluth blazed the way for the great steel plant, which is rising at Spirit lake and which will help Duluth to double its population during the next ten years. Twenty years ago the first iron was smelted here, but the plant was not firmly established until it was taken over by the Zenith Furnace company in 1901. Since then its growth has been continuous and today it has double the capacity it had ten years ago. The company employs about 350 men the year around and is one of Duluth's most important industries.

In the spring of 1903 the company erected a complete by-product coking plant, together with a large coal dock. Soon it was found that the demand for Zenith lump and steam coal was much greater than had been anticipated and during 1905 the dock was doubled in size, giving it a capacity of 400,000 tons per annum. In the spring of 1908 further improvements, consisting of an entire new steam plant of the latest design, together with additions to the furnace plant were completed. This was followed by an increase of 50 per cent in the capacity of the coal dock last summer, so that it can now handle 600,000 tons a year.

The by-product coking plant has a capacity of 250 tons of coke per day. This amount supplies the furnace with its requirements and leaves a small amount for sale from time to time. This coke is eagerly sought for house heating furnaces, as it is an ideal fuel for the purpose, due to the high grade of coal used in making the coke, resulting in a product of great purity. Shipments of coke are made to all surrounding points, especially Winnipeg. Several thousand tons have been shipped to that city this winter. Many dealers in northern towns are taking advantage of this ideal fuel.

The Zenith Furnace company supplies the water and light department of Duluth with all of the gas required for use in the city. This arrangement has proved very satisfactory to all concerned. The city pays a low price to the company and is enabled to furnish gas to consumers at 75 cents per thousand cubic feet, which is much lower than the average price for gas in other cities similarly located. The company maintains an appliance department at 312 West First street, where all of the newest and most up-to-date gas ranges, water heaters and lamps are for sale. The steady growth in the consumption of gas in Duluth indicates how general its use has become.

RICH RANGE FARM LANDS

Fertile Soil and High-Priced Markets Close By For Settlers.

Farms Can Be Had Cheaply Now Near Prosperous Cities and Towns.

Minnesota's vast wealth is most strikingly illustrated on the Mesaba iron range, where the largest and richest iron mines in the world and fertile agricultural land lie almost side by side. It has been only a few years since the agricultural development of this region was begun, but it has made rapid strides, and cosy farm homes and productive fields are making their appearance on the range. Still, nearly all that is consumed on the range is brought from remote points, most of it passing through Duluth, while rich farm lands are untilled close to many prosperous cities and towns, which will consume all and more than the farmers can produce for years to come at high prices.

Here almost anything can be raised that can be produced in the temperate zone anywhere. Near the range cities and towns, no doubt the best opportunities are to be found in truck and dairy farming, for which the soil is particularly adapted. Wherever the ground is cleared in Northern Minnesota a rich growth of clover springs up. It is famous for its hay crops, many thousands of tons of wild hay being harvested every year. In root crops, for cattle feeding, this section excels any other part of the country. On the Mesaba range today celery is being raised superior to the famous product of the Kalamazoo region, Michigan. Vegetables of all kinds, berries and small fruits grow in profusion, and give the farmer rich returns for his labor. Poultry raising has also proved very profitable. Farmers have only to go to the nearest range city or town for a market and should the time ever come of an oversupply of produce on the range it has the splendid market of Duluth, where prices of produce are high, since much of it is brought from distant points.

A Railroad With a Soul.

Corporations are usually considered to be soulless, and therefore it is gratifying to find one with a sense of moral responsibility. Minnesota taxes the gross receipts of railroads and the courts have held that this tax includes lands held by the railroads and that the land is not subject to an additional tax. As a result great tracts of land so held contribute nothing to the communities in which they are located for road building, schools and other public necessities. In this county many thousands of acres of land are owned by the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, which gave the people a delightful shock a few months ago by voluntarily agreeing to place all of these lands on the tax list. The railroad will pay hundreds of thousands of dollars in taxes, which will be used in building roads and making other public improvements which will be of incalculable benefit to settlers in St. Louis county.

This railroad is also doing much for agriculture itself. It has established the model colony of Meadowlands, on its Coleraine branch, sixty-one miles from Duluth and about an equal distance from Hibbing. Here truck gardening in Northern Minnesota is seen at its best. Scattered through this section are many tracts of rich muck land. There are no big stumps and it is easily drained and the cost of getting the land in shape for production is less than usual. Here and there are hundreds of acres of natural meadows on which the wild grass may be mowed just as it grows, but the land is too valuable for intensive cultivation to be left in that shape.

All the Timber Needed at Hand.

Some of the land lies comparatively high and is usually covered by a light growth of birch, balsam, poplar and spruce, giving an ample supply of fuel and all the timber needed for building purposes. The soil varies from a clay loam to a rich sandy loam, with large patches of muck land underlaid with clay, which is peculiarly rich and quickly responsive to cultivation.

With 450,000 acres of land in St. Louis county, the railroad company for a number of years followed the usual methods of inducing settlement, but found them unsatisfactory. The experience of settlers scattered in the woods, reaching markets at a distance, over poor roads, involved hardships and disappointments, and prevented the farmer from putting forth his best efforts. A new policy was decided upon. Lands were chosen that were easily accessible and provided with first-class roads, and where necessary, with drainage. Settlement is being made along lines that will give the producers the convenience of a first-class shipping station and the advantage of living in a civilized community among neighbors and friends. It was decided to sell lands only to actual settlers who would improve it and go to producing. Fifty miles of good roads have been built radiating from the Meadowlands station and every farmstead near the Meadowlands settlement has as good roads as are found in Southern Minnesota, famous for its fine farms.

The railroad company has gone further than that. Where an individual settler must spend a long time clearing his land by laborious process, the company can put it in shape at a smaller cost and in a much shorter time. So that when a ten-acre tract is sold it is turned over to the settler with four to ten acres cleared and ready for the plow, or if a larger tract is sold for a dairy farm, a clearing of say five acres is made by the company and where it costs from $5 to $30 an acre to clear the land, the price of the whole tract with this clearing is perhaps $17.50 per acre, in place of $15 per acre, the usual price for wild land.

Persons intending to settle in Northern Minnesota will further their own interests by communicating with the Land Department of the Duluth & Iron Range railroad, Wolvin building, Duluth.

DRILLS FOR IRON AND COPPER

George H. St. Clair One of the Largest Operators in Two States.

Only a few diamond drilling concerns operate on as large a scale as George H. St Clair, who operates twenty-one drills and employs 100 men in the busy season. His principal operations are on the Mesaba and Michigan ranges and he drills for copper as well as iron. He is the oldest son of George A. St. Clair, known as "the wizard of the Minnesota iron ranges," who has made a big producer out of the famous Section 30 mine in Lake county, after other experienced mining men had failed. Mr. St. Clair got his training from his father. He has been engaged in the drilling business for ten years. Among the big mines which he "turned up" on the Mesaba range are the Bangor, near Biwabik, and the Schley, at Gilbert.

Mr. St Clair does drilling for the Oliver Iron Mining company, the Republic Iron and Steel company, the Pickands-Mather company, the Interstate Iron company, the New York State Steel company, the Ogleby-Norton company and many minor interests on the Mesaba range. His heaviest work in Michigan is for the Niagara Iron Mining company, Iron River district, and the Jones & Laughlins Ore company, Ishpeming and Iron River; Buffalo & Susquehanna Steel company, Verona Iron Mining company, Munro Iron Mining company and Pickands-Mather company, in the Iron River district, and the Spring Valley Iron company, Palatka, Mich. He also does much work for copper companies.

George H. St. Clair has his principal office in the Sellwood building, Duluth, and offices in Virginia, Minn., and Iron River, Mich.

RANGE FARMS ON EASY TERMS

Choice Lands for Truck Gardening and Dairy Farming Close to Cities.

Fred B. Rossom, who has made a fortune on the Mesabe range and is an authority on range real estate and farm lands, has set about to solve the problem of high living on the range. During recent years he has been quietly acquiring desirable tracts of rich farm lands adjacent to Virginia, Hibbing, Chisholm and other towns on the range. These he has cut up into 40, 80 and 160-acre farms, which he is now offering for the first time to settlers on easy terms and long-time payments.

These lands are well adapted for truck gardening and dairying, and will prove very attractive to people who want to get back to the land and still be close to prosperous cities and towns, where they can dispose of their produce at fancy prices. People desiring one of these farms—there are only 6,000 acres of them—will do well to get into touch with Mr. Rossom without delay. His office is in the Manhattan building, Duluth.

HARVESTING CLOVER HAY ON THE MESABA RANGE.

NIGHT SLAUGHTER OF DUCKS.

Norman, Okla., Dispatch to the New York Sun—Until night hunting was forbidden by the present game laws of Oklahoma two Oklahoma hunters enjoyed the most spectacular duck hunting in the Southwest on Rice's lake, nine or ten miles from this place. They hunted with a searchlight in a boat and their kills were enormous.

Rice's lake is probably 200 yards in width and a quarter of a mile in length. It is adjacent to the South Canadian river, a favorite haunt of wild water fowl. In stormy weather when a cold north wind is sweeping the sandy wastes of the South Canadian ducks by thousands seek shelter in the protected waters of Rice's lake and rest in the weeds along its shores.

On such nights the two Oklahoma hunters opened up their batteries. They were equipped with a canvas boat and a reflector that contained a light of 1,000-candle power, burning gas from a small tank.

When darkness came the hunters pushed from the shore at the lower end of the lake and slowly swept out upon the water, one sculling and the other at the light. A long arm of brilliant light reached over the lake. A bunch of mallards rode at anchor like a fleet harbored from a gale. The light confused them but they did not rise. Instead, following their leader, the mallards sailed toward the middle of the lake, moving little by little toward the further end as the boat advanced.

The far end of the lake came abruptly against a steep bank twenty or twenty-five feet in height, forming a pocket into which the ducks finally were to be crowded and pushed by the long arm of light. Flock after flock was gathered up from among the reeds. The lake was swept as if by a great broom that reached into every cranny for the birds—mallards, ruddies, spoonbills, teal, sprigs, and occasionally a few wise canvas backs.

As the boat advanced the thicker became the ducks, all swimming toward the cove where soon they were to undergo the withering fire of two automatics, a complement of ten rounds of No. 4s and 7½ chilled shot. By the time the boat was within sixty yards of the end of the lake hundreds of ducks were massed together.

It was not wise to crowd the ducks too closely with the light lest they take flight. Even now the markings of their plumage were plain. The light was shut off and the lake became black in the darkness of the winter storm. The boat was sculled onward, the hunters preparing themselves for the final attack.

The boat is within twenty yards of the ducks at the end of the lake. Suddenly the light flashes again and up goes the head of every duck, curious to learn the cause of this unexpected coming of daylight. The craned necks offer the target that has been looked for. Bang, bang, bang, go the guns at the ducks on the water.

The entire surface of the lake seems to rise with a roar into the night. The guns are elevated slightly and the firing continues. Again the guns are raised a bit as the final volley is delivered. There is a rain of ducks, their fat bodies striking heavily upon the water. Many a time have these two hunters bagged fifty or sixty ducks in such an onslaught.

The wounded ducks were secured more easily than if it were daylight. They did not make instantly for cover and when the light was thrown on them they sat as if dazed and did not try to hide. The hunters picked off the wounded ducks one by one and even those that fell among the reeds were easily found with the big light.

But the night hunt was not at an end. Overhead and in all directions distracted ducks would fly in confusion, unwilling to move out into the storm. The reflector was turned upward and a shaft of light pierced the sky. Into this light the ducks flew like moths around a lamp in a summer evening. The hunters were good shots and it was easy for them to pick off the ducks one by one as they circled in the shaft of light.

It is such wanton slaughter as this that is destroying the game birds of the United States. In Oklahoma it is now under the ban of the law and the law is being enforced. But for the mere glut of killing this hunting at Rice's lake was about the most exciting thing of the kind to be found in the Southwest.

OLD FASHIONED HONESTY IN KENTUCKY.

Elizabethtown News: A married lady from Florida who is on a visit to relatives near town came into the office Monday and said she wanted to pay a little debt of a few dollars which she had contracted in 1884, when she was a little girl.

She said the bill for the amount had been sent to her father during his life, but that he said that he had never ordered the work done, but while she was then but a little girl in short dresses she remembered that she had ordered it. Our books of twenty-six years ago had been put away and we told her that we had no recollection of the account, but if she insisted on paying it we would take the amount of $3.50.

She insisted and paid us cash. How she ever remembered it twenty-six years is very remarkable, but her integrity is even more remarkable than her memory. In all of our experience in business we never had such a case as this. It shows that there is such a thing as old-fashioned honesty.

ON THE IRON RANGES

BELIEVE COUPLE WERE MURDERED

Tragic Fate of Minneapolis Couple in Burning Shack Near Allen Junction.

Allen Junction, Minn., Feb. 3.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Newman of Minneapolis, who were living in a shack about seven miles from here, were burned to death in the destruction of their home recently by fire, but just when or under what circumstances is not known. A deputy coroner from Biwabik is making an investigation. Bert Soper, a Duluth & Iron Range telegraph operator working here, discovered the ruins of the shack and their charred bodies Saturday, when he went out to see what was the matter with them, not having seen them for several days.

There is a theory they were murdered and robbed and the bodies burned, as relatives in Minneapolis claim they had about $200 in money and jewelry. They had been employed by J. E. St. George of this place, to care for his house and barns, and on the last day that he saw Mr. Newman, Jan. 28, he paid him $55 for his and Mrs. Newman's services.

So far as known here no suspicious characters have been in the vicinity of the Newman camp. The Newmans were apparently very quiet people and came to the station here only on rare occasions when in need of supplies, with the exception of the few weeks that they were living at the home of Mr. St. George.

Murder, Says Minneapolis Relative.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Discussing the deaths of his mother, Mrs. E. A. Newman, and her husband, his stepfather, who were burned to death in a shack on the Mesaba range seven miles from Allen Junction, William O. Lawrence of this city expresses they were killed for their money and burned to cover up the crime.

He said they went to the Mesaba range Nov. 19 to spend the winter in the woods for their health. They had taken about $200 in silver and gold with them, according to Mr. Lawrence, and each had a gold watch as well as heavy gold rings. They also had taken guns with them.

The Newmans were married about eight years ago, Mrs. Newman was 56 years old and Mr. Newman 43. By a former marriage Mrs. Newman had five sons and two daughters, and they all live in Minneapolis, except Alfred, two of the sons, William and Charles, have left to investigate the tragedy.

VIRGINIA NIGHT SCHOOL GROWING

Original Range Night School Furnishing Adults Education.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—The night school department of the local school system will soon number 500. This school is the oldest of the range night schools, having been started seven years ago by Supt. L. Bliss. It is run both afternoons and evenings, five days in the week. The pupils are all adults, mostly men. Last year out of an enrollment of 363, over 100 took out their first naturalization papers, and this number will be largely surpassed this year. Besides learning to speak, read and write English, much useful information is obtained. Different ways of earning a living are discussed, and certain ways, like saloon keeping, etc., are condemned. The pupils are taught how to write letters, how to dress and keep clean, to be polite and honest. They learn by heart certain sentiments intended to make them better men and women. They are taught about state and city government, why taxes are necessary, not to sell their votes, the use of a police department, a fire department, a street cleaning department, a health department, and what it should mean to every one to be a citizen of the United States. It is a sight worth beholding to see these clean, husky, healthy, stalwart fellows walk past the open doors of the fifty-six saloons on the main street, and come to the night school at the Roosevelt building.

Many say that if the change is made it will prevent Vermilion range people shopping in Duluth as completely as at present. It is claimed if the railroad would cut out some of the stops between Two Harbors and Tower, about forty-four, sufficient time would be saved to make the trip here on the present schedule and give shoppers more time in Duluth.

The Post Office The Popular Magazines And the People

A provision has been added to the post office appropriation bill by the senate post office committee without proper notice or public hearing.

It provides for an unjust, discriminatory and confiscatory tax on the Popular magazines. By attaching this provision to the post office appropriation bill at the eleventh hour all opportunity for open discussion and consideration by the people, the publishers and the senate was cut off. It was an un-American star chamber proceeding, accomplished under presidential and political coercion. If this bill is passed with the provision which practically exempts from taxation magazines which have not spoken boldly on public questions, many of the popular periodicals will be put out of business altogether and the others without exception will be seriously crippled. Even if it were possible for the magazines to continue in business under these new conditions the people would derive no benefit from the measure, for until the post office department is taken out of politics and a business-like management installed it is improbable that any additional revenue collected will be used economically. We urge every friend of honest economical government and a free press to telegraph or write immediate protest to their senators and representatives.

GOT MONEY AND THE GIRL

Claiming that Joe Lusk, aged 20, had obtained money from him under false pretenses and then had eloped with his 17-year-old daughter, Ida, Jachim Bohnsack, a Grand Lake settler, came to the West Duluth police station this morning and swore out a warrant for the arrest of the young man on a statutory charge.

Lusk and the girl were traced to Duluth from Grand Lake. Yesterday, it is claimed, they registered as man and wife at the Korth hotel, Fifty-first avenue west and Roosevelt street. The warrant was sworn out late this afternoon in the West Duluth justice court, but up to a late hour, Lusk had not been apprehended.

Lusk, according to Bohnsack, was employed in the latter's sawmill at Grand Lake. Bohnsack says that Lusk had overdrawn his wages $26 and that in addition to that he had represented himself to be a collector for Bohnsack and had obtained money in this way.

When Lusk came to West Duluth yesterday he purchased articles at some of the local stores on the account of his father-in-law-to-be, Bohnsack claims. If Lusk is apprehended, the other charges of obtaining money and goods under false pretenses may be pressed against him.

TEAR DOWN OLD BRIDGE

Street Commissioner Joseph Becks and a crew of men will start work tomorrow on tearing down the old wooden bridge at Fifty-sixth avenue west over Keene's creek. The bridge is a block and a half in length and it will take at least three weeks to complete the job.

According to Alderman L. A. Barnes, no provision has been made by the council for the construction of a new bridge at this point and in view of this fact, the tearing down of the old structure is likely to raise a storm of protest among the residents in that section, who have occasion to use it daily.

While the intentions of the board of public works have not been announced in reference to the Fifty-sixth avenue job, it is probable that there will be a fill of some kind to replace the old wooden structure. This was done when the Fifty-eighth avenue bridge was torn down two years ago.

The fill at Fifty-eighth avenue west, with a large culvert to permit the passage of water, cannot be used by teamsters who have heavy loads and since the removal of the bridge at this point, the heavy traffic has been diverted either to the Fifty-seventh or the Fifty-ninth avenue bridges.

The Fifty-sixth avenue bridge was declared unsafe for heavy traffic some time ago and the board of public works deemed it more advisable to tear it down than to repair it. The other bridges on Central avenue, Fifty-seventh and Fifty-ninth avenues, have been repaired recently and can accommodate the heavy team traffic.

It is improbable that the Fifty-sixth avenue bridge will be rebuilt, as a fill would serve the purpose for pedestrians and light team traffic. The heavier loads could be taken across the other bridges. The street car company uses the Central and Sixtieth avenue bridges, which in time will have to be rebuilt. The city engineer has recommended that all new bridges be built of concrete, as they are more durable and less expensive to maintain than the wooden or steel structures.

The lumber taken from the Fifty-seventh avenue bridge will be used by the board of public works and will be stored away. The Fifty-sixth avenue structure was built about twenty years ago.

Overcome By Gas.

Gas, escaping from a leak in a pipe at the home of Charles Stahl, 108 North Fifty-eighth avenue west, rendered John A. Johnson, a roomer at the Stahl home, unconscious for a few hours Saturday afternoon. Occupants of the house noticed the leak in time and carried him out before he was asphyxiated. He was given medical attention and will fully recover from the effects.

Hazelton, B. C., Feb. 13.—Five men were killed and two severely injured yesterday as the result of a premature explosion in a small tunnel of the Grand Trunk Pacific at Kitzelas, B. C. The men were working at the far end of the tunnel when a box of powder left near the mouth, presumably to thaw out, became overheated and exploded.

Fined for Drunkenness.
Axel Carlson got $10 and costs or thirty days in the county jail when he pleaded guilty in police court this morning to being drunk. It was claimed that he had gone to the home of Carl Lindstrom at West Duluth and had made improper advances to Mrs. Lindstrom. Later, it is stated that he assaulted Lindstrom when he came to demand an explanation.

Gave Officer Chase.
Leo Mizer, 21 years old, was arrested this morning for Sergeant Gillon and Patrolman Peter Barber near Fifth avenue west and Michigan street after a short chase. He was booked for being drunk and disorderly. Mizer, it is claimed, smashed a window in a saloon at 515 West Michigan street as he was leaving the place in a fit of anger. Joe Cohen, who was walking immediately behind him, was cut by one of the falling pieces of glass. He was brought to headquarters on a charge of being drunk and will probably be called as a witness against Mizer. When the latter broke the glass he started to run eastward. The officers heard the crash of the glass and saw him try to get away, but intercepted him at the corner.

For Disorderly Conduct.
Emil Holstrom and Emil Erickson were fined $40 and costs or thirty days each in the county jail when they entered pleas of guilty to charges of disorderly conduct in police court this morning. It is claimed that they followed a stranger from a Michigan street saloon and hit him with their fists and icy snowballs when he refused to give them money. The matter was reported to the police by a small boy, who saw the occurrence.

Cornelius Ryan Dies.
Cornelius Ryan, aged 78, father of County Commissioner P. J. Ryan and a resident of Hibbing, died Saturday evening at St. Mary's hospital following an illness of two years' duration. He was brought to the hospital suffering from a fractured thigh and never recovered, owing to his extreme age.

VICIOUS DOG SHOT DOWN

A ferocious dog running wildly through the streets of the city, the chief of police pursuing with grim determination, rifle in hand, and the welkin ringing with occasional shots, pedestrians staring at the strange sight and several women screaming at one stage of the race, the final death of the dog, the phantom dog which has eluded the police for the past few weeks, were incidents of a very exciting chase that occurred yesterday between a large and shaggy dog and Chief Chauncey H. Troyer.

Frederick Wilhelm, but recently deceased, drove an obedient dog team. The canine that yesterday figured in the exciting death chase with the chief was one of the team. In the days of old Wilhelm he was a docile and obedient dog. Since the death of his master he has acted "locoed," has gone amuck from pure loneliness, it is thought, biting all the other dogs and biting and snapping at pedestrians.

For several weeks the police have been on the trail of the dog. However, that fact did not seem to trouble the dog in the least. He wasn't caught, and pursued his own vicious way.

But boldness was his downfall. Yesterday he went right by the police station, the citadel of the city's scavengers, and that is how the chief saw him. Grabbing his gun, he took after the dog, letting go a shot that wounded the beast. The chase continued to Twenty-first avenue east and the police force, where the head of the department brought down the dog with one well-directed shot.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

An iceboat was abandoned in the Duluth ship canal yesterday. The iceboat very nearly went through the ice, but the occupants escaped and crossed the ice to the piers.

While running at a fair rate of speed through the canal, outward bound, one of the runners cut through the ice. The boat was immediately brought to a stop. Fortunately the other two runners remained on the icy surface and the occupants of the boat climbed from their perilous perches and crossed the ice to safety.

It is not known who is the owner of the boat which appears to be temporarily abandoned.

VOSHALL CASE GOES TO JURY

The jury in the case of the state against Bradford Voshall, charged with shooting James Sheeran, after a quarrel on the steamer J. H. Bartow, Nov. 4 last, was charged shortly after the noon hour today by Judge William A. Cant of the district court and sent out to settle the case.

Voshall claims that he shot in self-defense and the state claims that he took another man's quarrel into his the boat which appears to be temporarily.

The case has been on before Judge Cant for several days past.

ASSOCIATED CHARITIES PREPARING BILLS.

Bills which will provide for the establishment of a state labor colony and for other legislation relating to impoverishment and inebriety will be prepared by the Associated Charities for presentation in the legislature by members of the St. Louis county delegation.

The Associated Charities has already prepared a proposed law relating to desertion and has at hand a form of statute providing for the establishment of a labor colony. This is taken from the New York statute books and probably will need to be considerably modified to fit Minnesota conditions. The state and county committee of the Commercial club has already commended the project to establish a county farm for the detention of habitual drunkards and those convicted of misdemeanors.

The bride was Miss Mary Delinsek of Ely. Both of the young people are well known and popular in Ely where they will reside.

Joseph Mantel also of Ely, who was the groomsman at the wedding, accompanied them to Duluth.

EXPLOSION IN POWDER MILL KILLS TWO MEN.

Pompton, N. J., Feb. 13.—The explosion of blasting powder at the E. I. Dupont mill here today cost the lives of two men, Charles Howard and John Demarest. They were the only workmen in the building at the time of the accident. Howard was blown through the side of the frame building. His body was horribly mutilated. The cause of the accident is not known

BERWIND A WITNESS.

Washington, Feb. 13.—After many months of hearings of a special house committee to probe into charges of the existence of lobbying in the interest of ship subsidy legislation in congress, closed today.

The final witness was Edward J. Berwind of New York, president of a coal company, and interested in the International Merchant Marine company and the Consolidated Steamship company. Mr. Berwind said he knew nothing directly or indirectly regarding any lobby and had no information which would throw light on the matter.

The committee will draft its report soon, which it is said, will show the investigation has developed no substantiation of the allegations of lobbying.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS WILL FORM BALL TEAM

One of the features of the Y. M. C. A. "Pop" this week will be the inauguration of the representative Y. M. C. A. baseball team.

There has been some splendid material for a strong team in the association but there has never been a permanent organized aggregation. The plan is to keep the team together the year around, playing a series of outdoor games, during the summer, and indoor games in the winter. New suits have been purchased for the team and they will have their first initiation Tuesday evening, with the team from the first division of the Naval Reserves.

The "pop" night has been changed to Tuesday night so that larger numbers may be free to attend and the crowd that was there last week showed that the attendance is not suffering any by the change. Special arrangements will be made this week in seating the crowd. A section of circus seats will be installed at one end of the large gymnasium which will accommodate 250 people and together with the chairs will accommodate a large part of the crowd.

The orchestra which has been supplied by the Flaaten conservatory will again be the feature of the Tuesday night program. Leslie Moore will give a violin solo. A comedy sketch and impersonation will be given by Roy Strain. There will also be an exhibition of parallel bar work given under the direction of A. F. Olson, assistant physical director.

The program follows:

NEW LEAGUE IN PROSPECT

Plans are on foot for the formation of a six-team indoor baseball league, including a team from the Y. M. C. A., the Adams Athletic club and the Big Duluths and very likely teams from the militia company and the naval militia division. All of the managers of indoor baseball teams in the city are requested to write to Forest Pease, captain and manager of the Y. M. C. A. team, which has just been organized.

It is the intention of the officials of the athletic department of the Y. M. C. A. to place a very strong aggregation in the field.

M. F. Jamar, Dr. Coventry and Forest F. Pease are the members of the sub-committee which will have charge of the baseball affairs of the association. This committee has already secured a promising lot of material and it is believed that the Y. M. C. A. will have one of the strongest teams in the city. It is planned to have the new league start its schedule as soon as possible, and with that idea in view it is the desire of Mr. Pease to have the other team managers communicate with him. The members of the committee will get to work on the schedule just as soon as the different managers send in the names of their teams and the number of teams comprising the league has been determined upon.

ORDEMANN TOO ILL TO MEET HACKENSCHMIDT.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 13.—Owing to illness, Henry Ordemann of Minneapolis will not meet George Hackenschmidt here Tuesday night. Instead Hackenschmidt will wrestle Samson, the German, Bruggilio, the Pole and Erler, the Austrian, agreeing to throw the three men in ninety minutes.

Veteran Will Coach.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 13.—Announcement is made that Fred Plaisted, the veteran sculler, has been engaged as assistant coach for the Yale oarsmen.

Plaisted, whose home is in Maine, has rowed in practically every civilized country.

COPPER GOSSIP.

The annual report of the Savanna Copper company on the developments of the year 1910 shows that developments in the Burro Mountain district have been satisfactory to the management. Bodies of ore of a higher grade than expected have been disclosed. High grade sulphide ore in Hole No. 39 on Copper Gulf ground near the north end of the Altos claim extended from 605 to 740 feet. The railroad has not been completed, construction work being suspended on account of the low price of the copper metal. Churn drill operations will be continued until the financial situation justifies the inauguration of regular mining. The financial statement shows that the receipts were $106,181.26 and the expenditures $98,-951.67.

A number of Duluth stockholders in the Butte-Alex Scott Copper company left Saturday night for Pittsburg to attend the annual meeting of the company, which will be held tomorrow.

The Duluth men claim they represent 60 per cent of the stock and they will make an effort to remove the headquarters of the company from Pittsburg to Duluth. The Duluth men include: N. F. Hugo, H. H. Phelps, Martin Rosendahl, T. A. Merritt, Thomas Furniss and P. C. Ouellette. Capt. W. J. Dawson of Butte was also a member of the party.

PULPIT AND PLATFORM

LINCOLN IS HIS SUBJECT

Rev. George R. Gebauer Talks About the Personality of Martyr.

War President a God Sent Man With a Mission, Is Conclusion.

Rev. George R. Gebauer, pastor of the First Unitarian church, speaking of "The Power of Personality," said in his sermon yesterday that "the greatest force in the world of men is personality."

"To grasp this thought is to get an insight into the movements of history," he said. "You take the life of any great man by itself and analyse it into its deeds and thoughts, and you will hardly fall down and worship. Washington, the father of the country, does not seem so great when you follow his life step by step. To his valet, no doubt, he was a merely big man, six feet and two inches in his stocking feet, with a good deal of needless aristocratic trimming about him. But after all, that is the judgment of a valet. How can we account for the fact that he could rally about him some of the best talent of two continents? How could a commonplace man have held together the ragged and starved compatriots in that fearful winter of 1777 and '78 at Valley Forge? Ah, there was life in Washington, such as could perhaps not be found in all the colonies; others might have been more dashing soldiers and greater generals; no other man could have been a father to his country. There was no other man in his day who had this power of holding the affections and the faith of men. Washington may have had his foibles, but there was in him a manhood which commanded, a life which was the light to his people. His personality is a light today.

"And when we speak of Washington, there comes immediately to mind the name of Lincoln, the other great son of man, whose birth we celebrate today.

"When all has been said about the great commoner, after we have sung praises to his wonderful political sagacity, his statesmanship, his genius, we say to ourselves. This will, after all, not account for that deep veneration in which his name is held today. There were other great men in Lincoln's day, men in their place as indispensible as Lincoln. We know that his fame rests to no small extent upon the success in a war which was waged by others, by men of unqualified soldiership and patriotism. There were orators as great as he; there were statesmen in his day perhaps as great. And yet no other name will appeal to us as that of Lincoln. What gives him that power over our hearts?

"It was that in him was life, the divine life, the will of God for America, in greater power than in any one else. He drew the hearts of the people toward him, the common people, and then when, after his death, he was lifted up by the love of the nation, he drew the hearts of all men toward him; he does it more and more as time goes on and the little things of his life are forgotten. We see him today as he stands in the grandeur of his loving, patriotic personality on the battlefield of Gettysburg; we hear his heart beating when he delivers his second inaugural address. We feel that here stands a man with a mission, sent by God.

"Just let me quote a few lines from that wonderful address: 'Fondly we hope, fervently do we pray, that this terrible scourge of war may speedily pass away. Yet if God wills that it continue until all the wealth piled up by the bondman's 250 years of unrequited toil shall be sunk, and until every drop of blood drawn by the lash shall be paid by another drop drawn by the sword, it must still be said, "the judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether."'

"You see now perhaps how in Lincoln, in his highest moments, the human and the divine are one; how he finds his will in the purpose of God. In him, too, was life, and the life was the light of men.

"And if we thus understand the divine life of our great brethren, we too can understand the life of the greatest. In Him was life, the life of God; His personality was a personality, a soul on fire for truth and love. And this love and this truth became the way and the light of the world."

RED FLAG OF VICE IS DENOUNCED

Rev. Robert A. Ellwood Delivers Stirring Lincoln Day Address.

Denouncing profanity, gambling, intemperance and lust as vices having no place under the Stars and Stripes, Rev. Robert A. Ellwood, pastor of the Boardwalk church of Atlantic City, N. J., delivered a stirring address at the Lincoln memorial services at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. Members of the two G. A. R. posts and the two camps of Spanish American War Veterans were present, as well as a large crowd of other citizens.

Mr. Ellwood paid an eloquent tribute to the American flag, the men who have fought for it and the women who have sacrificed for it. He said that one flag alone has the right to wave above it, that the blue cross on the white field, the flag of Jesus Christ.

Mr. Ellwood deplored profanity and praised the Catholic church for the inauguration of Holy Name societies; declared gambling has no place under the American flag; said intemperance is robbing the nation of its manhood, casting its baneful influence on the children and depriving the home of its influence, and denounced lust as the most dangerous evil to American homes.

The service was patriotic throughout, a male chorus of thirty-five voices singing patriotic selections.

AN IDEALIZED AMERICAN

Abraham Lincoln Stood for Best in American Character, Says Pastor.

Rev. John Walker Powell Delivers Strong Sermon on Emancipator.

"There are three or four things about Abraham Lincoln which have made him the type of our highest ideals, and have given him an undying hold on the hearts of the American people," said Rev. John W. Powell in a sermon yesterday morning at the Endion M. E. church.

"In the first place, he stands for the underlying idealism of the American character. The Angio-Saxon has always been intensely practical. He has had an eye to the main chance. He has been a land-grabber, forever extending his boundaries and annexing more and more of the earth's surface. He has always been a successful man of business, and his prosperity has always led to the charge that he is a materialist, wholly absorbed in the pursuit of wealth.

"For centuries Europe has accused the British nation of being money-grabbers, altogether lacking in appreciation of the higher things. And yet the history of Great Britain has been this history, not of mart and trade, but of the struggle for liberty, of the development of democracy.

"France has shouted for the rights of man, but when she sought to put into practice the ideals of liberty, equality and fraternity, the end was the reign of terror and the empire of Napoleon. England has with sure practical grasp of the situation actually brought about the rule of democracy.

"In like manner America has always been accused by the Old World of being a nation of dollar chasers. We are continually rebuked for our sordid materialism. Yet this nation was conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are equal. With one exception, our wars have been fought for an ideal. Even our mightiest men of business are moved much less by the thirst for gain than by a delight in playing the game, and by a genuine desire to bring about a more efficient working business system.

"Abraham Lincoln was at once the product and the embodiment of this essential idealism. He stood for justice and right, for freedom and manhood; he accomplished his great task through the power of these ideals; and it is this that has made him the idol of our race.

"Again, Lincoln stands for the ideal of democracy. The purpose of his greatest effort was that 'government of the people, by the people, and for the people should not perish from the earth.'

Meaning of Democracy.

"Now what does Democracy mean? It means, first of all, the worth of the downmost man—the integrity of his essential manhood. It means that the purpose of human life, the object of human government, is the lifting up of this downmost man, and giving him manhood a chance to develop and express itself. Democracy means, second, the rights of the downmost man, his right to live his own life, to find the same satisfactions and fruitions that make life worth living for the rest of us. Finally, Democracy means that whether in industrial, social or political life, the things that are common to all men are more important than the things that are peculiar to any man or group of men.

"It doesn't mean that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed. That is not true. Governments derive their just powers from the nature of humanity and the necessity of government. But democracy means that on the whole the common sense and the common conscience of all the people are more trustworthy, more likely to express the highest truth attainable at any given period, than the judgment or the conscience of any minority however gifted. It means, in Lincoln's own phrase, that 'you can fool all the people part of the time, and part of the people all the time, but you can't fool all the people all the time.'

"Now democracy in this broad sense is the goal of all political and industrial development. Its problems are our problems today. The thing which we are aiming at in our struggle today against special privilege, against graft, against the exploitation of labor by capital, is just the freeing of the downmost man from the pressure and tyranny of those above him, just the setting free of the common sense and the common conscience and their enthronement once more in our industrial and political life. But this is precisely what Lincoln stood for. He believed in the common man. He trusted him because he was one of themselves, and because he expressed their hopes and purposes; and it is this that makes him to this day the leader of American thought and life.

Stands For Manhood.

"Again, Lincoln stands for the worth of manhood above material things. This is the perennial struggle of the flesh against the spirit. Always, and especially among a practical and a commercially prosperous people, there has been a danger that manhood should be subordinated to wealth. Life is cheap. It is cheaper today in many trades to pay damages or to get new laborers than to install machinery that shall lessen the risk of accident. It is cheaper to import laborers with a low standard of living than to pay a living wage. We have to fight the same battle today that Lincoln fought with the spirit of slavery, which was essentially just the spirit that reduced manhood to the level of property. Lincoln's quarrel with Judge Douglas was based on the fact that Douglas placed negroes and hogs on the same level. The whole wrong of slavery is that it sought to enable one man to have property in another man. Lincoln felt the wrong of slavery so profoundly because he believed so tremendously in manhood. It is this spirit which makes him the highest expression of our American spirit, which in its essence is just the belief in manhood as of supreme value.

"Finally, Lincoln stood for the embodiment in practice of the Christian spirit. Tolstoi in our time has sought to put into practice the teachings of Jesus. Tolstoi has been a great man and a prophet, who has gripped the imagination and stirred the conscience of the age because he has shown the spirit of sacrifice in behalf of that supreme purpose. But none the less, what Tolstoi failed to do, Lincoln did. He actually met a great crisis in human life, not by any vague and impractical idealism which failed to take account of the realities of life, but by putting into practice the Chrstian spirit of patience and charity and love. This Christian greatness was shown, not in pulling a pig from the mire, nor in putting a bird back in its nest, nor in pardoning deserters until every general in the army protested. It was shown rather in the magnificent patience he displayed toward his doubting and contemptuous cabinet, toward his vacillating and incompetent generals, toward his impatient friends in the North, toward his erring foes in the South. It found expression in the sad magninimity of the first inaugural, the appeal of consecration in the Gettysburg address, in the vast conception of the emancipation proclamation, in the prophetic ethical vigor and tender charity of the second inaugural. It was the man, and it won the heart of the world.

The Mightiest Failure.

"And Lincoln embodied no less the profoundest principle of Christianity, that of achievement through suffering, of success through failure, the principle of the cross. Abraham Lincoln was one of the mightiest failures in history. Every project in his life seemed to fail. Everything he grasped turned to ashes in his hand. Even when he achieved the ambition of very american boy and became president, it was over a dissolving nation, whose army and navy were scattered, her treasury empty, her credit destroyed, and Lincoln stood alone amid disloyal officials, doubting friends, his very chosen advisors intriguing against him in contemptuous disregard of their chief. Then it was that a lifetime of failure and disappointment stood him in good stead. He stood calm amidst the storm, patiently gathering his forces, and in the end triumphed because he had been tempered in the furnace fire of God. Even his death was sacrificial, for the sorrow which melted all hearts hushed the exultation which might have embittered defeat, and woke again the mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and patriot grave to every living heart and hearthstone all over this broad land, until they vibrated once more in unison in the cause of liberty."

NO HOLIDAY AT THE COURTHOUSE

Every office at the courthouse was working today, and the trial of the state against Bradford Voshall was resumed before Judge William A. Cant. The other two courtrooms were not in use.

In the auditor's office the clerks had been excused from duty, but Mr. Halden was on hand to care for the business. In the clerk of court's office the clerks had been excused, but Mr. Johnson was there.

In all the other offices except the treasurer's, business was going on as usual. It was term day in probate court, and while the calendar was very light, Judge Gilpin was on hand to hear what there was.

There was no telephone service to any of the offices except to those that are on a direct wire, as the courthouse central was having a day off.

ANOTHER BLOW AIMED AT REAPPORTIONMENT BY SENATE OPPONENTS

Bill to Limit Any County to Four Members of Senate.

Would Secure to the Country Absolute Control for All Time.

Investigation of the Red Wing Training School Is Ordered.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senators Duxbury, Moonan, Haycraft and Wels, all strong opponents of reapportionment, this morning joined in introducing a bill proposed a constitutional amendment putting legislative representation on an entirely new basis, the chief feature of which is that it provides that no county in the state shall have more than four members of the senate. The bill fixes the senate at sixty-three members and leaves the house to be fixed by law. It also provides that legislative representation shall not be based on population but on the votes cast for governor at the election preceding the reapportionment.

The effect of the bill would be to cut aliens out of consideration as part of the basis of representation, and to limit the counties in which the large cities are located to four senate members each, securing to the country absolute and overwhelming control for all time to come. . . .

Both houses passed a joint resolution introduced by Senator Reckne of Goodhue county, providing for an investigation of the Red Wing training school, against which ex-Senator A. D. Stephens of Crookston made charges last week.

After the house had passed the resolution, the vote was reconsidered, on motion of Representative Lydiard, who said that he wanted to amend it to include the girls' training school also, as he had some information about that institution that he wished to lay before

PROCTOR MAN IS KILLED BY CARS

John Cross Crushed While Switching Monday Afternoon at Cloquet.

Cloquet, Minn., Feb. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—John Ross of Proctor, a brakeman on the Duluth & Northeastern railroad, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon under the wheels of his train. The crew were switching at the Cloquet Box factory, and the last that Ross's companions saw of him he was standing beside the engine.

The train moved up a short distance to clear a crossing, intending then to cut the engine off; but the signal Ross was expected to give did not come, and the men went back to see what was the trouble, and found the young man dead under the wheels.

Ross was 22 years old, and had only been here a short time, he and a brother coming here together to work for the D. & N. E. The remains were shipped to Proctor.

HARD WORK IS NEEDED

Only Fifteen More Working Days for North Dakota Legislature.

Four-Million Bond Issue for New Educational Buildings Favored.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fifteen more working days for the North Dakota legislative assembly, and with the anti-pass, primary election, corrupt practices, constitutional convention, appropriations, congressional division and legislative apportionment still unsettled quantities, and with reports from the game and fish, auditing board and treasurership investigation committees, it begins to appear that the session-end congestion of bills will be something unusual. While it must be admitted that a great many of the important questions that are up for the action of the assembly have been thrashed out quite carefully in committees, many of them are certain of coming on to the floor of the two houses with the various interests dissatisfied, and to settle such differences will take time.

Then there are the school laws, both as compiled by the state school laws commission and as relating to the higher institutions of learning, the normal board of control measure being the most important. These will take

BIG ISSUES NOT DECIDED

Minnesota Legislature Has Not Made Much Real Progress Yet.

Reapportionment and Other Important Questions Still to Be Settled.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The legislative recess from Friday to today is probably the last long adjournment that will be taken, and beginning with this, the seventh week of the session, the legislature will be all business and little play. Hereafter the week-end recesses will be from Friday to Monday only, and the Monday sessions will be real ones. When either house adjourns to Monday even'ng it is not a real session. It is true that the body convenes and goes part way through the order of business, and that it appears from the record that on that day the house or senate was in session, but that is all it amounts to. Evening sessions—except those which will come toward the end of the session when the legislature becomes appalled by the multitude of measures remaining untouched—are mere formalities, and

WANT ATTORNEY GENERAL TO ACT

Opponents to Pennington County Ask Official to Bury Proceedings.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—That ancient feud of the North between the people of Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls had rather a harmonious encounter yesterday afternoon in the office of the attorney general in the hearing to determine whether or not that official should lend his office to quo warranto proceedings before the supreme court.

Pennington county was formed of the upper end of Red Lake at the last election. It has a courthouse, offices, and is doing business as are other counties. Complaint has been made that the election, however, was carried by fraud. If the attorney general deems the matter of sufficient importance to the state as a whole he may ask for a writ to force the officers of Pennington county to defend their positions. Request has been made that he do this as the easiest way of bringing the matter to the courts.

E. T. Young, former attorney general, appeared with E. M. Stanton, county attorney of Pennington county, on behalf of the county whose life is threatened. Charles E. Broughton of Red Lake Falls, county attorney of Red Lake county, and F. A. Grady of Crookston appeared for the petitioners.

Mr. Young argued the motive of those who applied for the writ was a narrow, selfish one of not wanting to lose the territory from the county, and not of importance to the state as a whole. He also said the allegations in the complaint were too general to stand before a court. It was shown that last year Red Lake county started draining ditch contracts amounting to $131,000 and spent $34,000 on ditches which lay almost entirely in the present Pennington county. There is no law covering the assumption of these contracts by the new county and payment of the debt. Appeal will be taken to the legislature immediately on this point, regardless of the decision of the attorney general.

The attorney general took the matter under advisement.

MINNESOTA SUPREME COURT JUSTICE EDWIN A. JAGGARD IS DEAD

Passes Away While on a Visit to the Bermuda Islands.

Suspended Court Work Short Time Ago Owing to Ill-Health.

Deceased 52 Years Old and Member of Supreme Bench Six Years.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Representative Campbell of Minneapolis announced in the house today that word had been received of the death of Justice Edwin A. Jaggard of the Minnesota supreme court, in the Bermuda Islands, and moved that the house adjourn as a mark of respect to his memory. The action was taken.

A cablegram from Bermuda says that Justice Jaggard died there yesterday afternoon. The cause of death is believed to have been heart failure. About Jan. 1 he was ordered South by his physicians. At that time he was reported to be a very sick man.

Justice Jaggard's departure for Bermuda followed a general breakdown, brought on by a severe affliction of the eyes. He had been under the care of physicians for some time, and it was thought his condition was improving. An attack of ptomaine poisoning, weakened him to such an extent that on the advice of his physicians he determined to go to the Bermudas for a month or two. Justice and Mrs. Jaggard were guests there of Mrs. Jaggard's sister, Mrs. W. H. H. Stowell.

Letters received by his associates on the supreme bench said that Justice Jaggard was contemplating a return to St. Paul not later than March 10. He said that he did not think the classes at the state university, where he was a lecturer in the law department, should be kept waiting any longer.

Born in Pennsylvania.

Justice Edwin A. Jaggard was born at Altoona, Pa., in 1859. He graduat-

INSURRECTOS' MONEY TAKEN

Galveston, Tex., Feb. 14.—Reports of the massacre of an entire family of insurrectos in Pueblo, state of Pueblo, Mex., and seizure of $1,500,000 gold, were brought here today on a steamer from Frontera, Mex. Passengers said that recently the government, upon information that Agulles Salano, a prominent Pueblo merchant, was acting as a treasurer for insurrectos, sent troops with a machine gun to his house. They took possession, but found the place apparently deserted. Finally a secret cellar is said to have been discovered where Salano and his family were hiding. All surrendered, whereupon, it is alleged, the troops immediately shot the entire family to death. Search of the premises is said to have revealed over $1,500,000 in gold and negotiable securities.

FANATICS WILL NOT SLEEP, EAT OR DRINK

Russians Would Force Return of Favorite Priest to Old Parish.

Tsaritsyn, Government of Saratov, Russia, Feb. 14.—Fanatical scenes are witnessed here, where the whole Greek Catholic parish is undergoing self-imposed deprivations in protest against the transfer to another parish of the priest Heliodorus, the reactionary leader.

Recently the holy synod announced the transference of the priest from Tsaritsyn to the diocese of Tula. The announcement threw the parishioners into a religious frenzy and with Heliodorus they took a solemn vow not to sleep, eat or drink until the order of the holy synod had been rescinded. Thousands of persons are cooped up in church, where a service with lighted candles continues uninterruptedly day and night. Many of the worshipers are on the point of suffocation and the suffering of all is distressing to witness.

Heliodorus is a peculiar character. In 1907 he was credited with leading the "Black Hundreds," the lower stratum of the reactionary forces in Voronezh province.

He is bitterly anti-Semitic and patriotic to a degree that has been described as insanity. He is not only followed by those among whom he minlesters, but frequently has been the recipient of marks of favor from Emperor Nicholas.

STARTLING REVELATIONS OF THE LUMBER INDUSTRY MADE BY COMMISSIONER

HUNDREDS OF COMPLAINTS

Have Been Filed Against the Great Lumber Interests.

Government May Now Bring an Anti-Trust Suit.

Washington, Feb. 14.—With intent to file some sort of an anti-trust suit against the lumber interests, the department of justice has been at work nearly a year investigating the complaints of discrimination, blacklisting, price raising and combination to apportion territory. Many hundreds of such complaints have been received from small lumber dealers, independent mills and individual consumers in all sections of the country, and the anti-trust agents have given detailed investigation at many of them.

It seems to be the plan of the department to devote its attention first to one of the so-called "divisions" of the interests, and what may be an anti-trust suit against one of these is now being perfected. It is likely that when the investigation in this one particular case is complete, however, no suit will be filed immediately. Despite the fact that several anti-trust cases are ready to be started, it is the disposition of the administration to wait until decisions of the supreme court have been given in the Standard Oil and Tobacco cases. Investigation which the department of justice has been making has been entirely separate from that made by the bureau of corporations.

SEVEN ARE THROWN FROM THEIR BEDS

Explosion of Black Hand Bomb Wrecks Building in New York.

New York, Feb. 14.—Explosion of what is believed to have been a Black Hand bomb pitched the seven members of Frank Barnas' family from their beds in a Harlem tenement today, wrecked the apartment, broke every window in the building and drove the two score dwellers in the building to the street in a panic. No one was badly injured.

COMMISSIONER MAKES A STARTLING REPORT

HERBERT KNOX SMITH, Commissioner of Corporations.

NO TIME TO VOTE FIXED

Impossible to Reach an Agreement in the House.

Bill May Possibly Come to a Vote Late Tuesday Afternoon.

Washington, Feb. 14.—Although no agreement as to the time for a vote could be reached by unanimous consent today, there is still a chance that the Canadian reciprocity agreement will be passed by the house before adjournment tonight. A motion to cut off general debate will be made about 5 o'clock and the advocates of the measure claim to have votes enough to put it through.

When the house resumes consideration of the Canadian reciprocity bill shortly after 11 o'clock today, it was announced that the proposed agreement to end general debate at 5 p. m. had failed and that the passage of the measure might be delayed two days.

Last night it was generally believed a final vote on the bill would be reached today. A conference was held on the floor this morning, when it was seen that an agreement was out of the question.

A motion then was made that "calendar Wednesday" be dispensed with tomorrow; that consideration of the measure could continue. Speaker Cannon ruled the motion out of order. To dispense with "calendar Wednesday" requires a two-thirds vote. The effort to do so will be renewed tomorrow.

"Calendar Wednesday" is one of the house reforms won by the Republican insurgents and Democrats in their memorable fight against Speaker Can-

DEATH COMES TO JOY RIDERS

FAVORS WHIPPING POST.

Governor Says It Is No More Barbarous Than Wife Beating.

Salem, Or., Feb. 14.—Governor West has vetoed the bill abolishing the whipping post.

"While the whipping post is a relic of barbarism," said the governor, "it is no more barbaric than wife beating and I deem it wise to have on Oregon's statute books a barbaric punishment for brutes who fail so low as to strike and abuse a woman."

An effort will be made to pass the bill over the governor's veto.

FEATURES ARE GRAVE

Great Resources of Country in Hands of a Very Few Persons.

Hold Timber Lands Far in Advance of Any Use Thereof.

Facts Brought Out of Tremendous Significance to the Public.

Washington, Feb. 14.—Concentration of the control of the standing timber in a very few hands, vast speculative holdings, "far in advance of any use thereof," an enormous increase in the value of this dwindling natural resource with great profits to its owners and incidentally "an equally sinister land monopoly" and a "closely connected railroad domination"—these are the findings reported to the president by Herbert Knox Smith, commissioner of corporations, in the first instalment of his long awaited report on the lumber industry in the United States.

The report, dated yesterday, was made public today by the president sending it to congress. The report, which occupies a pamphlet of thirty-eight pages of print, is effectively summarized in the commissioner's letter of submittal. His conclusion, in a forecast of the future, partakes of the sensational.

"There are many great combinations in other industries," says the commissioner, "whose formation is complete. In the lumber industry, on the other hand, the bureau now finds in the making a combination, caused fundamentally by a long standing public policy. The concentration already existing is sufficiently impressive. Still more impressive are the possibilities for the future.

Involves Grave Features.

"In the last forty years concentration has so proceeded that 195 holders, many inter-related, now have practically one-half of the privately owned timber in the investigation area (which contains 80 per cent of the whole). This formidable process of concentration in timber and on the land, certainly involves grave future possibilities of impregnable monopolistic conditions, whose far reaching conse-

WARRANT IS ISSUED

Mexican Government Wants So-Called Provisional President Arrested.

Believed That Madera Is Hiding Somewhere in El Paso.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 14.—The self-styled provisional president of Mexico, Francesco I. Madero, is in El Paso unless he has slipped out 'n the last twenty-four hours. So confident are the United States officials that the directing head of the Mexican revolution is still here, that they had a warrant issued yesterday afternoon for his arrest.

The warrant was issued by United States Commissioner George B. Oliver. The issue of the warrant came as a result of the capture of papers on the person of Martin Casillas, a revolutionary leader, as he was returning to Mexico Sunday from a visit to El Paso. The papers were in the handwriting of Madero and were signed by him. All were dated Feb. 12 at El Paso.

The warrant charges that Madero planned an armed military expedition against a friendly nation and caused arms and ammunition to be sent into Mexico from the United States in violation of the neutrality and customs laws.

The United States troops and all federal troops on the border have been given orders to make the arrest. Last week officials in Juarez issued a circular stating that Madero was waiting in El Paso for a chance to enter that country. This was denied by the address of the insurrecto Junta here.

It became known last night that a warrant also had been issued for the arrest of Abraham Gonzales, provisional insurgent governor of Chihuahua, who, however, has already left El Paso and is now at Sragosa, a short distance from Juarez in Mexico. Gonzales has been directing the El Paso Junta.

SAYS MATERNITY HOME IS NEEDED

Mrs. Haldora Olsen Is Seeking to Raise Funds for Purpose.

Mrs. Haldora Olsen of 329 North Fifty-eight avenue west, who has practiced in West Duluth as a midwife for the past twenty years, wants the public to assist her financially in building a maternity hospital at West Duluth.

She has issued a circular in which she states that one of the crying needs of the city is a place where wayward girls or worthy poor can go at a small expense. In her present quarters, she is only able to take care of ten women at a time and she says that the place is too small. She says that she has not enough funds of her own to build a new place.

Mrs. Olsen's work has received the warmest commendation from West Duluth people who know her, and it is stated that she constantly takes charity cases, refusing none who apply whether they have funds or not.

WANT BRANCH WATER OFFICE

West Duluth People Claim It Would Be Great Convenience.

West Duluth residents will ask the city water and light department to install a permanent branch office at West Duluth, for the accommodation of the patrons of the service, who want water connections, meters installed, etc., and who are now obliged to make applications at the main office uptown.

Those behind the agitation will endeavor to have the West Duluth Commercial club take the matter up with the water and light department. It is claimed that a branch office at West Duluth ought not to be a losing proposition.

FIRE DESTROYS HOME OF MIKE SEDOR.

Fire completely destroyed the home of Mike Sedor, 6117 Worden street, West Duluth, last evening about 7:40 o'clock, entailing a loss of about $1,250, partly covered by insurance. The blaze is believed to have started from an overheated stove.

The fire was a most spectacular one and lighted up the neighborhood for several blocks around attracting a large crowd to the scene. No. 8 department, which responded with the hose wagon was handicapped on account of the bad roads and did not get there until the fire had a good start.

The blaze spread to the roof of the residence of Isaac Hoglund, 6119 Worden street, but the fire fighters managed to save the latter building and only the shingles on one side were scorched. The Sedor house was insured for $500 and the contents at $400.

No one was at the Sedor home at the time of the blaze.

Weather: Generally cloudy tonight and Wednesday; colder tonight; moderate to brisk winds, mostly northerly.

"JOHN, THE TRAPPER," WAS HERO OF RIEL REBELLION

JOHN W. DAVIDSON.

John W. Davidson, whose death at St. Luke's hospital occurred Feb. 6, and whose funeral will be held tomorrow from West Duluth, died penniless, although he was at one time the owner of considerable real estate in Duluth and had a land grant by the Canadian government. His many friends in the city have provided for the funeral.

Davidson was familiarly known about West Duluth as "John, the Trapper," and used to make periodical visits to Canada, usually every spring. He often brought back furs valued at between $1,000 and $2,000. As a trapper and hunter, there were perhaps few in Duluth who could equal him.

Prior to his coming to Duluth about fifteen years ago, he resided in Canada and gained some prominence, when he took part in Riel's rebellion, an outbreak of the half-breeds and Indians of the valley of the Saskatchewan in the spring of 1885. He figured in some of the battles between the Canadians and the Indians and could tell interesting stories of several near-massacres.

As a token of recognition for his war services, Davidson was given a land grant of 160 acres in Canada. He received this about three years ago and his death leaves two more years to prove up on the patent. The rights will revert to his heirs. He is survived by three sons, two residing at Detroit, Mich., and one, Goodwin C. Davidson, of Windsor, Can. His wife died Jan. 4, 1904, at the old Red Cross hospital at West Duluth.

Mr. Davidson was 60 years old at the time of his death. About ten years ago, he was sexton of Oneota cemetery. He worked in that capacity until the spring of 1908, when he resigned on account of ill health.

Rev. J. G. Leitch, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church, will conduct the funeral services tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at Fillatrault's undertaking rooms, Ramsey street, and burial will be at Oneota cemetery.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A red five-passenger automobile, in which Matt Schanno, president of the Independent Automobile company left St. Paul yesterday afternoon, was found deserted today three-quarters of a mile from Minneapolis on the Nineteenth avenue north road. Mr. Schanno has not been seen in St. Paul since he left the garage of the automobile company at 409 North Franklin street, and the efforts of his family and of the Mill City police to locate him have proved unavailing.

The spot on the road at which the automobile was found is in a deserted district, and has been the scene of several holdups, and is adjacent to the place where the body of J. A. Kibby, who was murdered recently, was discovered.

AN AVERSION TO WORKING

"Casual Laborers" Are Again Becoming Numerous in Police Court.

Mayor Will Have Recommendation for Council on Jail Problem.

"Casual laborers," more often designated "vags," seem all at once to have been seized with an aversion to earning bed and bread by the sweat of their brows. A contagious lassitude seems to have seized them as a body.

The "bed and bread" part of their otherwise precarious existence was made possible by the Associated Charities and the city officials, who worked jointly to give them an opportunity to earn them by making big rocks into little rocks at the Point of Rocks near Thirteenth avenue west. There's enough stone in sight to enable the most energetic to keep busy for many days running. No matter how many might apply, no one will have to be turned away because of lack of material upon which to exercise any desire for labor.

When the project was started it seemed to have the effect of decreasing the number of bums who were brought to the police station by the authorities. It also gave the police an opportunity to "call" any man who applied at headquarters for lodgings with the story that they couldn't get any work to enable them to make enough money to buy meals and lodging. And that doesn't mean that the rock pile has lost its efficiency, or that it is not serving a good purpose.

Yet in scarcely more than a week the police court judges have handed out sentences aggregating 250 days, or the better part of a working year, to the "unshaved and unshorn" who have been arrested by the police on charges of vagrancy. In addition to these, ten other arrests have been made on charges of the same kind. Part of them were given an opportunity to get out of town, others were dismissed and some are booked for disposition this afternoon.

Maybe it's the weather which is unfavorable, for the atmosphere of these last few winter days has not been particularly conducive to rock breaking. Possibly they have been affected with the "grip," which is so prevalent in the city, but more likely the prospect of a lazy life behind the bars of the county jail is more appealing than a hammer pounding against a piece of granite of the Duluth variety. Over the hill the "casual laborers" can take chances on "sponging" tobacco from their companions; their meals are brought to them in clean tin pans; they do not have to wonder where they will spend the night; and it is warm inside the steel doors. The air is not pleasing to more sensitive organs, but they do not mind a little thing like that. The majority of them are used to it.

However, the prospects are that they will not always have such a "snap." The officials of the city and county are seriously considering the establishment of a workhouse, where they will have to labor from morning until night, increasing the visible supply of small rock—or else go hungry, with the possible alternative of bread and water.

Tonight the board of county commissioners will ask the city council to appoint a committee to confer with them on the workhouse matter. The county will have to establish a new jail or a workhouse. Those of the aldermen who have investigated the matter are of the opinion that something should be done along this line, and the sentiments of the mayor are that different provision should be made for the handling of the prisoners sent up by the city.

It is expected that the mayor will also have some pointed statements to make to the city fathers tonight upon the necessity of a new city jail. The state board of control, which placed its ban on the present county jail, has taken the matter up with him. There is no doubt but that the board is in earnest, and it looks as though the city of Duluth will have to make some provision for a new, or larger and improved bastile, in the near future. The West Duluth lock-up is also under fire, and something will probably have to be done with it, also.

CLAIMS JUDGE IS PREJUDICED

Richard Cullen Wants to Have Case Tried Before Another Judge.

Claiming that Judge H. B. Dibell of the district court is prejudiced and that it would be impossible to get a fair and impartial trial from him, Richard Cullen, the hero of many a legal battle, this morning filed an affidavit with the clerk of the district court asking that the case entitled William T. Jones against Richard Cullen be heard before some other pudge.

The action in question is one in which the ownership of some land and the timber on the land is said to be in doubt. William T. Jones claims a half interest in the timber and Mr. Cullen not only claims all the timber, but the title to the land which is said to be valuable, not only for the timber which it contains, but for the fact that it lies close to the Soudan mine, near Tower, Minn.

The land is described as lot 2, section 31, township 62, north range 14. The plaintiff claims that he owns an undivided half interest in the timber and admits that Cullen is the owner of half the land. He wants a division of the timber by the court or if this cannot be done he wants it sold, half the money to be given him.

In his complaint the plaintiff claims that in September 1902, Mr. Cullen gave W. F. Hackett a deed to half the land including the timber which stood on it. Hackett sold the timber to James, but retained his interest in the land.

Cullen claims that he is the sole owner of both the land and the timber and wishes to be adjudged as such by the court.

CONVENTION OF PLAYGROUND WORKERS.

The Playground Institute of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, North and South Dakota will meet at Minneapolis April 6, 7 and 8.

The details of playground movement for cities will be taken up and discussed. Representatives from the cities in each state will tell of the progress made during the last two years.

The list of speakers together with the subjects to be discussed will be announced later. In Duluth many are interested in the playground movement and it is expected that this city will be represented.

You can change Heimbach rubber heels from shoe to shoe, making them wear even. Others you can't.

OBJECTIONS TO CHANGE

Vermilion Range People Do Not Get Relief Desired From Railroad.

Want Limited Train Instead of Earlier Departure From Duluth.

General Passenger Agent H. Johnson of the Duluth & Iron Range road, when asked today what was the reason for changing the running time of the afternoon passenger train to Tower and Ely, said there was no particular reason for it, except that it was desired to "get the train to Ely earlier."

Residents of Ely, Winton, Section 30 and Tower have recently petitioned the railroad company for an improvement of service, the proposal being that the morning train be run as an accommodation train and the afternoon train as a limited. It is declared that as now run the afternoon train stops forty-four times between Two Harbors and Ely, for the purpose of picking up what small passenger business there may be along the line. It is contended that if this practice were discontinued and the train run as a limited, there would be no necessity for changing the time of leaving Duluth. The distance from Duluth to Ely is 117 miles. The run consumes five hours.

From the point of view of Vermilion range people who come to Duluth on brief business trips, the change from 3:15 p. m. to 2:45 p. m. is not an advantage, as their stay in the city is thus shortened. Most of them come to Duluth on the train arriving here at noon, and as business and professional men are customarily out at luncheon between 12 and 2 o'clock, the range visitors have practically no time for the transaction of the business which brought them here. While this tends to increase the business of the hotels, because range people are forced to stay over, it does not conduce to the best of feeling between the range and the city, with the city decidedly the loser by that fact.

The decision of the Duluth & Iron Range to change its schedule may have the effect of bringing about an agitation to cause a reversal of the arrangement, so that the afternoon train will start from Duluth at a later time than it does now and will be run as a limited.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflammed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

MANY PAY WHEEL TAX

Best Business in Brass Tags Since Ordinance Became Effective.

Evidence Being Obtained Against Those Who Persist in Negligence.

Certain of the city officials wish that the snow storm blowing today would last a week. It has acted like a rabbit's foot for them. For some reason or other, more persons have come to the hall today to pay their wheelage tax than in any day for the last two months.

All forenoon Deputy Clerk Williams has been busy passing out the tags, and raking in the sheckels which will be needed this spring for taking care of the streets and avenues of the city. He handed nearly fifty licenses across the counter, which is the best record that has been made since the week that the ordinance went into effect. So its no wonder that one or two members of the city's staff are passing the word that "it's an ill wind that blows no one good." They figure that at that rate it wouldn't be long before every vehicle in the city would be equipped with the necessary tags.

Evidence is being collected for the purpose of swearing out complaints for those who have not taken out their licenses, and the city authorities say that upon conviction they will be handed a stiff fine in police court. Threats of this kind have been made in the past, but that stage has passed this say. The last man who admitted that he had been negligent in this line was given a severe fine and in addition had to pay as much for his licenses as if he had taken them out at the proper time. Most of those who came in this morning were owners of smaller vehicles, and averaged one or two each. Practically all of the larger firms in the city have their teams and trucks decorated with the little square pieces of brass.

WILL CONTROL ALL COMMERCE

Prediction That Commission's Rules Will Govern Interstate and Intrastate.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—A prediction that the interstate commerce commission shortly would exercise control of all commerce—both interstate and intrastate—and charges that much of the railroad rate legislation passed by individual states was "vicious, corrupt and dishonest," were made before the traffic club here today by Walter E. McCornack, former attorney for the commission.

Mr. McCornack cited the clause of the United States Constitution reading, "Congress shall have the power to regulate commerce among the several states," as the base upon which the commission would rest its right to prevent interference with interstate rates on the part of the vastly differing intrastate rates.

"In that clause," said the speaker, "it must be noted that the word used is 'among' and not 'between' the several states. The right to control commerce must be determined by the interpretation of that word 'among.'

"The growth and progress of this nation have made it necessary to give it at least wider definition than originally, and it eventually must widen still more.

"Although the supreme court has held against the commission's power over intrastate rates, it soon will have to reverse itself and end the intolerable situation by which fifty legislative bodies are every two years harassing the railroads and disturbing business by a flood of legislation, most of it ill-considered, much of it ill-timed, and a vast volume of it vicious, corrupt and dishonest."

SEAMEN TO RENEW FIGHT

Recognition of Union Will Be Demanded of Vessel Owners.

Engineers Will Sign Agreement Binding Them Only to Wage Scale.

It is generally believed among marine men that the engineers of the Great Lakes will sign for the coming season without signing a contract such as the engineers were asked to sign for last season, and which came very near resulting in the strike of all the engineers on the Great Lakes.

While it is early as yet to predict, and while vesselmen will have nothing definite to say on the matter, from the gossip channels of organized labor comes the statement that the engineers will simply sign at a certain wage scale, presumably the same wage scale that was paid last year, and this wage agreement will constitute the only bond of understanding between the employer and employe.

It is also stated, unofficially, that the seamen of the Great Lakes will again renew their demand for a trade agreement with their employers. Last year the vesselmen of the Great Lakes refused to recognize the organized sailors of the lakes, with the result that the vessels had what might be called open shop.

At the beginning of last season there was some trouble and a strike was threatened. Some vessels were interfered with as the crews were unloading at the lower lake docks and for a while it looked as if it would be a fight to the finish between the owners and the seamen's union. Finally the matter for some reason ceased to be a very live issue in Great Lakes labor circles, though banners were carried at the principal ports of the Great Lakes during the summer, asking union men not to sign for labor on the vessels.

If the reports that have been given out here are correct, the seamen will again make a fight for the recognition of their union by the vesselmen and will ask that the closed shop rule be recognized.

It is too early at the present time for the employment of men and naturally no declaration has yet come from the vesselmen on the attitude they will assume. But if the rumors that are preceding the opening of the season are to be relied upon, when it comes time for the signing of men the old question regarding the observance of the closed shop on the vessels of the Great Lakes will continue to be a bone of contention between the employer and employe of the five Great Lakes.

BODY UNIDENTIFIED.

Remains of Unclothed Woman Found in River at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 14.—Attempts made today to identify the headless, unclothed body of a woman found in the river here last night and which had apparently been in the water about six months, were fruitless.

The limbs of the body are missing, but it is practically certain that these were removed by the action of the water and ice.

Only one woman is missing from Cincinnati, according to the police records, and as she has been gone only a few weeks, the authorities declare that the condition of the body precludes the supposition that the body is hers.

URGES PUPILS TO EMULATE LINCOLN

Rev. Frank Durant Delivers Inspiring Address to Hibbing High School.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—An eloquent address was given by the Rev. Frank Durant before the members of the high school on Lincoln. He referred to the hard and bitter struggle of the Civil war, told of the successes and failures of those who sought and fought to stamp out the blot of slavery, of Lincoln's parentage, of his boyhod life and his intimate knowledge of the evils and sorrows of the system. Passing on he told of his first struggles as a lawyer, of his rough and hard-hitting oratory, of his innate and unconquerable integrity which won for him the name of "Honest Abe" from his contemporaries of that day. Finally he closed by admonishing his hearers to emulate the example of the man who was one of the world's greatest leaders.

Lincoln's birthday was observed yesterday by the closing of most of the business houses and the shutting down of some of the mining crews. There were few public events in connection with the occasion, most of the observances being of a personal or family nature. Municipal court was held in the morning by Judge Brady. One man, charged with having stolen a sweater, was sentenced $10 and costs or fifteen days. The sweater was returned to the owner.

MURDER THEORY VERY PLAUSIBLE

Study of Ruins of Newman Home Strengthens Belief Couple Were Killed.

Biwabik, Minn., Feb. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A small box which with its contents weighs about forty pounds, contains all that the four sons of Mrs. E. A. Newman of Minneapolis took home today of the bodies of their mother and her husband, their stepfather, who are believed to have been murdered in their cabin home, seven miles from Allen Junction, and the house fired to cover the crime.

Charles, Nathan, Wallace and William Lawrence, the sons, who came from Minneapolis on being informed of their mother's and stepfather's fate, went over the ruins of the cabin yesterday with Deputy Coroner H. G. Feeley of Biwabik, finding pieces of human bodies here and there and gathering enough ideas about the tragedy to convince them the couple were first killed and then cremated in their little home in the woods. The skull of Mrs. Newman and some ribs so badly incinerated that they crumbled on being touched, were found, while the body of her husband without hands or legs was unearthed in the debris.

Dressed When Killed.

A vest and buckle beneath the remnant of the man's body indicated he had been dressed when he perished. This disposes of the theory the couple were asleep when they were cremated, and adds to the belief they were killed when resisting robbery. Another strong piece of evidence was the finding of Mr. Newman's watch, which bore a distinguishing mark, showing the murderers did not dare to take it, while Mrs. Newman's timepiece, a valuable gold one, that could not be so easily identified, was missing.

Another discovery made by the Lawrence brothers and Deputy Coroner Feeley added to the murder theory. A half mile from the site of the Newman camp was a new trail leading off the main path. About sixty feet away was found a sack of flour containing a flour sieve that was identified by the brothers as belonging to their mother. At another point about the same distance from the main trail was found a basket which was later identified by people here as belonging to the Newmans.

The sorrowing sons will do everything possible to aid the authorities in bringing the authors of the double crime to justice.

VIRGINIA BAND PLAYS.

Organization Does Some Good Work at Italian Ball.

Virginia, Minn., Feb. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Virginia City band made a good showing Sunday night, when the musicians turned out to furnish music for the masked ball given by the Italian societies. Owing to the limits of the hall, only about one-half of the band turned out, but the showing made pleased the people and spoke volumes for the ability of the band to furnish music.

President James W. Daily of the Virginia City band claims that the organization is not being treated properly in the matter of uniforms, only about half of them having uniforms on Sunday, which he says gave rise to considerable criticism of the alleged action of certain people in this long-drawn-out band controversy.

Cures Sore and Tired Feet.

Ordinary antiseptic vilane powder has many valuable uses, but probably few persons know what wonderful power it has over sore, tired, aching or calloused feet. It draws all the soreness out, checks excessive perspiration, prevents congestion and cold feet, while it removes corns, bunions and callouses. Many physicians know its worth, and the public can be saved much suffering by this knowledge being imparted.

If the reader wishes to try it, obtain of any leading druggist two ounces of vilane powder. To a gallon of steaming water add a teaspoonful of the powder and a tablespoonful of salt, and keep the feet immersed from 10 to 20 minutes every night for several weeks.

HIBBING IS WAITING

To Learn Whether Any Village Officials Seek Re-election.

Hibbing, Minn., Feb. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Some definite steps with regard to the future managers of village affairs will probably be taken at the council meeting this evening. None of the city officials have so far declared themselves with regard to the coming election. The meeting this evening is being looked forward to with considerable interest, and some statement as to whether any or all of the members will stand for re-election is looked for. There is some talk locally of other candidates for the position of village treasurer waiting to get into the game but no one has yet definitely declared himself. The present council consists of: President, Dr. Welrick; recorder, A. H. Kieffman; trustees, Peter McHardy, William Wearne and W. C. Barrett. In addition to these there is a water and light commission, composed of Chairman A. Angst, and Commissioners William Wearne and W. J. West.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fisher returned from Duluth on Saturday evening.

Application was made to the school board to apply an invention for heating and warming of the school buildings without intake or outflow pipes. The idea is to carry the hot and cold air through vacant places in the hollow walls of the buildings. The offer was not accepted.

The funeral of Mrs. Ann Dillon was held Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock from the Immaculate Conception church. Interment was at Greenwood cemetery.

JUNIOR CAPTURES THE FIRST PRIZE

Carl Neimi of Eveleth Schools Winner in the Essay Contest.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Committee of Fifty at its first public meeting in Monitor hall last night paid tributes to Lincoln and discussed the moral uplift of this community.

The prize offered by the best essay on some civic topic was won by Carl Oscar Neimi, a junior who told what was needed to make Eveleth the Queen City of the range—a new public library, public park, law enforcement, uniform trees, Y. M. C. A. and a union depot. The essay was cleverly arranged, couched in good English and brought forth much applause. Misses Ethel Wilk and Ruth Jesmore won the second and third prizes.

The meeting began with a vocal solo by Mrs. Edwin K. Medler, accompanied by Miss Pearl Sheehy. She was forced to respond to an encore, and rendered "Danza," a soprano solo, in good voice.

C. L. Newberry, superintendent of the Gilbert schools, delivered an eloquent address on "Lincoln, the Citizen." He related many stories and experiences of the emancipator, which clearly showed the character of the man as a statesman and citizen. He told the political career of Lincoln and ranked him as the peer of any American statesman.

Secretary Dr. N. C. Bulkley of the Associated Charities told of the work being done by the organization. The concern now has a balance of $120 in the treasury, but much money is needed.

Virginia Favors Range Organization.

Guy R. Forbes of Virginia spoke on "Organized Booze and Organized Bread," stating that the liquor traffic interests were well organized and that civic organizations should be started in all the range towns to abolish illegal liquor traffic and that the work can be accomplished if concerted, united action is taken by those interested in the law enforcement movement. Rev. D. B. Hanscomb of the Methodist church, recently of Maine, spoke on "Tidings From Maine," and cited instances showing that in the lowest form of the non-license system mankind was more benefited than in the best form of licensed communities.

Alex G. McKnight of Duluth gave the principal address of the evening, speaking on "Civic Ideals." He related many of his experiences as a Duluth alderman and pointed out the need for faithful political officers in the place of makeshift politicians "who are onto the ropes." His address made a hit with the audience.

Rev. Mr. Schwarz, in closing, emphasized the need of united action for better civic movements, claiming by gaining public approval, the organization can reap better results at the hands of the city administration in law enforcement and other important civic measures.

AN ENGLISH ROMANCE CULMINATES IN EVELETH.

Eveleth, Minn., Feb. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A romance which started in England some years ago culminated yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. Capstick, when her grandson, Albert B. Capstick, was married to Miss Anna Allen, who arrived here a few months ago from England. Rev. Phillip A. Schwarz, Jr., officiated. Only intimate friends and relatives were present. The bridegroom is well known here, having resided here for many years. He is a locomotive engineer and will soon start housekeeping with his bride in the Adams location.

The Beautiful Hair That Artists Admire

(American Art and Artists.)

"Many a model's hair is ruined by soap and water. Have you not often seen long and glossy tresses deteriorate from the ideal 'crowning glory of woman' to a faded, coarse, matted mass?

"A portrait painter of renown advises his subjects to use only a dry shampoo before sittings. The best shampoo powder is easily made in the studio or at home. Put a half pound of corn meal in a jar, add four ounces of amotone and stir well. Sprinkle a tablespoonful over the hair and then brush it out thoroughly.

"Corn meal cleanses the scalp and hair roots, removing every particle of dirt, oil and dandruff, and amotone makes the hair beautifully soft, fine and glossy, with the natural color heightened. It is said there is no better hair grower than amotone."

DULUTH CONCERN GETS PUMP WORK

Two Harbors Council Finally Disposes of Long Drawn Out Controversy.

Two Harbors, Minn., Feb. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The city council last night rescinded the action of Jan. 23, on the report of the committee of the whole, recommending the purchase of a pump from Fairbanks, Morse & Co., and gave the contract to a Duluth firm.

The question of purchasing a 3,000,000 gallon pump has been occupying the council for over a month. On Jan. 23 the council found it was necessary to purchase a pump for the pumping station and recommended that the bid of the Fairbanks, Morse & Co. be accepted. Besides the bids of A. E. Garland for Fairbanks, Morse & Co., three other bids were received from La Vaque and Webster for the Nordberg Manufacturing company of Milwaukee, Wis; from C. W. Tubby for the Laidlow-Dunn-Gordon company of Chicago, and from C. J. West for the Canton-Hughes Pump company of Canton, Ohio.

Hugo Makes Suggestion.

Another communication was received from T. W. Hugo of Duluth, who recommended the purchase of a condenser with the pump, the advisability of which had been questioned. The representatives of each company were allowed to go over their plans again and discuss them for the benefit of the council. The bid of C. W. Tubby for the Laidlow-Dunn-Gordon company was practically ruled out of the discussion because of the adverse report of T. W. Hugo and C. J. West had withdrawn his deposit owing to the same misunderstanding. After a lengthy discussion the alderman asked permission to give his views, stating that he had changed his mind and asking that the former action of the council be rescinded. This was done and a motion was made to adopt a resolution awarding the contract for the new pump to La Vaque & Webster of Duluth for the Nordberg Manufacturing company of Milwaukee. Webster and E. W. Swarlwout represented this firm in person. Attorney Lawrence was instructed to confer with T. W. Hugo of Duluth and to draw a suitable contract, making the placing of the pump on either the east or west side of the station optional and also giving the city the right to do the piping if so desired.

HANGS SELF IN CAR.

An Unknown Woodsman Takes His Life at Winton.

Winton, Minn., Feb. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Finding a woodman's packsack lying outside a box car in the Iron Range yards here, Yardmaster Smith looked into the car and saw a man hanging from a rafter. He was dead. He appeared to be a woodsman and there was nothing in the clothes to make an identification.

A Two Harbors Protest.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Please publish this letter in the interests of our taxpayers, as we must do something to make our council realize that they are running us still further in debt which, heaven knows, is too high now.

A short time ago they showed their wisdom in picking out an excessively high-priced pump of a style, I am told, never before made, but which was offered by clever salesmen. Last night they changed this and adopted another make at still higher price.

They certainly do not show the taxpayer much consideration by such child's play and I, for one, think it's time for a new deal all around. Yours truly, F. B. M.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM — Mack-Leone Players in "God's Country."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.
ODEUM and LYRIC—Photoplay.

Green Room Gossip.

The engagement of Willard Mack and Miss Maude Leone in "God's Country" will continue tonight, tomorrow and Friday. Saturday afternoon and evening, "Miss Nobody From Starland" will be the attraction at the Lyceum. The following notice is from the Cincinnati Times Star:

"Expecting nothing more than the legal one-pound loaf, one is somewhat amazed when they begin to hand out the whole bakery at the Lyric theater, where 'Miss Nobody From Starland' is playing. The show is one of those frequent outputs New York won't have, and which a more open-minded West embraces hospitably. It is an excellent show and very novel in numerous spots. A musical comedy can only be judged by the laughter it provokes; this one is often greeted with roars. The second act is one of the best, for cleverness, of the season. It is a satire on the stage, played with the audience literally behind the peek hole in the curtain. We are let into a dozen little stage secrets in a manner which causes the novice to scream and the sophisticated to chuckle. The comedy, as is not aften the case in musical productions, is frequently real satire, particularly in the second act. Hough and Adams, who wrote it, have learned a great deal about the stage since they wrote 'The Girl Question.'"

Theodor Lapokawa, the young Russian who is appearing at the Orpheum

this week with his sister has only one regret in his present American engagement. He does not believe his act is produced under conditions which are favorable to an artistic success. The young Russian speaks but little English, but through his manager who acts as interpreter, he let it be seen that he possesses what might be called "an artistic temperament." In Russia, the young man is accustomed to dance with a large symphony orchestra of fifty or sixty pieces providing the music, and with a supporting ballet of from fifty to 100 dancers. In America he has the Orpheum orchestra of fourteen or fifteen pieces, and no supporting ballet. "I like America," he said in badly broken English, "but I would like a ballet. Lydia don't mind. She can dance any place. For me, it is hard." Lydia is the young man's sister, a young Russian girl only 18 years of age, and said to be the youngest ballerina ever privately trained by the Imperial ballet at St. Petersburg. A ballerina is the highest degree given a dancer in the Russian ballet, which Mlle. Lapokawa entered when she was only 8 years of age.

"The Spring of Youth" which is being presented at the Empress this week by Foy and Clark is one of the most amusing skits that has been seen in this city. While there is really no plot to the sketch, it is full of clever comedy situations that keep the audience in roars of laughter. In the hands of less capable people, this little playlet might fall flat, but with such clever people as Miss Clark and Mr. Foy, it makes good with a vim.

The public has seen many trained dog acts but Ballerini's dogs are in a class by themselves. These little animals perform the most difficult tricks and the beauty of their act is that they go through their performance with hardly any attention from their trainer.

Miss Grace De Mar presents several character changes and all are excellent. The majority of the change artists present one good change, while the rest fall below the standard. Miss De Mar gets away from this fault and this with her good singing makes her offering very popular. Moran and Moran present a pleasing and entertaining singing, talking dancing number and the show is closed by the Hoefler trio who perform several difficult tricks on bicycles and unicycles.

A romantic story of the days when "Knighthood Was in Flower" is the feature of the Odeum bill of photoplay this week. "Heart Beats of Long Ago" is the title. "The Little Circus Rider," tells a more modern but not less interesting tale, and "The Jilted Joker" is a good comedy film. "Hank and Lank" is another comedy film of a different type. Miss Maddox is singing "Arab's Dream."

At the Lyric "The Reformation" is a strong dramatic film telling a Western story that points a good moral. "The Sheriff's Sister" is another film of the same type, but equally interesting. "Hearts, Hunger and Happiness" is a most amusing comedy picture, and Mr. Mistachkin is singing the illustrated song as usual.

Both programs are fully up to the standard of amusement being offered in these two popular theaters, and they delighted large audiences at the opening performances.

BRAINERD HEARS RAILROAD CHIEF

President Elliott of Northern Pacific Meets With Business Men.

Brainerd, Minn., Feb. 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific railway; H. E. Still, assisstant general freight agent; Newman Kline, superintendent of the St. Paul division, and C. C. Kyle, chief clerk of the mechanical department, Saturday evening were guests of Brainerd at an impromptu gathering in the Citizen's State Bank hall.

The railroad men had been to the international boundary in company with General Manager W. H. Gemmell of the Minnesota & International railway and stopped off to inspect local matters. Among the local speakers were Messrs. R. R. Wise, Col. A. J. Halstad, Con. O'Brien, S. F. Alderman and Dr. J. L. Camp. Messrs. Kline and Still responded with remarks.

The speech of the evening was made by President Elliott, who went into details regarding the great railway corporation of which he is the head, giving illustrations of the large expenditures for material and labor which had to be met regardless of whether the business of the road warranted the expenditure and he showed why occasionally the policy of retrenchment had to be carried out no matter how disagreeable it was to the management or to the people of the cities where the same was put into force.

Brainerd Has Fared Well.

In regard to building a new passenger depot for Brainerd, which subject had been touched upon by local speakers, Mr. Elliott pointed with pride to several of the industrial buildings and industries that the company had already built and established here and stated that Brainerd had no reason to complain in the matter of treatment by the company in the expenditure of capital here, mentioning the tie plant, one of the two on the line of the Northern Pacific; the permanent improvements in shop buildings and equipment, which were now located in Brainerd permanently, and the magnificent new foundry just completed. Mr. Elliott dwelt on the people and the railroad officials getting in closer touch, getting acquainted with any situation that might arise which needed legislation, and endeavoring by an interchange of opinions and expressions to come to an understanding before the matter was taken to the legislature for the relief which might be deemed necessary, but which possibly might be adjusted to the satisfaction of both parties if the opportunity was offered.

Corwin N. Wilson, mail clerk.

GIVING OUT

The Struggle Discourages Many a Citizen of Duluth.

Around all day with an aching back;
Can't rest at night;
Enough to make any one "give out."

Doan's Kidney Pills will give renewed life.

They will cure the backache;
Cure every kidney ill.

Here is Duluth proof that this is so:

J. H. Tomlin, 112 W. Palmetto St., Duluth Heights, Duluth Minn., says: "When I worked on the street railway in 1908, I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. At that time I said that I had suffered for two years from kidney complaint. I finally became so bad that I had to quit work for days. My back was painful and at night I was nervous. When I got up in the morning, I felt tired and worn out and I was made miserable by a kidney weakness. I have no doubt that the constant jar received while riding caused my trouble. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. They cured me and I have not had much trouble from my back or kidneys since. I always have a box of Doan's Kidney Pills in the house."

Editor Atkinson of Hibbing Plans Southern Trip for Rest and Recreation—How Maine Lumbermen Whittle Wireless Signals to Spokesman—Decline of the Comic Valentine and Impassioned Love Screeds.

C. M. ATKINSON, editor and publisher of the Mesaba Ore at Hibbing, has been in the city several days, a guest at the St. Louis. Mr. Atkinson has not been in the best of health of late and about the first of the year he hiked for the woods to hunt big game and cook flapjacks. Both pastimes did him good and his health is now in part restored, but he is in need of rest and recreation. So he will take a trip South.

A friend who lives in Alabama wrote to him some time ago, inviting him to make a visit in that state. Not content with writing one letter of invitation, the Alabaman sent nine letters, in nine successive days. He succeeded in making the impression he desired to make, and Mr. Atkinson decided to go.

It is possible for him to get away because at the first of the year he took into partnership with him, on a half-ownership basis, his son, Marc Atkinson. Besides being father and son they are chums. Marc told his father he surely did need a rest and he mapped out an itinerary for "The Old Man Thereof," as the Hibbing editor describes himself in the Ore. Marc figured it out that the best way for his father to get to Alabama was by way of Chicago, Philadelphia, Washington, New York, Havana and Mobile. He overlooked Rio. Now, Marc is some traveler, having visited practically every visitable place in this country, and all the European countries. So it's probable that the itinerary he has mapped out for "The Old Man" will "go."

Mr. Atkinson will not go South for a week or two. He is one of the veterans of the sanctum, coming to the range from Wyoming, where he was engaged in newspaper work. The Mesaba Ore bears the impress of its editor's personality more strongly, perhaps, than does any other country paper of the state.

Editor Atkinson was postmaster of Hibbing until a short time ago. Talking about the work of the postmaster in a flourishing community like Hibbing, he said last evening that it is real work.

"I didn't handle the postoffice business quite the way one Southern Minnesota postmaster is said to have done," he said. "It seems that this man became involved in a political fight, exerting his influence in behalf of a Democratic candidate for the legislature, although he was himself a Republican. Charges of pernicious political activity were lodged against him and an inspector came to investigate. Not finding the postmaster in the postoffice, he looked him up at home and asked for an explanation, saying it was alleged he was mixing political and postoffice affairs.

"'Why, that's a blamed lie,' exploded the accused official. 'I ain't been inside the postoffice for a year and a half!'"

* * *

TWO lumbermen were seated facing each other at the Spalding, talking about a deal they had on. Each had spoken his mind on the business in hand. Then a pause ensued. The man who had stumpage to sell began again to set forth the advantage of his offer, and the other took a match from his pocket, opened his knife, then proceeded to whittle the match. He whittled with a downward stroke, shaving off tiny slivers of wood. The man who was talking also produced a match and knife and did likewise. So they sat and whittled, until it was observed that the lumberman who had been first to ply the knife had reversed the whittling movement and was whittling toward himself.

"You take the offer?" ventured the older man, snapping his knife shut.

His companion nodded.

"You from Maine?" asked the senior, but the words were more the statement of a conclusion rather than a question.

"Well, my father was from Maine," replied the younger lumberman.

"Why?"

"I guessed as much," said the old lumberman. "You whittle like a state of Mainer."

"Yes, I got that habit from my father," explained the younger man, who was himself gray haired. "Father often told me of the practices of men who rafted logs on the Androscoggin in his early days back East. Big rafts would be made up by the loggers, all of them pooling their interests in the raft, and when they got to tidewater they would dicker with the millmen's buying agent for hours at a time, one man doing all the talking for the pool. While the negotiations were in progress, the members of the pool sat around and whittled. At the beginning all would cut away with an outward stroke, and as this and that man became satisfied with the offer of the buyer he would reverse his blade and whittle with a steady persistence in the other way. Not until all the members of the pool had accepted the terms by reversing his blade was the spokesman authorized to close the deal."

"Yes, I've seen that done many a time," said the older man, "and when I saw you turn your blade and whittled toward you I guessed you come from down Maine way."

"NOTICE the pleasing absence of the old-fashioned comic valentine from most of the show windows this year?" asked a guest at the Lenox. "With the allegedly comic supplement, the crude comic valentine has come into deserved disfavor. Of course, some dealers handled them this year. The demand for them has not completely died out, but it is comparatively small. People don't seem to care for them as they did years ago. It's a good thing to get rid of them, for they served no good purpose, while in many instances they did real harm. There was nothing about their make-up to commend from the point of view of art and workmanship, so they had to go.

"Remember those elaborately pretty and lacey valentines you used to send your school girl sweetheart, valentines that breathed a fiery love and a fanatic devotion? Nope, a man can't forget those days. Well, even that style is in the discard, mostly. The valentine lads are content now to tell the secret of their palpitating hearts in a less violent way, and symbols serve where wordy outpourings were essential in the days of yore and youth.

"This doesn't mean that St. Valentine's day is losing its significance. Oh, no. The little god's victims are just as glad today as they ever were to profit by the opportunity it gives them to tell their sweethearts how they feel about things.

"Expensive and ornate French designs of valentines have been popular this year, and the distributers of New York, Chicago and other points have done a brisk business in all kinds of valentines, with a notable exception of the comic. Post card valentines have leaped into popular favor and some very attractive folder styles printed in neat colors, have been put to amorous use by many a swain and lass.

"Valentine day is not a dead one, by any means, and I hope it never will be. The decline of the comic seems to be warrant for the belief that St. Valentine is with us to stay, but also that his day will be a better one, a more pleasing one, than it has been in the past."

A Mighty Ruler, He

Who Wisely Rules Himself.

Curious what a scrap you have now and then (maybe two or three "nows" and several "thens") with what the old Scotchman called the "deevelish part" of your make-up.

* * *

It's safe to say "you" and not miss the mark, for we all belong to the same lodge, and it seems to be a part of some great plan to try us out and see if we can thus earn the right to rule greater things.

* * *

Most every day some one of the many "warriors of the enemy" comes across your pathway and puts up a scrap to see if he can rule.

* * *

You must be well trained and alert or he will make you bend the knee or, perhaps, break a leg or permanently cripple you.

* * *

There are several of these "enemies" which can be named over, but for the purpose of this article let us speak of the narcotics, the family which includes morphine, whiskey, coffee, cocaine, tea, tobacco, etc., all the same family, each member having a different degree of strength.

* * *

Now, coffee is perhaps one of the most plausible and deceitful of them all.

* * *

It has many friends, but coolly and cunningly knifes them, and they don't know where the blow comes from.

* * *

Many and many a poor, nervous wreck, with weak heart, suffers by day and lies sleepless at night without suspecting that his "dear old friend," Mr. Coffee, is quietly pushing him along towards the silent city. No, coffee don't hurt every one by any manner of means, but it does pick out the highly organized individuals and wrecks them by the score.

* * *

Perhaps the victim realizes it, but has fallen time and again in the battle and been whipped so often that he has given up and bowed the head to the chain of his master.

"I simply cannot give up my coffee," is the wail, and so day by day he grovels and the master stretches him a few turns tighter on the rack of suffering.

* * *

Make sure of one thing. Once you become conscious of the fact that a fight is on, suffering follows steadily until you are able to rule.

* * *

Then comes the reward—comfort, health and happiness for the victor.

* * *

It is good work to stand right up and smash away with a "mailed fist" but it's much more comfortable to whip Mr. Coffee by throwing him "right over the side of the mountain" and give his place to Postum.

* * *

A steaming, fragrant cup of this famous beverage has the clear seal-brown color which changes to a rich golden brown under cream.

* * *

Ofttimes, the victory of one's better self over a known enemy is followed quickly by remarkable changes—peaceful sleep, balanced nerves, stronger heart, and all the joy which comes after the removal of a drug and its replacement with natural food elements which old Dame Nature is only too glad to seize upon for the building material so badly needed and so long denied.

* * *

Well, here's best wishes to you, reader. Hope you don't get "licked" too often, it's weakening.

WAITER RAISED DINNER CHECK

Charged with forgery in the third degree for the raising of a dinner check from $4 to $7, Joe Lyons, colored, employed at the Spalding cafe, was placed under arrest last night by Patrolman John Connor. Lyons later admitted his guilt at police headquarters, it is stated.

The victim of the check-raising trick and three others ordered dinner in the cafe, and one check was presented. How it had crawled to such unusual proportions occasioned surprise, but nothing was said at the time. The manager was later notified and he called in the police.

Lyons had secured two checks from the cashier's desk. One was made out by him for the right amount and the other for $7, the latter being the one presented to the guest. At the desk the right check and the right change were turned in, the $3 difference finding its way to Lyons' pocket.

Lyons was not arraigned today.

"WHY BE SO THIN?"

Thinness is Embarrassing, Unhealthy and Not Natural—Formula Now Used Which Adds From One to Three Pounds a Week.

Every one ought to have some extra flesh on the bony structure of the body, both for the sake of health and self-esteem.

Most thin people are sensitive to the harsh, unfeeling criticisms which are constantly being hurled at them by the more fortunate well-figured persons.

Every one pities a thin, bony horse, but horses don't know it—while thin people are both pitied and ridiculed, it ought not to be so, but it is.

A well rounded figure, be it man or woman, excites admiration; not only for the figure but for the bright eyes, pink cheeks, red lips, and vigorous carriage which accompany a well-nourished body.

Strength, health, beauty and sound flesh abound, if the blood and nerves get enough nourishment out of the food eaten.

This prescription aids nature; helps absorption, digestion and assimilation; helps distribute the blood and nerve elements which make sound flesh. Get the ingredients and make it at home, and see how very fast you gain in weight.

In a half pint bottle, obtain three ounces of essence of pepsin, three ounces syrup of rhubarb. Then add one ounce compound essence cardiol, shake and let stand two hours; then add one ounce tincture cadomene compound, (not cardamom). Shake well and take a teaspoonful before meals and one after meals. Also drink plenty of water between meals and when retiring. Weigh yourself before beginning.

ALL ISHPEMING HONORED THEM

Last Rites for Victims of Powder Explosion Was Sad Spectacle.

Ishpeming, Mich., Feb. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The funerals of the six young Englishmen who lost their lives in the explosion at the Pluto Powder company's plant south of the Winthrop, held Sunday afternoon from the First Methodist Episcopal church, constituted the saddest spectacle seen in Ishpeming in many years. The members of the Sons of St. George and Woodmen societies, gathered on Pine and Division streets, joined the procession as it came along. There were several hundred lodgemen in line, aside from whom were a number of Englishmen who are not members of the Sons of St. George society.

Two in One Casket.

The remains of the six victims—Joseph and Thomas Ripper, Edward and George Woodward, Charles Kemp and Robert Askew—were in five caskets, the remains of the Woodward brothers being in one, and there were five hearses, while every available livery rig in both Ishpeming and Negaunee was in use. The First Methodist church, with a seating capacity of over 1,000 persons, was far too small to accommodate all who desired to attend the services.

The funeral of Michael O'Connor, the foreman in the gelatin house, was held Sunday morning from the Methodist church, and this was also largely attended. There was a large turnout of members of the Ahmeek lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, under whose auspices the obsequies were held. Rev. M. Robinson conducted the services and preached a short sermon.

The funeral of George Wallberg, the last of the victims to be interred, was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

NERVE STRAIN

Doctors tell us that a vast percentage of the breakdowns and troubles today are from overworked, undernourished nerves. We Americans strain every nerve in our body trying to make a success in life, and do not nourish and feed our nervous system so as to make it equal to the strain; the result is we are broken down old men and women before we are forty years of age. The nerve tissues must be fed and strengthened, the stomach must be assisted in doing the work of digesting the food, the blood must be enriched and circulation quickened, the body and brain must be invigorated, so that we can withstand the strain and retain health, strength and youth.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, the world's most reliable tonic-stimulant and strength-builder, is an ideal remedial agent for nervous people or any one under a nervous strain. It quiets the nerves and starts the gastric juices, so that the food can be digested. It is a food in itself that gives strength and fills the blood with bright red corpuscles.

Doctors and other scientists all over America know that Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey does wonders in aiding the digestion and assimilation of the food and in bringing vigor to the body.

It is sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY by all druggists, grocers and dealers, or direct, $1.00 a large bottle. Look for the "Old Chemist" on the label and make sure the seal over the cork is unbroken. Medical booklet containing rare common-sense rules for health and testimonials, also doctor's advice, sent free to any one who writes. The Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

GUILTY IS THE VERDICT

Bradford Voshall Is Convicted of Shooting James Sheeran.

Jury Spends Eight Hours Considering Evidence in the Case.

After several hours' discussion, the jury in the case of the state against Bradford Voshall, charged with shooting James Sheeran on board the steamer J. H. Bartow, Nov. 2 last, brought in a verdict of guilty of first degree assault, last evening.

The verdict was no surprise to those interested in the case for Voshall made some damaging statements against himself when on the stand, and some of the witnesses for the defense instead of strengthening the case, weakened it.

There was no attempt to deny the shooting on the part of the defense, but it was claimed that it was done in self defense.

The jury evidently believed the other story told by the state's witnesses, who claimed that Voshall took another man's quarrel into his own hands, and shot Sheeran down.

The jury retired shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and the verdict was returned about 10 o'clock last night.

The case has been on trial for a week past before Judge William A. Cant of the district court.

DEATH FOLLOWS BIG VERDICT

Injuries for Which Hibbing Woman Is Recompensed, Prove Fatal.

Mrs. Alma Trenholm of Hibbing, who last week got a verdict in district court of $4,335 against the Duluth, Missabe & Northern Railroad company, for injuries received in a railroad accident, died yesterday.

It was only a few days ago that a jury returned the verdict. She died before the company had paid the claim.

Mrs. Trenholm suffered injuries to her head, back, spine and in fact nearly every part of the body. A picture taken of the injured parts while Mrs. Trenholm was unable to leave her bed, figured in the trial. One side of the body was paralyzed.

The verdict brought in by the jury was one of the largest returned for a personal injury claim in a number of months.

STARTLING REVELATIONS OF THE LUMBER INDUSTRY MADE BY COMMISSIONER

quences to society it is now difficult to anticipate fully or to over-estimate."

The commissioner reserves for later report the subject of combinations in the manufacture or sale of lumber (as distinguished from ownership of standing timber). Following is substantially the full text of the letter summarizing the report:

"The foremost facts shown are:

"(1.)—The concentration of a dominating control of our standing timber in a comparatively few enormous holdings, steadily tending toward a concentration of the lumber industry control.

"(2.)—Vast speculative purchase and holding of timber land far in advance of any use thereof.

"(3.)—An enormous increase in the value of this diminishing natural resource, with great profits to its owners. This value, by the very nature of standing timber, the holder neither created or substantially enhances.

Results of Land Policy.

"These are the underlying facts, of tremendous significance to the public welfare. They are primarily the results of our public land policy, long continued. The laws that represent that policy are still largely operative.

"Only forty years ago, at least three-fourths of the timber now standing was (it is estimated) publicly owned. Now about four-fifths of it is privately owned. The great bulk of it passed from government to private hands through enormous railroad, canal and wagon road grants by the federal government; direct government sales in unlimited quantities at $1.25 an acre; certain public land laws, great tracks being assembled in spite of the legal requirement for small holdings. Such laws were wholly inappropriate to forest regions; but, though vigorously condemned in several public reports, they are still largely in force.

"During this interval and chiefly in the latter half thereof, the value of standing timber has increased tenfold, twenty-fold and even fifty-fold, according to local conditions. The present annual growth is only about one-third of the present annual cut. Replacement by new growth is very slow.

What Did Government Get?

"What did the government get for the timber? Of the Southern pine sold for $1.25 an acre, much is now worth $60 an acre. Large amount of Douglas fir in Western Washington and Oregon, which the government gave away or sold at $2.50 an acre, now range from $100 to $200 per acre. The great redwood belt in California was alienated on similar terms and some of it is now worth hundreds of dollars an acre.

"The former chief of field service of the general land office H. H. Schwartz, stated officially (1909) that the timber and stone act 'has resulted in the sale of over 12,000,000 acres of valuable timber lands, of which fully 10,000,000 were transferred to corporate or individual timber land investors by the entrymen. These lands brought to the people or general government a gross sum of $30,000,000. At the date of sale they were reasonably worth $240,000,000. The profit of over $200,000,000 went not to the needy settler, but to the wealthy investors. Not a fractional part of 1 per cent of the timber purchased from the United States under this act is held, consumed, or even cut by the men and women who made the entries.

Illustration of What Happened.

"An effective illustration of what happened under our land laws appears in the report of the United States forester for 1910.

"An investigation emphasizes the probability that heavily timbered lands, if opened to entry, would pass into the hands of large owners of timber. Of 705,000 acres estimated from the Olympic national forest in 1900 and 1901, on the ground that the land was chiefly valuable for agriculture and that the settlement of the country was being retarded, 523,720 acres passed ultimately into the hands of owners who are holding it purely as a timber speculation. Three companies and two individuals own over 178,000 acres, in holdings of from 15,000 to over 80,000 acres each. Of timbered homesteads claims on this eliminated area, held by 100 settlers. The total area under actual cultivation is only 570 acres, an average of but 5.7 acres to each claim. It will be seen that the original purpose of elimination was defeated, and that bona fide settlement was not materially advanced.

What Is Left.

"There is now left in continental United States about 2,200,000,000,000 board feet of privately owned standing timber, of which 1,747,000,000,000 in the 'investigation,' covered in great detail by the bureau. This area includes the Pacific Northwest, the Southern pine region and the lake states, and contains 80 per cent of all the private timber in the country. In addition there are about 539,000,000,000 feet in the national forests and about 90,000,000,000 feet on other non-private lands. Thus, the total amount of standing timber in continental United States is about 2,800,000,000,000 board feet. The present annual drain upon the supply of saw timber is about 40,000,000,000 feet. At this rate the timber now standing, without allowance for growth or decay, would last only about 55 years.

"The present commercial value of the privately owned standing timber in the country, not including the value of the land, is estimated (though such an estimate must be very rough), as at least $6,000,000,000."

Proceeding next to consider the concentration of timber ownership, Mr. Smith says:

"Three vast holdings alone, the greatest in the country, those of the Southern Pacific company, the Weyerhaeuser Lumber company and the Northern Pacific Railway company (including their subsidiary companies), together have 238,000,000,000 feet, or nearly 11 per cent of all our privately owned timber. They have 14 per cent of that in the 'investigation area.' With the five next largest they have over 15 per cent of the total privately owned timber and over 19 per cent of that within the investigation area. Finally, nearly one-half (48 per cent) of the private timber in that area is held by only 195 great holders.

"The Pacific Northwest — Five-elevenths of the country's privately owned standing timber is in the Pacific Northwest (California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana), 1,033,000,000,000 feet. One-half of this is now owned by thirty-seven holders; many of these are closely connected. The three largest holders (named above) alone have nearly one-quarter.

"The Southern Pacific holding is the greatest in the United States—106,000,000,000 feet. This is about 6 per cent of the private timber in the investigation area, and 10 per cent of that in the Pacific Northwest.

Weyerhaeuser Second Largest.

"The second largest holder is the Weyerhaeuser Lumber company (including its subsidiary companies), with 96,000,000,000,000 feet. This does not include further very extensive timber interests of the Weyerhaeuser family and close associates.

"These two holdings would supply the 46,584 sawmills in the country for four and two-thirds years. They have one-eleventh of our total private timber.

"The third largest, the Northern Pacific Railway company, has 36,000,000,000 feet.

"These three holdings have enough standing timber to build an ordinary five or six-room frame house for each of the 16,000,000 families in the United States in 1900. If sawed into lumber and placed in cars, their timber would load a train about 100,000 miles long.

"The holdings of the two railroad companies are government grants and 80 per cent of the Weyerhaeuser timber company's holdings were bought from the Northern Pacific grant.

"Southern pine region—In the Southern pine region there are 634,000,000,000 feet of privately owned timber. Sixty-seven holders own 39 per cent of the long leaf yellow pine, 20 per cent of the cypress, 19 per cent of the short leaf and loblolly pine and 11 per cent of the hard woods.

The Lake States.

"The lake states—In Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan, there are 400,000,000,000 feet of privately owned timber. In Wisconsin ninety-six holders have three-fourths of all the timber. In Michigan 113 holders have 66 per cent. In Minnesota six holders have 54 per cent of the very valuable white and Norway pine, 16 per cent of the other conifers and 2 per cent of the hardwoods. Taking all three states, 215 holders have 65 per cent of all the timber.

"Certain further factors, not exactly measurable, increase still more the real concentration. First, a further interweaving of interests, corporate and personal, connects a great many holdings which the bureau has treated as separate; second, there are very large totals of timber so scattered in small tracts through larger holdings that they are substantially 'blocked in' or 'controlled' by the larger holders; third, the concentration is much higher in the more valuable species.

"General information obtained indicates a very high concentration in timber owners outside the investigation region.

"The largest holders are cutting little of their timber. They thus reserve to themselves those incalculable profits which are still to accrue with the growth of the country, the diminishing of timber supply, and the further concentration and control thereof. Many of the very men who are protesting against conservation and the national forest system because of the 'tying up' of natural resources, are themselves deliberately tying them up far more effectively for private gain.

Land Concentration Also.

"Standing timber is not the only question. When the timber has been cut, the land remains. There has been created, therefore, not only the framework of an enormous timber monopoly, but also an equally sinister land concentration in extensive sections. This involves also a great wealth in minerals. The Southern Pacific has 4,318,000 acres in Northern California and Western Oregon, and with the Union Pacific, which controls it, millions of acres elsewhere. (The government, however, is not suing to annul title to the Southern Pacific lands in Oregon for non-compliance with the terms of the original grants.) The Northern Pacific owns 2,017,000 acres of timber land and millions more of non-timbered lands. The Weyerhauser Timber company owns 1,945,000 acres.

"In Florida, five holders have 4,600,000 acres and the 187 largest timber holders have over 15,000,000 acres, nearly 50 per cent of the state.

"Finally, the timber concentration and to land concentration is added, in our most important timber section, a closely connected railroad domination. The formidable possibilities of this combination in the Pacific Northwest and elsewhere, are of the gravest public importance."

Then follows the forecast of the future quoted at the outset of this dispatch and the letter concludes with this paragraph:

"Such are the past history, present status, and apparent future of our timber resources. The underlying cause is our public land policy, resulting in enormous loss of wealth to the public and its monopolization by a few interests.

"It lies before us now as a forcible object lesson for the future management of all the natural resources still remaining in the hands of the government."

HARD WORK IS NEEDED

considerable time, although the compilation of school laws will be reported out in both houses simultaneously.

New State Buildings.

The proposition of bonding the state for the construction of new buildings for the educational institutions was reported to the joint appropriations committees last evening favorably by the joint sub-committee. As proposed, the several institutions will be apportioned about the following out of a $4,000,000 bond issue: University, $1,000,000; agricultural college, $500,000; Valley City normal, $500,000; Mayville normal, $150,000; Minot normal, $600,000; school of science, $150,000; Ellendale normal, $100,000; deaf and dumb school, $100,000; leaving about $690,000 to $800,000 for a new institution to be established at some future time in the southwestern section of the state.

Approval by the State Dairymen's association and the state livestock sanitary board has been given the Englund bill, introduced in the house, providing for the indemnification of tubercular cows killed by the orders of the board. The plan proposed is similar to that worked out at the present time with reference to the indemnifying of glandered horses. The Englund bill would create a tax levy of one-twentieth of a mill with which to establish an indemnity fund.

Repairs For Capitol.

An appropriation of $25,000 for repairs to the state capitol building are asked in a bill introduced by Senator Welch of Burleigh county. This bill comes as a result of the killing of the capitol commission idea.

Towner and Valley City delegations have reached an agreement with reference to the bill that will give county seats train service from all trains operating in the state through the different county seats.

An annual appropriation of $5,000 is proposed for the Mandan Missouri slope agricultural exposition as provided in the Whitmer bill that has been reported out favorably in the house. The bill has not met with any opposition as yet.

The report from the treasury investigation committee will be filed with the assembly either tomorrow or the day following.

Active opposition has been raised to the bill that allows the spring shooting of geese. Two years ago the legislature passed an act that abolished such shooting, and now the movement to replace spring shooting has gained good headway. T. S. Palmer, assistant of the biological survey, has strongly protested against the proposed action.

Codifying Probate Laws.

The senate wants to have something to say with reference to the appointment of the commission that will be charged with the codification of the probate laws of the state, having amended the bill providing for such a commission by making the appointment subject to the confirmation of the upper body. An emergency clause has also been affixed and the appointments would have to be made by the governor before the closing of the legislative session.

Opposition to the plan of dividing the Fifth judicial district, as proposed by the Ployhar bill, has been raised in Stutsman county. The Bar association of that county has passed resolutions asking the assembly to reject the Ployhar plan of division.

Fisk to Be Judge.

Attorney Frank Fisk of Williston will be judge of the new Eleventh judicial district when the bill is approved by the governor. He is a brother of Justice C. J. Fisk, and all opposition to his appointment has practically been withdrawn.

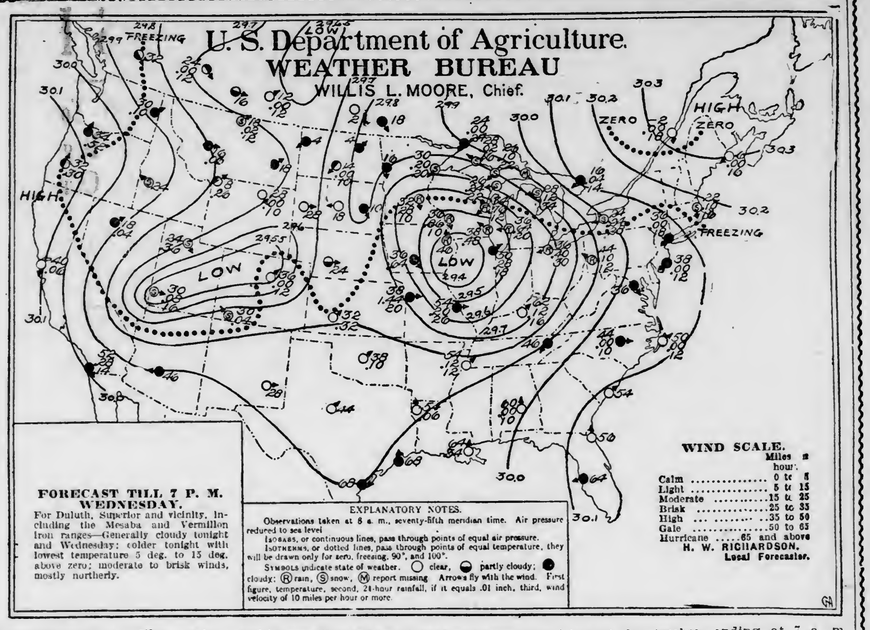

This afternoon the senate will have a big fight over the drug permit bill, which comes up on minority and majority reports, while in the house the building bill, relating to the construction of public buildings, together with the uniform accounting bill, will come up for final passage.

OFFICIAL MAP OF THE WEATHER

COLDER

The rain and sleet storm of yesterday turned into a snow storm today. Snow fell nearly all day and as the temperatures were comparatively mild the streets became areas of slush. Colder weather is predicted for tonight with low temperatures ranging from 5 to 15 deg. above zero.

The snow storm has been general in the region of the Great Lakes and good rains fell in Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma. The weather has turned colder in South Dakota.

The prevailing northeaster will probably continue tonight and will be followed by colder weather tomorrow.

A year ago today the weather was mild and the sun shone brightly. A year ago tomorrow, however, there was a blizzard of considerable intensity.

The sun got up today at 7:14 o'clock and will set at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Forecaster Richardson comments on the weather as follows:

"Barometric depressions central over Iowa, Colorado and Saskatchewan have caused light to heavy falls of rain or snow throughout the Lake Region, Central Valley states and the Far West during the last twenty-four hours. Good rains fell over Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma. Higher temperatures prevail over the Rocky mountains and Southeastern states, but the weather is somewhat colder from South Dakota southward to Texas, and over the plateau region and most of Western Canada. The present northeaster will probably continue into tonight followed by colder weather by morning at the Head of the Lakes."

Chicag, Feb. 14—Forecasts for twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m. Wednesday:

Wisconsin—Rain or snow this afternoon; unsettled tonight and Wednesday; colder tonight.

Minnesota—Unsettled weather tonight and Wednesday; colder tonight.

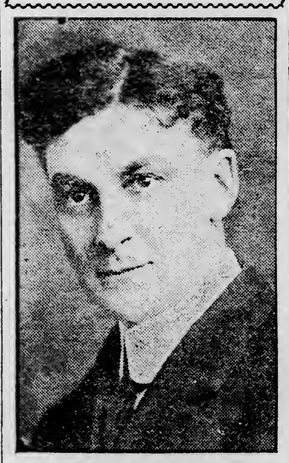

Shippers forecast: Protect thirty-six-hour shipments of perishables against temperatures 5 deg. to 20 deg. above zero in the Eastern Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin and the Michigan Copper country.

EXECUTION REMARKABLE

Great Guns Do Terrible Damage at Distance of 8,000 Yards.

More Information of Practice Held Under Battle Conditions.

Washington, Feb. 14.—In the light of fuller reports on the firing test in the lower Potomac river, last Friday, when 12-inch shells fired by the monitor Tallahassee penetrated armor plate targets erected on the Katahdin at a distance of 8,000 yards, naval ordnance experts have reiterated their contention that service projectiles retain their effectiveness at long battle ranges.

Only limited information hitherto has been available in connection with an attack upon armor under conditions approximating those of actual battle.

The experiment is accepted by the naval officers as confirmation of the theoretical deductions which previously have been relied upon in regard to the flight of projectiles and the nature of the impact at long ranges.

The first shot which struck the target penetrated the armor but the shell was broken to pieces. The second projectile struck the top of the forward target, dug out a piece of steel measuring three and one-half feet by six feet, glanced off and was lost. The third and fourth shots completely penetrated the larger of the two targets. The third bored a clean hole—the fourth likewise pierced the thick plate and in addition tore off a big piece of steel.

None of the shells were loaded with explosives, the test being designed to determine the pentrating power of the projectiles.

The experiment will be supplemented by tests on the old battleship Texas during the target practice in the spring when projectiles loaded with explosives will be fired with the purpose of demonstrating the effectiveness of the service shell.

The firing against the Katahdin targets was with guns of comparatively low power, the velocity of projectiles being only 2,400 feet per second, as against 2,850 given by the 12-inch guns of the modern battleships. The penetration given by these higher power guns at 8,000 yards range is declared by naval ordnance experts to be nearly 30 per cent greater than that of the guns of the Tallahassee.

Few medicines are of any benefit for rheumatism, but Mr. Sanders tells plainly what Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine did for it. One ounce of salicylate of soda added to one bottle of Nervine makes an excellent remedy for rheumatism, which is now known to be a nervous disease and therefore subject to the influence of a medicine that acts through the nerves, as does

DEMURRERS IN INDIAN LAND CASES WITHDRAWN

Technical Defect in Proceedings Halts Arguments Along One Line.

Arguments Now Being Heard on So-Called Probate Court Actions.

The process of clearing the decks for action in the White Earth Indian reservation land cases was halted this morning when, after Judge Morris had pointed out defects in the manner in which the proceedings were brought, Attorney R. J. Powell for the defendants, withdrew his demurrers in the cases before the court and announced that he would withdraw all the demurrers already filed. The stumbling block is purely technical and will be removed when Mr. Powell files his answers in the cases, reserving the right to demur.

Although the arguments on the demurrers were halted, the arguments on the second class of cases, those involving conveyances of property by heirs of allottees without having obtained the approval of the secretary of the interior as required by the act of 1902, are still on before Judge Morris.

The anxiety of all parties concerned to advance the cases as rapidly as possible was expressed in court this morning. Special Assistant Attorney General M. C. Burch, who is conducting the cases for the government, stated to the court that in proceeding as they have been, the attorneys for the government and for the defendants have acted with a desire to obtain rulings of the court on as many points of law as possible before bringing the cases to trial on their merits. Government officials, Indians, defendants and everybody concerned are anxious to get definite rulings on all points so that the status of all parties may be established as soon as possible. In view of the defects in the proceedings pointed out by Judge Morris, further argument might be a waste of time and Mr. Powell accordingly withdrew his demurrers.

Judge Morris lent his support to the determination of the attorneys to bring matters to a speedy issue.

"I don't know of any judge on the bench who believes any more strongly than I do in promptness of decision," said Judge Morris. "I believe that promptness of decision is almost as essential as correctness of decision. This practice of dangling people along through the courts for years is a calamity to the country. Some people might better lose their rights now and then rather than that all the people should be hung up in litigation."

Much Work for Courts.

The question of the placing of the burden of proof as to the blood of the Indians involved in the actions also came up informally this morning, but not for action. It will probably be decided at some later date. From the statements of attorneys, it is possible that in every case testimony will have to be taken to establish the Indian's status as to full blood or mixed blood and as there may ultimately be 1,200 to 2,000 cases, the court of the Sixth division of the district of Minnesota has much litigation in Indian affairs facing it.

The argument this morning was on the class of cases in which descendants of Indians, receiving land through probate court proceedings, have sold the land without obtaining the consent to the secretary of the interior. The government claims that the Clapp amendment, giving mixed bloods the right to sell their lands without reservation, does not apply to mixed bloods receiving land from parents and that the law of 1902 requiring the approval of the secretary of the interior to make all such conveyances legal holds.

The defendants claim that the land passed out of the control of the government when it passed to mixed bloods and the secretary of the interior had no right to give approval or disapproval of such sales. The government has filed objections to one paragraph of the defendants' answers and the arguments now being heard are on those objections.

Construction of Treaties.

Indian treaties must be construed, not as white men understand the language, but as Indians would have construed it, was the contention of Mr. Powell in his argument yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Powell contended that the term "set apart for the use of the Indians," was construed by the Indians as a full and free passing of title and must be accordingly construed so by the courts. He maintained that the White Earth reservation was part of the consideration given under the treaty of 1867 for the transfer to the government of nearly all of the district which is now Northern Minnesota.

Mr. Powell's argument yesterday afternoon covered the different treaties between the government and the Chippewa Indians, starting with the Wayne treaty of Greenville in 1795, by which the different tribes of the Algonquins transferred territory that is now Ohio to the United States. He took up the treaty of 1805 and the treaty of 1815, the latter being the treaty made at [illegible] Wells. He touched on the treaty of 1825, made at Prairie du Chien, by which the boundaries between the Chippewa and Sioux nations were established, and then the treaty of 1842 at La Pointe, Wis., by which the Lake Superior and Mississippi Chippewas ceded certain territory to the United States.

Then came the Fond du Lac treaty of 1847 between the Chippewas of the Mississippi and Lake Superior Chippewas and that was followed by the treaty of 1854. That was followed by the famous treaty of 1855, which was the first treaty entered into in Washington. Mr. Powell said, in passing that the treaty was never ratified by the Indians.

In 1863, another treaty was made by which the Indians turned over to the government all the territory owned in Northern Minnesota except certain reservations. In 1865, another treaty covering about the same ground was made, but the reservations were greater and that was followed by the treaty of 1867, by which the White Earth reservation was established.

Unsuited for Agriculture. (?)

Mr. Powell said it was a strange fact that the treaty of 1867 stated that the lands formerly reserved were unsuitable for agriculture, whereas the lands were those which now embrace the cities of Bemidji and Crookston and a great farming territory in that district.

Mr. Powell said that in all dealings with the Indians, the only reservations on the title of the Indians were those which gave the United States the first right to purchase. He said that the government's position of guardian is solely that of guardian from outside powers.

Mr. Powell took up the general allotment act of 1887 and said that, while it was an act of congress, it was also a treaty and was never ratified by the Indians. He said that, although the Indians consented to allotments being made under the Nelson act of 1889, the provisions of the allotment act of 1887 were agreed to only so far as they applied to the manner in which the allotments were to be made. The trust patent was never agreed to by the Indians, he said, and the Indians thought the allotments were being made only that the community title might be distributed among the individuals.

A Reader Cures His Constipation----Try it Free

Simple way for any family to retain the good health of all its members

The editors of "Health Hints" and "Questions and Answers" have one question that is put to them more often than any other, and which, strangely enough, they find the most difficult to answer. Thas is "How can I cure my constipation?"

Dr. Caldwell, an eminent specialist in diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels has looked the whole field over, has practiced the specialty for forty years and is convinced that the ingredients contained in what is called Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the best claim to attention from constipated people.

Its success in the cure of stubborn constipation has done much to displace the use of salts, waters, strong cathartics and such things. Syrup Pepsin, by training the stomach and bowel muscles to again do their work naturally, and with its tonic ingredients strengthening the nerves, brings about a lasting cure. Among its strongest supporters are Mr. John Graveline of 98 Milwaukee Ave., Detroit, Mich., Mr. J. A. Vernon of Oklahoma City and thousands of others. It can be obtained of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, or if you want to try it first a free sample bottle can be obtained by writing the doctor.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

MANY INJURY CASES FILED

Actions Which Total $45,000 Are Begun in District Court.

Two of the Cases Brought Here From Iron County, Michigan.

Personal injury actions, the complaints in which ask within a penny of $45,000, were filed in district court this morning.

Two of the suits are against the Oliver Iron Mining company and the other is against the Pickands-Mather company.

The largest amount is asked by John Maki, who wants $25,000 from the Oliver Iron Mining company for injuries alleged to have been sustained while working at the Mansfield, Iron county, Michigan. He claims that through no fault of his own but through the negligence of the company he was crushed beneath some timbers and terribly injured. He claims to have spent many weeks in a hospital and states that he will never again be able to work.

The second largest amount is asked by Thomas Hermanson, who asks $18,000 from the same company for an accident that he alleges occurred in the same mine. He claims that a piece of heavy machinery fell upon him. He claims negligence on the part of the company in that he was not furnished a safe place in which to work.

Adolph Heins asks $1,999.99 from the Pickands-Mather company for injuries which he alleges were sustained while he was employed on the steamer Amasa Stone. He states that as a part of his duty he was assisting to raise the hatches of the boat when his foot was caught and crushed. The accident happened Oct. 8 last, when the boat was making the Duluth port.

RECIPROCITY AND THE PARTY.

In the first day's debates in the house at Washington on the reciprocity agreement with Canada only one objection, practically, was made by all the opponents of the measure, and that was that the proposed compact was a blow at protection. The men who saw fit to object to the president's proposition did not argue that reciprocity with Canada would be disastrous to the welfare of the people of this country or of the Dominion. They did not try to raise the farm bugaboo. They did not try to dispute the advantages that reciprocity would bring. All they could see was that it was something that would imperil the old, time-worn hobby of protection, and on that ground they based their opposition.

The candor of these opponents is as welcome as it is surprising. The Canadian agreement is a blow at the theory of protection, as practiced by the Republican party, and the fact that it is such a blow is one of the points that make it most satisfactory to the American people. They have had enough of protection of the kind that builds up trusts and monopolies. They have seen special privilege come into being and thrive under that principle. They have seen the consumers of all kinds of products throttled for the private gain of the special privilege crowd, and they are sick of it. That is one of the things that have made this reciprocity proposition so welcome.

Those arguments in the house ought to be embalmed, along with the spirit which they represent, and laid away in some pyramid or catacomb and sealed in. They are not fit to appear in the light of the twentieth century. They represent the old-time, hide-bound, rock-ribbed, petrified, narrow-guaged, mind-blighting school of party worship, which taught the people that the party could do no wrong, that its leaders were such by divine appointment and that the true definition of treason was disloyalty to party. In the consideration of such a measure as this reciprocity agreement there should be no room for that kind of political tommyrot.

Parties and party principles should have nothing to do with the Canadian agreement. The people have demanded that the tariff and all its relatives be divorced from politics, and there is no sense in waiting for the senate to pass the tariff commission bill before that demand of the people is recognized and heeded. The reciprocity agreement is a tariff measure backed by a big majority of the people of the country. It ought to be ratified by congress without thought of partisanship. If congress is capable of enacting tariff legislation on the merits of the legislation itself, without regard to party—as it will be expected to do after the tariff commission begins its work—now is the time to prove that ability. If congress is incapable of such action, now is as good a time as any to show that fact, so that the people can begin at once to figure on some way to take the tariff entirely out of the hands of congress and put it under some authority that can act on it as a business proposition in the interests of the people, and not be hampered by antiquated notions of party loyalty and hope of particular favors from special privilege.

A DOCTOR'S SUGGESTION.

Discussion of questions of public health and sanitation by the medical men of a community is not uncommon, but a suggestion made at the last meeting of the St. Louis County Medical association goes beyond that point and brings up a proposition that would give great benefits if applied to municipal affairs. This was the proposal that the city engage a "sanitary engineer" as head of its department of health.

Such a course would naturally be more easy under the commission form of government than under the present form, and perhaps that is the reason why the suggestion as made at that meeting devolved upon the adoption of the commission plan in Duluth. But the sanitary engineer could be engaged under the present form, and with a competent man in such a position much good work could be done for the city and its people.

Such a position would involve a wide variety of duties. The sanitary engineer should have much to say about drainage questions; he should have supervision over collection and disposal of garbage; he should have direction of ventilation and similar features in public and semi-public buildings and conveyances; he should have authority to take whatever action he saw to be necessary in case of an epidemic; he should have certain supervisory powers regarding the water supply. In fact, he should be given something to say in all matters that affect the public health.

How to secure the services of a man capable of such work can be answered by the question of salary. In recent years the problem of public health has received such great recognition that some of the educational institutions of the country have installed courses of instruction to fit men for just that kind of work, and therefore the possibility of securing a competent person is assured. In these days of recognition and knowledge of the causes and spread of disease it is not enough that the head of the city health work be a graduate physician. He must have a knowledge of drainage and of building and other construction such as are not included in any straight medical course. He must, in fact, be a sanitary engineer.

There is much of value in the suggestion that such an officer be one who will receive the indorsement of the local medical association. If his work is to be thoroughly effective he must have the co-operation of local physicians, and to secure this he must have their confidence. He must be in a position to keep in touch with the doctors of the city, and yet must not be seeking to continue or build up a personal practice, for that in itself would be a handicap to him in his work. For example, if conditions in some building demanded interference on his part it would be putting him to serious loss, possibly, if by enforcing the authority of his office he should be compelled to step on the toes of some client whose medical patronage he could not afford to lose. By making him independent of a personal practice this difficulty would be eliminated.

There is sound sense in the suggestion that Duluth secure the services of a sanitary engineer. Such a step would mean putting the health of the people in the hands of an expert who would devote his entire time to the problem, and the city could afford to pay well for such service by a competent man.

THE MISSISSIPPI IN MINNESOTA.

Although the ultimate object of the work proposed in the report to the present legislature of the Minnesota Lake Superior and Mississippi River Canal commission is so vast and has so many ramifications that it will require much study and some years for its realization, there were two recommendations made by that commission that are entitled to immediate recognition and action. These have to do with the development of the Mississippi river so far as it lies entirely within the boundaries of this state. They read as follows:

> First—That you make an appropriation of $5,000 for the purpose of clearing out the dead and sunken logs now impeding and making dangerous, transportation on the Upper Mississippi river above Little Falls.
> Second—We would further ask that you make an appropriation of $15,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to prosecute a survey of the Upper Mississippi from St. Paul to Sandy Lake, and to obtain the approximate cost of locks and dams that would afford slack water navigation for steamboats drawing seven feet of water.

It is a peculiarity of the Father of Waters that Minnesota is the only state which has any part of the great river entirely to itself. Within the boundaries of our state there rises a body of water that is one of the greatest natural forces in the world. But Minnesota is making comparatively little use of the stream, and the commission appointed by the late Governor Johnson expresses a belief that substantial benefits could be secured by development work. If this belief is well founded—and there appears no reason to doubt the competence of the commission to pass on that question—the amount asked of the state is very small considering what it would accomplish.

The ridding of the streams of sunken logs should be an easy matter, as far as getting the work done is concerned. In places farther down the Mississippi and along its tributaries, where the lumber industry has died out on account of the passing of the forests, the salvage of sunken logs is carried on systematically by corporations organized for that purpose. There is a ready market for such timber, and the state should be able to dispose of the fruits of that work at a figure that would more than meet the cost. At the same time it would be opening the stream for practical purposes that would serve splendidly in the development of the state.

The appropriation of a fund for a survey of the stream would be a natural sequence to the other task. If it would be possible to establish a channel that would accommodate boats of seven feet draught, at anything like a reasonable cost, the state could find no better way to provide for commercial development. The existence of such a route as this for 225 miles above the Twin Cities would not only take care of a certain amount of traffic, but with the influence of competing water routes on railway rates it would simplify to some extent the work of the state railway commission. Such a survey as is proposed is a necessary preliminary to such development. It would be well worth $15,000, and the commission implies that the work could be done for less than that amount.

According to present propositions, Sandy Lake would be the connecting point for a Lake Superior and Mississippi river canal. In case such a canal was ultimately deemed advisable, the work proposed by the commission on the Upper Mississippi would be only a step already accomplished. In case the canal project never was put through, the state would at any rate be the gainer by the development of that part of the upper river that lies entirely within its own boundaries.

JUMPING ON MILWAUKEE.

There is a disposition in some newspapers to indulge in belittling references to the management of the Milwaukee government under Socialistic administration. Reckless statements are being put into print, some of them apparently with little more substantial basis than a fixed belief that nothing good can come from Socialism. Increased expenditures in certain departments and increases in the number of employes are the principal charges made. Replying to a series of attacks in the editorial columns of the Cleveland Leader, C. E. Ruthenberg of Cleveland has written to that paper as follows:

> The facts seem to tell a different story. The report of the city comptroller of Milwaukee for the first six months of the Socialist administration shows that the expenditures during that time were $22,000 per month less than under the previous administration. The Socialists have established a city purchasing department, which already has saved the city many times the cost of maintaining the same; they have saved the city $1,500,000 by changing the specifications for macadam paving, which previously permitted contractors to take large amounts out of the city treasury for unnecessary work; they have saved the city not less than $100,000 per month through eliminating unnecessary and high salaried officials and graft, and by killing unjustified damage suits against the city; they have established a contract department which bids for city work in competition with contractors, thus preventing combinations to rob the city.

There is a vast difference between these statements and those that charge increased expenses and greater waste. Perhaps the men who are making the charges have some inside information on which to base their statements. So far as the public's information goes, the accusations are at fault.

Socialism as applied to municipal affairs is on trial in Milwaukee, and it is reasonable to assume that it will make the best possible showing. It has been in force for less than one term of office. Certainly, the only fair course for the other cities of the nation to pursue is to let Milwaukee work out her own solution of the problem. Her people elected to try the Socialistic pill to remedy civic disorders. Others are adopting other remedies. When the time comes for Milwaukee to hold another election the verdict of the people themselves will be rendered as to the effect of the medicine. Until that time it is the part of the neighbors to watch the symptoms as closely as they care to, but not to annoy the patient by trying to make the case look as dark as possible.

J. PROCTOR KNOTT

By SAVOYARD.

That admirable newspaper, the Nashville Banner makes the following comment on an error into which its contemporary, of the same city, had fallen, concerning a gentleman, who has commanded my admiration ever since I first met him, when he was the Democratic candidate for congress in the famous old Fourth Kentucky district, in 1867, when I was not yet advanced out of youth and he not yet emerged from middle life:

"The Tennessean and American says: 'Senator Proctor Knott insists that his his career anywhere was ruined "because he acquired the reputation of being humorous.' There was once a famous race horse named Proctor Knott, born at Belle Meade, and there is an estimable old gentleman in Kentucky who several times represented the Fourth Kentucky district in congress, and while there made a famous funny speech about Duluth, which some people were so unkind as to say Donn Platt wrote. This same Proctor Knott was also governor of Kentucky from 1883 to 1887, but who was Senator Proctor Knott?"

Proctor Knott was never a senator in congress, and he never said that his career anywhere was ruined 'because he acquired the reputation of being humorous." Tom Corwin was the man who claimed that his renown was dimmed because of his penchant for humor; but Corwin was not in Knott's class. Take humor from Corwin's speeches—all but that opposing the Mexican war—and nothing is left; but take the humor from Knott's speeches, and mountains remain.

Corwin was an actor; Knott was a thinker. On the dramatic stage Corwin would have ranked with Garrick or Kean or either Booth; but at the bar Knott was in a class with Carlisle, or Madison C. Johnson, or Humphrey Marshall. "You have one great lawyer in Kentucky," said old Jero Black, the head of the American bar, to James B. Beck. He was alluding to Proctor Knott, then chairman of the house judiciary committee. Until Knott got to congress, Corwin's "Cornstalk Militia" speech lived in tradition as the most stupendously humorous production of any American, and so it was, no doubt, to hear it as it was delivered by that matchless actor; but when I came to read it, I found it commonplace and positively dull compared with Knott's humorous productions—the Pennsylvania avenue speech and the Duluth speech. Knott's admirable legal argument on the question of removal of causes from state to federal courts was also interspersed with humor that convulsed congress.

Knott was the author of three great serious efforts, any one of which was sufficient to make a national reputation—the speech on the Fourteenth amendment, the address on Andrew Jackson, and the profound philosophic discussion of the bill of rights in the Kentucky Constitutional convention of 1890. The last named is one of the masterpieces of political genius, and if I could order, it should be studied by every class in civics in every college in the entire world.

Knott is pre-eminently the Democrat, with both the little and the big D. The world never saw a man more jealous of power, more miserly of personal liberty. He would clothe the government, state as well as national, with the least possible authority consistent with public order, and yet there never was statesman with more horror of license.

As for the construction of his speeches, they are embarrassed by the riches of his boundless vocabulary. They are sometimes over-ornate, and you long for the severe simplicity of Carlisle. This is especially observable in his speech prosecuting Belknap before the senate in the impeachment proceeding. He is a great man, a great jurist, a great statesman, a great thinker, logician, wit, poet.

In addition to Donn Platt, the authorship of the Duluth speech was claimed for Pat Donan, but the Duluth speech was the production of the man who made the Pennsylvania avenue speech, which I have always held to be superior to that on Duluth, especially in the matter of fancy, while the rollicking humor of the earlier production was equal if not superior to that on Duluth, though in the latter the apostrophe to France, then in sore distress, is the very zenith of pathetic eloquence. Both these speeches came from the same imagination and are productions of the same mind.

Nobody who ever met Proctor Knott in the social circle—when he was in the vein—ever dreamed of challenging his authorship of the Duluth speech. He set the table in a roar with a thousand anecdotes, the most exquisite, and had Proctor Knott been a "hand-shaker," had his composition been alloyed just a little bit with the demagogue, he would have attained to his ultimate ambition—senator in congress from Kentucky, and a dozen years in that body would have enabled him to illumine it with a thousand additional splendors of the human imagination, and ennoble it with the wisdom of a profound thinker and an honest man.

Helping Andy Die Poor.

Ortonville Herald Star: J. P. Morgan is reported to be forming a trust by buying up a number of periodicals and newspapers. This is a grand example for our friend Carnelge to follow, as it is his desire to die a poor man. Then his delinquent subscribers can say, "he ran a good paper, was a good fellow, but couldn't save his money."

We know of several experienced newspaper men who would delight in running a paper for Andy on the throttle-wide-open basis.

Sherman's Subsidy Vote.

Middle River Pioneer: Vice President Sherman, for the first time in the history of the United States senate, broke a tie vote in that august body. He cast the deciding vote on three separate propositions. As a matter of course he cast his vote on the side of the "interests" and against the people, as was expected by all who have watched his career in the past.

Had he done otherwise, Hale and his tribe would have dropped dead of heart disease.

Sharks Chase Torpedoes.

New York Herald: Medina Luna Cay, Cuba.—The detachment of the destroyers cruising in West Indian waters and the tender Dixie have established headquarters here. Media Luna Cay is on the south coast, twelve miles from Santa Cruz del Sur. Torpedo practice is being held.

The sharks with which these waters abound are keenly interested in the torpedo practice, seeming to regard it as a performance arranged for their exclusive benefit. With every torpedo discharged white sharks, blue sharks, tiger sharks and dogfish are off in a bunch down the line full speed, but so far no shark has been able to do nine seconds flat, and even the big red nosed hammerheads arrive puffing and blowing some time after the torpedo has broached.

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

THE IMPORTANCE OF RECIPROCITY.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Do you realize what reciprocity with Canada means to Duluth, Minnesota and the country at large? If you do, get busy.

Every man and every company that thinks reciprocity with Canada will make him or them lose 10 cents or more, has written or is writing their congressman and senator to kill the bill. Now it will only cost you 1 cent for a postal and about two minutes' time to put your influence in favor of it. Get busy!

Don't stand on the outside and say, "It is not going to make me lose anything and my postal or letter will not do any good." Your postal or letter will do good, also your friend's postal. Look alive! Get busy! Get your friends busy!

A flood or a few of them will do a great deal of good. Remember the interests have already been working against it, so we must all get together on the other side. Get behind it and shove!

PORTER B. MARKELL.

Duluth, Feb. 13.

WHERE A SNOW PLOW WAS NEEDED.

To the Editor of The Herald:

I wish to take this time to protest against the failure of the officials of the Duluth Ski club in not having the snow cleaned off the path leading from the car line to the grounds, and also having some paths inside the grounds leading to the grandstand.

I was among the 4,000 or 5,000 people who yesterday attended the ski tournament, paid my good money to see the events, stood around in the snow with wet and cold feet, and like many of the others, became disgusted and went home. Had the officials of the club spent a few dollars for the comfort of the people who keep the sport alive here, they would have made many friends for the club.

The spectacle of hundreds of men and women, and even children in some cases, struggling through snow that came to their knees, and standing in this snow a good part of the afternoon, was something that caused me, for one, to be deeply and indignantly amazed at this gross negligence upon the part of the officials of the club.

In many cases it was impossible to get any sleigh to take you up to the grounds. It meant a long walk through snow that was so deep that walking was rendered a difficulty. In addition to this there was not even a path, after you got inside the grounds, that led to the grandstand. If you stood, as the great majority of the crowd did, you stood in deep snow and stood with wet and chilled feet.

I offer my protest against such treatment of the public, and further repeat that I am amazed at the lack of management of so big an event, and wonder deeply why business men who should employ every effort to treat the public with the spirit of fairness, should fall down to the extent that the public, the paying public, is given such scanty consideration. A team with a snow plow would have done wonders.

Dramatizing School Instruction.

Motion pictures will be used for many purposes in the schools. From the beginning, educational films have been displayed in the commercial theaters. "The National board of censorship," says John Collier in the Survey, "in twelve months inspected 3,000 reels (a reel provides a fifteen minute show). Of these 400 were catalogued as 'educational.' There exists a great range of geographical, industrial, and historical reels, already available.

"The school will use the motion picture because it is graphic. The growth of a plant from seed to harvest is shown in a ten-minute space on the screen, not with gaps and halts, but in a continuous process amazing to behold. The almost infinitely swift motion of an insect's wing has been dissected by pictures taken at the rate of 2,000 a second.

"But motion pictures are not only graphic, they are dramatic. Too much passive instruction weakens the will of a child. The motion picture, when it presents a dramatic theme, impels the child away from a merely receptive attitude and into an active mood. 'Education through doing the thing, not merely studying about it,' is a watchword of pedagogical reform, and the school which believes this will find a great use for motion pictures."

A MOMENT WITH THE WITS.

Funny Side: A little boy was playing in the garden one day when he spied a beehive. Wishing to see what was inside of it he lifted off the top with painful results. Running into the house screaming with pain he told his mother:

"Those bugs that live in that little house out there have walked all over me with their hot feet."

"I don't know," answered Mr. Chuggins, in a tone of slight embarrassment. "If you do take it out, where will you go?"

"Yes; we have accumulated enough fines for nonattendance to take us all to a musical comedy."

Maok's National Monthly: "I believe in the French theory that children who are born foolish should be destroyed in infancy," declared the man with the fur overcoat at the big hostelry yesterday.

"That's all right," said the little man who was with him, "but what would become of the Republican party if they did that?"

Cleveland Plain Dealer: "You know Mrs. Van Gilder's family portrait gallery that she started last year?"

"Yes."

"Well, that great criminal detective officer who guarded the wedding present when Frostie Van Gilder married the oldest De Graft boy told me that he recognized seven of the portraits, and they had all done time—whatever that means."

Canadian Courier: "What ails the chauffeur, doctor?"

"Automobilitousness."

Baltimore American: "I think your son's aphasia shows an increase."

"Will he have to have it cut out?"

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: The only person a genius can't worry to death is himself.

Brides are lovely roses, and their families are the thorns on the stems.

Most of the pride that a man shows in his family is when he's bragging about it downtown.

A good thing about a boarding house is everybody expects you to growl about the meals, but if you do it at home the cook leaves.

The great majority of people can never be made to understand that you might be willing to be polite to them without wanting to love them.

Pointed Paragraphs.

Chicago News: Sweet are the uses of alimony.

It's unlucky for the mouse that meets a black cat.

Some men find courage only when they lose their tempers.

He who waits for dead men's shoes is liable to get cold feet.

A punctured grafter now and then is relished by all honest men.

Men may not have as much curiosity as women, but they have enough.

The truth is mighty and will prevail, especially if it happens to be disagreeable.

And many a woman would rather be envied by another woman than be loved by a man.

Few men are inclined to let well enough alone when they see something better within reach.

Yes, Cordelia, we once heard of a man who had more money than he knew what to do with. He was a bachelor.

"Valuables Overlooked."

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Robbers in Chicago robbed the cashier of the most fashionable restaurant after midnight. Strange enough they overlooked the waiters, who, at that hour in such places, are carrying more money than can be found in the safe.

Forcing Casualties.

Chicago Inter Ocean: A New York dispatch says that Gen. Leonard Wood has ordered the aeroplane squad to the Mexican border for scouting purposes. We fear the fighting about Juarez will be attended with loss of life.

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Thanks, Very Much.

Belgrade Tribune: We welcome The Duluth Herald, the best daily in this state—especially editorially — among the many exchanges that come to our desk.

Need a Tailor, Not a Barber.

Detroit Free Press: A barber in Duluth has invented "buttonless suspenders." The buttonless trousers invent themselves.

The Herald Takes the Lead.

Two Harbors Iron Post Advocate: Since the St. Paul Pioneer-Press has ceased to be recognized as the leader of Northwestern journalism and has degenerated into a third-lass newspaper, The Duluth Herald through its able management today certainly occupies the enviable position of being the leading newspaper west of Chicago. Suffice to say, Duluth has at last made a total eclipse of the Twin City press which sparkled with such luster, through able management and great talent, ten years ago. We congratulate the enterprising daily press at the head of the great chain of lakes for great distinction finally won.

Discussion, Not Advocacy.

Mankato Free Press: The Duluth Herald advocates the introduction of the half-cent. Heaven forbid such an infliction on the American people.

Reasons Are Excellent.

Ely Miner: The Duluth Herald has produced several excellent reasons why the legislature should hustle through its business and adjourn. As the legislators are now on a salary basis and not on a per diem there seems to be no particular object of prolonging the agony. The Chisholm Herald believes all this true but wonders how the third house will feel about it.

Sense, Not Half Cents.

Stillwater Gazette: The Duluth Herald asks if we want half-cents. Whole sense, horse sense is what we all need, without any splitting.

Join the Procession.

Brainerd Journal-Press: The Duluth Herald is certainly handing the proper kind of editorial reading matter to its readers. It seems to be in the largest sense of the word "Independent" and for the betterment of labor and Northern Minnesota. Keep the good work going. They'll all join our ranks in the near future.

A BAD COLD IS EASILY BROKEN

Surely Cures a Cold and Ends Grippe Misery in a Few Hours.

There is not one grain of quinine in Pape's Cold Compound, which, when taken every two hours, until three consecutive doses are taken, will surely end the grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.

It promptly relieves the most miserable neuralgia pains, headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, catarrhal affections, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars, and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world which will cure you cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

GOOD REASONS

For Demanding the Original Remedy, Newbro's Herpicide

If you knew it, you would not willingly accept counterfeit money. Instead, you would probably raise a disturbance and seek some means of redress.

Why then accept a preparation said to be "just as good as Newbro's Herpicide?" You know it is a counterfeit, an imitation of the real thing. You want the original dandruff germ destroyer, Herpicide, and you can get it, too, if you insist.

Redress is always possible in such an instance. The most effective method is to trade where you get what you ask for and no suggestions offered.

With the death of the dandruff germ the hair stops falling and is permitted to resume its natural growth and beauty. Such results follow the use of Newbro's Herpicide. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

A counterfeit article is never "just as good." Herpicide is sold and guaranteed by all druggists.

Applications may be obtained at all good barber shops and hair dressers.

Send 10c in postage for sample and booklet on the care of the hair to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

PATENT IS CAUSE OF MUCH TROUBLE

Evener, Invented By McGregor Brothers, Belongs to Alvarado Company.

A carriage evener invented by Allen L. and Duncan McGregor, brothers, has caused a lot of litigation. In a decision handed down by Judge Dibell of the district court yesterday, it was decided that Miles T. Frink and the Alvarado Manufacturing company own the rights to the patent.

After inventing the evener, the McGregors applied for a patent, but being without money, entered into an agreement with N. H. Smith to form a company capitalized at $25,000 in 2,500 shares of $10 each. They were to deliver the patent over to the company.

They finally refused to turn over the patent and later assigned their rights to Miles T. Frink for a valuable consideration. Frink then assigned the patent to the Alvarado company.

FREE RINKS ARE OUT OF COMMISSION.

The soft weather of yesterday prevented any skating on the free rinks in the different parts of the city. A number of children appeared with their skates tossed over their shoulder and were genuinely disappointed when informed that they would have to seek other amusement for the day. It is probable that all the rinks will have to be resurfaced.

BIG ISSUES NOT DECIDED

are held only because it looks better in the record to hold them than to adjourn to Tuesday morning. In about a month even Saturday sessions will be held, and then the members will not be able to make so many trips home as they are able to make now.

To tell the entire truth about it, the session isn't, at this present moment, getting much "forwarder." None of the big issues have been decided, though progress has been made in committees that does not show on the surface. It is true that county option, the big issue in the minds of many, has been settled in the house, but the senate is yet to be put on record upon it, and that means the consumption of a day or two.

Reapportionment, the one big issue in the minds of all lovers of justice and fair play, has yet to be acted upon by the legislature, though the house committee on reapportionment, after weeks of hard work—the burden of which has been borne by Chairman Congdon—has prepared a bill which will be introduced tomorrow as a committee bill, and which meets every demand of justice and goes further by meeting the objections of the narrow-visioned minority which affects to hold that this is not a government of people but of acreage, and that a man in a city is not entitled to the same representation in the law-making body as a man in the country. The three cities, in this bill, are not given the full number of senators and representatives to which they are entitled on the theory of legislative representation laid down by the Constitution; yet there is no complaint whatever from either of these cities.

Nevertheless, when the bill comes up for action in house and senate, it will be found that those who wish to parade this theory of discrimination in favor of acreage against humanity as a disguise for their secret enmity to any kind of reapportionment, will emit loud cries and vote to retain the present government of a majority by a minority on that ground.

Handling State's Resources.

Second only to reapportionment, at least in the minds of Northern Minnesota folk, is the reorganization of the state's business of handling its natural resources; and as to that the outlook is not good for really effective legislation. One big stumbling block is the fact that the Constitution appears to anchor the handling of state lands to the state auditor's office. It has no more business there, probably, than it has in the office of the attorney general or that of the state treasurer; but the Constitution, in effect, says that the state's lands shall be disposed of as was then provided by statute, and the statute than provided that they should be disposed of by the state auditor's office. One first essential, therefore, is the amendment of the Constitution to cut this tie that binds the state lands to the auditor's office, and then a new system in which the several branches relating to the conservation, development and settlement of the state's resources may be devised. Such a constitutional amendment will undoubtedly be developed before the session is over. In the meantime some temporary legislation may be proposed and adopted, such as the patrolling of forest areas under the plan to be considered by the house forestry committee Wednesday afternoon, the provision for monthly sales of state lands, etc. If anybody happens to think of it, the merging of the forestry work and the state game and fish commission is easily possible, and that will be so much to the good. Several bills are now pending providing for the co-ordination of the state's efforts toward taking care of the public domain, but the constitutional feature works against all of them.

Workingmen's Compensation.

Workingmen's compensation is another chief issue, but the chances now are that practically nothing will be done, except as a makeshift. The bill presented by the commission appointed two years ago will come up for hearing as to its constitutionality Wednesday evening before a joint meeting of the judiciary committees of house and senate, but not much interest is being taken in this measure. It seems to have the opposition not only of the employers, whose representative refused to join in the recommendation of the bill, but of the employes, who are not satisfied with its provisions. George M. Gillette, who represented the employers on the commission, will present a bill of his own, and the employes have already had drawn a bill, described heretofore in these dispatches, which will be introduced when it is clear that the commission's bill is doomed.

Representative Knute Knutson of Swift Falls today introduced in the house a bill providing for the adaptation to Minnesota of the law now in effect in Canada relating to the settlement of industrial disputes. The chief feature of the Canadian act is that in disputes arising between employer and employes, it is made unlawful to resort to strike or lockout until the matters in dispute have been passed upon by the board of conciliation. After the board has reported, the matter is left to public opinion, which is presumed to be based on the findings of the board. The law has worked fairly well in Canada, it is said, and the author of today's bill does not see why it would not work well here.

The bill does not provide for an arbitration board, but for a board of conciliation that will investigate the subject at issue and suggest a basis of settlement. If the basis suggested is satisfactory, that is all there is to it. If it is not, then either strike or lockout may follow; but in Canada there have been few of either because in the majority of cases the parties have accepted the decision of the board. A statement by Mr. Knutson says that "the Canadian act became a law March 22, 1907. By the end of March, 1909, after two years' operation, the records shows that 96 per cent of strikes were avoided or ended. Some of these industrial disputes involved thousands of men, and only two cases out of fifty-five ultimately resulted in strikes, these two being in accordance with the provisions of the law, which permit owners to lock out their men and workmen to strike after the public investigation has been completed and its results published. Thus the law relies on the reasonableness of the parties to the dispute when the facts on both sides are publicly stated and discussed, and on the judgment and fairness of a patient and suffering public which in the end pays for the greater part of the industrial warfare."

Legislative Manual.

The pocket manual issued for the use of the members of both houses will be out in a few days, and the legislative manual, prepared by Secretary of State Julius Schmahl, will be out about the same time. The shortest biography in the book is that of Chester A. Congdon of Duluth, a member of the house, and it is as follows: "Chester A. Congdon, Republican, born June 12, 1853. Member of the house in 1909."

The publication of these valuable documents awaits the final decision of the senate contests, which will come soon. The only contest remaining undecided is that of ex-Senator Ray Farrington against Senator Froshaug. A report on this contest is expected today or tomorrow, and it will be in favor of the sitting member, Senator Froshaug, though a minority report signed by Senator C. F. Cook may be presented. The senate unquestionably will support the minority report, so that the outcome of three of the most interesting contests in many years will be that no contestant will succeed.

Practically all of the members of both houses took advantage of the long recess to go home, and the capitol has practically been deserted since Friday afternoon until this morning.

Minot, N. D., Feb. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—For the purpose of encouraging intelligent farming and to show what North Dakota land will produce if properly farmed, the Soo line has offered to pay the expense of cultivating a half section of land along scientific lines for a period of ten years, provided some party will donate the land for that period. The Commercial club has taken up the offer and hopes Minot will be the first city in the state to claim a model farm.

Try This for Colds

Prescription Known for Results Rather Than Large Quantity.

Go to your druggist and get "Two ounces of Glycerine and half an ounce of Concentrated Pine compound. Mix these with half a pint of good whisky. Shake well. Take one to two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bed time. Smaller doses to children according to age." Any one can prepare this at home. This is said to be the quickest cough and cold cure known to the medical profession. Be sure to get only the genuine (Globe) Concentrated Pine. Each half ounce bottle comes in a tin screw-top sealed case. If the druggist is out of stock he will quickly get it from his wholesale house. Don't fool with uncertain mixtures. It is risky.

"THE FARCE IS OVER," SUICIDE'S LAST WORDS.

Marshfield, Wis., Feb. 14.—The lifeless body of Miss Fannie Dunham was found hanging outside of her window, with a bedspread tied around her neck and the other end tied to a bedpost. She made her home with her sister, Mrs. John F. Cole, and left a note saying, "The farce is over." Ill health is assigned as the cause of her deed.

Convicted in "Dry" Town.

Judge Gray found the defendant guilty and sentenced him to pay a fine of $75. Notice of appeal was given and the usual stay ordered.

HOW LINCOLN WAS NAMED

Hitherto Unpublished Incident of the "Split Rail" Convention.

Cassius M. Clay Forced the Nomination of Great Emancipator.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—New and what are believed to be hitherto unpublished incidents concerning the politics which gave Abraham Lincoln the Republican nomination for president the first time, were told here yesterday in an address before the Hamilton club by Addison G. Proctor of St. Joseph, Mich., who believes himself the only surviving member of the famous "Split Rail" convention.

Mr. Proctor gave to one man, Cassius M. Clay of Kentucky, the credit for forcing the nomination of Lincoln out of a chaotic, disorganized opposition to the regular candidate for the nomination, William H. Seward, New York. This is how Clay's influence was exerted, as related by Mr. Proctor:

"When the convention opened, Mr. Seward's interests were in the hands of Thurlow Weed, and were well organized. The opposition, of which Horace Greeley was the dominant figure, was absolutely without organization or community of desire. To show how much without aid we were working, I recall that Mr. Greeley said to us within thirty hours of the time for balloting, answering a question as to whom we should unite to oppose Seward, 'I think well of Edward Bates of Missouri; he is a strong man and I believe one of the best we could nominate.'

Lincoln Mentioned.

"'How about Lincoln?' we asked, and Greeley replied:

"'While Mr. Lincoln is an adroit politician, he lacks experience in public affairs and while we are drifting toward a crisis, I do not believe the country will trust a man so lacking in experience in national affairs.'

"We were discussing matters in the old Briggs' house in Chicago with Mr. Clay and his mountain men from Western Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky. Clay was a man of most engaging personality and he headed an interesting group.

"'We are on the eve of a great civil war,' began Mr. Clay, but we of Kansas were used to strong words and smiled. The mountaineers looked at us sternly and Mr. Clay continued. 'We know what your platform plans are, and I am here to say that if a candidate is nominated on that platform the South will make an attempt to dissolve the Union. Your Southern border extends from Maryland to Missouri and on this side stands a determined body of men, resolved that the Union shall not be destroyed, except after a most desperate struggle.

Demand Good Candidate.

"'It makes a great difference to you whom you nominate,' thundered on the old tall Kentuckian, 'and it makes a much more vital difference to us. Our homes and all we possess are in peril. We demand of you a candidate who will inspire our courage and confidence.

"'We call upon you to nominate Abraham Lincoln, who knows and understands our aspirations. Give us Lincoln and we will push back your battle line from the Ohio river to the Tennessee, where it belongs. Give us Lincoln and we will unite the strength of our Union sentiment with the Union army and bring success to your regions. Do this for us,' pleaded the speaker, 'and we will go home and prepare for the conflict.'

"We saw things from a new angle. It was no longer a question of fighting slavery, but of saving the Union. Lincoln was nominated."

BATTLESHIP FOR TARGET.

Old Texas Will Be Used to Test Skill of Gunners.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 13.—The battleship Texas, which is being prepared for use as a target for the ships of the battleship fleet, will be sent out to face her baptism of shot and shell just as she would be if she were steaming out to face a foe.

None of her equipment will be removed and all of her engines and guns will remain in place. It is possible that the department will direct that manikins be distributed about the ship, the figures being equipped with guages which will register the amount of pressure developed by the contact of the shells. In this manner the chances for the crew in actual warfare may be determined. The vessel probably will leave for the test about March 15.

BOLD TACTICS BY SENATOR

Bailey Asks Antagonists to Stand Up and Testify.

Member From Texas Says Lorimer Should Keep His Seat.

Washington, Feb. 14.—By resorting to the bold device of asking his antagonists in the senate to stand up and testify, Senator Bailey of Texas yesterday developed a dramatic situation in his discussion of the case of Senator Lorimer of Illinois.

Mr. Bailey is a member of the committee on privileges and elections, and coincident with the report declaring that nothing invalidating Mr. Lorimer's title to his seat had been developed by the committee's investigation, his argument in support of Mr. Lorimer had been anticipated with much interest, and when presented today, received the thoughtful attention of many senators.

The Texas senator's remarks were devoted largely to the substantiation of his contention that a sufficient number of votes must be shown to have been bought to affect the result, unless it is proven that the official whose election is challenged personally participated in the offense. Senators Root, Cummins and Borah, all opponents of Mr. Lorimer, were each in turn requested to stand up and express their opinions as to the legal soundness of this proposition. Dealing first with the general aspects of the case, Senator Bailey entered into the consideration of the law involved. He laid down these two propositions:

Two Propositions.

"First, if the officer whose election is challenged, personally participated in, or encouraged, or sanctioned the bribery, then his election is void without reference to the extent of the bribery.

"Second, if the officer whose election is challenged, did not personally participate in, or encourage, or sanction the bribery, then his election cannot be voided unless it is shown by sufficient evidence that enough votes were bribed to affect the result."

The first of these propositions was dismissed with the declaration that there was not a word in the testimony to show that Mr. Lorimer had any knowledge of any bribery in his behalf. He asserted that the Chicago Tribune had been compelled, through its attorney, to exonerate the accused senator in this respect, notwithstanding an unusual effort to connect him with it. True, the senator said, in the heat of debate some senators had sought to connect Mr. Lorimer with the alleged wrongful transaction, but he was sure that they would repent of that course.

Mr. Bailey contended that even if the seven votes of White, Browne, Beckemeyer, Linck, Wilson, Holtslaw and Broderick, were not counted, Mr. Lorimer still had been legally and properly chosen.

Had Clear Majority.

"Deducting these seven votes from Lorimer's 108 would leave him 101, and deducting these seven votes from the total vote of 202 would leave 195, of which the 101 votes received by Lorimer would constitute a clear majority and he was therefore duly and legally elected," insisted Senator Bailey.

He ridiculed the contention of his opponents that these votes could be subtracted from Lorimer's column and still be retained in the total vote, declaring that the contrary view was so elementary as to render it almost absurd to present authorities in support of it.

"We have the authority of the text books and of the courts for saying that an illegal vote must be rejected for all purposes and that it cannot be considered for any purpose," the senator continued.

"That is not only the law and the logic, but it is the rule best calculated to promote political morality. It treats a dishonest vote as is the corrupt legislator who cast it were civilly dead, at least in that transaction, and it leaves the result to be determined by the votes of honest men."

Factional Differences in New York Set Aside for Lincoln Banquet.

New York, Feb. 14.—For the first time since the fight at the state convention at Saratoga last September, all factions of the Republican party in New York state gathered last night in harmony. The occasion was the twenty-fifth annual dinner of the Republican club of New York city in commemoration of the 102nd anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln.

William Barnes, Jr., newly chosen chairman of the Republican state committee, who led in the fight against Col. Roosevelt at Saratoga, was seated at the right of the ex-president and entered into an animated conversation with him. Seth Low, president of the club, presided. He had on his list of speakers Col. Roosevelt, the Rev. Dr. Frank Gunsaulus, president of the Armour Institute of Chicago, who delivered the Lincoln oration; Judge Emery Speer of the United States circuit court of Georgia, and George Von L. Meyer, secretary of the navy, who represented President Taft.

United States Senator Chauncey M. Depew, Lloyd C. Griscom, Henry L. Stimson, Horace White, Frank S. Black and Timothy L. Woodruff were among Republican leaders who were present. Gen. Frederick D. Grant, U. S. A., Gen. Thomas H. Barry, U. S. A., and Admiral E. H. C. Leutze were also guests.

Mr. Roosevelt was induced to be a guest at a dinner shortly after his return from Africa, which was before the split last fall, following his entry into state politics. The Republican club at that time openly expressed disapproval of Col. Roosevelt's methods and some of his opponents later desired that the club withdraw the invitation. It was decided later to overlook factional differences and make a harmony feast of last night's dinner.

BISHOP WHITAKER BURIED.

Philadelphia, Feb. 13.—The funeral of the Rt. Rev. Ozi Whitaker, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Pennsylvania, was held today, interment taking place in the graveyard of the church of St. James the Less, Falls of Schuylkill, this city. Ten bishops of the church and a large number of the clergy and representative laymen from the Eastern part of the United States attended the funeral.

The Church of Saviour was not large enough to accommodate all those who desired to attend the services. The Rev. Dr. William M. Groton, dean of the divinity school of Philadelphia, conducted the services.

The Quickest, Simplest Cough Cure

Easily and Cheaply Made at Home. Saves You $2.

This recipe makes a pint of cough syrup—enough to last a family a long time. You couldn't buy as much or as good cough syrup for $2.50.

Simple as it is, it gives almost instant relief and usually stops the most obstinate cough in 24 hours. This is partly due to the fact that it is slightly laxative, stimulates the appetite and has an excellent tonic effect. It is pleasant to take—children like it. An excellent remedy, too, for whooping cough, sore lungs, asthma, throat troubles, etc.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with ½ pint of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle and add the Sugar Syrup. It keeps perfectly. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

Pine is one of the oldest and best known remedial agents for the throat membranes. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guiaicol and all the other natural healing elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this recipe have endeared it to thousands of housewives in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

NIEMI WAS IN VICINITY

Possibility That Confessed Murderer May Have Killed Aged People.

Asserted When Arrested That He Would Have Killed Anybody.

Were Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Newman of Minneapolis, whose cremated bodies were found in their cabin near Allen Junction Saturday, murdered by Henry Niemi, the self-confessed slayer of James Elwood, whose body was found on the road near Hayward about a month ago?

That is the question which has been asked by some of the local police officials. They state that Niemi was in that vicinity at that time, and that it would not have been impossible, although they are making no assertions as to its probability.

When confessing that he had killed Elwood with an ax in a most brutal manner, Niemi stated that he would have killed anybody else he might have encountered while in this part of the state. He denied, however, that he had done so. At that time the bodies of the Newmans had not been discovered, and he was asked no questions as to that case. The last seen of the dead people was on Jan. 25, and as Niemi was not arrested here until several days later, he would have had time to have done the killing and get to Duluth. When arrested he had blood stains on his sleeves and the lower part of the front of his coat. These may have been made at the time he murdered and robbed Elwood.

The police say that Niemi is a decidedly bad man. The records at headquarters show that he served sixty days in the county jail here for interfering with an officer about five years ago. It was fortunate that the patrolman who arrested him at that time was not shot down.

The occurrence happened on Lake avenue, when Patrolman E. H. Barber, now a sergeant, was arresting another man who had been doing some promiscuous shooting. He had taken the revolver away from him and was at the patrol box summoning the "Black Maria" to send him to the station. While there Niemi approached. Reaching for his right hip pocket, he ordered the policeman to let the man go. Seeing the threatening move towards the pocket, Barber did so. Niemi backed away, and Barber acted as though he was about to go on his rounds as if nothing had happened. But watching his chance, he tackled Niemi, throwing him to the ground. When he searched him he found a loaded gun in the hip pocket toward which Niemi had reached while Barber had the other man at the patrol box. The outcome was that both men were arrested and served time in the county jail.

SUPERIOR

ELECT TEACHER TO FILL VACANCY

School Board Names Watertown Man Successor to Prof. Rhodes, Deceased.

At a meeting last evening the board of education elected H. K. Wieman of Watertown, Wis., to fill the vacancy in the high school teaching staff caused by the death of Prof. A. L. Rhodes.

The board allowed W. E. Maddock his customary yearly vacation, and next week he will leave for the South to attend the convention of the National Educational association at Mobile, Ala., and to visit the Tuskegee institute.

Joos & Amundson, sash and door manufacturers, made an offer to the board of $1,000 for the frame building on Hammond avenue between Fourteenth and Belknap streets, which is used as a gymnasium of the Blaine school. The board will probably accept.

The commissioners voted to bring condemnation proceedings for certain property in the vicinity of the city schools, needed for school purposes and which cannot be acquired in any other way.

NEW AUTO PATROL GIVEN TRYOUT

Modern "Black Maria" Bucks Snow Drifts and Makes Good.

The new 48-horse power automobile patrol, which cost the city $4,500, was given its first tryout today under rather auspicious circumstances.

Bucking snow drifts and driving through the blinding storm, the new auto carried as its first guests a number of the prominent city officials of the Head of the Lakes and Ashland.

Mayor Burt Williams of Ashland, the fire chief of Ashland, Chief of Police Troyer of Duluth, E. Browning, a Minneapolis automobile man, Chief Olaf Johnson of the Superior fire department and Chief of Police McKinnon of Superior were among those who were given the first ride.

The new machine is one of the finest in the Northwest. It arrived from the shops yesterday.

Nye, who up to a short time ago attended the Superior high school, is accused of stealing motor boat machinery from several boathouses after the close of navigation last fall.

LATEST TYPE OF AUTOMOBILE FIRE ENGINE

This is the latest type of the automobile fire engine. It is a combination of steam and gasoline engine, in fact the crossing of an automobile and a steam fire engine. COPPERS ADVANCE AND THEN DECLINE

Probable Investigation Into Copper Combine Causes Reaction.

The copper market opened strong and advanced slightly but some profit taking developed and the entire market turned in sympathy with Amalgamated when news of the resolution introduced by Senator Clapp of Minnesota in the United States senate reached the market. The senator called upon the attorney general to investigate whether the Amalgamated, the Anaconda and the United Metals Selling company are violating the Sherman anti-trust law.

The local market was featured by the advance in Keating Gold, which walked forward to sale at $2.56½ and closed at that price bid. A report received at the local office of the company said the shipments of three cars to a smelter had netted the company $75 a ton. There is no other gold mine in the United States which is getting such returns as this and the stock was strong during the session, advancing steadily. Offers were limited and bidders were compelled to pay advancing prices from the start of the session.

The full paid Scott sold at $6.12½, Denn at $5.25 to $5.18¾, Shattuck at $20, Carman at 95c, Keating at $2.25, $2.50 and then at $2.56¼, Summit at 74c, 75c and 72c.

Amalgamated sold at $66.12½, $66.25 and $65.37½, Ojibway at $7, Butte Coalition at $19.50, North Butte at $29.50, $29.25 and $29.50, Calumet & Arizona at $53.50, Giroux at $6.81¼, $6.82½ to $6.75, Greene at $6.25, Superior & Pittsburg at $15 to $14.75 to $14.87½.

A Boston wire to Paine, Webber & Co.: The committee representing the Boston Stock Exchange, which was appointed to confer with officials of the Calumet & Hecla Mining company regarding the proposed plan of consolidation issues its report.

The committee stands firmly to the ground that it was asked to report only on the question as to whether the plan proposed is equitable. The committee is of unanimous opinion that the plan is conceived with absolute attempt towards fairness and is as fair as could be produced under existing conditions.

The committee has, however, in a letter addressed to Quincy A. Shaw, president of the Calumet & Hecla Mining company, suggested a plan which it is believed would remove much of the opposition which the proposed plan has engendered.

The committee is of the opinion that a market value of $225 per share for the new stock would deprive a large number of stockholders from any speculative possibilities that may attach to the new securities.

It is suggested, therefore, that instead of there being issued only 400,000 shares of stock another company be formed with a larger capitalization, the shares of which shall be exchanged for those of the proposed new operating company.

We understand that the committee has in mind the formation of a holding company under the laws of Maine with a capitalization of 1,600,000 shares which shares might be exchanged on the basis of four of the holding company for one of the new proposed operating company.

The committee believes that this would meet with favor at the hands of those who now oppose the proposed consolidation as it would immediately remove the restriction which it is felt would necessarily accompany a security selling at $225 per share.

This plan of a holding company formed under the laws of some state other than Michigan is believed by counsel to be legally practicable and the committee urges that the Calumet & Hecla officials make an early announcement of their decision in the matter.

Considerable important development work is reported in progress at North Butte. The Speculator shaft is being sunk from the 200-foot level to the 2900-foot level at the rate of about 75 feet per month. The shaft is now down 2640 feet, and should reach the 2000-foot point, at the present rate of sinking, within the next four months. Crosscuts will be run on the 2400, 2600 and 2800-foot levels to the Edith May vein, the former of which should reach the vein about Feb. 15 and the other crosscuts by May 15 and June 15 respectively.

Dwight E. Woodbridge, who recently inspected the Carman property, will leave here Friday on a visit to the mine which is in the Arizoe district of Mexico. He will start development work on a broad scale. It is said that three shifts will be operated.

The Savanna Copper company reports the encountering of commercial copper ore at a depth of 624 feet by a drill in hole No. 41. Hole No. 39 disclosed 135 feet of 5.25 per cent copper about two months ago. Drill No. 41 is 100 feet north and east of hole No. 39.

The estimate of $1,000,000 as the probable value of the tonnage shown up thus far by development at the Summit mine was made by Pritchett & Hamilton, mining engineers of Denver. They are among the best known engineers in this country and their successes have been many while their failures have been few.

Old Dominion copper for the year was produced at a cost of 10⅛ per cent, compared with a total cost of 11c in 1909. For the last six months of 1910 the cost of production was 9½c compared with 10¾c for the first six months. The Old Dominion company is now treating its own ores exclusively. It is installing electric haulage in the lowest levels of its mines, which will be completed by April 1, and it is enlarging its concentartor capacity to the extent of 100 tons per day.

An assessment of 50 cents a share has been declared on Savanna. This assessment is due March 1. The stock will then represent a payment of $5 a share. The par is $10. The money will be used to continue development work at the property.

The local office of the Keating Gold Mining company has been advised that three cars have been sent to a smelter and that the shipments netted $75 a ton. This record has seldom been approached by any gold mine in this country and no other mine is now getting such returns. Keating today was strong in consequence.

DUPLICATIONS OF SLOGANS DELAYS AWARD.

Awaiting a compilation of the proposed slogans to be used in the great electric sign that is to be placed on the hillside or hilltop, no committee of board of award has been named by the Commercial club.

The labor involved is very considerable and it will require some days of hard work to whip the mass of suggestions into shape for the inspection of the judges. The fact that many of the contestants ignored the published lists and sent in duplicate after duplicate of the suggestions previously made public has a great deal to do with this enforced delay.

The prize of $10 offered by The Herald for the suggestion which should prove most acceptable will be paid whether the Commercial club decides ultimately to use that particularly phrase or not. The prize will be sent to the successful contestant as soon as the award is made. In the meantime, every effort will be made to expedite the awarding of the prize.

BRANDENBURG WILL HAVE TO PAY $500 FINE.

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 14.—The fine of $500, imposed on Broughton Brandenburg, the author, by a St. Louis court, for kidnaping his stepson, was affirmed by the supreme court of Missouri today.

Brandenburg was arrested in San Francisco, where he had taken James S. Cabanne III, son of his wife. He is out on bond and is supposed to be in New York.

A BLANKET OF SLUSH

Three Inches of Wet Snow Covers the City's Streets.

Railroads and Street Cars Not Seriously Affected By Storm.

Duluth is entertaining a storm today, a wet, slushy, slippery storm that has covered walks and streets with wet snow to the discomfort of men and animals alike. Up to noon today, three inches of snow had fallen. It is an impediment to the progress of pedestrians in the city, and in the open spaces it has drifted badly, hampering the operation of railroads and street railways, slightly.

The storm started with a light mist yesterday and it turned to snow during the night. The highest wind velocity was attained early this morning and was thirty miles an hour. The high temperature made the storm all the more uncomfortable, the damp air adding to the inconvenience of the conditions under foot.

The snow will probably end this evening and lower temperatures are predicted.

The storm is general through the West, covering the lake region, the Central valley states and all of the Far West. There were heavy rains in Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma, over an inch falling at Kansas City.

There was no train delay on account of the storm. The South Shore road generally gets all the snow that is coming and the local office of the road reported the morning train from the Copper country but twenty-eight minutes late.

Both the Great Northern and Northern Pacific trains from the Twin Cities were on time, as was also the Northern Pacific train from Staples and the Great Northern train from Grand Forks. The Omaha and Soo trains from Chicago arrived on the dot, the Soo train as a matter of fact being three minutes ahead of time. The train from Winnipeg was about forty minutes behind its scheduled time, being the only train to feel the effects of the storm.

Rports from the street railway company state that the street car schedule suffered little from the snow fall and drifting. The Woodland car line suffered a slight tieup this morning, but the street car officials attributed this more to the fact that a broken wire caused a delay. The Highland cars were also tied up this morning and were not running regularly until this afternoon. This delay was also due to a breakdown rather than to the storm, however.

Our Political Postoffice

John Wanamaker was postmaster-general, Senator Boies Penrose is chairman of the great postoffice committee of the United States senate, Thomas T. Carter, senator from Montana, has served many years on that committee. No three men in the United States are better versed in postoffice affairs and needs than these.

On Feb. 9, 1911, the senate postoffice committee, under the leadership of Senators Penrose and Carter, reported favorably to the senate for action the postoffice appropriation bill containing a provision, put in without allowing public hearing or open considerations, but under political pressure from the White House, that increases the postage rate on magazines and periodicals to such an extent that it practically absorbs all the profits of the publishing business of the country and makes the further production of popular-priced magazines impossible. It imposes a tax that is confiscatory.

Notwithstanding, within the year Senator Boies Penrose said, referring to the Carter-Weeks bill:

"These are some of the big features of the bill. The whole intent is to systematize and to modernize the entire postal system. It is idle to take up such questions as apportioning the cost for carrying second class mail matter or the proper compensation of railroads for transporting the mails untils we shall have established business methods in postoffice affairs by a reorganization of the whole postal system.

"The commission unanimously recommended the passage of the projected bill. Personally, I have been very much interested in all the details, and, of course, am heartily in favor of the changes to be made."

Senator Carter said last March:

"But I must forego further pursuit of details. The bill was cordially approved by Postmaster General Meyer and his assistants, and likewise has the approval of Postmaster General Hitchcock. It failed of passage during the last congress, owing to lack of time for its proper consideration, but I have reintroduced the bill, which is now designed 'Senate 6287, Second Session, Sixty-first Congress.'

"The committee on postoffices and postroads will favorably report the bill to the Senate, and it should be enacted into law before the close of this session. I believe not only that it will increase efficiency, but that, after the expense of installation is absorbed, it will result in such economics in the administration of the department and service as will ere long wipe out the deficiency. In operating under it the department will be able with almost unerring certainty to determine the actual cost of each service performed, thereby reaching a sound basis for legislation such as is neither available nor obtainable under the present system.

"I deeply sympathize with the earnest desire of the department officials to get rid of the deficiency they are fated to encounter each year, but I submit that the real movement toward that end must begin with the substitution of a modern up-to-date business organization for the existing antiquated system, which rests upon a few sections of law enacted in 1835, supplemented by statutory fragments added from time to time since that year."

John Wanamaker said recently:

"With Mr. Hitchcock's suggestion, however, there will be no general agreement. The magazines are supported, not by the price paid for the magazine by the readers, but by the advertisers.

"In a sense, magazines are private concerns, but they have a public function to perform—an educational function. To tax the advertisements is to tax the quality of the educational matter contained in the pages, for the advertisements enable the publishers to pay high prices for literature and educational articles. The price paid for a magazine does not pay for the printing and the paper. If Mr. Hitchcock's suggestion should become part of the president's plan, it would mean that the public would suffer in the loss of much educational material that the publishers then would be unable to buy."

We urge every friend of honest politics, economical government and a free press to telegraph or write an immediate protest to their senators and representatives at Washington.

Co-operating With Other Fairs to Bring Star Features From East.

Minot, N. D., Feb. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—A circuit of county fairs in Northwestern North Dakota for the purpose of securing a high grade of attractions from the East is the object sought by the members of the Ward County Fair association, which just held its annual meeting and laid plans for the season. The idea of the circuit is to have several counties hold fairs on almost consecutive dates so that the big attractions from the East can be secured. Many of the finer attractions will not come this far west for one fair, but if several are held in rapid succession they will and thereby add to the succes of each different fair.

Plans were laid to make this year's fair the best ever, and the following officers were elected: President, H. H. Kemper; vice president, O. M. Champlin; second vice president, Andrew Jacobson; secretary, A. V. Swanson; treasurer, E. S. Person; directors, A. A. Robinson, H. J. Hecht, Ed Nelson and A. E. Sloeum.

SAWYER COUNTY LOGGERS HURRY

Anxious to Get Out Big Cut Before Break Up of Weather Comes.

Couderay, Wis., Feb. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—Logging operations in this section are being rushed for fear of an early break up. Conditions have been ideal for logging up to the last few days, but the mild weather and rain are worrying the loggers and many camps are working their men sixteen to eighteen hours a day. About 1,000,000 feet a day is being hauled out to the track for shipment now in the southern part of Sawyer county; half of the logs are shipped out every day and the balance are being decked at landing grounds for summer loading. The cut in this county for this season will exceed other years' cuts by 25,000,000 feet, all hardwood and hemlock.

Sandstone, Minn., Feb. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The men's meetings at the Presbyterian church every Sunday afternoon, conducted chiefly along the lines of setting a higher standard of ideals and the moral uplift of humanity, are interesting and are gaining favor. At the close of each month an open meeting is held. The subject for February is "Amusements." The Perils in Amusements" was ably discussed Sunday by A. S. Webb and M. Bullis, and next Sunday the topic will be the "Supervision of Amusements," which will be handled by J. Carolan and others. In March "The Social Evil" will be taken up and includes "The White Slave Traffic," "Methods in the Social Crusade," "The Gravity of the Situation" and "The Double Standard and Christian Teaching." WOMEN MAY AVOID OPERATIONS

By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for seven months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women. Why don't you try it?

Milwaukee—Miss Daisy Cartwright, a stenographer, was assaulted by a purse snatcher at 6 o'clock Sunday night in the entrance to the Schlitz Palm garden and robbed of a pocketbook containing $75. Miss Cartwright was stunned by a blow from behind and did not have a chance to pursue the robber, as he ran down Grand avenue with the purse.

Adams Team Wins Game on Forfeit From Fairmonts.

West Enders Are Now Leading in Chase for Pennant.

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Adams	5	1	.833
Big Duluths	4	1	.800
Kodahpas	4	2	.666
Fairmonts	1	5	.166
Park Points	0	5	.000

Tomorrow evening, the Kodahpas will meet the Big Duluths in a hockey game that will prove of interest, in as much as at the present time the Adams are leading the Big Duluths, the latter team having won four and lost one game and the Adams, through their default victory over the Fairmonts last evening, having won five games and lost one.

On Friday the Adams will meet the Park Points, and this game should prove very easy for the West end boys, as the boys from the bay shore have not won a contest during the present season.

On Monday of next week the Kodahpas and Fairmonts will meet; on Wednesday the Park Points and Fairmonts will meet and on Friday the Big Duluths will meet the Fairmounts, which should be a very good game.

On Feb. 27 or 28 the Adams and the Big Duluths will meet in a contest that should under ordinary luck, if the teams win all their games in the meantime, decide the championship of the league.

There will be no after season games for the championship this season, so that the team winning the most games when the season closes will be given the pennant.

Last evening the Fairmonts failed to put in an appearance, forfeiting to the Adams team, which gives the West end boys a one game lead over the Big Duluths, their strongest rivals for the pennant.

SIGURD BREVIK MADE WORLD'S LONGEST JUMP.

To set at rest all disputes as to the longest jump ever made on skis, and also to correct a statement made in the morning paper, the world's longest distance is herein given. The question has been asked a number of times and there seems very little knowledge regarding the exact distance.

On Feb. 26, 1910, Sigurd Brevik of Elverum, Osterdalem, Norway, on the famous Fram hill, jumped 163 feet, as was stated in this paper before the ski meet of Sunday. The rider landed squarely on his feet, but sixty feet after landing fell in rounding a turn. The jump was clear and was placed on record as the longest standing jump ever made and will probably stand for some time.

HACKENSCHMIDT WINS FROM "KID" CUTLER.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—George Hackenschmidt last night got the first fall from Charles Cutler with a toe and body hold in 1 hour 3 minutes 4 seconds, and won the second fall with a toe-hold in 19 minutes 20 seconds.

Americus and Fred Beell wrestled one hour without a fall and the match was called a draw.

ST. LOUIS DEFEATS BOSTON IN BILLIARD MATCH.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 14.—St. Louis defeated Boston in the national billiard league three-cushion match last night by a score of 59 to 25. Maupome, the St. Louis player, made the high run of the evening, five, while Mosser, his opponent's best, was three.

FOUR RINKS STILL LEFT IN CITY WADING MATCH

McLeod, Dinham, Harris and Smith are the best waders in the Duluth Curling club.

Yesterday in the city wading contest these men plunged right in and are now down to the fours. It was a great day for ducks.

In rubber boots and shirt sleeves, the curlers yesterday tried to pull off the annual city bonspiel. It was more like a wrecking crew than a bunch of Scots trying to play the roarin' game.

As swimmers, McLeod, Dinham, Harris and Smith are as much at home as a bovine in a corn field. They are good, splashy curlers, and no mistake. They seemed to do even better in the swish-swash than under ordinary circumstances. If it hadn't been for the wet they never would have been where they are. If the stories told by other would-be summer curlers are to be believed.

The curling club is going to be kept open all summer for these men and after each rain there will be nothing to hinder them pulling off summer tournaments. Anyway, it was some 'spiel.

A lot of things which happened yesterday are funny today, even if they were not yesterday. For instance, did you see Elmer Whyte after his game with Harris? Talk about wet hens, well—

Did you hear "Johnny" Oldham talk? "Johnny" had to go home and take a real bath in warm water.

Did you see McGillvray's famous turtle shot? It was the first time he found it necessary to use it this year and it brought roars from the gallery. It sped down the rink on the handle and brought up against the rail.

The morning games were not so bad, but in the afternoon it was awful. There was about an inch of water on the ice and it was only those who had been in bed all night the night before that could get them over the hog.

The stones splashed along through the water and when an attempt was made to sweep, the curlers on the other rinks raised strenuous objections in strenuous language. Old Noah would have obtained some good material for a new dictionary if he had been at the curling club yesterday.

Along about 4 o'clock everybody gave up except those who were winning. The games were good amusement for those in the warm, dry and comfortable observation rooms.

All over the city good little curlers were climbing to the loft right after dinner. A warm bath, slippers and Hinckley's bone liniment eased the suffering to some extent, and then, after a cigar and telling the wife what it was like to try to curl in a bathtub, each little curler curved in between the coverlets of his little trundle bed and dreamed that he was winning—the city championship.

It surely was a great day. And last night everybody felt the same way—"all in." If you want to get into a fight, just ask some curler how he liked the city bonspiel.

WITH THE WRESTLERS

From Sisseton, S. D., comes a letter from Charles Sutter, brother of the famous Otto, who on two occasions wrestled Young Miller of St. Paul to a standstill. He wants to meet Sailor Jack in a finish match. Charles states that he has beaten some very good men and believes he is entitled to a match with the marine. If Charles has not improved mightily over the form he showed here when wrestling under the managerial wing of Sandy McDonald, he would hardly make the sailor exert himself.

However, at that time, the younger Sutter gave promise of developing into a very good man. Perhaps he has "got good," as the wrestlers say, and is at the present time a strong contender for the welterweight championship. If he is anything like his brother, he is one of the best wrestlers in the country.

W. F. May of the Braham Journal has received another letter from H. E. Rickers, manager of Leo Rockler, champion heavyweight wrestler of Alaska, in which the former Duluth man states that he is at the present time en route to the Head of the Lakes with the man he believes is one of the greatest wrestlers in the country.

Pictures of the Rockler chap show him a "moose" in size and he looks strong enough to tear down the side of a house. As stated before, when this caribou of the frozen north hits this town he can get all the game he wants in the person of Ole Sampson, the big fellow who is matched to wrestle Kid Cutler, who last night stayed over an hour with George Hackenschmidt.

According to the letter received by May, Rockler will be in some time the present month.

As a letter writer there are few of the wrestling brigade who have anything on Ed Adamson. The little wonder at the present time has Chief Hoo Hoo in charge and wants to match him against some of the best men around the 170-pound mark. Up in this part of the country the Who's Who on Hoo Hoo is very dim and uncertain. Let Hoo Hoo toss SoSo and others and we will begin to take an interest in him.

Ole Sampson's manager, who is in the city, stated today that he had dispatched that a challenge from his man, asking for a match with Lehto, be read at the ringside at the Lehto-Cutler match at Negaunee. Sampson is ready to wrestle and a meeting has been arranged between the managers of Lehto and Sampson, when it is expected that an agreement will be reached regarding a match between the two men for the Finnish wrestling championship of the world.

Fred Pilakoff, the big Finn of Brooklyn, has threatened to come out to this country, and meet one of the men. Through his manager, Sampson stated yesterday that he would be very glad to wrestle Pilakoff, either before or after he wrestles Lehto, if he succeeds in getting a match.

• • •

It was stated before Lehto left for the Copper country to meet Cutler that he would go to Finland some time this spring or summer and will meet the winner of the big tournaments on the other side of the water. The match will be for the world's Finnish title, and as the Finnish papers have been full of the record of the young Finn, it is certain that a great deal of interest will be taken in the match.

NEW WORLD'S RECORD IS SET

St. Paul Men Score 1,308 in Doubles of International Tournament.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 14.—What is said to be a world's tournament record, was made last night by George Vandertunk and Henry Martin of St. Paul in the two-men event of the International Bowling tournament. Their score putting them in first place, was 1,308, it being four pins higher than the record made by the Schinager brothers of Madison, Wis., at the Detroit tournament of the American Bowling congress last year. Ahl Sager and Jacobson of Minneapolis made the second highest score in the doubles with 1,137, putting them in second place.

Prosperity of St. Paul went into second place in the five-men event by rolling 2,721. North St. Paul was the next highest with 2,675.

Two new marks were set in the singles. Vandertuuk and Mample of St. Paul rolling 605 and 597, respectively.

DARBY AFTER FIRST SACKER

Anster of Janesville, O., May Be Signed for White Sox.

Joseph Anster, a first baseman with the Zanesville, Ohio., team of the Central league last season, is the latest recruit that Poet O'Brien is after. He has written to Jawn Desmond that the contract of the initial sack guardian has all but been signed—not quite, just "all but."

According to the letter of the Irish Orator, the man he is on the trail of, can dig them out of the sand like Ital Chase, who is one of the best sand shovelers in the business, and can also pull them off from the sides and pick the high ones out of the air.

When it comes to using with deadly affect the willow, this man is there with strength and determination, for Darby quotes a batting average of .283 for twenty-seven games. Whether Anster could keep up the gait for a longer number of games may be a question. Darby seems to believe he could, for, according to his letter he is very anxious to sign him.

Anster was injured last season and was therefore incapacitated for further service. He wants to get away from dear old Zanesville and would like to try Duluth. Further news of the progress of Darby along the trail of Anster will be watched with interest.

BAR TOEHOLD, SAYS GOTCH

Champion Believes He Can Win Without Use of Trilby Twister.

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 14.—They can put the toehold in the refrigerator as far as Frank Gotch is concerned. This agitation against twisting the pedal end of the human anatomy isn't worrying a certain person from Iowa. Gotch can get along pretty well under any conditions and if they want to bar the toehold he has a few more moves that haven't been uncovered.

"I can stand for the barring of the toehold," said Gotch yesterday. "As a matter of fact, Wednesday night was the first time I used that particular hold in a long time. I threw Zybyszko and Mahmout without annoying their feet and they are considered pretty good men. I made Hackenschmidt quit without once twisting his toes and he is called the 'greatest athlete on earth.' The only objection I have to barring the toehold is the fact that it will make matches resemble the Graeco-Roman style. When they once get started barring the toeholds the next move will be to bar all leg holds. That will make it pretty soft for the big husky foreigners. In my opinion a Graeco-Roman match is a pretty sad affair. There is no action to the old style of wrestling and I have discovered that the public wants action. However, I am willing to meet any man in the business with the toehold barred—if they will only stop at the toehold."

COMMENTS AND OPINIONS ON THE SPORTING PARADE

Hans Wagner Doing Jury Duty—Charles Cutler of Northern Minnesota — Shall the Toe Hold Be Barred?—The Engineers Will Meet — When the Baseball Stars Go Back.

(BY BRUCE.)

Hans Wagner doing jury duty. Here we have the first citizen of Carnegie, Pa., chicken fancier, automobile owner, not to mention the greatest baseball player in the world, for they still call Honus that in Carnegie, doing plebian jury duty. Does this mean that the German is stepping down off the pedestal?

Some one asked Barney Dreyfuss if he would attempt to have the big fellow excused from the duty of listening to the woes of his fellow men. The colonel replied that the authorities had been very careful in selecting the jury and that its makeup would include some of the first citizens; therefore the selection of Honus was in the nice nature of a compliment to the Teuton.

This selection, too, brothers, is the eve of the departure of the stogie star for the springs, where he is to have the kinks boiled out of his system preparatory to that semi-comeback try, for some of you may believe that the wonder who has gone on all these years is not as good as he used to be.

Are they losing their reverence for the baseball stars? What is our great national game coming to if men like Wagner, Cobb and Lajole are to be treated like the ordinary mortal—made to serve on a jury? Some one should get busy, for with the spring training of our baseball men interfered with—well, this country will lose some of its standing in the world of international arbitration.

Baseball players have served on juries in the past; but the very idea of making a man of the stamp of Wagner the great, the incomparible Hans, serve on the good and true dope when he is just picking his bats out of their winter hibernation and getting ready to start South. It's awful and if the thing goes too far it will be a weighty subject for the society for the preservation of national peace and prosperity.

Anent the appearance in this city of Charles "Kid" Cutler, the famous American champion wrestler, it might be stated that this big boy is a champion who has been produced right here in the northern part of the state, a section of Minnesota that is coming to the front in athletics, and that the people of this region have great reason to be proud of him.

Cutler Is a Regular Home Champion

For the past two years the people of Minneapolis have been intensely proud of the fact that Henry Ordemann was a wrestling champion produced in the state of Minnesota and the city of Minneapolis. They had every right to be elated over the feats of Henry, for he is an athlete worthy of the praise bestowed upon him. His record is one of the greatest ever made by an American grappler.

Now comes Charley Cutler, a boy personally known to many of the citizens of this city and Superior, known to practically every citizen of Bemidji, where he was raised and also known on the iron ranges, who defeats Ordeman and becomes in a single night one of the most famous wrestlers in the world. Duluth is proud of the fact that Cutler made his home at the Head of the Lakes for some time, and it goes without saying that Bemidji is also very, very much pleased that the boy who grew up in that town has at last won about the highest wrestling honors that any American has ever captured, always excepting Frank A. Gotch.

Cutler is just coming into his full prowess as one of the greatest wrestlers in the world. He has been up there at the top for a long time, meeting all the great ones and making good. He has been beaten, but all the time he was learning, getting better all the time. The defeat of Ordemann comes as the greatest achievement in his meteoric athletic career, and with youth, clean living and a wonderful physique in his favor there is no reason why Cutler won't be even greater than he is at the present time. He is a comer and one of the greatest that this country has produced. The fact that he was raised in this section of the state, in fact, started his athlete career in Northern Minnesota, should make the fans all the more proud of him.

Shall the Toehold Be Barred?

They are agitating that question all over the country at the present time. The fans of this city are herewith invited to express their opinions on the subject. It is a question with many sides. Its discussion may prove at least interesting. There is no getting away from the fact that it is torture, too torture much worse than the removing of corns. What are you going to do about it.

Several matches have been wrestled with the toehold barred. Cutler took the championship away from Ordemann without the use of the Gotch piece de resistance. Ordemann is supposed to be an expert in the use of you going to do about it?

Gotch perfected this hold and has pinned many men to the mat by the aid of its use. Why should he be asked to give it up? Wrestling is no pink tea entertainment. It is one of the most strenuous games in the world. That is one of the reasons why wrestlers are the best developed specimens of physical humanity in the world.

Here is an editorial on the sport page of the Kansas City Star regarding the barring of the toehold. It shows the interest an American takes in the supremacy of the American wrestling champion. What do you think of it?

From the Kansas City Star:

"An editorial in the Star yesterday suggested that the toehold in wrestling be barred. Gotch says he is willing, but are the wrestling bugs willing? Well, here's one who isn't. I'm not in favor of slipping these foreign prodigies anything. They come to this country to get the money. They get the money, so let them take home a few trilby twists to aid them in remembering the route by which they hooked the coin. Why put the toehold in the same class with the strangle hold? The strangle hold would kill a man, the toehold might break a man's leg. There's a difference. If Gotch or any great American wrestler puts on a toehold clamp that is painful the other fellow can flop on his back and lose the fall. If he cannot drop his shoulders to the mat he can tip it off to the referee who can do the rest. But eliminate the toehold—never. Why should Gotch be compelled to enter a match without the aid of the greatest hold in the catch-as-catch-game, the hold he invented and perfected? These foreign wrestlers with the terrifying names come over here and gouge our American eyes, bite our American hands and fingers and then howl like wounded wolves when they begin to suffer from a good old American toehold. Bar the toehold, nay, never. Long live the toehold."

Flynn Will Take A Chance.

Listen my children and you shall hear the brave feat of a nervy engineer. "Which engineer?" you might ask, for in the proposed fight between Pueblo Jim Flynn and Sapula Carl Morris it is a case of a head on collision between two former pilots of the cab, for they have both served their time in the railroad business.

Be it known that James of Pueblo, whose nationality is Italian and whose real name is somewhat different from the Irish handle he sails the pugilistic seas under, is to be the next man to try the prowess of the man the Oklahoma cits are willing to go broke on. If Carl gets by the Flynn obstruction he will be moving up another notch in swell swat society. It might be mentioned that this Flynn flayer is so tough that he hates to be unchaperoned in lonely and desert places. He assimilates punches as some well fed parties assimilate the tender and somewhat succulent sirloin and the fricassed fowl. In other and more expressive words, he just eats punishment up.

He has proved a stumbling block to many an ambitious fighter. Quite a few have stumbled over this high step in the pugilistic path. Will Morris fall? This question is one that will excite considerable interest on the night the two meet.

In face of the fact that some 'steen million is just naturally fretting away to be expended on the pugilistic polishing of Carl, it would be a shame if the rude Flynn fighter would put one over. The outcome is one of deep interest to the house of Morris.

When They Begin To Worry.

This is the sweet time of the year when baseball players begin to worry. Later young men begin to fall in love; but as yet it is too early, and besides the sporting page is sternly for action and aligned against idle conversation and procrastination. With those few remarks, etc.

But right now the veteran is wondering if his old pins will stand the wear and tear of another season. He takes down the dear old bat and fondles it as a fond mamma handles a crying baby, stroking it and saying aloud how he will smite the horsehide with the Betsy, or Marie or Sweet Angela, or whatever he has named his bat. And all the while he is inwardly quaking, wondering if he will be there when the bell rings for the season.

Often there is pathos of the retirement of the old vet. It is not because he is old, often for men of that age in business would really be considered young; but he is through with fast company and in the circles of baseball will be classed as the "old boy."

Many of these players have no occupation outside of that of baseball. They are lost when their days of usefulness are over. Some of them have played the primrose path for place and straight across the board, and are broke, dead broke, when they find that they can no longer command the big salaries.

It might be stated that the baseball player of today is getting wise, very wise, Pauline, and some of our best diamond stars today are banking their munificent salary of today against the time when money will not flow with that steady and undiminished stream. Many others are investing their money as they travel along, for, Bill, have you ever noticed how easy it is to make influential friends when you are up there in the glare of it all, are it, the word being spelled with a capital I?

When a player is through he is soon forgotten by the fans and by the men who want to see him do work. That is rather specular, but human nature is a rather broad subject and has in the past attracted the studious attention of some of our best little dopers on the progress of impulse action and the working's of the human mind.

There will be lots of players worrying allright, and the one doing the most worrying is the one who has failed to lock some of the cute currency up.

CHICAGO MAN LOSES IN RACQUET TOURNAMENT.

Tuxedo Park, N. Y., Feb. 14.—Gordon Douglas of New York defeated Harold F. McCormick of the Chicago University club in the final round of the national amateur racquet championship today. Douglas won three out of four games played with a total of 48 to 46. The scores were 15-8, 9-15, 18-13, 15-10.

One of the largest crowds that has ever witnessed a match here was present.

LEHTO WINS SHORT MATCH

Finnish Champion Defeats Marty Cutler in Straight Falls.

A telegram received this morning at the Finnish Athletic club of this city from Karl Lehto states that the Finnish champion defeated Marty Cutler, brother of the champion, in two straight falls at Negaunee, Mich., Saturday evening, the first fall coming in 5:50 with a body hold and arm lock, and the second and deciding fall coming in 12:48 with a crotch and half-Nelson. A large crowd witnessed the match, according to the telegram.

Marty Cutler was brought here by "Doc" Reid, the well-known athletic manager and promoter, and around Chicago he is considered one of the toughest of the younger heavyweights. Marty has been following in the footsteps of his famous brother, and his quick defeat at the hands of Lehto will come as a surprise to his many friends in this part of the country.

Young Cutler is the same lad who helped prepare Jack Johnson for his battle with Jeffries. He is big and nervy and has been credited with great strength. The quick victory is a feather in the cap of the young Finn.

NATIONAL LEAGUE HOLDS MEETING IN NEW YORK.

New York, Feb. 14.—The baseball magnates of the National league are here today for the second section of their annual meeting. The sessions will probably last until late tomorrow or Thursday.

Rumors were lively of impending fights over several subjects, chief among them the proposed adoption of a new official league ball for 1912. Other subjects on which a difference of opinion was not unlikely were the alleged attitude of President Lynch toward the umpire situation, the schedule committee's draft of dates and the question of rules revision.

Charles W. Murphy, owner of the Chicago team, declared that he had many suggestions as to possible changes in the rules, but he admitted the meetings of the rules committee would be merely perfunctory. Nothing can be done because no American league rules committee has been appointed by President Johnson. Without his co-operation no changes can be made.

TRAINER FOR MORRIS.

Con Riley Will Take Charge of the "White Hope."

Tulsa, Okla., Feb. 14.—Carl Morris will be trained by Con Riley, who trained "Kid" McCoy and other celebrities in the fight game. Riley and Frank B. Ufer, the millionaire manager of Morris, came to terms today and Riley is due to arrive the last of the week. He will begin his work immediately. It will require about two weeks to get the training camp in readiness for business and after that there will be no cessation of activities.

Con Riley is coming recommended as one of the best fight trainers in the country. He has great faith in the prowess of hte "white man's hope" and believes he is the "find" who is to redeem the white race.

AMERICAN LEAGUE OWNERS WILL ADOPT SCHEDULE.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Club owners and officials of the American league met here today to adopt the 1911 schedule, which has been drafted by President Johnson, and which has been in the hands of the league's representatives for several weeks. The session will close with a banquet given by President Shibe of the Philadelphia American League club in celebration of the victory over the Chicago National League club in the world's championship series.

FRANK S. WHITE WINS NATIONAL SQUASH TITLE.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 14.—Frank S. White of the Germantown Cricket club, won the national squash championship, defeating C. W. Wales of Boston in the final round of the tournament at the Philadelphia Racquet club yesterday, by scores of 15-13, 15-7, 15-11. White had previously defeated F. B. Smith, Maryland state champion.

There are still openings for alert men; more clothing, shoe and dry goods stores are needed; good electricians will find a splendid field; dentists will prosper; and plumbers are certain to make good.

The farmers of the Gulf Coast are rich and growing richer every season. In no other part of America is there so much prosperity.

It won't cost you much to visit this country and judge for yourself. Every first and third Tuesday of each month you can purchase a round-trip Landseekers ticket to any point in the Gulf Coast country of Texas, from Chicago at $30.00, and from St. Louis or Kansas City at $25.00.

BROWNING'S OPTIMISM

Rev. John W. Powell Delivers Second Lecture in Series.

"The optimist is not a man who declares that there is no evil, but the man who believes that the good outweighs the bad, and so aligns himself on the side of the good. Such an optimist was Browning."

This was one of the statements of Rev. John Walker Powell in his lecture last evening at the Endion Methodist church on "The Art of Optimism" as taught by Browning's message to the twentieth century.

Mr. Powell spoke in part as follows: "Henry Ward Beecher, we are told, was once asked if life were worth living. He replied, 'It depends on the liver.' Both meanings of this witty reply are true. The ills of life bear lightly upon the man of cheerful temper and sound digestion. But the resolute will to live and make the most of life likewise goes far to lighten the burden.

"There have never been wanting those who charged that the optimism of Robert Browning was a matter of temperament. Because he never had a sick day in his life, and scarcely knew what nerves meant, because he had an abounding vitality that affected everyone who met him like an electric shock, we are told that such a man must inevitably be an optimist, and we need not further concern ourselves with his teaching.

"But do we not see that if we grant that temperament can make a man hopeful in the face of life's burdens and difficulties, then it is evident that evil does not reside in things or events, but is a matter of how we take them? Immediately we are back on optimistic ground.

"He recognized the presence of evil in the world. No poet has ever described the passion and sin of mankind with more insight or greater wealth of illustration, nor does he minimize its hurtful results. He has shown us repeatedly how it destroys all the finer qualities of the spirit and saps the manhood. But because he sees good in the world as well, he refuses to believe that evil is the last word. He declares that life is a stuff to try the soul's strength on, a raw material out of which our philosophy of life is to be constructed. 'We call the chessboard white, we call it black.' A man can take his choice; but the healing and life-giving power of nature is on the side of the man who believes in good. Accordingly he throws all the weight of his genius in that scale, and bids us 'Trust God, see all, nor be afraid.'

"He rests his contention frankly and solely on the goodness of God. He admits that this is a matter of faith, not of knowledge or proof. But he insists that apart from this faith, life is meaningless, and knowledge itself impossible. Having made up his mind to believe, he casts doubt to the winds—'God's in His heaven, all's right with the world.'

"The 'ordinary ills and hardships of life, which cause feeble souls to be cast down, he welcomes as aids to the soul's development.

"Even moral failure he refuses to accept as final.

"As we shall see in a later lecture, this involves belief in personal immortality."

Daughter of Hawaiian Princess Prominent in New York Society

ANNA D. GRAHAM.

Miss Anna Douglass Graham is the beautiful daughter of Mrs. Hubert Vos. She came into public notice recently as one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of Miss Vivien Gould and Lord Decies. Miss Graham is a step-daughter of Hubert Vos, the artist, by whom this portrait was painted. Her mother was Princess Kalkiliani of Hawaii, the noted beauty of her race. The portraits of Miss Graham, painted by the famous painter, show that she possesses many of the characteristics of the Hawaiian people and especially of the royal race, from which she is descended.

VOCAL RECITAL.

Students Please Large Audience at Lyceum.

Miss Florence Webb opened the program given last evening by the vocal pupils of the Flaaten Conservatory of Music, with a number containing three parts, which was a very pleasing beginning to an exceptionally fine program.

Her number, "Morning, Noon and Night" by Montague Ring was a charming little selection and her enunciation was particularly good. The next number was a trio sung by Miss Eleanore Kraft, Miss Margaret Linahan and Mrs. A. Flaaten, which was well received, Mrs. Flaaten's clear voice aiding the younger pupils.

Miss Margaret Linahan in the flower song from "Faust," was warmly applauded.

Harvey D. Wood's clear voice showed careful training and his number, "Mother O Mine" was well received.

"My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" sung by Miss Glen Bartholomew was perhaps the best number on the program. She has a most pleasing voice, a charming manner, and good enunciation.

Miss Nell Brown played unusually well last evening. Her number was Schumann's "Aufschwung" and she was repeatedly recalled but did not respond to an encore.

Mrs. Eugene Smith in "Villanelle" and Dwight W. Hiestand in "Sword of Ferrara" both sang well.

Mrs. Nina Batson sang "Die Lorelle" by Liszt acceptably although her enunciation could have been a little clearer. She showed considerable nervousness, but has a voice which promises better work.

Edwin Wipson sang "Alpine Rose" in a style which pleased his hearers.

The two string numbers which were played by Eleanore Kraft, Georgie Evans, Leslie Moore and Edward Dillon on violins accompanied by Miss Brown, were both pleasing additions to the program.

Mr. Flaaten explained that the object of his recitals was to bring the students before the public to give them training in self confidence and also to let their friends see what they were doing.

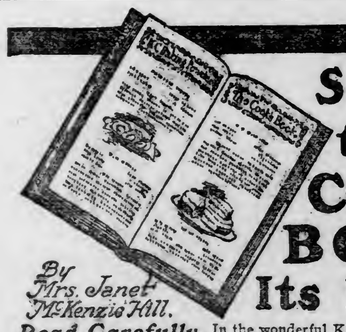

BORCHARD COMING.

Will Present Concert Before Matinee Musicale.

Adolph Borchard, a French pianist of considerable note, who is making his first tour of America this year, has been engaged by the members of the matinee musicale to give a recital here on March 20 at the Endion Methodist church.

This will be the third artists' recital for the year and will be free to members of the club. Tickets will be sold only to gentlemen and women from out of town, who are guests of members of the club.

Adolph Borchard is not so very well known here, but musical critics in Chicago and Eastern cities where he has been heard in concerts have written very favorable criticisms on his playing and those who are in charge of the concert are very enthusiastic over his coming.

THE EVENING STORY

The Lady Secretary

By Arnold Golsworthy.

The luncheon party at the Cecil had been small, but select. It consisted only of three persons, Thomas Mandell, merchant, well known in city circles, Miss Sybil Mandell, his only daughter, and John Garden, the gentleman with whom her marriage had been recently "arranged."

Mr. Garden, like his prospective father-in-law, was also a city man. He had just succeeded to his father's business, which consisted in buying much simple commodities as gum and shellac at a large profit. In the palmy days of the elder Garden, the house had practically enjoyed a monopoly of the sale of those goods; but new conditions had brought new customs, and young Mr. Garden had a hard task before him to keep up the prosperity his father had left behind him. Still, he had nothing but the extra work and vigilance to complain of, his balance sheet being so far in a remarkably healthy state.

"Must you go so soon, John?" said Miss Mandell, as the young man rose, saying that he was due back in the city.

"I really must," John insisted. "Things are not as they were in father's time. We have to 'hustle' now to keep our end up."

"I don't often come to the city, said Sybil, a little more peevishly. "I think you might give me a little more of your time on such exceptional occasions."

"Business is business, my dear," interrupted Mr. Mandell.

"Quite so," agreed John. And as he could not hope to explain the matter satisfactorily to his fiancee, he addressed the rest of his explanation to her father.

"You see," he said, "there's a contract we've had for years. It has always been given to us, as a matter of course. This year, for some reason, our customers are asking for tenders. As you can well understand, there are not many dealers in this material in a large way of business in the city. Indeed, the running is almost entirely between myself and Macpherson, a man who wasn't even heard of in my father's time. And I can assure you it is going to take us all our time to get the contract out of his hands; and as its a very large one, and very profitable, too, you can understand I'm pretty keen on getting it."

Sybil pouted, like the spoilt child that she was.

"I must ask father to take me to your office during the afternoon," she said. "Will you be in?"

"Yes," replied John readily. "I shall be free as soon as the market closes—say at 4 o'clock."

John took a cab back to his office and, on the way, his thoughts were divided between the price of shellac and Sybil's singular inability to sympathize with his business ambitions. She was a young lady who, he had long decided, would require a very fair amount of luxury in her married life, and it seemed to him that she ought therefore, to be ready to offer him every facility for making the money that she would be willing enough to spend.

He hurried through the outer office into his own sanctum, a large room which contained a desk for himself and another for his secretary, Miss Dennard, who was playfully referred to in the office as "the chief's right hand man."

Miss Dennard was a quiet, reserved young lady, the daughter of an army officer, who had died and left his family in straitened circumstances.

She had begun with the firm of Garden & Son, some four years previously, as a mere writer of letters from dictation; but the elder Mr. Garden had noticed her business aptitude, and had, by degrees, given her a greater share of his confidence, till she had practically got the whole of the business of the firm at her fingers ends.

Mr. Garden threw his hat on the rack and rang the bell upon the table. Miss Dennard, who had her own room adjoining, at once appeared with her notebook in her hand. Without a word, she sat down at her desk in the chief's room and prepared to write at his dictation.

"No, no," said Garden in an anxious tone. "I'm not writing any letters for the moment, thank you. I want to know about the Robinson contract. Macpherson is tendering, isn't he?"

"Yes," replied Miss Dennard. "He has made up his mind to tender in order to spite us. I don't see that there can be any other reason, because it is a very large contract, and he is really not in a position to carry it out, even if he gets it. After all, he is only in a small way, whereas we—"

"That's what I thought," said Garden. "Now what I propose to do is to go on the market and buy all the shellac available. Then, if Macpherson likes to buy of me at my price, he can have the contract and welcome."

"I happen to know that Mr. Macpherson has already bought very largely for the same reason," said Miss Dennard quietly. "He came in while you were at lunch and told me so."

"I don't think I should bother about a detail like that, Mr. Garden, if I were you," she added. "It seems to me that the thing for you to do is to go into the market and sell hard. I'm pretty certain Macpherson has got all the stock he can carry, and there aren't many other buyers just now. The stock will come down with a run, and Macpherson will have to sell before long. Then you can buy in at practically bottom prices, and tender accordingly."

Mr. Garden said he was very much obliged, and would think it over, while Miss Dennard softly went back to her own room.

At 4:30 Miss Dennard came into his room to tell him that a Mr. Mandell and a lady wished to see him, and he hurried out at once to meet his visitors.

"So this is your office, is it?" said Sybil, as she flung herself into Miss Dennard's chair. "And who is the young lady?"

"Oh, that is Miss Dennard, one of the daughters of old Col. Dennard, a friend of father's, you know. She's been with us some time. She's a great help to me in the business—acts as my secretary."

"Indeed!" said Sybil, a little unpleasantly. "Rather good looking girl, too, isn't she?"

"Is she?" asked Garden, a little incredulously. "'Pon my word, you know, I never considered her in that light at all."

"You know, my boy," interposed Mr. Mandell, standing in a dignified attitude before the fire, "I'm old-fashioned enough to believe that women have no place in a city office."

"But," stammered John, taken by surprise at this sudden attack, "Miss Dennard is an exception; she—"

"I quite agree with father, you know, John," said Sybil. "And it isn't very nice for me to hear you talking of her as if she were a feminine paragon. You must see that our view is the right one, and you ought to give her notice at once."

"Give Miss Dennard notice!" echoed John, looking from father to daughter in amazement. "She does all my confidential work. She's really a clever girl."

"And, by a strange coincidence, a rather pretty one, too," said Sybil a little bitterly.

"Oh, there's no need to take that tone, my dear," interposed Mr. Mandell once more. "John quite understands how we feel about it, and now I'm sure he'll see that the only thing to do is to get rid of the young lady."

"Of course," John blurted out, "if you both wish it, it shall be done."

After they had gone, John sat down in his chair and thought very hard. Having arrived at a conclusion, he rang his bell at once for fear he might change his mind on subsequent reflection.

"You rang, Mr. Garden?" said Miss Dennard, stepping softly into the room with her inevitable notebook.

"Yes," said Garden. "Will you sit down, please? I have something to say to you." And now that he looked at her again, she certainly was pretty—very pretty.

"I've come to the conclusion, Miss Dennard," he said in a halting voice, "that perhaps this office is hardly a suitable place for you."

"I—I hardly understand you," she said.

"I mean," Garden went on, toying nervously with a pen holder, "it seems to me that you could do much better for yourself somewhere else."

"You mean," she said quietly, "you wish me to leave?"

"Not exactly that," stammered Garden nervously, "but I am thinking of your interests. You see, when I am married I—" He stopped short with an exclamation of impatience, and rose to his feet and walked to the window.

"I think I understand," she said quietly. "Of course I shall miss the old office, but we must all expect changes sooner or later. When would you wish me to go?"

"You seem in a jolly hurry to go," he said almost fiercely.

"Oh, please, don't think that," she pleaded. "I shall regret leaving more than I can say. When Mr. Macpherson called this afternoon, he offered me a position in his office—"

"Macpherson!" Look here, Miss Dennard, I'm sorry I mentioned the matter at all. Will you please to consider the situation to be as it has always been? I am a little upset today—you see what I mean, don't you?"

"Precisely, Mr. Garden," replied Miss Dennard. And picking up her notebook she left the room.

Shortly before 7 Jack Gardner arrived at Mr. Mandell's house. Sybil was waiting for him in the drawing room. Her father, she said, would be down in a moment. Meanwhile what about the secretary?

A slight color crossed John's face as the question was put. He felt rather disposed to resent the fact that Miss Dennard's fate was made the subject of the first question Sybil asked him.

"I found on reflection," he said quietly, "that I could not part with Miss Dennard."

Sybil, who had half-seated herself in a rocking chair, rose quickly to her feet again and elevated her eyebrows in mute inquiry.

"You see Miss Dennard was in my father's confidence and has been in mine."

Sybil made a polite assumption of having listened intently all the while, though it was clear to John that she had not taken the trouble to understand the real position of affairs. She walked to the door in a majestic way and said:

"When my father comes down will you please explain to him that I shall take dinner in my room. I have a headache."

"You must give the message to someone else to deliver. I am going back to town."

Sybil bit her lip to stifle the cry of anger that nearly escaped her.

"You will understand that if you go now, you must choose between your secretary and me," she almost hissed at him.

"I have already chosen," he said, as he went out into the hall.

A fortnight later he mentioned to Miss Dennard that his engagement to Miss Mandell had been definitely broken off. She sympathized with him, saying that she had heard that Miss Mandell would be very rich some day.

"There are other things in life besides money," he said quietly. "There is the sentiment of mutual sympathy and comradeship."

"I am so glad about it all," she said a little while later, as her head was resting on his shoulder—a most unofficial position.

GET VALENTINES.

Every Member of Legislature Remembered By Suffragette.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 14.—Every member of the Wisconsin legislature today received a valentine from Miss Mary Swayn Wagner of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., representing the Wisconsin Women's Suffrage association. The valentine which is on yellow paper and bears a blood-red heart in the upper left hand corner extends greetings from the women of Wisconsin and appeals to the members to support bills favoring the woman's suffrage movement which have been introduced in both branches of the legislature.

The appeal concludes with the reminder that each legislator "may need the influence of women at the next election."

TURBINE AUTOMOBILE FOR GRAND DUKE CYRIL OF RUSSIA

American manufacturers have attached paddles to automobiles, mounted them on runners and used them after the fashion of the "windwagons" with which aviators experimented a few years ago. Grand Duke Cyril of Russia has had constructed for him a great automobile sled, which instead of paddles, uses a turbine for propulsion. He expects to use it in Russia, where in the winter season the roads are almost completely obliterated by the snow.

PORTAGE LAKE WINS FROM PORT ARTHUR.

Houghton, Mich., Feb. 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Port Arthur hockey team, champions of Western Canada, lost to Portage Lake here last night by 7 to 5. The game was clean and well played, and Portage Lake showed undisputed superiority. It was the Canadians' first defeat of the season.

If a few more table guests would make it profitable for you to keep boarders, then you have business for a Herald want ad.

MINIMUM WAGE BILL.

First of Its Kind in Any Legislature Introduced in Wisconsin.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 14.—A minimum wage bill said to be the first of its kind presented in any legislature in the United States was introduced in the assembly today. The bill provides that every employe in each "oppressive" employment shall be paid a living wage. The term "oppressive" is to be determined by the commissioner of labor after an investigation through a public hearing has been made. The Wisconsin consumers' league is back of the measure.

Drastic penalties are provided for violations of a "white slave" code for another bill. Two years' to life imprisonment is provided for procurers and offenses committed outside the state shall not constitute a defense.

PARTIAL APPROVAL.

C. & H. Merger, With Some Changes, Meets Favor in Boston.

Boston, Feb. 14.—The proposed merger of a dozen mining properties in Michigan with the Calumet & Hecla Mining company received the approval in a broad way today of a special committee of the Boston stock exchange but several suggestions are made in the way of modifying the offers made by the Calumet officials to the stockholders of the subsidiary companies.

The committee advocates that instead of an issue of 400,000 shares of stock, another company be formed, with a larger capitalization, the shares of which shall be exchanged for those of the proposed new operating company.

It is also suggested that a holding company organized in Maine be formed with 1,600,000 shares and that these shares be exchanged on a basis of four of the holding company to one of the new proposed operating company. The new suggestions have been submitted to the Calumet officials.

WEDDING FEES.

Large wedding fees are rare, even in New York. Fees of $50 and $100 are considered large. The $1,000 fee, when it makes its appearance, usually goes to the rector of a wealthy congregation who enjoys a salary of $10,000 or $12,000 a year.

Larger fees are sometimes given. The man of wealth, actuated by a high regard for his pastor and friend, occasionally gives his check for $2,000 or $3,000 under the guise of a wedding fee. He wishes to help the minister and knows the money would not be accepted under any other circumstances. Such gifts, it is needless to say, are extremely rare.

New York has a few clergymen whose marriage fees average $1,200 a year. The pastor of a large Presbyterian church on Broadway has estimated that his fees amount annually to $1,000, according to a writer in the Christian Herald. These are topnotch figures.

The fee received by an American minister for officiating at the wedding of one of his wealthy parishioners in Paris a few years ago is said to have covered the expenses of his four months' vacation on the continent. Such fees, however, are extraordinary. They are beyond the wildest dreams of the average pastor, who may be able to recall one fee of $50 in his entire ministry.

After you have known a clergyman for twenty years perhaps you can induce him to talk freely about his marriage fees—not before. The subject is too complicated, too personal, too disappointing. When you have broken down the barriers of his reserve, it is probable that he will tell you some highly entertaining stories.

A Methodist minister in Baltimore recently married a young man of the Bowery type who asked him at the conclusion of the ceremony in the parsonage how much he "charged." As a hint to the clergyman to keep his fee within reasonable limits, the young man drew a half dollar from his pocket while speaking.

The minister explained that no charge was made for his services. Whereupon the delighted young husband exclaimed, "Do you hear that, Mag? He don't charge nothin'" and dropped the half dollar back into his pocket.

But the pastor had more to say. He told his visitor that the fee depended on the valuation he placed on the service rendered. If it was worth nothing to marry the young woman at his side, very good; but if he valued her his fee would give some evidence of it. The bridegroom was impressed. Slowly he produced the half dollar and laid it in the minister's hand. A $1 bill followed. Then he grasped his bride's arm and moved toward the door.

SPARE THE CAT AND SPOIL THE RAT.

Lady's Pictorial: In Paris they are waxing indignant over the proposed taxation of Minette, that ubiquitous cat. It is only suggested that the tax should be two francs a year, nevertheless a fierce protest is being raised against the proposal and the comic cartoonists are very busy making capital of the idea. One used to second the suggestion that a levy should be imposed in England on the all too prevalent and inharmonious puss, but in view of recent revelations concerning rats, one cannot help thinking that the cat is far the lesser of the two evils.

PHILOSOPHER'S RETREAT ON STATEN ISLAND

Cornelius Kolff says that every poor man is a philosopher. He arrived at that state by this route and feeling the need of the companionship of others of his kind, he has built for them a philosophers' retreat on Staten Island. It stands on one side of Emerson hill and is a one-story building with one room. Here twelve philosophers will meet every month and read short papers to one another. If by any chance these philosophers can be persuaded to speak well of one another's paper, a vote among them will make the most popular the president of their organization.

RAINS FALL IN SOUTHWEST

Moisture Is General in Winter Wheat States—Values Decline.

Reciprocity Still Bear Argument—Foreigners Ship Freely.

Duluth Board of Trade, Feb. 14.—Wheat dropped again today. May declined 1⅞c and July fell 1⅝c. Cash wheat is ½c under May. The cash business today was improved slightly. Oats gained ¼c, rye and barley were unchanged. Durum lost 1⅝c.

Flaxseed was slightly weaker, closing 1c lower than yesterday. Cash was on a May basis. Winnipeg closed $2.54 bid.

Widespread rains in the Southwest, lower cables, the proposed reciprocity agreement between the United States and Canada, bearish foreign and domestic conditions of supply and demand, lower flour prices and a dull flour trade and a few stop-loss orders at the opening combined to press wheat values lower from the opening.

Around noon there was a slight rally which checked trading as the shorts were standing pat, aside from a few eleventh hour bears who ran to cover, and the people who were uncertain as to the future trend of the market were waiting for news from Washington. They thought the house of representatives might vote late this afternoon on the reciprocity agreement. The effect has been fairly well discounted, however, and the market is in a condition to become quickly oversold.

Rains were copious in Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Northern Texas. Southern Nebraska received a sprinkling. There has been sufficient rain to cause dormant winter wheat to sprout if it has not been killed. The effect of the recent rains will determine to a large extent whether the winter wheat is in a condition to go forward under normal climatic conditions. The wheat, which sprouted last fall, should show an improvement and even the most seriously damaged districts are expected to display a fair condition when spring growth begins. The general average of winter wheat, according to H. W. Snow of Chicago, is much improved from the condition which existed in December.

The visible supply in this country and Canada showed a decrease of 118,000 bu. Ordinarily the weekly decrease at this period of the year should be about 1,000,000 bu. The visible supply in Europe is 108,888,000 bu compared with 107,168,000 bu a week ago and Bradstreet's report on the world's visible which will be issued tomorrow is expected to show an increase. World's shipments increased sharply to 12,304,-000 bu from 10,700,00 bu a week ago. Wheat on passage decreased 3,208,000 bu.

The house of representatives is expected to vote at 5 o'clock this afternoon on reciprocity legislation although this program may be changed. It is expected that the administration will be sustained by from 70 to 80 majority. The program will then go to the senate where it will meet with stiff opposition and where the vote will be close. Owing to the rules which provide for unlimited debate in the senate a well conducted filibuster might result in an extra session of congress.

Cables were lower on account of heavy Russian shipments and free offers of wheat from Argentina and Australia. Stocks at Liverpool showed a decrease which caused some covering but the bearish situation prevailed and the market closed lower.

The Northwestern situation is about the same. Duluth stocks increased 339,460 bu last week and stocks at Minneapolis decreased 100,000 bu in three days. Winnipeg wired today that receipts at that market are increasing despite unfavorable climatic conditions. Country receipts in the Northwest at the close of the week were fairly good but roads are now in a bad shape on account of the prevailing storm and receipts probably will continue small. If the weather clears and the roads improve it is likely that receipts at the two markets will again exceed shipments and requirements. Mills will soon be in a position where they can run the remainder of the crop year without touching the wheat which may come to the two leading Northwestern markets in that period. The minimum rate of consumption is a serious detriment to an advance in prices. Farm supplies have proved ample for current needs and have been sufficient to add to stores at terminal markets.

Flour business in the Northwest continues demoralized and a further reduction in prices was expected after the close today. Chicago flour prices were reduced 20c a barrel yesterday. A drastic curtailment of production is in sight, said a Minneapolis wire, unless conditions improve in the immediate future. The mills are tied up with large contract sales on which it is almost impossible to get shipping directions.

Indications point to a large carryover at the end of the crop year and if the winter wheat crop continues to show improvement it is not unlikely that an era of low prices will prevail for some time. While the reciprocity agreement is a contributing factor yet fundamental conditions are bearish and the present decline cannot be classed as unnatural. Hedging sales against actual wheat constitute a heavy load and the bulls are not likely to make an effort to repeat their recent performance.

THE FLOUR SITUATION.

The sharp reduction in flour prices has caused broader trading along quiet lines. There have been individual sales lately in large volume compared with the depressed condition of the market as experienced in the last few weeks by most mill men and wholesalers. Evidently there is a fair volume of trading along tranquil lines, even though the general run of flour is neglected, and buyers are indifferent to mill offerings, whatever price is made.

Last week was no improvement over its predecessors in the amount of flour sold by the majority of sellers. With mill agents new business is slow, and shipping instructions on old contracts are coming in only in fair quantity. In a small way a moderate amount of supply and demand business is coming forward, but there is no buying in large volume.

There is a noticeable demand for both spring and winter wheat grades, but it is light and indicates a disposition on the part of most buyers to contract for supplies sufficient only to meet a moderate consumption.

Some mills report that a few of the larger distributers and bakers who look favorably upon the present level of values are disposed to buy ahead to a moderate extent. These mills say they have received a fair volume of speculative business in consequence. Buyers generally are not interested in flour for deferred shipment, arguing that as long as they have stocks on hand sufficient for their current needs, they have nothing to lose and everything to gain by delay. Millers, as a rule, do not encourage speculative buying at current prices, as there are indications of a sharp falling off in the demand for mill offals and a decline in the prices of bran and middlings from the comparatively high level prevailing recently., a development which would have considerable influence on the attitude of mills toward the flour situation.

Prices of flour are lower than at any time on the present wheat crop. Values are so low, in fact, that some people think they will not touch lower levels. Mills are offering spring patents in the range from $5.35 to $5.70 a barrel in wood. Most mills would sell standard first patent at $5.60 and many would not refuse $5.50. Flour is cheap at these prices, which are about 75 cents a barrel lower than values quoted for the same grade a year ago, 45c to 50c lower than prices quoted less than two years ago and 70c below the price quoted in February, 1908.

There is also a pronounced difference in the quotations of soft winter wheat flour as compared with other years. Patents produced by Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and New York states mills, now quoted at from $4.60 to $4.85 a barrel, sold a year ago at $1.50 a barrel more, and straights, which are now quoted at $4.25 to $4.70, sold a year ago at about $1.50 a barrel higher. Values of winter wheat flour early in 1910 were on unusually high basis and were well up to the price levels of spring wheat grades. A comparison with recent years, when winter wheat flour prices were reasonably low, show that the current cost is from 40c to 50c a barrel cheaper than the cost in February, 1909 and 1908. Flour is cheaper now than it has been at practically any time within the last three years.

Foreign inquiries for flour are more numerous, but no business has resulted, as bids are too far out of line for acceptance by American millers.

Chicago Tribune: "The Canadian wheat surplus is forced upon the market at an early date," says John Inglis, the crop expert, in discussing the Canadian reciprocity question. "should we allow it to come in free we have the capital to finance it, and ample storage room; our vessels and railroads would handle it, the millers would blend it with our softer varieties, and enhance their prices; we would secure an export flour trade which we have lost, and farmers would learn in time that we, with an average crop of 650,000,000 bu, would not have the price lowered by Canadian production. Prices would be equalized, and with Canada and the United States joined by reciprocity, there would be a mutual power in having a stronger position in the foreign markets.

"If our milling interests are injured, our farming interests are also. As previously stated, our export flour trade amounts to little, but by stimulating our flour industry by securing more of the Northern wheats, we could command the attention of the world's markets. Should we fail to recognize this Canada will continue, as she increases her production, not only to lower the general price of our wheat, but will take away from us the last remnant of our export trade in flour.

"Good will is always an asset in business relations. How much more so if it exists between people of the same race, separated only by an imaginary boundary."

Chicago Record-Herald: President B. A. Eckhart of the Eckhart & Swan Milling company, who is usually optimistic on values, was voicing the reverse view regarding wheat yesterday. "In my opinion," he said, "May wheat in Chicago will look high at 8c unless we get some outlet for it that is not discernible now. The dullness in the flour trade is easily explained. Supplies that would ordinarily last us thirty days are not used up in double that time. The reason of it is that the big mills of the country, including Minneapolis, Kansas City, St. Louis, Toledo, Louisville, Buffalo and other points, ordinarily market about one-third of their output abroad. This year, on account of high prices, they are dependent entirely on domestic trade. The surplus, of course, goes on the market and makes an unsatisfactory situation. Wheat prices have been held too high in view of the fact that we are likely to carry over at least 100,-000,000 bu of the present crop into the 1911 crop that will be harvested this summer."

A special dispatch to The Herald from Chicago: Selling of oats was rather overdone, and the stubborn action in corn and the disposition of the wheat trade to take the buying side on the early break induced a number of specialists to become active in covering short lines. Cash market ruled steady regardless of 240 cars received. There is a small decrease in the visible supply.

World's shipments: Wheat—12,304,-000 bu; last week, 10,700,000; last year, 10,752,000. Corn—3,635,000 bu; last week, 3,314,000 last year, 1,715,000.

Broomhall cabled from Liverpool: "The wheat market at the opening today and during yesterday's session showed continued steadiness on the decrease in local stocks here and the improved demand for cargoes. At the opening today values were ½d lower to ¼d higher than Saturday with the principal strength in March. Following the opening there developed an easy undertone and prices declined from ½@¾d with free offerings. Pressure resulted from the liberal world's shipments, increase on passage of 3,208,000 bu heavy Russian shipments and continue free offers of Plate and Australian wheat at lower prices and lack of outside support. At mid-day the market was easy and ¼d to ½d lower than Saturday. Corn was easy and unchanged to ⅜d lower. Pressure resulted from free offers and reselling here of American parcels.

Closing quotations on foreign wheat markets follow: Paris, ¼c lower; flour unchanged to ½c higher. Antwerp, ⅝c lower. Berlin, ¾c higher. Budapest, 2c higher compared with Saturday's close. Liverpool, ⅜@⅝d down; corn, ⅜@⅝d lower.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Reciprocity, Good Rains and Other Factors Send Wheat Prices Up.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Wheat traders flocked to the selling side today except those who were short on the market and wished to cover at a profit. The reciprocity situation was largely responsible, but there were other powerful reasons, including good rains all through the Southwest practically putting an end to the drouth. In addition, the Liverpool market was depressed by continued liberal shipments from Russia and free offerings from the Argentine and Australia. Furthermore, cash demand here was slow and dispatches told of a decided increase of the European visible supply. Opening prices were ⅝c to ⅞@1c lower. May started at 92@92½c, a decline of ⅞@⅞c and hung close to the lower level.

Further decline ensued, but the market rallied after a falling off was shown in the United States visible supply. There were rumors, too, of export sales at Duluth. The close was firm at 92½c for May, a net loss of ⅞c.

The slump in wheat made corn weak despite breaking up of country roads, rendered smaller receipts probable. May opened unchanged to ¼c down at 48⅝@48⅞c, declined to 48½@48⅝c and rallied to 48¾@48⅞c.

Rumors of large exports led to a rally. The close was firm with May ¼c net higher at 49⅛c.

Oats followed other grains in their downward course. May started ⅛@⅜c off at 31¼c to 31½c and steadied around 31⅜@31½c.

Provisions showed unmistakably the bearish effect of the big supply of hogs at the yards here. First sales were 5c to 37½c lower with May options at $17.46@17.52½ for pork; $9.30@9.40 for lard and $9.30@9.37½ for ribs.

THE MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

On Rain and Reciprocity Reports Wheat Prices Decline.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 14.—Rain in both the Southwest and the Northwest was favorable for the next crop. A reciprocity treaty with Canada seems still more probable. There was little in the news to favor holders of wheat and prices went to new lows on this crop. Hay and July both closed 1c lower than Saturday. The first bid on Minneapolis September was made at 95c today. Local elevator stocks decreased 100,000 bushels for two days. Minneapolis today received 350 cars of wheat against 328 a year ago; Duluth 68 against a holiday and Winnipeg 186 against 257. May wheat opened 98¼c to 97¾c; high, 98⅛c; low, 97c; closed, 97¾c. July opened 99c; high, 99c; low, 98c; closed 98⅝c. September opened 95c; high, 95c; low, 96c; closed, 95c.

Cash wheat held about steady. Offerings light, considering it represented receipts for three days. Demand for choice spring grades and slow for lower varieties. Mills principal buyers. No. 1 northern sold for the even May price to 1⅛c above. Closing: No. 1 hard, 99¾c; No. 1 northern, 97¾@99¼c; to arrive, 97⅜@99¼c; No. 2 northern, 94⅜@97¼c; to arrive, 94¾@97¼c; No. 3 wheat, 92¾@94¼c. No. 3 yellow corn, 42@42¼c. No. 3 white oats, 28¼@28¾c. No. 2 rye, 77@77½c.

Millstuffs—Shipments, 3,320 tons. Market held about steady. Demand reported active and prices unchanged. Bran in 100-pound sacks, $20.75@22.

Flour—Prices lowered on account of weakness in wheat. Demand considered better at lower quotations. Shipping directions still slow. Orders on books made prices far above those today. Shipments, 85,924 bbl. First patents, $4.45@4.85; second patents, $4.35@4.35; first clears, $2.95@3.35; second clears, $1.95@2.55.

Flax—Receipts, 31 cars, year ago, 33; shipments, 2. Demand strong for both spot and to arrive at the even Duluth May price, closing $2.69.

Barley—Receipts, 90 cars; year ago, 67; shipments, 37. Demand very strong for malting barley at prices 2@4c higher than Saturday. Feeding grades steady. Closing range, 63@91c.

New York Grain.

New York, Feb. 14.—Closing: Wheat—May, 98⅝c; July, 97⅝c. Corn—May, 56¾c.

The Cotton Market.

New York, Feb. 14.—Cotton opened easy at a decline of 12 to 21 points in response to the weak showing of Liverpool over the local holiday, unfavorable news of the domestic mill situation, apprehensions of more serious labor troubles in Lancashire and a renewal of active liquidation. Covering caused a rally of 5 or 6 points from the lowest immediately following the call, but the market soon weakened again under renewed selling for both accounts with prices during the middle of the morning some 23 to 24 points net lower on the old crop and 18 to 19 points off on the new and with the active months selling into new low ground for the movement. Liverpool reported heavy selling yesterday.

Spot closed quiet, 25 points lower; middling uplands, 14.10; middling gulf, 14.35; sales, 200 bales. Futures closed very steady; closing bids: February, 13.80; March, 13.86; April, 13.94; May, 14.04; June, 14.06; July, 14.07; August, 13.75; October, 12.94; December, 12.84.

Chicago Livestock.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Cattle—Receipts estimated at 5,000; market slow and weak; beeves, $5.00@6.80; Texas steers, $4.20@5.30; western, $4.50@5.70; stockers and feeders, $3.85@5.80; cows and heifers, $2.65@5.80; calves, $6.75@9.25. Hogs—Receipts estimated at 25,000; market slow and 10c lower; light, $7.00@7.30; mixed, $6.75@7.15; heavy, $6.65@7.10; rough, $6.65@6.80; good to choice, heavy, $6.80@7.10; pigs, $7.15@7.45; bulk of sales, $6.90@7.10. Sheep—Receipts estimated at 20,000; market steady; native, $2.75@4.45; western, $2.25@4.50; yearlings, $4.60@5.50; lambs, native, $4.50@6.25; western, $4.50@6.25.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Gains Made in Active Shares at Opening Not Held Long.

Fail to Respond to Strength of Canadian and Gould Groups.

New York, Feb. 14.—Accumulation of buying orders over the holiday imparted some strength to the market at the opening today. The most conspicuous gains were: A point in Wisconsin Central, Great Northern ore certificates and Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic preferred, ⅝ in Reading and Erie first preferred and ¾ in International Harvester and Canadian Pacific. Almost all the active issues sold at good fractional advances over Saturday's close.

Gains made in the active stocks at the opening were not maintained long. Prices reacted as soon as the early buying orders had been filled. Speculation became lifeless after the market had relapsed to last week's level. International Paper sagged 1¾ and the preferred 1. United States Rubber and Bethlehem Steel preferred gained 1¼.

The market ruled dull and showed a fairly good undertone throughout the morning session. Bear operators made no determined efforts to sell and there was further covering of short contracts in spots. Canadian Pacific advanced to 213¾, a new high record with the publication of figures showing surplus earnings for the six months ending Dec. 31, to have been more than $10,000,000. Others in the Canadian group were also strong. The active issues held well, although there was no material weakness. Coalers Missouri Pacific advanced 2 points to 59 on buying of the character recently noted and there was a general stiffening of the Pacific group toward midday, the Hall and Harriman stocks rising large fractions. Pacific Mail yielded a point and National Biscuit 2¼. Bonds were steady.

The market closed heavy. The failure of the market to respond to the strength shown by the Canadian and Gould groups caused some active professional selling late in the day, and the leading stocks went off to below Saturday's close. General Chemical sold at 120 compared with 104½, the previous sales last month.

Minnesota Transfer, St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 14.—Barrett & Zimmerman report: All classes met with slow clearance today. Values continue low and shippers find it impossible to break even owing to unsatisfactory values. The farmers ask more than market prices for their horses.
